An Affiliate of RHEMA
Bible Church
aka Kenneth Hagin Ministries
SUNDAY
Sunday Broadcast 9:05 a.m. on 95.3 FM
School of the Bible 9:30 a.m.
Worship Service 10:30 a.m.
Evening Fellowships 7:00 p.m.
Wednesday Service 7:30 p.m.
Everyone is welcome to come and be part of our family
STERLING HUDGINS-PASTOR
(formerly Living Water Ranch Church)
116 S. 4th, Downtown Manhattan
(785) 539-3570

Blue Valley Memorial UMC
835 Church St. 539-8790
Worship: Sat. 5:30 p.m./Sun. 10:30 a.m.
Free food after services
first Sun. of the month.
e-mail: revs2@flinthills.com

First Presbyterian Church
801 Leavenworth St. • 537-0518
Sunday Schedule
Contemporary Worship
at 9:15 a.m.
Sunday School for all ages
at 9:15 a.m.
Traditional Worship
at 10:30 a.m.

First Baptist Church
Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
For free transportation within city limits, call the church.
Pastors Karen & Alan Selig
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691
An American Baptist Congregation

JOIN THE DIRECTORY

Call at 532-6560

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH
619 Poyntz • 776-8881
Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Church School all ages 9:45 a.m.
Pastors: Jim Reed,
Frank Fritz, & Ken Willis
fumc@flinthills.com
www.flinthills.com/~fumc

Grace Baptist Church
2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child
♦ Sunday ♦
Morning Worship
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.
776-0424

JOIN THE DIRECTORY.
YOUR CHURCH COULD BE HERE.

Call Alissa at 532-6560

First Assembly of God

Weekly Schedule of Services

Sunday	Wednesday	Thursday
Worship Services 8:30 & 11:00 a.m. Kid's Church 8:30 & 11:00 a.m. Sunday School 10:00 a.m. Nueva Vida 10:00 a.m. Worship Choir 4:15 p.m. Evening Worship 6:00 p.m.	All ministries begin at 7:00 Prayer Meeting Nueva Vida Ministry (Spanish) Youth Group (grades 7-12) Royal rangers (Boys Club) Missionettes (Girls Club)	Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship 7:00 p.m. for College Students (K-State Union room 212)

Nursery Provided for All Services

Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor
2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS
(785) 537-7633 www.manhattanag.org

Cats to face 15th-ranked Iowa

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

After losing their last three games, two of them in the final seconds at home, the K-State men's basketball team could use a break.

Instead, the Cats face No. 15 Iowa State in Ames.

The quality of the opponent changes nothing, however. K-State needs to win this game.

"We need a win Saturday," guard Phineas Atchison said. "If we win Saturday, we can get back on track and get more confidence in knowing that we can win. Once we get back on track, we'll be a better team."

To win, though, the Cats will have to put their previous three games behind them, especially the two-point loss Tuesday against Nebraska.

"I think it was a pretty hurting loss for us," Atchison said. "I think we've just got to put that behind us. In the locker room after the game, everybody came together, and we let everybody know that we had to put that behind us and keep our heads up and keep pushing, keep improving."

Even if the Cats do get their heads up, they still will have a hard time keeping track of Iowa State's backcourt. The Cyclones are led by senior Jamaal Tinsley's 13 points per game, but all three starting guards average scoring in double figures.

In fact, there's really only one thing that can stop the trio of Tinsley, Kantril Horton and Jake Sullivan.

"A couple of trucks," head coach Jim Wooldridge said. "Oh my heavens, these guys are really experienced, Richie Terry shoots the ball over two defenders in K-State's loss to Nebraska earlier this season. The Cats will take on Iowa State this Saturday in Ames, Iowa.

really confident players. If you take away driving lanes, they shoot the three. If you take away the three, they drive it on you."

As a result, guarding the Cyclones will be no easy task.

"Probably, as much as anything, they space the floor and make you guard the dribble better than anyone in the league," Wooldridge said. "You

See CATS on PAGE 9

New season, new attitude for K-State baseball

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

There's a new brand of baseball on the horizon at K-State, head coach Mike Clark said, and the results might surprise many fans this year.

"It's going to be a challenge," Clark said, "but we've changed things around this season and our expectations are a lot higher for these young men."

Lofty aspirations are only the first step in a plan implemented by Clark to rebuild K-State this year, his 15th at the helm of the Cats.

One year removed from a 19-32 season that included almost as much off-the-field trouble as on it, Clark has vowed to up the ante for his team this season and keep distractions to a minimum.

"They were embarrassed last year," Clark said. "We lost our pride. The guys were playing hard and doing what they could, but they were really embarrassed by what their teammates had done. It just can't be that way."

Part of Clark's plan to recover that pride is to place more responsibility on the shoulders of the Cats' six returning starters, especially when his players leave the ballpark.

"The senior class has a lot to do with it," Clark said. "They've really set the tone. They've learned from last year's mistakes, and they want to make sure their senior year isn't an embarrassment."

K-State's senior class includes second team All-Big 12 selection Mark English who led the team with a .365 batting average in 2000 and Kasey Weishaar, a 1999

See BASEBALL on PAGE 9

Tennis team prepares for spring season

By LAURA BOYD
Kansas State Collegian

Coming into this season, the K-State women's tennis team is ranked 43 and, including K-State, seven Big 12 teams are ranked.

"Our biggest expectation is to stay always improving," head coach Steve Bietau said. "There is always pressure to get better."

After 17 years with K-State, Bietau has seen his fair share of tennis players. In fact, he saw K-State's best team since 1990 just last year. Though he admits last year's team did some great things, he is quick to look at this year as a whole new season and a whole new team.

One returner from that team, senior Eva Novotna, said her best competitor is herself.

"I am the one who puts most of the expectations on myself," she said.

As a senior, Novotna said she is coming to realize that this is her last season.

"I play every match like it is my last, knowing that, in a way, it is."

After coming from the Czech Republic as a freshman, she has made the adjustment from a country where tennis is the No. 2 sport, to a country where the sport's popularity slowly is rising.

Sophomore Petra Sedlmajerova, also from the Czech Republic, is looking forward to this weekend's meet. This will be the first home meet of the season for the team.

"It will be nice to play at home," Sedlmajerova said. In fact, there is only one negative about returning to

See TENNIS on PAGE 9

Cats try to forget recent loss, look toward future

■ Women's basketball ready to take on conference rival Oklahoma State to attempt to end 3-game losing streak.

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

Very little about the K-State women's basketball team's 72-41 loss at No. 9 Texas Tech Wednesday is positive.

In fact, the Cats just want to forget about the shellacking, head coach Deb Patterson said.

"We were outclassed. We played one of the best teams in the country," she said. "We just want to pack that one up and put it in a box."

"When you come off a game like that, you understand that you played a top 10 team at their highest level. They were really, really on their game and were confident. We were just really blown out, and that game is just one that I'm not going to spend analyzing."

While the loss placed the Cats alone in the Big 12 cellar, their opponent Saturday, Oklahoma State, isn't facing a much better situation. The Cowgirls are just one game ahead of the Cats in the conference standings and actually, in a game earlier this season, played Texas Tech worse than K-State did.

K-State guard Shalonda Booker drives the lane Jan. 27 at Bramlage Coliseum.

Oklahoma State lost to Tech 29-82 and scored just eight points in the first half. However, that is no reason for K-State to feel confident heading into Saturday's matchup.

"At this point, I don't feel qualified to say any team is beatable," Patterson said. "I feel this is an opportunity to line up against a team that is one game ahead of you. I don't feel any great advantage in this game."

Even though the Cats are stuck in a three-game losing streak, they are not focused simply on their losses.

"There's a huge disappointment in losing, but it's almost like the focus is less on the accumulation of losses than on what we need to do to get better," Patterson said.

To get better, K-State will need guards Kristin Rethman and Kim Woodlee to break out of their shooting funk. In the past two games, the duo has combined for just 5 of 26 shooting for 20 points, far below average.

Rethman and Woodlee must find their range, or the Cats most likely will face yet another loss, Patterson said.

"If they're not ready to step it up another notch, the outcome is going to be inevitable — it's not going to be in your favor," Patterson said.

UP NEXT

K-State (11-8, 1-7)
Oklahoma State (10-9, 2-6)
When: 3 p.m. Saturday
Where: Bramlage Coliseum
Radio: Wildcat Sports Network, KMAN-AM 1350

Lack of wins shouldn't fool fans; Wooldridge building basketball dynasty

So much for my jeans theory.

After K-State's stunning 63-61 loss to Nebraska on Tuesday, I've given up all hope. To say the least, I'm quite bitter.

Don't worry — the jeans have been burned.

From that day forward, I have refused to write any more columns with such absurdity and lack of intuition. My apologies, my friends.

So, in hindsight, I've decided to plead insanity and rethink my career plans as a journalist. OK, I won't go so far as to say that (or would you like me to?), but there has been something other than my jeans on my mind as of late.

Why can't our men's basketball win the close game?

Talking to forward Travis Reynolds after Tuesday's disappointing loss, he said the Wildcats "know how to win," they just have to do it. Easy to say, but we purple faithful still are waiting for the results.

Back-to-back home losses by a total of three points — just about enough to send a head coach in for some psychological treatment. Lucky for K-State, though, we have Jim Wooldridge.

Now, Wooldridge's displayed frustration after the NU loss Tuesday was all but understandable. It's human nature. But his honesty in facing the facts these past two games at Bramlage Coliseum simply has bewildered me.

I'd be downright upset, looking for anything and everything to consolidate the loss. NU's Kimani Ffrendt certainly had some near-goaltending blocks in the closing seconds, yet Wooldridge backed up referee Ted Kennedy's calls, a true mark of a winning coach.

Anybody could have chastised the officiating and blamed the game on the

"zebras," but then again, Wooldridge isn't just your ordinary coach, either.

He could have chewed out his players for their drop-off in the waning minutes, but instead, he applauded their effort.

Kansas head coach Roy Williams even complimented the Cats' head man after the Jayhawks' 92-66 win last Saturday, saying that Wooldridge has done a nice job turning K-State's program back in the right direction.

Not too bad for only 10 or 11 months of work on Wooldridge's part since he arrived in Manhattan last March.

But we as fans (yes, I am a sports writer, but I still consider myself a supporter) need to lighten up a little. We can't expect Wooldridge to win the Big 12 Conference title in one short year (or even post a winning record). Even the great Bill Snyder only produced a 1-10 record in his first season at the helm of the Wildcat football program, and we all know where that program is today — flirting with the national championship year-in and year-out.

Besides, just look at how well Wooldridge's recruiting has already has paid off for K-State. Three of his four newcomers — Phineas Atchison, Larry Reid and Matt Siebrandt — all are averaging double figures this season, and defensive stopper Richie Terry has been in the starting lineup for the past 13 games.

Plus, Wooldridge's early signees for next year are especially appealing, ranking K-State's 2001-02 recruiting class 29th in the nation and third among Big 12 schools according to the December issue of Basketball Times.

Not only do Gilson DeJesus and Janerio Spurlock's names scream "basketball stud," but their community college numbers are of national quality. DeJesus was listed as the 7th-best shooting guard in the country by Sporting News, and Spurlock was tabbed the No. 5 small forward.

Wooldridge even snuck Nick Williams, a 6-foot-4 combo guard, out of the basketball-rich state of Texas to play ball at K-State as a true freshman.

K-State's going places in the next few years. We might be struggling on the outer brink right now — heck, we'll probably get blown out by two hot Iowa State and Missouri teams this next week to give the Cats seven losses in their last eight tries — but we should be willing to wait our turn.

At least I'm planning on it.

Derek is a sophomore in print and electronic journalism. You can e-mail him at dnb8765@ksu.edu.

DEREK BOSS

WEEKENDER

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 2001

7

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JI DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JAVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

- Curry or Rice
- Don't just sit there
- Tutor
- "Exodus" name
- Holler
- Mortal
- Card-table call
- Ace
- Work with
- Basins'
- accessories
- Presentation
- Work unit
- Waikiki is there
- Conclusion
- Pearl's home
- Dickens title start
- Biting
- Utter confusion
- Resort
- Scoundrels
- Make a decision
- Colonial needle-wielder
- Knapsack part

DOWN

- WWF surface
- Limbo, to
- astronomers?
- Pub order
- More than one spoke
- Dog's doc
- Weeding tool
- Winning
- Flaw rock
- Moreover
- Iberian river
- March 17 celebrants
- "Rebel Without a Cause" actor
- Liniment's target
- Boasted
- Tippecanoe's mate
- Anything but that
- Scamper
- To love (Lat.)
- Golfer
- Woodsman
- Away from SSW
- Thus
- "The Time Machine" author
- "Sesame Street" curmudgeon
- Put away
- Opposite of him
- City area, jocularly
- Teachers' org.
- Shrill bark
- Rudimentary lessons
- With Mussolini
- Keep talking
- Gypsy —
- Less fresh
- Utah city
- Normandy beach-head
- Beauty parlor
- Trusty mount
- Late-breaking development
- Tennis star
- Sampras
- Car-front protector
- di-dah
- Citric quaff
- Spy novel org.

Solution time: 28 mins.

WAG RAVE GLOP EGO AGON RIDE
BALL FOUR EMIT
FAY SOMEONE ROBBED LIT
TRA RUG ZEBRA
FALL BED DATS
ELLEN MOW LIPS
ATIR TABLET
CHATTER STIP
HISH MEAT BALL
ARTIE TOLLE RITTO
PEAR TOLD KEG

Yesterday's answer 2-2

STUMPED?

2-2 CRYPTOQUIP

F J F P Y R D B O N R P G T B O
I J A F Y R D W B P I D O O P B O
R J O Y P B I N T G N P A N G L O J P A O
W B D W T O Y D B P L O ?
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: KNITTERS KNOW A SMALL, SIMPLE PATTERN IS NO SWEATER.
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: W equals P

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to
CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475
The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Digital Shelf DVD & PS2
We buy Dreamcasts, PS2 games & DVDs.
www.ksdigitalshelf.com
now online and updated
701 N. 11th
776-6959

MOVIE TIMES

SETH CHILDS CINEMAS

"Left Behind"
5:15 p.m., 7:30 p.m. and
9:45 p.m.
"Wedding Planner"
7:25 p.m. and 9:45 p.m.
"Oh Brother, Where Art Thou?"
7:15 p.m. and 9:35 p.m.
"The Pledge"
7:05 p.m. and 9:50 p.m.
"Sugar and Spice"
7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.
"What Women Want"
7:10 p.m.
"Snatch"
9:55 p.m.

"Chocolat"
7 p.m.
"13 Days"
10 p.m.
"Finding Forrester"
7:10 p.m. and 10 p.m.
"Head Over Heels"
7:20 p.m. and 9:20 p.m.
"Valentine"
7:05 p.m. and 9:20 p.m.
"Save the Last Dance"
7:15 p.m. and 9:50 p.m.
"Castaway"
7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Movies at Seth Childs Cinemas are $4.50 for matinees and $6.75 for evening shows.

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Damien King-Kostelac, senior in social sciences, dressed as Dr. Hannibal Lecter from the movie "The Silence of the Lambs" and was outside the Union Food Court Thursday. The movie is being shown at 7 and 9 tonight and Saturday night in Forum Hall.

Student portrays Hannibal, promotes film

By CORBIN H. CRABLE
Kansas State Collegian

The lunch crowd at the K-State Student Union had the chance to stare into the face of evil Thursday.

To promote this weekend's Union Program Council-sponsored screening of "The Silence of the Lambs," UPC members dressed Damien King-Kostelac, senior in social sciences, as Dr. Hannibal Lecter, the psychotic cannibal villain from the film. King-Kostelac, who wore a straight jacket and hockey mask, was wheeled into the Union Food Court entrance on a dolly and was accompanied by UPC members clad in white lab coats, dressed as mental hospital orderlies.

The 1991 film about an FBI agent (Jodie Foster) who seeks the assistance of Lecter (Anthony Hopkins) in solving the case of a missing woman, will be shown at 7 and 9:30 tonight and Saturday in Forum Hall. "Hannibal," the sequel to "The Silence of the Lambs," which stars Julianne Moore, opens in theaters nationwide Feb. 9.

Tyler Adams, UPC Kaleidoscope Films Committee chairman and junior in marketing and international business, said Kaleidoscope Films decided to show "The Silence of the Lambs" because of the hype surrounding "Hannibal," and he thought bringing Hannibal Lecter to the Union would be the perfect way to promote the two films.

"At one of our weekly meetings, we discussed creative promotional ideas, and this seemed like a great one," Adams said. "There's so much excitement about the new movie, so we thought we could tie together the new movie and this weekend's screening this way."

King-Kostelac, who said he prefers a rare steak to Hannibal's penchant for human flesh, said he thinks Hannibal Lecter is one of the most intriguing villains in film.

"He just doesn't know the difference between good and evil," he said. Kyle Nanos, freshman in interior design, said he agreed.

"He psychologically damages people, but at the same time, he's a genius," Nanos said.

Adams said obtaining Lecter's costume was an easy task.

"One of our people made the straight jacket, we found the lab coats somewhere and we borrowed the dolly from the Union," he said.

King-Kostelac said he is excited about this weekend's screening and the opening of "Hannibal" next Friday because of the immense popularity of

More Info

Show times for "The Silence of the Lambs" are 7 and 9:30 tonight and Saturday in Forum Hall. Ticket prices are $1.75. For more information, call the UPC office at 532-6571.

the 1991 film.

"I think it rates as one of the top 15 movies in its genre," King-Kostelac said.

Adams said he thinks the movie's popularity stems from the fact that so many other films have tried to copy the original.

"I think it's one of the best thrillers made in the past 10 years," he said, "because so many rip-offs have been made of it."

King-Kostelac said that while he enjoyed promoting the two films, he had an ulterior motive for taking on Dr. Hannibal Lecter's character.

"I thought it would be a great way to meet girls," he said.

COURTESY PHOTO

Anthony Hopkins reprises his "The Silence of the Lambs" role of Hannibal Lecter in "Hannibal," premiering Feb. 9.

Quick facts about "The Silence of the Lambs"

■ "The Silence of the Lambs" won all five of the main categories of the academy awards. The film won Best Picture, Best Actor, Best Actress, Best Director and Best Screenplay Based on Material from Another Medium.

■ Upon close inspection, the butterfly in the posters for the movie appears to have a human skull at its center. However, upon VERY close inspection, this "skull" turns out to be four women embracing — a Salvador Dali painting.

■ In his first meeting with Clarice Starling, Hannibal Lecter describes the drawing on his cell wall as "the Duomo, seen from the Belvedere" in Florence, Italy. Starling later finds Buffalo Bill living in Belvedere, Ohio. Lecter, in fact, gives her Buffalo Bill's location in their first meeting.

■ Buffalo Bill is the combination of three real life serial killers: Ed Gein, who was skinning his victims; Ted Bundy, who used the cast on his hand as bait to make women get into his van; and Gary Heidnick, who kept women he kidnapped in a pit in his basement.

■ Gene Hackman first was offered the role of Hannibal Lecter, and was set to direct. When Jonathan Demme took over as director, he offered the role of Clarice first to Michelle Pfeiffer.

■ Anthony Hopkins described his voice for Hannibal Lecter as a combination of Truman Capote and Katharine Hepburn.

■ The DVD features the complete video monologue from performance artist Jim Roche as the TV Evangelist; in the theatrical version, Roche appears on a TV set put in front of Lecter's cell, as punishment for Miggs' death.

Source: www.mdb.com

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

ASHCROFT

■ continued from page 1

South Dakota, told reporters his party would cooperate on moderate nominations. "But we're going to be very concerned when they come from the far right, and we'll use whatever means necessary."

Democrats who voted for Ashcroft were Sens. John Breaux of Louisiana, Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, Kent Conrad and Byron Dorgan of North Dakota, Christopher Dodd of Connecticut, Russ Feingold of Wisconsin and Ben Nelson of Nebraska.

The Senate has rejected a president's Cabinet nominee on only nine occasions in history, the last in 1989 when another former senator, John Tower, was defeated. Bush's father had nominated Tower to be secretary of defense.

Ashcroft was to be sworn into office later Thursday by Justice Clarence Thomas in a private ceremony at the Supreme Court. Thomas and Ashcroft shared an office in the 1970s as assistant state attorneys general in Missouri.

White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said moments after a Senate majority had voted for Ashcroft that Bush will be very pleased to have his Cabinet in place and ready to work for the American people.

"The votes have been bipartisan, and this vote by definition, too, is bipartisan," Fleischer said.

Forty-one was the magic number of votes against Ashcroft for Democrats. That is how many are required to kill a nomination using the procedural delay of a filibuster.

In this case, Daschle said, Democrats abandoned the idea of a filibuster because Ashcroft, a Missouri Republican, is a former colleague, and because many believe a president deserves to choose his own Cabinet members, none of whom are lifetime appointees.

Ashcroft's successor in the Senate, Democrat Jean Carnahan of Missouri, voted against her family's longtime political rival. Her late husband, Gov. Mel Carnahan, defeated Ashcroft posthumously after a plane crash during their campaign, and Jean Carnahan was appointed to what would have been his seat in the Senate.

Carnahan said Ashcroft "was just too divisive for our country." She called her vote an act of conscience.

Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., also voted against Ashcroft, whom he said he has known for 40 years.

Lieberman, who as Democratic vice presidential nominee last year spoke frequently of his religious beliefs, denied conservatives' charges that Democrats' opposition was sparked by Ashcroft's outspoken commitment to his own Christian views.

"On issues ranging from civil rights to privacy rights, Senator Ashcroft has repeatedly taken positions considerably outside the mainstream of American thinking," said Lieberman, adding later, "It is Senator Ashcroft's record, not his religion, we should judge today."

Fleischer said members of the Congressional Black Caucus told Bush on Wednesday about their deep passion in opposing Ashcroft's nomination, but no one asked the president to withdraw it.

"They implored him to make certain that the Department of Justice enforces civil rights laws, and is sensitive to civil rights concerns. The president said, 'I hear you,'" Fleischer said. "He thinks John Ashcroft is a man of integrity. He is a good man, and he will enforce the civil rights laws. He said he talked to John Ashcroft about this when selecting him."

Senate Majority Whip Don Nickles, R-Okla., said he was bothered by the intensity of opposition to Ashcroft.

"I have absolute, total, complete confidence that he is going to be one outstanding attorney general of the United States," Nickles said. "He's as qualified as anybody probably has ever been to be attorney general."

Ashcroft's confirmation fills the Cabinet within 12 days of Bush's taking office. By contrast, it took President Clinton more than a month longer, until March 11, 1993, to confirm his final Cabinet member, Janet Reno, as attorney general.

Democrats labored to muster enough "no" votes to show Bush they could put up strong opposition to any potential Supreme Court nominee who, like Ashcroft, shares his conservative views on abortion and states' rights.

Frustrating the task were several Democrats who endorsed Ashcroft's nomination, including Dodd, who declared his intention in a less-than-glowing terms late Wednesday.

While there is evidence Ashcroft can be a healer, Dodd said, "I remain concerned that he will, as he appears to have done at times in the past, submit to the temptation to divide Americans along racial lines."

Criticism focused on Ashcroft's battles against abortion and against a school desegregation lawsuit while serving as Missouri governor and attorney general.

TEAM

■ continued from page 1

"It was something we did there, and it was an all-day event," she said. "So, they take team building seriously out there. We try to tie everything we do in this club into the real world."

This was the first meeting with a team building theme for the club known for bringing in outside speakers.

"We usually bring in a lot of speakers, so this was a nice change of pace," Heather Marcrum, junior in industrial engineering, said.

Another challenge at the event was the human knot, which calls for members to extend their left hands into the center and intertwine, thus weaving a tangled weave. The trick, however, is getting out with members blindfolded and, in other cases, not being allowed to speak.

It was another event leaders said caused bonding and created camaraderie in the group.

"It really teaches communication skills," department head Brad Kremer said. "When working with teams, you have to work with a diverse group of people."

As the events would end, group would discuss the process, talking about the aspects of the challenge and what went right and what went wrong.

For some people, it was just about interacting with others.

"I think it was a good experience," she said. "It is important to have communication and teamwork in a fun environment."

For Atkinson, it was nice to see the event come to fruition.

"It is nice to see people smiling and having a good time," she said. "It is neat to see it all take place."

Have you got your copy of the Campus Phone Book?

Purchase now in Kedzie 103

VALENTINES DAY

STONE HOUSE FLORIST

offers you a

Pre Valentine's Day Special

Pre-order your Valentine's Day flowers before February 10th and receive $5.00 off your purchase.

Not good with any other offers. Offer excludes Teleflora orders.

WE HAVE A GREAT DEAL FOR VALENTINE'S DAY ON 1 DOZEN ROSES!

LONG STEM ANY COLOR: $45.00 ARRANGED IN VASE $38.00 BOXED

EXTRA LONG STEM RED: $55.00 ARRANGED IN VASE $50.00 BOXED

FREE LOCAL DELIVERY!!

8095 E. Hwy. 24 Manhattan, KS
(785) 537-2926 Toll Free: (877) 799-1146
Next to A-1 Fix It and Complete Outdoors.

Valentine's Special

$10 OFF * Color * Nails * Massage

$7 OFF * Womens Cut & Style

$5 OFF * Mens Cut & Style

Gift Certificates Available

*on full services at reg. price

537-1332

IMPRESSIONS
HAIR DESIGN AND BODY TONING

1129 Moro Aggieville

expires: 2-28-01

AVEDA

Achieve outer peace.
Aveda allsensitive™

Finally, be comfortable in your own skin from head to toe. As gentle as water, but far more effective, All-Sensitive is a complete line developed for and tested on the most sensitive skin. With soothing herbs and vitamins for touchy skin's special needs. Try All-Sensitive today at your Aveda Concept Salon/Spa or Environmental Lifestyle Store.

Are you the sensitive type?
Achieve outer peace from head to toe with Aveda's All-Sensitive. Moisturizing and conditioning. Now in Aveda Experience sizes of a special price, all in an organic, heavy cloth travel bag. While supplies last.
Please call 800.328.0849 for locations or see aveda.com

GAIA
108 S. 4th St. • 534-2623

© Aveda Corp. All rights reserved.

776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577
776-5577 776-5577 776-5577 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

V-DAY
FEBRUARY 14

ARE YOU READY?

CANDY
GREETING CARDS
BALLOONS
CRABTREE & EVELYN
BOYD'S BEARS
YANKEE CANDLES
GIFT WRAPS

YOUR VALENTINE WILL LOVE IT!

704 N. Manhattan Ave. • In Aggieville • 539-7654
Mon.-Fri. 8:30-8:30 • Sat. 8:30-5:30 • Sun. 12:00-5:00

Kisses Book

only $4.95

Enjoy 96 pages of black and white photography of couples (including celebrities) kissing in a variety of environments. This book includes quotations and anecdotes on the romance of kissing.

While supplies last.

Valentine's Day is Wednesday, February 14.

Rod's Hallmark Shop

1300 Westloop
9-9 Monday-Saturday
12-5 Sunday

VALENTINE'S SPECIAL

Men's haircuts.....$11

Women's haircuts.....$14

Get a haircut with Jessica and get a FREE movie pass at Carmike. Ends Feb. 28

GALLERY
Glenn Theodore
FOR HAIR
3266 Kimball • 776-5632

BASEBALL

■ continued from page 6

honorable mention All-American who played in 49 games last season for K-State.

However, with the loss of catcher Graham McAllister behind the plate and workhorse Jason Wells on the mound, Clark will be forced to rely on some new faces this season.

One such mug belongs to Garrett Patterson. The 6-foot-2-inch, 205 pound McAlester, Okla., native heads the list of four freshmen pitchers making their debut in the purple and white this season, a product of what Clark described as over-recruiting of the position.

Returning to the K-State rotation will be juniors Luke Robertson and Chad Duckers. Robertson's 73 strikeouts in 2000 led the team and, with the loss of Wells to graduation, Robertson, Duckers and many others will be counted on to improve on last year's mediocre performance on the mound.

"We took a pretty big hit last year when we lost Jason Wells. He was one of our best pitchers," Robertson said. "This year we have a lot more depth and a lot of strong arms. We got a lot of guys that will be able to go out and compete and win a lot of ball games this season."

A new look of sorts also will populate the Cats' defense this season with junior college transfers Omar Castillo and Nick Sorensen expected to make immediate impacts this spring. Castillo's .411 average at Dodge County last year will ease the loss of McAllister's bat, but what impresses Clark more about Castillo's play is his skill in the field.

"He's a tremendous defensive shortstop," he said. "He's got a great glove, a good arm, and he's got all the Latin flips and all that stuff. I mean, he's a wild-type player. He really helps us defensively."

Newcomers also will make their presence felt in the Wildcat outfield.

a position, Weishaar said, that will see improvement from last season.

"I think, overall, we're definitely more talented than we were last year, and the effort this year is greater than last year because of the new influx of guys," he said.

If competition brings solid play, expect nothing but the best after Sorensen and freshman Brad Anzman are finished battling for K-State's center field spot.

Competition in the form of national champion LSU and nine other NCAA tournament teams from a year ago also will illicit good baseball from K-State during the team's 57 game schedule this spring, Clark said.

"We're really looking forward to the opener," he said. "We're always excited, and I really think this group has been as well-focused as any group we've had in a long time here."

"We're putting a big challenge in front of them with the schedule we've got, but I like the attitude of these guys and the way they're approaching things."

CATS

■ continued from page 1

just have to put together very solid minutes. You have to keep them outside of that lane.

"You have to keep your shoulders squared up on them at all times — you have to contact them early in defensive transition, otherwise they'll get loose about like the Kansas guards and challenge you early in a possession."

While the guards do provide very potent offensive weapons, the post tandem of seniors Paul Shirley and Martin Rancik also averages 22 points per game, so the Cats can't focus all their attention outside of the paint, forward Matt Siebrandt said.

"They've got good guards, but they've got some good post men, too, so it's not going to be like we're going to be able to go double team or anything," he said. "We're just going to have to play our help defense and just really buckle down and play the best defense we've played all year, and maybe that will do it."

TENNIS

■ continued from page 6

Kansas from the southern United States.

"I love K-State, but I hate the cold," Mexico-native freshman Paulina Castillejos said.

The team heads to Cottonwood Raquet Club to meet Southwest Missouri State and Utah this weekend. The matches begin at 1 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. Sunday.

Though the team beat Southwest Missouri State last year, they are going in this match with a clean slate.

"The fact that we won last year doesn't mean anything," Sedlmajerova said.

GLASS HEARTS Several Sizes & Wonderful Designs, From Three Studios $6 - $50

GLASS FLOWERS Red Roses, Anthuriums, Calla Lilies... $9 - $117

REAL ROSES With Gold, Silver or Copper Plating $29 - $45

GEMSTONE JEWELRY Sterling Silver & Garnet, Moonstone... $25 - $110

JEWELRY BOXES Contemporary Design, Two Styles $52 - $83

GLASS IMPRESSIONS
329 Poyntz Ave. 539-4610
Tue-Fri 11-6 • Sat 10-5

VALENTINE'S DAY

The Salvation Army Family Thrift Store

OPEN Mon - Sat
10am - 5pm

310 Poyntz
Convenient Back Door and Front Door Parking

Help Us Help Others!

SUN CONNECTION I & II
TAN FREE in our new 600 TURBO BED
2/12 - 2/15/01 (one per customer)

A DOZEN SUPER TANS
$29.99
exp: 2/15/01

Valentine's Week Specials
2/12-2/15/01
4 super tans - $14
3 mega tans - $14
1 ultra bronze - $14

Gift Certificates Available

776-2426 537-0744
1125 Laramie 1814 Claflin

Valentine's Day is just around the corner...

NOW is the time to decide what to send your sweetheart! Call Homestead Floral to place your order early and help them provide exactly what you're looking for.

Also, let us help make your wedding beautiful! Call today to schedule your wedding consultation.

HOMESTEAD Floral

785-293-5584 or toll free at 877-293-5584
8801 University Park Road

12th St. Pub. Friday

$2 Captains Margaritas

$3 Stoli Flavors

Don't Miss Your Valentine Kiss

• Candy • Flowers
• Balloons • Stuffed Animals
• Area-wide Delivery

WESTLOOP FLORAL 1-800-336-7973
537-2845
1130 Westport Dr. - next to Blockbuster

Guinness Fest '01

Friday Night

Free t-shirts for first 100 customers with a purchase after 7 p.m.

Don't miss the best Irish celebration 'til St. Patrick's Day

O'Malley's

Krystallos
"Where gifts are easy to buy"

Gifts • Jewelry • Clothing

We have GREAT Valentine gift ideas

Ring Sale
Sterling Silver Bands mens & womens
50% OFF

Feb 7 - 14
ONE WEEK ONLY
708 N. Manhattan • Aggieville

Body First

• 2308 Anderson Ave • (785) 587-8300 •

Specials for the month of February
Happy Valentines Day

• One hour massage is only $35.00
• (One hour massage + Traditional Facial + Paraffin Hand Wax + Sauna) Only $55.00

We now accept advertised specials from any other massage therapy establishment. Just bring in their Special and we will meet their price.

Hours
M-F 8a.m. - 7p.m. &
Sat 9a.m. - 6p.m.

Claflin Books and Copies
776-3771

Peaceable Kingdom Valentine Cards

Hurry today to get all of your Valentines a Valentine's card and book!

Ristorante Marco Polo

Come enjoy a quiet and romantic atmosphere with excellent service for Valentines Day and everyday!

- Authentic Italian Cuisine
- Hand-Cut Steaks • Seafood
- Weekly Specials
- Wide Selection of Imported & Domestic Wine & Beer
- Full Bar
- Call for Reservations Today

11 AM - 2 PM & 5 PM - 9 PM
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY UNTIL 10 PM
CLOSED ON MONDAYS

770-3999

Plaza West Shopping Center
3003 Anderson Ave., Suite 953

magnetic poetry for your Valentine

GEOMETRICS
furnishings and gifts

407 Poyntz Ave. 785-537-7677
MON.- FRI. 10-6, SAT. 10-5

GOLDEN WOK BUFFET

Valentine's Day Special

We invite every family to join us Valentine's Day. You can have a steamed big live lobster, plus our Chinese buffet for only $11.99 - only $5 extra!

Regular Chinese buffet still available for $6.99.

Happy Valentine's Day
From 3:30 to 10 p.m.

10% off
our Lunch or Dinner Buffet, (including Valentine's Day)
Not valid with any other offers.

Anderson ALCO Golden Wok ★ Seth Chalks

Wedding planner makes day easy, relaxed

By BETSY STYERAK
Kansas State Collegian

Planning a wedding takes a lot of work and arranging. Don't stress. There is an easy way to get through it all. Take the initiative. Hire a wedding planner.

People can tend to become overwhelmed after deciding to get married.

Having a wedding planner can simplify that stress to complete relief, Teresa Purvis, wedding coordinator, said.

"People have misconceptions about wedding planners," she said. "Not all wedding planners walk around with head phones and posess with snooty French accents. Some are really down to earth and do this job because they love to help people."

Purvis, saleswoman at Patricia's Undercover, said she first started planning weddings when people began asking her for advice with their own weddings. She felt comfortable helping because she has a great deal of experience with weddings and said she has learned a lot.

To begin the process, the customer needs to meet with the planner for about three hours and begin by prioritizing their budget. The customer should be ready to plan out everything from the honeymoon hotel to the food at the wedding.

The job of the wedding planner consists of everything imaginable that can be arranged at a wedding.

Purvis takes care of details from laying out the train on the bride's dress for the pictures to helping decide the styles of the bridesmaids' dresses. She lets the bride and groom enjoy the wedding.

"This day is made for the bride and the groom. All questions go to me so they can be at peace," she said.

Purvis works through several retailers. She contacts the bakery, florists, caterers, jewelers, hair stylists and the disc jockey service. The list can go on forever, but Purvis is always right there to help, she said.

"I match the venter to the personality," she said. "A wedding planner is the godmother of the wedding."

Hiring a so-called godmother can have its price. The planning is priced purely on the basis of what the customers want. It can range anywhere from $50 to $1,000.

The price depends on how much assistance the couple needs, Purvis said. If it's a simple thing like advice, the costs aren't too expensive. Purvis offers what she calls the Aunt Martha package.

The Aunt Martha package basically covers all the arranging, Purvis said. She begins with a set budget, then contacts retailers appropriate for the bride's and groom's wishes, reviews contracts, helps with the wedding showers, coordinates the out-of-town guests, takes care of rehearsals, the ceremony and finally, the reception.

The average age of people Teresa deals with tends to be between 24 and 27.

Most couples seem to have just graduated from college, and many seem to be on their second marriage.

Laura Rothlisberger, owner of Celebrations of the Heart bridal shop, said the average age of couples she deals with is early twenties, between 21 and 24.

"I deal with anywhere from 40 to 50 people a week, and most are young," she said.

Younger age marriages have changed weddings and tradition.

"Males are so much more involved. It's great," Purvis said. "People aren't as tied to tradition. They do whatever they want," she said.

Rothlisberger has noticed changes in style as well.

"The wedding gowns have changed from busy and a lot of design to simple, sophisticated and elegant," she said.

"Spaghetti straps seem to be a very popular style with bridal dresses."

Patricia Yeager, store owner of Patricia's Undercover, also feels tradition has somehow escaped weddings.

"The wedding night lingerie isn't as traditional in style as it used to be," she said. "Now more brides will match their lingerie with the colors at their wedding," she said.

Even with the change in trends, little details still are forgotten that wedding planners make certain are taken care of.

Some of the most common forgotten things are gifts for the wedding party, arrangements for the child care, and the wedding couple picking out their first dance song.

Purvis actually carries a miniature emergency kit with her at weddings for special situations.

"I carry black electrical tape for emergency hemming of ripped tuxedo pants — and your typical needle and thread," she said.

Purvis said she loves to be the rescue of all the problems at weddings, which is why she loves her job so much.

"I love giving people exactly what they want," she said.

She said she also loves the bride and groom's personalities.

"I supply the unique things they want to have at their weddings," she said. "Your wedding day should reflect your personality."

Wedding planners are an imperative part of the wedding.

They can plan anything from just a reception to the entire package, Purvis said. They work with you; they are there to help you.

"You need a football coach when playing football," Purvis said. "No one goes on to the field with a perfect team. You need a coach. When I get married, I am hiring a wedding coordinator," she said.

Yeager also feels a wedding planner is a great way to have organization at weddings.

"Wedding planners make good decisions," she said. "Don't be afraid to have a wedding planner. They will help you," she said.

Although wedding planners may seem to be in the spotlight, Yeager assures that the bride is still the most important.

"The bride still reigns the day," she said.

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Patricia Yeager, owner of Patricia's Undercover, dresses a mannequin with wedding lingerie.

ASK ABOUT OUR FREE GROOM & WEDDING PARTY
SPECIAL!

1130 WESTPORT DRIVE
Manhattan, KS
539-7002 • 1-877-822-7002

Hair Experts
Design Team

Discover the Difference

TRUE CALM
BY REDKEN

*CHILL SHAMPOO,
EASY UP ANTI-STRESS
CONDITIONER, WITH CANDLE:
$14.95

1323 Anderson Ave.
Aggieville, Manhattan
776-4455

Southern Sun
• Spring Break Special •

It's $dollar$ days at Southern Sun. $1.00 a day until spring break.
*Start whenever you choose, the number of days until
Mar. 18 is all you pay to tan everyday.

Get That Golden Tan!
776-8060

3232 Kimball Ave. (Next to Bobby To's)

Always Great Bulbs at the Best Prices!

VALENTINE'S DAY
February 14th

1224 Moro
Aggieville

Mon.-Thurs.
10am-7pm

Fri. & Sat.
10am-5pm

Patricia's
UNDERCOVER lingerie

GIFTS WRAPPED
FREE

Stay
connected...

kstatecollegian.com

$2.00 LONGHORNS $1.00
wells draws

Thanks to everyone who came out to see
THE GREAT DIVIDE

For a limited time, receive a FREE
gift when you open a
Positively FREE
Checking account
or Sign up for
NEW SunNet
Online Banking.

GIVING AWAY THE STORE

FREE

SIGN UP NOW
Receive a FREE gift.

- 16-piece Stoneware Set
- 6-piece Salad Bowl Set
- Frosty Freezer Mugs
- Set of Glass Canisters
- Stainless Steel Utensils
- Stainless Steel Gadget Set

SUNFLOWER BANK

FDIC

Limited quantities. Limit one free premium item per household.
Offer limited to new accounts and new SunNet online enrollments.
First come, first served. Ask customer service representative for details.

ONCE IN A LIFETIME

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 2001

11

Bechtel-Currey

Ryan John Bechtel and Christina Mane Currey, senior in interior design, wish to announce their engagement.

Ryan is the son of Donald and Kathleen Bechtel of Manhattan, and Christina is the daughter of Karen Currey of Lawrence, Kan.

The couple are planning a June 30 wedding in Manhattan.

Farr-Wooster

Marcus Farr, senior in biology and life science, and Angie Wooster, senior in agricultural journalism and communications, wish to announce their engagement.

Marcus is the son of Tom and Christine Farr of Lansing, Kan., and Angie is the daughter of Ron and Dena Wooster of Wichita, Kan.

The couple are planning a June 23 wedding in Platte City, Mo.

Garey-Langenfeld

Ryan Christian Garey and Carissa Lynn Langenfeld, senior in dietetics and pre-medicine, wish to announce their engagement.

Ryan is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William Garey of Independence, Kan. and Carissa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Langenfeld of Gardner, Kan.

The couple are planning a July 7 wedding in Overland Park, Kan.

Gaul-Heller

Aaron Andrew Gaul, May 1999 K-State graduate, and Amanda Zae Heller, senior in sociology, wish to announce their engagement.

Aaron is the son of Owen and Carol Gaul of Manhattan and Amanda is the daughter of Mark and Susan Heller of Hunter, Kan.

The couple are planning a June 16 wedding in Manhattan.

Hannagan-Freeman

C. Jason Hannagan, senior in public relations, and Jennifer Freeman, sophomore in pre-nursing, wish to announce their engagement.

Jason is the son of Jon and Marilyn Hannagan of Lakin, Kan., and Jennifer is the daughter of David and Jill Freeman of Carmel, Ind.

The couple are planning a July 28 wedding in Indianapolis, Ind.

Hansen-Lamb

Joshua Lee Hansen and Lacey Amber Lamb, junior in accounting, wish to announce their engagement.

Joshua is the son of Hal and Cathy Hansen of Norton, Kan. Lacey is the daughter of Jay and Elaine Schukman of Almena, Kan., and Michael and Janelle Lamb of Arlington, Texas.

The couple are planning an Aug. 4 wedding in Norton, Kan.

Johnson-Denille

Joshua Johnson, senior in marketing, and Denille Kaufman, junior in management, wish to announce their engagement.

The couple are planning a May 26 wedding in Hillsboro, Kan.

Kantack-Magette

Bryan Kantack, senior in electrical engineering, and Amanda Magette, senior in family studies and human services, wish to announce their engagement.

Bryan is the son of Michael and Linda Kantack of Clifton, Kan., and Amanda is the daughter of Steve and Melody Magette of Claffin, Kan.

The couple are planning a July 28 wedding in Manhattan.

Keller-McDonald

Jim Keller, senior in civil engineering, and Melissa McDonald, senior in mechanical engineering, wish to announce their engagement.

Jim is the son of Tom and Lea Keller of St. Francis, Kan., and Melissa is the daughter of Galen and Sharon McDonald of Mullinville, Kan.

The couple are planning a July 28 wedding in Mullinville, Kan.

Koch-St. Cyr

Brian Koch and Michelle St. Cyr, senior in marketing, wish to announce their engagement.

Brian is the son of Don and Betty Koch of Blaine, Kan., and Michelle is the daughter of Alfred and Monica St. Cyr of St. George, Kan.

The couple are planning a May 19 wedding in Manhattan.

Madison-Collins

Billy Madison, senior in animal science and industry, and Becki Collins, May 2000 graduate, were united in marriage Aug. 12, 2000.

Billy is the son of Norm and Kathy Willcox of Lenexa, Kan., and Anne is the daughter of Mike and Annie Collins of Manhattan.

Mann-Kaup

Kale Mann, senior in secondary education, and Haley Kaup, senior in kinesiology and pre-physical therapy, wish to announce their engagement.

Kale is the son of Greg and Brenda Mann of WaKeeney, Kan. Haley is the daughter of Bruce and Carla Kaup of Maud, Okla.

The couple are planning a May 26 wedding in Norton, Kan.

ATWOOD rentals

Thomas P. Atwood
Mary Elizabeth Atwood

1927 Ft. Riley Blvd.
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
785/537-2250 FAX: 785/537-2329

Once in a Lifetime

engagements and weddings

in the Collegian,

the first friday of the month.

Lace or smooth
Backless 32-40 (A-D)
Detachable Garters

Patricia's
UNDERCOVER
Lingerie

BRIDAL REGISTRY

AGGIEVILLE
SINCE 1889

1124 Moro M-Th 10-7
Fri-Sat 10-5

Weisner's Bridal Boutique & Sew Unique

- Over 100 Bridal Gowns (In stock)
- Bridesmaid Gowns
- Veils & Headpieces
- Bridal Accessories
- Special Occasion Fabric
- Tuxedos

We are the areas most complete one-stop Bridal Store.

See us at
The Little Apple Bridal Show
Feb 11

314 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan
(785) 776-6100

CLAUSSEN'S CUSTOM DESIGN & REPAIR

- *Unique Kansas State Jewelry
- *Custom designed matched wedding sets
- *One of a kind engagement rings
- *The best prices in town!

CLAUSSEN'S
Custom Design & Repair

537-6884 • 410 Poyntz Avenue
Mon. - Fri. 9-6, Saturday by Appointment

Celebrations of the Heart

401 Poyntz Avenue
Manhattan, KS 66502
785 587 1830

For the special memories in life

First Anniversary Offer:
Bridal gowns ordered in January or February receive a FREE veil.

See us at the Little Apple Bridal Show February 11 Store open noon to 5 pm also

Bridal Sale

40% OFF

Bridal Gowns & Formal Dresses

2011 Ft. Riley Blvd. Manhattan
(913) 279-5200 Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Sat. 10-4

Mr. P's Party Outlet

We cater to all your wedding needs.

Wedding Invitations 30% Off

♥ Pre-order your ♥ Valentine Balloon Bouquets
Free delivery for orders $10 and up

776-7547 • 318 Poyntz • Manhattan
M-TH 9:30-8 p.m. • F-SAT 9:30-6 p.m. SUN Noon-5 p.m.

LLADRÓ

A FITTING TRIBUTE TO ENDURING LOVE

Campbell's

5th and Poyntz Ave.
(785) 776-9067
Thurs. 10 a.m. - 6 p.m.
Mon. - Sat. 10 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

Valentine gifts to be cherished

Morgan-Hueffle

Travis Morgan, senior in business management, and Erin Hueffle, graduate student in accounting, wish to announce their engagement.

Travis is the son of Charles and Diane Morgan of Mulvane, Kan., and Erin is the daughter of Patricia Hueffle of Menlo, Kan.

The couple are planning a May 26 wedding in Manhattan.

Oestmann-Jones

David Oestmann, senior in architecture, and Allyson Jones, senior in English, wish to announce their engagement.

David is the son of Vern and Debbie Oestmann of Prairie Village, Kan., and Allyson is the daughter of Alan and Darlene Jones of St. Charles, Mo.

The couple are planning a July 28 wedding in Mission, Kan.

Peters-Lutz

Jason Peters, senior in political science, and Ashley Lutz, senior in elementary education, wish to announce their engagement.

Jason is the son of Howard and Madelyn Peters of Hays, Kan., and Ashley is the daughter of Bruce and Karen Hertel of Hays, Kan.

The couple are planning a July 7 wedding in Hays, Kan.

Ronsick-Wapelhorst

Mike Ronsick, senior in graphic design, and Michelle Wapelhorst, senior in biology, wish to announce their engagement.

Mike is the son of Chad and Nancy Ronsick of Olathe, Kan., and Michelle is the daughter of Bill and Linda Wapelhorst of Colwich, Kan.

The couple are planning a July 14 wedding in Colwich, Kan.

Traditional marriage represents worthy goal for 100-percent girl

One-hundred percent girl. That's what my Collegian buddies called me when I worked there. I like to wear dresses; I like to cook (especially for my fiancé); I've always wanted to get married, have children and live happily ever after.

Even the fact that I love to play flag football doesn't decrease the constant teasing about my girl status. They insist I probably play with make-up on and a ribbon in my hair.

The teasing increased from my beloved Collegian friends the moment I became engaged. They said I was born to be a wife. Well, a wife in the Middle Ages, anyway.

My dreams of a marriage differ greatly from some of theirs. Now, as you read on, don't take it in a wrong way. I'm all for women's rights and equal opportunity. But some think I'm still stuck back in the Middle Ages when it comes to marriage.

If my husband would make enough for me to be a stay at home wife and mom, I would. Of course, nowadays that's almost impossible, but the dream of being the next June Cleaver or Donna Reed is still there. I would love to make breakfast for my husband, and when the time comes, my children, every day before I send them off to work and school. I want to have supper waiting on the table for them when they get home.

Of course, I would insist on them helping me clean up and helping with the housework. My husband's No. 1 job will be cleaning the toilet, because that is something I will not do, but he already takes that responsibility.

I will take my husband's last name — Angela Roberts — I like the sound of that. And, when the pastor announces us as husband and wife, he will say Mr. and Mrs. Cory Roberts.

A long time ago, women would have been criticized for saying they wanted to work or they didn't want to cook for their husband or they didn't want to take their husband's last name. Now it's just the opposite. Women are more likely to be criticized for the exact statements I have just made.

Before any women's activists or feminists start screaming at me, read on. I will expect my husband to appreciate what I do and every once in a while return the favor with one of his homecooked meals. And let me tell you, my husband-to-be is a wonderful cook. And the moment he stops appreciating, well, let's just say he'd better learn to like macaroni and cheese.

The great thing about women's liberation isn't that we don't have to stay at home anymore, it's that we have the choice to stay at home or go into the workforce with our husbands.

I would choose to stay at home.

So maybe my Collegian buddies are right: I am a 100-percent girl. Did I mention that my bridesmaids' dresses are pink?

Angela is a graduate student in sociology. You can e-mail her at angela_1k@yahoo.com.

ANGELA KISTNER*Strait-Albro

Christopher M. Strait and Christina I. Albro, senior in hotel and restaurant management, wish to announce their engagement.

Christopher is the son of Mike and LaDonna Strait of Dickinson, Texas, and Christina is the daughter of George and Barbara Albro of Goddard, Kan.

The couple are planning a May 26 wedding in Manhattan.

Straub-Schartz

William Joseph Straub III and Alicia Dawn Schartz, graduate student in apparel and textile business, wish to announce their engagement.

William is the son of Bill and Donna Straub of Stroudsburg, Pa., and Alicia is the daughter of Curtis and Lila Schartz of Ellinwood, Kan.

The couple are planning a July 7 wedding in Ellinwood, Kan.

Walters-Shriwise

Jerome Walters and Julie Shriwise, senior in accounting, wish to announce their engagement.

Jerome is the son of Ron and Deborah Walters of Garden City, Kan., and Julie is the daughter of Sid and Mary Anne Shriwise of Jetmore, Kan.

The couple are planning a July 7 wedding in Manhattan.

Wood-Simmons

David M. Wood, senior in vocal performance, and Micaela K. Simmons, junior in history and political science, wish to announce their engagement.

David is the son of Bill and Rita Wood of Leavenworth, Kan. and Micaela is the daughter of Sandy Simmons of Leavenworth, Kan.

The couple are planning an Aug. 4 wedding in Leavenworth, Kan.

Make an Announcement
Once in a Lifetime: first Friday of every month

BRIDAL BLOW-OUT!
FEBRUARY 1-4

SWAN'S

21st & Wanamaker • Accessories

1130 Westport, Manhattan
539-7002 • (877) 822-7002

40-85% off*

*in-stock items only

Manhattan's Tuxedo Specialists

Borck Brothers Wedding Club

Membership Privileges:

- Prices start at $40.00 (includes: black coat, pants, shirt, tie, sash and shoes)
- Proper fit—Nobody fits tuxedos like we do
- Your tuxedo is ready on time... guaranteed
- Groom's tuxedo free* (with 6 paid rentals)
- 20% discount on selected groomsmen's gifts
- 15% discount on honeymoon outfit for groom
- Expert guidance in making the correct formalwear decisions

*some restrictions apply

Borck Brothers

Manhattan's Leading Menswear Store

Professional service with quality clothing and merchandise. You can count on it.

Alan Parker

Westloop Shopping Center
Mon-Sat 9-10:30-3:30
Thurs until 8:00

Perfect Stitches Tailoring

Alterations and Dry Cleaning

219 S. 4th (785) 776-6912

Tuxedo Sale

$69.95

INCLUDES:
ANY RENTAL TUXEDO STYLE
ANY SHIRT STYLE
ANY VEST STYLE

Marie's

2011 E. Riley Blvd. Manhattan
(913) 539-5200 Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Sat. 10-4

Little Apple BRIDAL SHOW

Manhattan's largest bridal event

Sunday, Feb. 11 1 p.m.

Manhattan Holidome

Come visit with experts in planning your wedding...

Swan's Tuxedo • Weisner's Bridal • Celebration of the Heart

Sponsored by:

- Patricia's Undercover Lingerie
- Paxico Floral & Gifts
- Portraits by LBJ
- Ramada Inn
- Royal Prestige
- Salon Essentials
- Shadowsmith Photographics/Ceremonial White Bird Release
- Sunny 102.5
- Swan's Tux Shoppe
- Third Street Flowers & Gifts
- Vern's Cakes
- WB Photography
- Wedding Pages/The Knot
- Weisner's Bridal

FREE ADMISSION

For more information call (785) 2002

COMPLETE MUSIC®

It's the DJ that Makes the Difference!™

It's the most important day of your life, don't trust it to just any DJ.
We perform at more wedding receptions than anyone else;
let us put our experience to work for you!

Call 800.755.3535 for your free Wedding Planning Folder & Video

Visit our website today at www.cmusic.com

Complete Music locally serves Manhattan, Topeka, Lawrence, Salina, Great Bend, and Hays

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 2001

13

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

ROOMMATES NEEDED for a four-bedroom University Commons apartment. FULLY FURNISHED. Call Annette or Melissa, at 323-0013.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE NOW! June/ August. One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. Off-street parking. Call evenings 539-0590.

LANDLORDS WITH compassion. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 17-12 month lease. No pets. 776-2102.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. 1001 Fremont. $325/ month. References, deposit, tenant pays electric. (785)456-2331.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June. August. now. (785)537-7050.

115
Rooms Available

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY-FIRST MONTH rent on one room FREE. Four-bedroom apartment, one or two bedrooms for rent. University Commons. Fully furnished, washer/ dryer. Devon, 776-7188 for information.

120
For Rent-
Houses

ABSOLUTELY BETTER than renting. Buy! Parents save money, we have homes close to campus. Call Larry, Century 21 Knight, (785)770-7230.

UPSTAIRS STUDIO for one person. $275 available immediately. 539-5778.

120
For Rent-
Houses

LANDLORDS WHO CARE! Four-bedroom, two bath, all appliances included, washer/ dryer, trash and lawn, off-street parking, no pets. Starting August 1, $1100/ month. Largest in town! Mondo Condo, four-five-bedrooms, 2600 square feet, all appliances, washer/ dryer, gas grills, Ethernet, off-street parking. A must-see at 1500/ month. August 1 lease, no pets. (785)532-8323, 537-4682, ask for Ron.

145
Roommate Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bathroom house. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

145
Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house now through May. $350/ month includes all UTILITIES, WASHER/ DRYER. Call 341-5401. (785)537-0038.

145
Roommate Wanted

MALE OR female sublessee wanted for four-bedroom house, close to campus. Spacious bedroom with private bath. $245/ month. (785)770-8150, ask for Sarah.

145
Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please. Great two-bedroom apartment. $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan, (785)537-7228.

145
Roommate Wanted

ROOMMATE NEEDED to share three-bedroom/ two bathroom duplex. Washer/ dryer/ furnished. February's rent is FREE! Call 587-0404.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE WANTED. Young Couple seeks one or two-bedroom apartment to sub/ short-term lease. August 1, 2001-December 31, 2001. 776-1926.

150
Sublease

AVAILABLE NOW: One-bedroom at Chase Manhattan apartments. Must move. Call Sarah (785) 776-9001.

150
Sublease

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath house, 1870 College Heights, $700/ month (gas bill included). 537-7701.

200 service directory

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

310
Help Wanted

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfowl, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

310
Help Wanted

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27-July 29. Program offers horse-back riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com.

310
Help Wanted

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.camptowanda.com. Additional information at (800)923-2267.

310
Help Wanted

DO YOU LOVE CANDLES? Do you believe that work can be fun? It can be! Begin your own business selling candles and accessories through home parties. Earn an average $35/ hour. No experience necessary. No inventory or delivery. Email Sherri at: slp1645@aol.com

310
Help Wanted

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+ Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2820.

310
Help Wanted

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

310
Help Wanted

HELP WANTED: Earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. Info 1-504-646-1700 Dept. KS-6438.

310
Help Wanted

KAW VALLEY Greenhouses is looking for full- and part-time seasonal applicants. Must be willing to work at a fast pace. Some full-time positions will require travel (meal allowance, transportation and housing included). Call Chris Yoder, 776-8595 Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday after 3pm.

310
Help Wanted

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May-early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

310
Help Wanted

PART-TIME HELP wanted, 15-20 hours/ week. Call 537-9188.

310
Help Wanted

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains SW of Denver. General counselors and program specialist in horse-back riding, hiking, backpacking, crafts, nature challenge course, farm, dance, drama. Administrative positions also available. June-early August 2001. MAKE A DIFFERENCE! Competitive salary, room, board, health insurance and travel allowance. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

310
Help Wanted

MAKE NEW friends, build your resume, become a child's hero all while you live, work and play in the great outdoors! Wildwood is an educational camp south of Kansas City that is looking for energetic camp counselors to lead activities such as canoeing, fishing, games, crafts, and many more activities while teaching children 8-14 about the outdoors. Lifeguarding helpful but not required. June 2nd- August 10th. $1700 plus room and board. Contact Wildwood at (913) 757-4500 or email wildwood@peoplest-elecom.net

310
Help Wanted

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfowl, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

310
Help Wanted

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27-July 29. Program offers horse-back riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com.

310
Help Wanted

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.camptowanda.com. Additional information at (800)923-2267.

310
Help Wanted

DO YOU LOVE CANDLES? Do you believe that work can be fun? It can be! Begin your own business selling candles and accessories through home parties. Earn an average $35/ hour. No experience necessary. No inventory or delivery. Email Sherri at: slp1645@aol.com

310
Help Wanted

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+ Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2820.

310
Help Wanted

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

310
Help Wanted

HELP WANTED: Earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. Info 1-504-646-1700 Dept. KS-6438.

310
Help Wanted

KAW VALLEY Greenhouses is looking for full- and part-time seasonal applicants. Must be willing to work at a fast pace. Some full-time positions will require travel (meal allowance, transportation and housing included). Call Chris Yoder, 776-8595 Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday after 3pm.

310
Help Wanted

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May-early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

310
Help Wanted

PART-TIME HELP wanted, 15-20 hours/ week. Call 537-9188.

310
Help Wanted

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruraltel.net

320
Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com.

330
Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK FOR Sale: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English). Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502. For information, please send self-addressed stamped envelope to the above address.

415
Furniture to Buy/Sell

615 N. 3rd. Wohler's- furniture, antiques, appliances. Lots of beer memorabilia. Buy, sell and trade.

435
Computers

700 MHz cpu, 52x CD-ROM, 128 meg ram, 10 gig hard drive, 17-inch monitor, 56K modem, ethernet card, Windows ME plus free printer or scanner. Brand new, three year warranty, $999, (785)395-7447.

500
transportation

POWERBOOK G3, 400 mhz, DVD, 192 meg RAM, 6 gig drive, extras. $1500. 539-4600 leave a message.

510
Automobiles

1987 OLDSMOBILE Delta 88, loaded, $1200, 1989 Honda Civic, high miles five-speed, $2200 or best offer. (785)395-7447, leave message.

510
Automobiles

1992 THUNDERBIRD. Power doors, windows, seats, 136,000 mostly highway miles. Excellent condition. $2700 or best offer. (785) 395-1511.

510
Automobiles

1993 NISSAN Altima GLE. Auto, four-door, leather, sunroof, pearl beige, all options, low miles, great condition. 532-7520/ 537-7976.

510
Automobiles

1996 BRONCO, Eddie Bauer. Only 45K. Must see. $17,500. 1997 Ford Escort Sport. Nice car. $5500. (785)762-2429.

510
Automobiles

1997 PONTIAC Grand Prix GT. Red, priced below book at $10,950, power everything. 341-5169.

510
Automobiles

HONDA ACCORD, maroon, automatic locks and windows, cruise control, heater, air-conditioning, etc. $3500. In great condition! 539-0805 for more details.

510
Automobiles

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

600
travel/trips

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummertours.com

630
Spring Break

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

630
Spring Break

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guaranteed! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com

630
Spring Break

2001! SOUTH PADRE ISLAND www.pirentals.com springbreak 1-800-292-7520

630
Spring Break

SOUTH PADRE Island, spring break condo, two-bedroom, two bath, pool, hot tub. Call (512)892-3218, $700 for week with $300 deposit.

630
Spring Break

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island www.pirentals.com/spring-break 1-800-292-7520

630
Spring Break

SPRING BREAK PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES. (404) 355-9637

630
Spring Break

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

630
Spring Break

CANCUN BLOWOUT! Lagons from Beachfront! $499 $559 Packages include RT airfare, 7 nights hotel, party packages, etc.

630
Spring Break

ACAPULCO JAMAICA $649 $509 FRACIS LIMITED CALL TODAY!!

630
Spring Break

SPRING BEST DEALS! BREAK 2001 Panama City/Florida Daytona/Orlando/Beachfront 1-800-SUNCHASE www.sunchase.com

630
Spring Break

we kick ads. (800)655-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $7.35
each word over 20 20¢ per word
2 DAYS
20 words or less $8.65
each word over 20 25¢ per word
3 DAYS
20 words or less $10.15
each word over 20 30¢ per word
4 DAYS
20 words or less $11.25
each word over 20 35¢ per word
5 DAYS
20 words or less $12.25
each word over 20 40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103
(across from the K-State Student Union).
Office hours are Monday through Friday
from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account
with Student
Publications Inc.
Cash, check,
MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on
all returned checks.
We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us.
We accept responsibility
only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item
before your ad has expired, we will refund
you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge,
we'll put a headline
above your ad to catch
the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

GIRL SCOUT resident camp has summer positions available. Visit our table in the Union. February 13, 9am to 3pm.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

BLACK WALLET. Possibly lost in Aggieville or University Commons. Reward will be given. Contact Jessica at 785-537-3650.

FOUND: CAR keys at Anderson and 17th Streets. Call 565-0006 to identify.

FOUND: LADIES watch near Calvin Hall. Call to identify, 532-7190.

030
Personals

100 housing/real estate

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM efficiency. Available now or May. Most utilities paid. Close to everything. $295/ month. Off-street parking. Leave message 776-8804.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Available 05/15/01-08/15/01. $600 month including all utilities, washer/ dryer. Call 341-5401.

WODWAY WELCOME HOME

• Sparkling swimming pool
• Spacious decks/ patios
• Avail. June 5 and Aug 6
• Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
• On-site laundry facilities
• Economical gas heat

180MM $450 $480 $470
280MM $570 $580 $590
380MM $770 $780 $790
480MM $980 $990 $1000

Office
2400 Kimball Ave.
at College Ave.
(across from Beal College)

Call Sara
at 537-7007
for an appointment.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JULY, two-bedroom, living, dining room, hardwood floors, study, family room, one three-fourth bath, one car garage. $600 plus utilities. One-bedroom basement, study, living room. $300 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking, or pets. 539-1554.

AVAILABLE STARTING March 1, two bedroom apartment in small complex near Westloop. Includes fireplace, dishwasher, private washer/ dryer

PLACE TO CALL Home

Call 532-6560
to be in this section

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus

ONE BEDROOMS	TWO BEDROOMS
1022-1026 Sunset $345-385	1825-1829 College Hts. $600-700
1212 Thurston $440-460	Aggieville Penthouse Apts. $550-725
1950-1960 Hunting $440-460
1837 College Heights $385	3 & 4 BEDROOMS 1841 College Heights $750-900

Call Today for an Appointment

DIAMOND

537-7701

1109 Hylton Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE
ADVERTISING

532-6560

Clafin Books and Copies

Dependable Quality Service

Transparencies

Across from Goodnow Hall

Premarital Education for committed & engaged couples

"Couple Talk"

with

Dr. Kelly Welch, CFLE

Asst. Professor

Family Studies & Human Services

beginning Feb. 5
10-week series $10 per couple for more info contact Dr. Welch 532-1199

Assist with student recruitment meet alumni, have fun!

Student Alumni Board

Informational meeting: Tues., Feb 15
4:30 p.m., KSU Union West Ballroom
Applications available: Alumni Association office, Office of Student Activities & Services
Applications due: Fri., Feb 18

Questions? Call Mitzi Frieling: 532-5058

NOW Leasing

1,2,3 and 4 Bedroom Apartments

WE OFFER-

- Private Balconies/Patios
- Microwaves, Refrigerators
- Garbage Disposals, Dishwasher
- Central heat/air, Ceiling Fans, Walk-in Closets
- Cable & Phone in every bedroom

YOU WILL ENJOY-

- 24-hour laundry & workout facilities
- Swimming pool with sundeck, basketball court
- 24-hour maintenance
- Discounted Cable w/HBO, water & trash paid
- Private clubhouse, fax & copier services
- Professional on-site management

Chase Manhattan

APARTMENTS

1409 Chase Place • 776-3663

$1.75

Friday:

22oz Stadium Cups
Bud Light or Coors Light

424 Houston 539-7444

FROM THE RUNAWAY BEST-SELLING NOVEL

LEFT BEHIND

THE MOVIE

Now Showing

Seth Child Cinemas - Begins February 2

Coupons for discounted tickets are available from
Christian Books & Gifts, 1437 Anderson, Manhattan 537-0310

For all your real estate needs...

Ready to buy, but don't know where to start?

- Call, write or email us today.
- We will pre-qualify you in minutes.
- There is no cost to you.
- We offer buyers representation.

Are you considering selling your home?

- We will be glad to do a free market analysis to enable you to establish a value on your real estate.

A family agency with three generations of KSU grads

Century 21

Century 21 Irvine Real Estate, Inc.
1018 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, KS (785) 539-2356 or 1-800-634-1259 or email-cent21@linthills.com or www.century21irvine.com

MONTH TO MONTH LEASING

- Discount on rent if 9-month term paid in advance
- Water and Trash paid
- Community activities
- Convenient location
- 1,2,3, BR units
- Competitive rent
- Pool

539-5791

redoubt estates

113 By Pass K
Manhattan

Hair Westloop

- Men's & Women's latest styles
- Highlights & colors
- Facial waxing
- Permanent waves

Ask for Cathy or Carmen

Book early to get great prices for your wedding party!

1318 Westloop 539-6001

YOU DESERVE
IT!!!

SPRING BREAK 01

JAMAICA
CANCUN MAZATLAN

TRIPS INCLUDE:
FREE Meals
VIP Express Entry
RT Air
7 nights hotel
Discount at shops,
Restaurants and bars.

WIN A CHANCE TO BE ON BAYWATCH HAWAII Party with the celebrities!!!
HEADLINE
DJS

"Come travel with the quality company"
Mazatlan flight via Sun Country direct service
www.sunbreaks.com
888-777-4642

"I hope I will be able to confide everything to you, as I have never been able to confide in anyone, and I hope you will be a great source of comfort and support."

Anne Frank's first diary entry, June 12, 1942.

Sunday, February 4 at 3:00 p.m.

the DIARY of ANNE FRANK

1998 Tony Award nominee for "Best Play Revival" pre-performance lecture by Linda Ulhoff

Room 135 McCain
Free to the public

MCCAIN
PERFORMANCE SERIES
SPRING 2001

For ticket information, call 785-532-6428
or stop by the McCain Box Office
Monday through Friday, noon to 5:00 p.m.

Kansas State Women's Basketball

Coming at ya!

Take A Kid To A Game!

Parents bring your kids to the game!
Kids 14 and under get in FREE!
Come and enjoy the action as a family!
Kids 14 and under FREE!

K-State vs. Oklahoma State

Saturday Feb. 3rd - 3:00PM

KSU Students
FREE with ID!

For tickets call:
1-800-221-CATS
$5 adults
$2 Student (15 and up)

Sun Kissed
Tanning

UNLIMITED TANNING

$19.95

A MONTH
SEE STORE FOR DETAILS

1122 Laramie St.
537-2141

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 55 ■ LOW 34

MONDAY

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 5, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 91

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Pageant winner prepares for next contest
■ page 10

The road to distribution

Proximity to I-70 makes Manhattan easy drop point

By JOSHUA KINDER
Kansas State Collegian

Manhattan, K-State and other communities around Interstate 70 are reaping the negative effects of drug trafficking.

I-70, which totals 2,175 miles, 423 miles through Kansas, has grown to become a superhighway for drug trafficking in the United States. Manhattan's close proximity to I-70 and Interstate 35 make the surrounding counties and universities an easy distribution target, resulting in high drug-arrest numbers in the area, officials said.

Sgt. Connie Miller of the Riley County Police Department Narcotics Unit said drugs that reach Manhattan usually are from Wichita and Kansas City.

"We know that because we are closer to the interstate — we may see more drugs in our community," she said. "We know a lot comes from Mexico and then to the hubs around the country, like Kansas City and Wichita. It's distributed from there and filtered into the surrounding communities, like Manhattan."

RCPD issued search warrants for drugs every 5.7 days from May to December 2000. In the past five years, Riley County has had 1,937 drug arrests. In addition, the dangerous and highly addictive methamphetamine is growing at shocking rates in Riley County and the surrounding counties of Geary, Pottawatomie and Wabaunsee.

Kyle Smith, a spokesperson for the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, said although some traffickers are stopped by authorities en route to other dropping points, many of the drugs seized on I-70

This is the first in a three-part series about interstate drug trafficking in the surrounding areas. Coming up: LSD and methamphetamine labs found close to home.

Manhattan's place in interstate trafficking

LOCAL MANUFACTURING

Drugs manufactured in homemade laboratories include ecstasy, LSD and methamphetamines. These drugs, as well as those trafficked into the United States, are distributed out of cities like Wichita and Kansas City and filter into smaller communities.

THE MAP

Interstate 70 runs 423 miles through Kansas and is the state's most-traveled highway system. According to the Kansas Highway Patrol, drug cartels from Colombia and South America may control specific narcotics shipments, using I-70 as the main east-west passageway. Drugs are trafficked to hub cities (e.g., like Kansas City, Mo., where they are then distributed to surrounding towns. According to the Kansas Bureau of Investigation, Manhattan, Topeka and Lawrence become hub cities for small, rural towns nearby.

Sources: Kansas Highway Patrol, Kansas Bureau of Investigation and the Drug Identification Bible.

SARA MARTIN/Collegian

Methamphetamine — One gram of street meth, valued at $25 to $150 depending on the market. Nicknames: crank, speed, pep pills, zip, copilot. High quality meth will be a fine, white powder, while the street-manufactured types usually are stickier, more grainy, and yellow to brown in color. The Kansas Highway Patrol confiscated 47 pounds of meth in 2001.

Marijuana — One-half pound of marijuana, valued at between $125 and $1,600, depending on the market's supply and demand. Nicknames: pot, weed, dope, Mary Jane. Marijuana is in the top five of agricultural cash crops grown in the U.S. The Kansas Highway Patrol confiscated 16,644 pounds of marijuana in 2000.

■ Numbers for drug use at K-State prove difficult for officials to determine.

By JOSHUA KINDER
Kansas State Collegian

It's no secret that many college students use illegal narcotics. Nevertheless, it's near impossible to quantify the number of K-State students that use, abuse or even sell drugs.

KBI Spokesman Kyle Smith said that it's difficult to tell how many smuggled drugs reach Manhattan and K-State.

"College towns tend to be high-consumption areas, but not necessarily high in manufacturing. The town's proximity to Fort Riley may indicate there is more selling and using going on than manufacturing."

The Riley County Police Department doesn't document drug arrests of college students, but K-State Police do keep track of arrests that occur on campus.

In 1999, campus police made 16 narcotic-related arrests on campus, a drop from 19 in 1998. Fourteen of the 16 arrests in 1999 occurred in residence halls, while they were the location of all arrests, a total of 11, in 1998. Statistical data from 2000 has not been compiled yet.

Despite any conclusive data that shows college students' drug habits, Smith said they can be easy targets for the drug industry. Many students are hard up on money and resources to attain it.

"Big dopers sometimes hire dumb college students," he said. "They might pay someone $200 to go to Los Angeles and drop drugs off. Not bad money for a couple days' work."

Ceiling collapse under review

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

The ceiling collapse in one apartment and the floor sinking in the apartment above at Chase Manhattan Apartments last weekend still is under investigation, officials said Friday.

Steve Burnett, assistant director for technical service for the city of Manhattan, said the city's investigation was inconclusive.

"There was deflection in it, but it is not conclusive as the cause," Burnett said. "We do not have an exact determination of what the exact cause was."

A further investigation by Chase Manhattan Apartments will be concluded when all the premises are vacated. Sheryl Krzanowsky, regional manager for First Management in Lawrence, said architects will be able to come in and look at what went wrong, she said.

Krzanowsky said the company has properties in three states and others in Manhattan, but said she does not wish to name the other properties in town. She said this was the only such incident she has seen with one of the company's properties.

"We have never had anything like this ever happen," she said.

One thing yet to be determined is how many people were in attendance at the party Friday.

Krzanowsky said she had heard reports from a security guard that there were anywhere from 80 to 120 people.

Dustin Lohmann, sophomore in architecture and environmental design, who lives at the apartment, said there were an estimated 35 people in the upstairs apartment. He said there were two other parties that night, and the estimated number of people might have included those parties.

"There might have been 100 people in all the places and on the decks, but not in one apartment, and not inside our apartment," he said.

See CHASE on PAGE 12

State Highway Patrol short on troopers, starting pay

By JOSHUA KINDER
Kansas State Collegian

The rising amount of narcotics transported across the state and country on Interstate 70 results in the need for more law enforcement power to combat the problem.

Nevertheless, the Kansas Highway Patrol is understaffed and is pushing for the Kansas Legislature to increase starting pay for new officers.

Mark Engholm, of the Kansas Highway Patrol Public Information Department, said the agency is 127 officers short of reaching the minimum state requirement for staff numbers.

Engholm said there are an additional 106 officers nearing retirement within the next few years, and it could get worse if problems are not addressed soon.

Starting salary is one of the agency's main concerns. The Kansas Highway Patrol is the lowest paid in the five-state area, which includes Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Colorado.

The starting pay is $12.51 per hour or $26,000 a year. But through an executive order effective Feb. 4 by Kansas Gov. Bill Graves, the bottom three levels of pay at the Kansas Highway Patrol will be eliminated, increasing the starting hourly wage to $13.46, which comes up to $28,000 a year without overtime.

Graves also has moved to get an increase in pay, through the Kansas Legislature, in pay by 8 percent within the next year. The first installment of the recommended raise is set to take place in July with a 6 1/2 percent increase. The last of the recommended pay increase will be a 1 1/2-percent raise in December.

"Governor Graves has recognized that there is a problem, and actions are being taken to find a solution," Engholm said. "We are very happy with Governor Graves and what he is attempting to do for us."

Trooper J.L. Riedel said the increase still won't be enough.

"I don't want to sound ungrateful," Riedel said. "We appreciate what Governor Graves is trying to do. But that won't even begin to address this. Hopefully, it's a start."

Riedel said other states pay patrolers up to $10,000 more than Kansas patrolman.

"It's very easy to get a bad attitude about the job," Riedel said. "The pay issue

KAREN MIKOLS/Collegian
Kansas Highway Patrol Trooper Craig Davis talks with the station on his cell phone during his shift last Tuesday. Davis has been in law enforcement for 15 years, 12 of them with the Kansas Highway Patrol.

compounds the problem, and it goes hand in hand with the manpower issue. We don't have enough guys to do the regular job, let alone drug interdiction. It's a huge issue."

Riedel said the issue has made him think about moving to another state.

"I've thought about it," he said. "Will it Probably not. But some people's feet aren't planted solidly enough."

Kirk Simone, Kansas Highway Patrol

See MANPOWER on PAGE 3

Legislators discuss credit card solicitation on campus

By JENNIFER O'NEILL
Kansas State Collegian

Companies soliciting credit cards on college campuses might be a thing of the past if a bill is approved by the Kansas Legislature.

The Committee on Appropriations is proposing a bill during this legislative session that would prohibit credit card solicitation to individuals on college campuses. It also prevents any employee of an institution of higher learning to give any credit card issuer a list of names or addresses of students at or employed by the institution.

According to the bill, anyone who violates this act could be fined up to $5,000 for each violation.

Don Foster, university registrar, said it's university policy to not give credit card issuers or other commercial vendors lists of names.

The bill doesn't apply to a financial institution when its place of business is on campus and solicitation occurs at the financial institution's place of business during normal business hours.

"It's trying to do away with what some students see as harassment, but I'm not that sure we need legislation to do it," Foster said.

Foster isn't the only person who feels this way. There are mixed feelings among K-State students, as well as members of the appropriations committee.

"I think ultimately the responsibility lies with the individual themselves for the amount they charge or if they even sign up," said Rep. Jeff Peterson, R-Manhattan, member of the appropriations committee.

Peterson said problems might arise if universities across the state get into the habit of regulating businesses that market on campus. He said the matter is best left to individual universities to decide, not the legislature.

Shannon Stroda, senior in advertising, said it should be a company's right to be on campuses.

"If we felt these companies were threatening, then that would be a different story," Stroda said. "Just don't talk to them if you don't

See CREDIT CARD on PAGE 12

Pre-dawn fire Friday kills 1; 7 condos gutted

By KRISTEN DYMAK
Kansas State Collegian

A Manhattan condominium fire resulted in the death of one woman and destroyed seven condos early Friday morning.

Margaret Grayden died when a fire broke out at a condominium complex in the 2400 block of Dickens Avenue around 2:40 a.m.

Manhattan Fire Dept. Battalion Chief Pete Heptig said the fire started in Grayden's condo at 2428 Dickens Ave., and spread quickly to the other six condos.

"It started in a bed on the ground floor of the condo," Heptig said. "Right now we believe it was caused by use of smoking materials — smoking in bed."

He said it took about three hours for 63 firefighters from the Manhattan and Fort Riley fire departments to control the fire. Blue Township and Riley County fire departments provided backup.

Residents from the other six condos escaped without injuries, but Heptig said almost everything was destroyed. Losses are being estimated at $1 million.

Heptig said nine firefighters received minimal injuries from the icy conditions created by the water used to fight the fire.

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Week
WEDNESDAYS — Froaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Week
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor
Jamie Barrett at jlb7883@ksu.edu

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glascock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
sigma7@ksu.edu
Bucky Wilson
rewell@delia.ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bs9639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jlb7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
neh6062@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nrf1480@ksu.edu
Michael Hall
mhr5855@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jld666@ksu.edu
Erin Schneeweis
ers7896@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm6920@ksu.edu
Curtis H. Crable
chc7669@ksu.edu
Danny Elsworth
dae0091@ksu.edu
Alessa Duncan
aad0849@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
err1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor

Managing Editor

News Editor

Online News Editor

Campus Editor

City & Government Editor

Sports Editor

Arts & Entertainment Editor

Opinion Editor

Presentation Editor

Copy Chief

Ad Manager

Assistant Ad Manager

Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
(USPS 291-020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

New farming methods receiving more attention

ABERDEEN, S.D. — Farmers who are interested in new ways of feeding the world are getting a boost from consumers' fears of things like mad cow disease and bioengineered crops, according to a professor from the University of Wisconsin.

John Kloppenburg spoke late last week in Aberdeen at the annual conference of the Northern Plains Sustainable Agriculture Society. The organization is made up mainly of farmers from area states.

There might never be a better time than now to leave behind inefficient farming and delivery methods, Kloppenburg told a crowd of about 250. He acknowledged that advocates of sustainable agriculture have not worked out the kinks in their own methods, either.

He and others at the conference said attitudes about more environmentally friendly forms of agriculture are changing. They pointed out several such changes:

— A few years ago, "hippie dippy" was the term a mainstream farm magazine used to describe alternative methods such as organic farming. Now such magazines run serious articles about those practices.

— Theresa Podoll of Fullerton, N.D., executive director of Northern Plains, has been appointed to the North Dakota Commission on the Future of Agriculture.

— The Associated Press

Farmers seeking options for high energy prices

WICHITA — The cost of running machinery almost doubled for Kansas farmers last year as energy costs soared.

That has people looking into all sorts of alternatives, said Troy

Dumler, agricultural economist for southwest Kansas for K-State.

"People are looking into fueling their irrigation pumps with diesel fuel or electricity, rather than with natural gas," he said. "But changing the pump motors costs a lot of money, and you're back to figuring out how to meet the capital expense."

Dwight Koops, western region vice president for Crop Quest Agronomic Services, said it costs farmers about $5 per inch to pump irrigation water, double the cost of only a year or two ago. Irrigation costs, which used to be about 15 percent of the operating expense to grow corn, now account for more than 35 percent of the cost.

That means farmers in western Kansas might be growing a lot less corn and a lot more grain sorghum, wheat and sunflowers in 2001, said Larry Kepley, a spokesman for the Great Plains Irrigators group.

Farmers who are looking to replace their outdated flood irrigation systems might take a harder look at subsurface drip systems rather than buying the center-pivot systems that now dominate irrigation in western Kansas.

Eddie Estes, chief executive of the Western Kansas Manufacturers Association, said he has seen a steady increase in interest in drip systems.

"Technology has been changing steadily over the last several years," Estes said. "We are seeing a great deal of concern about what's in store for natural gas prices."

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the calendar, stop by K-State 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bullecin@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ Sigma Lambda Gamma National Sorority Inc. will have its first informational meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Union 205.

■ Pre-nursing club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Union 206.

■ Education Council will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Blumont 106.

■ Applications for Student Alumni Board are now available at the Alumni Association office or in the Office of Student Activities and Services. An informational reception for anyone interested in the group will be at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in Union 212. Applications are due 3 p.m. Friday at the alumni office.

■ KSU Akido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.

■ Phi Eta Sigma will meet at 9 tonight in the Union Big 12 Room.

■ Beta Alpha Psi will meet at 7 tonight in the Union Big 12 Room. The topic will be the Federal Reserve Bank.

■ Blood Drive Planning Committee will meet at 6 tonight in Union 202. Planning for the spring blood drive will begin.

■ The Math Club will sponsor a book and College Algebra study card sale from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and Tuesday in Cardwell Hall.

■ Christian Science Organization will meet at 5:30 p.m. today in Danforth Chapel.

■ The deadline for changing K-State Computing ID passwords is Tuesday. Passwords not changed will be reset Wednesday. For details, see www.ksu.edu/password.

■ Mortar Board National Senior Honor Society will award two $400 scholarships for juniors who demonstrate outstanding scholarship, leadership and service. Applications will be available in the Office of Student Activities and Services through Tuesday. They will be due by 5 p.m. Tuesday in the same office.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County

Thursday, Feb. 1

■ At 8:20 a.m., Bronson K. Jones, Fort Riley, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $3,000.

■ At 9:29 a.m., Clyde J. Hemmer, Ogden, was arrested for worthless checks. Bond was set at $3,000.

■ At 10:38 a.m., Austin W. Ploot, 1114 S. Manhattan Ave., was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,000.

■ At 7:05 p.m., Daniel E. Brockendige, Kansas City, Mo., was arrested for failure to appear.

Friday, Feb. 2

■ At 12:45 a.m., Michael J. Allen, 201 11th St., Ogden, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

■ At 2:20 a.m., Tad M. Tipton, 2103 Spruce Place, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

■ At 2:24 a.m., Dawn D. Wiggins, 1512 Houston St., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,000.

■ At 5:42 a.m., Steven E.E. Bush was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

■ At 11:05 a.m., Laura S. Kerns, Junction City, was arrested for worthless checks. Bond was set at $300.

■ At 11:30 a.m., Anthony P. Bennett, 1003 Gardenway, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.

■ At 1:53 p.m., Jerol G. Jones, Salina, Kan., was arrested for burglary. Bond was set at $2,500.

■ At 2:03 p.m., Gilbert J. Rodriguez, Garden City, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.

■ At 3:51 p.m., Randy G. Gerner, 1818 Rockhill Road, was arrested for worthless checks and probation violation.

■ At 8:37 p.m., Melana D. Braekma, Clay Center, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.

■ At 9:22 p.m., Terry D. Pierce, 1851 Hunting Ave., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $92.

■ At 9:40 p.m., Christopher Dyer, 3007 Pawnee Circle, was arrested for disorderly conduct.

Saturday, Feb. 3

■ At 1:05 a.m., Alexander N. Doll, Rueland Park, Kan., was arrested for possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. Bond was set at $500.

■ At 1:29 a.m., Glendon J. Denton, 6 Cory Place, was arrested for battery, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

■ At 2:20 a.m., Roy T. John, 412 Sherry Place, was arrested for DUI and driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,000.

■ At 4:10 a.m., Jeremy D. Schoen, 1904 Columbine Court, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

■ At 9:44 a.m., Nicole R. Bowen, West 137, was arrested for failure to appear.

■ At 5:54 p.m., Randy G. Gerner, 1818 Rockhill Road, was arrested for criminal trespassing. Bond was set at $500.

■ At 9:07 p.m., Stacy L. Jackson, 830 Yuma St., was arrested for failure to appear, disorderly conduct, battery and driving without a valid drivers license. Bond was set at $1,500, $500, $1,000 and $570.

■ At 11:57 p.m., David G. Kendall, 6030 Tuttle Creek Blvd., was arrested for driving on a suspended driver's license.

Sunday, Feb. 4

■ At 1:04 a.m., Stephen C. Albanese, Fort Riley, was arrested for obstruction of the legal process and disorderly conduct.

■ At 2:19 a.m., Adam R. Brenner, 3201 Willow Pond Dr., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

■ At 2:30 a.m., Seth M. Doris, 350 N. 16th St., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 2:31 a.m., Adam T. Kepley, 2540 Candice Crest Circle, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

■ At 4:55 a.m., Janelle D. Myers, 1835 Todd Road, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made

Visit the eCollegian. www.kstatecollegian.com

The ABC's of Leadership: Leadership Training Series

"Helping you improve your organization"

Sponsored by the Office of Student Activities and Services

How To Be a Better President

Tuesday, February 6, 7:00 p.m.

K-State Student Union
Stateroom #1

Providing useful suggestions and tips for increasing your skills as a student organization president.

OPEN TO ALL K-STATE STUDENTS!

Questions ? Call 532-6541

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.

DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.

Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)

DMS Bail Bonds

"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

10% OFF
ON ANY PURCHASE
REPAIR SERVICE

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
216 South Fourth St.
VFW Plaza • 776-1193
Repair Work On Shoes
Boots • Luggage • Backpacks
Purses • Leather Coats
Ball Gloves
Leather Craft Supplies
We Dye Satin Shoes
Exp. 2/28/01

PIZZA
SHUTTLE
DELIVERS

776-5577
1800 Claflin Road

Sun Kissed
Tanning

UNLIMITED
TANNING

$19.95

A MONTH
SEE STORE FOR DETAILS

1122 Laramie St.
537-2141

THE 2ND ANNUAL HUCK BOYD LECTURE IN COMMUNITY MEDIA

Paul Simon

10:30 a.m.

Friday, Feb 9, 2001

Forum Hall - K-State Union
Kansas State University

Sponsored by the Huck Boyd National Center for Community Media and the University Distinguished Lecturers Committee

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Kansas Highway Patrol Trooper Craig Davis does daily patrol along Interstate 70. He said he enjoys running interdiction, which involves more than writing speeding tickets. Davis has been involved with many drug busts along I-70 that resulted from his interdictive way of running calls.

MANPOWER

■ continued from page 1

Interdiction Coordinator, said the best way to defend the state's largest trafficway is to have more officers on the roads.

The overworked agency seized 17,047 pounds of narcotics and made between 125 and 190 drug-related arrests in 2000.

"Just having more highway patrolmen out there is a deterrent," he said. "If we had more out there, the dealers will go elsewhere. They know where we are on the highways. When we were at our peak in 1997, they were being forced to go other places. They don't want to go where we are."

Engholm said the recent need of officers is not common for the highway patrol. In fact, this slump has prompted the agency to hire a recruiting coordinator for the first time.

He said that in the 1970s, the Kansas Highway Patrol received 1,000 applicants for 20 positions. Now it is getting 200 or 300 applicants for 40 or 50 positions.

"We're competing the job market like everyone else, and not everyone can be a highway patrolman," Engholm said. "It takes a certain type of person to be able to do the job."

Highway patrol is the most difficult law enforcement agency to join in Kansas. Just from the initial application process, it might take up to 1 1/2 years before one actually reaches the field on his or her own, while local agencies might only have six to eight weeks of academy training.

Once an application is completed, there is a written examination, followed by a polygraph test. If the individual makes it that far, there then will be a thorough background investigation into the person's life. An interview with staff of the highway patrol follows.

Then, when those three more examinations have been completed, it's off to the academy, where one will spend the next six months in a military-like boot camp.

Following the completion of the academy, there are 70 days of field training with a seasoned officer before they are allowed on the road on their own.

"It's physically demanding to get it. It's a thing that is based on the want of it," he said. "You really have to want it. We're not going to change the requirements either, because that's how we feel we stay at the top of our profession."

"That's what is also making it hard to fill the positions, because of what one has to go through to become an officer. Not everyone makes it."

The recruitment class at the Kansas Highway Patrol Training Facility in Salina has 23 individuals remaining. They started with 29 on Jan. 8.

"Those individuals that aren't with us anymore left on their own free will," Engholm said. "We find that maybe they weren't prepared were meant for distributors in the area.

INTERSTATE

■ continued from page 1

"Clearly, some are just traveling through, but sure, at times there are some that are meant for a particular area, like Manhattan, Lawrence or Topeka," he said.

The Kansas Highway Patrol is attempting to intercept drug traffickers heading for Kansas communities.

The agency seized 16,644 pounds of marijuana, 366 pounds of cocaine and 47 pounds of methamphetamine last year. It made between 125 and 190 arrests related to drug offenses.

Ninety-eight percent of those came from routine traffic stops. Of those seizures, the majority were on I-70, Kansas' most-traveled highway system.

Lt. Kirk Simone, Kansas Highway Patrol Interdiction coordinator, said most of the drugs confiscated from I-70 are from what they call carrier mules, typically poor and desperate individuals who will do anything for a quick buck. Sometimes they might not even know what exactly it is they are transporting, which is an easy way to avoid prosecution if a run-in with the law occurs.

"About 60 percent of the drugs we get are pulled off of the carrier mules," he said.

"They are usually guys they find in a bar, friends of friends, or even a family member, sometimes even the same nationality or race."

Dealers who choose to travel on I-70 aren't always casual dealers.

Instead, the large cartels from Colombia and Mexico might control a particular narcotic and ship the drug on the heavily traveled highway.

Simone said many of the drugs that reach the interstate originate from the southwest corridor of the United States and come from South and Central American smugglers.

Once the drugs reach the United States, many of the dealers move them to larger cities to act as hubs, where users and other dealers can go to purchase the goods.

In the Midwest, Kansas City, Denver and St. Louis are the main hubs for narcotics, Simone said.

In Kansas, Wichita and areas in southwest Kansas are the central locations for drug smuggling.

"A lot of dealers go there to buy their drugs and then go back, thus traveling on I-70 and across the state of Kansas," he said.

Smith said law enforcement agencies can't make drug interdiction stops intended for that purpose alone anymore without probable cause due to new legislation established in 1999 prohibiting traffic stops strictly for searches and seizures.

"Our main focus is to make traffic stops," Simone said.

"Our officers are, however, trained and taught to look beyond the routine traffic stop. The suspects usually give off strong indicators, which can be anything from their speech, to nervousness, and we know everyone that gets pulled over will be nervous to a point, but the indicators we look for are hard to hide and not common."

Mike Dixon, Drug Enforcement Agency special agent supervisor said even when a particular organization that works out of Kansas City or St. Louis starts feeling pressure from the authorities, they don't quit selling.

They just move to a new location or even to other communities nearby.

"It's not uncommon for a consumer to drive 30 miles or more to pick up an order," he said.

"So the areas around the hub and I-70 are prime locations for drug suppliers and consumers too, like a Manhattan or Lawrence or Topeka."

Dixon said the drug problem could continue to get worse because everything is based on supply and demand of the product. In the meantime, both the supply and the demand continue to grow.

"The sky is the limit for the industry," he said.

MICHAEL YOUNG/Collegian

enough and didn't understand what they were getting into and decided that it wasn't for them."

Despite the shortage of officers, Engholm said the agency still hasn't lowered its entrance standards. To be eligible for the highway patrol in Kansas, one must be 21 years of age, have a valid Kansas driver's license and have either a high school diploma or GED.

Engholm said most of the individuals who are being offered employment are those with previous law enforcement experience, military experience and some college experience.

Washburn University Career Fair

Thursday, February 8, 2001
10:00 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Washburn University's Lee Arena
19th & Washburn Avenue, Topeka, KS

Job Seekers will have the opportunity to discuss employment opportunities with employer representatives. Dress professionally and bring several resumes.

<http://www.washburn.edu/services/career/careerfair.html/>

Corporate Sponsor:

Oh Thank Heaven

Center for Learning and Student Success

Delivers
the latest!

OPEN LATE!

OPEN LATE!

702 N. 11th Street
770-3333
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Master Card VISA AMERICAN EXPRESS

Checks add 50¢

770-3333

Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

MONDAY MANIA

"Carry Out Only"
LARGE CHEESE
PIZZA

$3.99

Additional Toppings $1.00 per topping

CARRY-OUT SPECIALS

16" 1-Topping $6.99
14" 1-Topping $5.99

BONUS BUYS MENU
with any food purchase

• 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99
• Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99
• 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99
• Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99

STIX IT TO ME TUES.

Buy One
Pokey Stix at Regular Price get
Equal or Lesser
Value for Free

"Tuesday Only"

(Carry Out or Delivery)

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

Get
Carded

Use your Wildcat card
and support the K-State
Alumni Association.

Official Visa®
Wildcat Card.

Apply today.

www.intrustbank.com

630 Humboldt/Manhattan
(785) 565-5400
1-800-222-7458

YES YOU CAN. INTRUST.

Member FDIC

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 2001

e ONLINE
See Lorena Barboza's column online in English and Spanish at www.kstatecollegian.com.

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

Collegian 4-day series to focus on illegal drugs

Drug trafficking and the use of illegal narcotics has quietly emerged as a discussion piece, front-page news and as part of daily life in Manhattan, as well as the rest of Kansas.

For the next four days we will attempt to bring these important issues to the foreground to both inform and explain the state of our community and those that surround it.

Today, we will explore interstate drug trafficking on one of the nation's busiest interstate highways, Interstate 70. Drug smuggling on I-70 and other interstates surrounding Manhattan have had a profound effect on K-State and other communities. Nevertheless, the Kansas Highway Patrol is struggling with manpower and pay issues.

Throughout the next four days you will be able to read about how Wamego, Kan., is coping with the discovery of the world's largest LSD lab, and you will be able to see a list of drugs seized on the highway.

Methamphetamine has become the drug of choice in Kansas, disturbing authorities because it is easily manufactured and potentially dangerous.

It is time, past time even, that we stopped looking the other way when it comes to drugs in Kansas.

OUR VIEW

is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari
Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
News Editor

Erin Schneewis
Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll
Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crable
Copy Chief

Sara Martin
Design Editor

Jamie Barrett
Online News Editor

Travis Weigel
Columnist

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

This is for the refs at the intramural basketball games: swallow the whistle. Let us play once in a while.

My split personalities are ashamed of me.

In the real world, businesses don't have tenure.

I just wanted everyone to know that I am the biggest stud on campus. Thank you.

I agree, Lannie Zweimiller, that Lafene is concerned with the health of students. It's just too bad they can't do anything about it.

This is to all the renters that are concerned about the rates their rents will go up because of this new inspection plan. It's going to be $5 extra a year to ensure that you have a place that doesn't have a floor or ceiling that collapses. I think you guys can afford it. I wouldn't worry about it. In fact, I believe you would want this.

Now that Joe Leonard is out for the rest of the season, he can start mentally preparing for the NBA.

Yeah, 11th Street, north of Bluemont — could there be anymore potholes on that thing?

I was just wondering if football season has started since the stadium lights are on. Just asking.

I hope everyone doesn't blame President George W. Bush for the upcoming energy crisis because this is all Clinton's doing.

If Travis Lenkner runs for student body president, I am transferring to KU.

Question for Tuesday: Should we end the War Against Drugs? Why or why not?

May I see YOUR ID, PLEASE?

Clerks' request just business, not for their pleasure

Warning: The following merely is a re-enactment of a previously performed conversation. I repeat, the following conversation is not live.

"Uh, yeah ... [nervous, shifty eyes, scratchy voice, barely audible whisper] ... can I have a, uh, pack of, uh, Marlboro Lights?"

"Sure ... [twinkle in eyes, pleasant voice] ... can I see your ID?"

"What? My ID? ... [eyes open wide in surprise, terror mounting in voice] ... I don't have my ID on me."

"Sorry ... [eyes sympathetic, voice still pleasantly calm] ... I can't sell you cigarettes without your ID."

"What? Ughhh ... [grunt, disgusted eye roll] ... Fine I'll 'expletive' go some other 'expletive' place."

"Uh, OK, sorry ... [genuine remorse] ... Thanks anyway."

"Expletive"

Yup. Welcome to the wonderful world of tobacco sales. I work in the Cats' Den at the K-State Student Union, and for those of you non-smokers out there, I'll clue you in. We are the only establishment on campus that is licensed to sell tobacco products.

This means that day in and day out, customers enter our store in order to purchase cigarettes and chewing tobacco, and as consequence, day in and day out, I am forced to ask to see identification.

Normally, this isn't a problem; most people are generally very cooperative. However, not always. So, for all those people out there who feel it necessary to throw a hissy fit when asked to show your ID, let me shed some light on the plight that I, and other tobacco retailers, face.

First off, you might be wondering why we even ask to see your ID in the first place. And, in order to dispel any false rumors that might be circulating around elite smoking circles, I will begin by telling you what those reasons are not.

Incorrect reason No. 1: No, you don't look like you are 17. Just because I ask to see your ID, does not mean that I really and honestly believe that you are only 17. Matter of fact, I am almost 99 percent certain that you are at least 19 or 20. However, this is irrelevant when performing tobacco sales.

Incorrect reason No. 2: No, I am not trying to save your health. I know that some "experts" might have "proven" that smoking attributes to many health "problems," such as lung cancer, emphysema and death, but whatever, right? I am not your doctor. It is not my call.

Incorrect reason No. 3: No, I don't want you to never come into the store again. While I will admit that sometimes waiting on customer after customer is a pain, it is still the reason I get paid. And if customers stop coming into the store, the store stops producing revenue, which basically means I will never, ever, ever, ever get a raise (as if I was actually expecting one) and will continue to work at minimum wage for the rest of my over priced college days.

Incorrect reason No. 4: No, I am not a "witch," a "hater of humanity" or an "anal-retentive hooker" (Don't think that I can't hear what you mutter as you walk away). Although this point is somewhat debatable, my overall personality and general friendliness (or lack thereof), plays absolutely no role in my request to see your stupid ID. Got that?

Now, here are the correct reasons why I do ask to see your ID.

Real reason No. 1: It's the law.

Real reason No. 2: It's my job.

Real reason No. 3: It's the law.

Simple enough? You see, the law states that I am required to ask to see the ID of anyone who is under the age of 25. Twenty-five. Did you know that? Furthermore, those police and Kansas Bureau of Investigation officials are very sneaky. They have, and will, send teenagers (who appear to be over the age of 18) into all stores in order to catch someone in the act of selling to minors.

And if I do get caught selling to minors, you might be asking, then what happens? Well ... it's a felony. I will get a mandatory $250 fine, the business will be charged $500, and I will be fired. Also, I will have to go to court, pay the legal fees, accept the infraction as a big, messy blob in the middle of my otherwise squeaky-clean legal record and the business faces the very real possibility of losing its tobacco license.

And there you have it, plain and simple, the justification behind me asking to see your ID. Nothing personal, just legal matters. So please, next time you are carded, simply show your ID, pay for your cigarettes and graciously walk away. Don't even try to put up a fight. It won't do you any good anyway. I mean, after all, I am just some anal-retentive hooker. Uh, I mean, it's the law.

Keira is a sophomore in English. You can e-mail her at KeiraNeelea@hotmail.com.

VINCE JACOBSON/Collegian

Disturbing play challenges cast, audience

I'm playing a child molester this week. When I auditioned for "How I Learned to Drive," which K-State Theatre is presenting beginning Thursday night, I was convinced that the play was so good that I should not be concerned with the subject matter or what I might be required to do should I be cast in it. Even after I got the role of Peck, the sweet but dangerous pedophile, I was certain I could get the job done with minimal emotional baggage.

Right. And next fall K-State students will get better, cheaper stadium seating.

I'm no stranger to playing bad guys.

Since my freshman year I've been a tyrannical professor, a ruthless movie producer and a singing Nazi, among others. Through operant conditioning, I've learned to play villains in my sleep.

And maybe this play would be easier if it were about a villain and a hero, a savage and a victim. If that were the case, the "Drive" team would have had a clear plan of attack. However, the sobering reality is that the play presents the issues of incest and pedophilia in the most irritating way — honestly. It is the simplest of stories about the most complex of domestic problems.

Set in Maryland in the 1960s, it puts a working-class family under the microscope as it ignores, or lives obliviously to, the relationship between Uncle Peck and his niece Li'l Bit. As Li'l Bit narrates the story and reflects on the action, she plays ages 11 and 35 and everywhere in between (The tough, lovely actress who plays this character has her work cut out for her and is reason enough to see the play). And, of course, what lies beneath the surface is the biggest surprise. Uncle Peck is a hell of a good man — with problems.

I would like to report that we've been having the kind of wicked fun the makers of "American Beauty" must have had as they were creating their nasty/exhilarating expose of the American family. Blowing the top off an unspeakable secret seems like it should be a good time.

Sure. And Parking Services soon will be having Amnesty Week and giving out lollipops.

We've been rehearsing since the first week of January, and the easier it gets, the more impossible it becomes. The play is at once quiet and explosive, simultaneously devastating and laugh-out-loud funny. And after every high-impact rehearsal I crack a much-needed beer and think, "Hm ... I wonder what the people majoring in anthropology did tonight ..." (Note: There's nothing easy or funny about anthropology. It was just an example).

"How I Learned to Drive" is a terrific play, but it's also an exhausting one. Special care must be taken not to make Uncle Peck into lecherous bogeyman, but also to make sure Li'l Bit, who represents more women (and men) than I possibly can imagine, gets to tell her story honestly and without interruption. Not to mention that the rest of the family can't be caricatures, but still have to appear universal.

In no uncertain terms, we've been working our butts off. With excellent faculty direction and design, not to mention a great jazz combo of a cast, the product should be worth your time. Now, it's just a matter of getting audiences into the theater. Telling a story requires at least two participants: one to tell it and one to hear.

It's worth noting that the material is challenging, which is academic for "naughty." Certainly it is not for young audiences (although when I see "Contains mature subject matter" or "For adults only" I assume it's something I would tell my parents not to see). I'm sure, however, audiences will remain tactful, passive and quiet when things hit the fan.

Of course, and be sure to check out Carmike Cinemas' new goodwill policy.

So this week I'm holding my breath. In high school I memorized my lines, spoke loudly enough to be heard in the back row and tried not to bump into the furniture. If our job still were that simple, perhaps the issues at hand would be, too.

I'm playing a child molester this week, and I don't mind telling you I'm scared as hell.

Christopher is a senior in theater. You can e-mail him at crp3280@ksu.edu.

Memorabilia shop to celebrate history

By REBEKKA MARTIN
Kansas State Collegian

Aggieville has seen a lot of bars come and go over the years, and Rusty Wilson, owner of Rusty's Last Chance Restaurant & Saloon, is considering celebrating Aggieville's history with a memorabilia shop.

"We had an idea of selling old bar T-shirts," Wilson said.

Steve Ballard, owner of Ballard's Sporting Goods, which does shirt printing, has talked briefly with Wilson about the idea. He said he thinks there is a market for memorabilia relating to Aggieville traditions.

"Aggieville is kind of known throughout the Midwest as an entertainment area," Ballard said.

Ballard said Aggieville has not had a souvenir shop before, although a series of coffee cups and beer mugs was sold by businesses during the district's centennial celebration.

He said the shop could sell shirts with logos from Chance, as well as old bars, such as Kite's, Dark Horse and Brothers.

"We have all the old artwork from T-shirts and stuff," Ballard said.

Wilson owns the logo from Chance and Kite's.

Ballard said the legality of selling items with other old bars' logos would have to be investigated.

Wilson said the memorabilia shop also could have beer-related collectables, such as neon lights and golf bags.

"People come into the bar a lot and ask, 'How can I get a Bud Light neon or a Coors Light neon?'" he said.

Wilson said Budweiser and Coors like the idea of the store because people contact their companies about getting beer collectables, too.

The store would provide an outlet for those items.

He said if he does decide to create the shop, it would be open by summer. He said the shop would be in the old Mighty Fine Donuts building at 1207 Moro St., adjacent to Chance.

Wilson said he wants an atmosphere similar to the Hard Rock Cafe with the souvenir shop connected to the bar so patrons could take their drinks into the store while they look around.

Wilson and Ballard said the merchandise would be marketed to students and alumni.

"I think there are a lot of people, alumni, who remember the bars in the '70s and '80s," Wilson said.

Travis Horchem, sophomore in mechanical engineering, said even though he doesn't get to spend a lot of time in Aggieville, he thinks a store that had a variety of merchandise from past and present bars would be a good addition to the district.

Bob Sweet, who attended K-State at various times from 1965 to 1997, said he thinks an Aggieville memorabilia shop would appeal to alumni who have moved away from K-State, especially when they return for football games.

"It would be interesting," he said.

'JAWS'

Natatorium site of dive-in movie

By OLENA NIKOLAYENKO
Kansas State Collegian

Fear of the water didn't keep moviegoers away from enjoying the classic thriller "Jaws" Sunday night.

In fact, the water was an added attraction for the K-State students who attended the dive-in movie at the Natatorium.

The audience followed the life-threatening adventures of Chief Martin Brody and Quint on the screen. In the meantime, the darkly lit swimming pool continued its operation, and the viewers were encouraged to take a plunge.

For many K-State students, this was an extraordinary event.

"It would be the first time for me to watch a movie in the swimming pool," Calisa Marlar, graduate in Spanish, said. "I have so much work to do, but a friend of mine kept on saying, 'It'll be fun!'"

The dive-in movie is a novelty at K-State.

"We have been thinking of something neat to do and came up with this idea," said

Jenny Hawkins, junior in accounting and member of Union Program Council's Feature Film Committee.

Hawkins brought her friends from out of town to the show.

"Jenny talked me into going to see it," said Marti Prideaux, freshman in elementary education at Fort Hays State University. "We took a three-hour drive to get here."

"It is something unusual," said Arman Ysuf, freshman in computer science at FHSU.

Indeed, the thriller captured the attention of the swimmers.

"I can probably get scared sitting in the pool and watching it," Alycia Thompson, junior in art therapy, said before the show started.

Some students found the idea of watching the movie in the pool quite entertaining but were not affected by the fright factor.

"I am originally from New York state," Brian Muttee, senior in golf course management, said. "Shark-fishing and surfing is no problem for me."

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

Keith Higgins, freshman in architectural engineering, and his girlfriend, Tarin Meredith, freshman in business administration, watch "Jaws" at the dive-in sponsored by the Union Program Council Feature Films Committee on Sunday night at the Natatorium.

Students fight flu virus; Lafene gives preventative advice

By ANGIE JOHNSON
Kansas State Collegian

After fighting the flu for almost four days, Paul Cowan, junior in kinesiology, passed it on to his roommate.

Cowan's fever, a temperature of 102 degrees, stayed constant for three days until he battled his illness with medications and rest. Within two days, his roommate, Matt Zender, junior in marketing and international business, was sick.

"Even though I tried my hardest to stay clear of Paul and keep well, I still got sick," Zender said.

Cowan and Zender are not the only K-State students fighting illness. An abundant number of students have visited Lafene Health Center hoping to receive a prescription that will cure their sickness.

Earl Reppert, medical director and physician at Lafene, said the busiest time of the year for illness falls between November and February. Lafene has been extremely busy in the past two weeks, he said.

Influenza, also known as the flu, is very contagious and usually goes through campus in a small epidemic, Reppert said.

"Students get sick over a time span of three to four weeks, and that seems to be normal for most winters," he said.

The flu, along with a plain cold, can be noticed by several different symptoms. Although a cold cannot be cured by medication, there is an anti-viral pill to help kill the flu bug.

"Students can be symptomatic of the flu if they have a cough, fever, chills, headache, body aches or a sore throat," Reppert said.

One way to prevent the common illness of the flu is to receive a flu shot, which leaves only a 70 to 90 percent chance of still obtaining the flu.

Many students visited Lafene for a flu shot because they noticed their peers getting sick, said Kristin Corbin, Lafene student employee in medical records. With intentions of preventing themselves from getting ill, they vaccinated as soon as possible.

"I recommend that every student receives a flu shot, especially those living in group housing," Corbin said.

The infectious disease of the flu is present and just as contagious all over the world. There are several types of the flu, but Reppert said the flu virus that spreads is different each year.

As students overcome the many illnesses lingering all over campus, Lafene provides professional medical help. Steering clear of others who are ill, keeping your hands and body clean and constantly disinfecting are some of the ways students can prevent getting sick.

"I wish I would have gotten a flu shot in the first place," Cowan said. "After this year's sickness episode, I will know better and definitely receive one next year."

Feb. 6

K-State Computing ID is the password deadline!

- Use the webpage at www.ksu.edu/password
- Visit the IT Help Desk, 313 Hale Library, 532-7722, consult@ksu.edu

Bring it

Where it matters most.

As one of the world's leading diversified technology companies, we're breaking new ground in everything from defense and commercial electronics, and business aviation and special mission aircraft. As a Raytheon employee, you'll contribute to the development of exciting, revolutionary technology designed to make life better, easier, and safer throughout the world. Such as our STARS air traffic control system. And our award-winning NightSight™ technology.

But it all starts with you. Your creativity. Your knowledge and innovation. And enthusiasm about the future. In return, we offer exceptional training and professional development opportunities. A supportive, down-to-earth work environment. And incredible benefits including flexible schedules designed to respect your quality of life.

So you can still show off all those great qualities of yours outside of work, too.

We'll be visiting your campus soon — contact your career placement office to schedule an interview. If you are unable to meet with us, please send your resume to: E-mail: resume@rayjobs.com (ASCII text only; no attachments) Raytheon Company, Attn: National Staffing Data Center, P.O. Box 660246, MS-201, Dallas, TX 75266, U.S. Citizenship may be required. We are an equal opportunity employer.

Opportunities are available for exceptional students with the following majors.

- | | | |
|--------------------------|----------------------------|----------------------------------|
| • Computer Science | • Physics | • Industrial and Labor Relations |
| • Computer Engineering | • Chemical Engineering | • Marketing/Communications |
| • Electrical Engineering | • Aeronautical Engineering | • Management |
| • Mechanical Engineering | • Finance/Accounting | |
| • Math | • Human Resources | |

Check out our Website at www.rayjobs.com/campus for further information including a calendar of recruiting events. At Raytheon, we strive to be the employer of choice for a diverse workforce by attracting, retaining, and recognizing the most talented, resourceful and creative people.

Bringing technology to the edge

Raytheon

CATS FACE CHARACTER TEST

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Shalondra Booker passes the ball to a teammate after scrambling to steal the ball from Chantoya Hawkins during first-half action of Saturday's game against Oklahoma State.

69-55 loss to Oklahoma State leaves K-State with 1-8 conference record

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

The K-State women's basketball team badly needed a win against Oklahoma State on Saturday after starting conference play with a 1-7 record.

The Cowgirls (12-8, 4-5) didn't cooperate, though, and beat the Cats 69-55.

In the wake of their fourth-straight loss, the Cats (11-8, 1-8) now are faced with a character test.

"I think it would be really easy to pack it in right now. When things get tough, you really find out what kind of team you are, and character really shows," guard Kim Woodlee said. "I think the most important thing is to stay positive and continue to work hard, and we can't at any point in time let up on our work ethic."

"The intensity has to go up, the effort has to go up and the enthusiasm has to stay there and go up, and that's what we have to do to get out of this."

Against Oklahoma State, the Cats never were in the game. The Cowgirls opened the contest with a 20-9 run and would lead at halftime 39-22. K-State shot just 29 percent from the field while OSU blazed away with 60 percent shooting.

"Oklahoma State's ability to shoot lights out, particularly from the three-point line, was really a crushing blow," head coach Deb Patterson said. "We were slow getting out and extending out on the shooters on ball side and on skips, and that really put us in a hole. Defensively, the fact that they were extremely hot and we were giving them open looks early in the game really sort of dictated the course of the ball game."

While Oklahoma State had eight players score in the first half, half of K-State's 22 points came from freshman forward Nicole Ohlde. She would end the game with 18 points.

"I think Nicole worked very hard tonight all night long to establish herself as some sort of a presence," Patterson said. "I liked the minutes that she gave us. She really played hard and, for a freshman, did a nice job, by and large, handling the double teams."

"She plays hard for us all the time, and that's about the extent of what I can ask for her because she's having to analyze every single catch."

Despite Ohlde's performance, though, K-State still faced a 17-point deficit entering halftime, and as a result, the Cowgirls could have easily put the game away. OSU head coach Dick Halterman said.

"I told our team in the locker room that if we'd play the first five minutes, it could be over," he said. "If we could make that 17 into a 25, I thought it would be over."

K-State might have been done, but it wasn't out, at

GAME STATS

K-STATE 55
11-8 overall, 1-8 in Big 12

OKLAHOMA STATE 69
12-8 overall, 4-5 in Big 12

K-STATE	FG	3PT	FT	TP	MIN
Ohlde, Nicole	8-18	0-0	2-5	18	37
Woodlee, Kim	4-13	4-11	2-2	14	36
Rethman, Kristin	4-11	4-8	0-0	12	31
Hutton, Danielle	3-6	0-0	1-3	7	20
Armstrong, Andrea	1-3	0-0	0-0	2	14
Ferguson, Denisha	1-2	0-0	0-0	2	5
Booker, Shalondra	0-3	0-2	0-0	0	29
Finneran, Morgan	0-4	0-1	0-0	0	14
Sailors, April	0-3	0-2	0-0	0	10
Webb, Marshela	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	2
Dutmer, Amy	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	2

TEAM 21-63 8-24 5-10
.333 .333 .500

OKLAHOMA STATE	FG	3PT	FT	TP	MIN
Faulk, Kara	6-12	0-3	6-6	18	32
Spinner, Jessica	5-8	3-6	0-0	13	28
Hutchens, Shelby	4-7	1-1	1-2	10	34
Bates, Jessica	4-4	0-0	2-2	10	15
Skibbe, Trisha	2-5	0-1	2-2	6	27
Stuber, Mandy	2-5	2-4	0-0	6	17
Hawkins, Shantoya	1-8	1-5	0-3	3	26
Roberts, Machel	1-3	0-1	0-0	2	14
Lawrence, Nikki	0-0	0-0	1-4	1	6
Osborn, Terrisha	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	1

TEAM 25-52 7-21 12-19
.460 .421 .714

Halftime — Oklahoma State 39, K-State 22. Rebounds — K-State 36 (Rethman 10), Oklahoma State 37 (Faulk 13). Assists — K-State 11 (Booker 6), Oklahoma State 18 (Hutchens 5). Turnovers — K-State 19, Oklahoma State 14. Total fouls — K-State 20, Oklahoma State 12. Fouled out — K-State, Ferguson. Attendance — 5,055.

CHELSEA SCHMIDT/Collegian

least not yet. The Cats started the second half with an 11-2 run, cutting the Cowgirls' lead to eight.

That would be the closest K-State would come to gaining the lead, however, as OSU guard Jessica Spinner hit a three-pointer with 14:25 remaining to start an 11-point run.

"When they cut it to eight, it would have been very

See CHARACTER on PAGE 7

Cats lose to Cyclones 84-78

By DEREK BOSS
Kansas State Collegian

AMES, Iowa — K-State's scoring defense might be atop the Big 12 Conference in league games, but Iowa State found one spot on the Hilton Coliseum floor where the Cats couldn't guard them — the free-throw line.

The Cyclones seemingly lived from the charity stripe Saturday. Iowa State connected on 30 of 42 attempts from 15 feet, including eight in the final 1:06, to lift Iowa State (19-3, 7-2 Big 12) over the Wildcats (8-11, 2-6), 84-78.

But head coach Jim Wooldridge said he isn't oblivious to what happens when an opponent gets so many free-throw opportunities. He's been coaching basketball for 23 years. "Well, you're probably not going to win it — that's the bottom line," he said after the game. "The free-throw line is an ally, and for us it was an enemy today."

"We couldn't keep them off the free-throw line, and when you get on the road and you play the caliber of team that Iowa State is, you cannot put them on the free-throw line that many times."

Easily said, but a team like Iowa State finds a way to get to the line. In fact, its offense promotes it, Wooldridge said.

"You have to give the guys for Iowa State credit. They are very good with that ball. They may be the best in our league at breaking a defense down," he said. "That's why they run what they run out there."

"They spread you out and they just say, 'OK, now let's see if you can guard the ball.'"

Most of the time, K-State couldn't, and the referee calls didn't seem to go the Cats' way, either.

With just over a minute to play and the purple trailing 76-70, forward Matt Siebrandt stepped in to take a charge on Cyclone guard Kantril Horton's drive to the basket, but the referee indicated a blocking foul on the Cat sophomore.

The call sent Wooldridge jumping up and down in front of the K-State bench in obvious aggravation, but there was nothing he could do as Horton hit both free throws to extend the lead to eight.

Larry Reid then would drill a three-pointer on K-State's next

See BASKETBALL on PAGE 8

Junior's performance high point in ISU loss

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

AMES, Iowa — It must have been a long trip home for the Cats on Saturday night.

Following an 84-78 loss to No. 15 Iowa State, K-State had plenty of time to think about wasted opportunities after the team's plane had technical problems forcing players to make the five-hour trip back to Manhattan by automobile.

For junior point guard Larry Reid, though, that trip might have been a little longer.

Averaging just 10 points a game coming into this weekend's contest, Reid busted out for a game-high 30 points against the Cyclones, one short of his career mark. But Reid's scoring spree somehow wasn't enough, and the Cats dropped their sixth Big 12 game of the year.

Before facing Iowa State, K-State head coach Jim Wooldridge addressed his players with urgency, calling on his players to make a statement, and although the collective

See LOSS on PAGE 8

Track teams take 2nd at NU meet

By ERIKA SAUERWEIN
Kansas State Collegian

Despite both the men's and women's teams placing second behind Nebraska this weekend at the Cornhusker Quadrangular, the meet still was one of the best of the year for the K-State track teams.

"We didn't enter the meet with the idea that we were going to score the most points," head coach Cliff Rovelto said. "We had some big significant improvements over the weekend. In terms of quality performances, this was perhaps the best meet of the year. That is what is so misleading about the way points are given."

The women tallied 135 points behind Nebraska's 192. The men placed second with 150 points. Colorado's men's and women's teams took third, and Abilene Christian finished fourth.

The Wildcats also were able to experience competing on Nebraska's home track. The meet was the first competition at the Cornhusker's new indoor hydraulic-banked track. The track was part of a near $3-million renovation of the Bob Devaney Sports Center. It is one of seven hydraulic tracks in the world and one of three nationally.

"The track is banked," senior Justin Robinson said. "It gives off a sling-shot effect on you when you run. If you don't run right, you can be thrown off balance. It is tougher to run on. It was a must that we go to Nebraska to try the track out since the Big 12 championships will be there."

The Nebraska women tallied 190 points to defeat the Wildcats by 57

See TRACK on PAGE 8

K-State splits home opener against Doane

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

Opening day of baseball season traditionally means the onset of high temperatures and even higher expectations.

For K-State, though, one out of two was the best they could get on a frigid afternoon at Frank Myers Field.

Head coach Mike Clark got to see first-hand just what kind of talent a busy recruiting season produced as three Wildcat players made their first starts in the purple pinstripes Sunday against the Doane Tigers.

Shortstop Osmar Castillo, center-fielder Nick Sorensen and starting pitcher Garrett Patterson made their

K-State debuts memorable ones too, with an 11-3 win over the Tigers on a day that saw sub-freezing windchills make their presence felt.

"That's why we're in the third-base dugout," Clark said. "For 12 years I had that blowing in my face."

However, the cold weather seemed to inspire K-State in its first appearance of the new season, and the Cats came out hot despite the blustery weather.

Patterson, a freshman from McAlester, Okla., was the first of Clark's prized recruits to excite the crowd of 125 when he struck out two consecutive Tigers looking, ending the Doane half of the first inning.

"He was good. He struggled with consistency, but the stuff is there, and when he made the bad pitch he made the adjustment and got it a lot closer to the zone," Clark said of the southpaw. "It was a good start for him, a good three innings and a good win for his first time out. We're real encouraged."

The freshman was content following his first start as a Wildcat. Patterson earned the Cats' first win of the season after facing just one over the minimum in three innings of work, including five strikeouts and two walks.

"I didn't feel that it was a great outing, but it was a good outing," Patterson said. "I'd like to cut the walks down, but other than that I was pretty happy. I don't know if I'll get to start at

See BASEBALL on PAGE 7

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

K-State pitcher Tyson Helsel throws the ball Sunday afternoon against Doane at Frank Myers Field.

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Nikki Lawrence of Oklahoma State pulls a rebound away from Denisha Ferguson and Nicole Ohlde in OSU's 69-55 win Saturday night. The Cats now are 11-9 overall and 1-8 in Big 12 play.

CHARACTER

■ continued from page 6

serious if Spinner hadn't come down and hit the three and shoved it back to 11," Halterman said.

Following that shot, the game's outcome essentially was decided. While K-State had made the game close, the Cats' inconsistent play would doom them in the end, Woodlee said.

"We're so sporadic. We look very good for minutes, then we fall off, and then we come back and then fall," she said. "It's the consistency we're lacking at this point."

Buried in the disappointment surrounding the loss was one highlight for K-State. Woodlee scored her 1,000th career point on a free throw following a technical foul on Halterman. With a three-point shot later in the game, the Beersheba Springs, Tenn., native moved into 25th on K-State's all-time women's scoring list.

The honor, however, was overshadowed by the loss, Woodlee said.

"I think it would have meant a lot more if we were winning. I really can't say that I've enjoyed one second of it, based on our team's performance and our inconsistency as a whole," she said.

"Maybe later, it will be more important to me than it is now."

New league not display of great football, still worth watching

If you want to watch some high-quality, exciting football, don't turn on the NFL, which debuted Saturday night. You won't see a lot of good football.

But football isn't all the NFL is about. XFL (and WWF) promoter Vince McMahon is a marketing genius. He knows it is impossible to have a successful football league lacking the talent level and big names of the NFL without changing it up a bit. So he made some changes in the way the games are played and covered in hopes of competing with the big boys of the NFL.

I give the XFL a chance to survive for three reasons.

First, I like the way the players and coaches have microphones and cameras all around them. On the sidelines, on the field and in the locker rooms, everyone associated with the game is in the spotlight. I think it is interesting to see what goes on behind scenes.

Even though it needs some work, my favorites of the new cameras are the on-field cameras. Not so much because of the great shots of the action they get, but because once or twice a game one of these cameramen get blasted by some giant linebacker or offensive lineman. It is the most dangerous job in sports.

The XFL used 27 cameras in its broadcast of the Las Vegas Outlaws' 19-0 win over the New York/New Jersey Hitmen, more cameras than ABC uses during its elaborate Monday Night Football broadcasts. (Quick side comment: Where are the Hitmen from, New York or New Jersey? Pick a state. I don't tell people I am from Kansas/Missouri. It doesn't work that way).

Secondly, the announcers all are popular, colorful figures. Minnesota Gov. Jesse "The Body" Ventura and Matt Vasgersian (from Fox's Sports Geniuses show) called the Outlaws-Hitmen game and formed a somewhat entertaining team.

The only problem with the broadcast is these guys actually should talk about football during the football game.

They were too concerned about telling viewers how "exciting" the game is and what a "historic" night it was.

Another smart pairing by the XFL was to put WWF's Jim Ross and Jerry "The King" Lawler on the Orlando-Chicago game that NBC wisely decided to cut to. I am not a wrestling fan by any means, but I know millions of people out there who are fans and love Ross and Lawler.

Lastly, much has been made of the rules in the XFL that are different from those in the NFL such as the no-fair-catch rule, live punts, etc. I am not sure what I think about them; I will have to watch more before I decide on them.

However, they are needed. To compete with the NFL, McMahon and company need to add some new aspects to the game. The new rules are one way they are doing it. They seemed to work well Saturday.

By far, my favorite new rule is what I am going to call the "Race-to-the-Ball" rule which has replaced the traditional coin-toss. Two players line up next to each other and sprint to the ball, which is at midfield, and try to cover the ball like it was a fumble.

The player who can come up with the pill has the choice to kick or receive the ball or pick which goal to defend to start the game. I love it. It was the most exciting part of the Outlaws-Hitmen game.

Is McMahon's league going to work? I think the jury still is out. If it doesn't, it won't be because of a lack of effort. Think about the WWF, though. If you ever told me it would be as popular as it is, I would have told you I was from New York/New Jersey.

David is a junior in mass communications. You can e-mail him at dpp4078@ksu.edu.

DAVID PLOOS

BASEBALL

■ continued from page 6

LSU, but if I do, this will hopefully help me a little down there."

Patterson wasn't the only newcomer to shine, though. Castillo, who came to K-State fresh off a .411 season at Dodge City Community College, established himself as an offensive threat at the top of the Wildcat order in his first game by going four-for-five from the plate and swiping two bases.

"I'm happy with the job I did today," Castillo said. "It's nice to be here in Manhattan, but we have to work hard in conference this year."

"We were waiting for the first game, and it was canceled, and everybody was disappointed so we said we had to be ready for Sunday. We have to win."

Thanks to Castillo and Patterson, K-State was ready for Doane on Sunday, banging out 15 hits and stealing seven bases to highlight an afternoon that even included a two-run homerun by 1999 All-American Kasey Weishaar in his first at-bat of the game.

"It was the first at-bat of the year so I was a little jittery when I got in the box, but I was able to get the pitch over the plate and drive it," Weishaar said.

Weishaar finished the game three-for-four, with a walk, three

RBI and a stolen base — a performance that met his expectations for the season opener.

"I was able to do some things that I was hoping to do," he said. "It was nice to be able to stay in a groove and get some hits to fall."

With opening day in the books, the Cats stay at home to face Southern Nazarene at 2 p.m. today before a weekend series against national champion LSU this weekend.

GET IT ONLINE

KSU Department of Theatre Presents

How I Learned to Drive

a Pulitzer Prize winner

by Paula Vogel

SPECIAL TALKBACK SESSIONS IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING PERFORMANCES ON THE 8, 14 & 15

The clearer this picture gets

The better you will know this family

February 8-10, 14-17
Nichols Theater 8 p.m.
$6 for students/seniors
$9 general public
McCain Box Office 532-6428

CONTAINS MATURE SUBJECT MATTER

Want Money?!?

WHO: KSU Clubs and Organizations affiliated with the College of Arts and Sciences

WHAT: Funding for the 2001-2002 school year

WHEN: Requests are due by Fri. 2/23/01 at 5pm. Your organization must be registered with OSAS by 2/23 to be considered.

WHERE: Office of Student Activities and Services, Union. Request forms available at OSAS. Please submit completed applications to the OSAS.

WHY: Funds go toward activities such as hosting speakers, group travel to conferences, and other projects that benefit KSU students.

Please direct Questions to the president of A&S College Council, Sandra Hoo, sjk9748@ksu.edu.

Self-Serve
All it takes is a nickel
Clafin Books and Copies

YOU DESERVE IT!!!

SPRING BREAK 01

JAMAICA CANCUN MAZATLAN

"Come travel with the quality company"
Mazatlan flight via Sun Country direct service
www.sunbreaks.com
888-777-4642

TRIPS INCLUDE:
FREE Meals
VIP Express Entry
RT Air
7 nights hotel
Discount at shops, restaurants and bars

WIN A CHANCE TO BE ON BAYWATCH HAWAII Party with the celebrities!!!
HEADLINE DJ'S

AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
AUTO HOME BUSINESS HEALTH LIFE

Tim Engle
K-State Grad 88

"Call us for your Health and Auto Insurance"

3320 Anderson
539-9200

American Family Mutual Insurance Co. and its Subsidiaries
Home Office-Madison, WI 53783-0001
E-Mail tengle@amfam.com

Pregnancy Testing Center

539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

There are those who shy away from challenges. And then there are those who travel 9,000 miles looking for them.

Stop by a Peace Corps Information Session and find out about the hundreds of overseas jobs awaiting you!

www.peacecorps.gov
800-424-8580

INFORMATION TABLE

March 12 & 13
9:00 am - 5:00 pm
Student Union, in front of the Cafeteria

FILM SHOW

Monday, March 12, 5:00 pm
Student Union, State Room

Since 1979

AUDIO JUNCTION, INC.

307 Ft. Riley Blvd.
Mon.-Fri. 10-7 Sat. 10-5
Layaway Available

Come check out Audio Junction's selection of Pioneer Home Mini Systems! Awesome Pioneer Sound Quality and reliability starting at $299 a system!

Pioneer Mini Systems combine modern, high-tech styling with the hottest features such as CD recording capabilities!

Pioneer

GAME STATS

K-STATE 78
 8-11 overall, 2-6 in Big 12

IOWA STATE 84
 19-3 overall, 7-2 in Big 12

K-STATE	FG	3PT	FT	TP	MIN
Reid, Larry	10-16	7-9	3-3	30	39
Reynolds, Travis	7-11	0-0	1-1	15	33
Siebrandt, Matt	4-6	0-0	4-4	12	25
Buchanan, Quentin	3-5	0-1	2-2	8	31
Terry, Richie	3-7	0-2	1-2	7	31
Atchison, Phineas	2-7	0-2	0-0	4	18
Howell, Kelvin	1-1	0-0	0-0	2	14
Sulic, Ivan	0-1	0-0	0-0	0	8
Wallace, Donnie	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	1

TEAM 30-54 7-14 11-22
 .555 .500 .917

IOWA STATE	FG	3PT	FT	TP	MIN
Tinsley, Jamaal	6-10	3-5	11-14	26	38
Rancick, Martin	5-10	1-1	1-2	18	26
Horton, Kantrail	2-8	2-7	6-6	12	38
Shirley, Paul	3-6	0-0	4-6	10	28
Evans, Richard	3-4	0-0	0-0	6	18
Sullivan, Jake	1-5	1-5	1-2	4	20
Power, Shane	1-3	1-1	1-2	4	25
Pearson, Tyray	2-4	0-0	0-0	4	7

TEAM 23-50 8-19 30-42
 .450 .421 .714

Halftime — Iowa State 36, K-State 24. Rebounds — K-State 26 (Reynolds 8), Iowa State 29 (Shirley 6). Assists — K-State 15 (Reynolds, Reid, Terry 4), Iowa State 9 (Tinsley 4). Turnovers — K-State 16, Iowa State 12. Total fouls — K-State 29, Iowa State 14. Fouled out — K-State, Reynolds, Buchanan, Richie. Attendance — 14,027

CHELSEA SCHMIDT/Collegian

BASKETBALL

■ continued from page 6

possession, which would have trimmed the deficit to three had the call went in the Cats' favor.

Yet, Wooldridge said it's tough to say whether one single play could be labeled the turning point of the game. After all, K-State shouldn't have been in a position to let an official's call decide the outcome anyway.

It was the first half that proved the Cats' demise.

"There's a lot of turning points, a lot of plays in a game that you can say could go either way."

Wooldridge said. "I told our team, 'Hey, if we don't turn it over 11 times in the first half, who knows?' Now, the block/charge might not be quite as significant."

Siebrandt said he agreed, and said the Cyclones' 14-2 run late in the first half left K-State with the role of playing catch-up, as the Cats trailed 36-24 at the intermission.

"We knew we kind of shot ourselves in the foot with that first half, but we battled, and it was a game with a few minutes left. We just didn't get some buckets and some calls," he said.

Iowa State extended the lead to 13 early in the final period, but K-State clawed back to within six, 42-

36, on a Travis Reynolds' put-back with 17:17 to play.

The Cyclone lead then would pendulate from six to 10 points in the next 15 minutes, as Iowa State continued to answer any K-State attempt to close the gap — or make the Cats pay in the process.

For instance, Reid missed a jumper with under 14 minutes to play that would have pulled K-State within four at 44-40, and Iowa State All-America candidate Jamaal Tinsley quickly nailed a trey to send the crowd into a frenzy.

Then, later, a Reid three-point shot with 4:05 remaining knifed the deficit to 69-63, but Horton immediately answered with a trey of his own.

Even when Reid answered that trey with a three on the ensuing possession, Tinsley wasted no time taking the ball to the basket and getting fouled by Reid, hitting both free throws from the line to push the lead back to eight.

"They just answered the call every time," Reynolds said of the Cyclones. "They're a veteran ball club, and they've got real good guards, and every time we made a run on them they answered the call. You've got to give them respect for that."

Nevertheless, the loss was K-State's sixth in the past seven games, and fourth in a row, leaving the squad desperate to find the winning column.

"I think our guys are just hungry — everybody's hungry," Reid said. "We want a win. We want a big win — any way we can get it."

LOSS

■ continued from page 6

result wasn't ideal, he said that Reid made the most of his challenge.

"I challenged every one of them. I told them I think it's time to be more assertive as players and as a team together when we get on the road," Wooldridge said. "The road is not for weaklings. The road can really expose you, and tonight Larry Reid really took that challenge up front and personal and really responded."

Reid's most effective response to that challenge came from behind the three-point line, connecting on seven of nine attempts from downtown, setting career highs in both three-point attempts and conversions.

"He was knocking down every thing tonight," forward Matt Siebrandt said.

"He must have been in the zone or something because it seemed like every time he put one up it was going in."

Reid's latest trip to the zone shouldn't be a surprise though.

forward Travis Reynolds said.

Since going 0-for-6 from the field against then-No. 23 Texas on Jan. 10, Reid has reached double figures in all of K-State's last six games, averaging 18.2 points per contest during that stretch. That success is a result, Reynolds said, of Reid's increasing experience and comfort level at the point.

"He's coming from JuCo, and it took time to gain confidence in his stroke," Reynolds said. "Now he's gained it, and he's improving. Game by game he's getting better and better, and that comes with confidence."

In fact, Siebrandt said, Reid has taken over a primary scoring role on offense, something the Cat point guard said he is able to do because of opponent's soft coverage.

"When I look on film, I can see that guys have been playing off of me," Reid said. "So tonight I knew that they'd probably play off me, so I was looking for my shot."

Siebrandt said a more steady Reid might be the key to a strong conference finish for the Cats this season.

"He has been taking over a lot of the scoring load, and he's been carrying us a lot more like a point guard should," Siebrandt said.

"If we can get Larry to play like that every night, we're going to be a hard team to beat."

Speak your mind... call the Campus
Forum
at 395-4444

TRACK

■ continued from page 6

points. K-State won three events.

Amy Mortimer set an NCAA-provisional mark in the mile with a time of 4:42.83 seconds. Amanda Crouse won the 800 meters by almost five seconds. Redshirt freshman Rebekah Green threw 52 feet, 1 inch in the shot put to win the event and set a NCAA provisional mark. Green already has tallied three NCAA automatic qualifying marks in the event.

"Both Nicole Grose and Shauna Burrell ran their season best in the 600 meters," Rovelto said. "Amy Mortimer ran a second and half faster in the mile. Teena Clincy had a personal best in the hurdles."

Rovelto said several of K-State's top runners only competed in one event or not at all. Korene Hinds, who set a NCAA-qualifying mark in the mile at the KU-KSU-MU Triangular last week, did not compete. Also not competing was transfer student Austra Skujyte, who sprained her ankle in warm-ups. Last week, Skujyte placed first in the long-jump event and took second in the high jump.

The men won four events to tally 150 points in their second place finish.

The Wildcats were led by senior Tamek Sisney, who placed first in both the weight throw and shot put. He hit a NCAA-provisional mark in the shot put with a throw of 63 feet and 5 1/2 inches. Sean Redmond placed first in the 400-meter dash with a time of 48.71. The men also won the 4x400-meter relay.

Rovelto said he saw many improvements on the men's side as well.

"Terence Newman gave us a big boost by placing second in the 60 meter," Rovelto said. "That's the fastest he has run. We improved in the 200, the 400 and the 600 meters."

Rovelto said Sisney also had an improvement in his weight throw. Dustin Schmidt also tallied a personal best in the pole vault.

"I have actually been jumping well in practice," Schmidt said. "I just finally was able to jump well in a meet. I think by the end of the year, maybe in outdoor, I will reach the provisional mark if I keep improving like I have."

Rovelto said he has been impressed with the strides the men's team has made so far.

"The team has made real significant movements as a whole. They are really coming along. We are a young team. I think that we have a team that will not only place in the top half, but also in the top third," Rovelto said.

The team meets again this weekend at the Iowa State Invitational in Ames.

"With two weeks till conference, this is will be the most telling weekend," Rovelto said. "We will see where a lot of the competition is around our conference. If you are not where you want to be by this week, you are not going to get there by conference time."

Valentine's section

Feb.
13th

Project
WELLNESS
Kansas State University

71% only drink in environments where they know they will be safe

Most
K-State
Students have 0 to 5 drinks
when they party

One drink =
12 oz. of beer, 4-5 oz. of wine, or 1 oz. of liquor

Based on a 2000 classroom campus-wide survey of 1,192 KSU students that was representative of the K-State student population with regard to demographics such as age, GPA, college, class, and gender. www.ksu.edu/projectwellness

IN REVIEW

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 2001

9

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Urban transport
4 Eye movements
9 Past
12 Ms. Thurman
13 Spam, perhaps 14 Legume holder
15 Grenade, slangily
17 Expert
18 Equi-
19 Penn pal
21 Pursuits
24 Graf —
25 Snoop Dogg's genre
26 Romanian money
28 Bags
31 European vacation area
33 ... and what many do there
35 Breathe heavily
36 Downstairs
38 U.K. tongue

DOWN
1 Recipe unit
2 "— Blue?"
3 Prescription
4 Ermine, e.g.
5 Obtrudes oneself
6 Siesta
7 Scots' skirts
8 Lies
9 Bad thing to upset
10 Matador's wound
11 Stench
16 Frozen Wasser
20 Bound
21 Grouch
22 — and hearty
23 Ciderlike quaff
27 Hawaiian music-maker
29 Elbow counterpart
30 Celebrity
32 Helplessly?
34 Diamond area
37 Lachry-mose tree?
39 Race
42 Worship
44 Chowder-head
45 Chomp
46 Caspian feeder
50 Furniture mover
51 Glutton
52 Old card game
53 Conclusion

Solution time: 21 mins.

CRYPTOQUIP
E Z M W C O T D V W H K P D
C F H M L Q E H Z Q D
L C O M U C W J M H D H C V C
F M E U K J J Z P D J K D T
Saturday's Cryptoquip: A.M.A. MEETING
HIGHLIGHT: NOTED DERMATOLOGIST MADE
RASH STATEMENTS.
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: H equals R

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873. 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

2-5 CRYPTOQUIP

E Z M W C O T D V W H K P D
C F H M L Q E H Z Q D
L C O M U C W J M H D H C V C
F M E U K J J Z P D J K D T

Saturday's Cryptoquip: A.M.A. MEETING
HIGHLIGHT: NOTED DERMATOLOGIST MADE
RASH STATEMENTS.
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: H equals R

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to
CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW RELEASES

MOVIES

VIDEOS:

"Dr. T. and the Women"
"Urban Legends: Final Cut"
"Whipped"
"Radical Jack"
"Layover"

DVD:

"Cirque De Soleil: Dralion"
"Dr. T. and the Women"
"Lilith Fair: Celebration of Women in Music"

MUSIC

Jeff Beck: "You Had It Coming"
Rod Stewart: "Human"
Air Supply: "The One that you Love" (Remastered)
Caleb: "Fear of Success"
Raisins in the Sun: "Raisins in the Sun"
Lunachicks: "Babysitters on Acid"

Hardly 'Head Over Heels'

Prinze's looks only draw for uninspired retread

This movie was horrible the last time it was released, when it was called "She's All That," and it's horrible now.

"Head Over Heels" is the painfully imbecilic story of Amanda Pierce (Monica Potter). She is a nerdy art restorer until she moves in with four models who give her a makeover and she falls for Freddie Prinze Jr.

Prinze's character name is inconsequential since he plays Freddie Prinze Jr. in every movie he's in. Movie producers need to wake up and realize that he is not the romantic lead male Cary Grant was.

Oh well, he's pretty, and I guess that's all that matters when you're selling a movie based on its poster.

"Head Over Heels" never has a moment when the entire audience is glued to the screen, and its more intense scenes do little more than evoke groans. Maybe that doesn't matter to the target audience. As I was reminded every few minutes by the three girls talking behind me through the whole movie.

"HEAD OVER HEELS"

☆☆☆☆

MOVIE REVIEW BY JJ DUNCAN

"He is so fiiiiine." Every now and then the movie pulls out a surprise laugh with the help of Amanda's bumbling roommates. The four models' distinct personalities get them into some laughable situations, even if it is just toilet humor (literally).

A few laughs also are garnered from the so-called "menopause triplets," three elderly women who work with Amanda and offer her some sagely, if irreverent, advice.

The plot takes some odd twists and turns which really don't fit into the movie. Freddie Prinze Jr. might be "fiiiiine," but action star he is not. When knives pop out of his coat sleeve, and he pins a gangster's gun hand up against a wall, instead of waiting on the edge of your seat you just groan.

No one is going to get weak in the knees for this easily forgotten attempt at romantic comedy.

When horrible acting is teamed up with bad writing, it doesn't matter how good the entire cast might look, the result is crap.

COURTESY PHOTO

Local CD crisp, moving

Manhattan artist Justin Hulsey's new album "Weathered" is the kind of local gem that will surprise anyone who picks it up.

Hulsey, who performs regularly around Manhattan, has released an album of "eleven heartfelt tracks." The complex music and lyrics are sure to impress even those who have seen him perform several times.

The lush sounds of Hulsey's acoustic guitar work is what carries the album from beginning to end. Even though the album was recorded with a band, the acoustic guitar is the driving force.

Combine the drive of Hulsey's acoustic sound with his distinct and talented voice and the whole album ends up with a strong, crisp sound that is easily worthy of being heard outside of Manhattan. Hulsey has an accessible voice that will attract fans of several genres and is easily capable of expressing the emotion of his lyrics.

Fans of Better than Ezra or Third Eye Blind will feel right at home with Hulsey's style. A lamentable feel permeates the music as well as the lyrics of the album, but it is still strangely positive and uplifting. The sense of hope kept through pain is a common thread through the album. In "Darker Days" Hulsey sings, "So tell me everything you've learned has paid off in the end/I think I'd rather learn than be told how it all ends."

The weakness of "Weathered" might be that the message is so hopeful that it is hard to believe the same writer feels the angst expressed through the songs.

In "Inside Out," Hulsey makes poor judgment in including a spoken-word version of the chorus. The words fall flat as Hulsey speaks. "All your losses, your tears are washed in reds and blues/It's coming back around again."

Every now and then there are moves that are questionable in the production of the album, but it still maintains its strength. To the credit of the production crew, the album is a flawless recording. The strings added to songs like "All the Way Down" bring them to life with a flowing movement that adds another aspect to the music for anyone who has seen Hulsey live.

"Weathered" is an album that will go on instant rotation as soon as it is added to anyone's collection, and hopefully word of mouth will get this album into more and more of those collections.

"WEATHERED"

☆☆☆☆

ALBUM REVIEW BY JJ DUNCAN

Holiday thriller lackluster at best

Strike two for Marley Shelton, who, after the release of "Sugar Spice," is well on her way to being the B-movie queen of the century.

In the new horror thriller "Valentine," Shelton teams up with three of her friends to star in the continuing saga of rich, snobby white girls getting cut up. It almost makes you cheer when they're hacked to pieces.

"Valentine" is a tale of the nerdy kid at school who thirsts for revenge after being scorned by Shelton, Denise Richards ("Tomorrow Never Dies") and their group in junior high. Thirteen years later, the kid does, in fact, get revenge ... or does he?

This type of movie is so overdone that it hurts me to have to repeat the various, uncreative ways in which the blonde bombshells are killed.

Not only is the movie grossly unoriginal, but it also steals small elements from other horror movies, although they are hard to detect.

One of the more obvious scenes is at the beginning of the movie.

The setting is a school dance, and the poor sap is getting scorned by everyone. He ends up getting a bowl of punch dumped on him and is laughed at by everyone in the gym, slow-motion style.

"VALENTINE"

☆☆☆☆

MOVIE REVIEW BY CORBIN H. CRABLE

If I'd wanted to see "Carrie," a true classic, I would've rented it. I'm sure Brian DePalma isn't too pleased with this sad ripoff of a scene.

Sadly enough, Richards is the only actor in this film who seems above it.

While she has at least had the chance to tackle complex roles (please keep in mind I didn't say she did it very well), the other actors in this movie seem to be doomed to repeat such a film over and over again.

Such roles are easy to land and even easier to maintain when all you have to do is run around a bit, look pretty and scream occasionally.

Like all its predecessors, "Valentine" soon will disappear into the realm of forgotten horror films.

In the meantime, I'm waiting with bated breath for what looks to be a true horror film, "Hannibal," to open this weekend.

THE GONGFARMER

VERY FUNNY WATER THE WRIGHT BROTHERS NEVER ACHIEVED THIS LEVEL OF SOPHISTICATION

WELL, START IT UP. YOU'LL BE ABLE TO TELL THEM ALL ABOUT IT IN PERSON IN A MINUTE.

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL

5 K-State students travel to summit

By OLENA NIKOLAYENKO
Kansas State Collegian

Derek Chiarelli became interested in globalization issues after his trip to Mexico as a high school student.

"I saw many beggars in Mexico and kids selling candy in the street," Chiarelli, sophomore in sociology, said.

American young people know little about globalization because it is not something in their daily life, he said.

Amnesty International and Sierra Club pooled their efforts together to organize the Youth Summit on Globalization in Washington, D.C., last weekend for the first time. Two hundred high-school and college students from all over the country traveled to the capital city to discuss links between global trade, human rights and environment protection.

Five K-State students — Paul Youk, sophomore in sociology; Casey Parks, junior in anthropology; Jason Matthews, senior in agricultural economics; John Franson, senior in journalism and mass communications, and Chiarelli attended the summit.

The Student Chapter of Amnesty International, Kansas Sierra Club and Manhattan Alliance for Peace and Justice gave them financial support.

Matthews said he was impressed with the other attendees because they were willing to listen to the economist's point of view, and they were very open-minded.

"A lot of times you run into the people who are very apathetic to the outside world and concentrate on what's going on in their lives," Youk said. "While it was understandable, it was refreshing to see passionate and politically charged people at the summit whose philosophy on life boiled down to more than 'me, me, me.'"

The students spent the weekend learning how to address the detrimental effects of globalization.

"A lot of people do not know what globalization is," Franson said. "As it exists, it is a negative thing."

The attendees learned how globalization affects life in the international community.

"Corporations are able to skirt environmental regulations and labor standards," Franson said.

Matthews said they were against unregulated free trade.

"We are just calling to include the human values in the process of globalization," Matthews said. "Currently, the only values reflected in the system are profits."

However, K-State students can do their bit by changing their buying habits.

"The things we consume are often made with a cheap, exploited labor," Youk said. "One of the things we can do before buying goods is to ask where they have been made and under which conditions."

Besides, education about globalization needs to be improved, the students said.

"In intro-level courses, you never go beyond the basic picture," Chiarelli said.

Franson said he would like to organize an educational campaign on globalization. By the same token, the students enhanced their organizational skills at the summit.

"In the past, we were thinking about tactics before addressing goals and resources," Franson said.

During the summit, the students broke up in small groups along the regional lines.

"Regional break-ups taught us how to run grassroots campaigns," Matthews said.

These students plan on sharing their newly acquired knowledge with others.

"We want to invite leaders from the progressive groups on campus and do a workshop about globalization," Matthews said.

Regional pageant next

■ Miss Black and Gold pageant winner works to serve community.

By LYNNE HERMANSEN
Kansas State Collegian

She entered the pageant on a whim, but last fall, she was crowned Miss Black and Gold 2001.

Tiffany Lee, senior in theater and business, did not expect to win in her first pageant experience.

"I had never done anything like it, so I was a little nervous," she said.

An Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity friend of Lee convinced her to join the pageant.

"It was a toss-of-the-wind decision," Lee said. "I also saw the pageant as a great way to meet new people and make some new friends."

When preparing for the pageant, Lee said finding a talent to perform was the easiest part.

"Everything else was a little more work — the rehearsals, finding evening wear, writing up opening statements," she said. "It just took a lot of mental preparation."

Lee said even though she was nervous in the beginning, she had only one main concern.

"I kept telling myself to make sure not to trip over my feet," she said.

When the time came to announce the winner, Lee was shocked to hear it was herself.

"I was standing there saying, 'Let me win, let me win, let me ... wait,'" she said.

Lee said she stood and listened, but couldn't believe she had won.

"I kept saying, 'No, it's not me, no, it must be another number five,'" she said.

Lee said her main responsibility as the 2001 Miss Black and Gold is to support everything the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity stands for.

"After all, it is their pageant, and I represent them," she said.

Lee said she recently attended a meeting with the fraternity to discuss fund-raising ideas. She said she and the Royal Court also are working together to form a community project.

"Exact details are not set yet, but it will most likely be something with children of high school age and younger," she said.

The Royal Court consists of the first runner-up Miss Gold, Ashkea Herron, senior in marketing and international business; second runner-up Miss Black, Felicia Walker, junior in pre-veterinary medicine; and Lee.

Herron said besides the Royal Court assisting Alpha Phi Alpha with fund-raising projects and community projects, the Royal Court also has its own community projects.

"The pageant just got started last year, so we are establishing the rules and coming up with the outlines," Herron said.

Lee already is starting to prepare for the April regional pageant in Omaha, Neb.

"I heard it was different than the one here," she said. "Miss Black and Gold 2000 won at regionals, and she is going to coach me."

Lee said she would have to change her talent for regionals.

"My dance in the pageant took up the whole stage, so now I am possibly looking at alternatives," she said.

Senior Tiffany Lee, a business and theater major, won the Miss Black and Gold pageant in December.

Lee said the purpose of the Alpha Phi Alpha pageant is to recognize women who are modified by excellence. She said the pageant made her feel as if she overcame something.

"I was promised that it was more than just some beauty pageant," she said. "Winning was great, but just entering the pageant made me feel confident and awesome."

Order your Royal Purple!

$29.95

On Sale at Kedzie 103

Assist with student recruitment,
meet alumni, have fun!

Student Alumni Board

Informational meeting: Tues. Feb. 6th

4:30 pm, Room 212 - KSU Union

Applications Available: Alumni Association
office, Office of Student Activities & Services

Applications due: Friday, Feb. 9th

Questions? Call Mitzi Frieling: 532-5058

COUPON clipper

FEBRUARY SPECIALS

10% off gift certificates

$65 women's highlight add a cut for $10

$25 Men's highlight & cut

$5 off any spa service

$6 Brow wax

CRIMPERS HAIR STUDIO

"where the style makes you not break you"

717 N. 11th St.

539-7621

BUY 1 MEAL GET 1 FREE AT
EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE

EXCLUDING SPECIAL OF THE DAY

Valid only Sunday
- Thursday

710 N. Manhattan

Expires 6/01/01

Little Caesars

MONDAY MADNESS
NEW! 1 BIG BIG
LARGE PIZZA
14" WITH 1 TOPPING
$5.99
CARRYOUT
NO LIMITS

Little Caesars Pizza

Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!

MANHATTAN (Westloop Center)

539-3333

in Aggieville 539-7095

Buy 1 membership
Get 1 half off
excluding specials

$22

for 1 month
unlimited tanning

$29 for any 5lb. Protein & 10% off Glutamine

50% OFF

SELECTED APPAREL FROM:

Selected
Shoes
20 - 30% Off

BALLARD'S

- SPORTING GOODS, INC. -

1218 Moro - in Aggieville - 785-539-2441

McCAINspring2001 PERFORMANCE SERIES

Russian National ORCHESTRA
Thursday, Feb. 8 at 8:00 p.m.

In just eight years, the Russian National Orchestra has established itself at the very front of world ensembles. The RNO includes many players from the principle ranks of the major Soviet orchestras, most of them soloists in their own rights. In immediate demand throughout the music world, from its inception, the RNO became the first Russian orchestra to play at the Vatican and to tour Israel. It has also toured the United States, Asia, Europe and major music festivals including Edinburgh, Athens, Sydney and the 1996 Olympic Arts Festival in Atlanta. Soon, the RNO and its conductor, Vladimir Spivakov will bring their outstanding talents to McCain to perform Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5 in e minor, Op. 64, Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 3 in d minor, Op. 30 with piano soloist Denis Matsuev.

GARRY Krinsky
TOYING WITH SCIENCE
Sunday, February 11 at 3:00 p.m.

It has been said that Garry Krinsky resembles a living cartoon with his animated characters and non-stop energy. Since 1978, Garry has brought his high spirits and enthusiasm to thousands of schools, theatres and festivals and has also appeared on the NBC Today Show. Through circus skills, mime, original music and audience involvement, Krinsky will demonstrate basic scientific information. During the program, he'll create a dazzling array of illusions, juggle with an audience member and balance five ladders on his chin at once! He consistently dissolves the barrier between the audience and himself, creating a performance that sweeps the entire theatre and leaves behind a truly unique experience.

The Nicholas Payton
ARMSTRONG CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

Saturday, February 17 at 8:00 p.m.

Grammy Award-winning New Orleans trumpet sensation Nicholas Payton began his love affair with a horn at age four and was taken to his first gig, a Mardi Gras affair, at eight. By age 12, he was touring with the All-Star Jazz Band. Later, Wynton Marsalis took a personal interest in his development, recommending him to Elvin Jones and Marcus Roberts. Payton's McCain concert will celebrate the 100th birthday of another Crescent City native, Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, who many critics consider to be the most important and influential figure in jazz history. "Surely no trumpeter today captures Armstrong's radiant tone and brilliant, high-register technique as masterfully as Payton." —Howard Reich, Chicago Tribune "Nicholas is definitely the greatest of the New Orleans-style trumpet players that I have ever heard." —Adolphus "Doc" Cheatham

For more information,
call 785-532-6428 or stop by the McCain
Box Office Monday through Friday, noon to 5:00 p.m.

All events, dates and times are subject to change without notice.

BEAT
THE CLOCK
Mondays

Gambino's
Pizza

The Time is the Price!
6 p.m. - Close
Large One Topping Pizzas!
Add $3-or choose a specialty

Dine In • Carryout • Delivery
537-9090

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 2001

11

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

ROOMMATES NEEDED for a four-bedroom University Commons apartment. FULLY FURNISHED. Call Annette or Melissa, at 323-0013.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE NOW! June/ August. One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. Off-street parking. Call evenings 539-0590.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets 776-2102.

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION" Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. Dryer, central air. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. 1001 Fremont, $325/ month. References, deposit, tenant pays electric. (785)456-2331.

115
Rooms Available

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY. FIRST MONTH rent on one room FREE. Four-bedroom apartment, one or two bedrooms for rent. University Commons. Fully furnished, washer/ dryer. Devon, 776-7189 for information.

145
Roommate Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bathroom house. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house now through May. $350/ month includes all UTILITIES, WASHER/ DRYER. Call 341-5401. (785)537-0038.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please. Great two-bedroom apartment, $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan, (785)537-7228.

Before Time Runs Out
advertise your sublease in the classifieds Let's Rent special section 200 service directory

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. For info, call (203)977-1720.

"THE GREATEST SUMMER of your life! Camp Pontiac, a premier overnight camp in New York is hiring enthusiastic and mature individuals that have skills in Basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball/ softball, golf, swimming, sailing, ropes/ climbing wall, gymnastics, art, drama, lacrosse, football, volleyball and video/ web design. Information and interviews February 15th. Email: campontiac@hotmail.com to set up an interview.

CRUISE LINE- entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

DO YOU LOVE CANDLES? Do you believe that work can be fun? It can! Be! Begin your own business selling candles and accessories through home parties. Earn an average $35/ hour. No experience necessary, no inventory or delivery. Email: Sheri at: slp1645@aol.com

ROOMMATE NEEDED four-bedroom house. $175 a month plus utilities, contact, Jeff (785)776-4023.

ROOMMATE WANTED for two-story house by Aggieville with three other guys. Clean, big, two bath and laundry included. $205, 776-6206.

ROOMMATES NEEDED 4 BEDROOM

• 2 bath
• Fully furnished
• Modern
• Recreation facilities
• Fitness center
• Computer lab
• Washer/ Dryer
• Many more amenities

Mon-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

539-0500
UNIVERSITY COMMONS

APARTMENTS 2215 COLLEGE AVE.

150
Sublease

AVAILABLE NOW. One-bedroom at Chase Manhattan apartments. Must move. Call Sarah (785) 776-9001.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath house, 1870 College Heights, $700/ month (gas bill included). 537-7701.

310
Help Wanted

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888) 844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

SICK CHILDREN need your help now! Donate your life-saving blood plasma and receive $25 TODAY (for approximately 2 hours). Call or stop by: Nabi Biomedical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan (785)776-9177. Fees and donation time may vary. www.nabi.com

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pine Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27- July 29. Program offers horseback riding, watercraft, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application/ information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.campvega.com. Applications available at our website: www.campvega.com. Additional information at (800)923-2267.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS. Camp counselors needed for top girls' camp in Maine. Top salary, travel paid in full, room/ board/ laundry and uniforms provided. Skilled in Arts/ Crafts (ceramics, jewelry, stained glass), Basketball, Canoeing, Dance (Jazz, Pointe, Tap), Field Hockey, Golf, Gymnastics, Horseback Riding/ English Hunt Seat, Lacrosse, Photography/ Videography, Piano Accompanist, Office/ Administration, Outdoor Adventure, Ropes/ Challenge Course, Sailing, Soccer, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Theatre, Volleyball, Water-skiing, Windsurfing. Additional opportunities for kitchen, cooks, maintenance, nurses. CAMP VEGA FOR GIRLS!! Visit our website at www.campvega.com to complete an application and receive a camp video or call 1-800-898-8342. Come see us! We will be on campus Wednesday, March 7th West State room #3 in the Union from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Drop-in interviews encouraged, no appointment necessary.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or visit us at www.campuckskin.com

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-

310
Help Wanted

157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

320
Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com.

330
Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK FOR sale: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English). Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502. For information, please send self-addressed stamped envelope to the above address.

415
Furniture to Buy/Sell

615 N. 3rd. Wohler's- furniture, antiques, appliances. Lots of beer memorabilia. Buy, sell and trade.

TWIN BED $125. 587-8139 before 9pm.

435
Computers

POWERBOOK G3, 400 mhz, DVD, 192 meg RAM, 6 gig drive, extras. $1500. 539-4600 leave a message.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1992 THUNDERBIRD Power doors, windows, seats, 136,000 mostly highway miles. Excellent condition. $2700 or best offer. (785) 395-1511.

1993 NISSAN Altima GLE. Auto, four-door, leather, sunroof, pearl beige, all options, low miles, great condition. 532-7520/ 537-7976.

1997 PONTIAC Grand Prix GT. Red, priced below book at $10,950, power everything. 341-5169.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

510
Automobiles

'91 HONDA Prelude, 2.0 Si, one owner, 130K, white with black interior, AC, sunroof, cruise, good tires, clean, $4450. (785) 587-8615.

HONDA ACCORD, maroon, automatic, locks and windows, cruise control, heater, air-conditioning, etc. $3500. In great condition! 539-0805 for more details.

600 travel/ trips

630
Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummerbours.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT! Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island. www.pirentals.com/spring-break. 1-800-292-7520.

SPRING BREAK PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES. (404) 355-9637.

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

BOOK FOR sale: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English). Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502. For information, please send self-addressed stamped envelope to the above address.

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-888-777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $7.35
each word over 20 20c per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $8.65
each word over 20 25c per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $10.15
each word over 20 30c per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $11.25
each word over 20 35c per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $12.25
each word over 20 40c per word (consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795. www.ksu.edu/kscf

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

BLACK WALLET. Possibly lost in Aggieville or University Commons. Reward will be given. Contact Jessica at 785-537-3650.

FOUND: CAR keys at Anderson and 17th Streets. Call 565-0006 to identify.

FOUND: LADIES watch near Calvin Hall. Call to identify. 532-7190.

030
Personals

We require a form of picture ID (K-State, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

100
housing/ real estate

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM efficiency. Available now or May. Most utilities paid. Close to everything. $295/ month. Off-Street parking. Leave message 776-8804.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Available 05/15/01-08/15/01. $600 month including all utilities, washer/ dryer. Call 341-5401.

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

UPSTAIRS STUDIO for one person. $275 available immediately. 539-5778

AVAILABLE STARTING March 1, two-bedroom apartment in small complex near Westloop. Includes fireplace, dishwasher, private washer/ dryer, and deck leading down to parking. Call 770-8213.

LEASING for fall 2001: two-bedroom, excellent condition and location. 775-4166. www.angelfire.com/ks2/bluestem

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, furnished or unfurnished, available May 15- August 15 $450/ month all utilities included, washer/ dryer. Call 341-5401.

TWO BEDROOMS in Colonial Gardens. $900/00 or best offer. 537-9328.

145
Roommate Wanted

"CHEAP" MALE roommate needed to share three-bedroom house, two blocks from campus and Aggieville. Washer/ Dryer and dishwasher. Call after 4:20 p.m., 537-3735.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for a large room in furnished house with washer/ dryer, $225/ month. Call Joe at 587-9006.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE NOW, large two-bedroom, near campus, two-bedroom near downtown. Also one-bedroom. Most utilities paid. No dogs. 537-8389.

FURNISHED OR unfurnished for August Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment. 350 N 16th, 1230 Claflin, $510. Also for June and August. Large one-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $480. Heat, water, trash/ three/ four paid laundry mat. 539-2482.

AVAILABLE JULY, two-bedroom, living, dining room, hardwood floors, study, family room, one three-fourth bath, one car garage. $600 plus utilities. One-bedroom basement, study, living room. $300 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking or pets. 539-1554.

NEED TO SUBLEASE?

Advertise in the Collegian

It's the easiest way to get results.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE

103 Kedzie • 532-6555

PLUG INTO A USED COMPUTER with the classifieds

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE
103 Kedzie • 532-6555

NOON

is the deadline for classifieds

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE
103 Kedzie • 532-6555

CREDIT CARD

■ continued from page 1

want to sign up."

Ryan Wilhite, senior in management information systems, agreed that it should be up to the individual whether they apply for a credit card.

"We're all at a mature age and should be able to decide for ourselves if we're financially mature enough to handle a credit card," he said. "Temptation comes with being an 18- to 22-year-old college student."

Some said it's not temptation that is the problem, but harassment. Students said they feel bombarded by credit card companies while walking on campus or going to athletic events.

"Our campus isn't a mall, and I don't enjoy being haggled by people promising free T-shirts and phone cards," Liz Griswold, senior in elementary education, said. "If I need a credit card, I can just go to the bank."

Other students are in favor of the proposal because they said it stops students from getting into debt at such a young age.

"I think it's a good idea because our country is more and more in debt, and it's debt they started from when they were students," said Amie Kershner, senior in political science and public relations. "Maybe if students have to seek it out instead of it always being offered, it will stop more people from getting into trouble."

Kip Racy, senior in marketing, said he thought the credit card companies on campus prey on freshmen.

"I understand that part of going to college is getting out on your own and learning from your mistakes, but I don't like seeing freshmen get lured into things and paying for it down the road," he said.

CHASE

■ continued from page 1

Lohmann said that after he and his roommates discovered the floor problem around 11 p.m., they began kicking people out of the apartment and everyone was gone by midnight. It was at that time he began kicking people out that a Chase security guard came and told them to keep people off the deck or breezeway, Lohmann said.

He also said that he and his roommates didn't notify anyone at the time because they were unsure of the exact problem.

"We didn't think it was much of a problem, and we wanted to talk around to our teachers and see what the deal was," he said.

The two apartments affected, after deliberations with teachers, called the city code office who came out and condemned the two apartments. Lohmann said he is unclear of when Chase Manhattan Apartments were notified of the problem.

"I didn't talk to them," Lohmann said. "It was handled sometime Monday."

Still, Krzanowsky wonders why the apartments were not notified sooner.

"The incident happened at 10:30 Friday night, and it wasn't reported until Monday afternoon," Krzanowsky said. "We are open seven days a week and have 24-hour maintenance. They called the city, and then they called us."

The residents have been relocated. Lohmann and two of his roommates have been relocated to a three-bedroom apartment. His other roommate has moved in with a friend who was living as a single in a two-bedroom apartment at Chase. Nonetheless, it has not been a pleasant week for Lohmann, who is in the midst of a busy semester studying architecture.

"I am just trying to stay on schedule, and not using what has happened as an exception," he said.

Still, the incident hasn't stopped residents from believing they have a safe place to live.

"If Chase thought the apartments were not safe they would do something," Jalleen Brady, senior in elementary education, said. "It is not like I am living in danger. I have lived here for two years, and if I wasn't graduating in May, I wouldn't hesitate to do it again."

Brad Clausen, a building official for the city of Manhattan, said apartment floors typically are able to support 40 pounds of live load per square foot, in addition to 10 pounds of dead load, which are materials that cannot be removed from the apartment.

"That is the minimum of design," he said. "These things are not always built to the minimum."

Krzanowsky said all of the buildings were up to code at the time of the incident.

Charlie Busch, director of operations for residential property at McCulloch Development, said that even if code inspections are done regularly, there still are things that can go wrong. He said that ranges from ceiling beams to water heaters.

"We can go into an apartment and check a water heater, and then it breaks down a week later — it doesn't mean it didn't pass inspection at the time."

A proposal calling for mandatory rental inspections by an outside property group every three years will be presented to City Commission on Feb. 13. Mayor Karen McCulloch said inspections have been requested for a long time. The proposal, however, is not a reaction to the apartment incident, but rather the fruition of an apartment housing study, McCulloch said.

"I was cleaning out my house and saw an article from 1967 asking for this," she said, "so its time has come."

"The goal is to create a safer housing environment and get apartments which are not currently up to code in appropriate condition."

Another issue is the way apartments are constructed. Richard Dowling, general manager of Griffith Lumber, said in comparison to apartments built two decades ago, the new systems are technologically advanced.

"The way things are built today is different than they were 20 years ago," Dowling said. "Back then they used 2 x10s and 2 x12s, whereas today a system of trusses and eye joices is used."

It is a system that makes the floors firmer and stronger, but lumber from younger trees than in the past is used in construction.

"The quality of the strength of wood has gone down over the years," Mark Rose, manager of 84 Lumber, said.

"There just is less and less old-growth trees."

The way buildings are approved has also changed. Twenty years ago there were no building inspections, and today there are several stages.

"All buildings now have a building permit," he said. "Today they have inspections for different segments of it."

Technology budget faces loss of matching funds

By SARAH BAHARI
The Associated Press

MANHATTAN — Four years ago, Kevin Saugier would have been hard-pressed to find a computer on campus with the software he needed — a problem for a computer engineering student.

Administrators and students complained that state universities lagged far behind their peers in the quality of computer technology.

Three years ago, the state embarked on a program to help: For every $1 from an extra student fee, the state kicked in $2, generating $1.5 million for the university.

K-State officials say they've made technological strides, helping their graduates to better compete in the work force.

That's why students, university officials and the Kansas Board of Regents are concerned about Gov. Bill Graves' omission of the technology match in his proposed budget.

The technology program was designed to update software and improve teaching equipment.

Beth Unger, K-State vice provost of institutional advancement, said discontinuing the state match would hurt.

"We feel we're right up there with the best as far as technology, but it's fragile because there's no backup," she said. "If we don't get that two-for-one money, it's a crisis situation."

Graves defended his proposed budget during a news conference Friday, saying he's working with limited resources.

"It was never our intent to short-change the regents," he said. "We're fully cognizant of the regents' concerns and will do our best to address them."

Graves' proposals are a problem for institutions like K-State's Hale Library. Its new addition, the Information Commons, a project to give students access to computers and help in using them, most likely will be cut short.

The first stage, which included the addition of 95 computers and four check-out laptops, was completed only a few weeks ago.

The second part is supposed to begin this summer. The chances of that happening are minimal, said Brice Hobrock, the library's dean.

K-State's academic departments face similar problems.

Jim Legg, head of the Department of Physics, said that before the state program began, some freshmen arrived with better equipment than they could have found on campus.

"We still need another five or six years of the grant before we can compete with the really good high schools," he said.

While the College of Engineering fares pretty well, Saugier said slow computers have been a problem.

"The computers in the lab just aren't able to keep up," he said. "It's sometimes easier to get temporary software and do it on my home computer."

Student Body President Jake Worcester said discontinuing the state match will only harm students more.

"It's not often you get a government program that works really well," he said. "This one does."

If the Legislature does not appropriate technology funds, Worcester and other student body presidents plan to discuss whether students should continue paying the technology fee.

"We don't think it's fair for students to pay this without the Legislature's match," he said.

Spend some quality time with your Wildcat Card.

Activate your Wildcat Card at Commerce Bank so you can use it on campus and all over town.

Applesed Art & Frame
Baillard's Sporting Goods
Baillard's Warehouse Outlet
Dr. Paul Bullock, Optometrist
Candlewood Veterinary Clinic
Cary Company
Cat's Closet
Children's Book Shop
Christian Books & Gifts
Colbert Hills Snack Shop
Cortner Chiropractic
Domino's Pizza
Gold Fork Restaurant
Guiding Light Greetings
Hibachi Hut
Homestead Rental
Hunam's Restaurant
It's Greek To Me
Kansas Vet Ed Supply
K-Hill Engine Service
Kistner's Flowers & Greenhouse
K-State Place
Little Apple Toyota/Honda
Olson Shoe Source
Orthopedic Sports Medicine
Peta N Stuff
Pit Stop Automotive
Rendall's Formal Wear
Reed & Elliott Jewelers
Rental Center USA
Rod's Hallmark
Rusty's Last Chance
Rusty's Next Door
Stonecreek Family Physicians
Streetside Records
Taylor's Shoes
Texas Star Cafe
The Energy Center
The Palace

The People's Grocery
G. Thomas Jewelers
Verney's Bookstore
Eric Wisdom, D.D.S., PA
Wildcat Creek Sports Center
KSU Animal Science & Industry
KSU Athletics
KSU Bluemont Buffet
KSU Bluemont Buffet Catering
KSU Career Planning
KSU Cashier's Office
KSU Continuing Education
KSU Diagnostic Medicine
KSU Hale Library
KSU Housing/Dining Services Office
KSU Kansas Forest Services
KSU LaFene Health Center
KSU McCain Auditorium
KSU Moore Hall Food Store
KSU Office of International Programs
KSU Parking Services
KSU Quik Cats - Vanzile Hall
KSU Recreational Complex
KSU Registrar's Office
KSU Student Publications
KSU Telecommunications
KSU Veterinary Medicine Hospital
KSSU Bookstore
KSSU Business Office
KSSU Campus Card Center
KSSU Cate' Den
KSSU Coffee Shop
KSSU Computer Store
KSSU Copy Center
KSSU Food Court
KSSU Hair Care Center
KSSU Program Council
KSSU Recreational Center

Commerce Bank

532-3500

©2001 COMMERCE BANKSHARES, INC.

Member FDIC

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 43 ■ LOW 26

TUESDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

APPOLLO.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 6, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 92

Enshin Karate teaches personal defense

■ page 5

Forum Hall resolution approved

By AMY MORGAN
Kansas State Collegian

Union Forum Hall might be experiencing renovations to make it more handicap-accessible after a resolution was approved Monday night by the Privilege Fee Committee.

Student Senate Chair Travis Lenkner presented a resolution to the committee that detailed the use of a bond surplus account that would involve Student Senate and university administration working jointly to renovate Forum Hall.

"This account is funded by privilege fees and is at about $2.4 million," Lenkner said. "The bond surplus account is a fund that ensures that K-State can meet their financial obligations."

Ryan Walker, privilege fee chair, said if this bill is accepted, there would be no need to offer another bill for the Forum Hall funding.

The Privilege Fee Committee approved the first reading, or preliminary round, of approval on the resolution at the meeting.

Walker said it would be sent to Student Senate on Thursday, and, if approved, it would be returned to the Privilege Fee Committee next Monday for the second round of voting.

The projected cost of the Forum Hall renovation is set at $220,000. The renovation would make the hall more accessible than the required compliance for the Americans with Disabilities Act.

The resolution also proposed a $480,000 recommendation for the completion of phase two of the Hale Library InfoCommons. This proposal would double the technology for Hale Library.

A $1,000,000 proposal for the installation of an all-weather playing surface at Memorial Stadium that would include field turf and night lighting also was included on

See COMMITTEE on PAGE 10

New interest drawn to old 'Ville buildings

By ALYSON RALETZ
Kansas State Collegian

Walking through Aggieville, it is hard to miss the vacant buildings strewn across the shopping district.

The Hardee's and Pyramid Pizza buildings have been vacant all year, while the Lowman's Men's Store and TCBY buildings are new additions to the Aggieville graveyard.

The Hardee's property has not been leased yet, but there are several interested parties, said Julie Haynes, owner of the Hardee's, Pyramid Pizza and TCBY buildings. TCBY closed Dec. 23. Haynes said the lease ended, and the business owners decided to move and combine their shop with a Blimpie's Subs and Salads.

Sharon Haigh, previous owner of TCBY, said she decided to move the business to Salina, Kan., because it was a better business opportunity.

"I kind of felt bad. We would've been in business seven years in April," Haigh said. "As far as I can remember, there has always been some kind of ice cream store on that corner. It takes a lot to support that kind of store anymore."

Haigh said she is keeping the TCBY in the Manhattan Town Center open so TCBY still has a presence in Manhattan, but it was difficult running the Aggieville store year-round.

She said when the students left, the business left. The store did well six months out of the year, she said, while the other months were a struggle just to make ends meet.

"I would love to have an ice cream store in Aggieville for the sentiment value, but I can't live on sentiment," she said.

Haynes said she is planning renovations for the building and has not put it up for lease. She also said

See AGGIEVILLE on PAGE 10

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Sandor, a 6-year-old Malinois, scratches where he smells a bag of methamphetamine in a training exercise Saturday night. Sandor's handler, Deputy Bradley Rose, does many exercises to keep Sandor's senses satisfactory.

Police look for warning signs

■ Officers scan both inside, outside of vehicles for clues to spot suspicious behavior.

By FRANK FLATON
Kansas State Collegian

Kansas Highway Patrolman J.L. Riedel paid attention to almost every detail.

He constantly looked outside his driver side window, his front and his back, searching for anything out of the ordinary. Then he saw it. Driving westbound on Interstate 70, was a white unmarked truck with Colorado plates.

"That's unusual," Riedel said. "Commercial trucks usually advertise their company names. This one doesn't. It's possible that they could be hauling dope."

By law, troopers can stop commercial trucks to make sure they are up to standard. Riedel turned his lights on and pulled the truck over. The truck turned out to be owned by a woman for personal use, and Riedel decided she didn't seem nervous.

Nevertheless, Riedel's job is to be suspicious about everything.

Intercepting narcotics traveling on main highways through Kansas isn't an exact science, but the Kansas Highway Patrol relies on techniques like those Riedel used to nab drug traffickers.

Due to the increasing amount of smuggled drugs on the nation's highways, troopers are trained to be alert. The technique is called drug interdiction, and it's a necessary tool in the Highway Patrol's fight against drug trafficking.

Trooper Craig Davis, who has worked more than 10 cases involving drug interdiction, said the patrolman has to keep his eyes open and react to the unusual.

Riedel said the majority of traffic stops don't result in drug arrests.

"You just stop a lot of vehicles — high volume stops," he said. "You'll know when something isn't right. That's when you know to dig deeper. It takes a little luck."

"It's like fishing. Some days they're biting, sometimes they're not. You may search 10 to 20 cars and not find anything. Our job is to work traffic, but if you're alert and aware, you will naturally run into smuggling."

Troopers look for as many clues as they can for suspicious behavior — nervous body language, deceitful answers and conflicting stories from the parties in the vehicle. Davis said many traffickers will use rental cars to smuggle so they won't be out of a car if they get into a trouble. Also, troopers will look for screws in the car that don't match.

See ARRESTS on PAGE 3

Wamego LSD lab surprise to residents, despite suspicion

By FRANK FLATON
Kansas State Collegian

Linda Lada, a Wamego resident and mother of K-State student Corey Lada, had her suspicions. The Ryder truck she saw driving to and from the historic missile silo in the small town at odd hours of the night didn't look right to her.

Add her eyewitness accounts to the numerous tales around town, and it didn't take long for Wamego residents to suspect that something was amiss.

They weren't wrong. Nevertheless, shock and questions of "Why Wamego?" filtered through the community when the Drug Enforcement Agency and other supporting authorities seized enough chemicals to produce between 36 million and 60 million doses of the hallucinogen LSD from the once-abandoned silo Nov. 20.

"We've all been kind of suspicious of something going on weird," Lada said. "You think you live in a safe town, and the stuff is right down the street. It's hard to absorb. We're all in disbelief."

The lab wasn't yet operational. Two suspects, William Leonard Pickard and Clyde Appertson were arrested.

See LSD on PAGE 3

MICHAEL YOUNG/Collegian

Authorities seized between 36 million and 60 million doses of LSD on Nov. 20 from this historic missile silo located on the outskirts of Wamego. Two suspects have been arrested, and if found guilty could face 10 years to life in prison.

Peter Lwigale, graduate student in biology, plays African drums with Tichauya Chinyoka, senior in management information systems, in the Union Courtyard. The two played as part of an event sponsored by the Black Student Union. MICHAEL YOUNG/Collegian

African heritage celebrated with dancing, food

By ERICA COURTRIGHT
Kansas State Collegian

K-State students had the opportunity to sample soul food and experience African drumming during the lunch hour Monday at the Festival of Nations in the Union Courtyard.

The event, sponsored by the Union Program Council Multicultural Committee, was a first. Tremon Kizer, senior in music education and one of the event's organizers, said the Festival of Nations is a new event.

He said the event will feature different cultures in future months, with Monday's event focusing on African American and African cultures in honor of Black History Month.

"Through this, we're trying to spread diversity throughout the campus," Kizer said.

Maurice Parks, senior in marketing and international business and president of Black Student Union, began the afternoon's program with an explanation of soul food and its origins.

"Despite emancipation, urbanization and migration, African Americans have preserved soul food," Parks said.

He described soul food as the descendant of slave cooking and encouraged those in attendance to taste available samples.

Glenn King, junior in social sciences and a member of the executive board of Black Student Union, served sweet potato pie along with collard greens, corn bread and fried chicken.

"We're allowing people to taste the food that we discuss often in our conversations," he said.

After his presentation on soul food, Parks introduced members of the African Student

See DIVERSITY on PAGE 10

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Photos
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jlb7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glasscock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
kw3544@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
bw3544@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bs3544@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jlb7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hall
nh3544@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nf3544@ksu.edu
Michael Holl
mh3544@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jld3544@ksu.edu
Eri Schneweis
es3544@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm3544@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
ch3544@ksu.edu
Dany Elsworth
de3544@ksu.edu
Alissa Duncan
ad3544@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
er3544@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
532-0735

Managing Editor
532-6556
News Editor
532-6556
Online News Editor
532-6556
Campus Editor
532-6556
City & Government Editor
532-6556
Sports Editor
532-6556
Arts & Entertainment Editor
532-6556
Opinion Editor
532-6556
Presentation Editor
532-6556
Copy Chief
532-6556
Ad Manager
532-6556
Assistant Ad Manager
532-6556
Online Ad Manager
532-6556

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
(ISSN 281-020) is a student newspaper at Kansas State University, published by Student Publications Inc., 1000 E. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66506. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1000 E. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. © Kansas State Collegian, 2001.

News of the weird

New York state Assemblywoman Nancy Calhoun, co-sponsor of anti-stalking legislation, pled guilty in January to harassing her ex-boyfriend in 1999, including, the man said, making dozens of hang-up phone calls; bursting into his home in the middle of the night; tailgating him in a car; and posing as a cosmetics saleswoman in order to get the phone number of the man's new girlfriend.

State Legislature debates bill for renewal of lottery

TOPEKA — The House began a debate Monday on the future of the Kansas Lottery by rejecting a Democratic proposal to extend the agency's life only one year.

The bill before the House would continue the lottery's operations for another six years, until July 1, 2008.

State law will abolish the lottery on July 1, 2002, unless legislators act, but leaders say the Legislature must make a decision this year because the lottery would need a year to pay off prizes, make good on its bills and wind down its activities if it were abolished.

GOP leaders hoped the debate would conclude Monday, so that the House could take final action Tuesday.

— The Associated Press

Phillips Petroleum Co. gains refining capacity

NEW YORK — With its $7 billion stock purchase of Tosco Corp., Phillips Petroleum Co. has boosted its refining operations at a time when the oil industry is focused on exploration and production.

Crude prices have remained high since summertime, trading at nearly $30 a barrel wholesale, and oil companies have profited mightily from drilling operations.

The acquisition of Tosco, however, positions Phillips as the nation's No. 2 refiner.

"What the company has done is akin to an investor spreading himself out in the stock market," said Peter Beutel, president of Cameron Hanover, an energy risk-management firm in New Canaan, Conn.

"Exploration is today's hot topic. But crude prices will be a lot lower in a couple of years, and the action will be in refining," Beutel said. "These companies are breaking the mold and looking ahead."

The transaction, which also creates the nation's fifth-largest gasoline retailer with more than 12,000 stations, was approved by the boards of both companies Sunday and is expected to be completed by the third quarter of this year.

— The Associated Press

Shuttle launch to carry space station laboratory

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — After three weeks of delay, the countdown has finally begun for the launch of Destiny, NASA's billion-dollar space station laboratory.

"It's been a long, hard-fought battle to get it here and now we're ready to go," payload manager Jon Cowart said Monday. "Those of us on the lab team are very excited after many, many years to be this close to actually launching this thing."

Space shuttle Atlantis is scheduled to lift off at sunset Wednesday with the $1.4 billion lab module, the most expensive piece of the international space station.

Destiny is the first of at least three lab modules planned for the international space station, Alpha. It will add a fourth room to the orbiting complex and, with its computers and command capability, puts NASA flight controllers in charge.

— The Associated Press

Number of dead, injured rise in India earthquake

AHMADABAD, India — India's 7.7-magnitude earthquake, which was centered 12 miles from Bhuj, has killed more than 17,000 people, and the toll is expected to rise to 30,000 as more bodies are found when rubble is cleared, Gujarat's Home Minister Haren Pandya said. The injured numbered 66,758, Gujarat state officials said, estimating 34 million of the state's 45 million people have been affected.

The dead have been cleared from all but three of 400 villages in the region most affected by the quake, and nearly all of the remaining bodies were still buried in larger towns. The recovery of bodies was expected to end midweek. Some 400 laborers, armed with gas torches and chisels, have been called in from Gujarat's Alang shipyard, one of the largest ship breaking centers in the world, to help in clearing collapsed structures.

Authorities began ambitious plans to relocate thousands of people from devastated villages to new settlements, selecting sites and lining up the materials and equipment.

But first, officials were urging quick action to stop millions in the zone devastated by the quake from moving to other parts of the country in search of food and shelter, straining support systems elsewhere.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegn@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ BAPP Club will meet at 5 p.m. today in Union 207.
■ Blue Key Senior Honor Fraternity will meet at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Office of Student Activities and Services and Leadership House, 914 Manhattan Ave. Scholarship applications for K-State students are available at the Leadership House. They are due Wednesday.
■ Hispanic American Leadership Organization will meet at 5:30 p.m. today in Hale Library Tower Room 3.
■ Applications for Student Alumni Board are now available at the Alumni Association office or in the Office of Student Activities and Services. An informational reception for anyone interested in the group will be at 4:30 p.m. today in Union 212. Applications are due by 3 p.m. Friday at the alumni office.
■ Education Council will meet at 7 tonight in Blumont 106.
■ Pre-nursing club will meet at 7 tonight in Union 206.
■ Sigma Lambda Gamma National Sorority Inc. will have its first informational meeting at 7:30 tonight in Union 205.
■ Mortar Board National Senior Honor Society will be awarding two $400 scholarships for juniors who demonstrate scholarship, leadership and service. Applications are available in the Office of Student Activities and Services today. They will be due by 5 p.m. in the same office.
■ Today is the deadline for changing passwords on K-State computing IDs. Passwords not changed will be reset Wednesday. For details, see www.ksu.edu/password.
■ Intramural entries for wrestling, free throw and whiffleball will be taken at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex through Thursday. Entries are accepted in the administrative office. Call 532-6980 for more information.

■ The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2001. Anyone is welcome to apply. Tutoring three hours per week in a K-12 Manhattan school is necessary in order to be eligible to receive a scholarship. If interested, contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserve@ksu.edu.
■ The Math Club will sponsor a book and College Algebra study card sale from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in Cardwell Hall.
■ Applications are being accepted for Learn and Serve Action Teams for students wanting to participate in a semester-long volunteer project. For more information, contact the Community Service Program at 532-5701 or ksuserve@ksu.edu.
■ Career and Employment Services will conduct a Resume Building Workshop at 3:30 p.m. today in Union 206. There will be a How To Get An Internship Workshop at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in Union 213.
■ Applications for KSU Student Foundation are now available at the Foundation Building or in the Office of Student Activities and Services. An informational meeting will be at 4 p.m. Feb. 19 in Union 212 for students interested in the organization. Applications are due by 4 p.m. Feb. 23 in the OSAS.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County Sunday, Feb. 4

■ At 1:46 p.m., Patricia K. Elliott, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for two counts of worthless checks. Bond was set at $847.67.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

2001-2002 SGA General Elections

Candidate Positions Available:

- Student Body President and Vice-President
- Board of Student Publications
- Union Governing Board
- Fine Arts Council
- College Councils

Applications and filing forms are now available online and in the Office of Student Activities and Services (Ground Floor, K-State Student Union).

HURRY!

The Filing Deadline is Friday, February 16 at 4:00 p.m.

Questions?

Call the OSAS at 532-6541 or logon to the web site below

ONLINE ELECTION INFORMATION:

WWW.KSU.EDU/ELECTIONS

WINTER SPECIALS

- Tune-Ups • Brakes
- Exhaust • Shocks

OIL CHANGE, LUBE, & FILTER
(Up to 5 qts.)

$15.95

TRANSMISSION Flush complete fluid exchange

$79.95

Coolant Exchange with New Antifreeze

$59.95

4 WHEEL COMPUTER ROTATION AND BALANCE $29.95
Includes free brake inspection for cars and light trucks (By appointment)

MOST CARS

Wilbur Hunter-ASE & Ford
Certified 42 Years Experience
Owner Bud Valeries

1629 FAIRLANE • MANHATTAN • 785-539-6650

Spring Break 2001

Sheraton Fiesta South Padre Island
BEACH RESORT

Come experience the two-nation vacation:
203 deluxe rooms, 48 gorgeous condominiums, and a 6,000 square-foot swimming pool are just part of the fun.

This beach front property is your Spring Break Party HQ, and has worldwide recognition as a premier resort hosting: MTV, ESPN, and WCW events. Enjoy our restaurant and bar, plus the swim-up Palapa Bar and Grill and beach activities during Spring Break 2001

Got plans for Spring Break 2001?

Call 800.222.4010 for Spring Break specials! $99 to $220 for rooms up to 5 people. $199 to $450 for condominiums up to 7 people!

800.222.4010
Reservations: 800.222.4010
www.sheraton.com

Kansas State Women's Basketball
Coming at ya!
Wed, Feb. 7th
7 PM
K-State
VS.
Missouri
Bramlage Coliseum

KSU Student Appreciation Night!
Win $250! Be a part of the Action!

KSU Students FREE with ID!

LSD

■ continued from page 1

One proceeded on foot until authorities tracked him down. If convicted, the two could spend from 10 years to life in prison if found guilty of the offense.

"It had been a big topic of discussion all over town."

Pottawatomie County Sheriff Greg Riat said.

"People have just asked, 'Why here? Why in this location?'"

Things like that. Of course, those are all questions we really don't have answers to."

Drug manufacturing isn't exactly the typical topic of discussion in Wamego, Kan., a quiet town of 3,706 citizens.

But when helicopters searching for the suspect buzzed over the community and DEA sedans rushed through the calm streets, the realization set in that drug trafficking can happen, even in Wamego.

"This shows that large manufacturing can take place anywhere in Kansas," KBI spokesman Scott Teaslink said. "It's a wake-up call."

Wamego's close proximity to I-70 and the quiet rural area made it an ideal spot for the lab. However, Lt. Kirk Simone, the Kansas Highway Patrol's drug interdiction coordinator, said the lab was a shock to authorities, but shouldn't have been.

"Criminals have utilized rural areas for years because of the lack of law enforcement there," Simone said. "It probably was a wake-up call, but nothing new from criminals to be in small towns."

Teaslink said LSD, though, isn't common in Kansas. The KBI handled only eight to 10 cases involving LSD in 2000. And the DEA hasn't seized an LSD lab in the United States since 1991.

"Drugs move throughout the U.S.," Riat said. "It's very unfortunate that it had to end up here. But there is a silver lining to the clouds. It's very sad, but at the same time the DEA took that much off of the streets."

Even two months after authorities busted what has been considered one of the world's largest LSD labs, the former spring factory-turned-lab still is being talked about around town.

"I think it was a concern to people," Riat said. "The manufacturing of drugs can be harmful to the environment. The people may be undesirable. And obviously, with that dollar amount, there are concerns that they could have weapons to protect the product."

Lada, who lives a quarter of a mile from the lab, owns a beauty shop in her home.

She always had heard talk about the silo in the beauty shop, but nothing substantial had been proven.

"Everybody had been suspicious," she said. "The spring factory had moved out a year or two years ago, so that couldn't have been what was going on. This was bizarre."

Alvin Seele, who lives about one-eighth of a mile from the missile silo, had no clue the missile silo was housing an LSD lab until lights and propeller sounds diced through the quiet night.

"It really started to get my attention when they began searching for one that got away," he said. "There were helicopters with search lights and the DEA was all over the place. So I got in my car and went to talk to a deputy, and sure enough, he said to keep on the lookout."

Seele had noticed suspicious activity for the past couple of years, including lots of traffic. He mentioned his suspicions to a couple of friends, but they didn't believe Seele's instincts to be true.

"The nature of it all didn't seem normal," he said. "I saw them take all the spring machines out two years ago. So it didn't make sense for them to be making them there. Maybe not LSD, but something was going on. People were in disbelief."

Dorothy Straub and her husband used to do mowing and lawn care for the property owners of the silo, but they never saw any suspicious activity associated with LSD production.

"We were shocked," she said. "We never suspected anything. We never met the ones they caught."

The shock of the lab quickly made Wamego a top story in the news, but that's not exactly what the town had in mind.

"Wamego is just a good community," Riat said. "It doesn't want to be known as the community that has a drug lab in it. It's very unfortunate."

ARRESTS

■ continued from page 1

compartments that look out of the ordinary and even the smell of fresh silicone or epoxy used to secure flaps to hide secret stashes.

"You have to put enough indicators together so that you have enough reasons to search the car or call the dogs," Davis said. "They start adding up. One guy said he traveled to Chicago from San Diego to pick up a new truck. Normal people wouldn't do that. That's some of the things you look for. You have to take the totality of all the circumstances."

Riedel said troopers also pay attention to where the car is traveling. Large amounts of money typically go west, where smugglers acquire a shipment and take the narcotics back east.

But Riedel said if troopers focus only on what has been done in the past, they might miss something.

"Most commonly drugs go from southwest and northeast," he said. "Because a large amount of marijuana is grown in Mexico and Colombia. But Canada is starting to produce some very fine marijuana. So you can't react to everything."

Riedel said these methods of interdiction are called criminal profiling. Nevertheless, Riedel said patrolers can't stop someone unless they have broken the law.

"If someone is speeding or they're running a red light then you have a legal reason to stop," he said. "But you can't stop someone just because they are in a beat-up car with Washington plates driving east."

Riedel said that racial profiling is illegal and doesn't happen in Kansas.

"Racial profiling has been a big topic lately," he said. "It is 100-percent illegal to racially profile. You can't look at a Hispanic person and say, 'I think they look like they are doing something illegal,' and then pull them over."

Shortages attract new proposals

The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Power shortages and brownouts could loom in Kansas' future if the state doesn't take action soon, some legislators warn.

Senate and House Utilities chairmen Stan Clark, R-Oakley, and Carl Holmes, R-Liberal, have a plan to stave off power shortages by offering tax incentives to build new power plants.

The proposal is aimed at convincing utilities and companies that build so-called merchant power plants to build large coal-fired plants in the state.

"I want to take the pressure off of natural gas," Holmes said. He said that units being added by Western Resources, the state's largest electric utility, are gas-fired.

The reason, Holmes and Clark said, is the 33 percent property tax rate imposed on power plants.

Regulated utilities, such as KPL and the Kansas Gas and Electric Co., are allowed to pass those taxes through to consumers. But merchant plants cannot pass those costs on.

Holmes said several plants are under construction in neighboring states where property taxes aren't as high.

Holmes and Clark support a proposal reducing the tax burden on merchant plants to 25 percent of their value. The measure also waives all taxes on new merchant plants for 10 years.

Rep. Laura McClure, D-Osborne, said lawmakers heard a year ago that brownouts could occur by 2003 if generating capacity isn't added. She said that prospect, combined with the horror stories about California's shortages, should spur Kansas lawmakers into action this session.

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Sandor, a 6-year-old Malinois and member of the Pottawatomie County Patrol Division, sits at attention after searching the outside of a vehicle during a training program Saturday night. Sandor is trained in tracking people, searching buildings and vehicles for meth, cocaine, heroine and marijuana. He also can do evidence searches and protect officers when needed.

Riedel said all races and types of people are hauling narcotics.

"The officer that racially profiles is going to miss so much, and they're probably going to get a lot of complaints," he said.

The Kansas Highway Patrol hasn't had an entirely easy time nabbing narcotics on highways.

In the early 1990s, the agency had formed two-man interdiction teams that specialized in looking for drug trafficking indicators. But due to shortage in manpower, the interdiction teams faded away because the agency needed more troopers to do the daily jobs of a patrolman.

Additionally, drug smugglers are getting smarter and better at dodging troopers.

"They're learning," Davis said. "They watch 'Cops' and other shows. They know what we look for. But that's fine. That's just part of it."

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.

CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

Send your Valentine a SWEET CREATION from L.A. Cakes & Cookie Bouquets FREE DELIVERY Order Early CALL 776-8773

MONEY MAKERS

Money motivated individuals needed to promote products and events on campus. The nation's leader in college marketing is seeking an assertive, energetic, entrepreneurial student to promote products and events on campus. We need proven money makers... not people that think they want to earn money!

- Be your own boss!
- Set your own hours!
- Make what you're worth!

American Passage Media, Inc.
Campus Rep Program
Seattle, WA

800.487.2434 Ext.4652
campusrep@americanpassage.com

BUNAM
Restaurant and Monogolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888

Lunch Buffet
All you can eat!
$4.95

Friday Seafood Buffet
$7.95
Crabs legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.

Dinner Buffet
All you can eat!
$6.95

$1.00 Off
Evening Buffet
Sat.-Thurs.
Please present coupon

FREE DELIVERY
with $9 minimum order
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

REAL ESTATE AUCTION
TUESDAY, FEB. 13 - 6:30 P.M.
Holiday Inn, 530 Richards Drive — Manhattan, KS

320 ACRES RILEY COUNTY KS

Located 1 1/2 miles East of Riley, KS on Hwy. 24, S 1/2 mile.

TRACT I: Approximately 20 acres in NE 1/4 Section 7, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas. This tract has a well-kept farm home, garage, grainary, barns and outbuildings. This property has both tillable and pasture land. This is an excellent opportunity to purchase a home on a small acreage located on good roads close in.

TRACT II: Approximately 140 acres in NE 1/4 of Section 7, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas. Approximately 72 acres tillable with balance in pasture.

TRACT III: Combo of Tracts I & II.

TRACT IV: S 1/2 NW 1/4 and N 1/2 SW 1/4 Section 8, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas (approximately 160 acres). This property is located across the road from the above tracts. There is approximately 90 acres tillable with balance in pasture.

"Open House" Wednesday, Jan 31, 2001, 4-6 or by appointment by contacting Vern Gannon, Associate Broker/Auctioneer, 785-539-2316.

Grace Morris Estate • Diana Davies, Administrator CTA

MICHAEL BAISDEN

Nationally Renowned Author of

"Never Satisfied: Why Men Cheat"
"Men Cry in the Dark"
"Maintenance Man"

WILL PRESENT A SEMINAR ON MALE/FEMALE RELATIONSHIPS

"Love, Lust and Lies"

7:00 p.m.
Tuesday, February 6, 2001
K-State Student Union, Little Theater

Book Signing Immediately Following Seminar

Free and Open to the Public
Sponsored By: Fine Arts Fees and
The Office of Diversity and Dual Career Development

Delivers the latest! OPEN LATE! GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub OPEN LATE! 702 N. 11th Street 770-3333 Sunday 11a.m. - 2 a.m. Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m. Thur. - Sat. 11a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Checks add 50¢ 770-3333 Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

MONDAY MANIA	CARRY-OUT SPECIALS	STIX IT TO ME TUES.
"Carry Out Only"	16" 1-Topping $6.99 14" 1-Topping $5.99	Buy One Pokey Stix at Regular Price get Equal or Lesser Value for Free
LARGE CHEESE PIZZA	BONUS BUYS MENU with any food purchase	"Tuesday Only"
$3.99	• 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99 • Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99 • 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99 • Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99	(Carry Out or Delivery)
Additional Toppings $1.00 per topping.	EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

Sun Kissed Tanning

UNLIMITED TANNING

$19.95

A MONTH
SEE STORE FOR DETAILS

1122 Laramie St.
537-2141

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 • letters@pub.ksu.edu

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

On the Topic

Should we end the War on Drugs? Why or why not?

Yes, I think they should end the War on Drugs, because for the last three days we have been unable to get weed, and it is very annoying.

In the 1930s, heroin was legal, and no one killed each other over it because if a person wanted it, they could go and legally buy it. Today, prohibition has made drug trade highly profitable on a black market. So, disputes about which drug capitalists controls black market share often result in death, just like in the 1920s when alcohol was prohibited. It is time to end this insane war on personal freedom called the War on Drugs.

If we end the War on Drugs, no one in the College of Engineering will graduate.

We have to stop the War on Drugs. The only reason 94 percent of K-State students have fun without alcohol is because they are all smoking pot.

Beating infants to death in 2 1/2; rape a woman, be out in under five; molest the neighbors' kids, be out in seven; get caught with a pound of weed in your house, be ready for a 10-year minimum. Isn't this just a little jaded that the U.S. government finds drug users and dealers more dangerous to our society than those who kill, rape and molest?

Free up jail space.

There is a War on Drugs? Maybe they should stop by and check out my floor.

I personally believe we should stop the War on Drugs, make all drugs legal, heavily tax them. And then we can use that tax money — ooooh, to build a parking garage. There ya go.

I think, absolutely, we should end the War On Drugs. It's hard to fight an enemy who is eating Cheetos, watching "The Wizard of Oz" and listening to Pink Floyd.

Off the Topic

Sure, there are those that oppose rental inspections. They wouldn't be able to put the shaft to college students for high-price junk rent.

Hey, Dan Smith, it's kind of hard for the baseball team to split one game in baseball. Figure it out.

How are we supposed to sleep with those tornado whistles going off at 10:30 in the morning?

Hey, this is the greatest day of my life because after a little over a semester of reading "Monkey Boy" I finally got a chuckle out of it today.

I'm calling about the sculpture show in the Union. I think it's wrong to ask an artist to move his work after the show is set up. We are a university, not a high school, and we should be encouraging dialogue, not censorship.

Prediction for the XFL: He Hate Me, MVP.

I was just wondering if landlord with compassion meant landlord who doesn't fix anything?

Ms. Mann, there was never a law requiring tobacco retailers to check ID for anyone over the age of 18. There is an FDA regulation which was found unconstitutional and is now in the Kansas courts, in the Kansas Legislature to become a law. There is no such law.

Question for Thursday: If you were inspecting your living arrangements, how would you rate it?

OPINION

Facing Reality

Television viewers should live own life instead of living through others

Question: What does professional wrestling have in common with childbirth?

Answer: They're both on network television. ABC's "Good Morning America" featured a segment in which a baby was born. According to executive producer Shelley Ross, the network aired the live birth because "It's something unique and exciting, and with all the human drama of the everyday miracle..." The cynical observer would suggest that a more likely reason for the sensational broadcast is the beginning of the ratings sweeps period. This is the time when corporate sponsors (read: "advertisers") pay close attention to television ratings to see who is watching what. The amount they pay for advertising depends on how many people watch each show. If more people watch, the networks stand to get more money.

It's unbelievable what TV networks will do to get good ratings during sweeps. Here's some perspective: 40 years ago, it was taboo to even say the word "pregnant" on television. This morning, a live birth was shown to millions of people. What's even more unbelievable is the fact that the American public actually wants this kind of programming.

You might say I'm getting bent out of shape over nothing. After all, it's just a TV show, right? Wrong.

The live birth on ABC this morning is indicative of a very serious problem. Our society's desire to live vicariously through others has grown immensely during the last several years. This hunger is evident in many of the most popular shows on television.

Take professional wrestling. The cameras of the WWF and the WCW wrestling shows follow the athletes even after they leave the ring. These shows are like soap operas, with characters and a sequential plot.

There are fans who know everything there is to know about the wrestlers, from their favorite brands of toothpaste to what shoe size they wear. Why this level of obsession with the personal lives of total strangers? I am convinced the answer lies in what people want to be.

We want to be strong, romantic, good-looking and intelligent. This is why so many of us follow every wrestling match, buy wrestling magazines and visit wrestling Web sites. We feel that, in some small way, we share in the glory and power of those whom we observe on television.

American society has been transformed into a passive one. We're so used to getting our entertainment from a box that we've become all but incapable of getting it elsewhere. Voyeurism has replaced action.

The genre of reality television is enormously popular because it's all about people who are living exciting lives and doing exciting things. And millions of Americans sit at home, watching everything the people on the screen do.

The problem is that our hunger for real life is being eliminated by what we constantly see on television. We partially can satisfy our desire for adventure by watching "Survivor" or "The Mole." Similarly, we can ease the longing for meaningful romantic relationships by watching "Temptation Island." Do you want to experience childbirth? It's on "Good Morning America."

With so many electronic escapist outlets, our natural desire for real life is slowly ebbing away. We drown ourselves in the comfort of a 30- or 60-minute TV show because it's short and it's easy.

Real life is long and hard. It's about working, relating to other people, growing old and being awakened by teething 18-month-old kids at 3 a.m. It's about a lot of pain, hard work and sacrifice. It's also about love, joy and rewards.

Are we willing to really live, or will we choose to define our lives by the time slots in "TV Guide?" This an important question, and I'll have to take time to consider it — right after "The Simpsons."

Micah is a sophomore in English and history. You can e-mail him at mph7686@ksu.edu.

VINCE JACOBSON/Collegian

VINCE 01

Bush's image does not reflect true motives

Throughout the general election and into the first two weeks of his presidency, George W. Bush has been reiterating over and over again (redundancy for emphasis) that he's a uniter, not a divider. But if actions speak louder than words, he is nothing but a hard-core conservative.

Since being sworn in as president, Bush has put his charm offensive into high gear. In his inaugural speech, Bush talked about civic duty, acts of decency, giving hope to the hopeless, improving schools, inclusion, compassion and making the world safer.

As president, he has met with the top congressional Democrats and the Congressional Black Caucus. This past Sunday, he even flew up to Farmington, Pa., to the Democratic retreat of U.S. House members.

During his first week, Bush visited the predominately black Merritt Elementary School to use as a backdrop for his education reform (that's his 28-page reform; high in symbolism, low in many key details, including cost). His first full Sunday as president, Bush went to worship at a predominately black church in D.C.

Most of the potential political opponents who have met with Bush said they were impressed with the man, and that they appreciated that he spent time listening to their concerns.

All this effort to end Washington's political culture of rancor is admirable and welcome, but is Bush being sincere or is this just a political smoke screen to hide a true right-of-mainstream political agenda?

His actions tend toward the latter.

His Cabinet and staff picks range from strongly conservative (e.g., Secretary of Defense Colin Powell and Secretary of State Donald Rumsfeld), to ultra-conservative (e.g., Vice President Cheney; National Security Adviser Condoleezza Rice; Chief of Staff, the former lead auto industry lobbyist against fuel-efficiency standards and global-warming reforms, Andrew Card; Interior Secretary Gale Norton, whose first words mouth were about opening the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge for drilling). And then there's Attorney General John Ashcroft, whose brand of conservatism makes the others look like hippies.

The very first substantive initiative on the first business day as president, Bush signed an executive order cutting funds to organizations that provide abortion counseling in foreign countries.

International Planned Parenthood, which now will lose federal money, spends 0.01 percent of its budget on clinics that provide abortion. Most of what IPP does is to promote prophylactic contraception and provide services that attempt to slow the spread of venereal diseases, including AIDS.

Meanwhile, Bush has pushed right ahead and established the Office of Faith Based and Community Initiatives.

Allowing religious organization to compete for federal grants to perform social services for those in need might well be a good idea, but obviously the old channels that secular organizations have been going through all these years to obtain federal grants is not good enough. Bush seems to sincerely believe in this program, but to give it a separate office is just a way of appealing to those on the religious right who have been pushing the government to be more involved religiously.

In order to walk up to the line of separation of church and state without crossing over into unconstitutionality, none of this money can be spent for religious purposes. On the other hand, international groups lose all their federal funding even if they spend their own money on abortion-related activities.

Bush's first legislative proposal is for his $1.6 trillion tax cut, half of which will go to the top 5 percent of taxpayers, more than a third goes to the top 1 percent. This seems to have priority over prescription drug benefits to those of moderate to low incomes, shoring up Social Security or even moderate conservative agendas like fiscal discipline or paying down the national debt.

Bush also has forsaken the environmentalist by pushing for oil exploration in ANWR and off our coasts and suggesting that perhaps loosening the regulations on air pollution will help Western power plants produce more energy.

But so what? He's a conservative, and he's going to surround himself with conservative people and pursue a conservative agenda. It would be politically stupid not to kowtow to the conservative base that voted for him — many of whom will be the greatest beneficiaries from the tax cut.

But why all the lip service about being a unifier?

In part because in politics, if one says something enough times, regardless of reality, the majority of the public will either buy into it or get so sick of hearing about it that they no longer care. He'll proceed with a divisive right-of-mainstream agenda while all the time claiming to be a moderate.

The other part is that this strategy worked well for Bush as Texas governor where most politicians, regardless of party affiliation, are various shades of conservative. Bush is not a stupid man, but he actually might buy into his own

Bush is not a stupid man, but he might actually buy into his own unifier rhetoric. He might be in for a big surprise, however, when he runs into flaming liberals from California, New York and Massachusetts who are not going to buy into his charm.

unifier rhetoric. He might be in for a big surprise, however, when he runs into flaming liberals from California, New York and Massachusetts who are not going to buy into his charm.

Bush has no national mandate. The combined Gore/Nader vote was the largest vote for the left since Lyndon B. Johnson beat Barry Goldwater. The populace didn't prefer the conservative agenda. And, unlike the 1980s, the Democrats aren't running scared. They aren't looking over their shoulders like they did when Ronald Reagan won his popular vote by a landslide.

At present, the Republicans control the Congress. For at least the next two years, Bush can force through his agenda regardless of popular opinion. But the Democrats made gains the last election in both the House and Senate. The congressional momentum is on their side.

It's still early yet, and perhaps Bush is just throwing a bone or two to his conservative constituency before he moderates and becomes a true unifier. However, if he doesn't actually make good on his unifying theme, his words soon will be recognized as vacuous, and he might very well end up like his dad as a one-term president.

David is a graduate student in entomology. You can e-mail him at bugs@ksu.edu.

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

LeAnn Bauman, freshman in graphic design, said she became interested in Enshin when she saw it being practiced. Now she practices at Profitness in Aggieville.

Students of Enshin Karate enjoy challenge, exercise

By BECKY FISCHER
Kansas State Collegian

Few people have heard of Enshin Karate, but it's a martial art that's quickly gaining recognition.

Instructor Sensei Mark Bergner came to Manhattan last year to introduce Enshin to K-State students. Bergner had been a student of Enshin's founder, Kancho Joku Ninomiya, grand master of Enshin Karate, before earning his international teaching certificate and becoming the youngest Sensei of Enshin. He said he enjoys instructing his students.

"Enshin was created for college-aged students, and my students are dedicated to it," Bergner said. "They enjoy the art, and I enjoy working with them."

Bergner's students have different reasons for taking his classes, but they all recognize benefits of the training. Vance Lahey, junior in family financial planning, said he likes Enshin for a variety of reasons.

"I especially enjoy the physical challenge of it," Lahey said. "It's a great workout. I also like the opportunity it gives to travel, for tournaments and belt tests."

Like other styles of karate, Enshin has a series of levels represented by different colored belts. The black belt is the ultimate goal, but an Enshin student's work is not completed by this. Enshin focuses on the constant strive for perfection. Students never reach this point and always must attempt to better themselves through dedication, practice, control and power.

"Meditation is even used, which encourages a student to focus and prepare themselves for more advanced lessons," Bergner said.

The idea of an incomplete state is represented by an unfinished circle in Enshin's logo. The unfinished circle also represents the physical basics of Enshin's fighting moves. The fighting is a form of open-handed self-defense, meaning no weapons are involved. Instead, students use a series of circular punches, kicks and other movements to use their opponents' momentum against them. The moves are graceful but powerful.

LeAnn Bauman, freshman in graphic design, said she became interested in Enshin when she saw it being practiced.

"I was at the rec and saw a class going on," Bauman said. "The moves were awesome and it looked like fun. I signed up and really liked it."

Bergner has moved his classes from the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex to Ahearn Field House and finally to the permanent home of Profitness in Aggieville. The rec doesn't allow

More Information

Classes meet from 7:45 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. every Monday and Wednesday. Classes also meet from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturdays. First classes are offered for free. The classes, which are not offered for credit, are sponsored by UFM.

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

Instructor Sensei Mark Bergner demonstrates breaking a baseball bat during his exercises. Bergner came to Manhattan last year to introduce Enshin to K-State students.

organized classes, and Ahearn's space always is being used for sports.

"I have quite a few students and now that we have a more stable place to meet, I think that number will grow," Bergner said.

Former K-State professor receives honor from queen

By QUINN ASPEGREN
Kansas State Collegian

The announcement came from Buckingham Palace on Jan. 1.

Former K-State professor and Head of the Department of Pathology in the College of Veterinary Medicine Stanley M. Dennis' name was added to Queen Elizabeth II's New Year's Honor Roll List as a Member of the British Empire.

The prestigious award was granted to Dennis for his eight years of service in St. Christopher and Nevis (St. Kitts), West Indies as Dean of Veterinary Medicine for Ross University. He was recommended for the honor by the government of St. Kitts for his work and contribution to the economy of the island.

"I am humbled, proud and honored in receiving this award," Dennis said.

He is not sure when the award ceremony will take place, but he said he is looking forward to the prospect of being at Buckingham Palace and meeting Queen Elizabeth II.

Dennis moved to Manhattan with his family in 1966, spent 29 of his 50 years in veterinary medicine at K-State and served as the head of the pathology department from 1977-1983, 1985-1987 and 1989-1992.

During 1983 and 1984, he was the veterinary dean at the University of the West Indies, Trinidad and Tabago. From 1987 to 1989, he was the pathologist for a U.S. government project in Mali, West Africa.

Dennis continues to speak very highly of K-State and the city of Manhattan.

"I am very proud to have been at K-State, and I look at it as my alma mater even though I did not graduate from there," he said. "It is my opinion that K-State has one of the best veterinary schools in the world."

Earning his degree in veterinary medicine from the University of Sydney, Australia, in 1949, he later returned to the University of Sydney as a Teaching Fellow and was awarded his doctoral degree in 1957.

"I became a vet because I was interested in animals and their welfare. I wanted to join an honorable profession that was not only unique but rewarding. It's allied with human medicine and agriculture as well as public health. I am very proud about being a vet all my professional life," Dennis said.

Bradley Fenwick, professor of pathobiology since 1986, had the opportunity not only to know Dennis as a teacher but as a colleague as well.

"I got to see him through the eyes of a grad student as well as a colleague. He had a deep interest in his students and was a very skilled editor with an excellent grasp of the English language in written form. He helped people learn to write professionally," Fenwick said. "Dr. Dennis has also been a powerful promoter of the faculty in recognizing certain members for various awards."

Dennis' professional veterinary career has taken him to four continents and seven countries including Nigeria, the Philippines, Morocco and the Caribbean, but after his retirement from Ross University in August 2000, he and his wife moved back to Topeka. "We consider ourselves Kansans by choice," he said.

Top entries in architecture competition on display in Seaton's Chang Gallery

By ALISON VRTISKA
Kansas State Collegian

The drawings of six finalists in a historical architectural design scholarship competition are on display in Seaton Hall's Chang Gallery until Feb. 23.

The exhibit is open to the general public free of charge weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The opportunity to view the top submissions of the 2000 Rotch Traveling Scholarship competition, which was created in 1884 and includes a $35,000 prize, is rare, Eugene Kremer, professor of architecture, said.

"Normally the work does not travel, it is exhibited at the Boston Society of Architecture Gallery only," Kremer said. "Now that we've established this precedent, we will work out details for the 2001 competition."

In the world of architecture, the scholarship has Pulitzer-like prestige, Kremer said.

Past winners include Henry Bacon, the architect of the Lincoln Memorial; Wallace Harrison, architect of the United Nations; and Edward D. Stone, architect of the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi, India and the U.S. Pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair.

The exhibit allows architecture students at K-State to view examples in their field of study without leaving Manhattan.

"Architecture students have the opportunity to see the work done by people who are only a few years older than they are," Kremer said. "They can see the varying presentation techniques and make a note about what is effective and what is not."

After viewing such examples, students may choose to adapt ideas to fit their own projects, Kremer said.

"It is really beneficial especially in a competitive environment to see other presentation techniques," Tobias Hathorn, senior in architecture, said.

"From a graphic design standpoint, I enjoyed the high contrast of some of the black and white submissions."

Dale Staten, senior in architecture, noticed a different part of the presentations.

"I was impressed with the written description of the two winning projects," Staten said. "The verbal articulation of concepts presented the project well."

The 2000 scholarship winner, Patricia Anahory of Montclair, N.J., is a woman, which is unusual, Kremer said.

"Here at K-State, we still have far fewer women in the architecture field than men," Kremer said. "It is important to let students know that times have changed and that the field is opening up."

virtual
CAREER FAIRS

Feb. 9-15, 2001

Intern, Co-op, summer positions

www.ksu.edu/ces

virtual
CAREER FAIRS

Feb. 16-22, 2001

Fulltime career positions

Today

K-State Computing ID

is the password deadline!

- Use the webpage at www.ksu.edu/password
- Visit the IT Help Desk, 313 Hale Library, 532-7722, consult@ksu.edu

TACO HUT

"Where good friends get together since 1969"

SPECIALS

Soft Tacos - .70¢

Chili Burrito - $2.70

Drive thru
now open!

MON. thru THURS. 10:30 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.
FRI. 10:30 A.M. - 11:30 P.M.
SAT. 11:00 A.M. - 11:00 P.M.
SUN. 11:00 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.

2809 CLAFLIN

539-2091

TUESDAY DINNER BUFFET

Gambino's
Pizza

5pm-7:30 pm

1219 Bluemont Ave. 537-9090

$3.99 ALL YOU CAN EAT!
Pizza, Pasta, Calzones, Cheese
Sticks, Soups, Wings & Dessert
Pizza

BUBBLE BOY 2 on 2 HOCKEY TOURNAMENT

Come and Compete for a chance to Play
Wayne Gretzky
at the
Stanley Cup Finals

$3 Pints any Budweiser products on tap

$2 Refills

Steak Night

steak, potato, & french fries

$5.99

TOMORROW NIGHT
Schwan Live

Bobby T's Remember the Taco

Taco Tuesday

$0.50 Tacos
$1.00 Draws
$1.50 Margaritas
$2.00 Coronas

Don't Forget, Wednesday Karaoke Night 9 p.m.

Little Caesars

TUESDAY SPECIAL!

1 18" GIANT PIZZA
WITH 1 TOPPING
PLUS AN 8 PIECE ORDER
OF CRAZY BREAD

$9.99

Call:
539-3333

MANHATTAN (Westloop Center)

No Coupon Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2000 L.C.E., Inc.

Rusty's Last Chance

Introduces Tonight:
.99¢ Coronas
and every Tuesday

$1.00 All You Can Eat Tacos (5-8)

Aggieville Favorites:
Vinny & Jeff
10 pm

Plus tons of free
t-shirts & prizes!

Don't miss this!

Cats grab win

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

K-State catcher Josh Cavender throws the ball to first base Monday afternoon at Frank Myers Field. K-State beat Southern Nazarene 9-6.

K-State beats Southern Nazarene 9-6

By DAVID PLOUS
Kansas State Collegian

Despite being ninth in the batting order, center fielder Nick Sorensen's hitting lead the Wildcats to a 9-6 win over the Crimson Storm of Southern Nazarene on Monday afternoon at Frank Myers Field.

Sorensen hit a solo home run in the fourth inning and a long three-run homer in the sixth.

The home run in the fourth inning broke a three-all deadlock after Southern Nazarene got two runs in the first and one in the third. Wildcat shortstop Osmar Castillo doubled and scored in the first inning and knocked in two in the second with another two-bagger.

In the sixth inning, second baseman J.D. Loudabarger and third baseman Justin Dehmer's walks were followed by a perfectly placed sacrifice bunt by catcher Nick Scelfo that set the stage for Sorensen.

"I was just looking for a pitch up in the zone to try and hit a sacrifice fly," he said. "After Scelfo got the bunt down, I knew I had to get the job done."

Sorensen got the job done with a towering blast, deep into the trees in left center field. That hit was just part of an overall successful start to this season for the junior.

"I've been much more relaxed at the plate," Sorensen said. "Coach Hensley has really helped me out."

Senior Luke Robertson was the pitching star for the Cats, giving up one hit and fanning four over three innings of work to pick up the win in relief of starter Brock Smith. The win gets Robertson off to a good start this year with a 1-0 record.

Head coach Mike Clark said he was pleased with the way Robertson threw on Monday.

"He mixed his pitches well, and his second and third innings of work were strong," he said.

Junior Chad Duckers came on for Robertson in the sixth inning and pitched two-and-two-thirds innings, surrendering five hits and three earned runs as the

See BALL GAME on PAGE 8

K-State tennis cleans up in weekend home tournament

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

Manhattan truly was home sweet home for the K-State tennis team this weekend.

The Cats opened the home stand Saturday by dropping Southwest Missouri State 6-1 at the Cottonwood Racquet Club and followed up that performance by rolling over Utah 7-0 on Sunday.

K-State started its match against SMS perfectly, as the Cats won three of their first four single matches in straight sets. At No. 1 singles, junior Alena Jecminkova defeated Cassandra Godfrey 7-6 (5), 6-4. At No. 2 singles, sophomore Petra Sedlmajerova quickly won her first set against Ia Zozrashvili 6-0, but then had to overcome a 0-4 deficit to win the second game 6-0.

"Petra started her match very well," head coach Steve Bietau said. "But her opponent made some adjustments, and it made the second set tougher. Petra had to fight back when she probably shouldn't have had to, but there's value in that as well."

SMS earned their lone point at the No. 6 singles when Marta Rubina defeated freshman Natasha Boyko 6-3, 6-2.

In doubles play against SMS, K-State went 3-0, but the Cats' No. 2 and No. 3 doubles pairings both had to fight back from early deficits, a situation that evoked mixed emotions from Bietau.

"When you win all three matches, you have to be happy," he said. "But we were erratic. We played well at times but lost some concentration and made bad decisions at others. But there's value in getting the job done."

On Sunday, K-State started its sweep of Utah by surrendering just three games combined at the No. 1 and No. 2 singles. Jecminkova defeated Irini Kotoglou at No. 1 singles 6-0, 6-2, and Sedlmajerova dropped Cassie Kasteler at No. 2 singles 6-0, 6-1.

"We got off to a great start in singles," Bietau said. "Petra and Alena really pushed the momentum in our direction. I think we took advantage of opportunities better today and played more focused."

While the top two singles matches were dominated by the Cats, the other singles matches required a little more sweat from K-State. Freshman Paulina Castillejos won in three sets over Sheri Erock at No. 4 singles, and senior Eva Novotna had to win a first set tie-breaker before finally defeating Linn Ronnberg 7-6 (6), 6-2 at No. 3 singles.

"I played high-percentage tennis today," Novotna said. "I wanted to go after the short balls, and I felt more relaxed, more confident with the way I played."

In doubles against the Utes, K-State swept all three matches. The two victories improved the Cats' record to 2-2 on the year. Utah fell to 1-4, and SMS fell to 0-3. K-State returns to action Saturday at Wichita State.

K-State 6 SW Missouri St. 1

Singles

Alena Jecminkova (K-State) def. Cassandra Godfrey (SMS) 7-6 (5), 6-4
Petra Sedlmajerova (K-State) def. Ia Zozrashvili (SMS) 6-0, 6-4
Eva Novotna (K-State) def. Oyuki Cruz (SMS) 3-6, 6-3, 6-1
Paulina Castillejos (K-State) def. Amy Newman (SMS) 1-6, 6-1, 1-0 (10-7)
Kathy Chuda (K-State) def. Laura Alvarez (SMS) 1-6, 6-1, 1-0 (10-7)
Marta Rubina (SMS) def. Natasha Boyko (K-State) 6-3, 6-2

Doubles

Jecminkova/Novotna (K-State) def. Godfrey/Zozrashvili (SMS) 9-8 (4)
Sedlmajerova/Chuda (K-State) def. Cruz/Alvarez (SMS) 9-7
Castillejos/Hayley Mciver (KSU) def. Newman/Rubina (SMS) 8-4

K-State 7 Utah 0

Singles

Alena Jecminkova (K-State) def. Irini Kotoglou (Utah) 6-0, 6-2
Petra Sedlmajerova (K-State) def. Cassie Kasteler (Utah) 6-0, 6-1
Eva Novotna (K-State) def. Linn Ronnberg (Utah) 7-6, 6-3
Paulina Castillejos (K-State) def. Sheri Erock (Utah) 0-6, 6-1, 6-4
Kathy Chuda (K-State) def. Frida Kareid (Utah) 6-2, 6-0
Hayley Mciver (K-State) def. Heidi Thomas (Utah) 7-6 (6), 6-2

Doubles

Jecminkova/Novotna (K-State) def. Brooke Wilkinson/Kotoglou (Utah) 8-5
Sedlmajerova/Chuda (K-State) def. Ronnberg/Kasteler (Utah) 8-1
Castillejos/Mciver (K-State) def. Thomas/Kareid (Utah) 8-6

Region's 3rd-ranked equestrian team prepares for competition

By ERIKA SAUERWEIN
Kansas State Collegian

FILE PHOTO BY STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian
K-State's Kelly Gratny rides during an open-reining event on Oct. 6 in Canyon, Texas. Gratny placed second in open flat this weekend in Baton Rouge, La.

The next two weekends will be crucial for the equestrian team.

The English and Western shows this weekend and next will decide who goes on to post-season competition. The Western riders travel to Oklahoma State for three shows this weekend. The English riders have three shows at West Texas A&M on Feb. 17-18.

"This is a very important weekend," head coach Teresa Slough said. "We are third in the region. Only the top two teams go on to zones. Also, I have 10 riders that are definitely close to qualifying individually. So, it is important to them individually as well."

Last weekend in Baton Rouge, La., the English riders took third place in the first show with 29 points. The team also placed fourth in the second show with 12 points. Oklahoma State won the first show and tied with Louisiana State for first place in the second show.

The Wildcats were led by senior Kristy Rue and transfer student Emily Mertz. In the first show, Rue earned High Point Rider Honors. She took first in Novice

See SHOW on PAGE 8

Image of new football league exaggerated; merely minor league football

I don't want to beat a dead horse.

Actually, if given the choice between watching another XFL game or hitting the carcass of a dead horse with a stick for about three hours, I'm not sure that I'd pick the XFL.

But figuratively speaking, I don't want to beat a dead horse because I aired my feelings about the XFL last week.

Over the weekend the XFL had a chance to change my mind.

It had me changing the channel.

This isn't the toughest football ever as the advertisements have proclaimed. It's not even extreme football. Think about it. The XFL would be extreme if the players were lit on fire before they ran plays, or if every team member had the political views of Benito Mussolini.

That would be extreme.

This is regular ol' football with a few rule changes and no tact. I wish the XFL would stop embellishing its image and start calling itself exactly what it is: minor-league football.

If this football league is so tough, why did the broadcast show a trainer rubbing ointment into a player's back and arms at halftime? If this truly was extreme football, the player would have torn his arm off if it needed medical attention and used the bloody stump to break up passes.

When one announcer exclaimed the fans were "getting their money's worth," he was right only because the tickets cost about $10, not because the game was worth watching.

After the first few games the extreme close-ups of the extremely perky cheerleaders caught much of the criticism. McMahon outfitted these women in leather chaps and brassieres that could make Mount Sunflower look like Mount Everest. Throughout the whole game it looked like I had gone to a strip club and a football game had broken out.

These women aren't just half-naked, they can't dance. At least in the NFL the cheerleaders can pretend to be legitimate dancers while shaking their womanhood.

The XFL cheerleaders make my version of the cabbage patch look like Swan Lake.

Even worse than the cheerleaders is the league's claim that XFL players have more love and dedication for the game than their NFL peers.

Let's be very clear about this; playing football for less money does not mean that you love the game more.

It means that no one will sign you to a multi-million dollar contract, and you'd rather play football than play bellhop. There isn't a player in the XFL who wouldn't put his John Hancock on an Alex Rodriguez-sized contract faster than you can say "boring football."

Poor pay doesn't make you play harder.

It makes you play hard enough to stay on the team, and aware enough to avoid an injury that would run up hospital bills that your sub-$50,000 income couldn't cover.

Honestly, if someone else in your chosen profession makes more than 100 times your salary, it doesn't mean you bleed football. It usually means you're bad.

That's why the XFL has had to add so many bells and whistles to the game. It's why some genius decided to let the players put whatever they wanted on the back of their jerseys. How am I supposed to learn the names of these unknown players if they run around with "Big Herk" and "Baby Boy" emblazoned across their backs?

Some of these nicknames were just plain ridiculous. The Las Vegas halfback has "He hate me" on his jersey. Lacking command of the English language is one thing. Displaying your grammatical deficiencies on your hind side is another. And wouldn't you feel silly wearing the phrase "The Champ" on your jersey while your team is getting beaten like, well, a dead horse? Just put your surname on the back and let the scoreboard do the taunting for you.

Sure, the combination of gratuity and limited ability produced some moments worth watching. It brought back good memories to watch former K-State receiver Darnell McDonald catch a pair of passes for 42 yards and a touchdown. That won't be enough to draw me in week after week, though.

After the XFL debut Vince McMahon proclaimed, "I don't think there's ever enough sex."

At least he's being honest.

Imagine how great this league would be if Vince and his cohorts could put as much sincerity into the game itself.

Christopher is a senior in political science. You can e-mail him at cml1182@ksu.edu.

IN PROFILE

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 2001

7

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Insult
5 Prickly seed case
8 Fax
12 "Gotcha"
13 Actress Meyers
14 Cafeteria item
15 Tough to solve
17 Frost
18 Feedbag tidbit
19 Addicted
21 Frightening
24 Impale
25 Stockings
26 Mild stimulant
30 Actress MacGraw
31 Two-faced deity
32 Affirmative action?
33 Amaryllis cousin
35 Relinquish
36 What henchmen do
37 Twelve
38 Court figure
41 Wild a needle
42 Verbalized

DOWN
1 Dinner-time protection
2 Simile center
3 Ump
4 Preceding
5 Worm, often
6 Coffee-shop vessel
7 Legitimate
8 High-speed photography
9 Mr. Estrada
10 Appellation
11 Turned blue?
16 Do brickwork
20 Lumoxes
21 Roe provider
22 Pop choice
23 "Yeah, right!"
24 Garbage workers, for short
26 Certain Girl Scouts
27 Don Juan's mother
28 Protuberance
29 Unimprovable place
31 "What's My Line" guesses
34 Didn't even get a D
35 Cringes in fear
37, on the phone
38 "Benny & —"
39 Incite
40 Exceptional
41 Tunisian seaport
44 Exist
45 Drag
46 Chartres chum
47 Muppet eagle

Solution time: 23 mins.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER 2-6
CAB WINKS AGO
UMA EMAIL POD
PINEAPPLE PRO
TISO TELLER
CHAISET STIE
RIAP TEU STAKS
ALP SIKI PAINT
BELOW EING REA
BULTIA FOSTER
BUJOLD IFA
IRIA LOVEAPPLE
TAC ORALIS TON
ELK WENDY GOD

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18¢ only.) A King Features service. NYC.

2-6 CRYPTOQUIP

MUMEXWAT AZMTXWATR
PFBMTRWXFB WIXW
WIMD YNUU XUYXDR IXEM
WIMNT PZR XFB BAYFR

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: YOU CAN DESCRIBE A GRUMPY ROPE MANUFACTURER AS A GUY FIT TO BE TIED.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: A equals O

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

LOCAL TALENT

Who: Winston Branch, visiting professor of art

Winston Branch's show, "Recent Paintings" is on exhibit in the Willard Hall art gallery through Friday.

"Recent Paintings" is a compilation of the work Branch produced last semester. The 17 pieces attest to the work Branch puts into his art. Branch said he often works in his West Stadium studio until 2 or 3 a.m. to finish the sometimes massive acrylic-based abstract pieces.

Branch is a British citizen, born on the small Caribbean island of St. Lucia. Branch, who has traveled extensively, said he learns from each culture he lives within. The fact that he is in Kansas explains the country music drifting through the studio as he works, he said.

In fact, some of the pieces in the show, such as "I Should Be Ashes by Now," are named from the lyrics of country songs, Branch said. He even has a pair of cowboy boots to wear while he is in Kansas, he said.

Still, the main focus of Branch's visit to K-State is teaching, and he said he never loses sight of that goal.

"No one is born gifted," he said. "The artistic gift comes through hard work and perseverance, and I want to help my students become more artistic."

PHOTOS BY STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Flybox prepares for April release

By JJ DUNCAN
Kansas State Collegian

When Brandon Noone talks about Flybox's upcoming album, his movements become scattered, his voice quickens and a strange smile spreads over his face like he's proud of something that isn't quite tangible.

Noone, the band's drummer, isn't the only one anticipating the album. Flybox has been in the studio working on "Unhealthy Fattening Grooves" for the last couple of months, and the whole band seems to be excited about its April release.

Guitarist Patrick Crough said those who have heard the band's last demo compact disc will be blown away by the album's quality.

"Everything about this album is more talented than the demo CD," he said. "The difference between the two is like night and day."

Flybox has become popular for its metal guitar riffs blended with turntable scratching, fronted by a motor-mouthed lead singer, Britt Desbien. Fans can look forward to a more developed sound on the new album, Noone said.

"It seems like people at our shows who have heard us on the radio have heard 'The Mask,' but that song isn't even on our playlist anymore," he said. "We're past that stage, and this album shows that."

Though many bands make the trip to Lawrence to record, Nick Agderian, disc jockey, said the band tried out the local Mourning Wood Studios, which had an effect on the album's quality and sound.

Mourning Wood engineer J.D. Gilmore helped to produce the album, and without him the album would have suffered, Agderian, senior in graphic design, said.

The musicians knew what their goals were when they stepped into the studio, Noone said, but Gilmore added to the quality of the album.

Desbien, junior in marketing, said Gilmore's previous experience as a singer helped him expand musically.

"When Flybox first started out, we were basically just doing the rap-metal thing," he said. "I took vocal lessons because I was so sick of the same old thing, and I've come a long way. Since J.D. is a vocalist himself, he helped me out, and if he hadn't been there I know there's some things I just wouldn't have been able to nail."

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

J.D. Gilmore, center, with Mourning Wood Studios, plays one of Flybox's tracks Sunday night at his studio.

The relationship the band has developed with Gilmore is apparent when they get together in the studio. The differences between the group and Gilmore have helped them all learn, Agderian said.

Gilmore's mullet and apparent enthusiasm for '80s hair bands serve as a perfect foil for a young band that boasts a fusion of hip-hop, rock and even elements of techno. Instead of rejecting the new ideas, Gilmore said he took a personal approach to the band and ended up learning from them.

"Their music has brought a lot of energy to me that I put into my work," he said. "I've really been learning from the hip-hop angle because that's something I've never worked with before."

Gilmore said working with the band has been fun, and the fact that the band is so driven has made his job easier.

What is striking is the closeness of the band, Gilmore said.

"The camaraderie in this band is really unparalleled," he said. "They're like brothers, always fighting and joking, but they stick together. Each one has a different personality that really shows in the band and in the music."

Noone said the lighthearted attitude of the band shows whenever they get together, and the personalities create checks and balances that help them all get along.

The rest of the band said Noone fits perfectly into the drummer stereotype, with his outgoing personality and half-cocked attitude that makes him jump into things head first.

Only someone as collected and level-headed as bass player Mike Vallis could balance Noone's presence in the band. In fact, it seems like the entire band is a collection of personalities that create a fragile balance that makes the group work, Crough said.

The blend of personalities assist the song-writing process as well, Desbien said.

All of the songs on the new album were written collectively, often pooling different sounds around one person's idea, he said.

"The process is collaborative," he said. "One person comes in with an idea, and we build around that. The song can take on a completely different feel by the time it's done."

Crough said the diversity is what makes Flybox work.

"So many musical minds and so many flavors are in this band that when it all comes together, some really cool stuff happens," he said.

Recording the songs in a studio has done wonders for the band's understanding of its own music and for the talent of the band, Agderian said. Before recording, Agderian said he hadn't been singing the right word to one of the band's songs, but hearing Desbien's voice in the studio cleared up the confusion.

Vallis said working in the studio has affected every aspect of the band.

"The studio has even made us better live," he said. "When we're up there playing we can only hear things through the monitors. Now we have heard the songs so thoroughly that we are aware of things we didn't even realize before."

Agderian said "Unhealthy Fattening Grooves" seriously will affect the future of Flybox.

"It all comes down to this CD," he said. "The reason we have been sort of stagnant lately, I think, has been because we don't have a quality album we can send out and push at shows. This is really going to help us progress."

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL

SHOW

■ continued from page 6

Fences and Novice Flat. Mertz won the International Flat event at the second show.

"Since I just transferred, I just wanted to ride really well," Mertz said. "I wanted to help the team out and not let anyone down. I think the team has worked hard at practice, and it showed over the weekend."

Mertz transferred at semester from the University of the South in Seawee, Tenn. She said she transferred to K-State for her veterinary medicine major, but the equestrian team also played a role in her decision.

"It was difficult, but the team has really helped me out," Mertz said. "All the camaraderie and the practices help. They have been very open to me. It would've been a lot harder without the team."

Seven Wildcats placed second over the weekend. Freshman Julie Hufft took second in Advanced Walk, Trot, Canter in her first varsity meet.

"I am totally pumped," Hufft said. "It wasn't the greatest show, but I think everyone had some really good rides. I think we all gave 100 percent. I have never been in a sport, and I really feel this team thing going."

The Wildcats now are second in the region with 172 points. Texas A&M is ahead of K-State by just 12 points.

"I am confident in the team," Slough said. "The weather has made it very difficult to practice. We are going to have to ride well all across the board to do it. I am going to keep my fingers crossed for the team."

WEEK IN SPORTS

Wednesday
Women's Basketball — vs. Missouri, 7 p.m., Bramlage Coliseum
Men's Basketball — at Missouri, 7 p.m., Hearnes Center
Football signing day

Friday
Baseball — at LSU

Saturday
Men's Basketball — vs. Colorado, 12:45 p.m., Bramlage Coliseum
Women's Basketball — at Iowa State, 7 p.m., Baseball — at LSU
Equestrian — at Oklahoma State
Tennis — at Wichita State, 3 p.m.

Sunday
Baseball — at LSU
Equestrian — at Oklahoma State

BALL GAME

■ continued from page 6

Crimson Storm cut the Wildcat lead to 7-6 in the eighth.

But in the bottom half of the eighth, K-State first baseman Mark English extended the lead with a two-run single, knocking in Castillo and left fielder Kasey Weishaar to stretch the Wildcat lead to 9-6.

Senior Kelvin Day took the mound in the ninth and got the last out to pick up his first save of the year.

Castillo finished three-for-five with two RBI's, and senior designated hitter Josh Cavender also had three base hits as the Cats pounded out 11 base hits.

Joey Burnett was the losing pitcher for the Crimson Storm, getting touched up for four runs and six hits over 3 1/3 innings on the hill. Shortstop Seth Brown went one-for-three with an RBI for Southern Nazarene before being ejected in the fifth for arguing a call with home plate umpire Matt Kaylor.

The win leaves the Cats with a 2-0 mark going into a tough three-game road trip against the defending National Champion LSU Tigers. The series starts at 7 p.m. Friday in Baton Rouge.

Junior guard named Big 12 Rookie of the Week

Point guard Larry Reid was named the Phillips 66 Big 12 Rookie of the Week for the second time this season for his performances against Nebraska and No. 15 Iowa State last week.

The Midwest City, Okla., native averaged 24.0 points and 4.5 assists in the Cats' two games. He scored 18 points, recorded four steals and turned the ball over just twice in K-State's loss to Nebraska on Tuesday. Against Iowa State on Saturday, Reid scored 30 points and hit seven of his nine three-point attempts. His seven treys are tied for fourth on the K-State single-game three-point chart and are the second most ever posted by a Cat in a road game, trailing Steve Henson's eight at Iowa State on Feb. 17, 1990.

SPORTS BRIEFS

For the season, Reid is averaging 11.1 points and 4.1 assists in a team-high 34.7 minutes per game. He also has his 16 of his last 30 attempts (53.3 percent) from behind the arc.

The last K-State player to named Rookie of the Week was Tony Kitt in December 1998 and January 1999.

K-State golfer sets Colbert Hills record

Junior Bryan Milberger shot 5-under-par 67 on Jan. 23 to set a new course record at Colbert Hills Golf Course, rated the toughest course in the state of Kansas by the Kansas Golf Association.

The Olathe, Kan., native broke the previous course record of 4-under-par 68 set by Jim Kane, the head professional at Eagle Bend Country Club in Lawrence, Kan.

During the record round, Milberger shot 1-under-par 35 on the front nine and toured the back nine with a 4-under-par 32. He birdied the 18th hole to secure the record.

Milberger and the K-State men's golf team start their spring season Feb. 12-13 at the Rice Inter-collegiate in Houston, Texas.

K-State to honor 1950-51 basketball team Saturday

One of the greatest all-time teams in K-State history will be honored at halftime of the Colorado basketball game at 12:45 p.m. Saturday at Bramlage Coliseum.

The 1950-51 basketball team reached the Final Four and finished as runner-up to national champion

Kentucky. The team compiled a 25-4 record.

The Cats were coached by the late Jack Gardner, who will be represented by son Jim Gardner and grandson James Gardner. Thirteen players are expected to attend, including Ernie Barrett, Glenn Channell, Bob Garcia, Dr. John "Hoot" Gibson, Ed Head, Lew Hitch, Jim Iverson, Dick Knostman, Dick Peck, Perk Reitemeier, Bob Rousey, Dan Schuyler and Jack Stone.

In that group, Barrett, Hitch and Stone earned All-Big Seven Conference Honors and Barrett was named a first-team All-American. Seven of the team's total 14 players were drafted by the NBA.

— compiled by Michael Noll

— K-State Sports Information contributed to these briefs.

OSU wins 1st game back since Jan. 27 tragedy

■ Cowboys defeat Tigers 69-66 in contest at home.

By OWEN CANFIELD
The Associated Press

STILLWATER, Okla. — Oklahoma State's basketball team played a game Monday night, giving the players and coaches a chance to focus — for a while, at least — on something other than the loss of 10 friends.

Welcomed by a boisterous crowd, the Cowboys returned to the court to play Missouri in their first game since a Jan. 27 plane crash in Colorado that killed two players and eight other members of the school's traveling party.

The Cowboys won, 69-66, in a spirited game that had the crowd inside Gallagher-Iba roaring all night. Fredrik Jonzen scored 26 and Maurice Baker had 22 for Oklahoma State.

Many in the crowd, along with the coaches from both schools, wore orange ribbons in memory of the victims. The main lobby of the arena remained filled with flowers and handwritten messages to the victims.

The students, most of them in place 90 minutes before tipoff, gave each of the Oklahoma State players a standing ovation as they filed out, a few at a time, for the pregame shootaround. Jonzen, the first out, applauded back at them with upraised arms.

The players received a standing ovation as they trotted to the dressing room shortly before the game. Then, moments later, the arena fell silent for 30 seconds to honor the victims.

Four minutes before gametime, the arena rocked with noise once again as the team came onto the floor. Coach Eddie Sutton followed moments later, trailed by nearly a dozen television cameras.

"Remembering our fallen 10, we'll prove once again this is the rowdiest arena in the country," public address announcer Larry Reece bellowed before introducing the starting lineups. As usual, each Cowboy was greeted with a roar.

The game program was dedicated to the victims, and the cover featured a picture of each. The lineup sheets provided to media listed the names of players Dan Lawson and Nate Fleming, with a ribbon alongside each. The Cowboys' uniforms included a black square on the chest with the number 10 and a ribbon inside.

Once the game began, it was business as usual — Sutton coming out of his seat several times, either to holler at his players or the officials.

The Cowboys (14-4, 5-2 Big 12) used a 13-4 run midway through the second half to take a 59-52 lead. Missouri (14-7, 5-3) fought back and made it a one-point game, 65-64, on Brian Grawer's steal and layup with 1:39 left.

Don't miss your chance to get a K-State Campus Phone Book

DRY CLEAN CITY INC.
PREPAY $2.49 STORE HOURS
MOST DRYCLEAN ITEMS M-F 7-7 SAT 9-5
LAUNDRY • JEANS $2.75 • SHIRTS $1.50 • KHAKIS $2.75
WHY PAY MORE?
427 E. POYNTZ • NEXT TO HASTINGS • 776-1515

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
776-5577
1800 Claflin Road

HANSEN NUTRITION CENTER
Locally owned one stop Health Food Supermarket
3112 Anderson • 537-4571
Across from Plaza West

Ramblers STEAK HOUSE & SALOON
T-Bone Tuesday
14 oz. USDA Choice T-Bone with all the Trimmings.
(Baked potatoes, salad & dinner roll)
Drink Specials
$1 Old Mil Light Bottles
$1.50 Domestic
$3.75 Pitchers
8711 E. Hwy. 24
Manhattan, KS
539-4989

American Legion BINGO!
Sunday 2 p.m.
Tuesday 1:30 p.m.
Wednesday 7:30 p.m.
"Progressive Bingo"
Sundays & Wednesdays
- Win Big Bucks -
114 McCall Rd.

DANCE NIGHT TUESDAY
NO COUNTRY MUSIC
TIGHT FITTIN JEANS 2001
Every Thursday Night in February
Come get signed up now!
PITCHERS
LONGHORNS

CITY FARMERS SURPLUS
OPEN: Tue.-Fri. 10 a.m.-6 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.
Appliances, furniture, home improvement, hardware merchandise, office equipment, jewelry, clothing, medical equipment, exercise equipment, tools, knick knacks, lots more
- Truckload Weekly -
- New Merchandise Daily -
- New Mattress Sets Starting at:
Twin.....$100
Full.....$140
Queen.....$180
King.....$230
539-8579
121 S. 4th St.
Downtown, Manhattan

Where are you going to live?!!
McCullough Development can help!
• Wildcat Inn • Royal Towers
• Parkview Apts. • Brittnay Ridge
• Cheverly Apts. • Gold Key Apts.
• Pinehaven Apts. • Campus Crest Apts.
• Model units start February 8.
(watch Collegian for details)
Call for more information!
(785)776-3804
McCullough Development
2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
http://www.mdlproperties.com
YOUR WILDCAT HOUSING EXPERT FOR FINDING THE "PURRFECT" APARTMENT!

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.
DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.
Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)
DMS Bail Bonds
"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

Karaoke Night featuring Sage
$2.25 pitchers
$5.50 draws
$5.49 chicken fried steak
$1 Goose Island Bottles

Claflin Books and Copies
Dependable Quality Service
Transparencies
Across from Goodnow Hall
Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338
• Free pregnancy testing
• Totally confidential service
• Same day results
• Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

FROM THE RUNAWAY BEST-SELLING NOVEL
LEFT BEHIND
Seth Child Cinemas - Begins February 2
Coupons for discounted tickets are available from
Christian Books & Gifts, 1437 Anderson, Manhattan 537-0310

KSU Department of Theatre Presents
How I Learned to Drive
a Pulitzer Prize winner
by Paula Vogel
SPECIAL TALKBACK SESSIONS
IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING
PERFORMANCES ON THE 8, 14 & 15
The clearer this picture gets
The better you will know this family
The more your heart will break for them
February 8-10, 14-17
Nichols Theater 8 p.m.
$6 for students/seniors
$9 general public
McCain Box Office 532-6428

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 2001

9

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets 776-2102.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

"LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION" Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION" Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets (785)776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. 1001 Fremont. $325/ month. References, deposit, tenant pays electric. (785)456-2331.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan Ave $550 Call 785-456-2812.

145 Roommate Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bathroom house. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house now through May. $350/ month includes all UTILITIES, WASHER/ DRYER. Call 341-5401. (785)537-0038.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please. Great two-bedroom apartment, $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan. (785)537-7228.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

310 Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. For info, call (203)977-1720.

"THE GREATEST SUMMER of your life! Camp Pontiac, a premier overnight camp in New York is hiring enthusiastic and mature individuals that have skills in: Basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball, softball, golf, swimming, sailing, ropes/climbing wall, gymnastics, art, drama, lacrosse, football, volleyball and video/web design, information and interviews February 15th. Email campontiac@hotmail.com to set up an interview.

BILINGUAL (SPANISH/English) full-time support staff person to communicate with field staff and clients, maintain database records, compile reports. Must have excellent communication skills in both languages, be detail oriented, able to work independently. Working knowledge of Microsoft Office products, database skills required. AS400 a plus. Requires previous experience in office environment. Apply at AIB, 1213 Bakers Way, Manhattan. EOE

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Two-bedroom apartment with dishwasher, washer and dryer. Central heat and air. $217 monthly, plus half utilities. 537-0489.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for a large room in furnished house with washer/ dryer. $225/ month. Call Joe at 587-9006.

STARTING AUGUST 2001: Female needed to share apartment at 1800 Platt. Prime condition and location. $275 plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3424.

DO YOU LOVE CANDLES? Do you believe that work can be fun? It can be! Begin your own business selling candles and accessories through home parties. Earn an average $35/ hour. No experience necessary, no inventory or delivery. Email Sherri at: slp1645@aol.com

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Summer in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+ Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2820.

HELP WANTED: Earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. Call 1-504-646-1700 Dept. KS-6438.

K-STATE ARCHITECTURE or planning student wanted to work on 8-week summer preservation/ design project in Liberal, KS. $2,500 pay plus $500 scholarship. Call Joy at 532-5701.

K-STATE SOCIAL science, economics or planning student wanted to work on 8-week summer development project in Burdett, KS. $2,500 pay plus $500 scholarship. Call Joy at 532-5701.

KAW VALLEY Greenhouses is looking for full- and part-time seasonal applicants. Must be willing to work at a fast pace. Some full-time positions will require travel (meal allowance, transportation and housing included). Call Chris Yoder, 776-8585 Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday after 3pm.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

310 Help Wanted

Leading pharmaceutical company seeking Manager Trainee at our Manhattan Center. Training duties include oversight of the operations of the center and staff, indirectly supervising and motivating employees, and reporting weekly records. College degree in business administration or biological sciences preferred, but extensive work experience may be substituted for degree. Must be willing to relocate after training.

PART-TIME HELP wanted, 15-20 hours/ week. Call 537-9188.

PART-TIME STUDENT must be self-motivated, willing to learn, and work flexible hours. Pay negotiable. Persons at all levels of technical ability seeking challenging position with no limits on growth, apply at KSU Telecommunications, East Stadium Room 109 and/or beemem@telecom.ksu.edu.

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27-July 29. Program offers horseback riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application/ information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.ksu.edu/csc. Applications available at our website www.camptowanda.com. Additional information at (800)923-2267.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS. Camp counselors needed for top girls' camp in Maine. Top salary, travel paid in full, room/ board/ laundry and uniform provided. Skilled in Arts/ Crafts (ceramics, jewelry, stained glass), Canoeing, Basketball, Orienteering, Field Hockey, Golf, Gymnastics, Horseback Riding, English Hunt Seat, Lacrosse, Photographer/ Videographer, Piano Accompanist, Office/ Administration, Outdoor Adventure, Ropes/ Challenge Course, Sailing, Soccer, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Theatre, Volleyball, Water-skiing, Windsurfing. Additional opportunities for kitchen, cooks, maintenance, nurses. CAMP VEGA FOR GIRLS!! Visit our website at www.campvega.com to complete an application and receive a camp video or call 1-800-838-8342. Come see us! We will be on campus Wednesday, March 7th West Stadium #3 in the Union from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Drop-in interviews encouraged, no appointment necessary.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.buckskin.com

we kick ads. CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

310 Help Wanted

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441 (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@earthlink.net

320 Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

615 N. 3rd. Wohler's-- furniture, antiques, appliances. Lots of beer memorabilia. Buy, sell and trade.

435 Computers

POWERBOOK G3, 400 mhz, DVD, 192 meg RAM, 6 gig drive, extras. $1500. 539-4600 leave a message.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1992 THUNDERBIRD. Power doors, windows, seats, 136,000 mostly highway miles. Excellent condition. $2700 or best offer. (785) 395-1511.

510 Automobiles

1993 NISSAN Altima GLE. Auto, four-door, leather, sunroof, pearl beige, all options, low miles, great condition. 532-7520/ 537-7976.

1997 PONTIAC Grand Prix GT. Red, priced below book at $10,950, power everything. 341-5169.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

'91 HONDA Prelude, 2.0 Si, one owner, 130K, white with black interior, AC, sunroof, cruise, good tires, clean, $4450 (785) 587-8615.

600 travel/trips

630 Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Great rates still available! (800)234-7007, endsummerstours.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island www.pirantals.com/spring-break 1-800-292-7520.

SPRING BREAK PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES (404) 355-9637

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call For a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.springbreaks.com

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

CANCUN BLOWOUT! Lagoon from Beachfront for $499 $559 Packages include jet surfers, 7 nights hotel, party package, etc.

ACAPULCO JAMAICA $649 $509 SPACE IS LIMITED CALL TODAY!!

STUDENT TRAVEL SERVICES 1-800-448-4849 www.ststtravel.com

SPRING BREAK BEST DEALS! Panama City/Padre Daytona/Wilton Road Seville/Beachfront Breakdown! 1-800-SUNCHASE www.sunchase.com

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $7.35
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $8.65
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $10.15
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $11.25
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $12.25
each word over 20 40¢ per word (consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD

Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days. FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN Union parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

FOUND: LADIES watch near Calvin Hall. Call to identify. 532-7190.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

100 housing/real estate

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM efficiency. Available now or May. Most utilities paid. Close to everything. $295/ month. Off-Street parking. Leave message 776-8804.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Available 05/15/01-08/15/01. $600 month including all utilities, washer/ dryer. Call 341-5401.

UPSTAIRS STUDIO for one person. $275 available immediately. 539-5778.

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

WOODWAY MANHATTAN

Welcome Home

- Sparkling swimming pool
- Spacious decks/ patios
- Avail. June 5 and Aug. 6
- Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
- On-site laundry facilities
- Economical gas heat

1-BRM $450 $480 $470
2-BRM $510 $580 $590
3-BRM $715 $750 $785
4-BRM $880 $900 $920

Office: 2400 Kimball Ave at College Ave. (across from Bramlage)

Call Sara at 537-7007 for an appointment.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JULY, two-bedroom, living, dining room, hardwood floors, study, family room, one three-fourth bath, one car garage. $600 plus utilities. One-bedroom basement, study, living room. $300 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking, or pets. 539-1554.

AVAILABLE NOW, large two-bedroom, near campus, two-bedroom near downtown. Also one-bedroom. Most utilities paid. No dogs. 537-8389.

AVAILABLE STARTING March 1, two-bedroom apartment in small complex near Westloop. Includes fireplace, dishwasher, private washer/ dryer, and deck leading down to parking. Call 770-8213.

FURNISHED OR unfurnished for August. Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment. 350 N. 16th, 1230 Claflin, $510. Also for June and August, Large one-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $450. Heat, water, trash three-fourth paid laundry mat 539-2482.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

Leasing Now Thru August

- Cambridge Square
- Sandstone Apts. Only a few left!
- Fireplaces • Canyons
- Pool • Private Dock
- Laundry Facilities
- Large 2-bedroom Units

CALL NOW
Weekdays 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Showings by appointment

LEASING FOR fall 2001: two-bedroom, excellent condition and location. 776-4166 or www.angelfire.com/ks2/blue.htm

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March. 1854/ 1858 Claflin $385- $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3804

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished, available May 15-August 15 $450/ month all utilities included, washer/ dryer. Call 341-5401.

135 For Sale-Mobile Homes

TWO BEDROOMS in Colonial Gardens. $9000 or best offer. 537-9328.

145 Roommate Wanted

"CHEAP!" MALE roommate needed to share three-bedroom house, two blocks from campus and Aggieville. Washer/ Dryer and dishwasher. Call after 4:20 p.m. 537-3735.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share two-bedroom apartment starting August 1 one block from campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer on-site. Shawna 539-6155

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Pay half rent and utilities. Water and waste paid. Two blocks from campus. Call (785)263-3525.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for a large room in furnished house with washer/ dryer. $225/ month. Call Joe at 587-9006.

STARTING AUGUST 2001: Female needed to share apartment at 1800 Platt. Prime condition and location. $275 plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3424.

ROOMMATES NEEDED 4 BEDROOM

- 2 bath
- Fully furnished
- Modern
- Recreation facilities
- Fitness center
- Computer labs
- Washer/Dryer
- and many more amenities

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

539-0500 UNIVERSITY COMMONS

APARTMENTS 2215 COLLEGE AVE

150 Sublease

AVAILABLE NOW: One-bedroom at Chase Manhattan apartments. Must move. Call Sarah (785) 776-9001.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath house, 1870 College Heights, $700/ month (gas bill included). 537-7701.

200 service directory

300 employment/opportunities

DROWNING in your sorrows?

Find your lifesaver in the PERSONALS.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 KEDZIE • 532-6555</

Kansas high school students arrested for Columbine-like murder conspiracy

The Associated Press

HOYT, Kan. — Three students were charged Monday after authorities uncovered a plot to attack their school in northeast Kansas.

Charges of conspiracy to commit aggravated arson were filed against Richard Bradley, Jr., 18; Jason Moss, 17; and James Lopez, 16. Lopez faces an additional charge of aggravated intimidation of a witness or victim, said Jackson County District Attorney Douglas Fisher.

Efforts made by the Associated Press on Monday evening to contact the parents and three students were unsuccessful.

The trio was arrested Friday on charges of conspiracy to commit murder and conspiring to criminally use explosives after officials searched two homes in Mayetta and Hoyt. Deputies there found bomb-making materials, hand-drawn floor plans of the school, a modified assault rifle, about 400 rounds of ammunition and white supremacist and Nazi drawings.

Also taken from the homes were three black trench coats similar to what the two Columbine High School gunmen wore and for which they dubbed themselves the "Trench Coat Mafia," the Topeka Capital Journal reported Monday.

Detective Steven Rupert of the Jackson County Sheriff's Office said the suspects had discussed the Columbine attack and allegedly planned to make a similar attack on Royal Valley High School in May, possibly at a school event such as a dance.

"I would guess it would be nothing short of what happened at Columbine" had the three carried out an attack at the Hoyt high school, Rupert told the Capital-Journal.

On April 20, 1999, at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colo., two teen-age boys killed 12 fellow students and a teacher and wounded 23 people before committing suicide.

Rupert called the three Royal Valley students loners and said they hung with no particular group.

The plot was uncovered when a student went to school officials and said that explosives were being built and detonated by the suspects. They allegedly had been making bombs with Fourth of July sparklers, pipe bombs with fertilizer, and relatively harmless dry ice bombs, Rupert said.

Although deputies found a skull of a bobcat that had swastikas drawn on it, a Confederate battle flag and "white power" written on a couple of items, Rupert said the plot didn't appear to target minority students.

"It did not seem to be racially motivated at all," Rupert said.

Of the 900 students enrolled in the district, about 20 percent are minorities, Superintendent Marceta Reilly said. Most of those students are American Indian, she said.

Two of the teenagers were being kept Monday at the Shawnee County juvenile facility, and Bradley was in the Jackson County Detention Facility, said Fred Baier, corrections administrator for Jackson County.

The preliminary hearing for Bradley is scheduled Feb. 15. Bond was set for $10,000. The two juveniles — Moss and Lopez — will remain in detention until their next court appearance March 1.

Fisher said trying the juveniles as adults is an option.

Cruise, Kidman announce split, cite work demands

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — After 11 years of marriage, Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman said Monday they are separating because their work is keeping them apart.

Pat Kingsley, a spokeswoman for the actors, said the decision was made regretfully.

"Citing the difficulties inherent in divergent careers, which constantly keep them apart, they concluded that an amicable separation seems best for both of them at this time," Kingsley said.

The couple have two adopted children, Connor and Isabella. It wasn't known whether custody would be shared. Kingsley denied further comment.

Cruise has starred in "Born on the Fourth of July," "A Few Good Men," "Jerry Maguire," "Mission: Impossible," "Rain Man," "Top Gun" and "Magnolia."

Kidman spent three months in Spain last fall to film "The Others," with Cruise as one of the executive producers. Her movie credits include "Batman Forever," "Malice" and "To Die For."

The couple starred together in the films "Far and Away" and "Days of Thunder."

Kidman discussed her marriage in a 1998 interview: "It's been nine years, and I'm past the seven-year itch. When you're loved for your flaws, that's when you really feel safe."

One year later, the couple starred together in "Eyes Wide Shut," which included a sex scene between the couple. A tabloid report that claimed they had to hire a sex therapist to help them with "Eyes Wide Shut" scenes led to a lawsuit.

The Star supermarket tabloid later agreed to donate money to a charity and ran a retraction.

AGGIEVILLE

■ continued from page 1

Pyramid Pizza has been divided into three parts. Two parts are being renovated, and one part has been leased.

Cheryl Sieben, director of Aggieville Business Association, said there is a lot of outside interest in the location of Aggieville.

"A lot of it is timing. The right building has to be available for the right people," she said. "It's just getting the right fit for the right business."

Sieben said Lowman's has closed its location on Moro Street, but the previous owner has a new business partner, and they have started a new business, the Tom James Company, on 708 12th St. The company is one part of Pyramid Pizza that has been leased.

She said some of the services have changed, and it is more of a custom men's store.

"It's more appearance than it is a loss," she said. "They have just changed their way of business."

DIVERSITY

■ continued from page 1

Union who read poetry and performed African drumming.

Peter Lwigale, graduate student in biology, and Tichauya Chinyoka, senior in management information systems, performed three drumming pieces.

Lwigale asked the audience to excuse any mistakes, as drumming normally is done in large groups with all the musicians being from the same tribe. Lwigale is a native of Uganda, and Chinyoka is a native of Botswana.

"We're trying to put our rhythms together," Lwigale said, "so bear with us if we make mistakes."

After performing several pieces, the two drummers asked for a volunteer from the audience. Megan Tibbetts, senior in nutritional sciences, joined them on stage.

"They gave me a very simple beat to work with, but once they started playing, I had trouble holding my own," she said. "It takes a lot more talent when you're sitting up there, actually having to keep the beat."

Tibbetts said she attended the Festival of Nations as part of an anthropology class assignment, but she said she learned something about her fellow African and black students.

"I realized I don't know as much about my past as they do," she said. "They do a very good job of passing on from generation to generation their history, which is really amazing to me."

COMMITTEE

■ continued from page 1

the resolution.

The funding in the bond surplus account would cover all proposals on the resolution presented at the meeting.

An estimated $700,000 would be left over after the resolution. That money would be used to pay off bonds owed by the university for the Union renovations, the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex and Hale Library.

Lenkner said this funding is possible due to the good economy and high enrollment.

"My recommendation is that the funding be used on debt reduction," Lenkner said.

GET IT ONLINE

Order your yearbook. Today.

103 Kedzie Hall • 532-6555 • royalpurple.ksu.edu

Give us your opinion.

Campus Fourum:
395-4444

See what's new on the forums

video polls

e-mail

photo galleries

instant coverage

archives

www.kstatecollegian.com

Once in a Lifetime

engagements and weddings

Sharing your engagement and wedding announcements in the Collegian the first Friday of every month.

Your engagement and wedding are special moments in your life and the Kansas State Collegian wants to help you share the news with family and friends. This semester you can put your announcement with a picture in the Collegian's "Once in a Lifetime" special section for FREE.

"Once in a Lifetime" runs the first Friday of every month.

To publish your announcement, please complete the form and take it to Student Publications, Kedzie 103 (east of the K-State Student Union). The deadline for getting your announcement in the paper will be the Wednesday preceding the publication date.

To place a FREE engagement or wedding announcement in the Collegian, complete and submit the following form with a vertical photo to Kedzie 103.

Your name _____

Address _____

City, state, zip _____

Telephone number _____

☐ I wish to place an engagement announcement

☐ I wish to place a wedding announcement

☐ I also want to include a photo (must be vertical)

Signature _____

Announcement Information

Groom's name: _____

Year in school: _____

Major: _____

Bride's name: _____

Year in school: _____

Major: _____

Bride's parents: _____

City/State: _____

Groom's parents: _____

City/State: _____

Wedding date: _____

Location (city/state): _____

include information below for wedding announcements

Wedding Attendants: _____

Other brief details: _____

Announcement Information

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 55 ■ LOW 47

WEDNESDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 7, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 93

Art class teaches holiday card making
■ page 8

Meth use, manufacturing on rise in Kansas

By FRANK FLATON AND JOSHUA KINDER
Kansas State Collegian

Methamphetamine use has risen so fast, and its effects have been so devastating, that Kansas Bureau of Investigation Spokesman Kyle Smith said he was pleased meth lab seizures had increased 38 percent last year.

The addictive and dangerous narcotic quickly has become a drug of choice in Kansas.

Due to meth's accessibility, volatility in the manufacturing process and harmful side effects, local and state authorities are concerned with the rapid increases in use and manufacturing.

Unlike marijuana and cocaine, meth can be manufactured by using household ingredients that can be bought at any hardware or grocery store.

Recipes can be found off the Internet, and it's not hard at all for a manufacturer to set up a lab quickly in a creek bed, on the side of the road, in a barn, in a car or even in the home.

"Meth manufacturing is like a disease or a plague," Smith said. "Someone can learn a recipe and then teach the method to their friends in another county. Or they learn it on the Internet and tell someone in another state. Then the manufacturing just starts spreading like a virus."

Consequently, meth-lab seizures have increased drastically in the past six years. Kansas ranked third in the country in 1999 in seizures.

KBI and local authorities in Kansas seized 702 labs last year. That's a jump from 511 in 1999 and 189 in 1998. There were 99 labs seized in 1997, 71 in 1996, seven in 1995 and four in 1994.

"It's sad that we're encouraged by only a 38-percent increase," Smith said. "If rapes were to increase by that amount in any community, people would be screaming. It really is sad. It's increasing so rapidly for so long that we're encouraged."

See METH on PAGE 5

Methamphetamine Laboratory seizures

The counties highlighted are those with more than 15 lab seizures in 2000. Statewide, 702 seizures were made in 2000, up from 511 in 1999, 189 in 1998, 99 in 1997 and 4 in 1994.

April Sherman, third-year veterinary medicine student and one of the organizers of Pets and People, takes Kadie to visit Ruth Bayard, 83, resident of St. Joseph Senior Community, 2423 Kimball Ave. Pets and People is an organization that takes volunteers and their pets to see residents of nursing homes.

KAREN MIKOLS/
Collegian

Pets visit nursing home

■ Veterinary students participate in national program to bring animals to senior citizens for companionship.

By CRISTINA JANNEY
Kansas State Collegian

Captain sat quietly in Nellie Toburen's lap. Toburen stroked Captain's long, brown-multi-colored hair with her paper-thin, gnarled hands. Captain didn't seem to be bothered by this strange place with strange people or Toburen's strange metal chair with wheels.

Toburen talked about her own pet, the yellow and white dog she had on the farm. She remembered later it was a Collie but not its name.

"It's nice to have a dog around," she said. Eight volunteers affiliated with the College of Veterinary Medicine on Friday brought their pets, including dogs and two cats, to St. Joseph Senior Community.

The Pets and People program is affiliated with the national American Animal Hospital Association, which tries to help people in places like St. Joseph have exposure to animals. Pets and People tries to visit the three nursing homes in town once a month.

Studies have shown people who have pets live longer, and exposure to pets can help people relax and lower their blood pressure, April Sherman, project coordinator, said.

Ruth Bayard wanted to pet every dog in her sight. Red, a greyhound, shook her hand. She shrieked and then laughed when she saw the cats.

"I like dogs, period," she said. "Cats look so sneaky."

Bayard was trying to con volunteers into bringing her a dog of her own, and she did so with a cunning that an inmate might use to coax someone to bring him a file.

"I don't want the dogs to visit," she said. "I want them to stay with me."

Amy Grant, assistant activities director, said sometimes residents will talk about the animal visits for weeks afterward.

"Some just light up," she said. "They don't get a lot of contact with things that are normal parts

MORE INFO?

E-mail April Sherman at asherman@vet.ksu.edu for information about Pets and People. The program also does educational programs for children.

of life."

A large part of feeling good is your own choice, Grant said.

"It is easy to give up in here," she said. "Even if holding a cat for 15 minutes boosts their moods, it's worth it."

For those who can't speak, the changes can be noticed in their eyes and the way they carry themselves, she said.

Jennett Bowman sat quietly and slightly to the back of the rest. A red knit sweater was draped over her drooping shoulders. A Labrador Retriever named Henry sauntered up to her and put his head in her lap.

She straightened up with a gasp of excitement. She spoke only through her eyes that widened to the size of nickels, as if she was a child who had been handed her first puppy.

All the animals who participate in the program are temperament tested to see if they can tolerate

See PETS on PAGE 12

Commission votes down roundabout

By SCOTT ALDIS-WILSON
Kansas State Collegian

With all the debate Tuesday night to put a roundabout versus a traffic light at the intersection of Kimball and North Manhattan avenues, Ed Klimek's metaphor before he voted was the can of spinach he brought.

Balancing the can on the counter, behind which he and the four other Manhattan City Commissioners sat, Klimek said the canned vegetable has many vitamins, but very few people eat it.

By the same token, he said, roundabouts have been supported by engineering and statistics but remain largely unpopular with the general populace.

"Engineering tells me it's good. Then the people tell me 'I don't want to open that can,'" he said.

Klimek voted against the roundabout Tuesday night, saying he did not want to push an option on citizens. Commissioners Carol Peak and Roger Reitz also voted against it.

Commissioner Bruce Snead and Mayor Karen McCulloh voted for it. A motion immediately was made toward a traffic light with Klimek, Peak and Reitz voting yes and Snead and McCulloh voting no. Officially, the light is in by 3-2, and the concrete island is out by the same vote.

The debate, however, remains one of studies against public opinion and experience on both sides. Though everyone seems to agree the intersection has problems, with 78 accidents recorded between 1991 and July 2000, the best solution depends on who is talking.

HWS Consulting Group Inc., the city-chosen consultant on this issue, advocated the roundabout in previous meetings with support from city staff.

Jack Messer, manager of the local HWS office, said the roundabout not only reduces the speed of all drivers, eliminates 90-degree collisions and has longer sight distance than a traffic light, but it also costs $430,000 less. Even improperly used, it could be safer than a light, he said.

"Someone running a red light at 45 or 50 miles per hour is more dangerous than someone misentering a roundabout at 20 miles per hour," he said.

Michael Wallwork, a traffic engineer and HWS consultant who has worked with roundabouts for decades, said people continue to run red lights.

"You cannot run a red light at a roundabout," Wallwork said.

As far as navigation, Wallwork said the design is no more than a round road with driveways around it. If people treat it as such, he said, they will be fine.

Others disagreed — Student Body President Jake Worcester, Student Senate Chair Travis Lenkner and Vice President of Institutional Advancement Bill Muir in particular.

Muir, representing President Jon Wefald, said one

See COMMISSION on PAGE 12

Kansas area codes change due to increasing telecommunications

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Southern Kansans might have to think twice before giving out their phone number.

Saturday marked a change in area codes to 620 for all of southern Kansas, except the Wichita metropolitan area, which will keep the 316 code.

"The new area code is necessary because the number of available telephone number prefixes are running out," said Rosemary Foreman, director of public affairs at the Kansas Corporation Commission. "It is really a result of the telecommunications field. People are using cell phones, computer lines, fax machines and personal lines, and each one of them takes a different number."

The two-way split will begin with a transition period known as the permissive dialing period. Until Nov. 3, callers can use both the old and new area code, but beginning that day, the use of the new 620 area code is mandatory.

In Hutchinson, however, businesses already are taking steps to prepare for the change. Hutchinson Community College is among those.

"Right now what we are working on is getting the word out to staff and administration to change letterhead and stationery," Harley Marshall, director of public relations, said. "We also have to make mental notes to change anything that goes out to potential students — class catalogs, promotional material and enrollment forms."

Marshall said the transitional period has been helpful to the community college.

"It just takes time to make the switch," he said. "Originally, the transition period was going to be much shorter, and that, of course, caused much concern. However, we are happy with this amount of time."

In the McPherson City Clerk's office, employees are not as concerned.

"We haven't changed anything," Sherry Conyers, employee, said. "We have that transition period for the community to get used to the change, and we think it will go smoothly."

Students at K-State also said they aren't worried about the change.

Anthony YBarra, who originally is from Hutchinson, said he already is used to the new area code.

"When I call home on my cell phone, it is automatic to use the 620 code," YBarra, freshman in business administration, said. "620 is not a hard number to remember, but I want to get used to it now before we have to start using it."

Adam Krol, junior in secondary education, said he really hasn't heard much about the new area code but is going to try and start using it when he calls his friends and family.

"It is going to be a major pain at first just to remember, but by November, I should be able to start using it regularly," he said.

Foreman said this isn't the end of the area code changes in southern Kansas.

"If phone numbers are used at the current rate, Wichita will exhaust the amount of available phone numbers' combinations in six years and the 620 phone numbers will be used up in 24 years," she said. "The Kansas Corporation Commission is looking at some number

See AREA CODES on PAGE 12

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jib7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Editor in Chief
532-6556

Kelly Glasscock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Photo Editor
532-0735

Ken Wells
sigm7@ksu.edu
Online Editor

Becky Wilson
rewil@intelligencia.com
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
bs9639@ksu.edu
News Editor

Jamie Barrett
jib7883@ksu.edu
Online News Editor

Nancy Hall
nh6062@ksu.edu
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
nrf1480@ksu.edu
City & Government Editor

Michael Noll
mns585@ksu.edu
Sports Editor

JJ Duncan
jgd666@ksu.edu
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Erin Schneeweis
ers876@ksu.edu
Opinion Editor

Sara Martin
sm6920@ksu.edu
Presentation Editor

Corbin H. Crable
chc7669@ksu.edu
Copy Chief

Danny Elsworth
dae0091@ksu.edu
Ad Manager

Alissa Duncan
aud843@ksu.edu
Assistant Ad Manager

Emily Rand
ert1358@ksu.edu
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian (ISSN 291-520), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadzie 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66506. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Keadzie 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-1102.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

Freaky phobias

- Anaptophobia: Fear of staying single
- Chrometophobia or Chromatophobia: Fear of money
- Kleptophobia: Fear of stealing
- Ostrakonophobia: Fear of shellfish
- Pupaphobia: fear of puppets

Study indicates no link between cancer, phones

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Scientists who tracked the health of 420,000 Danish cell phone users found no sign the devices increase cancer risk — the biggest study yet to provide reassurance about the phones' safety, but one that won't end the controversy.

The study, published in today's Journal of the National Cancer Institute, concluded cell phone users are no more likely than anyone else to suffer brain or nervous system cancers, leukemia or salivary gland tumors, cancer types that have worried critics.

It won't end the debate, though. Several thousand Danes had used their phones for more than 10 years, the time it can take a slow-growing brain tumor to appear, but the majority had used them for only about three years.

Consequently, "this study ... should not be taken as the final answer," said University of Washington professor Henry Lai, whose laboratory research linked cell phone signals with damage to rat brain cells.

Federal health officials insist there's no real evidence that cell phones used by 97 million Americans cause health hazards beyond car crashes caused by people talking while driving.

Yet no health or government agency gives the popular gadgets a definitively clean bill of health, either. Unable to give a clear answer, the Food and Drug Administration tells worried consumers they can simply use an earphone device that keeps the phone's antenna away from the head.

— The Associated Press

Scientists forecast cures for cancer, other diseases

CHICAGO — Collaboration among experts in bioengineering, gene therapy and chemotherapy is expected to help tame cancer, Alzheimer's and other diseases within the next 25 years, scientists say.

While scientists have been talking for decades about hope for a cure for cancer, expectations for progress on this and other diseases are now based on reality, said Dr. David G. Nathan, professor emeritus at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

"The combinations of mathematicians, of physicians, of physicists and engineers are going to move these fields, and that's what's happening. You're now starting to see serious teamwork," said Nathan, co-author of an editorial in Wednesday's Journal of the American Medical Association.

The journal includes several essays dealing with medical advancements expected in the next 25 years.

Advances in bioengineering are helping scientists develop drugs that target specific components which help cancer cells thrive.

Nathan noted in an interview that an experimental drug called ST1571 has shown great promise in treating chronic myelogenous leukemia, a cancer of the white blood cells that affects about 4,400 Americans yearly, mostly adults.

The drug targets an abnormal enzyme that causes white blood cells to grow uncontrollably, and also is being tested in certain gastrointestinal tumors.

In one recent study, cancer in all 31 leukemia patients who got the drug went into complete remission.

Cancers of the lung, breast and colon, which typically result in extensive cell damage almost as soon as microscopic abnormalities emerge, will likely prove to be more challenging to treat, Nathan said.

— The Associated Press

Postal Service considers rate boost for next year

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Just a month after higher stamp prices took effect Jan. 7, which included raising a first-class stamp a penny to 34 cents.

The postal office is reportedly facing losses of up to $2 billion this year despite the price increase that took effect Jan. 7, which included raising a first-class stamp a penny to 34 cents.

While approving that increase, the independent Postal Rate Commission rejected or scaled back several other requested price hikes, cutting expected income by some $1 billion. At the same time, mail volume has dropped because of the poor economy, further reducing anticipated income.

The postal board of governors ordered the agency's management Tuesday "to begin preparing a rate case as soon as possible to ensure the continued financial viability of the Postal Service," board Chairman Robert E. Rider said after a board meeting in San Antonio, Texas.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegn@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Keadzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- Blue Key Senior Honor Fraternity will meet at 4 p.m. today in the Office of Student Activities and Services and Leadership House, 914 Manhattan Ave. Scholarship applications for K-State students will be due.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct a How To Get An Internship Workshop at 3:30 p.m. today in Union 213.
- Sigma Lambda Gamma National Sorority Inc. will have an informational meeting at 7:30 tonight in Union 204.
- KSU Akido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- Ag Ambassadors and Ag Reps will meet at 6 p.m. Thursday in Waters 231.
- Habitat for Humanity will meet at 9 p.m. Thursday in Union 213.
- The Department of Geology will meet at 4 p.m. Thursday in Thompson 213.
- KSU Horticulture will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in Throckmorton 2024. Pizza will be served, and there will be bowling after the meeting.
- Golden Key will have its chapter meeting at 6 p.m. Thursday in the Aggieville Pizza Hut.
- WMA-TE, the K-State affiliate of the National Council of Teachers of English, will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the back room of Java Espresso & Bakery in Aggieville.
- Intramural entries for wrestling, free throw and wheelchair will be taken at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex through Thursday. Entries are accepted in the administrative office. Call 532-6980 for more information.
- Applications for Student Alumni Board are due at the alumni office by 3 p.m.

Friday, Applications can be picked up at the Alumni Association office or in the Office of Student Activities and Services. ■ Applications are being accepted for Learn and Serve Action Teams for students wanting to participate in a semester long volunteer project. For more information, contact the Community Service Program at 532-5701 or ksuserve@ksu.edu. ■ Can't use your e-mail? Reactivate your ID at www.ksu.edu/activateID. ■ Filing forms are available for Student Governing Association elections. Offices include student body president, Student Senate and College Councils. Forms can be obtained at www.ksu.edu/elections or in the Office of Student Activities and Services.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County Monday, Feb. 5

- At 9:45 a.m., Jennifer L. Martinez, 108 Redbud Estates, was arrested for failure to comply. Bond was set at $170.
- At 9:54 a.m., Clayton D. Stacy, 816 Sunrise Circle, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $250.
- At 3:12 p.m., Michael R. Hart, Junction City, was arrested for worthless checks. Bond was set at $750.
- At 8:32 p.m., James E. Patterson, 1025 Bertrand, was arrested for criminal destruction of property.

Tuesday, Feb. 6

- At 12:23 a.m., Marvin L. Childs, 814 N. 4th St., was arrested for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Bond was set at $500.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

Advertise in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

118 KEDZIE • 532-6560

Ramblers STEAK HOUSE & SALOON

HOMEMADE CHICKEN FRIED STEAK
with all the trimmings
$6.95

DRINK SPECIALS
$1 Draws
$1.75 Wells
$3.75 Pitchers

8711 E. Hwy. 24 • 539-4889
Manhattan, KS

AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
AUTO HOME BUSINESS HEALTH LIFE

Tim Engle
K-State Grad 88

"Call us for your Health and Auto Insurance"

3320 Anderson

539-9200

American Family Mutual Insurance Co. and its Subsidiaries.
Home Office-Madison, WI 53761-0001
E-Mail tengle@amfam.com

Revive your sole.

- Authorized Birkenstock repair service.
- We change old Birkenstock footwear into new.
- We use genuine Birkenstock materials.

Olson's Birkenstock
Aggieville
539-8571

BIRKENSTOCK

SIEMENS Westinghouse

Ignite The Excitement

Realize Your Potential

Power The World

You're illuminated with knowledge, energized by your own potential. You want to charge ahead and change the world. It's time you were enlightened about the opportunities at Siemens Westinghouse Power Corporation.

Engineer-In-Training Program

This 6-9 month Field Service Engineering Program features 2 months of classroom and laboratory instruction in Orlando, FL and 4-7 months of on-the-job training at a Siemens Westinghouse service location or on actual field assignments. We prefer candidates with at least a 2.7 GPA in the following majors:

- Mechanical Engineering
- Mechanical Engineering Technology
- Electrical Engineering Technology

Siemens, our parent company, is one of the largest employers on earth, giving us the strength to help you power the world.

See Us On Campus
Information Session • Tuesday, February 13
Contact the Career Center for information session details.
On-Campus Interviews • Wednesday, February 14
Position Details Online @ www.siemenswestinghouse.com/jobs

It is the policy of Siemens Westinghouse Power Corporation to not discriminate on the basis of race, gender, creed, color, age, religion, national origin, disability or veteran status, and to provide equal employment opportunity.

More Power To You
Siemens Westinghouse Power Corporation
A Siemens Company

CELEBRATE

VALENTINE'S DAY BUFFET

Treat Someone Special!

All-You-Can-Eat Buffet with a Valentine's Day Flair
Wednesday, February 14 10:30am - 1:30pm
Bluemont Room, 2nd floor

Strawberry Chiffon Salad
Four-Bean Salad
Sundried Tomato-Basil Pasta Salad
Tossed Salad Bar
Carved Roast Beef w/Rasp. Horseradish Sauce
Cranberry-Glazed Porkloin
Vegetarian Lasagna
Dried Cranberry Salsa
Green Beans Almondine

Honey and Dill-Glazed Baby Carrots
Au Gratin Potatoes
Long-Grain and Wild Rice
Assorted Dinner Rolls
Strawberry Cheesecake
Cherry Pie
Red Velvet Cake
Chocolate-Covered Strawberries
Coffee and Tea

$6.50 per person or with a reservation for 2 - $12.00 (includes tax)
Reservations are suggested. Please call 532-6580 by 2pm February 13.

VALENTINE BAKERY DELIGHTS

PERFECT FOR THAT SPECIAL SOMEONE, OFFICE TREATS OR YOURSELF!

Personalized Heart-shaped Jumbo Sugar Cookie - You supply the message (up to 3 words). We'll decorate and put it in a gift box for you. Order ahead, while supplies last.

Lolli Heart Cookie on a Stick - Heart-shaped sugar cookie on a stick.

9" Personalized Heart-Shaped Cookie
Chocolate chip cookie (also available in chocolate nut)

Chocolate Brownie Heart - A red icing rose adorns a glazed brownie heart. Gift boxed and ready to go for a special valentine.

Sweetheart Cookies - With red sprinkles, by the dozen.

Sweetheart Coffee Cake - Almonds, cherries and coconut make this heart-shaped coffee cake festive and delicious. Serves 12.

Please note: Bakery specials will be for sale beginning February 5 in the Union Food Court or place your custom order by calling 532-6068 now through February 12 to the K-State Student Union Foodservice Office. All prices include sales tax.

Check out our Valentine's Day cards in the Bookstore, Copy Center and Cats' Den!

Are you sure what to get - Give a Union Gift Card!

- Usable at 14 Student Union locations
- Available at Union retail areas

VALENTINE'S DAY

Rod Holub delivers mail along Route 22 Tuesday afternoon. Holub has been with the Postal Service since 1978, delivering in Manhattan since 1981.

KAREN MIKOLS/Collegian

Mail carrier balances family, work

By SEAN PURCELL
Kansas State Collegian

For 20 years, Rod Holub has delivered the mail with a smile on his face and no regrets.

"I really like the people," Holub said, who has spent nearly half of the 47 years of his life as a mailman.

Holub started out in Kansas City where he spent three years before transferring to Manhattan. Holub said he likes the area of Manhattan a lot more than Kansas City and was excited to come back.

A typical day for Holub starts by dropping his daughter Katie, 8, off at school. Then it is to the mail room, where he begins sorting several types of mail, beginning with flat-sized mail and ending with packages that need to be either signed for or hand-delivered. These then are loaded into the truck and Holub heads out on his route, which is the area around and including the Westloop Shopping Center. Holub said a regular day like this usually takes eight hours.

Less than two months ago, Holub finished his yearly tradition of dressing up as Santa Claus for one day of his route. The tradition started about 10 years ago when a co-worker of Holub's told him that when he smiled, his cheeks became rosy like Saint Nick's. So they fixed him up with a suit, and

working in the COMMUNITY

Who: Rod Holub
Job: Mail carrier

Holub went about his route. Holub said he saw the smiles that came to people's faces when they saw him, so he decided to keep the tradition going.

"People don't normally wave at the mailman, but when they see Santa, it seems to put a smile on their face," Holub said.

When Holub isn't a mail carrier, he is busy being a father and husband. It was through being a mail carrier that he met his wife, Diane.

Holub said both of them had gone through similar divorces and became friends before deciding to get married. They have five children.

Holub said he enjoys spending time with his family and also likes taking a little time for himself by going either fishing or golfing. When it is warm, Holub said he enjoys gardening, but right now he is busy coaching Katie's sports team.

"He is a really nice guy," Diane said. "I think the kids are really lucky to have him as a father."

Diane also said he tries to attend all the children's games and is active in attending school programs.

Like any good mail carrier, Holub said even he has a dog versus mail carrier story. His happened when he still was new to the profession. Holub was delivering a package when he heard some barking coming from within the home. Noticing it sounded like a smaller dog, Holub didn't worry.

"We are taught to keep our foot next to the screen so that dogs won't get out," Holub said.

He did so and delivered the package to the owner. Holub said he made a comment about the smaller dog but said he never will forget what the owner replied.

"He said that I didn't have to worry about the little dog because he wouldn't bite. It was the German shepherd that I had to worry about," Holub said.

Right on cue, Holub turned around to find himself face-to-face with the beast.

"I tried to back up and knock on the door to get the owner's attention while still keeping an eye on the dog," Holub said.

Luckily, the owner rushed out and tackled the dog, allowing Holub to leave the scene unharmed.

Holub said he hopes that there are many years of service as a mail carrier in the future for him.

"Being a mailman has given a lot to me. I just have been able to give some of it back," Holub said.

Voting for Manhattan City Commission begins today

By SCOTT ALDIS-WILSON
Kansas State Collegian

Advance voting begins today for the Manhattan City Commission primary election, just the thing for voters who hate lines or want their ballots in before the polls open citywide Feb. 27.

Until that date, residents can vote only at the Riley County Clerk's Office at 110 Courthouse Plaza — assuming, of course, they also are registered in the county.

Jolene Campbell, deputy county clerk, said residents must register by 5 p.m. Monday. The requirements are simple enough, she said, for those with a residence within the city.

"If they're living in some place where they can get mail, they can use that as a residence and they can vote," Campbell said. She said that one doesn't have to own the residence. Though several places exist in town to register, including one on campus, Campbell said people who want to vote for this election probably should register directly at the County Clerk's office, since the deadline nears.

"The thing is, if you want to be guaranteed to be able to vote, the best place is to register at this office with us," she said.

Identification is not required, she said, though people need to be certain they fill out the proper address, birth date and signature.

Riley County Clerk Rich Vargo, still setting up as of Monday, said at least three booths should be ready today. With the commission election as the only primary this spring, those booths probably won't be too crowded, he said.

"That's one good thing about advance voting," he said. "No long line."

The other advantage, Vargo said, is one can avoid last-minute conflicts.

"You never know what the weather's like on election day or what comes up on election day," he said.

People even can come in to take a look at an advance ballot, Vargo said.

The race already has provided

Voting Info

Advance primary voting (available at the Riley County Clerk's office for residents registered to vote in the city, seven candidates)
8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today-Feb. 16
8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Feb. 19-23
9 a.m. to noon Feb. 24
8 a.m. to noon Feb. 26

Primary voting (estimated 27 polling locations across the city, seven candidates)
Feb. 27

General election
April 3

Permanent registration posts

County Clerk's Office, Riley County Office Building, 110 Courthouse Plaza, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

Kansas Advocacy & Protective Services Inc., 3218 Kimball Ave., 8:30 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

Kansas Driver's License Bureau, 3003 Anderson Ave., 7 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Tuesday-Friday

Kansas Social and Rehabilitation Services, 2709 Amherst St., 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, 501 Poyntz Ave., 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

Manhattan City Clerk's Office, City Hall, 1101 Poyntz Ave., 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

North Central Flint Hills Area Agency of Aging, 437 Houston St., 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

Riley County Health Department, 2030 Tecumseh Road, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 8:30 a.m.-7 p.m. Thursday, 8:30 a.m.-noon Friday

Additional registration posts

Baer Pro Payco, 212 S. Broadway, Riley, Kan., 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5:30 p.m. Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-noon Saturday

Commerce Bank West, 1350 Westloop, 8 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-noon Saturday

Dillons Grocery Store, 2700 Anderson Ave., 7

a.m.-10 p.m. daily
Douglas Community Center, 900 Yuma St., 8 a.m.-noon and 1 p.m.-5 p.m., Monday-Friday

First Savings Bank West, Village Plaza, 3005 Anderson Ave., 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m. Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-noon Saturday

Kansas State Bank West, 1010 Westloop, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m.-noon Saturday

Kansas State Branch Facility, 1101 Bluemont Ave., 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Monday-Thursday, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m.-noon Saturday

Kindercare Learning Center, 1205 Hytton Heights, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

Manhattan Head Start, 2600 Kimball Ave., Regular school hours

Manhattan High School, regular school hours

Manhattan Housing Authority, 300 N. 5th St., 1 p.m.-5 p.m. Monday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday-Friday

Manhattan Public Library, Juliette and Poyntz Aves., 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday, 2-6 p.m. Sunday

Manhattan Town Center, Downtown Poyntz Avenue, 10 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday-Saturday, noon-6 p.m. Sunday

McDonald Hardware & Appliances, 107 N. Eppelring, Leonardville, Kan., 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday

Office of Student Activities and Services, K-State Student Union, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

Ogden City Clerk's office, 226 Riley St., Ogden, Kan., 9 a.m.-noon and 1-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday

Riley County High School, Riley, Kan., regular school hours

Sharp's Short Stop, 118 W. Randolph, Randolph, Kan., 7 a.m.-8 p.m. daily

UMB Bank West, Village Plaza, 3049 Anderson Ave., 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-noon Saturday

— Source: Riley County Clerk's office

some surprises. With incumbents Karen McCulloh, Roger Reitz and Carol Peak, plus newcomers Brad Everett and Mark Taussig running, only one April 3 election originally was expected.

With the addition of candidates David Johnson and Art Burgess on the last day to file, however, election rules required a primary election to bring the pool down to six candidates.

Voters in the primary can vote for three candidates, Vargo said. People with any questions, including whether they already are registered, can call the county office at 537-6300.

2001-2002 SGA General Elections

Candidate Positions Available:

- Student Body President and Vice-President
- Board of Student Publications
- Union Governing Board
- Fine Arts Council
- College Councils

Applications and filing forms are now available online and in the Office of Student Activities and Services (Ground Floor, K-State Student Union).

HURRY!

The Filing Deadline is Friday, February 16 at 4:00 p.m.

Questions?

Call the OSAS at 532-6541 or logon to the web site below

ONLINE ELECTION INFORMATION:

WWW.KSU.EDU/ELECTIONS

CHIMES JUNIOR HONORARY

Applications now available in OSAS
Applicants must be Juniors in Fall 2001 semester and have a GPA of 3.0 or above.
$250 Chimes Scholarship applications are also available in OSAS

Tight Fittin' Jeans 2001

2ND ROUND
LONGHORNS TOMORROW NIGHT!

Still Time to sign up!
Every Thurs. in Feb.

Girls &
Guys
Contest

LONGHORNS
BAR & GRILL

CASH
&
PRIZES!

Come warm up at the hottest contest in town.

$1.75
Coors &
Coors LIGHT
BOTTLES

1115 Moro • Aggieville

sponsored by

Coors Light
Sun Essentials
U.S. TOBACCO CO.

Kansas State
Women's Basketball
Coming at ya!

Wed, Feb. 7th
7 PM

K-State

VS.

Missouri

Bramlage Coliseum

KSU Student Appreciation Night!
Win $250! Be a part of the Action!

KSU Students
FREE with ID!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

Local merchants deserve support of community

Aggieville needs your support.

We are not referring to alcoholic consumption, either. The businesses in the 'Ville are starting to become vacant.

The Hardee's and Pyramid Pizza buildings have been vacant for at least a year. Recently added to the list were Lowman's Men's Store and TCBY.

Students, faculty and the community as a whole can help keep businesses in Aggieville by doing one thing: supporting them on a regular and continuous basis by becoming loyal customers.

TCBY had been scraping by for a long time before it closed its doors. There are several other Aggieville businesses probably doing the same thing: trying to make ends meet while the ends keep moving.

The businesses in Aggieville fill a niche that everyone can benefit from. And the businesses in turn can benefit from customers who support their niche.

Prospects such as a miniature golf course have fallen through not necessarily because of a lack of interest, but more importantly, a lack of funding.

Aggieville is a rich part of the history of the Little Apple. It is time to start supporting the businesses before it's too late.

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

The Collegian kind of got something wrong last night. A gram of coke goes for a $180, not $100. If it is going for a $100 then I'm going to have a good spring.

I just dropped $30 last night at Scoreboard Bar and Grill. Do you think that is enough for them to replace that old nasty flag out front?

Why does David Levin have to criticize President Bush for being a good, moral person?

It would be really nice if the library Web page actually worked.

Hey, to the girl in stats with the flaming heart tattoo, be my valentine.

If cars were as reliable as computers, nobody would dare drive.

Man, did you ever notice that MacGyver is just like Bond? He has a different chick in every episode.

Hey, David Levin, I agree with your views on Bush, but get your facts straight. Colin Powell is secretary of state and Donald Rumsfeld is secretary of defense, OK?

All right, folks, don't tip at Sonic, OK? I mean, all they're doing is bringing out a sack of food and they are making minimum wage.

I love it when TAs make it mandatory for you to visit them in their office hours, but they are never in their office hours. It is ridiculous.

Question for Thursday: If you were inspecting your living arrangements, how would you rate it?

Age DISCRIMINATION

National Drinking Age Act needs to be repealed

Death is the most powerful tool in the world, at least when lobbying. Death advances political agendas. Tragedy grips the human heart so tightly one cannot escape.

When she lost her daughter to a drunk driver in 1980, Candy Lightner was gripped by tragedy. Trauma filled her mind, and her grief was transformed into revenge. She decided to form Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

In less than four years, MADD's membership ballooned to 300,000 in 44 states. Using a media blitz, MADD was able to convince the American public the lack of a national drinking age was to blame for all of the tragic deaths involving alcohol.

Armed with the emotional appeal, MADD's public voice began to ring on nervous Congressional ears. Elections were near. Public sentiment forced lawmakers to make decisions based on emotion, in order to secure votes.

From the end of Prohibition until 1984, states had been able to establish drinking laws. States and individual young adults were robbed of their rights June 17, 1984, as the National Drinking Age Act was signed into law. President Reagan, who at first disagreed with the infringement on states' rights, eventually was swayed, not because the law was right, rather, while dissenting he would not survive politically.

Champions of states' rights and youth rights knew the law was unconstitutional age discrimination and infringement on states' rights. The Constitution is clear. All powers not specifically to the federal government are reserved for the states and the people.

The past 17 years have been tangled in confusion. Lax enforcement of the National Drinking Age Act exists everywhere, as members of each department who believe the law is wrong fail to uphold it.

Therefore, many states, including Kansas, have resorted to pouring funding into agencies like the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division. The purpose of such an agency? Track down those who are violating the law, using an undercover game. Flushing out underage drinkers with plainclothes agents of the opposite sex. Executing "Cops in Shops" in an attempt to punish those who do not conform to the current age discrimination.

What a waste of state funds. All in an effort to uphold an absurd law created by a misdirected wave of tragedy. These ABC agents would protect more people if they actually patrolled the streets looking for driving under the influence.

I find this truth to be self-evident, that while all humans might be created equal, all do not develop at the same rate. Some find the quick path to maturity, while others will attempt to grasp maturity for a lifetime. Some will drive drunkenly, and some will be smart enough to choose not to, regardless of age.

Society has defined most adult responsibilities to be available by 18 years of age: the right to slowly kill yourself with cigarettes; the right to be tried as an adult for killing another person; the right to kill yourself quickly by serving your country in battle; in Florida, the right to help decide an election. However, since 1984, the law says one cannot be considered mature enough to consume alcohol until reaching 21 years of age.

Tuesday I turned 21 years old. Funny, but I don't feel any more mature now. I thought since the law said 21, it would define responsibility, I'd get that last chunk of it when I woke up. But I didn't. Twenty-one years of age doesn't define anything. It exists as an excuse for some to binge drink.

I know too many people over the age of 21 who are not responsible with their consumption of alcohol. Each and every day I see these people in the police reports, not being punished enough for their misuse. DUI sentencing needs stiffening, but MIP arrests of 18-, 19-, and 20-year-old people should stop.

MADD chose 21 out of a hat with good intentions. Each increase in the drinking age by a year lowered the number of drunken-driving related deaths. But as Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., said, "Why the magic age of 21? Why not 25? How about 30, 35, 40?" At any of these ages, drunken driving related deaths would decrease. However, at any age the law still would exist as legal age discrimination.

I hope that someday, when the National Drinking Age Act is repealed, people will realize something: that educating our young people on how to drink gradually, safely and in moderation is much more effective than passing a law and turning away, that the law isn't working and needs to be fixed. The law, as discrimination against young adults is only one thing: unconstitutional.

Zac is a senior in engineering and political science. You can e-mail him at zac3480@ksu.edu

AUSTIN PORTER/COLLEGIAN

ZAC COOK

my view

Valentine's Day time for taking risks, finding love

As Valentine's Day rapidly approaches, I'm reminded of one of my favorite sayings. "What is life without risks?"

Pretty simple, isn't it? I try to live my life by those five little words.

I think everyone should think about this phrase for the next week. In seven days, Valentine's Day will be here. In seven days you still could be single, or you could take a little risk and end up being with someone else on the 14th.

In the spirit of Valentine's Day, I'm going to give all of you single people a pep talk on behalf of Cupid.

First of all, let's look at both sides of the issue. I think it's only fair we consider all of the disadvantages of asking someone out, as well as the advantages.

What's the worst thing that could happen if you put yourself on the line and asked someone out? The object of your affection could say no. Yeah, that can be pretty bad. If you're lucky they'll let you down easy with a little white lie so you won't be completely crushed. You know the ones I'm talking about.

"Well, jeez, I'd love to go out with you, but um, uh, well, I have this meeting thing that's really important and I, uh, can't miss it."

See, that isn't so bad. It's not like they just looked at you and said "In your dreams" (just a note to anyone out there whom would say this to another person, other disadvantage I can think of is the anxiety factor. You could agonize over this for the next seven days. Every time you see your crush before class or on campus, you're going to get butterflies in your stomach. Yes, it's going to be nerve-racking. You're probably going to feel a little awkward around your crush, too.

SARAH MCCAFFREY

OK, now that we've covered the disadvantages (there really weren't as many as you thought, were there?), let's go on to the advantages.

Advantage No. 1: eternal bliss and happiness. Maybe I'm stretching this one a bit too far, but what if the person you're secretly lusting after could be "the one?" Obviously, if admiring them from afar can make you happy, wouldn't it be even better if you possibly could end up in a relationship with that person? I think this advantage definitely outweighs any disadvantages.

Let's just call this next advantage curiosity satisfaction. You're never going to know if you and your crush were meant to be unless you just risk it and ask him or her out. Personally, I'm not one of those people who can just sit around and wonder what could have been for the rest of my life. The best way to figure that out simply is to work up the nerve and ask your crush out.

The third advantage is the admiration of your friends. They're going to be amazed when you tell them you're going out on a date with the hottie you've been drooling over for the past two semesters. They'll think you're some sort of superhero or Greek god. You might even inspire them to ask out their dream date, too. Then you would have the pleasure of knowing you empowered someone else to seek out happiness. I guess this one is two advantages instead of one.

I think the fifth and final advantage is the fact you possibly could be making someone else's day. What if your crush likes you too but is just too shy to do anything about it? When you ask him or her out, you're probably going to make the rest of the next week seem like something out of a fairy tale. If you can make someone else's life happier just by asking them out on a date and make yourself happier at the same time, why not take the risk?

Obviously, the advantages outweigh the disadvantages, so why wouldn't you want to ask your crush out? I bet it's because you're nervous. Every time you go near him or her, your throat seems to close up, your palms get sweaty and you get nauseous. Just when you're ready to ask your crush out you, abort the mission in mid-sentence.

As a veteran of those sort of nervous jitters, I have a few words of advice for all of you smitten souls out there.

Although it might seem cheesy, practice really does help. Go into your room and practice what you're going to say in front of the mirror. If you already know what you'll be saying and how it will look, you're going to feel a lot more confident when the time actually comes to put your plan into action.

Second, try to relax. Take a few deep breaths. It's going to be easier for your crush to understand you if you aren't talking at warp speed.

If you're still anxious about being rejected, I would recommend you talk to your crush in a secluded venue. The rejection will be a lot less painful if it doesn't occur in the middle of campus where the entire student body will be congregating to witness your humiliation.

By now there should be no reason for you not to ask your crush out. You have all the reasons to justify the risk and you even know how to counteract the jitters. There's nothing keeping you back. You can do it. I have faith in all of you. Go get 'em, Tiger!

Sarah is a sophomore in public relations and print journalism. You can e-mail her at scm7597@ksu.edu.

READERS WRITE

Center's groundbreaking scheduled for Friday

Editor,

The KSU Alumni Association is delighted to announce our board of directors voted last week to begin construction for the new K-State Alumni Center.

With purple shovels in hand, key members in planning the Alumni Center will kick off the ground-breaking ceremony, which will take place at 3:30 p.m. Friday at Memorial Stadium.

Weather permitting, construction on the new Alumni Center will be under way in mid-February, and the project is expected to take approximately 16 months to complete. July 2002 is scheduled on the timeline for the Alumni Association to move into the new building.

The Alumni Center will house the offices for the association, as well as provide public meeting and banquet space for association and university activities. Alumni, current students, prospective students and friends of K-State all will have access to Alumni Center facilities. Located just south of Memorial Stadium, the center will be close to other public areas of campus, including the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art, the K-State Student Union and McCain Auditorium, as well as Aggieville.

The venture will be funded by private donations from alumni and friends of K-State. Student fees will not pay for the center. The cost of the project is approximately $12.6 million, and 90 percent of the funds already have been committed.

We appreciate all the input students, faculty and staff have provided about the center as planning has progressed the past couple of years. We look forward to returning to campus and a building that will be used not only by alumni, but students, faculty and staff as well.

—Amy Button Renz '76, '86
president, K-State Alumni Association

METH

■ continued from page 1

"Our ship is sinking, just not as fast. This is a good sign," he said.

Smith said current laws have increased the penalties for possession of meth and illegal use of ingredients, making it easier for authorities to combat the problem.

Also, some retailers have started limiting the amount of cold and allergy medications a person can buy at one time.

"We are training local law enforcement to be aware," Smith said. "It's very encouraging. We are making it a little more difficult for them to make it. It's still a crisis but it is not as bad as it could be."

Easy distribution

Although lab seizures are low in Riley and other surrounding counties, authorities insist meth is abundant and increasing in the area.

"It's a big problem here," said Sgt. Mark French, investigator for the Riley County Police Department. "We target Methamphetamine more than any other drug. It's growing, and the arrests involved are increasing for the past two years. Meth is the common drug. Lots of people are using."

French said Manhattan's rural surroundings make farming chemicals such as anhydrous ammonia, a chemical ingredient in meth, easily accessible.

Meth's quick and easy manufacturing process makes it easy for distributors to traffic the drug over state and county lines. Riley County's neighbors, Pottawatomie County, Wabaunsee and Geary County, have seen similar increases as well.

Pottawatomie County Sheriff's Department Narcotic detective, who requested to remain anonymous due to undercover reasons, said there has been a steady increase of meth use among teenagers and college-age students in the area.

The detective said 70 percent of all drug arrests in the county were for meth, and local co-ops have reported at least three to four thefts per month of anhydrous ammonia, one of the main ingredients used to manufacture the drug.

"Someone could take a couple of gallons of it, and the farmer would never know it," he said.

The detective said meth is reaching epidemic proportions in rural areas. And its use is increasing at a faster rate than marijuana.

"We can fight small battles, but we're losing the war," he said. "There's far more out there than we can catch. It's the drug of choice."

Although authorities seized more meth in 2000 than in years past, the amount of drugs that go unnoticed far outnumbers those seized. Smith estimated the KBI is catching only 7 to 10 percent of illegal meth.

Smith said it's possible that a large amount of meth is produced in counties with large manufacturing activity and is shipped into Riley County through I-70 and other main highways.

Saline and Shawnee counties, which are close to Riley, have had a combined 117 seized labs last year.

The problem is so bad in these counties that the Office of National Drug Control policy has designated these counties as High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas, the narcotic equivalent to a natural disaster.

These areas are a center of drug production and manufacturing and have a harmful impact on surrounding counties and cities.

"Drug trafficking knows no county or state boundaries," said David Burton, director of Midwest High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas. "What happens in Houston affects Kansas City. What happens in Kansas City affects Wichita."

In addition to meth that is manufactured in the state, Kirk Simone, Kansas Highway Patrol Interdiction Coordinator, said meth is being smuggled in from Mexican cartels as well. The Kansas Highway Patrol has seized 187 pounds of meth in the past three years.

"It can come from anywhere," Simone said. "There's Mexican Methamphetamine here, too. It's so readily acceptable. Meth is on the rise. Mexico has gotten into the production of it and smuggled it into the country and Kansas."

Dangerous high

There are various ways to make meth, but two common ways in Kansas use anhydrous and red phosphorous.

Other chemicals include sodium chloride, sulfuric acid, ether (starting fluid), methanol and lithium or sodium metal and hydrochloric acid, lye and even drain cleaner.

The active ingredient in the stimulant is Ephedrine or pseudoephedrine, which can be found in Sudafed and other cold medications. French said meth goes for $60-$120 a gram in Kansas.

Meth is cheaper than the other common illegal stimulant cocaine, which goes for as low as $100 a gram. And meth has a longer lasting high of eight to 12 hours.

"It's extremely addictive and very dangerous," Burton said. "It's more harmful and has more addictive side effects than even cocaine or heroin. There are countless studies out there on meth's addictive power, and it's not pretty."

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Meth, right, is white in its pure form, whereas the less pure is darker in color.

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Meth is typically sold in an eight ball or 1/8 of an ounce. Street value ranges from $80 to $250. According to police officials, it sells at $200 to $250 locally.

French said the drug is used by all ages, races and genders. Meth use also is increasing among college students in Kansas.

"Kansas is one of the leading states in the manufacturing of meth," Simone said. "Consumers like it because it stays in their system longer and has a better high than some other drugs."

Considering the dangerous chemicals involved, French said that RCPD has seen several cases involving overdoses in meth.

"I can't think of a case that didn't have some tie in with drugs and specifically methamphetamine," he said.

Many manufacturers don't use proper equipment, and chemical burns and explosions are common. French said manufacturing is more common in rural areas, but some labs have been found within the city limits.

"It's extremely dangerous," Smith said. "These people are cooking ether and red phosphorous, and some aren't aware of the environmental hazards. Kids are getting burned, and lung damage can ensue. It's a horrible mess."

DANGEROUS EFFECTS OF METH

SHORT-TERM

- False sense of well-being
- Convulsions, twitching, jerking
- Aggressive behavior
- Increased heart rate
- Increased muscle tension, grinding of teeth
- Stimulation of adrenal gland
- Constriction of blood vessels
- Rise in blood pressure
- Impaired speech
- Dry, itchy skin
- Loss of appetite
- Hallucinations
- Acne, sores
- Paranoia
- Insomnia

LONG-TERM

- Malnutrition
- Liver damage
- Brain damage
- Severe weight loss
- Fatal kidney and lung disorders
- Insomnia
- Permanent psychological problems
- Lowered resistance to illness
- Stroke
- Coma
- Death

METH INGREDIENTS

- Ephedrine, pseudoephedrine stimulant
- Sudafed, over the counter drug medications
- Lithium or sodium metal
- Methanol (Heet) solvent
- Ether (starting fluid)
- Sulfuric Acid
- Sodium chloride (salt)
- Red Phosphorous
- Lye
- Drain cleaner

Source: Office of National Drug Control Policy

YOU DESERVE IT!!!

SPRING BREAK 01

JAMAICA CANCUN MAZATLAN

TRIPS INCLUDE:
FREE Meals
VIP Express Entry
RT Air
7 nights hotel
Discount at shops, Restaurants and bars.

WIN A CHANCE TO BE ON BAYWATCH HAWAII Party with the celebrities!!!
HEADLINE DJS

"Come travel with the quality company"
Mazatlan flight via Sun Country direct service
www.sunbreaks.com
888-777-4642

Tonight at Joe's Live

Schwag
A Tribute to The Grateful Dead

$5 COVER CHARGE 21 TO ENTER

"Wake Up From The Dead"

JOE'S TAP ROOM
HOME OF THE HAWAIIAN

RECREATIONAL SERVICES

Intramurals Entry Deadline

Wristwrestling, Free Throw & Whiffleball

February 8, 5 p.m.
Administrative Office, Rec Complex

Recreational Services Office 532-6980

REAL ESTATE AUCTION

TUESDAY, FEB. 13 - 6:30 P.M.

Holiday Inn, 530 Richards Drive — Manhattan, KS

320 ACRES RILEY COUNTY KS

Located 1 1/2 miles East of Riley, KS on Hwy. 24, S 1/2 mile.

TRACT I: Approximately 20 acres in NE 1/4 Section 7, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas. This tract has a well-kept farm home, garage, grainary, barns and outbuildings. This property has both tillable and pasture land. This is an excellent opportunity to purchase a home on a small acreage located on good roads close in.

TRACT II: Approximately 140 acres in NE 1/4 of Section 7, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas. Approximately 72 acres tillable with balance in pasture.

TRACT III: Combo of Tracts I & II.

TRACT IV: S 1/2 NW 1/4 and N 1/2 SW 1/4 Section 8, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas (approximately 160 acres). This property is located across the road from the above tracts. There is approximately 90 acres tillable with balance in pasture.

"Open House" Wednesday, Jan 31, 2001, 4-6 or by appointment by contacting Vern Gannon, Associate Broker/Auctioneer, 785-539-2316.

Grace Morris Estate • Diana Davies, Administrator CTA

WEDNESDAY DNE

Dave Oakleaf - Live at 10

10¢ shrimp & wings $1.50 Coors Lt. cans

SAFARI JACK
BROOKING, ILL.

Thurs. - Southwind 11-2
Fri. - Bryson 8-11

Apply to be a 2001 Summer Orientation Leader

Enthusiastic, motivated leaders are needed to assist new Wildcats in their transition to the university.

Applications and additional information available at New Student Services, 1 Anderson Hall or call Susan at 532-6318

Application deadline: Wednesday, February 28, 2001

Where are you going to live?!!

McCullough Development can help!

- Wildcat Inn
- Parkview Apts.
- Cheverly Apts.
- Pinehaven Apts.
- Royal Towers
- Brittnay Ridge
- Gold Key Apts.
- Campus Crest Apts.

*Model units start February 8. (watch Collegian for details)

Call for more information! (785)776-3804

McCullough Development
2700 Amherst

2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
<http://www.mdlproperties.com>

YOUR WILDCAT HOUSING EXPERT FOR FINDING THE "PURRFECT" APARTMENT!

We've Got Style

Stop by and get your hair cut and or styled at the

K-State Student Union HAIR CARE CENTER

Walk-ins Welcome

New Hours:
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 5 p.m. - 8 p.m.
Saturday 9 a.m. - Noon
Authorized retailer of Redken and Paul Mitchell products.
Call (785) 532-5972
Lower Level - Recreation Area

$2 OFF HAIR CUT

Receive $2 off any haircut at the K-State Student Union Hair Care Center.

Limit one coupon per visit. Expires 3/1/01

The art of creating a smile of lasting beauty.

Smile enhancement by the professionals

SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.
515 HUMPHREY DRIVE, HYGIENE DEPARTMENT 913-637-4828

For more information, see our ad in your Star • Manhattan Southwestern Bell Yellow Pages.

METH

■ continued from page 1

"Our ship is sinking, just not as fast. This is a good sign," he said.

Smith said current laws have increased the penalties for possession of meth and illegal use of ingredients, making it easier for authorities to combat the problem.

Also, some retailers have started limiting the amount of cold and allergy medications a person can buy at one time.

"We are training local law enforcement to be aware," Smith said. "It's very encouraging. We are making it a little more difficult for them to make it. It's still a crisis but it is not as bad as it could be."

Easy distribution

Although lab seizures are low in Riley and other surrounding counties, authorities insist meth is abundant and increasing in the area.

"It's a big problem here," said Sgt. Mark French, investigator for the Riley County Police Department. "We target Methamphetamine more than any other drug. It's growing, and the arrests involved are increasing for the past two years. Meth is the common drug. Lots of people are using."

French said Manhattan's rural surroundings make farming chemicals such as anhydrous ammonia, a chemical ingredient in meth, easily accessible.

Meth's quick and easy manufacturing process makes it easy for distributors to traffic the drug over state and county lines. Riley County's neighbors, Pottawatomie County, Wabaunsee and Geary County, have seen similar increases as well.

Pottawatomie County Sheriff's Department Narcotic detective, who requested to remain anonymous due to undercover reasons, said there has been a steady increase of meth use among teenagers and college-age students in the area.

The detective said 70 percent of all drug arrests in the county were for meth, and local co-ops have reported at least three to four thefts per month of anhydrous ammonia, one of the main ingredients used to manufacture the drug.

"Someone could take a couple of gallons of it, and the farmer would never know it," he said.

The detective said meth is reaching epidemic proportions in rural areas. And its use is increasing at a faster rate than marijuana.

"We can fight small battles, but we're losing the war," he said.

"There's far more out there than we can catch. It's the drug of choice."

Although authorities seized more meth in 2000 than in years past, the amount of drugs that go unnoticed far outnumbers those seized. Smith estimated the KBI is catching only 7 to 10 percent of illegal meth.

Smith said it's possible that a large amount of meth is produced in counties with large manufacturing activity and is shipped into Riley County through I-70 and other main highways.

Saline and Shawnee counties, which are close to Riley, have had a combined 117 seized labs last year.

The problem is so bad in these counties that the Office of National Drug Control policy has designated these counties as High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas, the narcotic equivalent to a natural disaster.

These areas are a center of drug production and manufacturing and have a harmful impact on surrounding counties and cities.

"Drug trafficking knows no

county or state boundaries," said David Burton, director of Midwest High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas. "What happens in Houston affects Kansas City. What happens in Kansas City affects Wichita."

In addition to meth that is manufactured in the state, Kirk Simone, Kansas Highway Patrol Interdiction Coordinator, said meth is being smuggled in from Mexican cartels as well. The Kansas Highway Patrol has seized 187 pounds of meth in the past three years.

"It can come from anywhere," Simone said. "There's Mexican Methamphetamine here, too. It's so readily acceptable. Meth is on the rise. Mexico has gotten into the production of it and smuggled it into the country and Kansas."

Dangerous high

There are various ways to make meth, but two common ways in Kansas use anhydrous and red phosphorous.

Other chemicals include sodium chloride, sulfuric acid, ether (starting fluid), methanol and lithium or sodium metal and hydrochloric acid, lye and even drain cleaner.

The active ingredient in the stimulant is Ephedrine or pseudoephedrine, which can be found in Sudafed and other cold medications. French said meth goes for $60-$120 a gram in Kansas.

Meth is cheaper than the other common illegal stimulant cocaine, which goes for as low as $100 a gram. And meth has a longer lasting high of eight to 12 hours.

"It's extremely addictive and very dangerous," Burton said. "It's more harmful and has more addictive side effects than even cocaine or heroin. There are countless studies out there on meth's addictive power, and it's not pretty."

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Meth, right, is white in its pure form, whereas the less pure is darker in color.

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Meth is typically sold in an eight ball or 1/8 of an ounce. Street value ranges from $80 to $250. According to police officials, it sells at $200 to $250 locally.

French said the drug is used by all ages, races and genders. Meth use also is increasing among college students in Kansas.

"Kansas is one of the leading states in the manufacturing of meth," Simone said. "Consumers like it because it stays in their system longer and has a better high than some other drugs."

Considering the dangerous chemicals involved, French said that RCPD has seen several cases involving overdoses in meth.

"I can't think of a case that didn't have some tie in with drugs and specifically methamphetamine," he said.

Many manufacturers don't use proper equipment, and chemical burns and explosions are common. French said manufacturing is more common in rural areas, but some labs have been found within the city limits.

"It's extremely dangerous," Smith said. "These people are cooking ether and red phosphorous, and some aren't aware of the environmental hazards. Kids are getting burned, and lung damage can ensue. It's a horrible mess."

YOU DESERVE IT!!!

SPRING BREAK 01

JAMAICA CANCUN MAZATLAN

"Come travel with the quality company"
Mazatlan flight via Sun Country direct service
www.sunbreaks.com
888-777-4642

TRIPS INCLUDE:
FREE Meals
VIP Express Entry
RT Air
7 nights hotel
Discount at shops,
Restaurants and bars

WIN A CHANCE TO BE ON BAYWATCH HAWAII
Party with the celebrities!!!
HEADLINE DJs

Tonight at Joe's Live

Schwag
A Tribute to The Greatful Dead

$5 COVER CHARGE 21 TO ENTER

"Wake Up From The Dead"

JOE'S TAP ROOM
HOME OF THE LITTLE JACKIE

RECREATIONAL SERVICES

Intramurals Entry Deadline

Wristwrestling, Free Throw & Whiffleball

February 8, 5 p.m.
Administrative Office, Rec Complex

Recreational Services Office 532-6980

REAL ESTATE AUCTION

TUESDAY, FEB. 13 - 6:30 P.M.

Holiday Inn, 530 Richards Drive — Manhattan, KS

320 ACRES RILEY COUNTY KS

Located 1 1/2 miles East of Riley, KS on Hwy. 24, S 1/2 mile.

TRACT I: Approximately 20 acres in NE 1/4 Section 7, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas. This tract has a well-kept farm home, garage, grainary, barns and outbuildings. This property has both tillable and pasture land. This is an excellent opportunity to purchase a home on a small acreage located on good roads close in.

TRACT II: Approximately 140 acres in NE 1/4 of Section 7, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas. Approximately 72 acres tillable with balance in pasture.

TRACT III: Combo of Tracts I & II.

TRACT IV: S 1/2 NW 1/4 and N 1/2 SW 1/4 Section 8, Township 9, Range 6, Riley County Kansas (approximately 160 acres). This property is located across the road from the above tracts. There is approximately 90 acres tillable with balance in pasture.

"Open House" Wednesday, Jan 31, 2001, 4-6 or by appointment by contacting Vern Gannon, Associate Broker/Auctioneer, 785-539-2316.

Grace Morris Estate • Diana Davies, Administrator CTA

WEDNESDAY DINES

Dave Oakleaf - Live at 10

10¢ shrimp & wings $1.50 Coors Lt. cans

SAFARI JACK
BETTERING THE B.I.E.

Thurs. - Southwind 11-2
Fri. - Bryson 8-11

Apply to be a 2001 Summer Orientation Leader

Enthusiastic, motivated leaders are needed to assist new Wildcats in their transition to the university.

Applications and additional information available at New Student Services, 1 Anderson Hall or call Susan at 532-6318

Application deadline: Wednesday, February 28, 2001

Where are you going to live?!!

McCullough Development can help!

- Wildcat Inn
- Parkview Apts.
- Cheverly Apts.
- Pinehaven Apts.
- Royal Towers
- Brittnay Ridge
- Gold Key Apts.
- Campus Crest Apts.

Model units start February 8. (watch Collegian for details)

Call for more information! (785)776-3804

2700 Amherst Manhattan, KS 66502
<http://www.mdlproperties.com>

YOUR WILDCAT HOUSING EXPERT FOR FINDING THE "PERFECT" APARTMENT!

We've Got Style

Stop by and get your hair cut and or styled at the

K-State Student Union HAIR CARE CENTER

Walk-ins Welcome

New Hours:
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 5 p.m. - 8 p.m.
Saturday 9 a.m. - Noon
Authorized retailer of Redken and Paul Mitchell products.
Call (785) 532-5972
Lower Level - Recreation Area

$2 OFF HAIR CUT
Receive $2 off any haircut at the K-State Student Union Hair Care Center.

Limit one coupon per visit. Expires 3/1/01

The art of creating a smile of lasting beauty.

Smile enhancement by the professionals

SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.
514 HUNNOLD Plaza Hygiene Department 665-837-8823

For more information, see our ad in your Sage • Manhattan Southwestern Bell Yellow Pages

A MENTAL GAME

Women's basketball team faces next opponent with new mindset, intensity after 2 disappointing Big 12 Conference losses.

Kristin Rethman drives the lane in a game against KU earlier this season. The Cats lost 62-65 to the Jayhawks in front of a crowd of 9,127, the second largest in school history.

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

Normally, wanting to win a game is a good thing. Ditto for playing before a huge home crowd, but that wasn't the case for the K-State women's basketball team last week.

After losing 62-65 to the Jayhawks on Saturday, Jan. 27 in front of a crowd of 9,127, the second largest in school history, the players felt so disappointed at letting down their fans that they psyched themselves out in their next home contest, a 55-69 loss to Oklahoma State this past Saturday.

"That was a team that was real near us in the Big 12 standings, we were at home and we felt like we had really disappointed people when we had lost that home game just before that," head coach Deb Patterson said, "and I really believe it was as much emotional pressure as anything."

"I thought we were a ball club on Saturday that wanted to win so badly and got in the way of it a little bit emotionally."

Of course, OSU also had something to do with K-State's eighth conference loss in nine tries, especially when the Cowgirls began the game with 60-percent shooting. However, if K-State had been coming off three straight wins instead of losses, it might have been able to fight through that adversity.

"Getting behind early, I think, really threw this team for a spin," Patterson said following the loss. "I think more than anything, that rattled them mentally."

Those mental games followed the Cats after the game, too, leaving the K-State players wondering where everything had gone wrong.

"I watched a movie with some friends, and it's kind of like you're there, but you're not there — just kind of dead feeling," junior guard Kristin Rethman said. "I went over the game, I was just kind of depressed I guess, like why did this keep happening?"

Rethman and fellow shooting guard Kim Woodlee especially had reason to feel frustrated following the OSU loss. The two did hit eight three-point shots, but those were the only eight shots they hit all afternoon in 24 attempts. While such cold shooting could be dismissed as just a bad game, it actually has been the norm in a four-game losing streak — a fact that can begin to weigh heavily on any player, Patterson said.

"That can be a little demoralizing to you when you're getting good looks, you're working hard, you're executing fairly well, but that one look you get, it doesn't drop for you. The game is a lot easier when open shots drop and when they don't, you can really feel a monkey on your back," she said, "and that monkey turns into a gorilla."

Despite the Cats' shooting woes, though, it hasn't affected the team's confidence in its long-range bombers.

"I don't think I've ever lost confidence in myself or Kristin, even if we miss two or three shots in a row," Woodlee said. "I've never lost confidence in our ability to shoot."

And as proof of that confidence, the Cats came out to practice Monday with a new mindset, one that includes more intensity and less worrying about mistakes.

"Today was our best practice in a while," Woodlee said Monday. "I think we're to a point now where we're just like, 'Quit worrying

Tonight:

K-State

(11-9, 1-8)

vs.

Missouri

(13-7, 4-5)

Time: 7

Where: Bramlage

Coliseum

Radio: The Wildcat

Sports Network —

WIBW-AM 580 will provide tape delay

at 9:30 p.m.

about everything, and quit trying to get it right so much.' So I think today was such an improvement compared to the week before Oklahoma State."

Adding to the Cats' newfound enthusiasm is tonight's opponent, Missouri.

In the two teams' last meeting in Columbia, K-State led the game until the final minutes, when the Tigers went on an 18-6 run to win 65-60. This time around, K-State plans on finishing what they start.

"We have full intentions of winning," Woodlee said. "It's a very winnable game. We led the whole time at Missouri."

To win, however, the Cats will have to shut down the potent Missouri post trio of Amanda Lassiter, Marlena Williams and Evan Unrau, which averages 43 points and 20 rebounds per game. K-State will counter with forward Nicole Ohlde, who is averaging 16 points and eight rebounds per game, but she will have her hands full, Patterson said.

"Missouri, with Marlena Williams and Amanda Lassiter and even Evan Unrau, they're very physical and they're very versatile, kind of like Nicole, but when you're talking Lassiter, you're talking a potential All-American," she said. "And at times when she's matched up offensively and defensively with Lassiter, that's big."

Lassiter does pose problems for the Cats, but Woodlee said she isn't worried.

"She's very good, but so is Ohlde," she said. If Ohlde plays well and Rethman and Woodlee get their shots to fall, K-State finally could begin chalking up wins again for the first time in three weeks.

While a win won't erase the past, it at least will get the Cats headed in the right direction, Rethman said.

"We can't forget the games in the past," she said, "but we need a fresh start — just start somewhere and go up."

K-State fans can find comfort in KU's shortcomings

I'm sure I'm not the only fan who gets depressed when I see highlights of past basketball success on the Bramlage Coliseum scoreboard before each agonizing loss the Cats suffer.

In fact, after K-State locks in its spot at the bottom of the Big 12 Conference tonight with another close loss to Missouri, those festive highlights of past greatness will have done as much to provide a K-State win as my fellow columnist's choice in pants — none.

But just because the Cats won't be dancing come March doesn't mean we still can't celebrate a truly amazing performance. K-State fans still have one more thing to look forward to after the basketball team finishes another disappointing season in the Big 12 cellar.

For those of us who long to revisit the glory days of K-State basketball, it's close. Next year will present a new set of heightened expectations, and Coach Jim Woodriddle will get us there sooner than most think. But if you need your fix of basketball pleasure now, there's still hope.

Faithful purple plasma people, before you dismiss the notion of college basketball joy completely for this season, remember this eternal nugget of Wildcat sports happiness. There is one thing that we always can count on to tide us over until next year.

While 63 other teams in the country slip on their dancing shoes and prepare to battle it out on the hardwood for a chance at the big one, fans of the Kansas Jayhawks will begin

DAN SMITH

See SMITH on PAGE 7

Cats to face Mizzou after 4-game losing streak

By DEREK BOSS
Kansas State Collegian

It's no secret that K-State has lost six of its past seven games, including four straight this season, but Jim Woodriddle certainly isn't dwelling on it.

In fact, the first-year head coach has made it perfectly clear what his objective is, was and will be for his team.

"We're really just trying to concentrate on getting better," Woodriddle said. "We never discuss losing. We don't discuss streaks. We don't discuss things that you would consider negative."

"We don't look at it like, 'Oh, my heavens, we've lost so many in a row.' I think we just try to focus on what we have to do to get better to give us a chance to compete and win."

K-State's progress will be tested again at 7:07 tonight, as the Wildcats (8-11, 2-6 Big 12) travel to Columbia to take on Missouri (14-7, 5-3).

Head coach Quin Snyder's players might remember the earlier meeting between the two squads nearly three weeks ago, when K-State pummeled the then-No. 20 Tigers, 80-59, before a crowd of 7,116 at Bramlage Coliseum.

Led by sophomore Matt Siebrandt's 20 points and nine rebounds, the Cats shot a blazing 55 percent from the field and kept Missouri to just 16 points in the first half of play.

Tonight:

K-State (8-11, 2-6) vs.

Missouri (14-7, 5-3)

Time: 7:07

Where: Hearnes Center, Columbia, Mo.

Radio: WIBW-AM 580

TV: Wildcat Sports Network — KMCI in Kansas City; WIBW in Topeka; KAKE in Wichita-Hutchinson

■ See page 7 for a complete story on Missouri forward Kareem Rush's injury.

Forward Quentin Buchanan doesn't expect the Tiger players to easily forget their struggles in that loss. After all, the defeat snapped MU's five-game winning streak and was the first of a three-game losing skid.

"I'm pretty sure that's in the back of their minds," Buchanan said. "They're going to try to come out and use that as revenge."

However, Woodriddle said K-State's victory over the Tigers last month won't determine tonight's winner.

"It doesn't matter who we're playing, whether we've played them before, whether we've beat them before, whether they've beat us," he said.

"We've got to get better so that in this next ball game we give ourselves a chance."

Helping the Cats' chances is the fact that Missouri will be without star forward Kareem Rush. The sophomore, also the Big 12's leading scorer, tore the ligaments in his thumb and pulled off a small piece of bone in the Tigers' Monday game at Oklahoma State.

Rush will undergo surgery today and will miss the remainder of the season.

Even without Rush, though, Missouri still holds a mental edge over K-State, as the Cats have lost 16 straight to Missouri at the Hearnes Center, dating back to March 2, 1985.

Nevertheless, the Tigers won't have much time to prepare for K-State this time around. MU played Oklahoma State just two days ago, falling to the Cowboys by three points in Stillwater on Monday night.

Woodriddle said he hopes the scheduling turns out to be an advantage for his ball club, but he'd rather spend his time working to improve his team's chances in the process.

"We really try to focus in on what we have to do to get better — what are we doing that is good," he said. "We try to find positives for our guys all the time. And while we're doing that, we challenge our players to improve and compete."

One such player is forward Travis Reynolds.

After coming off the bench in the last 17 games for the Cats, the junior is set to make his second consecutive start, replacing center Kelvin Howell in the rotation.

Ritchie Terry passes the ball to a teammate during one of K-State's home games this season.

"I just think it was time we moved him into the lineup regardless of how we played," Woodriddle said of Reynolds.

"I think this will not only help our team, I think it'll help Kelvin Howell. This is not to punish Kelvin, this is to help our team and hopefully relieve any undue pressure he might be feeling."

STEVE DEARINGER/Collegian
Kasey Weishaar runs to first base in K-State's home game against Southern Nazarene on Monday afternoon.

Trading positions

Senior makes transition from catcher to left-fielder

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

If Topeka native Kasey Weishaar had been told in high school that he'd be one of the most respected and feared batters in the K-State lineup, he probably could have understood.

After all, as a senior, the Shawnee Heights catcher compiled a .472 batting average and hit seven home runs, earning all-city and all-state honors.

However, if Weishaar had been told he would be patrolling the left field grass for the Cats at the same time, he probably would have given you a strange look.

"When I first got here, I really expected to play catcher for my four years," Weishaar said.

"When we started talking about moving to left field, it was a pretty tough transition to make."

The move to left field came as a surprise to Weishaar, who never had played in the outfield before.

The transition wasn't as seamless as Weishaar or head coach Mike Clark would have liked it to be, but with time, Clark said, he had faith that Weishaar would make it work.

"It wasn't real smooth," Clark said, "but he's a good enough athlete that he was able to make it. It just took time."

Weishaar said the toughest part of the move was understanding his responsibilities in the outfield and knowing what kind of role he would play in the Wildcats' lineup.

As a freshman, that role led Weishaar to see action in 27 games, including 16 starts at his new position.

The catcher-turned-outfielder had an immediate effect in his first start when he went two-for-five with two doubles.

After an impressive freshman season that saw Weishaar lead all K-State reserves with 20 hits, expectations for a strong encore performance were high.

Those expectations were met when, in his second year as a Wildcat, K-State benefited fully from Weishaar's offensive spark.

Weishaar banged his way into the K-State record books by hitting .429 in 1999, breaking the 14-year old mark of Otto Kailes, on his way to earning All-America honors.

Weishaar hit safely in 46 of 53 games during his sophomore campaign, and had a 14-game hitting streak from March 14 to April 11, a direct result, Weishaar said, of his move to the outfield.

"I think my sophomore year, things just fell into place. I wanted to come out and prove myself a little bit," he said.

"Being in the outfield meant I was able to concentrate more on offense, and I was able to have some success at the plate."

Last season, amid off-the-field problems that hung over the team, concentration was tough to muster, and Weishaar saw his batting average drop more than 100 points, a frustrating time in his career.

"It was tough for everybody to focus last year," Weishaar said. "We had a lot of problems off the field, a lot of guys getting in trouble doing things they shouldn't have, and we'd come to the yard unprepared."

"I think I came out and put a little too much pressure on myself. I wanted to duplicate those things, and, unfortunately, it didn't go that way. It was a learning experience for me."

Now a senior, Weishaar's once questionable role on the team has come into focus: forget last season's on and off the field disappointment and lead a team that stumbled to a 19-32 finish into a new era of Wildcat baseball.

Clark said he is confident of Weishaar's abilities.

"He's a quiet leader," Clark said. "He's not a big talker or anything like that, but if somebody's messing around or he's not happy with the way we're playing, he's more than capable of letting the people know that it's time to focus, and he'll tell them to get after it right now."

Weishaar said he sees the potential that Clark's latest crop of recruits has and is ready to lead them in a new direction.

"I've come back more focused and I'm ready to go this year," Weishaar said.

"I'm not worried about the numbers anymore, and this year I just want to come out, have a good senior year and have a good time."

MU's Rush injured, out for rest of season

University of Missouri Sports Information

COLUMBIA, Mo. — University of Missouri sophomore forward Kareem Rush will miss the remainder of the 2000-01 basketball season due to a thumb injury he suffered in Monday night's game at Oklahoma State.

Rush, a leading candidate for Big 12 Conference Player of the Year and All-American honors, injured his thumb with 1:50 left in the game when he fell to the floor after being fouled on a drive to the basket. He stayed in the game and hit 1-of-2 free throws while playing with the injury.

After examination Tuesday afternoon, it was determined Rush suffered an avulsion fracture of the ulnar collateral ligament in his left thumb. When he fell to the floor, he tore ligaments in the thumb, and pulled off a small piece of bone at the ligament attachment at the base of the thumb.

Rush is scheduled to have surgery today to repair the ligament and will be in a cast for six to eight weeks.

"I'm disappointed that I can't be out there battling with my teammates, but I'll do my best to contribute in other ways, find other ways to help lead the team," he said.

Snyder said he expects his Tigers,

14-7 overall and 5-3 in Big 12 Conference play, to rally around this setback.

"Kareem is such a strong kid that he'll be just fine, and I know he'll do everything he can to continue to lead the team from his new vantage point," he said.

Rush, who was just named Big 12 Player of the Week after leading MU to a win last week over No. 3 Kansas, is the leading scorer in the Big 12 Conference — and tanks 11th in the NCAA — with a 21.9 per-game average. He scored 30 or more points four times this season, including 32 in MU's four-overtime win over then-No. 18 Iowa State on Jan. 13.

SMITH

■ continued from page 6

their annual preparation, only to harmlessly fall at the hands of UTEP or Rhode Island in the tournament's opening rounds, proving once again that KU equals boo-hoo.

I haven't checked the University of Kansas' line schedule recently, but I'm willing to bet that a course is offered sometime around the end of March outlining what to do in extreme choking cases.

After pointing and clicking my way to the KU Web site, I found myself enthralled with useful online lectures taught by Professor Roy Williams, including: How to hurl suit jackets into the crowd with style (Although I'm impressed with Roy's expansive wardrobe, I'm pretty sure that I'd rather have him wearing it on the court than me in the stands), how to lead on and disrespect your alma mater in the same year and a course that was closed for undisclosed reasons, how to beat Iowa State.

One of the last links I checked out was Williams' detailed diagram of how to win games you should in big situations, but I didn't pay as much attention to that one as I probably should have. I guess Williams' recent record against the Cyclones and Missouri weighed a bit on that decision.

So while we wallow in our self-pity and hope that next year the stars align and Wooldridge works some sort of Manhattan magic, watch KU. Watch as they stumble and fall in the Big 12 tournament, maybe even, dare I say, to the Cats.

Then, watch and cheer loudly as the Chickenhawks cough up their collective lungs against the Fighting Monks of Alaska State School for the Underprivileged. We'll probably have to suffer through another of Roy's disrobing acts in that game, and if we listen closely, we might even hear cheers from Chapel Hill.

We've already seen our neighbors to the east choke in two big games in the last two weeks against Missouri and Iowa State, and even if it isn't as good as a K-State win, it's always fun to see the crimson and blue lose.

Dan is a sophomore in mass communications. You can e-mail him at djs4444@ksu.edu.

WEDNESDAY MUG CLUB

Gambino's Pizza
1219 Bluemont Ave.
537-9090

Bring in your favorite Mug and we will fill it for just $1.00 (up to 32 oz.)

Valid with any food purchase for Dine In only please.

Little Caesars
WEDNESDAY
HOT & READY
1 LARGE 14" PIZZA
WITH PEPPERONI
5:00 PM - 8:00 PM
$5.00

No Coupon Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2000 L.C.S., Inc.

CALL 539-3333
Manhattan (Westloop Center)

URBAN DESIGNS
signaging, interiors, conservation, framing, art

Treats for Sweets
Featuring work by Ann Carter, Marsha Jensen,
Karen Lausenz, Susan Oviatt and Terri Schmidt.
Art that is sure to please your sweetheart!

Exhibit will be Open: Feb. 5-Mar. 3
Reception with the Artists: Feb. 9th, 5-7 pm

1204 Moss, Appleville, PA 15309-2563 OPEN: M-F 9-6 & Sat. 10-6 creativity innovation knowledge enthusiasm

Bring it

Where it matters most.

As one of the world's leading diversified technology companies, we're breaking new ground in everything from defense and commercial electronics, and business aviation and special mission aircraft. As a Raytheon employee, you'll contribute to the development of exciting, revolutionary technology designed to make life better, safer, and safer throughout the world. Such as our STARS air traffic control system. And our award-winning NightEye™ technology.

But it all starts with you. Your creativity. Your knowledge and innovation. And enthusiasm about the future. In return, we offer exceptional training and professional development opportunities. A supportive, down-to-earth work environment. And incredible benefits, including flexible schedules designed to respect your quality of life.

So you can still show off all those great qualities of yours outside of work, too.

We'll be visiting your campus soon — contact your career placement office to schedule an interview. If you are unable to meet with us, please send your resume to: resume@rayjobs.com (A3/01 text only; no attachments). Raytheon Company, Attn: National Staffing Data Center, P.O. Box 660248, MS-201, Dallas, TX 75266, U.S. Citizenship may be required. We are an equal opportunity employer.

Opportunities are available for exceptional students with the following majors:

- Computer Science
- Computer Engineering
- Electrical Engineering
- Mechanical Engineering
- Math
- Physics
- Chemical Engineering
- Aeronautical Engineering
- Finance/Accounting
- Human Resources
- Industrial and Labor Relations
- Marketing/Communications
- Management

Check out our Website at www.rayjobs.com/campus for further information including a calendar of recruiting events. At Raytheon, we strive to be the employer of choice for a diverse workforce by attracting, retaining, and recognizing the most talented, resourceful and creative people.

Bringing technology to the edge

Raytheon

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Karlyn Ruggle, 6, makes a card for one of her best friends during an art class, sponsored by Varney's Book Store. Art Is for Everyone class meets every Tuesday night at Varney's.

Expressions on paper

Children, adults explore creativity during Valentine's class at Varney's Book Store

By JJ DUNCAN
Kansas State Collegian

Children and adults alike listened intently Tuesday night as Mel Shultz detailed the possibilities offered by the many types of paper available to the class.

Shultz, the art supplies receiver for Varney's Book Store, taught a class creative ideas for homemade Valentine's Day cards. The class was part of Varney's "Art is for Everyone" program, which offers a new class every Tuesday, Shultz said.

"It's great to see the kids' emerging creativity," she said. "Their art styles are very free because they haven't been taught a right way to do things yet."

Karlyn Ruggle, 6, strained over a Valentine's Day card she was making, using a technique shown to her by Shultz with the supervision of her father, Kevin Ruggle, said the "Art is for Everyone" program has been a great tool. It helped him introduce his children to the arts since he doesn't know much about them himself, Ruggle said.

"It's neat seeing all the ideas come together when the kids use their imaginations," he said. "I get to see Karlyn use her imagination, which is a great thing for her."

Aleatha Moberly, 14, said she tries to attend the courses every week. During another class, she said she learned the basics of charcoal figure drawing. Aleatha said what interested her about this particular class was the different types of papers that were available.

The paper definitely took a special role in this particular class, Shultz said. Since she has what she calls a "paper fetish," Shultz said she saves any interesting papers she comes across.

"I love textured paper, especially the corrugated paper that is used for packing, and it's something people actually throw away," she said. "I save all that stuff, and some of the other employees will tease me about it, but I always end up using it."

Shultz said the learning process is mutual since some of the more seasoned artists sometimes point out things in the classes she hadn't thought of, but the interaction is what makes the class work.

"I get ideas from all kinds of people in these classes, but it's especially nice to see the students learn from each other as they work," she said.

Horse-judging team wins national championship

By BRENDA KIRKHAM
Kansas State Collegian

The K-State horse-judging team recently won a national championship and was the runner-up for the world championship.

The team won three different contests during its season and placed second in two others. It only missed winning the world championship by 11 points. Members of this team judged during spring 2000 and fall 2000.

The team consists of seven members who sometimes travel in a van for up to 13 hours to go to a contest. Of these seven, only five were allowed to compete. This means the coach had to make the final decision on who would compete in each contest.

Katie Janssen, junior in animal science and member of the team, said each individual was qualified to judge, and they all were similar when it came to their abilities to judge horses.

"It was a neat year because we pushed each other harder," she said.

Even though not everyone competed each time, they all did well in contests they participated in.

"Everyone, at one contest or another, did really well. We all ended up in the top 10 at some contest," Janssen said.

Coach Julie Wolf said it was difficult choosing who would participate at each competition.

"You just have to go with your gut feeling and pick who you think is going to do the best," she said.

Wolf has been the coach for three years. She began coaching the team when she chose to get her master's degree at K-State.

"I coach because I enjoy it, but I also want the team to do well," she said.

As a coach, Wolf said she feels it's especially important for her team to do well in the reasons division of the contest. This is when the contestants explain to a judge why they placed the class of horses the way they did. They judge the horses on qualities such as physical structure and performance ability.

The team won the reasons division of every contest it competed in. Wolf said she feels that reasons are important because they help the students not only to analyze the horses, but it also helps them with communication skills that will help them during their lives.

Their ability to do well in reasons contributed to their success as a team. The national championship is decided by accumulating the teams' points from all the different contests. K-State won the national championship in January after it won the contest at the National Western Stockshow in Denver.

The team comprised a combination of people, some having little to no horse-judging experience. Some had experience judging livestock, and those skills were just transferred over to judging horses.

"Some will have years and years of experience, and some will have none," Wolf said.

However, she said it was not difficult to help them learn what they needed to become successful.

"All of the students were pretty well rounded in their talents," Wolf said.

To expand on these talents, the team practiced Tuesday and Thursday evenings for two hours and sometimes on weekends, depending on the upcoming schedule. The team members pushed each other during these practices and also formed friendships.

"We had a good year, and we had a lot of fun," James Jost, team member and senior in animal science, said. "We went to a lot of farms that were pretty reputable around the country."

Wolf said the fact they won the national championship did not really hit her until the team arrived home.

"I'm extremely proud and happy for each of the students and how they performed. Not only did they win the national championship, but they became great friends as well," she said.

Three little words every Valentine likes to hear: Two for One.

Get two $99.99 Sprint PCS Phones™ for the price of one.

Give your Valentine the sweetest gift of all—a clear way to connect with you. When you select two Sprint PCS Service Plans of $29.99 or more, we'll give you a $100 mail-in rebate on the purchase of any two new Sprint PCS Phones. That's like getting two $99.99 phones for the price of one.

- Choose 2,000 minutes for only $49.99. That's 400 Anytime Minutes and 1,600 Night & Weekend Minutes, all including nationwide long distance, with a one-year Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement.™
- And get Sprint PCS Voice Command™ free with a service plan of $49.99 or more and a one-year Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement. Just say a name, and the phone does the rest.

Sprint PCS built the only all-digital, all-PCS nationwide network from the ground up, serving more than 300 major metropolitan areas. Hear the difference today.

Don't delay
Offer ends
Valentine's Day

The clear alternative to cellular.™

To find out more or to order your phone with free delivery, visit www.sprintpcs.com or call 1-800-480-4PCS. Or shop at one of the locations below.

JUNCTION CITY
701 N. Washington St.
(785) 762-3434

MANHATTAN
404 Poyntz Ave.
(785) 537-3500

SALINA
1801 S. 9th St.
(785) 452-9720

Also available at:

ABILENE
MC Communications
409 NW 3rd
(785) 263-3899

JUNCTION CITY
Dr. On-Lane
879 S. Washington
(785) 223-0200

MANHATTAN
Kansas Wireless
2026 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
(785) 565-9279

SALINA
Kansas Wireless
833 E. Crawford
(800) 381-6367

Communications Unlimited
907 W. 6th St.
(785) 238-4638

Part Electronics
326 S. Broadway
(785) 820-9850

Sprint PCS Valentine's Day Mail-in Rebate available on Sprint PCS Service Plans of $29.99 or higher. Mail-in rebate certificate must be postmarked by 2/28/01. Offer valid only on new Sprint PCS Phones™ initially purchased, while supplies last, during the promotion period 1/28/01 through 2/14/01. To qualify for the $100 Sprint PCS Valentine's Day Mail-in Rebate, you must purchase and activate two new Sprint PCS Phones, each with a new Sprint PCS Service Plan, on a service plan of $29.99 or higher and the account must remain active for 30 days. Allow 4-12 weeks for receipt of the rebate. This offer is good in the USA only, except where prohibited, taxed or restricted by law. Rebate offer may not be combined with the $50 Motorola® rebate, certain other Sprint PCS no-cost rebates or purchase credits or other promotional plans. Offer not available with the Sprint PCS Employee Advantage Plan, third-party employee plans, the Nationwide Value Program or any other Sprint PCS business plan. All rights reserved. $49.99/2,000 Minutes offer is available when a one-year Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement™ is signed. A $100 early termination fee applies to the Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement. The $49.99/2,000 minutes plan is available from 1/14/01 to 3/31/01. A non-refundable $34.99 phone activation fee applies, except in select affiliate markets. All plans subject to credit approval. Included minutes are not good for calls made while roaming off the Sprint PCS Nationwide Network, whether land or long distance. Roaming calls are charged at $0.89 per minute or $0.39 per minute, depending on specific local market offers. Domestic long-distance calls made while roaming off the Sprint PCS Network will be charged at an additional $0.25 per minute. Night & Weekend Minutes are Monday - Thursday 8pm - 7am and Friday 8pm - 1am. Sprint PCS Voice Command™ is offered free for one year when a one-year Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement is signed and a plan of $49.99 or higher is selected. After one year, Voice Command will be renewed at $9.99 a month, unless the customer cancels the feature or reneges the contract. Sprint PCS Voice Command is available on the Sprint PCS Nationwide Network and is not available while roaming off the Sprint PCS Network. Availability of Voice Command depends upon capacity in the service area and consumer demand. Airtime and applicable long-distance charges for a call completed from your phone that is billed using the Voice Command feature begin when you press or activate the VCL or similar key (including the # key) for making subsequent calls and when your call is terminated by hitting the END key or by returning to the Voice Command platform. If you initiate and complete a subsequent call without leaving the Voice Command platform, a separate charge for that call will begin from the time the previous call was terminated. Calls to 911 or similar emergency numbers cannot be placed through Sprint PCS Voice Command. You need to dial "911" on your Sprint PCS Phone in case of an emergency. Sprint PCS Voice Command is not available in select affiliate markets. ©2001 Sprint Spectrum L.P. All rights reserved. Sprint, Sprint PCS, Sprint PCS Phone and the diamond logo are trademarks of Sprint Communications Company L.P.

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS

The following employers have listed positions in the Virtual Career Fairs. You may view company profiles and job descriptions, as well as send your resume directly to the employer from the Career & Employment Services (CES) website, www.ksu.edu/ces. You must be registered with CES to participate.

Feb. 9-15: Employers Listing Intern, Summer & Co-op Positions

Associated Electric Cooperative, Inc.
Bank of America
Brant Lake Camp
Brookover Feed Yards
Burns & McDonnell
Cal-Maine Foods
Camp Towanda
CCH Incorporated
Cintas Corp.
Citgo Petroleum Corporation
City of Topeka
DeBruce Grain Co.
Deloitte & Touche
Enterprise Rent-A-Car
Geoprobe Systems
George Butler Associates, Inc.
GeoSystems Engineering, Inc.
Geotechnical Services, Inc.
Honeywell
Hormel Foods Corporation
IFR Systems, Inc.
Jeld-Wen
Kansas Department of Transportation
Kaydon Fluid Power-Great Bend Industries
Kiewit Construction Company
Land O'Lakes Farmland Food, LLC
Lockheed Martin Aeronautics
LSI Logic Storage System
May Hoffman McCann, LC
Microsoft Corp.
Northwestern Mutual Financial Network-Ertz Agency
Point O'Pines Camp for Girls
Production Advisory Services, Inc.
Security Benefit Group of Companies
Sedgwick County Public Works
Sherwin Williams Co.
Six Flags Elitch Gardens
Sprint
St. Louis ARC
Stone & Ward, Inc.
Target Stores
The Country Club at Lake MacGregor
Tidestone Technologies, Inc.
Turner Construction Company
Western Resources
Worlds of Fun

Feb. 16-22: Employers Listing Full-time Positions

American Express Financial Advisors
Arthur Anderson, LLP
Associated Electric Cooperative, Inc.
Bank of America
Boeing Company
Brookover Feed Yards
Burns & McDonnell
Cactus Feeders
Cal-Maine Foods
CCH Incorporated
Cessna Aircraft Company

Chrysler Financial, LLC
Citgo Petroleum Corporation
Conklin Cars
Consolidated Grain & Barge Co. (CGB)
DeBruce Grain Co.
Deloitte & Touche
Dodge City Public Schools
Enterprise Rent-A-Car
Federal Aviation Administration
Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City
Fort Worth ISD
Geoprobe Systems
George Butler Associates, Inc.
GeoSystems Engineering, Inc.
Glendale Elementary School District #40
Honeywell
Hormel Foods Corporation
Houlihan's Restaurant Group
IBP, Inc.
IFR Systems, Inc.
Jeld-Wen
Kansas City Power & Light Company
Kansas Department of Transportation
Kiewit Construction Company
Kinko's Corp. Headquarters
K-State Research and Extension
KVC, A Behavioral Healthcare Network
La Petite Academy
Larkin Group Consulting Engineers, Inc.
Legacy Financial Group
Lockheed Martin Aeronautics
LSI Logic Storage System
Mayo Clinic
Microsoft Corp.
National Instruments
Noble Hospitality, Inc.
Peace Corps
Premier Personnel
Professional Service Industries (PSI)
Quintiles, Inc.
Security Benefit Group of Companies
Sega, Inc.
Sherwin Williams Co.
Sodexo Marriott Services
Spring Hill USD #230
Sprint
St. Louis ARC
State Street
Target Stores
TEKSystems
Tomball ISD
Tractor Supply Company
Turner Construction Company
United Methodist Youthville
University Outreach & Extension
US Marine Corps
USD #305 Salina Public Schools
Walgreens
Western Resources

100 Holtz Hall
www.ksu.edu/ces

532-6506

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JAVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Pop singer
5 DuPont
8 Molt
12 Woody's
13 Nest egg
14 Soccer
15 List of 17 Relaxation
18 Baserunner's
19 Blocked
21 Ancient 24 Lob's path
25 Joust
28 The Bard
30 He gives
33 "The Name of the Rose"
34 Chide
35 "The 7
Faces of Dr. —"
36 Hair salon application

DOWN
11 Act
16 "Yo!"
20 Straight flush,
e.g.
22 Fight the clock
23 Bring forth
25 Actress
26 Expert
27 Unsocial one 29 Couturier
31 "— the Dog"
32 Powell
34 Practice pugilism
38 Wordsmith
40 Arts supporter 42 Blond color 43 Irrational number 44 Melody
45 In which case 47 Timbuktu's land
48 Ill will 49 Attorney
Dershowitz
52 Mamie's man
53 Round Table
address

Solution time: 27 mins.

Yesterday's answer 2-7

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

STUMPED?

2-7 CRYPTOQUIP

N Z Q D W W B N W Q A J D E W M P P J
Z F B G S D E W F E D G P Q A J
M P G D F M P J I W Y N M U
M U D Y P E S J

Yesterday's Cryptquip: ELEVATOR
OPERATORS UNDERSTAND THAT THEY WILL ALWAYS HAVE THEIR UPS AND DOWNS.
Today's Cryptquip Clue: W equals S

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 11 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to
CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Campus

■ "How I Learned to Drive" shows at 8 p.m.
Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Nichols Theatre.
■ Garry Krinsky will perform at 3 p.m. Sunday in McCain Auditorium.

Manhattan and area

■ Schwag will perform at 7 tonight at Joe's Tap Room.
■ "Steel Magnolias" will show at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Columbian Theatre in Warnego.
■ Steve Seskin will perform as part of the BirdHouse series at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Manhattan Arts Center.

If you know of upcoming events in and around
Manhattan, e-mail them to arts@pub.ksu.edu.

Facing art head-on

Unblinking look at incest to be presented in Nichols Theatre

By KATIE LANE
Kansas State Collegian

Dealing with the uncomfortable issue of incestuous pedophilia, "How I Learned to Drive" takes an unabashed approach to the controversial subject matter.

The play, written by Paula
Vogel, won the 1998 Pulitzer

Prize for play writing, the Obie award for the best play, the N.Y. Drama Critics Award, the Outer Critics Circle Award, the Lucille Lurtz Award and was named best play of the decade
by USA Today.

The play has now hit
K-State's Nichols Theatre.

"How I Learned to Drive" is about a 35 year old woman,

Li'l Bit, who tells a story of her relationship with her uncle in a series of flashbacks, Fran Albright (Li'l Bit), junior in theatre, said.

"It brings to light how incest and sexual abuse can happen to seemingly happy families," Albright said. "Most people think of pedophiles as mean, horrible monsters on the street, but in reality it is normal people who do it."

The controversial issues addressed in the play, along with the different dimensions is why the department chose this particular play, Kate
Anderson, director of theatre,
said.

"If people want to see a play in black and white, that isn't what this play does. It shows the devastating damage that this kind of thing presents," Anderson said.

Discussions led by Judy Davis, executive director of the Crisis Center, and Dorinda Lambert, assistant director of clinical services at University Counseling Services, will take place after 3 performances to help debrief the audience members. The dates scheduled for these discussions are Thursday, Feb. 14 and 15.

"Because of the texture of the play, Kate Anderson suggested that we have someone there to answer questions," Lambert said. "The play is a subtle and sensitive portrayal of what happened to Li'l Bit. It takes on a broad view of the impact of this kind of behavior. This is a chance to create a learning environment."

The play isn't technically any more difficult than other plays, but it has been emotionally taxing for the actors,
Anderson said.

"It is difficult to watch and to be in," said Rebekah Dryden (teen-age Greek chorus), junior in theatre and dance.
"The structure is different; it takes a look at something that people don't usually think about. The subject matter is

"How I Learned to Drive"

When: 8 p.m., Thursday-
Saturday, Feb. 14-17

Where: Nichols Theatre

Tickets: $6/student,
$9/adult, available at McCain
Box Office

very difficult and hard to deal with as actors."

Though there are many levels to the play, the main lessons attempting to be taught are survival, acceptance and forgiveness, Anderson said.

"I hope audience members walk away with a better understanding of abusive situations and what it takes to survive them. I want them to feel good about it and be able to say if she can do it, so can I," she said.

"How I Learned to Drive" is different than most plays because of the subject matter and how it is handled, Albright said.

"It is more than entertainment. I think that people will feel different kinds of emotions afterward. I hope it sparks discussion, because as an audience member, you can really sink your teeth into it."

The performances are scheduled to begin Thursday and will run for two weeks after that.

The show will start at 8 p.m. and proceed without intermission. Tickets cost $6 for students and $9 for adults and are available at the
McCain Box Office.

Amanda Moon, who plays the female chorus, rehearses during "How I Learned to Drive." The play deals with incest between an uncle and his niece.

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Fran Albright, who portrays Li'l Bit, discusses her feelings about having a relationship with her uncle in the play "How I Learned to Drive." The play is a series of flashbacks and foreshadowing of Li'l Bit's life with her Uncle Peck, played by Christopher Platt.

Russian National Orchestra to perform Thursday

By ALYSON RALETZ
Kansas State Collegian

The Russian National Orchestra will invade McCain Auditorium Thursday, armed with an extensive string section and Rachmaninoff's Third.

Thom Jackson, the marketing and development officer for McCain, said the orchestra was one of the most expensive groups to bring to Manhattan because of its sheer size.
The fact that 110 musicians are on the payroll makes the orchestra costly,
Jackson said.

"Usually, we try to do one orchestra every year," he said. "We hope for a great attendance. If there is not one, we will have to reevaluate and perhaps not have orchestras as often."

The show will begin at 8 p.m. and the orchestra will perform Sergei Rachmaninoff's Concerto for Piano and Orchestra No. 3, in D minor and Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky's Symphony
No. 5 in E minor.

He said McCain was able to get the orchestra at a more affordable price because it is touring in the area.

"There are many logistical considerations. Traveling more than 230 miles on the ground will hurt the musicians' performance," Richard Martin, director of McCain, said.

"Routing a large orchestra is difficult."
Martin said the RNO is a world-class orchestra. McCain always tries to find outstanding ensembles and this is one of them, he said.

"It is a first-rank orchestra," he said. "We tried to find artists as good as our pocketbook allowed. The guys are good."

David Littrell, the K-State
Orchestra conductor, will present background information on the RNO's music selection before its Thursday performance at 7 p.m. in McCain 204.
He said he would play portions of the pieces and analyze them to help the audience to better understand and appreciate the performance.

"The opportunity to hear a full orchestra on campus is always good to have," Littrell said.

He said the RNO should present a different playing style than American orchestras. Musicians are trained and play their instruments differently in other countries, he said.

"This would have been much more significant before the iron curtain fell.
At one time this would have been unheard of," Littrell said. "This is a nice byproduct if the fall of communism."

Martin said it is difficult for an orchestra to create a program for the K-State audience. He said if the ensemble ventures too far off into the unfamiliar, it would lose its audience.

"We are a difficult audience because we've got people who have gone to concerts all their life and we have lots of students who haven't been to any," he said.

Both groups should still be able to learn something about the arts, he said.

THE GONGFARMER

Monkey Boy

BY RANDY REGIER

BY BRENT ENGSTROM - MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL

Communication, trust keys to healthy, enduring relationship

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

The key to finding a successful relationship is not needing someone else, according to the lecture "Love, Lust and Lies."

In a speech in Union Little Theatre, Michael Baisden spoke about why relationships fail and tried to answer the questions surrounding relationships, including why men cheat and the reasons marriages sometimes fail.

"The key to being happily married is to be happy being single before you get married," he said. "The biggest disadvantage people have is that they do not know how to be by themselves."

Baisden has been married and attributed his divorce to being young.

"I cheated. Yes, I did," he said. "I was not finished being single. But I was selfish because I didn't want anyone else to have her."

Commitment, he said, is something people are not always ready for.

"When you move in with somebody, you move in with the family and all of its habits," he said, "but love does not always conquer all."

Throughout his speech Baisden talked about honesty and said people should be up front. Important questions Baisden said to ask up front when meeting someone are "Are they sleeping with someone else?" and "Are they in a relationship?"

"Most people, when they first meet someone, do not know what questions to ask," he said.

Baisden also said one reason women say they always are being approached by married men, or players, as he called them, is because these people have more confidence.

"Dogs and players get all the game," he said. "They are the most aggressive. The nice guy at the end of the bar is just waiting, but the player is full of confidence."

Baisden is an accomplished author who has written several books, including "Men Cry in the Dark," "Maintenance Man" and "Never Satisfied: Why Men Cheat."

In addition to being an author, Baisden has a new talk show coming out in the fall with the Tribune Co. and is moving from his home in Texas to Hollywood, Calif. His speech was sponsored by Fine Arts Fees and the Office of Diversity and Dual Career Development.

His speech was packed to standing-room capacity as he answered the question of why men cheat on their mates.

"Most men want to have sex with you, and, while you can't have sex with anyone else, they want to sleep with other women," Baisden said.

Baisden also said men are able to quickly single out the women with whom they are going to cheat.

"They have a desperate look in their eyes of wanting a man," he said.

However, when the roles are reversed, Baisden said, men get hurt.

"Men cannot handle it when women cheat on us," he said.

Latrice Moore, senior in apparel marketing and design, laughs with Michael Baisden and the audience during Baisden's presentation of "Love, Lust and Lies," presented Tuesday evening in the K-State Student Union Little Theatre as part of Black History Month.

MICHAEL YOUNG/
Collegian

Baisden said men sometimes think a woman is more moral than that, and it must be more than sex if she cheats. When a relationship ends due to cheating or for whatever reason, Baisden said people who have just gotten out of the relationship need a chance to breathe.

"It takes six months for a woman and a man to recover," he said. "Men, if she just left Johnnie or Tyrone, she is still carrying baggage."

The information shared in the speech appeared to hit home with members of the audience. Cedrich Montgomery, junior in architectural engineering, said the speaker made valid statements.

"He made some pretty good points relating to happiness and other things," he said.

Others said they appreciated the speaker's straightforwardness but disliked some of the remarks made toward women.

"People don't tell the truth and are not always that straightforward," Stacy Klein, junior in accounting, said.

Lack of local landfill results in Manhattan trash transported to Topeka

By ERIN DEHN
Kansas State Collegian

It's a weekly routine for most people, and for Jennifer Kreifels, senior in family studies, that's no exception.

"I cannot say that I enjoy doing it, but it is definitely necessary," Kreifels said, tying a knot in the white plastic bag.

With two hands full of bulging bags, Kreifels takes a jaunt to the dumpster at her apartment complex, and with a scowl on her face, she lugs the bags onto an overflowing pile.

"Burdened," is all Kreifels can say. "Every time I take my trash out, the dumpsters are already full. It's disgusting."

However, like many Manhattan residents, Kreifels doesn't give her trash a second thought once it leaves her apartment.

"I guess I've never really thought much about what happens to it or where it goes. I just assumed there was a landfill nearby," she said.

The fact is, 135 tons of municipal solid waste collected from Manhattan and the surrounding area each day is deposited more than 40 miles away in Topeka and Perry, Kan. Waste Management takes a small portion of the trash to the Rolling Meadows landfill in Topeka, while the majority of the waste is taken to a transfer station, and then to the HAMM quarry at Perry.

Julie Winter, administrative assistant for Riley County public works, said wastes such as yard clippings, leaves, brush and trees can be taken to the Riley County Solid Waste facility located at 1881 Henton Road. There also is an appliance yard for items such as old refrigerators.

Years ago, Manhattan's wastes were deposited at a landfill near town.

Dan Hardin, director of public works for Riley County, said the landfill 2 1/2 miles south of Manhattan on the Kansas River closed Dec. 31, 1991, because it was too expensive to operate.

"There's a lot of environmental damage that never got paid for," he said. "If you were going to select the most inappropriate site for a landfill, this would be it."

Hardin said the landfill was established in 1962. With the increase of technology over time, it became apparent surrounding ground water was becoming contaminated.

In the early 1970s, Resource Conservation and Recovery was established to set regulations for areas such as landfills.

"That's what really made it expensive to operate," Hardin said of the new regulations.

Before the regulations went into effect, there were about 30 landfills in use in northeast Kansas. Today, three exist, because of the extra costs of complying with regulations.

Hardin said, however, the cost of trash service is about the same as when the landfill was in use.

"It costs us $23.62 per ton that we haul out, and the tipping fee at the scale house is $33 per ton," Winter said.

Kreifels said she never imagined the journey the bags of trash take once they are deposited in the dumpster.

"All that just to get rid of trash," she said. "Who would have thought Manhattan's waste would end up by Lawrence?"

K-State graduate's book outlines task group success tips

By LYNN TREVINO
Kansas State Collegian

A man who is part of Manhattan's past has written a book that offers practical help for the city's future.

Jim Killacky, a K-State graduate and former Manhattan resident, has co-written a book that gives suggestions on how task groups can be run effectively.

The book, "Making Task Groups Work in Your World," has two main points.

It focuses on a balance between process and content and attaining that balance through a three step process of warm-up, action and closure.

However, Killacky said the book is not meant to be a prescription.

"It does not say if you do these things you will have a perfect task group," he said.

Killacky said readers can use the information presented in the book as a sketch and apply it to their situations in a wide range of events.

"It is a fine piece of work. It has a good model for consultation and a sort of fresh approach," said Robert Sinnett, friend and former colleague of Killacky's.

Killacky, a native of Dublin, Ireland, came to Kansas in the 1970s.

"I came to Kansas, like many people, by way of Fort Riley," Killacky said.

As a member of the community, Killacky made contributions to K-State and UFM through his work on community-based projects.

While at K-State, Killacky received undergraduate and graduate degrees in sociology and also helped co-found the FONE Crisis Center, which remained as a service to students for about 30 years.

Killacky continued his work at UFM, where he focused on community-based learning.

"Jim knew that important adult education happens both on university campuses and in many other settings, where people are gathered eager to share and eager to learn," said former colleague the Rev. Larry Fry of the College Avenue United Methodist Church. "Community-based learning is what Jim is all about."

Through his work on the outreach program, Killacky helped to start programs similar to the UFM across Kansas.

Now, Killacky continues his work on community-based projects in the New Orleans area, where he teaches in the school of social work at Tulane University.

"Making Task Groups Work in Your World" was co-written by Jim Killacky, Diana Hulse-Killacky and Jeremiah Donigan and was published by Prentice-Hall Inc. in 2001.

"This book inspires hope in the dream that we can do life together and do it well," Fry said.

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS

776-5577

1800 Claflin Road

KSU Bakery Science Club
WEEKLY BAKE SALE
TODAY 3 TO 5 P.M.
Shellenberger First Floor

www.ksu.edu/bakeclub/

KSU Meat Sale
WEDNESDAY & FRIDAY
3-6 p.m. & Noon-6 p.m.

Rm. 166 Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

For information call 532-1279

Claflin Books and Copies
Dependable Quality Service
Fax Service
Across from Goodnow Hall

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

KSU Department of Theatre Presents

How I Learned to Drive

a Pulitzer Prize winner
by Paula Vogel

SPECIAL TALKBACK SESSIONS
IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING
PERFORMANCES ON THE 8, 14 & 15

The clearer this picture gets
The better you will know this family
The more your heart will break for them

February 8-10, 14-17
Nichols Theater 8 p.m.
$6 for students/seniors
$9 general public
McCain Box Office 532-6428

Supporting KSU's most talented students!

BURGER KING
UPC PROUDLY PRESENTS THE BURGER KING

Lunchtime Lounge

WEDNESDAY:
Ian Davidson

Come and enjoy the entertainment!
FREE!

12 pm to 1 pm Union Courtyard
SPONSORED BY UPC SPECIAL EVENTS & BURGER KING!

Golden Key
National Honor Society

Chapter meeting
6 p.m., Feb. 8
Aggieville Pizza Hut

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 2001

11

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer, 14-month lease. No pets 778-2102.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

"LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION." Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $550. Call 785-456-2812.

2000/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bathroom house. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please; Great two-bedroom apartment, $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan, (785)537-7228.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

150 Sublease

SUBLEASE WANTED One-bedroom apartment to sub/short-term lease August 1-December 31, 2001 539-6484

310 Help Wanted

BILINGUAL (SPANISH/English) full-time support staff person to communicate with field staff and clients, maintain database records, compile reports. Must have excellent communication skills in both languages, be detail oriented, able to work independently. Working knowledge of Microsoft Office products, database skills required. AS400 a plus. Requires previous experience in office environment. Apply at AIB, 1213 Bakers Way, Manhattan. EOE.

CRUISE LINE- entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

DO YOU LOVE CANDLES? Do you believe that work can be fun? It can! Begin your own business selling candles and accessories through home parties. Earn an average $35/ hour. No experience necessary, no inventory or delivery. Email Sherri at: slp1645@aol.com

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary- Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2820

K-STATE ARCHITECTURE or planning student wanted to work on 8-week summer preservation/ design project in Liberal, Kan. $2,500 pay plus $500 scholarship. Call Joy at 532-5701

K-STATE SOCIAL science, economics or planning student wanted to work on 8-week summer development project in Burrton, Kan. $2,500 pay plus $500 scholarship. Call Joy at 532-5701

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains SW of Denver. General counselors and program specialists in horseback riding, hiking, backpacking, crafts, nature, challenge course, farm, dance, drama. Administrative positions also available. June- early August 2001. MAKE A DIFFERENCE! Competitive salary, room, board, health insurance and travel allowance. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org

Leading pharmaceutical company seeking Manager Trainee at our Manhattan Center. Training duties include oversight of the operations of the center and staff, indirectly supervising and motivating employees, and reporting weekly records. College degree in business administration or biological sciences preferred, but extensive work experience may be substituted for degree. Must be willing to relocate after training. Contact: David Wildman (785)776-9177

PART-TIME HELP wanted, 15-20 hours/ week. Call 537-9188

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27- July 29. Program offers horseback riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application/ information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@ruralnet.net

310 Help Wanted

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.ksu.edu/ces. Applications available at our website www.camptowanda.com. Additional information at (800)923-2267.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS. Camp counselors needed for top girls' camp in Maine. Top salary, travel paid in full, room/ board/ laundry and uniform provided. Skilled in Arts/ Crafts (ceramics, jewelry, stained glass), Basketball, Canoeing, Dance (Jazz, Pointe, Tap), Field Hockey, Golf, Gymnastics, Horseback Riding/ English Hunt Seat, Lacrosse, Photographer/ Videographer, Piano Accompanist, Office Administration, Outdoor Adventure, Ropes/ Challenge Course, Sailing, Soccer, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Theatre, Volleyball, Water-skiing, Windsurfing. Additional opportunities for kitchen, cooks, maintenance, nurses. CAMP VEGA FOR GIRLS! Visit our website at www.campvega.com to complete an application and receive a camp video or call 1-800-838-8342. Come see us! We will be on campus Wednesday, March 7th West Stadium #3 in the Union from 10 a.m.- 3 p.m. Drop-in interviews encouraged, no appointment necessary.

SUMMER IN CHICAGO Childcare and light house-keeping for suburban Chicago families. Responsible, loving, non-smoker. Call Northfield Nannies, (847)501-5354.

SUMMER IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: bucksdkin@spacestar.net or visit us at www.campbuckskin.com

SUMMER JOBS FOR 2001!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interview for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Internships, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplaurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplaurel.com

THE ROCK SPRINGS 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

A REAL Life-Saver

320 Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

615 N. 3rd. Wohler's- furniture, antiques, appliances. Lots of beer memorabilia. Buy, sell and trade.

435 Computers

POWERBOOK G3. 400 mhz, DVD, 192 meg RAM, 6 gig drive, extras. $1500. 539-4500 leave a message.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1992 FORD Ranger XLT pickup. Manual, tilt, cruise. Call 537-0456 after 5:00 pm

1992 THUNDERBIRD Power doors, windows, seats, 136,000 mostly highway miles. Excellent condition. $2700 or best offer. (785) 395-1511.

1993 NISSAN Altima GLE Auto, four-door, leather, sunroof, pearl beige, all options, low miles, great condition. 532-7520/ 537-7976.

1997 PONTIAC Grand Prix GT. Red, priced below book at $10,950, power everything. 341-5169.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

'91 HONDA Prelude, 2.0 SI, one owner, 130K, white with black interior, AC, sunroof, cruise, good tires, clean, $4450. (785) 587-8615.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

A REAL Life-Saver

630 Spring Break

600 travel/trips

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlessummers.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLESALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com

spring break 2001! SOUTH PADRE ISLAND www.pirentals.com/springbreak 1-800-292-7520

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island www.pirentals.com/springbreak 1-800-292-7520

SPRING BREAK PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER. DISCOUNT RATES (404) 355-9637

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK 2001! Cancun Blowout! $499 $559 ACAPULCO JAMAICA $649 $509 CALL TODAY!! 1-800-648-4849 www.sttravel.com

SPRING BEST DEALS! BREAK 2001 1-800-SUNCHASE www.sunchase.com

SPRING BREAK 2001 1-800-426-7710

Classified RATES

1 DAY 20 words or less $7.35 each word over 20 20c per word
2 DAYS 20 words or less $8.65 each word over 20 25c per word
3 DAYS 20 words or less $10.15 each word over 20 30c per word
4 DAYS 20 words or less $11.25 each word over 20 35c per word
5 DAYS 20 words or less $12.25 each word over 20 40c per word (consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

SCUBA LEARN to scuba dive at the areas only. PADI approved dive centers. Join the fun, get certified for spring break and summer. Call Creative Travel and Scuba at 539-0531

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN Union parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

100 housing/real estate

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Available 05/15/01-08/15/01, $600 month including all utilities, washer/dryer. Call 341-5401.

UPSTAIRS STUDIO for one person. $275 available immediately. 539-5778.

Need a Roommate? Advertise in the Collegian to find a "roomie" to share the rent and make memories.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

WOODWAY

Welcome Home

- Sparkling swimming pool
- Spacious decks/patios
- Avail. June 5 and Aug. 6
- Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
- On-site laundry facilities
- Economical gas heat

Office: 2400 Kimball Ave. at College Ave. (across from Brannage)

Call Sara at 537-7007 for an appointment.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JULY, two-bedroom, living, dining room, hardwood floors, study, family room, one three-fourth bath, one car garage. $600 plus utilities. One-bedroom basement, study, living room. $300 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking, or pets. 539-1554.

AVAILABLE NOW, large two-bedroom, near campus, two-bedroom near downtown. Also one-bedroom. Most utilities paid. No dogs. 537-8389.

AVAILABLE STARTING March 1, two-bedroom apartment in small complex near Westloop. Includes fireplace, dishwasher, private washer/dryer, and deck leading down to parking. Call 770-8213.

FURNISHED OR unfurnished for August. Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $450. Heat, water, trash three/ four paid laundry mat. 539-2482.

LEASING FOR fall 2001- two-bedroom, excellent condition and location. 776-4166 or www.angeltire.com/ks2/bluestem

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, furnished or unfurnished, available May 15- August 15 $450/ month all utilities included, washer/dryer. Call 341-5401.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING 532-6560

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

Leasing Now Thru August

- Cambridge Square
- Sandstone Apts. Only a few left!
- Fireplaces • Carpets
- Pool • Private Deck
- Laundry Facilities
- Large 2-bedroom Units

CALL NOW 537-9064 Weekdays 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. Showings by appointment

135 For Sale-Mobile Homes

TWO BEDROOMS in Colonial Gardens. $9000 or best offer. 537-9328.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share two-bedroom apartment starting August 1 one block from campus/ Aggieville. Washer/dryer on-site. Shawna 539-6155

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Pay half rent and utilities. Water and waste paid. Two blocks from campus. Call (785)263-3525.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Two-bedroom apartment with dishwasher, washer and dryer. Central heat and air. $217 monthly, plus half utilities. 537-0489.

STARTING AUGUST 2001: Female needed to share apartment at 1800 Platt. Prime condition and location. $275 plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3424

ADVERTISE YOUR SUBLEASE IN THE LET'S RENT SECTION. 103 Kedzie • 532-6555

ROOMMATES NEEDED 4 BEDROOM

- 2 bath
- Fully furnished
- Modern
- Recreation facilities
- Fitness center
- Computer labs
- Washer/Dryer
- and many more amenities

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Sat. 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

539-0500 UNIVERSITY COMMONS

APARTMENTS 2215 COLLEGE AVE.

150 Sublease

AVAILABLE NOW: One-bedroom at Chase Manhattan apartments. Must move. Call Sarah (785) 776-9001

AVAILABLE NOW: spacious one-bedroom apartment. Private balcony, water and trash paid. 532-9136, leave message.

THREE-BEDROOM, two bath house, 1870 College Heights, $700/ month (gas bill included). 537-7701.

200 service directory

255 Other Services

HOUSECLEANING! IMMACULATE work by conscientious/ experienced/ reliable Christian co-ed. References. 539-3055.

300 employment/opportunities

310 Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. For info. call (203)977-1720.

"THE GREATEST SUMMER of your life! Camp Pontiac, a premier overnight camp in New York is hiring enthusiastic and mature individuals that have skills in: Basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball/ softball, golf, swimming, sailing, ropes/ climbing wall, gymnastics, art, drama, lacrosse, football, volleyball and video/ web design. Information and interviews February 15th. E-mail campontiac@hotmail.com to set up an interview.

A GREAT WAY to Earn $25 Today! Donate your plasma to help save kids' lives. Earn $25 Cash (for approximately two hours). Call or stop by: Nabi Biomedical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan. (785) 776-9177. Fees and donation time may vary. www.nabi.com

PART-TIME STUDENT- must be self-motivated, willing to learn, and work flexible hours. Pay negotiable. Persons at all levels of technical ability seeking challenging position with no limits on growth, apply at KSU Telecommunications, East Stadium Room 109 and/or e-mail beernam@telecom.ksu.edu

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@ruralnet.net

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.</

PETS

■ continued from page 1

being handled by strangers and the commotion and noise of being in a crowd.

It also takes a special kind of temperament in a person to participate in the program.

Sherman said at first she felt uneasy talking with elderly people. She said she found people just wanted someone to talk to and something to talk about. They often will talk about their former pets, she said.

But you can't totally escape the fact that there is pain in these places. Minds and bodies slowly are weakening.

One day Sherman went to visit one of her regular animal lovers. She was confused because someone else was in her friend's room.

"It took me a minute to catch on that the lady had passed away," she said.

Carrying thermometers or other medical supplies, nurses and attendants moved back and forth from the nurses' station. Someone stopped long enough to allow in the volunteers even though Thelma Haefeker's room was marked for no visitors, so one of the volunteers could bring her a cat to curl up on her bed for a few moments.

Haefeker had 10 cats when she lived at home, Grant said. She had been very ill recently and hadn't talked in days.

Sherman said she previously had been so excited to see the cats, but this day she couldn't talk much.

"I think she was comforted by it," Sherman said. "I think she was comforted to have somebody come see her who was not bringing her medication or was going to move her around. She could relax and pet the cat as much as she could."

AREA CODES

■ continued from page 1

conservation numbers to deal with the concern."

Telephone companies are assigned numbers in blocks of 10,000, but most will not use that full amount, Foreman said, and then thousands of combinations are locked into an area and never used again.

"Lots of numbers are wasted, so we are looking at assigning numbers into smaller blocks," she said.

Another option would be designated by a single-digit prefix that would be used to reach cell phones, fax machines, computer lines and personal lines of a single person.

"You would have the same phone number for all of them, but technology would decipher which one was being called by using a single extra number," Foreman said.

However, all of this is only specu-

New Area Code

Wichita and its surrounding communities will remain 316, and all other towns formerly in the 316 area now are 620. Callers may use either area code until Nov. 3, 2001.

SARA MARTIN/Colegian

lation at this point.

"We are just working on making this transition smooth right now," she said. "We did it in the northern half of the state three years ago, and it went extremely well. Of course, it is an inconvenience, but we are sure it will be a smooth transition."

COMMISSION

■ continued from page 1

concern is that a roundabout slows traffic to 20 mph on a road primarily used for fast travel.

Lenkner said even if permanent residents get used to the roundabout, an influx of new students every semester and visitors for games and graduations might not.

Resisting the roundabout might not be nostalgia as much as it is realism, he said.

"The learning curve for these visitors is different," he said.

Worcester said he couldn't dispute studies that say roundabouts reduce accidents, but these studies don't look at the feeling of the community.

"If that's what we used to make every decision, it'd be a very simple world," he said.

In the end, the decision to go with a traffic signal instead of a roundabout could factor in how the city will pay to improve the intersection.

Some of the funding for the roughly $1.9 million project is expected to come from the Kansas Department of Transportation. However, Director of Public Works Jerry Petty said the amount contributed by KDOT, which recommended a roundabout, depends on how much of the work they deem effective for safety.

House approves lottery extension

By JOHN HANNA
The Associated Press

TOPEKA — The House approved a bill Tuesday to extend the life of the Kansas Lottery, despite a technical flaw and provisions that the agency's top official said would hurt sales.

The vote was 82-40. The bill had bipartisan support, despite Democrats' complaint that the Legislature was proceeding too quickly on the lottery legislation. It went to the Senate.

The bill would continue the lottery's operations until July 1, 2008, six years past its current shutdown date under state law of July 1, 2002.

As amended Monday, the House bill would ban lottery advertisements on the Internet and credit-card purchases of lottery tickets and require that the video Keno games be played five minutes apart instead of the current four minutes.

The House also added a proposal to dedicate $4 million in lottery revenues to a new program to lower airfares from Kansas airports. Wichita officials have complained about fares from that city's Mid-Continent Airport.

That amendment was flawed, and the error inadvertently could dedicate $5 million to the program and take $1 million from other programs financed with lottery revenues. House leaders said they had an agreement from senators to fix the problem.

"There are drafting errors in bills, and this is not uncommon," House Speaker Kent Glasscock, R-Manhattan, said. "It's not a major deal. It's a technical problem that occurs from time to time."

House members debated the bill for more than two hours Monday before giving it tentative approval on a voice vote.

Executive Director Ed Van Petten said the advertising restriction could force the lottery to shut down its Internet site. He said the Keno change would reduce sales between $8 million and $10 million a year — and cost the state $2.9 million in revenues.

Van Petten said he was disappointed that the House didn't keep the lottery bill amendment-free but said, "In the long run, they did support the lottery."

The proposed restrictions were backed by gambling opponents. Glenn Thompson, lobbyist for Stand Up for Kansas, said they were intended to make the lottery less addictive.

"I would prefer that we did not have a lottery at all," Thompson said. "If we're going to have a lottery, let's have some constraints on it."

Legislators from both parties expect the lottery to be renewed this year because it provides up to $60 million a year in revenues to the state. Voters approved a constitutional amendment allowing the lottery in November 1986, and the first tickets went on sale a year later.

House Republican leaders had hoped to prevent the bill from being amended, so the Senate could deal with it quickly. Senate President Dave Kerr, R-Hutchinson, said the provisions added by the House left the bill thoroughly messed up.

The amendment containing the restrictions was offered by Rep. Dennis McKinney, D-Greensburg, and was approved 61-59.

The Keno restriction would reduce the number of games played each day. Kansans watch Keno on video screens at retail stores where lottery tickets are sold.

"It's a balance between being moralists and creating public policy that takes advantage of people," McKinney said.

Get it online

kstatecollegian.com

REACH FOR THE STARS!
BECOME A LEADER WITH...
UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL!

Kansas State University's Union Program Council is searching for students to fill six Executive Council Leadership positions. If you enjoy a challenge and are interested in further developing your leadership skills, this might be just the opportunity for you! The Council will be taking applications for the following positions:

- + President
- + Vice President of Public Relations
- + Arts & Entertainment Committee Chair
- + Feature Films Committee Chair
- + Forums Committee Chair
- + Classic Films Committee Chair
- + Multicultural Committee Chair
- + Adventure Committee Chair
- + Daytime Programs Committee Chair
- + Special Events Committee Chair

Applications are now available to be picked up in the U.P.C. office, 3rd floor K-State Student Union. The applications are due February 28, 2001. For more information, call the U.P.C. office at 532-6571.

Most K-State students have 0 to 5 drinks when they party.

Project
WELLNESS
Kansas State University

Most K-State Students

about one drink per hour over a four hour period.

*Based on a 2000 classroom campus-wide survey of 1,192 KSU students that was representative of the K-State student population with regard to demographics such as age, GPA, college, class, and gender.

1 drink = 1 bottle of beer, 1 glass of wine, or 1 shot of liquor.

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 50 ■ LOW 27

THURSDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGEIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGEIAN

Feb. 8, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 94

Missouri
defeats women in final minutes

■ page 6

Former U.S. senator to give lecture Friday

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

With his trademark bow tie on and years of work in the U.S. Senate behind him, former Sen. Paul Simon will present a Huck Boyd Lecture in Community Media at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Simon has been working at Southern Illinois University in the Public Policy Institute, a center designed to solve some of the country's oldest problems.

The institute has been credited with helping lead the state of Illinois to fuller disclosure of campaign contributions, which has been called the most substantial state campaign finance reform in nearly a quarter of a century.

Simon was out of the office on Wednesday, but those in his office said he never gives a set speech.

In the 104th Congress he worked on several different committees, wrote several bills on a variety of issues and was a proponent of the Balanced Budget Amendment.

He first wrote a bill to balance the budget in 1986, a formula still being discussed today.

Simon also served several terms with Bob Dole in the Senate, and it is unclear whether he ever followed Dole to the podium.

He will do so Friday — Dole gave the first Huck Boyd Lecture last year.

"We got kind of lucky because we had Bob Dole last year, and when you can say to people Bob Dole came and spoke, it is a little bit easier," said Gloria Freeland, director of the Huck Boyd Center.

The Huck Boyd Center works to help community newspapers survive by providing information and putting on workshops throughout the year. It is named for a former community journalist who worked in north-west Kansas.

SIMON

Simon himself was once a journalist — he owned 13 newspapers before he sold them in 1960 to concentrate on his public life.

"He had a chain of newspapers early in his career, and I imagine he will talk about that," she said.

The lecture is part of Huck Boyd National Center two-day regional workshop that begins today and features a variety of seminars on improving community newspapers.

Organizers said they expect a good turnout of community journalists from around the state.

"This will be our first big workshop," Freeland said, "but we have done other workshops."

One person attending the workshop is Howard Kessinger, co-publisher of the Marysville Advocate, a newspaper he has owned and operated since 1975.

In that time, he said the relationship the paper has had with K-State has been beneficial.

"We have five people coming, and we look forward to it," he said. "K-State and the program have been a great deal of help to us over the years."

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

ABOVE: Kirstyn Williams, of Jim Armendariz's sixth grade class, raises her hand to answer a question during an hourlong DARE session. DARE was implemented to provide accurate information on drugs and the consequences of abusing them. BELOW: Kyla Gibson gets help with her work from an officer during class at Bluemont Elementary School.

DARE to continue

Local schools retain drug-education program

By LUCAS SHIVERS
Kansas State Collegian

Despite some Kansas City-area school districts' decision to terminate the DARE program, Riley County sixth graders will continue with their drug abuse resistance education, Officer Larry George, county DARE coordinator, said.

"The program is very positive," George said. "In my understanding, the recent decisions to end DARE were based on financial issues, not effectiveness."

Funded through special grants, the educational program does not tax department resources, George said. Community and parent/teacher organizations supply any additional needs not met in the budget to extend the services to students.

"Schools are so busy that if DARE was considered a waste of time, it would end quickly," he said. "On the contrary, the success of our program has spread to all 26 county classrooms."

A pilot program initiated Eugene Field School students as the first in the county to experience DARE nine years ago, George said. Due to this leadership at the county level, George also serves as a mentor for the state program assisting in promotion and training new officers.

"There is no equal to DARE," George said. "Officers report to classrooms once a week to provide accurate information on drugs and the consequences of abusing them. It gives students the opportunity to make positive life-building choices."

Officers are placed in 14 schools to cover the entire county, he said. There are plans to extend the program to lower and middle level grades as early as next school year.

"It is hard to change behaviors with one-time exposure," George said. "We wanted to continue the education to help kids."

Ben Stout, sixth-grade science teacher at Northview School, said his students are encouraged by the DARE sessions.

"The students always look forward to our once-a-week sessions with enthusiasm," Stout said. "The kids are educated with information, and the choice is left up to them. Many times they have to be older to react to the real situations, but with early education everything is laid out for them."

With 100-percent class participation, Stout said he credits supportive parents for the effectiveness of the program.

"DARE is absolutely effective," he said. "I think it is due in a large part to the united front presented to students concerning their responsibility to make smart choices."

George said parental support is essential to the success of the program. He said he has been approached many times by anxious parents wanting to get younger children in the program.

"This is a joint effort between the police department, school and parents," George said. "If one fails to get the message across, the others must step up and fill in. That is where we come in."

Andrea Fields, sixth-grade teacher at Amanda Arnold Elementary School, said DARE presents a realistic message in preparing students for the future.

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

"Students have a lot of misinformation that needs to be cleared up," Fields said. "In the students' mind, they will be bombarded with drug offers when they reach middle school. This high pressure is not as common as the subtle things, which are harder to resist. DARE prepares students with reality."

The connection formed between officers and students has an affect beyond the time spent in DARE. The officers build rapport and provide a positive role model, she said.

"Based on the interaction, a trust is formed," Fields said. "They can introduce students to the topics and get them thinking to be ready for the future."

Just like a fire drill, DARE provides planning before a bad situation, she said.

"Students remember what they learn," she said. "but when it comes down to action, they find that to be the hardest part."

Theater chain faces financial hardships

By CORBIN H. CRABLE
Kansas State Collegian

Since Carmike Cinemas declared bankruptcy last summer, things have been moving slowly for the company, Suzanne Brown, corporate spokeswoman for Carmike, said.

The Columbus, Ga.-based theater chain filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy Aug. 8, 2000. Carmike is the owner of Seth Childs Cinema.

Brown said the process of recovering from bankruptcy takes as long as two years.

"Typically, Chapter 11 lasts from 18 to 24 months," she said. "We're still in the beginning stages. There's not that much progress at this time."

Part of the reason for this bankruptcy is that it costs too much to keep the smaller, unprofitable theaters in business, said Rick King, senior vice president of corporate communications for American Multi-Cinema Inc., a Kansas City-based theater chain.

"We have been conscientious since we started building megaplexes about closing up our older, unproductive theaters as they become unprofitable," King said.

In its latest closing, AMC's Crown Center 6 Theaters in Kansas City, Mo., closed its doors early last month, and King said that within the next four years, 300 screens will be on the chopping block.

Such has been the case for Carmike, Brown said. The Campus Theatre closed during summer 1998, and Westloop Theatres, the last dollar theater in Manhattan, closed last summer.

Although this might be a step in bouncing back from bankruptcy, it frustrates some college students who have limited moviegoing choices, said Leslie Trawny, senior in English.

See CARMIKE PAGE 8

Police make 2nd arrest in January shooting

By APRIL MIDDLETON
Kansas State Collegian

A second arrest has been made in connection with the January shooting death of a Fort Riley soldier, according to a press release issued by the Riley County Police Department.

Jeremy Y. Ware, 21, was arrested Wednesday in connection with the shooting.

Ware has been charged with one count of accessory to second-degree murder and three counts of accessory to attempted second-degree murder.

Ware, a soldier at Fort Riley, has had his bond set at $250,000.

Anthony Mitchell, 25, Junction City, was arrested Jan. 25. The shooting occurred near the Fraternal Order of the Eagles Lodge in Manhattan.

He has been charged with one count of second degree murder, three counts of attempted second degree murder and one count of criminal possession of firearms.

Capt. Gary Grubbs of the RCPD said a search of Mitchell's house Tuesday resulted in an additional charge of possession of methamphetamines and drug paraphernalia.

Mitchell's preliminary hearing has been set for Feb. 28.

Harlem Globetrotters to play at Bramlage Coliseum Friday

By HEATHER GRACE
Kansas State Collegian

The humorous basketball antics and stunts of the Harlem Globetrotters will fill Bramlage Coliseum at 7 p.m. Friday.

The Manhattan stop is part of the Globetrotters' five-month 2001 world tour.

The team will travel through more than 200 cities, playing more than 200 games and celebrating their 75th anniversary.

The Globetrotters began displaying their unusual basketball skills in 1927.

They have played in front of more people in more places than any other team in sports history.

Tickets range from $10.50 to $45.50, and there is a $2 K-State student discount. Tickets can be purchased through the Bramlage Coliseum ticket office or by calling Ticketmaster at (785) 234-4545.

Melod Dunn, spokesperson for Bramlage Coliseum, said it will be good to have the Globetrotters, who have not been in Manhattan in 10 years, back again.

"The team has been around the state, but not to Manhattan for quite some time," Dunn said. "It will be good to see them again."

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jlb7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
slb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glascock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
sigm7@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
rewell@intelligencia.com
Bryan Scribner
bs9639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jlb7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
neh6062@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nrf1480@ksu.edu
Michael Noll
mn5555@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jdd666@ksu.edu
Eric Schneeweis
ers878@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sym920@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
ch7699@ksu.edu
Dany Elsworth
dae0091@ksu.edu
Alissa Duncan
aad0849@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
err1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
(ISSN 291 1070), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 101, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 101, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7107.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

News of the weird

In November, off-duty Chicago police officer John Sebeck (240 pounds, with a master's degree in social work, which helps him on the job in counseling elderly abuse victims) was suspended for punching a 72-year-old man (115 pounds) in the face following a minor traffic accident.

Beach art museum seeks students for new group

The Student Friends of the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art are requesting help. The group is beginning its membership drive, and a meeting will be at 5:30 tonight for those interested in membership.

Emily Cochrane, senior in art history, said it is a new group that will enable students to contribute to the museum.

"This will be the students' counterpart to the Friends of the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art," Cochrane said.

The group also plans to get more active in the art community, and Cochrane said she encourages people from all areas of campus to attend the meeting.

"People do not have to be in an art major to do this," she said. "They just have to want to be involved."

The group will be involved with the museum, which continues to grow in popularity. Attendance is around 25,000 visitors per year.

Cochrane said membership has steadily increased over the years to around 300 Friends members.

— Nick Bratkovic

Safety tests indicate problems with gun locks

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Government safety tests determined that all but one of 32 models of gun locks could be opened without the key — some just by striking them hard, The Washington Post reports.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission plans to urge the gun-lock industry to develop standards to make sure the locks work as advertised, the newspaper said Wednesday. There have been no reports of shootings attributed to failed gun locks, the CPSC said.

"There are 12 safety standards for every toy, but there is not one safety standard for a gun lock, even though people are depending on these to keep their kids away from guns," CPSC chairwoman Ann Brown told the Post.

"We found you could open locks with paperclips, a pair of scissors or tweezers, or you could whack them on the table and they would open," she said. "If I can do that, any 5-year-old can."

The commission also is ordering a voluntary recall of 400,000 gun locks distributed to homes across the country by under an initiative by the gun industry called Project Homesafe.

— The Associated Press

Israeli prime minister aims to retain Jerusalem

JERUSALEM — Ariel Sharon, flush from an election victory seen as a mandate to veto more concessions to the Palestinians, pledged in a symbolic pilgrimage to Judaism's Western Wall on Wednesday that Jerusalem will remain in Israeli hands forever.

Sharon's promise, delivered the day after his decisive win over incumbent Prime Minister Ehud Barak, ran directly counter to a key Palestinian demand for control over Jerusalem's walled Old City and its holy shrines.

However, Sharon aides were quick to portray Israel's new leader as a pragmatist the Palestinians will be able to do business with.

"Sharon wants to bring peace," said an adviser, Raanan Gissin. "I certainly believe the Arabs ... know they may not get everything they want, but it will be a real agreement."

Sharon aides suggested Wednesday that — contrary to reports during the campaign — he would be willing to carry out territorial concessions in the West Bank and even dismantle some settlements.

Reuven Rivlin, a lawmaker from Sharon's Likud Party, told Israel TV this would involve uniting some islands of Palestinian autonomy in the West Bank, which could involve the dismantling of some isolated Jewish settlements.

Palestinian officials said they were ready to hear Sharon's offers. Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat told Sharon in a message that his hands remain stretched out in peace, according to Sharon's advisers.

Arafat advisers said they were unaware of such a message, but that they expected the leaders to make direct contact soon.

Palestinians said they would not contemplate any Israeli proposals that fall short of Barak's most recent offer — a Palestinian state in virtually all of the West Bank and Gaza Strip, as well as parts of Jerusalem. Sharon has ruled out such concessions, and said he wouldn't begin talks until violence ends.

After a four-hour meeting in Gaza, Arafat's Cabinet issued a statement calling on Israel to resume peace negotiations from the point at which they left off, and calling for international supervision of renewed peace talks.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegn@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- Pre-physical therapy club will meet from 6 to 7 tonight in Union 206.
- KSU Horticulture Club will meet at 6:30 tonight in Throckmorton 2024. Pizza will be served, and there will be bowling after the meeting.
- The Department of Geology will present "The Scandinavian Caledonides From The Bottom Up: Production And Exhumation of Ultra-High-Pressure Metamorphic Rocks, Western Norway" at 4 p.m. today in Thompson 213. The seminar will be given by Michael Terry of Old Dominion University, Norfolk, Va.
- WM-ATE, the K-State affiliate of the National Council of Teachers of English, will meet at 7 p.m. today in the back room of Java Espresso & Bakery in Aggieville.
- Ag Ambassadors and Ag Reps will meet at 6 p.m. Thursday in Waters 231.
- The Society for Creative Anachronism/Shire of Spinning Winds will meet from 6 to 8 tonight in Ahearn 204.
- Hillel Jewish student organization will meet at 8:30 tonight at Java Espresso & Bakery in Aggieville.
- Intramural entries for wrestling, free throw and whiffleball will be taken at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex today. Entries are accepted in the administrative office. Call 532-6980 for more information. Intramural free throw competition will be Friday and Saturday in the complex.
- Golden Key will have its chapter meeting at 6 tonight in the Aggieville Pizza Hut.
- Habitat for Humanity will meet at 9 tonight in Union 213.
- Applications for Student Alumni

Board are due at the Alumni office by 3 p.m. Friday. Applications can be picked up at the Alumni Association office or in the Office of Student Activities and Services.

- KSU Metalsmithing Society will have a ring making workshop at 1 p.m. Saturday in Willard 318.
- Golden Key Executive Board will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday in Union 205.
- St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center will have an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the Student Center located on the corner of Anderson and Denison avenues.
- Filing forms are available for Student Governing Association elections. Offices include student body president, Student Senate and College Councils. Forms can be obtained at www.ksu.edu/elections or in the Office of Student Activities and Services.
- Can't use your e-mail? Reactivate your ID at www.ksu.edu/actid.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County

Tuesday, Feb. 6

- At 8 a.m., April M. Trapp, 522 Laramie St., was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $500.
- At 1:06 p.m., Michael R. Casida Jr., Osawatomie, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.

Wednesday, Feb. 7

- At 12:53 a.m., Corey K. Michaud, 127 E.J. Frick Drive, was arrested for obstruction of the legal process, MIP and display of false ID.

K-State Police

Wednesday, Feb. 7

- At 5:02 a.m., Corey J. Pletz, 806 Ratone St., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

Chinese Chef
Authentic Chinese Food
DINE IN or CARRY OUT
DRIVE THRU
Phone 537-3333 • 2704 Anderson Ave.
Daily Special $3.95
w/ soda
Hours Open:
Mon. - Thurs. 11:00 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.
Fri. - Sat. 11:00 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.

Send your Valentine a SWEET CREATION from
L.A. Cakes &
Cookie Bouquets
FREE DELIVERY
Order
Early
CALL
776-8773

VALENTINE'S DAY
SINGING
TELEGRAMS
To order, call
Manhattan Christian College Music Office
@ 539-3571

Olson's Shoe Service
Replace Heels & Soles
& Repair Western Boots,
Women's & Men's Dress, All
Birkenstock, Handbags & Backpacks.
Edwin C. Olson Sr., Certified Pedorthist
~ Aggieville ~
539-8571 • 1214-B Moro

Legal Services For Students
Dianne K. Urban, Attorney
STUDENT ACTIVITIES AND SERVICES
K-STATE STUDENT UNION 532-6541
CONFIDENTIAL
Document Preparation, Limited Representation
Free Consultations
For Enrolled K-State Students Paying the Privilege fee <<http://www.ksu.edu/legal/>>

Intramurals Entry Deadline
Wrestling, Free Throw & Whiffleball
February 8, 5 p.m.
Administrative Office, Rec Complex
Recreational Services Office 532-6980

Fridays at BOWINKLES Featuring Paul Newton
comedian and singer
9 pm - midnight
+ PRIZES
+ $1.50 Bud Bottles
= Awesome Friday
Don't forget Thursdays
$1.00 Bottles
Karaoke 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.
776-1022 3043 Anderson

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.

DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.

Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)

DMS Bail Bonds
"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

Apply to be a 2001
Summer Orientation Leader

Enthusiastic, motivated leaders are needed to assist new Wildcats in their transition to the university.

Applications and additional information available at New Student Services,
1 Anderson Hall or call Susan at 532-6318

Application deadline:
Wednesday, February 28, 2001

STEVEN DEARINGER/Colegian
Dr. Mark J. Gros talks about exercising during pregnancy as part of a National Girls and Women in Sports Day program Wednesday night in the Natorium.

Diet, exercise key for women to maintain healthy lifestyle

By CAMILLE BOISSEAU
Kansas State Collegian

Women who play college basketball are four times more likely to have an ACL injury, Chris Achilles said.

Achilles, a certified athletic trainer, was one of four speakers at the National Girls and Women in Sports Day seminar sponsored by K-State's LIFE program Wednesday evening in the Natorium.

Achilles' topic for the seminar was sport injuries and prevention.

He said the main reason women are more prone to ACL injury is because of their anatomy.

"Women have a wider pelvis compared to men and less muscle development," Achilles said.

This information was reported by the NCAA Surveillance System, Achilles said. These statistics have remained unchanged for 10 years, indicating a trend.

Achilles also discussed some of the injuries common to athletes, such as muscle strains, contusions, ankle sprains and stress fractures.

"The way to help prevent an injury such as to the knee is with good conditioning, good strengthening and a good flexibility program," Achilles said.

Diane Schalles, director of nutrition services at Lafene Health Center, spoke on osteoporosis.

Schalles said this is more common among women and also is known as the brittle-bone disease. She said women have their peak bone mass between the ages of 20 and 35.

"I compare osteoporosis attacking the bones to termites attacking wood," Schalles said.

Dr. Mark Gros from the Women's Health Group spoke on pregnancy and exercise.

Gros' speech stressed the importance of women taking care of their bodies when pregnant, and he said women may do some types of exercise while pregnant.

"Women can exercise when pregnant, but they should not begin a new exercise program during their pregnancy," Gros said.

Bryan Helwig, a K-State graduate with a doctoral degree in physiology, gave some information on nutrition and exercise. He showed what different serving sizes looked like and compared them to how much a daily intake should be.

"One serving size of meat is equivalent to a deck of cards," Helwig said. "Some people eat twice this amount when having a serving of meat."

Helwig said eating, especially breakfast, before exercising is important.

"A person should experiment and see what works for them. A good source of energy before eating are foods such as a graham cracker, or Fig Newton or bagels," Helwig said.

Christine Ferguson, LIFE coordinator, said she hopes the seminar was beneficial for women.

"I wanted this to educate people and give people a setting where they could have their questions answered," Ferguson said. "I hope that next year this event will be combined with kids, and it gets the community involved, too."

The National Girls and Women in Sports Day was established in 1987. This day is celebrated in Washington, D.C., every year and now has grown to a nationwide scope.

Emille Krause, a K-State graduate with a degree in kinesiology, said the speakers gave lots of information regarding the topics.

"I gained more knowledge about different adaptation to women's bodies pertaining to pregnancy, osteoporosis, adequate nutrition and women's sports injuries," Krause said.

Make your voice
heard!

CampusFourum:
395-4444

Stay connected...

kstatecollegian.com

Have you got your copy of the Campus Phone Book?

Purchase now in Kedzie 103

K-State graduates finding employment in Kansas

By CAMILLE BOISSEAU
Kansas State Collegian

Building on a strong tradition, K-State graduates continue to impress employers and find jobs in the state of Kansas.

According to Tracey Fraser, director of Career and Employment Services, K-State consistently has been a place where employers look for quality employees.

A survey conducted by Career and Employment Services reported that 56 percent of K-State students who graduated between August 1999 and May 2000 who found jobs were working in the state of Kansas.

Fraser said there are many reasons K-State graduates continue to receive jobs in Kansas after graduation.

The strong economy and the diverse types of opportunities in multiple areas are main reasons K-State graduates stay in that state.

"K-Staters like to stay in close and have a day's drive to Manhattan. It is also a sense of loyalty and staying involved with the university," Fraser said.

K-State graduates also have built a strong reputation with their quality, academic respect, a strong work ethic and their relationships with the faculty, Fraser said.

This reputation applies to many fields. Some of the areas are agriculture, business, education, engineering, human ecology, mass communications and social workers.

Katie Marshall, a 2000 K-State graduate with a degree in elementary education, is employed by the Blue Valley School District.

"For me, there were many reasons I wanted to work in Kansas," Marshall said. "I knew that the Blue Valley school district was excellent, and that was something that interested me."

Marshall said she also enjoyed the large K-State community that existed in the area. This was something that was very important to her.

Todd Buffington, a 2000 K-State graduate with an undergraduate degree in business administration and a master's degree in accounting, is employed by Deloitte & Touche.

"I enjoy having my family close to me, and when I compared Kansas City to other cities, it just kept sticking out to me," Buffington said.

Fraser said graduates also are finding jobs because of recent supply and demand.

"With the university's solid relationship with employers, I do not see any reason for the success of K-State graduates to stop," Fraser said.

MODEL SHOWINGS! NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 11 - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal
Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed., & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #15
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

http://www.mdiproperties.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough Development
2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

"We're giving away FREE tickets to every KSU men's basketball game!"

Larry Hrybok,
President

"We believe Coach Wooldridge is going to rebuild the men's basketball program at KSU. Join us in helping bring back the winning Wildcat tradition. Come in and register to win a pair of free tickets to the next game!"

Win a Pair of Tickets to the Wildcat's
Next Home Game:

KSU vs Colorado
7:00 pm, Saturday
February 10

One pair of free tickets for each home game will be given away at each FirstBank location in Manhattan. Come in and register today!*

Win a KSU Autographed Basketball!

Each time you register to win free game tickets, you'll automatically be entered in the drawing to win a basketball autographed by the KSU men's team and coaches.*

$125 FirstBank Hotshot Shoot-Out at Each Game!

At half-time of each game, one lucky contestant will have the chance to take 5 shots at different locations on the court. Each shot is worth $25 for a total potential of $125. Enter to win at the game.

Free Wildcat Mini-Balls and T-Shirts for Kids!

Willie The Wildcat will be tossing out free mini-basketballs and T-shirts at the game!

*No cost. No obligation. Need not be present at drawing to win.

Serving Kansans Like You For 113 Years

Manhattan - 537-0200
Main Bank • 701 Poyntz West Facility • 3005 Anderson
University Facility • Denison & Claflin

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

On the Topic

If you were inspecting your living arrangements, how would you rate them?

My living arrangements are great, and I pay a lot of money to have the luxury to live there. And I really don't want my rent to go up over these stupid inspections.

To our compassionate landlord, from your tenants on Moro Street, could you please finish our house?

Best accommodations at K-State: Farmhouse fraternity.

If I had to rate the living arrangements at Haymaker, I would give it a one out of 10 just because it is so loud and smelly.

University Commons — we give them five stars.

Well, considering the fact that my apartment is teetering directly on top of the two apartments in Chase that were condemned, I'd have to rate my living arrangements as just peachy.

This message is for all the renters that are concerned about their rent rates going up because of the new inspection plan: if you realistically think that it is going to cost you only $5 extra a year in rent, you are being pretty naive. That is only the inspection fee. That is not taking into account the extra manhours that our landlords are going to be using to inspect them, and you can be sure that they are going to be charging us for that as well.

If there wasn't a big hole in our roof, I would say we would be living like kings.

How do I rate my living arrangements? So far this year I have found a roach in my room and a bat in my closet. And this is sponsored by K-State. Ratings, a zero. Thank you. And that would be in the Ford Hall, so you might want to inspect those.

Off the Topic

I think encouraging dialogue is good and censorship is bad, but the last thing I want to see when I walk into the Union is a penis.

I'm glad to see the positive articles on the law enforcement and the war on drugs — I think they are doing an excellent job.

This is to the uninformed person who wrote in about Dan Smith — he doesn't write his own headlines.

Hey, David Allen, don't you have anything better to do than to go intramural basketball games and harass your girlfriend's opponents?

I would just like to say that I am very glad that Micah Hawkinson wrote his column on Tuesday, and I am glad that somebody finally said that.

Thanks, Collegian. Now that I know the ingredients to meth, I can have my own little lab.

Did anybody else see the students in the Project Wellness ad in Aggieville last night?

Thanks for the pep talk, Sarah. Nolan, will you be my valentine?

It angers me that President Wefald can make uneducated comments on roundabouts and everyone pays close attention, yet when the civil engineers, who have Ph.D.s in this stuff, state the facts, nobody listens.

I don't know why I am not supposed to drink. It is the only way I can survive the College of Engineering.

I would like to say thank you to the young lady who helped me when I had my accident on campus with my bicycle, to Lafene Health Center. Thank you very much.

I'd appreciate it if the Collegian would stop talking about drugs since I just got out of rehab a month ago.

Question for Tuesday

Why do you think Nicole Kidman and Tom Cruise separated?

Down the drain

Projected cost of rental inspections small price for improved housing

First time I thought about it, it seemed like a good idea.

It's been a while in the pipeline — the idea of requiring inspections for rental properties in Manhattan has lingered for a few years — but then, I rarely took it seriously. It always seemed to be a tease.

KEN WELLS

Y'see, renters in a college town know that they will derive a square deal only from the kindness of a benevolent landlord (no, they're not extinct yet, though they are like unicorns anymore). The golden rule — he who has the gold makes the rules — applies; renters don't write the lease. A surprising number of us take it on faith that the landlord will not stab us in the back — did you read every section of your lease? Really? Have you ever walked away from an apartment because of a subclause that wouldn't let you change your car's oil in the parking lot?

If not, don't worry — something tells me you're not the exception, you're the rule. After all, it's not a renter's market. You don't have the luxury to pick-and-choose and find a fireplace that brings out the highlights in your hair or coordinate your futon and your chandelier. As time passes and the apartment hunt keeps turning up empty, your criteria will broaden until you'll beg to pay $450 a month for a refrigerator box with airholes three blocks from campus. You're a student; you've got bigger fish to fry.

Or maybe you're just another fish on someone else's skillet.

Disclaimer time again — not all my landlords have been molesters of the Kansas Resident Landlord Tenant Act. Some have been human, even friendly and fair. But some make it clear — through word and action — they'll do whatever they can get away with to their property and their money (which you now possess but are giving to them eventually anyway...).

Renters constantly are reminded of the lease — landlords can become clerics of the holy one-year tome and sing hymns to it — but how many landlords ever tell their tenants about their legal rights? How many people actually know about the KRLTA? And how many landlords in this town profit off that ignorance?

There's nothing earth-shattering in the mandatory rental inspection program. There's no new code being inflicted upon existing properties — it's simply making sure that properties are conforming to legal specifications. Projected cost?

A buck per month, according to Jake Worcester, student body president, who, along with Mayor Karen McCulloh, is spearheading this latest drive to make the inspection plan reality (And, of course, landlords are going to exploit this opportunity to jack up rents; have they ever missed one before, or been shy about ratcheting up that bar?).

Funny, though, reading other local publications, you'd think McCulloh was smashing Ten Commandments monoliths with sledgehammers from the vicious attacks she's drawn by opponents of the inspection plan.

(My reaction: who's opposing a plan to require buildings to be legally up to code? Who's using scare tactics, running fear-mongering ads, handing out torches for a march on the castle? Hrm. Who do you think? Who has the most to lose?)

More I think about mandatory rental inspections, the more I like it. When I find out someone actually has the gumption to take offense to buildings being habitable, that someone's self-centered enough to take offense at being responsible for the way they maintain their property for a change, I'm simply ashamed we haven't had this sooner.

But I don't think this is far enough. What I wouldn't mind seeing is a sheet given to all incoming freshmen on their legal rights as tenants — whether they choose to dorm it or not their first semester — including a primer on the KRLTA.

Maybe they won't need it. Let's hope they won't. But they're not going to get snotty treatment and threats if they aren't kept up-to-date on their rights — just their obligations.

The next meeting on the issue is 6 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 13 at City Hall. Odds are you've got a vested interest, so represent. It's your money. The playing field between renter and landlord never will be level — but we can make it better.

Ken is a graduate student in English. You can e-mail him at sigma7@ksu.edu.

See a related column from Ken Wells at collegian.ksu.edu/issues/v105/1a/n032/opinion/opn.column.html

BECKY WILSON/Collegian

Murdered mother-to-be sign of help needed

Theresa Andrews was 23 years old. She had short brown hair, sparkling blue eyes and fair skin.

When she was 17 she met her future husband, Jon, at a religious assembly. She lived a normal life, worked at a bank and saved up money so she could be a stay-at-home mom.

Yet there is a story about her in the February 2001 issue of Glamour. No, not because she was a beautiful, giving person, although she truly was.

Theresa was in Glamour because when she was nine months pregnant, she was murdered for the baby she carried in her womb.

She was murdered in cold blood by Michelle Bica. Bica was jealous she could not carry a child.

Bica previously had went through the trauma of having a miscarriage. Instead of trying to cope by strengthening her religious beliefs, turning to family, friends or therapy, Michelle did the unthinkable.

She told everyone she was pregnant and decided to steal another family's baby.

Bica murdered the expectant mother by shooting her in the heart with a .22-caliber gun. She then removed the baby from the womb of the deceased and later buried Theresa under the dirt floor in the Bicas' garage.

So why was Theresa chosen to die in such a cold and heartless manner? Because the Andrews were trying to sell their 1999 Jeep Wrangler.

Bica saw the "For Sale" sign and the expecting mother and she lured Theresa into her trap by calling and setting up a test drive.

Dr. Phillip Resnick, a professor of psychiatry at a university in Cleveland, found that baby stealers often fall into three categories: they might be needy, immature, emotionally deprived and unstable young women; they might have a mental illness or they might just be flat out manipulative.

It is safe to say Michelle appears to have fit into all three categories.

So what is the punishment for this murder?

Michelle chose to commit suicide less than a week after she took another woman's life.

The following day, Jon Andrews was given care of his son, Oscar. The only physical link that he had left of his beloved wife.

Unfortunately, there is nothing that can be done to change this horrible tragedy. However, a fund had been set up to help Oscar pay for his education. You can make donations to the following account:

Theresa Andrews and Family
Benevolent Fund in care of

Nicholas Phillips
Phillips and Mile
7530 Lucerne Drive
Suite 200
Middleburg Heights, OH 44130
(440) 243-2800

It makes me sick to my stomach to think a woman would be so greedy, so selfish that she would take another woman's life because she was not fortunate enough to create one.

I have no solutions, only sympathy. It is a shame that incidents like this make the world seem colder, darker and more drab. It is horrible that incidents like this make the birth of a child so bittersweet; that incidents like this make good people cautious, or even worse, victims.

It is women like Michelle who give rose-colored glasses bifocals.

Erin is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at rivated4@yahoo.com.

ERIN SCHNEWEIS

Local emergency shelter provides temporary shelter, food, counseling to those in need

By JESSICA LEDUC
Kansas State Collegian

People in Manhattan with no place to live can utilize the Manhattan Emergency Shelter.

"We provide temporary shelter to anybody in need, both single men and women as well as families with children," Executive Director Junelle Norris said. "That's our basic mission."

The shelter, at 831 Leavenworth St., has been in operation since 1985 and provides for many basic needs, including temporary shelter, food and counseling.

"We help them develop a goal plan," Norris said. "We try to help them become self-sufficient and independent."

The shelter's occupancy is 26 people within five dorm-style rooms, with two bathrooms. The biggest room can accommodate seven people.

"The more families we get in here, the harder it is to accommodate them," Norris said.

The shelter not only offers people a place to stay, but also an opportunity.

To help their guests learn to live on their own, the shelter offers a variety of educational classes, including a budgeting and money management class, a cooking and nutrition class and a drug and alcohol class.

Volunteers teach most of the classes at the shelter. Stacy Anderson, client services director, said it is important to have volunteers help out.

"A lot of our help comes from volunteers," Anderson said. "We always need the extra help."

Another component of the shelter is the Sunflower House, at 910 Leavenworth St.

The Sunflower House gives people the chance to move from living in the shelter to living in the community. Norris said guests at the house are responsible for a monthly fee and have to live on a budget.

"We try to help them bridge the gap and offer people an opportunity to transition from the emergency shelter to community living," Norris said.

Currently, there are 11 adults and four children staying at the shelter. Norris said the shelter usually accommodates many people at this time of year.

"We always have a fairly high number in January through May," Norris said. "It tapers off in May and June, then we get busy in the summer and have the most guests in August through October."

In 1995, the shelter accommodated 29-30 families, which was the most that it had ever served. But, in 1996, the shelter saw a boom in its population. Norris attributed the increase to the welfare reform passed that year.

Since then, the shelter has had an increase in the number of people they serve. In 1999, they served 414 people and in 2000, 428 people sought help.

Norris said she is expecting more people in the future because of high electric bills. She said when KPL Gas Service edges out of its cold weather rule, shut-offs could occur.

"People will have to choose between keeping KPL on or paying rent," Norris said. "It will be either pay the bill or get evicted."

The emergency shelter receives much of its funding from the city of Manhattan, the United Way, private donations and other private and public grants. They also accept donations for items that can be used at the shelter and Sunflower House.

Norris said the shelter accepts furniture that is in good condition, clothing, household goods and supplies and paper products, to name a few. If there is an immediate need for the donations, the shelter will use them; if not, they will save them for a guest that is moving out on their own.

"It doesn't matter if it's been half used. We'll still use it," Norris said. "It's rare for us not to take something."

Another important part of the shelter is the volunteers. Norris said that last year volunteers contributed more than 5,000 hours. There are a variety of jobs a volunteer can do at the shelter, from office work to helping teach classes.

"We'll gladly take volunteers, and we'll work with their time and schedules," Norris said. "We try to match their skills with our needs."

Emily Wagner, junior in psychology, works at the shelter through work study. She said she really enjoys her job.

"It's good to see how the community pulls together and helps out," Wagner said.

With the help of both volunteers and donations, the Manhattan Emergency Shelter helps provide people the opportunity to get back on their feet, while giving them the chance to stay in a home-like atmosphere.

"We're of the perspective that it's not a house, it's a home," Norris said.

Pivotal space mission begins

By MARCIA DUNN
The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Space shuttle Atlantis blasted off Wednesday with the most expensive and pivotal piece of the international space station: a $1.4 billion science laboratory.

Atlantis and its crew of five soared into a clear sky at 6:13 p.m., with a rising full moon in the background and the setting sun turning the exhaust trail a beautiful gold and peach. The plume cast a rainbow-like shadow that seemed to stretch all the way to the moon.

"We wish you luck as you deliver the heart and soul of the international space station — and have fun," launch director Mike Leinbach told the astronauts moments before liftoff.

The future of the space station, Alpha, is riding on the 11-day mission, three weeks late because of the need to inspect wiring on the shuttle's boosters.

NASA's Destiny laboratory is the first of at least three research modules planned for the station. It is so expensive that the space agency could not afford to build a backup. If the lab is damaged or destroyed in flight, the space station will be set back for years.

"That's our crown jewel," said Mark Stephenson, a space station program director for Boeing, the prime contractor.

At the moment of Atlantis' liftoff, the space station and its three residents were soaring more than 220 miles above the North Atlantic just east of Newfoundland. Atlantis should catch up Friday.

Mel's Tavern
Manhattan's Downtown Sports Bar & Grill

TEX-MEX NITE
Thursdays

50¢ Tacos
Poco Burrito $3.99
Nacho Platter $4.29

DRINK SPECIALS

18 oz. Margarita $2
Corona $2
Mike's Hard Lemonade $2

105 N. 3rd • Manhattan
(785) 776-9879

HANSEN NUTRITION CENTER
Locally owned one stop Health Food Supermarket
3112 Anderson • 537-4571
Across from Plaza West

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS

776-5577
1800 Claflin Road

Enjoy Valentine's Day With Us!

February 12-14

Skillet Dinner for two
Includes coffee and juice

Village Inn

ONLY $14.95

Good Food...Good Feelings
Valid Only At:
204 Tuttle Creek
Manhattan, KS

Auction

Saturday, February 10, 10:00 A.M.
Purple Wave Auction Pavilion
224 Leavenworth,
MANHATTAN, KS

Sporting Goods:
Mini scooters, Balls, Fishing Poles, Camel Packs Folding Chairs, Tents, Deer Feeders, Tread Mills, Exercise Bike, Fishing Nets, Trampoline, Coolers, Tackle Boxes, Hip Waders, Coleman Stoves, Coleman Lanterns, Air Mattresses, Kids Football Uniforms, Weight Equipment, Water Bottles, Rechargeable Spot Lights, Bikes, Watches, Clocks, Timers, Lawn Chairs, Trunks, Back Packs, Cots Duffel Bags, Rain Jackets, Outdoor Cook Sets, Baseball Bags, Inground Basketball Goal, Knee Pads, Scooters, Gun Cases, Pop Up Tents, Table Games, (list representatives of previous auctions) IF IT'S NOT LISTED, BUT IT'S SPORTING GOODS, WE PROBABLY HAVE IT!

Consignment Auction Every Thursday 7:00 PM

Purple Wave Auction Company
224 Leavenworth, Manhattan, KS 66502 • (785) 537-5057

Golden Key National Honor Society

Chapter meeting
6 p.m., Feb. 8
Aggieville Pizza Hut

Bob's DINER
1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT
OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK
is
EXPANDING
MONDAY-FRIDAY
$1.99
BREAKFAST
ALL THE TIME

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

Happy Valentine's Day!

Extra, Extra Photo Savings!

FREE 2nd Set!

3" ALCO Prints
OR
4" or 5" Kodak Prints

Every Tuesday & Saturday!

ALCO

Daily: 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Sunday: 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.
3007 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS
www.ksu.edu/ces

Feb. 16 - 22, 2001
Full Time Career Positions

Feb. 9-15, 2001
Intern, Co-op, & Summer Positions

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS

Union Program Council Events

Showing This Week

Meet The Parents
February 9, 10, and 11
Friday and Saturday 7:00pm and 9:30pm
Sunday - 8:00pm
Admission: $1.75
K-State Student Union Forum Hall

WEEKLY
GAME NIGHT featuring Grocery Market
Bingo
Thursday, February 8
8:00pm
Union Station
FREE ENTERTAINMENT!

CPR Training
Saturday, February 10
8am - 4pm, $40
Space is limited!
Call 532-6571 for reservations

Coaches Corner
Monday, February 12
Noon - 1:00pm
Union Courtyard
Meet the Men's & Women's Basketball Coaches!

$Financial Planning Seminar$
Secure your future!
Get free advice on how to best invest your money.
Tuesday, February 13
7:00 pm, Union Station

For Event and Membership Information:
Visit Us! 3rd Floor K-State Student Union!
Call Us! 532-6571
Visit us Online! www.ksu.edu/events

TWICE THE TROUBLE

Wildcats lose 5th straight in Big 12By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

It was déjà vu all over again for K-State's women in Bramlage Coliseum.

All that changed from the team's Jan. 20 loss to Missouri was the Cats' jersey color in Wednesday night's 63-54 loss to the Tigers.

"I think it was real similar to the first game," head coach Deb Patterson said. "It was kind of eerie how similar the two games were."

In Columbia earlier this season, K-State was unable to protect a seven-point lead with just over seven minutes to play as the Tigers posted an 18-6 run to take the first matchup 65-60 in Columbia.

The same story unfolded Wednesday night when, after having an eight-point lead at the 7:58 mark, MU used a 19-4 run late in the game to take a 59-52 lead with 2:13 left.

"We just didn't take care of the ball at the end," junior guard Kristin Rethman said. "We weren't getting stops, and on the other end, we didn't execute, so it just kind of snowballed."

Rethman and the rest of the Cats saw Missouri's Tracy Franklin hit two big threes during that run to stretch the lead to as many as seven points, and a scrappy trap defense rattled the K-State perimeter, forcing 14 second half turnovers.

"We had seven turnovers in the last nine minutes," senior Kim Woodlee said. "We struggled with the trap thing because it caught us off guard. We didn't get into what we had to get into in order to attack that the way we should have."

Although the Cats limited the talented Tiger trio of Evan Unrau, Shalondra Booker dives for the ball over Wendy Okeson during second-half action against Missouri in Bramlage Coliseum. The Cats lost the game 63-54.

Amanda Lassiter and Marlena Williams to just 15 first half points, K-State saw just three players score in the first half, and the Cats couldn't find a way to punish a Missouri offense that shot just 32 percent from the field.

Still, behind freshman Nicole Ohlde's 14 first-half points and five rebounds, the Wildcats were able to keep off a late Missouri run to take a three point lead into the intermission.

An inspired K-State defense was unable to capitalize on several Tiger mistakes in the first half, scoring just five points off of eight MU turnovers. Lassiter's four turnovers in the half were just one less than her offensive output.

K-State was able to penetrate the MU defense early in the second frame, jumping out to a quick nine point lead at the 15:51 mark behind a 10-4 run that included three-pointers by both Woodlee and Rethman, but the Cats were unable to sustain the drive and soon succumbed to a strong Mizzou defense.

"They forced our point guard into being more aggressive than is positive for us so we had some early second half turnovers," Patterson said, "and I don't think we ever got back on track, and just a little trapping pressure really threw us for a loop."

Tiger pressure and an inconsistent offense led to seven turnovers from junior point guard Shalondra Booker, forcing Patterson to substitute senior April Sailors late in the game. Sailors' turnover on her first touch exemplified Patterson's frustration with K-State's perimeter game all night.

"I thought we had an opportunity to extend our lead, and down the stretch, we didn't handle any kind of defensive pressure with confidence, maturity or intelligence," she said.

"We didn't have a player with the capability of stepping up, assuming a leadership role, handling the pressure, making the next pass or communicating effectively, and that was critical on the offensive end."

K-State loses in final minutes for 3rd time

By DEREK BOSS
Kansas State Collegian

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Same song, third verse.

K-State, on the brink of defeating Missouri for the second time this year and the first time at the Hearnes Center since 1985, folded down the stretch Wednesday night for the third time this season.

After surrendering leads to both Oklahoma and Nebraska in late January, it would seem the Wildcats would learn to reverse their crunch-time fortunes.

Apparently, they haven't.

A pair of Matt Siebrandt free throws with 1:29 to play gave K-State (8-12, 2-7 Big 12) a 66-61 lead, but the Cats went scoreless the rest of the way as Missouri (15-7, 6-3) finished the game on a 9-0 run to escape with a 70-66 come-from-behind victory.

"We've had a lot of tough ones to swallow," Siebrandt said, "but this one is really hard. We had the game won — we're up five — and we blew it. We flat-out blew it."

"I made those free throws, and I thought we had won it. I knew we'd either come down and make them work for a good bucket or something, but we just turned the ball over and threw it away."

With K-State on top 66-63, Richie Terry's pass in the final minute was intercepted by MU's Wesley Stokes, who took the ball the other way for a lay-up and foul on the Cats' Larry Reid.

Although Stokes would miss the charity and leave K-State with a one-point lead, Reid's penetration into the lane on the ensuing possession drew a controversial charging call, giving the Tigers the ball back with 0:26.8 on the clock.

Brian Grawler then drilled a trey from the right side at the 0:15.4 mark to lift Mizzou to a 68-66 advantage.

"When I saw it going in, I was like, 'Aw, not again,'" forward Travis Reynolds said. "But it felt like there was enough time left that we could come down and get a basket."

Out of the K-State timeout, Reynolds found forward Quentin Buchanan in the post, but the sophomore's turnaround jumper failed to find the rim, and the ball trickled helplessly off Reynolds' leg and out of bounds as the two teams fought for the rebound underneath.

Clarence Gilbert added two MU free throws with 0:04.9 left to seal the victory as Siebrandt lowered his head in disgust.

K-State point guard Larry Reid drops in two of his 12 points over Missouri defender Wesley Stokes.

"I'm sick of losing, especially in these tight situations," he said. "We've got to find a way to pull it out, and for some reason we can't. And we're not going to win any games until we figure out how to do this."

"Everybody knows what we have to do — it's just a question of doing it. It's all five of us. We're not getting it done. And I think it's pretty pathetic that we can be up by that many points and not pull out a victory."

"That doesn't say much for our team."

The frustration was equally evident in head coach Jim Woodridge after the game.

"It's really disappointing to get to the threshold of a win," he said. "We just had numerous mistakes, and it's the most frustrating thing I've ever seen or ever been involved with — to be at the point of victory and then just give it back to them, give the opposing team the win."

"And that's just really a shame — that's really a shame."

Siebrandt said it's almost like déjà vu seeing the Cats blow another lead and victory in the closing minutes.

"As time goes by, it's like history repeating itself," he said. "You recognize it and you see it happening all over again. You try your hardest to stop it, but somehow, some way, we always end up giving it up."

And that fact left Woodridge with a different feeling about his ball club Wednesday night.

"I was really upset with them," he said. "I think you can encourage them during certain losses, but there's some that you've got to be a little more frank."

"We can't keep doing this."

“We weren’t getting stops, and on the other end, we didn’t execute, so it just kind of snowballed.”

— Kristin Rethman

Recruiting tests physical strength

Recruiting season is over, and I couldn't be happier.

If signing day had been several days later, my body might have gone into automatic shutdown. Even now, the effects of following every commitment, change of heart and four-star rumor are beginning to show.

My eyes are glazed over from constantly staring at recruiting Web sites, desperately hoping to be the first to know if the next Quincy Morgan is going to give K-State a verbal commitment. We already have the quarterback, Marc

Dunn, fresh off two years of community college ball and a Mormon mission. Now we just need a target. I loved it, and I hated it. I didn't eat because that would mean leaving the computer for precious moments just to refuel my body.

I needed encouragement, though. I thought of my idol. Would Jeremy Crabtree, analyst supreme of Wildcat recruiting, take a break from calling potential signees and their high school coaches, teachers, bus drivers, custodians, girlfriends and ex-girlfriends just to eat? I don't think so, and neither did I. At least, that's what I told myself.

Of course, I broke down a couple times. Once, I left my command chair to grab a Twinkie out of my closet, and the result was almost devastating. In the short time I was gone, IB4KSU/PSYCHO posted a message on The Buzz rumor board that receiving great Jerry Rice still had one year of eligibility left and was "strongly considering K-State." I cheered and pounded the desk in joy. I e-mailed my friends. I spun around in my chair. I finished chewing my Twinkie.

Sure, within five minutes, 40 messages had appeared dispelling this rumor, but I still was stoked. Later, I checked the list of possible running back recruits and saw the name of Bo Jackson. I was pumped. Okay, so maybe it turned out that this Bo didn't know diddley, or football, but it still was Bo Jackson.

I could just picture the scene. K-State vs. Nebraska. The starting lineups are announced. Eric Crouch trots on the field for the Huskers. Jackson does so for the Cats. The crowd goes crazy.

Nebraska coach Frank Solich turns to an assistant coach and says, "Did you know they had Bo Jackson? We're screwed." Then he and the Huskers just leave — they never play a down.

That's the power of Bo "Not actually good, but he's got the name" Jackson.

My butt began to fuse with the chair in front of the computer. Eventually, it just stuck, and I was forced to walk around my house with a wheeled computer chair hanging from my posterior. But I didn't mind.

Jeremy Crabtree (pause for Hallelujah Chorus sung by Mormon Tabernacle Choir) could do it, and so I would die trying.

Even the threat of flunking my classes couldn't lessen my devotion to recruiting. Nor could the lack of actual human contact. When I got really tired, I would just look at the banner ad placed at the top of the Web page — Picture of football — Picture of scantily clad female midsection — XFL. I truly had all the essentials at my disposal — recruiting, less-than-sane football and sex. I should've been the hero of men everywhere.

Now, however, it's all over. The recruits are signed. The football crazies have logged off the computer. I'm eating non-cream filled food again, and my sleep is no longer invaded by running backs. My body is thankful, but, alas, my mind is not. I long to count the star rankings of potential recruits just once more.

Unfortunately, that's not possible. I won't be able to talk about recruiting for 10 more months. Except for this one thing — I have heard a rumor about some high school junior linebacker from Texas who can run the 40-yard dash in 3.9 seconds and benches 600 pounds and is "strongly considering K-State."

IB4KSU/PSYCHO, are you out there?

Michael is a sophomore in print journalism and English. You can e-mail him at mtm5855@ksu.edu.

Wildcats announce 2001 football recruiting class

K-State head football coach Bill Snyder announced today the commitment of 28 student-athletes to attend K-State and play football for the Wildcats. The class has 10 community-college transfers, one transfer from a four-year university and 17 incoming freshmen.

NAME	POS	HT	WT	HOMETOWN	SCHOOLS
Carlos Alsop	RB	6-1	195	Liberal, Kan.	Liberal HS
Henry Bryant	DE	6-1	255	Boca Raton, Fla.	Garden City CC/ Olympics Heights HS
Drallinn Burks	OL	6-4	305	Teague, Texas	Trinity Valley (Texas) CC/ Teague HS
Matt Butler	LB	6-2	210	Manhattan	Manhattan HS
Davin Dennis	WR	6-1	175	St. James, La.	St. James HS
Chavez Donnings	WR	6-0	190	Tallahassee, Fla.	Butler County CC/ Godby HS
Marc Dunn	QB	6-4	205	Brigham City, Utah	Ricks (Idaho) Coll./ Box Elder HS
James Dunnigan	CB	5-7	180	Greenbelt, Md.	Garden City CC/Purdue Univ./ Archbishop Carol HS
Scott Edmonds	DE	6-4	225	Leawood, Kan.	Rockhurst HS
Rick Gerla	P	6-1	210	Louise, Texas	Blinn (JC)/ Louise HS
Ray Green	OL	6-7	340	Junction City	Junction City HS
Jerome Janet	WR	5-11	190	Broken Arrow, Okla.	Tulsa Union HS
David King	LB	6-1	240	Daingerfield, Texas	Daingerfield HS
Mario Lolocono	OL	6-3	300	Kenner, La.	Rummel HS
Victor Mann	FB	6-2	230	Fort Worth, Texas	Country Day School
Derek Manso	DE	6-3	270	Spring Valley, Calif.	Monte Vista HS
Lamont Moore	RB	6-0	180	Owasso, Okla.	Owasso HS
Allen "Tank" Reese	DT	5-11	280	Auburndale, Fla.	Hutchinson CC/Auburndale HS
Joe Rheem	K/QB	6-2	210	Wichita	Collegiate HS
Ayo Saba	FB	6-0	260	Blackwood, N.J.	Highland HS
Ted Sims	LB	6-1	215	Newton, Kan.	Newton HS
Darren Sproles	RB	5-7	170	Olathe, Kan.	Olathe North HS
Jesse Tetuan	DB/WR	6-0	185	Topeka	Hayden HS
Bobby Walker	CB	6-1	195	Tyler, Texas	Trinity Valley (Texas) CC/Lee HS
Lawrence "Taco" Wallace	WR	6-1	190	Canoga Park, Calif.	Mount San Antonio (Calif.) Coll./ Taft HS
Corey White	DT	6-3	285	Mesquite, Texas	Navarro (Texas) JC/ North Mesquite HS
Cedric Williams	DB/WR	6-0	180	Jefferson, Texas	Jefferson HS
Travis Wilson*	FB	6-4	240	Howell, Mich.	Michigan State Univ./ Howell HS

*Transfer from Michigan State. Will sit out 2001 season and participate as junior in 2002.

Source: K-State Sports Information

CRIMINAL

■ continued from page 1

She said she doesn't see closing the last remaining dollar theaters as giving students many options.

"I don't think it's effective, especially in a college town," Trawny said. "Students don't want to pay $14 to see a movie when they can go rent a new release for a couple of bucks."

Brown said there are many aspects that are investigated in determining whether to close an unprofitable theater.

"We evaluate our theaters and make the necessary changes to make us a profitable theater circuit again," she said. "We look at the theater's attendance and profitability."

In several cases, King said, the theater chain simply will decide to let the lease run out on the building the theater is renting.

"Many theaters are working under lease obligations, and we've let a lot of leases expire," King said. "One of the things bankruptcy does is that it gives the company the ability to terminate leases."

Brown said this termination of leases is an option for those companies that file for bankruptcy.

"The option to reject leases is involved with Chapter 11," she said.

Gunman shot outside White House

By RON FOURNIER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A man brandishing a gun outside the White House fence was shot by a Secret Service officer Wednesday after a 10-minute standoff, officials said. The episode triggered a tight midday security clampdown.

President Bush was safe in his residence, exercising, at the time Vice President Dick Cheney was working in his office. Laura Bush was at the family ranch in Crawford, Texas.

"The president understood that he was not in any danger," White House press secretary Ari Fleischer said.

The wounded man was Robert W. Pickett, a 47-year-old accountant who lived by himself in Evansville, Ind., according to law enforcement officials. He was taken to nearby George Washington University Hospital where he was to undergo knee surgery and psychological evaluation. He was in stable condition.

Officials said the episode began when police heard shots and approached a man with a handgun on the sidewalk outside the fence on the south side of the White House.

"He was waving it in the air — it was pointed at the White House at one point — and pointing it in all directions," said Park Police spokesman Rob MacLean. At one point, the suspect placed the gun in his mouth, MacLean said.

Fleischer said officers on regular patrol "heard shots fired and proceeded to surround the subject."

"A 10-minute standoff ensued upon which time the Secret Service fired a shot into the suspect's leg," Fleischer said. Asked why officers fired on the man, Fleischer said they "felt it was necessary. He was armed with a weapon that he had discharged."

Secret Service spokesman Marc

Cornolly said an officer fired one shot, which struck the gunman in the right knee, and no shots were fired by the man. However, law enforcement officers were investigating whether the man fired shots before police approached him.

Pickett was not listed in Secret Service files as a threat to the president, law enforcement officials said. Agents were seeking a warrant to search his home.

Evansville police said Pickett did not have a criminal record. They said his father had filed a missing-person report on his son in 1993, but it was suspended when the son returned.

Department of Modern Languages Kansas State University

SUMMER STUDY IN MEXICO 2001

ZACATECAS AND CUERNAVACA
MAY 24- JULY 1

INFORMATION MEETINGS WILL BE HELD ON :

Thurs. Feb 8 AND Mon. Feb 12
4:00 p.m. 4:30 p.m.

124 Eisenhower Hall

For more information, call the Dept. of Modern Lges., 532-6760, or contact Dr. Bradley Shaw, 532-1988 (e-mail: bradshaw@ksu.edu)

• Increase Energy • Decrease Appetite • Increase Metabolism • Decrease Body Fat

GNC LiveWell.

WESTLOOP

537-8191

Locally Owned & Operated

GNC LiveWell.

Save $5
on Sennitrimm & Sidalonn

Westloop 537-8191 Locally owned and operated

Sun Kissed
Tanning

UNLIMITED TANNING

$19.95

A MONTH
SEE STORE FOR DETAILS

1122 Laramie St.
537-2141

A CUT ABOVE Hair and Nail Salon

We are happy to welcome Jamie (previously of Impressions Salon) to our team!!

Jamie comes to us with six years experience.
She specializes in all hair care services.

Call and ask for Jamie & receive $5 off a highlight/cut.
Exp. March 1, 2001

(785) 537-3200 • 1800 Claflin Road • Suite 110
next to Pizza Shuttle

WEEKEND DRINK SPECIALS

Ramblers STEAK HOUSE & SALOON

Thursday
Night Specials

12 oz. Top Sirloin

w/baked potato, salad and dinner roll
all for $6.99

or

"The Couples Special"

2 complete dinners for only $12.99

8711 E. Hwy. 24

539-4989

BOBBY T'S

OPEN MIC NIGHT

Starting at 9 p.m.

w/ Jeremy Hollembeak of

Sharky's Little Groove Box

$1.00 Draws & Wells

$2.99 Burgers (4:30 - 8 p.m.)

Thursday

Southwind live at 10:30

1/2 price drinks

Buy 1 steak, Get 1 FREE

Fri. Bryson
8-11

NEIGHBORHOOD Tavern

-SUNDAY-

$1 domestic bottles

-WEDNESDAY-

75¢ draws $1⁰⁰ Big Beer

$3⁰⁰ pitchers

-THURSDAY-

$1⁰⁰ wells $2 calls

$2⁰⁰ Premiums

(785) 776-6699

2413 Stag Hill Road

Manhattan, KS 66502

RC McGraws Karaoke Nite

Thursday Specials!

$6.49

Large Homemade Pizzas with Unlimited Toppings

$1.99

Island Oasis Margarita
& Hurricanes

2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, KS
776-9588

LADIES & 80'S NITE

Yesterday's Favorites with a blend of today's Hot Hits.

Including:

Live D.J.

(Blake Chaffin)

$1.50

Bud & Bud Light
Bottles

10¢ Wings
Crawfish
5-9

$1.50
Wells

Tight Fittin' Jeans 2001

LONGHORNS

2ND ROUND
TONIGHT!

Girls & Guys Contest

CASH
&
PRIZES!

sponsored by
Coors Light
Sun Essentials
U.S. TOBACCO CO.

Get Signed up NOW!

JOIN IN ON THE FUN!

$1.75

Coors &
Coors LIGHT
BOTTLES

1115 Moro • Aggieville

TRENDS

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 2001

7

Cryptoclip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Rebuff a masher
5 Peri's "Frasier" role
8 Seafood entree
12 Bart's sister
13 Mr. Wallace
14 Bigfoot's cousin
15 Finished
16 Hideaway
17 "Zip- —" Doo-Dah"
18 Check payee, maybe
20 Annul
22 Discoverer's cry
23 Male title
24 Injured
27 Swollen
32 Put to work
33 Prior night
34 Ra's realm
35 Harassed
38 Catch sight of 39 Crib
40 Used to be 42 Use plastic

DOWN
3 On the Mediterranean
4 Winged mimic
5 Play-ground game
6 José's huzzah
7 Galvanizing stuff
8 Blue
9 Barton's group
10 Done to —
11 Jessica of "7th Heaven"
19 "Howzat again?"
21 — was saying, ...
24 Boston nickname
25 Dream Team logo
26 Snoopy's foe
28 Rd.
29 Detroit team
30 Get all the gravy
31 Tarzan portrayer
36 Undergarment
37 Chang's closest relative
38 Lively wit
41 Early hrs.
42 Reticent one
43 "Battle Hymn ..." writer
44 Needing a tiebreaker
46 Staffer
47 Egyptian fertility goddess
48 1981 Beatty movie
51 Before now

Solution time: 28 mins.

Yesterday's answer: 2-8

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

U V ' N N R M G K X P W
Q U N V Y D G V I G A Y M D
M Y P F G M I Y N G Y F K G
W A A W M V R P U V X G Q A K W X Q G P V
Yesterday's Cryptoclip: I GUESS MISUNDERSTOOD GAMBLERS ARE BOUND TO BE AT ODDS WITH THE WORLD.
Today's Cryptoclip Clue: V equals T

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to
CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.
The Cryptoclip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals Q, it will equal Q throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MIX MASTERS

Who: Tim Duggan, O'Malley's Alley

Duggan, sophomore in landscape architecture, has been a bartender at O'Malley's Alley for six months.

DRINK: The Naive Freshman

5 counts Bacardi 151
Top it off with a splash of cranberry juice.

ONLINE:

Learn to make this drink from the master. Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for exclusive video footage.

Duggan

SPRING is in the AIR

Season's fashion looking smashin'

PHOTOS BY EVAN SEMON
STORY BY BETSY STYERAK
Kansas State Collegian

The weather is getting warmer, and it's becoming easier to skip class.

That must mean one thing: spring is arriving quickly, and it's time to go shopping.

Many trends have changed from winter, and so have the clothes. Styles, fabrics, and colors are just a few of the prominent transitions.

"Khaki, capris and shorts are more popular this year than denim," said Tamra Armbrister, team leader at The Buckle. "This year, the capris appear with a lot more rhinestone designs, and much more beaded patterns."

However, the changing styles and the increase of design work doesn't mean there is a huge price increase from the winter line, Armbrister said.

"Spring clothes aren't necessarily more expensive than other seasons," she said. "There is even a $5 or $10 decrease in capris and khakis compared to the denim."

Davis Brants, associate manager of The Gap, also said the spring line clothes are less expensive.

"There are a lot more lower price points because there is not as much to it," he said.

The spring-line clothes still look great with accessories. The regular accessories are still available with the spring line in addition to the new ones. Gap accessories include scarves, purses, hats and bags.

"We are going for the modern-preppie look this spring, so the accessories are an important part of the look," Brants said. "The modern preppie look is described as the wrap-around sweater-style, canvas tennis shoes, oxford-type shirt and includes a cardigan."

"There's a lot of colored khakis in the spring line, not as much denim."

The Buckle also carries items to accessorize a wardrobe all year long.

"We always have a great selection of belts, bracelets and watches," Armbrister said.

Even though spring is approaching, these retail stores began receiving stock in the early part of the new year.

"At The Buckle, little pieces begin to pop up in the middle of January," Armbrister said. "We get more stock as time moves closer to March."

The Gap begins receiving shipment from the start of January as well and keeps receiving until August, when the winter stock begins to arrive. Customers can begin shopping for their spring wardrobe as early as January and do not have to wait until March or April.

As the shipment arrives, customers await new styles and trends from their favorite labels.

"Lucky and Silver seem to be our most popular labels, but Lucky pretty much has every spectrum covered," Armbrister said.

The Gap still is strong on the basics. The store's highest-selling items are those that bear the Gap logo in plain view.

"The Gap logo is always our most popular," Brants said. "Anything labeled like hats, sweat-shirts and T-shirts, no matter what season."

Though clothes are a huge part of bringing in the spring tradition, Jessica Canada, store manager at Journeys Shoes, said the shoes are just as important. Shoes are an essence to springtime shopping traditions. This year, the spring line seems to be different and offers new wild and crazy colors and styles, Canada said.

"Spring shoes are much more open-toed and very airy," she said. "The winter boots go out, and the sandals come in."

Like The Gap and Buckle, spring shoes seem to be a lot cheaper, and Canada said Journeys definitely sells more pairs in spring-time. The store began receiving its earliest shipments in January and will continue to do so until mid-July.

"Popular styles of spring shoes are found in cork, wood-soled and chunkier heels," Canada said. "The tennis shoes, pastels and natural colors such as brown and black sell more in the spring."

THE GONGFARMER

SPECIAL THANKS TO GUEST ARTISTS GABE JOHNSON & MAPISON ROTH

Monkey Boy

BY RANDY REGIER

BY BRENT ENGSTROM - MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 2001

9

200 service directory

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

510
Automobiles

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$7.35
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$8.65
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $10.15
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

101
Rental Wanted

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

145 Roommate
Wanted

WANTED TO SUBLEASE
One-bedroom apartment to sub/short-term lease August 1 - December 31, 2001. 539-6484

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

"LANDLORDS WITH COM-PASSION." Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please. Great two-bedroom apartment, $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan, (785)537-7228.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

LANDLORDS WITH COM-PASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N. 10th St. $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets. 776-2102.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

Before Time Runs Out
advertise your sublease in the classifieds
Let's Rent
special section
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
532-6555

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

we kick ads.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
532-6555

Before Time Runs Out
advertise your sublease in the classifieds
Let's Rent
special section
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
532-6555

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $550. Call 785-456-2812.

000 bulletin board

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

145 Roommate
Wanted

010
Announcements

WELCOME HOME
• Sparkling swimming pool
• Spacious decks/patios
• Avail. June 5 and Aug. 5
• Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
• On-site laundry facilities
• Economical gas heat

FURNISHED OR UNFURNISHED for August. Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment. 350 N. 16th, 1230 Clafin, $510. Also for June and August, Large one-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $450. Heat, water, trash three/ four paid laundry mat. 539-2482.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Two-bedroom apartment with dishwasher, washer and dryer. Central heat and air. $217 monthly, plus half utilities. 537-0469.

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

WELCOME HOME
• Sparkling swimming pool
• Spacious decks/patios
• Avail. June 5 and Aug. 5
• Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
• On-site laundry facilities
• Economical gas heat

Leasing Now Thru August
• Cambridge Square
• Sandstone Apts.
Only a few left!
• Fireplaces • Carports
• Pool • Private Deck
• Laundry Facilities
• Large 2-bedroom Units

STARTING AUGUST 2001. Female needed to share apartment at 1800 Platt. Pri-mo condition and location. $275 plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3424.

020
Lost and Found

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

FOUND: A WATCH outside of Hale Library. Describe to claims at 565-9486.

FOUND: IN UNION parking lot, a KEY to 1991 Plymouth Acclaim. Claim in 129 Nichols.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

ATTENTION FELLOW STUDENTS

Do you have something to sell and need a way to publicize it?

ADVERTISE IN THE COLLEGIAN

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

HAVEN'T TOUCHED YOUR MUSICAL INSTRUMENT SINCE HIGH SCHOOL?

Sell it in the Classifieds

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

000 bulletin board

100 housing/real estate

200 service directory

300 employment/opportunities

400 open market

500 transportation

600 travel/trips

100 housing/
real estate

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JULY, two-bedroom, living, dining room, hardwood floors, study, family room, one three-fourth bath, one car garage, $600 plus utilities. One-bedroom basement, study, living room. $300 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking, or pets. 539-1554.

AVAILABLE NOW, large two-bedroom, near campus, two-bedroom near downtown. Also one-bedroom. Most utilities paid. No dogs. 537-8389.

AVAILABLE STARTING March 1, two-bedroom apartment in small complex near Westloop. Includes fireplace, dishwasher, private washer/ dryer, and deck leading down to parking. Call 770-8213.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March. 1854/ 1858 Clafin. $385- $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3804.

ROOMMATE WANTED
$220/ MONTH- utilities included. 1870 College Heights A- House. Contact Gina at 537-7701.

ROOMMATE WANTED
wanted to share two-bedroom apartment starting August 1 one block from campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer on-site. Shawna 539-6155

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS 532-6555

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS 532-6555

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS 532-6555

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS 532-6555

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS 532-6555

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS 532-6555

<

What would you say if given the chance?

On the topic or off the topic: Campus Fourum.

395-4444

kstatecollegian.com

Self-Serve

All it takes is a nickel

Clafin Books and Copies

early edition restaurant

breakfast * brunch * lunch

Owners and Staff would like to thank all of our loyal customers who have contributed to our success and helped us to be voted the

#1 BREAKFAST IN MANHATTAN.

We appreciate your business and look forward to providing you with great food and great services for years to come!!

Thank You!!
Early Edition

3210 KIMBALL (in the Candlewood Shopping Center)

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
ADVERTISING

532-6560

Pregnancy Testing Center

539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Valentines Day
is Wed., Feb. 14

Patricia's
UNDERCOVER
Lingerie

1224 MORO AGGIEVILLE

GIFTS
WRAPPED
FREE

M-TH 10-7, FRI.-SAT. 10-5, SUN. 1-5

KSU Department of Theatre Presents

How I Learned to Drive

a Pulitzer Prize winner

by Paula Vogel

The clearer this picture gets

The better you will know this family

SPECIAL TALKBACK SESSIONS
IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING
PERFORMANCES ON THE 8, 14 & 15

CONTAINS MATURE
SUBJECT MATTER

February 8-10, 14-17
Nichols Theater 8 p.m.
$6 for students/seniors
$9 general public
McCain Box Office 532-6428

The more your heart will break for them

Delivers the latest!

OPEN LATE!

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

OPEN LATE!

702 N. 11th Street
770-3333

Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Checks add 50¢

770-3333 Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

Feast for Four

CARRY-OUT SPECIALS

THE BIG ASS

→ XL 16" one topping pizza

+ 10" Pokey Stix

+ 2 liter pop

=

$12.99

16" 1-Topping $6.99
14" 1-Topping $5.99

BONUS BUYS MENU
with any food purchase

• 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99

• Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99

• 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99

• Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99

One 20" Massive 1-Topping Pizza

$10.99

2 for $19.99

Additional Toppings $1.30 per pizza

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

Most K-State students have

0 to 5

drinks when they party.

Project
WELLNESS
Kansas State University

87% of K-State students reported they did not receive a lower grade because of their drinking.

www.ksu.edu/projectwellness

One drink = 12 oz. of beer, 4-5 oz. of wine, or 1 oz. of liquor.

*Based on a 2000 classroom campus-wide survey of 1,192 KSU students that was representative of the K-State student population with regard to demographics such as age, GPA, college, class and gender.

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 25 ■ LOW 10

FRIDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 9, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 95

Cheer, yell leaders perfect skills

■ page 3

Telefund donations approach $400,000

By RACHEL POWERS
Kansas State Collegian

After four calling sessions in Manhattan and two in K-State-Salina, more than $394,602 has been raised for the 22nd annual KSU Foundation Telefund.

The College of Veterinary Medicine was the first to participate in the annual event Sunday and Monday. With 40 volunteer-student callers each night, the college pledged $92,672, exceeding the $82,000 total from last year.

At the world's largest all-volunteer telefund for higher education, volunteers for the College of Veterinary Medicine called 3,184 people within two nights, Gordon Dowell, Telefund director, said. The college received 1,126 total pledges with more money possible from mailed response cards, he said.

"That number may not sound very big," he said. "You have to understand that a lot of the people the students call are not home. They may be on vacation, or we have their business number. So we send out a lot of response forms which may turn into pledges."

Dowell said response revenue usually surpasses the original pledge amount by 10 percent. However, Dowell said the Foundation does not count on or expect a set amount of revenue from the response cards.

RECORDS

The College of Engineering broke its 2000 calling record Thursday night. It raised $288,550, up from $285,724, with a late $5,000 gift. Overall, K-State has raised $394,602.

STILL TO COME

■ College of Education and College of Business Administration — Feb. 11-15
■ College of Arts and Sciences — Feb. 18-22
■ College of Architecture — March 4-6
■ College of Agriculture — Feb. 25-March 1
■ College of Human Ecology — Feb. 25-March 1

See TELEFUND on PAGE 12

8 smokers give up habit for 28 days as challenge

By MICHELLE BERTUGLIA
Kansas State Collegian

Eight members of the Moore Hall Lead Team stood on their residence hall's front porch at 11:50 p.m. Jan. 31, smoking their last cigarette for at least 28 days.

The members of the Lead Team agreed to take part in the hall's program, "Survivor Smoke-Out Challenge." The program dared the residents to try and survive the month of February without a single cigarette. The challenge began at midnight Feb. 1.

Eric Sutter, fitness chairman and sophomore in sociology, said it was something the executive board talked about for a long time.

"I was trying to get them to quit smoking for a month," Sutter said. "They kept bugging me about it, and so we decided to do it in February. If we did it before winter break, there would have been too much temptation to start up again once they went home."

A box full of sand, plastic, leafy green plants and eight

See SURVIVOR on PAGE 12

EVAN SEMON/Collegian

A box full of sand with plastic, leafy, green plants and eight action figures sits on the front desk at Moore Hall. Each figure represents one of the Survivor participants. If any of the participants are caught smoking, they have to ring a bell at the front desk and place their figure face down in the sand. So far only one of the participants has failed to meet the challenge.

Robberies under investigation

■ First Bank, Dollar General Store held up Wednesday.

By LYNNE HERMANSEN
Kansas State Collegian

It took less than 20 minutes for a robbery and attempted robbery to strike Manhattan on Wednesday.

The First Bank at Claflin Road and Denison Avenue was robbed at gunpoint at about 2:20 p.m. Witnesses said a male with a mustache wearing a white baseball cap, light-colored pull-over sweater, and blue colored socks entered the bank.

The suspect displayed a weapon, demanded money and fled the scene with an unknown amount.

The First Bank is not releasing any information.

"We are not going to make any statements as of yet," Larry Heyka, First Bank president, said. "We are relying on the police to make an official press release in time."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is working on the case with the Riley County Police Department. The bank robbery could be related to a past incident.

"The First Bank was previously robbed last November," RCPD Capt. Gary Grubbs said. "We believe it is the same individual in both cases."

Fourteen minutes after the bank robbery, another suspect attempted to rob the Dollar General Store at 2321 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Witnesses said the suspect was a male wearing a ski mask, gloves and camouflage clothing.

He demanded money from the clerk and claimed he had a weapon, which he never revealed. The suspect left the store without taking money.

The two robberies are not thought to be related.

"We believe these are separate incidents with two different suspects," Grubbs said.

Anyone with any information about either robbery can contact the Riley County Police Department at (785) 537-2112 or Crime Stoppers at (785) 539-7777.

PHOTOS BY MICHAEL YOUNG/Collegian

Mako Blevens, freshman in pre-journalism, celebrates after winning a round of Grocery Market Bingo on Thursday evening in Union Station. After receiving a bingo, the winner gets to choose from a variety of foods.

Lucky numbers

UPC sponsors Grocery Market Bingo; students win variety of prizes

By LYNNE HERMANSEN
Kansas State Collegian

Anticipation mounted for the calling of the night's first numbers. B 10 and I 18 were the first numbers called out, and concentration clouded the players' faces.

At 8 p.m. Thursday in Union Station, the first Grocery Market Bingo for the semester began.

"I'm gonna win," Jenny Shepherd, senior in microbiology, said. Shepherd came to the last Grocery Market Bingo but left unsuccessful.

She hoped to win a prize.

"I came, of course, for the free groceries," she said.

Grocery Market Bingo is sponsored by the Union Program Council's Special Events Committee as part of their Weekly Wind Down Series, which occurs one Thursday per month.

The next two bingo nights will be in March and April.

The grocery prizes consist of certain kinds of products.

"We have items that are already prepared or easy to prepare," John Christie, UPC Special Events chairman, said.

"This way, students living in the resident halls can enjoy the prizes as well."

Shepherd did not come alone. She convinced her friend Ashley Lutz, senior in elementary education, to partake of the game.

"This is my first time for bingo," Lutz said.

"Maybe I will have beginner's luck and win."

Shepherd and Lutz said having groceries as prizes was a great incentive.

"Well, I needed a break from my studies, too," Shepherd said.

During the hour of bingo, 10 games are played, ranging from regular bingo and blackout to newer styles, such as small picture frame.

"I keep getting regular bingo, but not the right kind of bingo," Shepherd said.

Groceries are not the only prizes that would draw students to bingo, Lutz said.

Jaime Grubbs, senior in microbiology, said she

See BINGO on PAGE 12

India Students Association asks students for earthquake aid

By HEATHER GRACE
Kansas State Collegian

HOW TO HELP

Donations also may be sent to Shekhar Gosavi at 343 Rathbone Hall, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

The India Students Association is coming to the rescue for those suffering from the aftermath of the 7.7 magnitude earthquake that shook India on Jan. 26.

The organization has set up a booth on the first floor of the K-State Student Union asking for donations. In the past week the group has raised more than $5,000.

ISA member Padmaja Havaladar, graduate student in systems engineering, said she is pleased with the amount and hopes it will rise.

"There are homes that are completely gone. There is nothing remaining. The whole village is gone," Havaladar said. "The more we can get, the more we can help those people."

The last day the group will be in the Union is 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. today.

Vrushali Koranne, ISA vice president and graduate student in computer science, said those who have donated deserve thanks.

"Any monetary donation we get will help the victims with their basic needs," Koranne said. "If it's getting medicines or even buying new clothes, because they only have what's on their back left, it's appreciated."

The quake that struck the Indian state of Gujarat last month has left more than 17,000 dead, with the toll expected to rise to more than 30,000.

The devastation also has left more than 66,000 people injured and 600,000 people without homes.

"If they would see the destruction and what the families are going through back in India people would understand why they need to donate," Havaladar said.

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor
Jamie Barrett at j1b7883@ksu.edu

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glascock
kj3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
sign7@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
rewill@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bs9639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
j1b7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
nh6062@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nkf1480@ksu.edu
Michael Noll
mms555@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jdd666@ksu.edu
Eris Schneeweis
ers1766@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm6920@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
chc7699@ksu.edu
Danny Elsworth
des0091@ksu.edu
Alissa Duncan
ad0849@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
err1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.ksustatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
11995, 2nd 1020, a student newspaper at Kansas State University is published by Student Publications Inc., 1020 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1020 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

Question of the week

Q: Where can I find out about community service programs in the Manhattan area and in other parts of Kansas?

A: The K-State Community Service Program has a Web site that lists community service opportunities with Kansas Summer Teams, International Teams, CSP Tutoring, America Reads, America Counts and Learn and Serve. Find out specifics on each program at www.ksu.edu/csp/.

Astronauts on Atlantis await arrival at station

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Space shuttle Atlantis and its cargo, a billion-dollar science laboratory, chased after the international space station early Thursday following a spectacular sunset launch.

"We wish you luck as you deliver the heart and soul of the international space station — and have fun," launch director Mike Leinbach told Atlantis' five astronauts.

The setting sun and a rising full moon made for a dramatic send-off Wednesday of NASA's $1.4 billion Destiny laboratory module, the most expensive piece of the space station.

"Awesome," said senior space station scientist Roger Crouch. "That's got to be an omen for how great this thing will be."

The space station, Alpha, was soaring over the North Atlantic east of Newfoundland when Atlantis took off at 6:13 p.m. The shuttle and its crew should catch up to the station today and install the Destiny laboratory on Saturday.

The five shuttle astronauts were thrilled, and relieved, to finally be en route to the station with Destiny. Their mission — years in the making — was delayed three weeks because of the need to inspect wiring on Atlantis' boosters.

"We had a wonderful, wild, exciting ride," shuttle commander Kenneth Cockrell said.

— The Associated Press

Unemployment claims rise sharply nationwide

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The number of Americans filing new claims for state unemployment insurance rose sharply last week, suggesting that some workers are having trouble finding jobs as the economy has weakened.

The Labor Department reported Thursday that initial applications for jobless benefits climbed by a bigger-than-expected 15,000 to a seasonally adjusted 361,000 for the week ending Feb. 3. Many analysts were expecting claims to rise by 4,000.

The weekly increase pushed claims to their highest level since Dec. 30, when claims stood at 380,000.

"The data indicate a slowdown. That is very clear," said economist Clifford Waldman of Waldman Associates. "Most of the claims are coming from manufacturing with a smattering of services and construction. So far, the slowdown has been a manufacturing phenomenon and nothing is indicating that the economy as a whole is contracting."

The more stable four-week moving average, which smooths out weekly fluctuations, also rose last week to 331,250, the highest point since 335,500 on Jan. 20.

Last week, the government reported that the nation's unemployment rate jumped to 4.2 percent in January, the highest level in 16 months, as the sharp economic slowdown resulted in a loss of 65,000 manufacturing jobs.

— The Associated Press

Reasons behind incident at White House sought

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Police are trying to determine why a former Internal Revenue Service employee with a history of mental illness fired several shots outside the White House in a midday drama that is raising questions about security at the president's home.

The man, identified by law enforcement sources as Robert W. Pickett, 47, of Evansville, Ind., was shot in the leg Wednesday by a member of the Secret Service uniformed division after waving his gun at police and terrified tourists just outside the wrought-iron fence that borders the scenic South Lawn. He also put the barrel of the weapon in his mouth, U.S. Park Police spokesman Rob MacLean said.

George Washington University Hospital said in a statement Thursday that Pickett's condition was "good." His discharge date "will be determined by the treating physician and his rate of recovery," the statement said.

Pickett, an accountant, was fired by the IRS in the mid-1980s, and neighbors said he resented the agency. He lived by himself, and acknowledged in court records that he suffered from mental illness and tried to commit suicide.

"I think he meant to hurt himself," said Joseph Yocum, the Evansville lawyer who represented Pickett when he lost his IRS job.

Authorities said President George Bush and Vice President Dick Cheney were inside the White House at the time of the shooting just before noon Wednesday, but never were in danger. First lady Laura Bush was in Texas.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

There were two errors in Thursday's Collegian. Junell Norris' name was misspelled, and the Sunflower House is located at 901 Leavenworth St. The Collegian regrets these errors.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the calendar, stop by Kedsie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

Applications for Student Alumni Board are due at the alumni office by 3 p.m. today. Applications can be picked up at the KSU Alumni Association office or in the Office of Student Activities and Services.

KSU Akido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.

The Kansas State University Central States Jazz Festival begins at 4 p.m. today in McCain Auditorium. The festival continues Saturday from 8:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m.

KSU Metalsmithing Society will have a ring making workshop at 1 p.m. Saturday in Willard 318.

K-State Linux User's Group will meet at 3 p.m. Saturday in Nichols 122.

Intramural free throw competition will take place today and Saturday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

Golden Key Executive Board will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday in Union 205.

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center will have an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the Student Center located on the corner of Anderson and Denison avenues.

Christian Explorers will meet for Bible study at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Campus Center, 1021 Denison Ave.

Anime and Manga Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Union Big 12 room.

Lutheran Campus Ministry — ELCA will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.

Finance Club will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the Union Big 12 Room.

Individuals For FreeThought will have a Darwin Day Panel Presentation at 7 p.m. Monday in Union 212. Darwin's life, discoveries, theories and contributions to science will be presented.

Filing forms are available for Student Governing Association elections.

Offices include student body president, Student Senate and College Councils. Forms can be obtained at www.ksu.edu/elections or in the Office of Student Activities and Services.

Can't use your e-mail? Reactivate your ID at www.ksu.edu/activateID.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2001. Anyone is welcome to apply. Tutoring three hours per week in a K-12 Manhattan school is necessary in order to be eligible to receive a scholarship. If interested, contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserve@ksu.edu.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County Wednesday, Feb. 7

At 11:41 a.m., Jessica D. Lloyd, Junction City, was arrested for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Bond was set at $500.

At 4:12 p.m., Nicholas R. Jones, 1737 Ranser Road, was arrested for worthless checks. Bond was set at $150.

At 4:40 p.m., Justin R. Elston, 1188 Julie Lane, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,000.

At 4:56 p.m., Crystal M. Anderson, 2401 Seaton Ave., was arrested for failure to appear.

Thursday, Feb. 8

At 3:23 a.m., Jarney W. Hicks, Fort Riley, was arrested for driving on a revoked license. Bond was set at $500.

At 6:40 a.m., Jeremy Wilson, 109 S. 9th St., was arrested for violation of restraining order.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made

Wondering if you might be pregnant?

We can help!

Stop by Birthright for a pregnancy test that is free, accurate, reliable, and confidential.

No appointment needed.

Birthright of Manhattan Inc.
206 S. 5th
(785) 539-2555

LEE'S WESTERN WEAR

LEVI'S
501 SHRINK TO FIT
$31.95
501 PREWASH
$32.95
517 BOOT-CUT
$24.50
505 STRAIGHT LEG
$24.50

Lee's Western Wear
MON.-FRI. 10-6
SAT. 10-5:30
8426 E. HWY 24
MANHATTAN, KS

Congratulations! To The Winners Of Varney's Book Store Fabulous Prizes!

Sony Trinitron T.V.	Beverly Boden
Portable CD Player	Joseph Kern
Women's Watch	Mike Kifer
Soccer Ball	Donovan Seay
Soccer Ball	Morgan Ruhnke
Soccer Ball	Nathanael Megonigle
Soccer Ball	Stephanie Thomas
Soccer Ball	Sarah Gorton
Soccer Ball	Kyle Taylor
Soccer Ball	John Davignon

Varney's Book Store • 623 N. Manhattan Ave.

12th St. Pub. Friday & Saturday

$2 Captains Margaritas
$3 Stoli Flavors

HOUSE PLANTS

Just arrived from Florida
We have lots of sizes & varieties starting at $4.98 each

We also have blooming plants for Valentines Day!

STOP BY OUR GARDEN STORE FOR:
pots, planters, potting soil, powercat rocks, table top fountains, & much, much more

BLUEVILLE NURSERY, INC.

4539 Anderson • 5 minutes west of Westloop
539-2671 • Hours: Mon.-Sat. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS

STARTS TODAY!!!!

The following employers have listed intern, summer, or co-op positions in the Virtual Career Fair. You may view company profiles and job descriptions, as well as send your resume directly to the employer from the Career & Employment Services (CES) website, www.ksu.edu/ces. You must be registered with CES to participate.

Feb. 9-15: Employers Listing Intern, Summer & Co-op Positions

Associated Electric Cooperative, Inc.	Kiewit Construction Company
Bank of America	Land O'Lakes Farmland Food, LLC
Brant Lake Camp	Lockheed Martin Aeronautics
Brookover Feed Yards	LSI Logic Storage System
Burns & McDonnell	May Hoffman McCann, LC
Cal-Maine Foods	Microsoft Corp.
Camp Towanda	Northwestern Mutual Financial
CCH Incorporated	Network-Ertz Agency
Cintas Corp.	Point O'Pines Camp for Girls
Citgo Petroleum Corporation	Production Advisory Services, Inc.
City of Topeka	Security Benefit Group of Companies
DeBruce Grain Co.	Sedgwick County Public Works
Deloitte & Touche	Sherwin Williams Co.
Enterprise Rent-A-Car	Six Flags Elitch Gardens
Geoprobe Systems	Sprint
George Butler Associates, Inc.	St. Louis ARC
GeoSystems Engineering, Inc.	Stone & Ward, Inc.
Geotechnical Services, Inc.	Target Stores
Honeywell	The Country Club at Lake MacGregor
Hormel Foods Corporation	Tidestone Technologies, Inc.
IFR Systems, Inc.	Turner Construction Company
Jeld-Wen	Western Resources
Kansas Department of Transportation	Worlds of Fun
Kaydon Fluid Power-Great Bend Industries

100 Holtz Hall

www.ksu.edu/ces

532-6506

Jamie Reyes, sophomore in open-option, passes out a foam noodle to a K-State women's basketball fan Wednesday night at Bramlage Coliseum. The cheerleaders also threw T-shirts into the crowd after each three-pointer K-State made.

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Squads spend time perfecting skills

By KECIA N. SEYB
Kansas State Collegian

They practice for about three hours, five nights a week, perfecting their stunts, chants and tumbling.

They endure countless injuries, attend their classes, study their books and still smile for the crowd at ball games.

They are the cheerleaders and yell leaders of K-State.

Their stunts, chants and tumbling might look flawless on game nights, but they all make sacrifices and dedicate a great amount of time to the K-State cheerleading program, said Manny Sumaya, junior in psychology, who is in his third year of yell leading on the junior varsity squad.

"We have night practices and it interferes with our studying time and work schedules, so we have to do our stuff during the day," Sumaya said.

After practicing almost every night, they also have to be ready to perform for all the games. The varsity and junior varsity squads cheer at the football games, and the junior varsity squad cheers at volleyball games. During basketball season, the varsity cheers at the men's games, and the junior varsity cheers at the women's games.

The cheerleaders and yell leaders all have their own reasons for spending so much time training, practicing and perfecting their skills.

"I enjoy being in front of the crowd," said Jamie Reyes, sophomore in open-option and varsity squad member. "I enjoy being involved. I like the athletic stuff that goes with it, too, for staying in shape. It helps out a lot."

Sumaya said he is a yell leader for the social aspect of it and because it meshes well with his character.

"My athletic ability and personality don't correspond with football or basketball, and I decided to be around a bunch of girls, too. I like to meet new people, too. And, you know, I like to start out with meeting girls first, and this is a good way to do it," he said.

Tryouts for cheerleading occur in the spring and fall. Usually, there are about 35 women who try to gain a spot on the cheerleading squad during the fall, and there have been over 100 during the spring who try out, head cheerleading coach Damian Hilton said.

This year there are 32 on the squad — 16 men and 16 women. There are eight on varsity and eight on junior varsity, Hilton said.

They have high numbers, but there almost is always someone who has to sit out because of injury.

"Injury prevention is one of the big things I've had to deal with this year. The nature of what we do, we're going to get injured quite a bit. We try to limit it as much as we can," Hilton said.

Because of lifting weights, training, tumbling and stunting, many muscles get pulled and injuries result.

"You're using every part of your body — all the muscle groups for cheerleading. If you get hurt, you're going to be out for a little while," Reyes said.

The cheerleaders and yell leaders said they love what they do, despite injuries, but they said they sometimes feel a lack of recognition from their peers.

"We're looking for a little more respect," Sumaya said. "We're always overlooked. We're trying to get a squad where we're not overlooked, and people come to see us, too, not just the sport that's happening then. We're going to work up to that capability."

Hilton said the cheerleaders are kind of in a bad spot because they are not considered athletes, yet they're expected to train like athletes.

Even if they might feel underappreciated, the cheerleaders and yell leaders said they enjoy the camaraderie that goes with cheerleading at K-State.

"You develop a bond with the cheerleaders. Everyone's glad to see you. You fight and stuff — it's like a great family," Sumaya said.

Hilton said one of the reasons he wants to stay at K-State is because of the people he might not encounter if he were to go somewhere else to coach.

"They're good people around here. They really do take care of each other. It's a nice family atmosphere."

Cheerleading might involve injuries and demand time, but Sumaya said the rewards are worth it.

"There is stuff that you do in cheerleading that no one will ever know. You have to do it to believe it," he said.

Senate recommends uniform wait-list, discusses excess funds

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Student Senate approved a resolution Thursday recommending K-State administration implement a uniform wait-list system for all colleges and departments.

"The current system is just confusing for students and faculty alike," said Kyle Brownback, academic affairs and university relations chair. "We want departments and colleges to all handle the wait-list the same way to ensure that the system is effective."

Brownback said Senate hopes the administration will take recommending this resolution as a sign of student concern.

"We want them to realize that student support is behind a uniform system," he said. "Hopefully, they will design a system and put it into effect by next semester."

In other action, Senate introduced a resolution for a recommendation of ways to use excess funds in the bond surplus account. Three recommendations were identified, including $220,000 to bring the K-State Student Union's Forum Hall into better compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, $480,000 for the completion of phase two of the Hale Library InfoCommons and $1 million for the installation of an all-weather playing surface at Memorial Stadium.

"This money will come from excess money that has been paid on bonds," Ryan Walker, privilege fee chair, said. "We felt that the money should be used to benefit the student body, and these are some of the recommendations that we see as immediate needs."

Now, the bond surplus account has an amount of $2.4 million that can be used.

The three recommendations will use $1.7 million, leaving $700,000 to accommodate emergencies.

"We are locked into paying a certain amount for bonds each year," Walker said.

"We actually have extra in a surplus account in case we don't raise enough money to pay off the bonds, for example, in case enrollment decreases. However, since enrollment has been increasing, we have accumulated this extra money, and the administration would like recommendations on how to utilize it," Walker said.

The extra funds come from surplus accounts for the Union renovation bond, Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex bond and the Hale Library bond.

"All three of the suggestions are projects that would benefit students immensely," Walker said. "We would present these to the university administration, and then they will have control over what money is allocated from the account. However, we feel strongly that they will support our suggestions."

find more cheerleading photos online

www.kstatecollegian.com

K-State Housing and Dining Services

If you plan to return to the residence halls next fall, submit a Residence Hall Application Card and $25 application fee prior to participating in the Early Room Preference Process.

Applications are available from your RA/MA or at the Pittman Building.

Early Room Preference Timeline

Monday, February 12 • 8:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

Preference your current room in your current hall at the front desk.

Tuesday, February 13 • 8:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

Preference any room in your current hall at the front desk.

Wednesday-Friday, February 14–16 • 8:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

Preference a room in any hall at Derby Dining Center (Ford, Haymaker, Moore, West, Boyd, Putnam and Van Zile) or Kramer Dining Center (Marlatt and Goodnow).

If you have questions concerning room preference or are interested in reserving a small single, see your residence life coordinator/assistant coordinator.

STREETSIDE RECORDS
1 2 3 1 MORO • 7 7 6 - 7 3 7 3

NEW

Shaggy
Hotshot

12" CD 9" Cass.

Evan and Jaron
Evan and Jaron

12" CD 9" Cass.

Matthew Good Band
Beautiful Night

9" CD 5" Cass.

The Donnas
The Donnas Turn 21

12" CD only

Good Charlotte
Good Charlotte

12" CD 9" Cass.

Josh Joplin Group
Useful Music

10" CD only

Sale ends 03/05/01

Where you can still listen to any CD in the store!

DARE program benefits local schools, youths

Kudos to area schools for choosing to continue the DARE program.

It is encouraging to the youth of this community that DARE officers report weekly to classrooms and provide them with information on drugs. Along with the basic information, students are able to learn about the consequences of abusing drugs.

Some parents or guardians do not take the time to inform their children about drugs. Others simply do not know how to bring up the issue. Some choose not to inform because they are fearful it might encourage them to experiment.

The DARE program is a joint effort between the Riley County Police Department, schools and parents. The program tries to warn youth of the dangers of drug use, which can be effective in their future.

More importantly, the program lets the children prepare to make an educated decision when the time is appropriate.

Some Kansas City-area school districts decided to eliminate DARE from their schools. The Riley County schools made a choice, the right one, to continue DARE because it has the mission of educating the students.

► OUR VIEW
is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari
Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
News Editor

Erin Schneeweis
Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll
Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crable
Copy Chief

Sara Martin
Design Editor

Jamie Barrett
Online News Editor

Travis Weigel
Columnist

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

Don't people understand that wearing Oklahoma hats around campus is not cool?

I'm just curious how much of my privilege fee is going to support Joe Leonard going to an away basketball game.

Once again, thanks to the refs. I have only one thing to say: nuts and bolts. Nuts and bolts. We got screwed.

I haven't seen anyone choke as bad as our basketball team since Cooper in the Big 12 Championship.

To my history teacher with the rat tail and his TA with the mullet, those aren't cool anymore. Get it in your head.

May I request that all of the school money I've given to Parking Services for parking at the Rec. at five minutes until four, which by the way I've already paid to use, be put to starting a scholarship in my name. Eligible are those who wish to blow up Edwards Hall.

Sarah McCaffrey, will you be my Valentine, please?

Does anybody know why Kramer runs out of food at 8:45 in the morning when they are open until 9:30? Just thought I would ask. I thought we paid for these meals.

Hi, this is the girl with the flaming heart tattoo. And thanks, but no thanks. I already have a boyfriend, and he is a lot hotter than you.

Yeah, that library Nazi who yelled at us for having a gum wrapper on our table needs to take a chill pill.

Hey Evan Semón, if you photograph a model, it helps if you take the price tag off of the clothes first.

Question for Tuesday: Why do you think Nicole Kidman and Tom Cruise separated?

Why do JERKS get LUCKY?

Too many men seek nothing more than personal fulfillment

There are songs and magazine articles written about it. There are movies and television shows made that try to answer it. Women complain that men don't get it and men wish they could figure it out.

No, it's not the latest episode of "Ally McBeal" or last month's issue of Cosmopolitan. Rather, it merely is a question; a question that makes finding the meaning of life look like a picnic in the park. It has been perplexing men for the better part of 2,000 years, and one can't help but ask "What exactly do women want?"

Many people have tried to answer this illusive question, including Christina Aguilera, who claims to know what a girl wants and what a girl needs — and odds are it's not the Real Slim Shady — but the answers are just as vague as the question. Although Jo Dee Messina seems to be fairly specific when she says she's looking for a man to stand beside her, not in front of or behind her.

So what do women really want? According to many women, they want someone who will treat them right and who is basically an all-around "nice" guy — jerks need not apply. But who are we kidding, we all know that "nice" guys finish last and that women are strangely attracted to low-class jerks.

Day after day, seemingly intelligent girls choose to snub one "nice" guy after another to date jerks who will use them, who won't call and will intentionally break their hearts again and again.

My question is, why? Why do girls willingly date jerks? Perhaps there is some primordial urge that makes women lust after self-centered, antagonistic guys who sit around trying to perfect their burps while exchanging extremely sexist jokes that would make Howard Stern proud.

On the other hand, perhaps jerks aren't quite as bad as everyone makes them out to be. After all, they have to be doing something right to continually receive the affection of lustful women, don't they?

Well, maybe it's because they don't shower their girlfriends with compliments and affection like "nice" guys do. After all, who in their right mind would want to get flowers simply because it happens to be Friday?

Although jerks tend not to shower their girlfriends with compliments and affection, once or twice a year they will break down and buy some wilted daisies and a box of Russell Stover candies — with the price tag still attached, of course. And it's not like jerks are never romantic. They just expect something in return by the end of the night, but that is only fair.

I suppose this strange attraction could be the result of jerks needing the love of a good woman to save them from a cruel loveless fate — it's easy to love a "nice" guy. Besides, there's a little Martha Stewart in every woman that wants to refurbish a piece of trash into a valuable antique. He might have been a two-bit cheating jerk with his last girlfriend, but that was because she didn't know how to treat him right. It shouldn't be that hard to teach an old dog new tricks.

should it? Even if he does cheat on you, it probably was your own fault anyway for not treating him right in the first place.

Well, perhaps this strange infatuation simply is because dating a jerk tends to be more exciting than dating a "nice" guy. After all, women do love drama, and they were weaned on soap opera plots, bodice-ripping romance novels and sappy movies that involve rich guys romancing prostitutes off the street and into the sunset.

TRAVIS WEIGEL

ADAM HAYES/Collegian

Valentine's Day causes excitement, dread

I am the Grinch of Valentine's Day.

For the last four or five years I have found myself strategically dodging the holiday. I stop going anywhere that sells red stuff. But the other day, I found myself stuck in a panic at Wal-Mart.

I was just trying to be a good person and buy some thank you cards. As I followed the endless maze of "sympathy" and "missing a loved one" racks, desperately fumbling, trying to find the "thank you" section, I got sucked in. The smell of the sweet candy, the red, oh the red, red, red, red, candy packages. Plastic flowers fogged my vision and made me dizzy. I had to get out quick.

As I ran to my blue truck, stopped and gasped for air, I began to wonder why I hate Valentine's Day so much.

As I traveled back into my inner psyche, visions of elementary school danced in front of my eyes. I liked Valentine's Day a lot as a kid. It was the day when anything could happen. What if, just what if, that secret someone you had the crush on gave you a Valentine that said "be mine"? You could liken my excitement to that of a child waking up on Christmas morning anxious to open presents.

Maybe it was the annual feeling of disappointment that made me hate it so much. Too many years I wound up sitting in my oversized desk, ripping through the mountain of valentines, trying to find the one from him. I always was disappointed to find his note, which usually said something to the effect of "you're cool," or the candy heart that said "let's be friends."

High school was a different scene all together. After all those years of secret pent up frustration, once I did have my first valentine, the whole holiday just seemed silly. Really, what do you get a boy on Valentine's Day anyway?

My poor, poor first real Valentine. I copped out. I decided to go for the memorable rather than the romantic. We were unable to be together that night because he had a party he had to be at for school. So I decided to leave his Valentine's Day present in his car. Then, I proceeded to take five rolls of red Saran Wrap and wrap up his car. On the windshield I wrote, "just wanted to wrap you up in some love." Yeah, needless to say, looking back on it today as friends, we still laugh about it.

From my limited experiences in this world, I have come to learn there are four kinds of people with four different attitudes when it comes to Valentine's Day.

The first set — we will call them Nicks. My friend Nick is the epitome of a Valentine's Day celebrant. At the mere mention of the words the other day, his face beamed in pure radiance as he told me all about what he was planning for his girlfriend. The Nicks really like Valentine's Day. It is nice to know the day still has some magic for some people.

Then there are those who rage against Valentine's Day. These are the people you want to hide from for the whole month of February. They spend the first half of the month dreading the day. They complain, moan and yell out as you walk in public about how they will die if they don't find a Valentine.

After the day of terror for them, they spend the rest of the month depressed because they spent the day alone. For the ragers in your life, send them a card. It is a tough time for them.

Then, there are the rebels. They see Valentine's Day as another holiday constructed by corporate America. Not only do they refuse to take part in the rituals, but they adamantly make sure everyone knows just how much they hate the day. Generally railing against the establishment, they would never even consider celebrating a holiday formulated around the use of marketing tools to sell love.

Last, there are those whom I simply call the indifferents. They could care less that it is Valentine's Day, kind of like how they could care less about Groundhog Day. They simply have no inkling of compassion or care about the day at all. For them, it might as well be just your normal, average, typical day. I think for them, it just takes too much energy to care so they maintain a passive, calm and cool attitude about the day.

My question, is why do we let this holiday jam us through such a stranglehold of emotions?

There always are so many people surrounding you with their different issues, thoughts and feelings about the day. Maybe we all should just time warp back to the second grade when most people liked Valentine's Day.

Or maybe the problem just comes from trying to celebrate a holiday that centers around the strongest, most beautiful and most dangerous emotion we all feel. No one ever said love was the easiest and most comforting sensation around.

As for me, I am coming to terms with the fact that I am the Grinch of Valentine's Day. Since I am so inherently evil, I think I might just make a date with Cupid this year, get him drunk, steal his arrows and go have some fun of my own.

Michelle is a senior in anthropology. You can e-mail her at mlb1805@ksu.edu.

Citizens tour campus police facilities

By SHANNON MARSHALL
Kansas State Collegian

Each year, Manhattan citizens are given an opportunity to view the behind-the-scenes operations of the Riley County Police Department.

The Citizens' Police Academy is a 12-week program that allows citizens to tour various aspects of RCPD, including the Riley County Courthouse, emergency rescue units and the county attorney's office.

Members of the second weekly session of the Citizens' Police Academy toured the K-State Police Department, in Edwards Hall, on Thursday. The session included a tour of the facility's training room, locker room, evidence room, communications department and administrative offices. Members also were able to view the inside of a patrol car.

Ronnie Grice, director of K-State Police, explained his department to the Citizens' Academy.

"I have a very professional staff," he said. "Every individual at this university respects something out of this department. Professionalism is one, and courtesy is two."

The most common crimes on campus, Grice said, are misdemeanor thefts, such as stolen bicycles, bookbags and calculators. Residence halls experience thefts as well, he said, but mostly because of negligence on the resident's part.

"Most of our residence hall thefts occur when someone steps out of his or her room for a minute, and then comes back and something's gone," he said. "Don't set yourself up to be a victim of crime. You have to take some personal responsibility for yourself."

Members of the group listened as Grice explained the most common misconception about campus police.

"Lots of people think that my officers are just a bunch of security guards," he said. "My guys are state-certified, and they carry guns. People don't always know what we do, and when they find out, they say, 'Man, that's incredible.'"

Larry George, special projects officer for the RCPD and director of the Citizens' Academy, echoed these sentiments.

"This is not a parking lot attendant job," he said. "These are real police officers."

The department, a sister agency of the RCPD, has a total of 23

MAIT STAMEY/Collegian

Ronnie Grice, director of the K-State Police, shows Steve Saroff and Lou Poulin the controls to all the surveillance cameras on campus. Saroff and Poulin are participating in a program called Citizens' Police Academy, in which they learn how the Riley County Police Department and K-State Police function.

commissioned officers. Once each officer is hired by the department, he or she must complete state training in Hutchinson. After standard training in Hutchinson, there is a six-week field training program at K-State.

Debbie Saroff, a Manhattan resident, is a member of the Citizens' Police Academy. She said she is using her experience to learn more about the local police department.

"We try to find out as much as we can here," she said. "We don't always know the opportunities available to us, and we don't know all of the responsibilities of this department. This is a great experience."

George said the purpose of the academy is to educate the public.

"We want the public to know about the police program here — all of the services available, and what goes into running a place like this."

Bidding to change for Homecoming

■ Councils vote to make fraternities select pairings; sororities chosen randomly.

By COLLEEN FOOTE
Kansas State Collegian

The Panhellenic Council and Interfraternity Council decided on a way to change the All-University Homecoming selection process so that no fraternity or sorority would be left out of it.

Both councils voted over the past two weeks and came to an agreement that will allow fraternities to choose each other, and sororities will be matched with the fraternities at random.

The councils voted between this option and an option that would make all pairings random.

This is a change from the past in which a bidding process determined the selection of the houses.

Fraternities mutually decided which fraternity they would partner with, and then, on an every-other-year basis, the fraternities or sororities bid the other.

They hope the new change will bring more unity within the greek system, said Katie Scheer, Panhellenic Council president and senior in biology.

"I'm really happy with this change," Scheer said. "Keeping it the same way wouldn't have been good since some houses get left behind."

One of the requirements of the new selection process is that fraternity pairings must have a number cap of 180 people. This cap number causes concern for some fraternities who have smaller numbers, said Mike Watson, Pi Kappa Phi president and sophomore in mass communications.

"Our fraternity is a smaller house, so it might be difficult to find a large fraternity to pair with," Watson said. "We're already working to find another fraternity."

Eric Nelson, Delta Tau Delta president and junior in finance, said he thinks it is better to allow fraternities to select their pairings and then be paired with the sororities randomly.

"There are some fraternities who just don't get along, and it wouldn't be fair to a sorority to get selected with a pair of fraternities who don't like each other," Nelson said. "It's for the best that the fraternities can pick who they want to be with."

The IFC and Panhellenic will meet Feb. 12 to discuss pairing announcements and other Homecoming activities, Scheer said.

Pi Beta Phi president Shannon Richardson, junior in business administration, said she thinks the new decision will be beneficial.

"It keeps the whole entire greek system involved," Richardson said.

Kansas Lottery vote postponed for changes

By JOHN MILBURN
The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Senators are no longer hurrying to get their work done on a bill extending the Kansas Lottery's life.

Chairwoman Nancy Harrington plans to have her Federal and State Affairs Committee meet Monday to consider proposed changes to the bill. She previously had considered taking a vote Thursday.

Originally, Republican leaders contemplated having both the committee and the entire Senate vote on the lottery bill Thursday, making its handling extraordinary.

The bill would keep the lottery in operation until July 1, 2008, but place restrictions on its operations and create a program to assist airports from its revenues. Under law, the lottery will be abolished July 1, 2002.

Harrington, R-Goddard, and other committee members spent a Thursday meeting hearing testimony on the bill, including from lottery Executive Director Ed Van Petten, who objects to the restrictions on agency operations.

"I don't think there is a need for you to restrict my ability to raise funds for the state," Van Petten said.

The lottery raises about $60 million for economic development, prison maintenance and education programs. House-approved restrictions would prohibit credit card payments for tickets and Internet advertising of the lottery.

Van Petten said those changes will cut sales. Supporters contend they are designed to make lottery games less addictive.

Wichita representatives said the $4 million airport incentive program will help them attract a discount airline, which will benefit all Kansans.

Rep. Carlos Mayans, R-Wichita, persuaded House members to attach the amendment on the lottery bill. He told the Senate committee the proposal probably helped get the bill more votes.

"This is not a Wichita amendment," he said, noting that Garden City, Salina, Topeka and Manhattan airports could participate.

Senate GOP leaders hoped initially to approve the lottery bill this week. But Majority Leader Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, backed off that plan, saying senators wanted to look at the bill more closely.

In almost all cases, the Senate waits at least a day before taking a bill that one of its committees has endorsed.

Some Republicans worry that if the Legislature delays passing a lottery bill, lawmakers who want to legalize slot machines will have more time to build support for the idea.

got memories?
get yours.

All you can eat!
Come down early!

Queso and nacho chips, Chips and onion dip, pasta salad, veggie tray, sliced ham and turkey, cocktail buns, hot little smokies and meatballs

New and improved free food buffet! 5-

99¢ MGD 16 oz. plastic bottles

Woody's Ladies
1225 Moro Aggieville

VALENTINE SPECIAL
20% OFF
all regular priced
JEWELRY
NOW THROUGH FEBRUARY 15

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

V-DAY
FEBRUARY 14

ARE YOU READY?

CANDY
GREETING CARDS
BALLOONS
CRABTREE & EVELYN
BOYD'S BEARS
YANKEE CANDLES
GIFT WRAPS

YOUR VALENTINE WILL LOVE IT!

704 N. Manhattan Ave. • In Aggieville • 539-7654
Mon.-Fri. 8:30-8:30 • Sat. 8:30-5:30 • Sun. 12:00-5:00

Home Sweet Home

Park Place Apartments
Showings Monday-Friday
1-2-3 Bedrooms
539-2951

For all your real estate needs...

Ready to buy, but don't know where to start?

- Call, write or email us today.
- We will pre-qualify you in minutes.
- There is no cost to you.
- We offer buyers representation.

Are you considering selling your home?

- We will be glad to do a free market analysis to enable you to establish a value on your real estate.

A family agency with three generations of KSU grads

Century 21
Century 21 Irvine Real Estate, Inc.
1018 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, KS (785) 539-2356 or 1-800-634-1259 or email-cent21@flinthills.com or www.Century21Irvine.com

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus

ONE BEDROOMS	TWO BEDROOMS
1022-1026 Sunset $345-385	1825-1829 College Hts. $600-700
1212 Thurston $440-460	Aggieville Penthouse Apts. $550-725
1950-1960 Hunting $440-460
1837 College Heights $385	3 & 4 BEDROOMS 1841 College Heights $750-900

Call Today for an Appointment

DIAMOND
REAL ESTATE
1109 Hylton Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502
537-7701

MONTH TO MONTH LEASING

- Discount on rent if 9-month term paid in advance
- Water and Trash paid
- Community activities
- Convenient location
- 1,2,3, BR units
- Competitive rent
- Pool

539-5791

redoubt estates
113 By Pass K
Manhattan

NOW Leasing
1,2,3 and 4 Bedroom Apartments

WE OFFER-

- Private Balconies/Patios
- Microwaves, Refrigerators
- Garbage Disposals, Dishwasher
- Central heat/air, Ceiling Fans, Walk-in Closets
- Cable & Phone in every bedroom

YOU WILL ENJOY-

- 24-hour laundry & workout facilities
- Swimming pool with sundeck, basketball court
- 24-hour maintenance
- Discounted Cable w/HBO, water & trash paid
- Private clubhouse, fax & copier services
- Professional on-site management

Chase Manhattan APARTMENTS
1409 Chase Place • 776-3663

Snyder pleased by class of recruits

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

K-State's football recruiting class might be ranked 12th in the nation by Rivals.com, but don't expect head coach Bill Snyder to jump up and down with joy.

In fact, don't expect him to say anything different than he has the past several years.

"I'm pleased. I'm probably always pleased for the most part," Snyder said. "It's a good group of young guys, some quality players, good people. You could just pull out the tape of a year ago, and the year before that.

"I don't know how anybody can project how good a class is going to be, and in most cases, how good an individual is going to be in your program until you've had him here for a while."

So, while Snyder is reluctant to make any initial judgments on the newest batch of Cats, he will comment on their attitude thus far.

"I like what seems to be a real competitive spirit within this class on an individual basis and therefore collectively," he said. "I think they're guys that are young people that are genuine about the right things, really want to be as good a student as they can be, want to be good people, attempt to be good people and, as I said, competitive — want to play."

Overall, the class of 28 is larger than past classes. Regardless of size, though, Snyder said he believes K-State filled its needs.

"I think there's talent in the class. Where we needed some size, we got a little bit of size, where we needed some strength, we got some strength," Snyder said. "In most of the areas, I think we filled virtually all the slots, with the exception of tight end. We didn't get a tight end at all in this class, and there was that need, I think."

K-State might not have gotten a tight end, but its receiving corps certainly was boosted. The group is headlined by Jerome Janet, an incoming freshman from Tulsa Union High School in Broken Arrow, Okla. Janet (pronounced ja-NAY) finished

See RECRUITS on PAGE 7

Silent treatment might just work for struggling team

Let's just say I was glad to be a reporter, not a player, Wednesday night in Columbia, Mo.

After K-State choked down the stretch to hand Mizzou a 70-66 victory at the Hearnes Center, the scene was rather dismal outside the Cat locker room area.

Forward Matt Siebrandt admitted his frustration — he was sick of losing.

Junior Travis Reynolds simply shrugged, not knowing how K-State can keep finding ways to lose.

Head coach Jim Wooldridge even showed a little more frustration than usual. Instead of praising his team for its efforts, like he had after two heart-breaking losses to Oklahoma and Nebraska in late January, he said he was upset with them.

"Coach told us that we find ways to beat ourselves, and we shouldn't feel angry that we lost," Reynolds said. "We gave the game away."

Yet, Wooldridge has the right to show a little hostility. After all, four of K-State's last five losses have come by six points or fewer.

"It's the same song. How many verses are we at right now?" Wooldridge said after the game.

It's just tough to blame a coach for his team's rudimentary shortfalls in the final minutes of games. He can't teach Quentin Buchanan how to make a turnaround jumper with six seconds left, which would've tied the game against MU.

He can't tell Richie Terry when to not throw a dangerous cross-court pass, for fear it would be intercepted by the Tigers' Wesley Stokes and taken the other way for a lay-up.

Those things are up to the players, and right now, they're simply not getting it done.

Flashes of brilliance as K-State mounted a vicious comeback against Mizzou quickly were suppressed as the Cats gave up a 9-0 run in the final 1:29.

What a long, horrific, four-hour bus ride home it must have been for K-State, not that I suspect Wooldridge said too much to his team during the trip back to Manhattan.

It was the silence that killed them.

Growing up in a somewhat sheltered Christian family, I quickly discovered what the silent treatment can do to a human being. I knew my dad was

See BOSS on PAGE 7

Hungry to compete

K-State's third baseman Justin Dehmer fields the ball and throws it to first base during the Cats' last home game against Southern Nazarene.

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

■ Cats prepare for 3-game series against 2000 national champs this weekend at Baton Rouge, La.

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

Fresh off a perfect 2-0 start to the 2001 season, K-State's baseball team travels to Baton Rouge, La., this weekend for a three-game series against 2000 national champion LSU.

While playing what perennially is one of the best teams in the nation might seem intimidating at first, the Cats actually are looking forward to matching up with the No. 3 Tigers, senior left fielder Kasey Weishaar said.

"We're real excited to go down there," Weishaar said. "It will help us out extremely in the Big 12 when we start playing at places like Texas and Texas A&M where they draw eight- and 9,000 people."

In fact, stadiums in the Big 12 might seem warm and inviting after the Cats finish their set at LSU's Alex Box Stadium, where a capacity crowd of more than 7,760 is expected for this weekend's series to see the Tigers get their national championship rings. Pop singer Britney Spears also is set to sing the national anthem before the first game.

With added attention expected to accompany the Cats during their visit to LSU, Weishaar said he expects to be nervous when the first pitch is thrown at 7 tonight to kick off the series.

"This will probably be our biggest game since I've been here," he said. "Of course, we play in one of the toughest conferences in the country, but when you go into a place where they're giving them the national championship rings and they're expecting upwards of 10,000 people to show up, it will be pretty exciting and pretty nerve-wracking at the same time."

UP NEXT

K-State takes on LSU in a three-game series starting at 7 tonight. The Cats and Tigers also take the field at 2 p.m. Saturday and at 1 p.m. Sunday in Baton Rouge.

See BASEBALL on PAGE 7

Cats work to put Missouri behind them

By DEREK BOSS
Kansas State Collegian

Jim Wooldridge might want more than two days to prepare for his next opponent after Wednesday night's close loss at Missouri, but he knows he won't get that luxury.

After all, he explicitly displayed his disappointment and frustration following the game in Columbia — actually stating that he was upset with his team.

Nevertheless, those wounds won't have much time to heal as Colorado (14-9, 4-6 Big 12) comes to town Saturday for a 12:45 p.m. tip with K-State (8-12, 2-7).

Wooldridge knows his team can't continue to blow leads down the stretch as it did Wednesday, surrendering a five-point advantage in the final minute and a half to fall to Missouri, 70-66.

Yet, it seems like previous losses in the waning seconds have taken their toll on the Cats' psyche in finishing a ball game, as close losses to Oklahoma and Nebraska this year might have precluded K-State from maintaining its composure.

"Obviously, it's in the back of their minds — you'd have to believe at this point," Wooldridge said Wednesday night. "And I can't explain it. I just cannot explain it. It's just very unfortunate. It's just a ridiculous way to end a game."

Some might point to a controversial call by the officiating crew with under a minute to play, as guard Larry Reid was whistled for a charging violation in the lane with 0:26.8 on the clock and the Cats on top 66-65, but forward Matt Siebrandt said he knows who's to blame in the loss.

"When you've got a lead at somebody's house, you're not going to get any calls or anything like that," he said. "You have to come together as five and win the ball game. And we didn't do that."

As a result, K-State remains at 11th place in the Big 12 standings after losing seven of its last eight games, including five straight, four of which came by a combined 13 points.

Not that Colorado isn't having its share of struggles, though.

Head coach Ricardo Patton and the Buffaloes have failed to put together back-to-back victories since conference play began in early January. In fact, CU has developed a win-loss trend during the past nine games.

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Quentin Buchanan and Travis Reynolds defend a shot taken by a Hampton player earlier this season.

However, if that trend follows suit, the Buffs defeat K-State on Saturday, as Colorado is coming off a 77-72 loss to No. 25 Texas on Wednesday night.

They showed K-State-like symptoms down the stretch against the Longhorns, failing to score in the final 3:34 to surrender eight unanswered UT points.

CU is led by D.J. Harrison, a 6-foot-7 inch junior averaging 16.5 points and 4.8 rebounds per game in starting all 23 contests, while senior Jamahl Mosley and sophomore Stephanie Pelle also boast double figures in scoring.

Regardless, Siebrandt said K-State will need to fight through the anxiety and pressure in order to compete the rest of the season. As much as it hurts, the Cats will need to put their struggles behind them and get ready for Saturday.

"We're going to always come out fighting and give it all we've got, but it just gets tougher and tougher after playing your heart out all 40 minutes and then losing in the last couple," he said Wednesday. "It gets tougher, but we're just going to have to pull through and make the best of what we can these next seven games."

Steady rhythm, leadership goals for women's team

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

Auto racing and women's basketball might not have a lot in common to the casual observer, but after Wednesday's 63-54 loss to Missouri, head coach Deb Patterson found a way to link the two in trying to make sense of a disappointing season.

"It's kind of like a race car that's out of control that has no steering wheel, bouncing side to side," she said. "We're making mistakes that make you scratch your head over how it happened, but you know it's because there is no flow, there's no rhythm and there is no sense of command out there."

K-State (11-10, 1-9) will have to find a way to regain that lost control Saturday afternoon when another road block, in the form of Big 12 co-leader Iowa State (18-2, 8-1), play host to the Cats at Hilton Coliseum in Ames, Iowa.

After seeing her team fall to a late 19-4 Tiger run, which included seven K-State turnovers in the final nine minutes, Patterson attributed the Cats' inability to establish consistent play on the perimeter to a lack of leadership among the team's guards.

"You need to have sustained stability as you bring the ball up the floor and we go through segments where we have absolutely no continuity and composure," Patterson said. "It's a lack of maturity and leadership on the perimeter, so when we fall apart, we really fall apart."

K-State has made a habit of falling apart on the perimeter lately, and although the Cats boast two of the most talented three-point threats in the conference, offense has been kept to a minimum lately. Point guard Shalondra Booker's seven turnovers against Missouri were just the latest in a string of unpredictable performances.

Still, senior Kim Woodlee said she saw improvement in the team after K-State's loss to Missouri. Although the Cats failed to get the win for the fifth straight game, Woodlee was impressed with the Wildcats' early ball control and second chance opportunities.

"We took strides (against Missouri)," she said. "I don't know how many people know that we did, other than ourselves, but our first-half execution was light years better than it has been and our rebounding improved, but it's still not there."

See BASKETBALL on PAGE 7

RECRUITS

■ continued from page 6

is high school career with 125 catches for 2,081 yards and 30 touchdowns. He is ranked eighth among national wide-receiver prospects by Rivals.com.

Filling the receiving corps is Davin Dennis from St. James High School in Louisiana, who caught 45 catches for 970 yards as a senior, Chavez Donnings, Butler County CC, a second-team NJCAA All-American and Lawrence "Taco" Wallace, Mount San Antonio (Calif.) College, an honorable mention NJCAA All-American.

At quarterback, the Cats signed Marc Dunn, a transfer from Ricks College, Idaho. Dunn was named the 2000 NJCAA Offensive Player of the Year and broke the NJCAA all-time passing record.

While Dunn will be a junior at K-State, he will turn 23 years old in April, as he went on a two-year mission after redshirting his freshman year. However, that age difference doesn't necessarily mean more maturity, Snyder said.

"I don't think we'd ever correlate maturity with age, but he is a mature young guy. He does have a sense of urgency. That's probably true of any youngster who has two years of eligibility remaining," he said.

Dunn also is big, at 6-foot-4 inches, 205 pounds, but that doesn't necessarily mean he won't be able to run as past K-State quarterbacks have, Snyder said.

"What a lot of people might tend to overlook is he's an athletic individual. He's not a slow individual," Snyder said. "He's not a guy that doesn't have escapability. He has the talents to be a movement type quarterback."

While signees like Dunn and Janet might give this recruiting class more name power than previous classes, that doesn't necessarily equate with future success.

"I can think of a lot of big names that are selling newspapers on a street corner somewhere. A lot of big name players just don't make it," Snyder said. "I don't know what all those big names mean until they've been someplace and done what you hope they would be able to do. You look at our program over the years, we haven't had those high profile guys, never have, but we've had a lot of guys who have been pretty good players."

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

BASKETBALL

■ continued from page 6

K-State will have to improve more noticeably in Ames on Saturday in order to compete with the Cyclones.

Iowa State averages 82 points-per-game while limiting their opponents to just 64. Junior guard Kristin Rethman said she realizes the challenge, and said it is important to forget about the Cats' early disappointments and focus on the task at hand.

"We can't quit. We can't stop," she said. "There's ball games left, and we just have to go into Iowa State and get better."

Andrea Armstrong drives to the basket against Missouri at Bramlage Coliseum last Wednesday night.

BASEBALL

■ continued from page 6

Still, with two solid performances at home to start the season and a young, hungry team doing everything asked of them so far, head coach Mike Clark expects to see his team perform well this weekend.

"We expect them to go out, play with confidence and show them that we can play with these guys," Clark said. "I think if we can play with them for four or five innings and our mature guys really lead us, I think the rest of the team will be able to say, 'We're at this level, and we deserve to be on the same field as these people,' and that's what our hopes are."

To get to that level, though, Clark will have to rely on Weishaar and his mates to harness those nerves early if they hope to stay with an LSU team that will be playing with determination and pride in head coach Skip Bertman's final year at the helm of the Tigers.

Bertman's 18-year run at LSU has included five national championships in the past ten years, 11 appearances at Omaha in the last 15 years and six National Coach of the Year honors. Bertman's accomplishments and a time-proven formula for success will provide an incredible, but not insurmountable, challenge for the Cats this weekend, Clark said.

"It will be huge, but also with the challenge is a great opportunity," he said. "They're going to be in an atmosphere they're not used to being in and they're going to be up against a very talented ball club, but we've prepared them for it."

"We've talked about it, not to intimidate them at all, but so that they can relax, believe in their stuff, perform and execute under those kind of conditions."

A big part of that challenge will fall on the shoulders of the Cats' influx of newcomers. If K-State is to return from Louisiana successful, a roster of rookies will have to grow up in a hurry, senior first baseman Mark English said.

"For the young guys, it's going to be tough," he said. "Some of them have gotten into a couple of games here, but it's going to be big for them to get in there and get their feet wet and really get into it. Once you've played there, you can pretty much play anywhere."

Despite LSU's intimidating track record and the new names on the K-State roster, English said preparation for this weekend's games is no different than any other series, and the Cats will be looking to take it one step at a time.

"Our first goal is to go in there Friday night, play well and try to win," he said. "We go into every series expecting to win the series. If you win every series all year, you're going to have a good record, so you can't go in thinking anything less here."

BOSS

■ continued from page 6

the maddest when he said nothing at all.

So, as for the players, I'd be willing to bet they had quite a bit on their minds after Wooldridge spoke to them after the loss. He said he told them he was upset, but I've got a feeling he left it at that.

No speeches.
No lectures.
No pats on the back and an encouraging, "Let's get 'em next time, fellas."

It was time for the players to find within themselves how to win, and how to win soon.

Although there might not be any white stuff on the ground outside, the Cats quickly are snowballing downhill at a tremendous pace.

But with a chance of snow today, let's just hope it warms up soon.

Derek is a sophomore in print and electronic journalism. You can e-mail him at dnb8765@ksu.edu.

Can't make it to the student body campaign announcements? Stay updated at www.katatecollegian.com

KSU Meat Sale

WEDNESDAY & FRIDAY
3-6 p.m. & Noon-6 p.m.

Rm. 166 Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage,
ground pork, bacon

For information call 532-1279

Bob's DINER

1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT
OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

is
EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY
$1.99
BREAKFAST
ALL THE TIME

A new wing will soon be completed
that will include a smoke free
area and a new salad bar

Happy
Valentine's
Day!

Claflin Books and Copies

776-3771

Peaceable Kingdom
Valentine
Cards

5 shopping days 'till
Valentine's Day!

RELIGION DIRECTORY

JOIN THE DIRECTORY

Call at 532-6560

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan

481 Zeandale Road, (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)

Programs each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth. Day care for toddlers. The Rev. David Grimm.

For information call (785) 537-2349 www.flinthills.com/~uafellow

Grace Baptist Church

2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child

◆ Sunday ◆
Morning Worship
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.

Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.

776-0424

Lutheran Campus Ministry

at Luther House 1745 Anderson

Sunday Evening Worship
7:00 p.m. at Danforth Chapel

www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
Pastor Jayne Thompson
(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451

— Open to All —

Blue Valley Memorial UMC
835 Church St. 539-8790

Worship: Sat. 5:30 p.m./Sun. 10:30 a.m.

Free food after services first Sun. of the month.
e-mail: revs2@flintheills.com

The Salvation Army High Plains Worship Center

"Helping People With Care"

Our vision?
We are Chosen, Blessed, Broken, and Given of God!

Service Times:
Sunday School 10 a.m.
Worship Service 11 a.m.
Evening Service 6:30 p.m.
Wednesday Bible Study 6:30 p.m.

4th & Leavenworth, Manhattan, KS
785-532-9292

St. Luke's Lutheran Church

Saturday 6 p.m. Traditional Service
Sunday 8:30 a.m. Traditional Service
9:30 a.m. Fellowship
9:45 a.m. Sunday School & Bible Study
11:00 a.m. Contemporary Service

Campus Missionary - Pastor Eric Wood
<http://www.flinthills.com/~stlukes>
330 Sunset Ave. 539-2604

ST. MARY MAGDALENE ORTHODOX CHRISTIAN MISSION

ECM Bldg. 1021 Denison, 2 South.
539-3440

Services: Divine Liturgy 9:30 AM Saturdays in the ECM Nave
Visit the K-State OCF webpage at www.ksu.edu/orthodox

ECM Christian Explorers

Food, Fun & Fellowship
Sunday 5:30-7:30 p.m.

Bible Study
Tuesday 5:30 pm
Meditation class
Wednesday 7am

1021 Denison Ave.
539-4281 or email at ecm@ksu.edu

First Baptist Church

Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.

For free transportation within city limits, call the church.
Pastors Karen & Alan Selig
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691

An American Baptist Congregation

ST. FRANCIS CANTERBURY
THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH AT KANSAS STATE

SUNDAY WORSHIP
5:00 PM
ST. FRANCIS CHAPEL
1823 LARAMIE

"Love the Lord your God with all your heart, soul, mind, and strength. And love your neighbor as yourself."

REV. CATHY BASCOM 532-9099

First Presbyterian Church
801 Leavenworth St. • 537-0518

Sunday Schedule
Contemporary Worship at 9:15 a.m.

Sunday School for all ages at 9:15 a.m.

Traditional Worship at 10:30 a.m.

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
8:15 & 9:30 & 11:00 AM

College and Young Married Couples:
Sunday School 9:30 & 9:30 & 11:00 AM
Bible Study @ 7:00 PM Tuesdays

Youth Ministry Opportunities
College Pastor: Aaron Marlin

Senior Pastor: David Thompson
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

Agape Family Church

An Affiliate of RHEMA Bible Church
aka Kenneth Hagin Ministries

SUNDAY
Sunday Broadcast 9:05 a.m. on 95.3 FM
School of the Bible 9:30 a.m.
Worship Service 10:30 a.m.
Evening Fellowships 7:00 p.m.
Wednesday Service 7:30 p.m.

Everyone is welcome to come and be part of our family

STERLING HUDGINS-PASTOR
116 S. 4th, Downtown Manhattan
(785) 539-3570

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH
612 Poyntz • 776-8821

Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Church School all ages 9:45 a.m.

Pastors: Jim Reed, Frank Fritz, & Ken Willis
fumc@flintheills.com
www.flintheills.com/~fumc

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
(DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)

Sunday
8:30 a.m. - Early Service
9:45 a.m. - Sunday School
10:55 a.m. - Late Service
11:30 a.m. - Live Broadcast
Angel 95.3 FM

5th & Humboldt
776-8790

You are welcome at...

First Assembly of God

Weekly Schedule of Services

Sunday	Wednesday	Thursday
Worship Services 8:30 & 11:00 a.m. Kid's Church 8:30 & 11:00 a.m. Sunday School 10:00 a.m. Nueva Vida 10:00 a.m. Worship Choir 4:15 p.m. Evening Worship 6:00 p.m.	All ministries begin at 7:00 Prayer Meeting Nueva Vida Ministry (Spanish) Youth Group (grades 7-12) Royal Rangers (Boys Club) Missionettes (Girls Club)	Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship 7:00 p.m. for College Students (K-State Union room 212)

Nursery Provided for All Services

Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor
2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS
(785) 537-7633 www.manhattanag.org

Manhattan Mennonite Church

Sunday School 9:30 a.m., Worship 10:45 a.m.
Richard & Barbara Gehring, Co-Pastors
10th and Fremont 539-4079
Welcome Students and Staff!

FIRST LUTHERAN
10th Poyntz 537-8532

Worship
Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center

MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m.

Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

State, local codes give tenants' rights

By SHANNON BURKDOLL
Kansas State Collegian

Renee Fonferko has had bad luck with Manhattan landlords. Fonferko, office assistant for the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications, has seen cabinets fall apart before her eyes, ceilings cave in and raw sewage take over the kitchen, she said.

"My complaints were totally ignored," Fonferko said.

"It pretty much got down to the battle that was fought, for everything I called about, and not just petty things. I wouldn't pay my rent until they were fixed. I got behind on four months rent because those things on my list had not been fixed."

Tenants are entitled to habitable housing under the Kansas Residential Landlord and Tenant Act. The housing has to comply with the building and housing codes that affect health and safety. If the premises are in question, tenants may get a free inspection done by the Manhattan Housing Code.

Rental agreements generally are advised on both parties acting in good faith in their performances, according to the act.

This means both parties will fulfill their appropriate duties and take responsibility for their actions.

Tenants are expected to comply with the binding lease agreement and obligations, keep premises as clean and safe as the condition permits, be responsible for damage a guest, pet, or tenant causes, remove all waste in a clean and safe manner and not disturb other tenants or neighbors.

"If the tenant does not cause the damage, it is the landlord's responsibility to fix it," Dianne Urban, university attorney, said.

Landlords are required to comply with the Manhattan Housing Code, exercise reasonable care in the maintenance of the premises, maintain all appliances and utilities in working order, provide garbage and waste removal, supply running water, reasonable amounts of hot water at all times and reasonable heat.

Landlords and tenants might agree the tenant will perform some repairs, but the agreement needs to be in writing, and both parties should have a copy of the document for their records.

Tenants need to be aware of their rights and duties before renting an apartment or house, Urban said.

"Take a good look. The time to really look at this place is before you sign the lease," Urban said.

"Look in the closets and under the sinks. Crawl around on the bathroom floor and take a good hard look. Open faucets and close them, and see if they work properly. Flush the toilet and see what happens. Go through it really well before signing the lease."

Tenants should document an inventory of a place before moving in, Don Weiner, Manhattan attorney, said.

"In addition to having rights, use your head, eyes, ears and nose," Weiner said. "Let them know you are conscientious. Be a little proactive."

Tenants should take pictures of the premise inventory and record everything to prevent an expensive legal case, Weiner said. Lawyers are like mechanics — if you prevent a problem by using good maintenance, you will save money, Weiner said.

"Film is cheap. Lawyers are expensive," Weiner said.

The K-State Legal Services, located in the Office of Student Activities in the K-State Student Union, are free to students.

A $15 charge will be made if the student signs a contract. Tenant-landlord cases can be taken to Small Claims court to be resolved, Weiner said.

Landlords often require tenants to give them renting references, and tenants should do the same, Larry Hackney, Manhattan human relations officer, said.

"Students should ask people or talk to current tenants to get a rental reference on the landlords," Hackney said.

"Check up on the landlord and check out the premises before moving in. Students tend not to do that."

Information on renting rights can be acquired from the Consumer and Tenant Affairs and Legal Services in the Office of Student Activities and Services in the Union or on the K-State Legal Services Web site at www.ksu.edu/legal.

"If students read the information out there, such as the Kansas Residential Landlord and Tenant Act, they'll have a better understanding of what they can do," Hackney said.

"Some questions can be answered by doing that."

Manhattan, K-State help students find off-campus housing

By NIKKI KRIEN
Kansas State Collegian

The search for housing can be a daunting task without adequate resources.

It might be difficult to know what questions to ask and what to look for, but knowing what services are available can help.

The Office of Student Activities and Services, in the K-State Student Union, offers guidance to students and directs them to public offices, such as Code Services and the Manhattan Housing Authority.

Andy McDonnell, consumer and tenant affairs director, said personal consultation is available by appointment to help determine what housing is best for the student and to discuss issues like tenant rights.

They also provide an informational packet, including the Off-Campus Housing Guide.

The housing guide is published once per semester and contains helpful information on how to get started and where to turn when questions arise. It also contains a complete listing of properties in Manhattan.

"In the future, our goal is to have every rental housing in Manhattan," McDonnell said.

Although listings in the guide are free, CTA is sponsoring two events this spring providing an opportunity for owners and landlords to become more actively involved.

An informational meeting at 7 p.m. March 6 in the Union Courtyard will make representatives from Code Services and landlords from large and small complexes available to students to answer questions.

"I was asked to come and speak about things to look for in your apartment that might be trouble spots, how you go about getting your apartment inspected, things that we look for and things the tenant might check for themselves," said Brad Claussen, building official for the city of Manhattan. "I will also share general information about housing and how to contact us to get your apartment fixed."

The Off-Campus Housing Fair, co-sponsored by CTA and the Collegian, on March 13, again will bring in management from properties throughout Manhattan.

The housing fair will give students an opportunity to research different housing options and find answers to their questions, including some of the most important considerations when entering into a housing contract.

Some of these considerations include choosing roommates carefully and filling out the roommate agreement sheet found in the housing guide.

There is a budget sheet prompting students to consider start-up costs, as well as the value of time invested in the property. The guide also recommends tenants inspect the property before signing the lease and doing an extensive walk-through with the landlord within five days of moving in.

"One thing we stress very highly is if the landlord makes a promise, get it in writing. Don't just take their word for it," McDonnell said.

McDonnell said this year's fair will be larger than in the past, and it is the first year the event has been co-sponsored by the Collegian.

GLASS HEARTS Several Sizes & Wonderful Designs, From Three Studios $6 - $50

GLASS FLOWERS Red Roses, Anthuriums, Calla Lilies... $9 - $17

REAL ROSES With Gold, Silver or Copper Plating $29 - $45

GEMSTONE JEWELRY Sterling Silver & Garnet, Moonstone... $25 - $110

JEWELRY BOXES Contemporary Design, Two Styles $52 - $83

GLASS IMPRESSIONS
329 Poyntz Ave. 539-4610
Tue-Fri 11-6 • Sat 10-5

stay warm — read the e at home

www.kstatecollegian.com

more pics, more stories, more luv

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

HUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888

Lunch Buffet
All you can eat!
$4.95

Friday Seafood Buffet
Crabs, legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.
$7.95

Dinner Buffet
All you can eat!
$6.95

Make reservations for Valentines Day
Call 539-8888

FREE DELIVERY
with $9 minimum order
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

American Legion BINGO!

Sunday 2 p.m.
Tuesday 1:30 p.m.
Wednesday 7:30 p.m.
"Progressive Bingo"
Sundays & Wednesdays
- Win Big Bucks -
114 McCall Rd.

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

776-5577
1800 Claflin Road

YOU DESERVE IT!!!

JAMAICA CANCUN MAZATLAN

"Come travel with the quality company"
Mazatlan flight via Sun Country direct service
www.sunbreaks.com
888-777-4642

TRIPS INCLUDE:
FREE Meals
VIP Express Entry
RT Air
7 nights hotel
Discount at shops, Restaurants and bars

WIN A CHANCE TO BE ON BAYWATCH HAWAII
Party with the celebrities!!!
HEADLINE DJS

FRIDAY NIGHT

LIVE DJ AT 11
SHOW UP EARLY

$6.99 FISH & SHRIMP DINNER
$2.50 BIG BEERS
$3.99 RED BULLS

Fridays at BOWINKLES Featuring Paul Newton comedian and singer
9 pm - midnight

+ PRIZES
+ $1.50 Bud Bottles
= Awesome Friday

Don't forget Thursdays
$1.00 Bottles
Karaoke 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.

BoWinkle's
776-1022 3043 Anderson

Romance them with roses for Valentine's Day at prices you'll love!

Call or Visit Today!
Steve's Floral
Voted best Florist in Manhattan

302 Poyntz (785) 539-6227 Open 8 a.m.-6 p.m.
Sat. 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

*Delivery Available

Open Sunday Feb. 11

FTD

2 PIZZAS $8.99
MEDIUM WITH 1 TOPPING
CARRYOUT PLUS TAX, DELIVERY CHARGE MAY APPLY

MAKE IT LARGE! $4.00
CARRYOUT PLUS TAX, DELIVERY CHARGE MAY APPLY

Little Caesars Pizza
Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!

MANHATTAN (Westloop Center) 539-3333

Little Apple BRIDAL SHOW
Manhattan's largest bridal event
Sunday, Feb. 11 1 p.m.
Manhattan Holidome

Come visit with experts in planning your wedding...

Sponsored by:
Swan's Tux Shoppe • Confetti's • Sunny 102.5 and Celebrity Celebrations of the Heart

Complete Music
Dillard's
Fairfield Inn
FireWorks Spectacular
Flint Hills Photography
Hair Experts Design Team

Holiday Inn Holidome
Holscher Video
Homestead Floral
Images Salon
Marcus Stratton Photography
Mary Kay Cosmetics/Michelle Watson
Mary Kay Cosmetics/Rhea Mader
Party Rentals by Swan's

Patricia's Undercover Lingerie
Paxico Floral & Gifts
Portraits by LBJ
Ramada Inn
Royal Prestige
Salon Essentials
Shadowsmith Photographics/
Ceremonial White Bird Release

Third Street Flowers & Gifts
Vern's Cakes
WB Photography
Wedding Pages/The Knot
Weisner's Bridal

FREE ADMISSION
For more information call (785) 537-2002

Male models from KSU Track & Football team

WEEKENDER

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: J J DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 2001

9

Cryptopip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Villa, in Vinius
6 C.S.A. soldier
9 — es-
Salaam
12 Use
13 Psyche part 14 "—
Little Teapot"
15 Sap provider
16 Skipper
18 Stirred 20 Never again
21 "What Kind of Fool —?"
23 Large cask
24 Not asleep
25 Tackle a lollipop
27 Filched
29 Sermonize
31 Driver movie
— of Friends"
35 Din
37 Go like Columbus

DOWN
1 Weir
2 Ms.
3 Gardner
4 Whim
5 Hawaiian city
6 Attu
dweller
7 New
8 "Heavens!"
9 Kate style
10 Prince William's mum
11 Madchen
of
"Twin Peaks"
12 Indian princess 13 Tail structures
19 Bar offering 21 Heidi's height
22 News-making spacecraft
24 Foreman foe
26 Dorothy's home 28 Vast expanse
30 Coquettish
32 Overturn
33 Whopper
34 Actor
Wallach
36 Wedding party?
38 Sprayed in self-defense
39 Speechify
40 Flower leaf 42 Kerosene lamp features
45 Senate employee
46 Verve
48 Scenery
chewer
50 Extinct
New Zealand
51 Physique, slangily

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer: 2-9

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14
15 16 17
18 19 20
21 22 23 24
25 26 27 28
29 30 31 32 33 34
35 36 37
38 39 40 41 42 43
44 45 46
47 48 49 50 51
52 53 54
55 56 57

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873. 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP
E U I V N E G T Q X T E D L P
R J T T U T R U M P P N G F
I U Z D V N D M U L D F V
Q X J F Q V X V U Z D U P T I I D
Yesterday's Cryptopip: IT'S SURELY NO MISTAKE: THE PARK RANGER HAS
EAGLE-OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT.
Today's Cryptopip Clue: E equals F

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 11 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to
CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475
The Cryptopip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Digital Shelf DVD & PS2
Rental
We buy Dreamcasts, PS2 games & DVDs.
www.knudigitalshelf.com
now online and updated
701 N. 11th
776-6959

MOVIE TIMES SETH CHILDS CINEMAS

"Hannibal"
7 p.m., 7:45 p.m., 9:45 p.m., 10:30 p.m. and Midnight
"The Wedding Planner"
7:25 p.m., 9:45 p.m. and Midnight
"Oh Brother, Where Art Thou?"
7:15 p.m., 9:35 p.m. and Midnight
"The Pledge"
7:05 p.m. and 9:50 p.m.
"Valentine"
7:05 p.m. and 9:20 p.m.
"Castaway"
7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

"Head Over Heels"
3:30 p.m.
"Chocolate"
7 p.m.
"Finding Forrester"
9:30 p.m.
"Sugar and Spice"
7:30 p.m.
"Saving Silverman"
7:20 p.m., 9:40 p.m. and midnight
"Save the Last Dance"
7:15 p.m. and 9:50 p.m.
"Left Behind"
7:10 p.m. and 9:25 p.m.

FORUM HALL

"Meet the Parents"
7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Movies at Seth Childs Cinemas are $5 for matinees and $6.75
for evening shows.

MIKE SHEPHERD/Collegian

M'Lynn (Mary Orr), Truvy (Debra San Romani) and Clairee (Penni Hansen) comfort Shelby (Joanna Daffron) after she suffers a diabetic attack while having her hair done before her wedding in the play "Steel Magnolias," which runs this weekend and next in Wamego.

Columbian Theatre to present 'Steel Magnolias'

By BECKY FISCHER
Kansas State Collegian

Twelve years have passed since a cast including Julia Roberts, Dolly Parton and Sally Field turned the play "Steel Magnolias" into a hit movie.

Glynis Kickhafer, of Wamego, plans to bring the production back to a live audience. Kickhafer will direct the play at Wamego's Columbian Theatre opening this weekend.

Kickhafer was introduced to the play before it was a movie. She performed in the Topeka Civic Center's production of "Steel Magnolias" just before the movie came out, she said.

"I liked it even back then," she said. "The story line's great, and the characters are all instrumental. The story couldn't be told if even one character were missing."

Kickhafer said she also liked the pace of the show.

"It really starts off with a bang, quite literally, with gun shots and dogs barking," she said. "You're pulled into the story right away."

"Steel Magnolias" revolves around the lives of six southern belles who gossip and poke fun at each other, but in the end, are there for each other unquestionably, Kickhafer said. Weddings, pregnancies, illnesses and other life experiences are shared together by the six women.

Kickhafer said Robert Harling wrote "Steel Magnolias" as a tribute to his sister who, like the main character, suffered from diabetes. The plot revolves less around the disease than it does the importance of strong relationships.

"The story highlights the importance of friendship. We've all had friends like these, that support us through the good times and the bad," Kickhafer said.

The good times in the show are carried along by witty dialogue. The women are rarely at a loss of words for each other, Kickhafer said. Sadder parts of the plot are even broken up with humor.

"It sort of takes you on a ride up and down," she said. "It's a moving experience."

Many talented women auditioned for the show, but Kickhafer said she knew right away which actress would fit

"Steel Magnolias"

Columbian Theatre, Wamego
Box office: (800) 899-1893.
Playing Today, Saturday and Feb.
16 and 17 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday and Feb. 18 at 2 p.m.

each part. She said it's easy to cast strong characters.

Susie LeGault, of Emporia, plays Ouiser, an older, opinionated woman who's always getting on people's nerves. LeGault said she thinks Ouiser brings comic relief to the play.

"She's negative and always in a bad mood," LeGault said. "We all know people like that, with no sense of humor, and they sure can make us laugh."

Like all of the characters, Weezer is appealing for various reasons. "Her friends can count on her," she said. "Ouiser will always be around, whether they like it or not."

The women can usually be found primping and gossiping at Truvy's, the town's beauty shop. Deb San Romani, of the Kansas City Renaissance Festival's group the Ficklebitches, plays shop owner Truvy and said she's an interesting character.

MIKE SHEPHERD/Collegian

Penni Hansen (Clairee), left, and Kellie Connell (Annelle) are two of six actresses in the production of "Steel Magnolias."

"Truvy's sort of a flamboyant old Harley mama, a hooker with a heart of gold," San Romani said. "She's out there, but she's loyal and caring."

San Romani said she sees parts of herself in Truvy. "I can relate to the fact that she's boisterous. She would talk to a book," she said.

There are aspects of each character the audience can relate to, Kickhafer said. It may not be yourself, but maybe a friend, parent, or the neighborhood grouch will come to mind when you see the characters, she said.

The play contains some surprises, too.

"I don't want to give away too much," Kickhafer said, "but the audience is in for some unexpected occurrences."

Audience members may also enjoy the cozy atmosphere of the Columbian Theatre. With a maximum occupancy of 280, each person in the audience can expect to be close to the action.

"Some tickets are still available, but they're going fast," Kickhafer said.

Nashville songwriters to perform at Manhattan Arts Center

By JENNIFER L. SHERRY
Kansas State Collegian

Everyone worships the rock star, but beyond the glitz of the stage sometimes lies the real genius: the songwriter.

Steve Seskin and Don Henry, successful songwriters out of Nashville, Tenn., are performing their world-famous hits in the BirdHouse Acoustic Concert Series at 8 p.m. Saturday at The Manhattan Arts Center.

"I'm really looking forward to the show," Seskin said. "I hear the audiences are great in Manhattan."

Seskin's songs have been covered by a variety of artists, ranging from John Michael Montgomery, to Alabama, and rocker Peter Dinklage. He has released 14 of his own albums, and his song "I Think About

You," performed by Collin Raye, was named Academy of Country Music's Video of the Year in 1997.

Don Henry has been profiled in Rolling Stone, earned a Grammy for co-writing Kathy Mattea's acclaimed hit "Where've You Been," and has written songs covered by Lonestar and legend Ray Charles.

David Kaminer, co-founder of the BirdHouse Series, said he is expecting a large turnout and powerful performances by both artists.

"I think it is so great to hear songs presented by the artists who wrote them the way they were meant to be presented," he said.

Seskin said he has been performing since he started playing music in the 1970s on the streets of San Francisco, where he resides. He spends most of his time in Nashville writing songs, but continues to perform at festivals and acoustic venues across the country, he said.

"I equally enjoy singing and writing, but my writing success enables me to have more fun with my artist career because I'm not dependent on singing to make a living," Seskin said. "I do occasional shows and have fun, instead of going on long tours like some singers are forced to do."

Henry said his career began when he was 12 years old, living in California, writing lyrics to the melodies of singer Jim Croce. Henry said he values the chance to perform his songs, and critics agree his unique approach to performing has

BirdHouse Acoustic Series

Tickets for the concert are $10 for students and seniors, $12 for adults, and are available at the Dusty Bookshelf in Aggville and at The Manhattan Arts Center. Tickets can also be purchased by calling 537-4420. Any tickets left will be sold at the door. For more information on the BirdHouse Acoustic Series visit their Web site at home.earthlink.net/~dkresearch.

made him appealing to a wide range of audiences.

"Going out on the road is great," Henry said. "Performing is an opportunity to express yourself in a different way."

Seskin said he loves to hear a talented singer perform his song and hear his work taken to a new level.

"The fact that millions of people get to hear my songs through someone else is pretty cool," Seskin said.

The BirdHouse Series has produced one concert a month for the last six years, and its popularity is proven by the last six sold out concerts.

"I've seen Seskin play live and he is such a passionate performer and Don is an amazing entertainer," Kaminer said. "I'm truly thrilled to have them on our stage."

Seskin's advice to young aspiring musicians is to keep focused on the music.

"It's okay to mix art and commerce, but don't let the commerce poison the art," Seskin said. "Create from a pure place and then there's nothing wrong with trying to sell your work."

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM - MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL

Bush urges Palestinian leader to work to end violence

By BARRY SCHWEID
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Bush reached out Thursday to Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat in an effort to deter violent outbreaks in the aftermath of Ariel Sharon's election as Israel's prime minister.

Placing a telephone call a few hours before a car bomb set off two powerful explosions in an Orthodox Jewish neighborhood of Jerusalem, Bush urged Arafat to make every effort to help stop violence and bring calm to the region, a White House spokeswoman said. It was the new president's first contact with Arafat.

Secretary of State Colin Powell followed up with a call of his own to the Palestinian leader. State Department spokesman Richard Boucher said the bombing was discussed only briefly because neither of them had any particular information.

"But clearly, asking all the parties to take all the steps they can ... encompasses an attitude, a request to take action, if there is action that can be taken in a case like this," Boucher said.

He condemned the bombing as an act of terrorism and said such incidents of violence could not be justified.

Powell's message to Arafat and, in separate calls, to U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan, President Zine el Abidine Ben Ali of Tunisia and Foreign Minister Igor Ivanov of Russia, was one of urging moderation and restraint, Boucher said.

Bush's call to Arafat paralleled the one he made to Sharon on Tuesday once Sharon's landslide victory over Ehud Barak emerged. In that congratulatory call, Bush assured Sharon he would work with him to bring peace and stability to the region.

A White House statement called the U.S. relationship with Israel rock-solid.

According to White House spokeswoman Mary Ellen Countryman, Bush told Arafat on Thursday that the United States remained committed to a just and lasting peace between Israel and the Palestinians.

The phrase is part of the U.S.

diplomatic lexicon for the Middle East. The Palestinians have long contended they are victims of injustice. Israel has hoped to work out settlements with the Arabs that are lasting.

In response to Bush, Arafat expressed a commitment to work toward a comprehensive peace, said Hassan Abdel Rahman, who heads the Palestine Liberation Organization's office here.

Arafat asked Bush to do his utmost to safeguard and protect the peace process and expressed his readiness to help, Rahman said.

Powell told Arafat he would meet with him on his expected trip to the region toward the end of the month, a Palestinian official said.

The Bush-Arafat conversation lasted nearly 15 minutes and reflected a concerted effort by the new administration to keep a lid on emotions among Arabs and Israelis. Sharon, a hard-line former general and defense minister, is accused by many Arabs of a role in massacres of unarmed civilians.

The American-Arab Anti-

"We believe that if he were a Serb or a Rwandan, the world would be preparing to haul him in front of an international war crimes tribunal rather than welcoming him as the leader of a U.N. member state."

— Hussein Ibish, American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee

Discrimination Committee, for instance, accused him Wednesday of at least four massacres of hundreds of civilians on the West Bank and Lebanon.

"We believe that if he were a Serb or a Rwandan, the world would be preparing to haul him in front of an international war crimes tribunal rather than welcoming him as the leader of a U.N. member state," Hussein Ibish, spokesman for the group, told The Associated Press on Thursday.

As the administration sought to put the Arab-Israeli conflict in a broader framework, Bush also telephoned Sultan Qaboos bin Said of Oman and told him the United States wants to strengthen and deepen ties with the oil-rich emirate and work with him to promote peace and stability in the region, Countryman said.

Powell, in a burst of telephone diplomacy, talked Tuesday to Sharon and Wednesday to King Abdullah II of Jordan, Crown Prince Abdullah of Saudi Arabia, Foreign Minister Amr Moussa of Egypt and Foreign Minister Farouk al-Sharaa of Syria.

"The message is basically ... that we're at a delicate time, that the prime minister-elect will need to form a government, and that during this period we should avoid provocations, we should avoid counterprovocations, everyone should be exercising restraint and moderation," Boucher said.

The call to Damascus probably was the most significant. Syria supports Hezbollah guerrillas in Lebanon who have carried out sporadic attacks against Israelis.

Further attacks could provoke a deadly response by Sharon, who is committed to bolstering Israel's security and has not shied away from using force in the past. The former general in 1982 led an invasion into Lebanon.

Sharon will send three top aides to Washington next week for talks with officials from the State Department.

Bush and his advisers intend to take Arab-Israeli diplomacy in a new direction, linking the intractable dispute over the Palestinians' future to other U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf.

Even familiar terminology is being cast aside. In a move approved by Powell, the phrase peace process is being jettisoned in favor of specific references.

"There is no official term to describe our efforts to achieve Middle East peace," a State Department internal memorandum says.

The Gift of Massage is ideal for your
VALENTINE!

½ hour.....$25.00
1 hour.....$40.00
1½ hours.....$60.00

Gift Certificates
Available

Optimum
Therapeutic Massage
Relaxation • Stress Reduction
Professional Setting

10 % OFF with student ID

Rachelle Brooks
200 Southwind Place, Suite 204
Manhattan, Kansas 66503
(785) 313-4256
rbrooks@networksplus.net

International
Massage Assn.
Member

A Taste of Class 2001
Elements Of Taste

Saturday, Feb. 10 5-10p.m.

You are cordially invited to Aggieville's finest Premium Rave

Join us for a taste of class featuring exquisite scotch, cognac, port and sherry-- just to name a few!
Stay for dinner and dessert.

A Flint Hills Bread Basket Benefit

For more information & reservations
Call (785)770 3000

e
elements of taste
1131 Moro • Aggieville

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.

CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

hang ten,
earn six

summer sessions, hawaii

* 6 weeks, 6 credits, as low as $2,900 (based on typical costs of tuition, room & board, books, and estimated airfare)

Term 1: May 21-June 29 • Term 2: July 2-August 10
www.summer.hawaii.edu • toll-free 1 (800) 862-6628

University of Hawai'i at Mānoa, Summer Sessions

hastings
Entertainment

All Cliffs Notes 30% off!

Stock Up For Class!

Cliffs Complete's are revised and expanded study editions of the original Cliffs Notes

$6.99 On Sale

They offer the original play, a glossary, and expert commentary in a unique, 2 column format where notes and definitions appear directly opposite the line in which they occur.

Cliffs Complete's
Julius Caesar
Romeo and Juliet
King Lear
Othello

Cliffs Notes
A Tale of Two Cities
Huckleberry Finn
The Scarlet Letter
To Kill a Mockingbird

$3.49 On Sale

Tribal Skull Ashtray
$19.99
Everyday Low Price

For the store nearest you please call TOLL-FREE
1-877-hastings(427-8464)
Monday-Friday
9am-6pm Central Time.
Offers good thru 2/18/01.

Be Smart. Log On. Get Jobs!
Check out the Virtual Career Fair

GeoSystems
ENGINEERING INC.
Mark A. Loes, C.E.T., C.W.F.
Principal
7802 Barton
Lenexa, Kansas 66214
(913) 962-0909/0924 (fax)
m_loes@geosystemseng.com

www.securitybenefit.com
The Security Benefit
Group of Companies
700 SW Harrison St., Topeka, Kansas 66636-0001
Please send resumes to the attention of Human Resources. Our telephone number is 785-431-3000, fax is 785-431-3546.

Would you like to make a difference in someone's life? If so, the St. Louis
ARC needs you!

arc gathering People by a 1 degree

Visit our booth at the Virtual Job Fair!!

Hospitality Managers • Patient Service Managers •
Dietitians • Retail Managers • Food Service Manager •
Environmental Services Managers
Sodexo Marriott Services, is the largest provider of outsourced food service and facilities management in North America. We'll be conducting interviews on Tuesday, March 13, 2001, at Kansas State. We are looking for entry-level, goal-oriented leaders who will fill critical management roles in our expanding business locally and nationally.
If you are unable to interview with us,
please fax your resume to:
Sandy Joiner, Recruitment Manager, at (630) 810-0399, or e-mail it to sjoiner@sodexhomarriott.com

Sodexo Marriott

Enterprise
rent-a-car

Enterprise Rent-A-Car is the largest rental company in North America and has almost 4500 locations worldwide. We have an extensive management training program that allows our employees the chance to run every aspect of our business.
Visit our booth at the Virtual Job Fair!

Geoprobe Systems

Geoprobe Systems
601 N Broadway
Salina, KS 67401
785-825-1842
info@geoprobeystem.com
www.geoprobeystem.com
Manufacturers of Geoprobe Soil Probing
Equipment, tools, and site remediation equipment.

DBG
DeBruce
Grain

Find a great internship at
DeBruce Grain Co.
www.debrucegrain.com
Visit our booth at
the Virtual Job Fair!

Want to find a job involving consumer services with interests in monitored
services and energy?
Visit our booth at the Virtual Career Fair!

Western Resources

www.ksu.edu/ces/

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 2001

11

LET'S RENT

101
Rental Wanted

WANTED TO SUBLEASE One-bedroom apartment to sub/short-term lease August 1 - December 31, 2001 539-6484

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartment. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE NOW. TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $530 Call 785-456-2812

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets 776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

"LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION" Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

WELL MAINTAINED, one-eight-bedroom houses, and apartments, also studio apartments. central air, washer/ dryer near K-State June or August lease, (785)539-0549.

145
Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please. Great two-bedroom apartment, $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan, (785)537-7228.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

145
Roommate Wanted

Roommate Wanted

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190, (785)232-0454.

"THE GREATEST SUMMER of your life! Camp Pontiac, a premier overnight camp in New York is hiring enthusiastic and mature individuals that have skills in: Basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball/ softball, golf, swimming, sailing, ropes/ climbing wall, gymnastics, art, drama, lacrosse, football, volleyball and video/ web design. Information and interviews February 15th, E m a i l campontiac@hotmail.com to set up an interview.

ARTISTS/ ART Students: Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltank@aol.com

COUNSELORS WANTED for a Colorado camp in the heart of the Rocky Mountains. Camp Timberline is a Christian sports and mountain adventure camp in Estes Park, CO. Looking for enthusiastic, energetic, individuals who have a passion for children (7-18 years) and have experience in coaching sports and/or wilderness activities. Stop by and see us in the Student Center on February 12 between 1-5pm. Would love to meet you and share more about the incredible opportunity that could be awaiting you this summer!! www.camptimberline.com

CRUISE LINE- entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisecareer.com

DO YOU like children? If this is for you, I am looking for a helper for my in-home daycare. Hours vary. If interested please call Melissa at 776-3543.

DO YOU LOVE CANDLES? Do you believe that work can be fun? It can be! Begin your own business selling candles and accessories through home parties. Earn an average $35/ hour. No experience necessary. No inventory or delivery. Email Sheri at: slp1645@aol.com

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall, pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary- Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2820.

K-STATE ARCHITECTURE or planning student wanted to work on 8-week summer preservation/ design project in Liberal, Kan. $2,500 pay plus $500 scholarship. Call Joy at 532-5701.

K-STATE SOCIAL science, economics or planning student wanted to work on 8-week summer development project in Burrton, Kan. $2,500 pay plus $500 scholarship. Call Joy at 532-5701.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people who are experiencing social difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at: (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: bucksin@spacestar.net or v l s n e t

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@campl laurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.campl laurel.com

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@ruralnet.net

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.

310
Help Wanted

Leading pharmaceutical company seeking Manager Trainee at our Manhattan Center. Training duties include oversight of the operations of the center and staff, indirectly supervising and motivating employees, and reporting weekly records. College degree in business administration or biological sciences preferred, but extensive work experience may be substituted for degree. Must be willing to relocate after training. Contact Darrin Wildman (785)776-9177

PART-TIME STUDENT must be self-motivated, willing to learn, and work flexible hours. Pay negotiable. Persons at all levels of technical ability seeking challenging position with no limits on growth, apply at KSU Telecommunications, East Stadium Room 109 and/ or e m a i l beemern@telecom.ksu.edu

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)444-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27- July 29. Program offers horseback riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application/ information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Hotz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.k.s.u.-e.d.u/c.s.s Applications available at our website www.camptowanda.com Additional information at (800)923-2267.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people who are experiencing social difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at: (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: bucksin@spacestar.net or v l s n e t

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@campl laurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.campl laurel.com

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@ruralnet.net

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.

Leading pharmaceutical company seeking Manager Trainee at our Manhattan Center. Training duties include oversight of the operations of the center and staff, indirectly supervising and motivating employees, and reporting weekly records. College degree in business administration or biological sciences preferred, but extensive work experience may be substituted for degree. Must be willing to relocate after training. Contact Darrin Wildman (785)776-9177

PART-TIME STUDENT must be self-motivated, willing to learn, and work flexible hours. Pay negotiable. Persons at all levels of technical ability seeking challenging position with no limits on growth, apply at KSU Telecommunications, East Stadium Room 109 and/ or e m a i l beemern@telecom.ksu.edu

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)444-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27- July 29. Program offers horseback riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application/ information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people who are experiencing social difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at: (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: bucksin@spacestar.net or v l s n e t

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@campl laurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.campl laurel.com

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@ruralnet.net

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.

310
Help Wanted

Leading pharmaceutical company seeking Manager Trainee at our Manhattan Center. Training duties include oversight of the operations of the center and staff, indirectly supervising and motivating employees, and reporting weekly records. College degree in business administration or biological sciences preferred, but extensive work experience may be substituted for degree. Must be willing to relocate after training. Contact Darrin Wildman (785)776-9177

PART-TIME STUDENT must be self-motivated, willing to learn, and work flexible hours. Pay negotiable. Persons at all levels of technical ability seeking challenging position with no limits on growth, apply at KSU Telecommunications, East Stadium Room 109 and/ or e m a i l beemern@telecom.ksu.edu

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)444-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27- July 29. Program offers horseback riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application/ information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Hotz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.k.s.u.-e.d.u/c.s.s Applications available at our website www.camptowanda.com Additional information at (800)923-2267.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people who are experiencing social difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at: (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: bucksin@spacestar.net or v l s n e t

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@campl laurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.campl laurel.com

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@ruralnet.net

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.

Leading pharmaceutical company seeking Manager Trainee at our Manhattan Center. Training duties include oversight of the operations of the center and staff, indirectly supervising and motivating employees, and reporting weekly records. College degree in business administration or biological sciences preferred, but extensive work experience may be substituted for degree. Must be willing to relocate after training. Contact Darrin Wildman (785)776-9177

PART-TIME STUDENT must be self-motivated, willing to learn, and work flexible hours. Pay negotiable. Persons at all levels of technical ability seeking challenging position with no limits on growth, apply at KSU Telecommunications, East Stadium Room 109 and/ or e m a i l beemern@telecom.ksu.edu

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)444-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27- July 29. Program offers horseback riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application/ information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people who are experiencing social difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at: (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: bucksin@spacestar.net or v l s n e t

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@campl laurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.campl laurel.com

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@ruralnet.net

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.

510
Automobiles

FOR SALE: 1993 Ford Taurus GL, 3.8 V-6, full options, six disc CD changer, $3300. 776-4662.

600 travel/ trips

630
Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlessummtours.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen). Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com.

330
Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

435

Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160, www.ksulaptops.com

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1992 FORD Ranger XLT pickup. Manual, tilt, cruise. Call 537-0456 after 5:00 pm

1992 THUNDERBIRD. Power doors, windows, seats, 136,000 mostly highway miles. Excellent condition, $2700 or best offer. (785) 395-1511

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

'91 HONDA Prelude, 2.0 Si, one owner, 130K, white with black interior, AC, sunroof, cruise, good tires, clean, $4450. (785) 587-8615.

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $7.35
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $8.65
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $10.15
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $11.25
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $12.25
each word over 20 40¢ per word (consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

SCUBA LEARN to scuba dive at the areas only, PADI approved dive centers. Join the fun, get certified for spring break and summer. Call Creative Travel and Scuba at 539-0531.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

LOST: GOLD Omega chain necklace. Call 395-2690 ext. 327. Reward given.

LOST: MENS gold wedding band, possibly near Ahearn. Call 565-8614.

030
Personals

100
housing/ real estate

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

105
For Rent-Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Summer lease only. $600 month including all utilities, washer/ dryer. Call 341-5401.

105
For Rent-Apts. Furnished

WOODWAY MARKETING

Welcome Home

- Sparkling swimming pool
- Spacious deck patios
- Avail. June 5 and Aug 6
- Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
- On-site laundry facilities
- Economical gas heat

Office: 2400 Kimball Ave. at College Ave. (across from Broadgate)

Call Sara at 537-7007 for an appointment.

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

EXTRA NICE two-bedroom, with washer and dryer hookups. No pets. $425/ month. 539-2356

FURNISHED OR unfurnished for August. Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment. 350 N. 16th, 1230 Clafin. $510. Also for June and August. Large one-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $450. Heat, water, trash three/ four paid laundry mat 539-2482.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March 1854/ 1858 Clafin. $385- $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3804

2220/ MONTH- utilities included. 1870 College Heights A- House. Contact Gina at 537-7701.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share very nice two-bedroom townhouse. $250/ month plus one-half utilities. Call Sophia, 776-3979, or 532-6745.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Two-bedroom apartment with dishwasher, washer and dryer. Central heat and air. $217 monthly, plus half utilities. 537-0489.

ONE BEDROOM in two-bedroom apartment. Ten minute walk to Aggieville and campus. $237.50/ month. 537-3320.

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

Leasing Now For August

- Cambridge Square
- Sandstone Apts.
- 1114 Fremont
- 2000 College Hgts.
- 519 Osage
- Fireplaces Carports
- Pool Private Deck
- Laundry Facilities
- Large 2-bedroom Units

CALL NOW 537-9064

SURVIVOR

■ continued from page 1

action figures sits on the front desk at Moore. Each figure represents one of the participants. If any of the participants are caught smoking on the front porch, on campus or anywhere in Manhattan, they have to ring a bell at the front desk and place their figure face down in the sand.

So far only one of the participants has failed to meet the challenge. Sutter said he thinks the participant did not really want to take part in the program, and he had a tough experience last week.

At the end of the month, those who survive the challenge will be taken out to dinner, Sutter said. Sutter said he hopes at the end of the month they will not want to smoke any longer.

"I am hoping after a month without it, they won't crave it anymore," Sutter said.

Sarah Keck, vice president and sophomore in biology, said this last week has been the worst week of her life. Keck has been a smoker for a year, but she said she smoked a pack a day from the beginning.

"It has been absolutely awful," Keck said. "I did not think it would be hard at all. All I have done in the last week is pick out why I like to smoke."

Throughout the front hall are pictures of each of the participants and their action figures. Keck's action figure is Britney Spears. On her picture profile sheet, Keck is holding Spears with a cigarette in her mouth. The copy on the picture says, "Oops, I quit smoking again."

Jon Krasnoff, Moore president and sophomore in open-option, said his action figure is Gambit from the "X-Men." Krasnoff said he has been a smoker for three years. He said he has tried to quit many times, but this time, he said, is different because the people he usually smokes with all have quit at once.

Blaine Williams, community assistant and sophomore in computer science, said the level of support and everyone quitting at once has made it easier for him as well.

"We usually all bum cigarettes off each other, but it makes it easier for us all to quit at once so we are not all enticed to smoke," Williams said.

Williams said he thinks everyone will make it to the end of the month.

"I doubt anyone will drop out now. We have made it a week, and it is all downhill from here," Williams said.

But Williams said he thinks most everyone will begin smoking again at the end of the challenge.

"I am willing to bet at least 50 percent start smoking again," Williams said. "Seventy-five percent says I will start smoking again, but it is an effort, a step in the right direction."

Keck said if March 1 was today, she would have a cigarette. She said her cravings right now are really tough. For Keck, the challenge started as a way to quit smoking, but has turned in to a mission she must accomplish.

"I have to prove it to myself I can do it, that I have the will power to do it," Keck said. "I hope after 28 days I will quit permanently or at least cut down a lot."

Game six began, and Shepherd fidgeted in her seat.

"I'm basking in the glory of my victory that I cannot seem to pay attention," she said. "All I feel right now is glorious, just glorious."

Shepherd said she would come back for another night of bingo.

"I could always use free groceries," she said.

BINGO

■ continued from page 1

would continue to come for worthwhile prizes.

"Gift certificates are always good," she said. "Free books would be even better."

Shepherd, Lutz and Grubbles said they agreed on one item as the best prize for bingo.

"Money," Shepherd, Lutz and Grubbles said in unison.

Throughout the game, the three women kept their eyes glued to the bingo cards in hopes of winning a game.

Every time a "bingo" was shouted out, they had faces of disappointment.

"I suck at this game," Grubbles said. "Wait, how can you suck at bingo?"

Game five began, and in order to win, the player had to have a giant X across their board.

"Bingo," Shepherd said. Her face glowed with excitement.

A volunteer from the UPC Special Events committee checked over her card for an accurate Bingo.

Shepherd walked over to a table and picked out a pack of Capri Sun and a box of Star Crunch snacks. She hugged them close to her.

Shepherd shared her prizes with her friends. She turned around to her friend behind her and patted him on the back.

"I think he was my good-luck charm," she said.

KSU Department of Theatre Presents

How I Learned to Drive

a Pulitzer Prize winner

by Paula Vogel

SPECIAL TALKBACK SESSIONS IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING PERFORMANCES ON THE 8, 14 & 15

The clearer this picture gets

The better you will know this family

The more your heart will break for them

February 8-10, 14-17
Nichols Theater 8 p.m.
$6 for students/seniors
$9 general public
McCain Box Office 532-6428

CONTAINS MATURE SUBJECT MATTER

MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal
Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #15
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

4 BEDROOM

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

2700 Arhmet
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

TELEFUND

■ continued from page 1

Ron Elmer, associate dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, said he is happy about the increase in pledges.

"I think the good economy has to do with the increase," he said. "We have more and more graduates, too. More and more students graduate each year, so our pool we are calling is increasing in size which increases the number of people donating."

Elmer has been involved with the Telefund for 11 years. He said each year the event gets bigger.

"I think there is a certain magic here at K-State," he said. "Students volunteer for this event. Other institutions hire a staff to do this job. Here, the students that are calling have an invested interest. They are calling alums from their college, and the alums appreciate that. They know students are taking time out of their schedules for a good cause."

Elmer said students like to participate in the event.

"We have always had good turn out," he said. "Students have fun. They may be motivated to help because they might get a scholarship out of it — others just enjoy talking to alums. Some get contacts, too."

Second year College of Veterinary Medicine student, Carin Ramsel, volunteered at the event for the second year.

"I really had fun calling," she said. "It's a chance to talk to alumni who are familiar with what I am doing now. It's a way to also find out about jobs, internships, externships and the real world."

Dowell encouraged students to participate in the remaining days of the telefund to increase the amount of money available to them in scholarship pools.

"The more callers we have, the more people we can reach, which in turn creates more scholarship money for the students," he said. "If each of our 86 phones is busy, we will increase our profit even more. There is a direct relationship between the number of people calling and the money raised."

Make your voice

heard!

CampusFourum:
395-4444

Department of Modern Languages Kansas State University

SUMMER STUDY IN MEXICO 2001

ZACATECAS AND CUERNAVACA

MAY 24- JULY 1

INFORMATION MEETINGS WILL BE HELD ON :

Mon. Feb 12

4:30 p.m.

124 Eisenhower Hall

For more information, call the Dept. of Modern Lges., 532-6760, or contact Dr. Bradley Shaw, 532-1988 (e-mail: bradshaw@ksu.edu)

Don't Even Think About It.

Get a clue. Take advantage of the convenience of the Bookstore's Valentine's Day booth, and buy your gifts on campus. Pre-order your gifts for free on-campus delivery.

Valentine's Day Booth

Feb. 9, & 12-13 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Feb 14 7:30 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Union Main Level

Bookstore

"Your Official KSU Bookstore"

www.ksu bookstore.com
532-6583

The Women of AXΩ would like to invite the following men to Formal 2001.

Eric Underwood
Aaron Schlager
Jordan McLane
Derrick Bates
Nick Hess
Ryan Blasdel
Craig Ingelman
Jim Baxa
Troy Moore
Tommy Wilson
Jamie Aikins
Johnny Maloney
Chad Schmitz
Alan Rimbo
Josh Price
Justin More
Quint Davies
Joe Breidenbach
Chet Arasim
Paul Manbeck
Jason Reichenberger
Chris Barker
Ryan Schwarz
Aaron Graverson
Randy Shumacher

Brent Sumpter
Jon Lught
Craig Dickerson
Jonathan Fouts
Gary Gibson
James Gernetske
Jeremy Fry
Scott Bronikowski
Mike Filla
Jake Yount
Ryan Breiner
Orlando Velez
Simon Harkins
Hank Moyers
Justin Bakalar
Jon McCraw
Ryan Sanner
David Espinosa
Stephen Hobson
David Harder
Adam Weiden
Tony Stillwell
Daniel Imming
Chris Post
Adam Hemmer

Ryan Weyrauch
Dave Poe
Mike Marti
Justin Cinnamon
Luke Pearse
Rob Peeke
Sean Kilmer
Sol Pettit-Scott
Andy Argubright
Sean McCaffery
John Beverlin
Kenny Johnson
Kent Crane
Andy Eby
James Wilkerson
Ben Weber
Miles Samuels
Nick Linderer
Michael Ohnsat
Richie Smedes
Chad Fox
David Workman
Brian Karlin
Branden Bock
Nathaniel Sperry
Branton Smith

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 50 ■ LOW 25

MONDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 12, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 96

Basketball stars perform antics in Bramlage
■ page 3

Baseball team wins, sets record

K-State Sports Information

BATON ROUGE, La. — K-State's baseball team made history Saturday by defeating No. 3 LSU 9-8 before 7,467 fans at Alex Box Stadium.

The Cats used a six-run fourth inning, highlighted by senior designated hitter Josh Cavender's two RBI double, then staved off a late LSU rally with solid pitching and defense for the victory in the first game of a double-header. The win was K-State's first over a ranked team this season and the highest ever achieved in the program's 101-year history.

"I thought we played great today," head coach Mike Clark said. "To come in here against the defending national champion on their home field and take the season opener is definitely a defining moment in my 15 years here."

The victory took special meaning, considering LSU was favored heavily over the Cats.

"The team was excited and enthusiastic about playing such a quality opponent in LSU," Cavender said. "We look forward to playing games like this. I think today we showed everyone on this team that we are capable of reaching the goals that we set."

Cavender led the team offensively in game one with a career-tying four RBI on his 3-for-5 afternoon, while senior outfielder Kasey Weishaar added a 3-for-5 performance with a pair of doubles, two runs scored and a RBI. Shortstop Osmar Castillo continued his impressive play with his 2-for-4 day with a team-high three runs scored.

The Cats opened the first inning with a single by Castillo followed by a double by Weishaar. With two outs and runners on second and third, Cavender gave K-State its first lead with a single to center field that scored both runners. LSU cut the lead in the bottom of the inning as second baseman Aaron Hill singled home lead-off hitter Ryan Theriot.

See BASEBALL on PAGE 10

Court ruling to determine Napster's use

By RON HARRIS
The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — Major record labels hope Monday's long-awaited appellate court ruling in their case against Napster Inc. will force millions of computer users to pay for music the online music-swapping service has allowed them to get for free.

But if Napster wins, the ruling could unleash many other ventures that have been waiting for guidance on whether a personal use exception to copyright law allows or prohibits trading songs over the Internet.

Even if Napster loses, the technology it introduced is here to stay, particularly in an industry that both loathes and loves getting music to consumers via the Internet and is developing a range of pay-for-play schemes.

"Monday's decision may finally clear the way for the legitimate online marketplace to thrive in an environment that encourages both creativity and a respect for copyright," Hilary Rosen, president of the Recording Industry Association of America, said in a statement Friday.

The five largest record labels — Sony, Warner, BMG, EMI and Universal — sued as soon as the Redwood City-based service took off, saying it could rob them of billions of dollars in profits.

The issue before the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals is whether to uphold U.S. District Judge Marilyn Hall Patel's injunction ordering Napster to shut down pending a trial on the music industry lawsuit. The injunction was

See HONOR on PAGE 10

SNOW DAY

Wefald closes university for 1st time during his tenure due to weather

Chris Faulkner, sophomore in business administration, has been snow boarding for nine years. Faulkner spent his snow day Friday snow boarding off hay-bale ramps at Cico Park in Manhattan. Faulkner is leading a group of students to Crested Butte, Colo., for snowboarding with the Union Program Council over spring break.

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

Students spend free day relaxing, playing outdoors

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Erin Howerton, senior in English, said she was in disbelief when she heard school had been canceled Friday.

"I really couldn't believe it," she said. "I remember a couple years ago it was really icy, nowhere near this bad, but we were still disappointed when school wasn't canceled."

Howerton said she took advantage of the morning by relaxing and staying warm in her apartment, but by afternoon, she was ready to get out.

"A friend and I decided to play in the snow," she said. "In front of Anderson, the tractor that clears the parking lots leaves huge piles of snow that are perfect for building things in."

eONLINE

See more snow photos from Friday online at www.kstatecollegian.com into the side of the snow pile.

"It was really creative," Howerton said. "We decorated the outside with pine cones afterwards."

Other students opted to spend the day inside.

"I just stayed in and caught up on my homework," Jeff Shelton, junior in Howerton designed a slide that went from the top of the mound to the bottom.

"It was a lot of fun for a while," she said.

Her friend, Denise Walker, senior in psychology, carved a cave

Zak Dubree, 7, builds a snow cave in front of his house Friday afternoon after a storm dumped more than 6 inches of snow on the area overnight.

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

See SNOW on PAGE 10

KSU Honor System gains more support from students, faculty

By JAMIE BARRETT
Kansas State Collegian

Sally Bailey, assistant professor of theater, always has considered herself to be an honest person.

So when she discovered a student in her Creative Dramatics class was cheating, she was shocked.

"I was just completely taken aback at first," Bailey said. "The first thing I thought to do was to turn him in to the Honor System."

The Honor System has been in place at K-State since fall 1999. Phil Anderson, director of the Honor System, said K-State adopted it after a cheating incident that turned into such an ordeal that it drew news coverage.

"About five or six years ago, there was a cheating scandal in a survey class concerning about 100 students," Anderson said. "After K-State made the news with the incident, administration decided we needed something to combat the problem."

What a team of faculty and students ended up with was the KSU Undergraduate Honor System.

The system applies to all students enrolled in undergraduate courses. An honor pledge that states, "On my honor, as a student, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid on this academic work," is implied on all course work whether or not it is stated. Both faculty and students have the option to turn in those who violate the pledge.

Anderson said the system took nearly five years to be approved through Student and Faculty senates.

"There was a lot of cynicism from students about the system at first," he said. "Students are far more aware of what is going on than the faculty is. We have had a significant gain in support from faculty and students both."

Anderson said that in the year and a half the system has been in tact, it has received increasing amounts of recognition.

"The number of cases we have each semester is gradually increasing," Anderson said. "When a student gets in trouble for cheating they are given an XF for the course. Now, they are also required to take an academic integrity course."

The course is taught by Helene Marcoux, graduate student in student counseling and personal services, and is intended to help the student think about ethics and values. Marcoux said the course has been successful in helping the students who have taken it.

"All people have to handle ethical decisions throughout their lives," Marcoux said. "We take a non-judgmental approach to helping people, and every student I have had said that it was a good experience for them to go through."

Marcoux said the Honor System is not out to persecute completely students who are caught cheating; it is there to help them learn from their mistakes and make a fresh start.

"We believe in what we are doing," she said.

See HONOR on PAGE 10

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jlb7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb304@ksu.edu
Kelly Glasscock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
sigma7@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
revell@intelligencia.com
Bryan Scribner
bts9639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jlb7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
neh662@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nf1480@ksu.edu
Michael Noll
mtr555@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jdd662@ksu.edu
Erin Schneeweis
ers878@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm662@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
che766@ksu.edu
Danny Elsworth
deo091@ksu.edu
Allison Duncan
aad084@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
err1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
(ISSN 291 029), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kotlan 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

Shuttle Atlantis installs Destiny at space station

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Wearing goggles and red, white and blue socks, two space commanders opened the door Sunday to Destiny, the American-made science laboratory and the newest and priciest addition to the international space station.

The moment the hatch was raised by astronauts Bill Shepherd and Kenneth Cockrell, space station Alpha became the largest orbiting outpost ever in terms of habitable volume.

"The lab looks and feels and smells great, and looks like all the hard work has really paid off," said Cockrell, space shuttle Atlantis' skipper. "It's a beautiful piece of hardware in here."

Replied Mission Control: "It looks awesome. We hope you guys enjoy your new room on your house."

The house actually belongs to Shepherd, the commander of space station Alpha, and his two Russian crewmates. In a brief ceremony, Shepherd signed for the delivery of the $1.4-billion laboratory, which was installed by the visiting shuttle astronauts on Saturday.

Shepherd led the way into the Destiny laboratory, followed by Cockrell and the six other space-farers. They wore goggles until they were sure no debris was floating inside.

The six Americans wore socks that had red and white stripes from the ankle down, and white stars on a blue background from the ankle up.

Destiny — 28 feet long and 14 feet in diameter — was a brilliant white inside. Its shelves and wall compartments were covered with strips of protective cloth that the astronauts and cosmonauts promptly removed. Underneath were spotless white walls running the length of the module and a bright blue wall on one end and matching blue handrails.

On one of the wall covers were a couple hundred signatures of those who had prepared Destiny for flight, along with these words: "Dreams are like stars; You choose them as your guides, and following them, you reach your Destiny."

— The Associated Press

Japanese boat captain discusses Navy tragedy

HONOLULU — His head bowed and eyes filled with tears, a Japanese fishing boat captain described the terrifying minutes after a U.S. submarine smashed into his boat and caused it to sink into the waters off Hawaii.

"The ship went down without tilting, almost straight down," Hisao Onishi, captain of the Japanese fishing vessel Ehime Maru, said Saturday. "We couldn't get the life rafts out and were washed into the sea."

In his first public remarks since Friday's tragedy, Onishi expressed anguish over the nine people who are still missing and disbelief at how long it took for the 26 survivors to be rescued after their boat was struck by the USS Greeneville.

"We did our best to find other survivors," Onishi told reporters in Japanese. "We just couldn't find the nine missing."

On Sunday, Coast Guard rescue teams were continuing to search the waters for three crew members, two teachers and four students from Uwajima Fisheries High School in southwestern Japan.

Five aircraft and four vessels were sweeping a 4,000-square-mile area, said Coast Guard Chief Mike Cobb of the Joint Resource Coordination Center.

Search conditions were excellent on Sunday, with winds at 5 to 10 knots and seas between 1 to 2 feet, Cobb said.

Onishi, 58, recounted how an ordinary fishing expedition in good weather turned tragic when the nuclear-powered attack submarine surfaced under his ship.

"There was a violent collision, or I should say there was a very loud noise and a jolt that seemed to lift our stern up," Onishi said. "We heard two cracking noises. I could not see any other ships in the area, and I looked around, thinking we might have hit a floating object."

The submarine was on a routine one-day training mission Friday afternoon when it surfaced, splitting open the Ehime Maru and sinking it within 10 minutes.

The survivors waited 50 minutes to be plucked from the waters.

A Coast Guard helicopter and plane reached the scene about 35 minutes after the collision. Patrol boats that rescued the 26 survivors arrived about 15 minutes later, said Coast Guard spokesman Lt. Greg Fondran.

The Navy and the National Transportation Safety Board are investigating what went wrong as the 360-foot, 6,900-ton Greeneville practiced an emergency surfacing maneuver that put it on a collision course with the Japanese boat.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ Finance Club will meet at 7 tonight in the Union Big 12 Room.

■ Individuals For Free Thought will have a Darwin Day Panel Presentation at 7 tonight in Union 212. Darwin's life, discoveries, theories and contributions to science will be presented.

■ KSU Aikido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.

■ Christian Science Organization will meet at 5:30 p.m. today in Danforth Chapel.

■ Marketing Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Kedzie 106.

■ KSU Karate Club is beginning classes in Okinawa Goju-ryu Karatedo Tuesday and Thursday. Call Charlene at 776-2112 or Roy at 395-2037 for more information.

■ The registration deadline for Career and Employment Services' Dining Etiquette Workshop is Tuesday. The workshop will be at 5:30 p.m. March 1 in the Derby Dining Center. Professional business attire is required. The cost is $5.25 per person or meal exchange for students with a K-State meal plan.

■ Career and Employment Services will conduct a résumé-critique workshop from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Wednesday in Holtz Hall.

■ Chimes Junior Honorary applications and scholarship applications are now available in the Office of Student Activities and Services. The applications are due at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

■ Homecoming Student Committee applications can be picked up at the Office of Student Activities and Services. Applications are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 23 at the KSU Alumni Association, 2323

Anderson Ave., Suite 400.
■ Can't use your e-mail? Reactivate your ID at www.ksu.edu/activateID.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County

Thursday, Feb. 8

■ At 11:38 a.m., Jeremy J. Wilson, 109 S. 5th St., was arrested for criminal trespassing and obstruction of the legal process.

■ At 3:19 p.m., Michael Bundy, 3000 Tuttle Creek Blvd., was arrested for lewd and lascivious behavior.

■ At 8:13 p.m., James R. McAllister, 2014 Seaton, was arrested for aggravated liberties.

■ At 9:11 p.m., Benjamin J. Abrams, 1408 Hartford Road, was arrested for failure to appear.

Friday, Feb. 9

■ At 5:45 p.m., Caroline L. Germann, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear.

■ At 11:29 p.m., Joshua C. Tarpenning, 1431 Poyntz Ave., was arrested for unlawful possession.

Saturday, Feb. 10

■ At 1:41 a.m., Michael J. Dengenik, 1817 College Heights, was arrested for battery.

■ At 2:16 a.m., Jeffery A. Gardner, 1950 Hunting Ave., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 2:28 a.m., Ronald A. Pickett, 2400 Stag Hill Road, was arrested for DUI.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

Order your yearbook.

kstatecollegian.com

Self-Serve
All it takes is a nickel
Clafin Books and Copies

STUDENTS

Your student government leadership wanted you to pay a few more $$ per semester to build a new services building.

85% if you said NO!

Now, your student leadership wants a rental inspection program that may cost apartment residents $10 per month.

Come to the Manhattan City Commission work session at City Hall, City Commission Chambers TUESDAY, FEB. 14 at 5 p.m.

TELL THEM NO AGAIN

Horticulture Club V-day Rose Sale

February 14
in the Throckmorton Lobby
at 8 a.m. (while supplies last)

Single wrapped - $5.00
Single vase - $8.00
Dozen - $45.00

FEBRUARY SPECIALS

10% off gift certificates
$65 women's highlight add a cut for $10
$25 Men's highlight & cut
$5 off any spa service
$6 Brow wax

CRIMPERS HAIR STUDIO
"where the style makes you not breaks you"

717 N. 11th St. 539-7621

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.

DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.

Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)

DMS Bail Bonds

"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

Kistner's Flowers

Cross over the bridge, and we are a mile south of the mall on Highway 177 South

Cash and Carry

ROSES $30

a dozen
including tax, baby's breath, greenery, & water tubes

Cut flower vases and bouquets
Blooming and green plants
Balloons and stuffed animals
Tulips (10 stem bunch) $10
Mixed flower bunches $6

SERVING MANHATTAN AND K-STATE SINCE 1974
SEE OUR FLOWERS IN THE UNION BOOKSTORE

Open: Friday 8 - 5:30; Saturday 8 - 5
Sunday 12 - 5; Monday 8 - 6
Call 776-7989 or 776-7044

Apply to be a 2001 Summer Orientation Leader

Enthusiastic, motivated leaders are needed to assist new Wildcats in their transition to the university.

Applications and additional information available at New Student Services, 1 Anderson Hall or call Susan at 532-6318

Application deadline:
Wednesday, February 28, 2001

HUNGRY? WE'VE GOT FOOD

Beat the Clock

1:45 - 2:00 p.m. Mon. - Fri.
GET A 20% discount at the K-State Student Union Food Court.

(Limited time offer does not apply to Burger King, Taco Bell, Chick-fil-A & Manchu Wok)

11:00 to 11:30 a.m. Mon. - Fri.
Eat at BLUEMONT BUFFET on the 2nd floor for $5.95
(Normally $6.50 with tax. Does not include Valentine's Buffet)

WANT AN ALTERNATIVE TO FAST FOOD?

Heat n' Eat

A grab n' go meal, cold sandwiches, desserts, & more. Look for the display next to the juke box in the Union Food Court after 2 pm. Mmmmm...good!

Basketball stars trot the globe

Top: Paul "Showtime" Gaffney, a player for the Harlem Globetrotters, taunts the fans and players after stealing the ball Friday night at Bramlage Coliseum. KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Right: Paul "Showtime" Gaffney keeps the ball away from the referee during a free throw Friday night in Bramlage Coliseum. Gaffney wore a microphone and interacted with the crowd during the Globetrotters win over the New York Nationals. MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Audience members participate, enjoy performance

By ALISON VRTISKA
Kansas State Collegian

Despite blizzard-like conditions, the Harlem Globetrotters and their traveling opponents, the New York Nationals, arrived at Bramlage Coliseum on Friday.

"The weather really slowed us down," said John Kilgore, bus driver for the Harlem Globetrotters. "It was supposed to be about a four-hour drive, and it took us six because of the ice."

Fans didn't let the snow and ice keep them from seeing the Globetrotters, either.

"My kids had never seen them before, and I kept telling them, 'You'll love it,'" Grace Baggett, Manhattan resident, said. "They are really enjoying themselves. They have been looking forward to this for a long time."

The Globetrotters are seven weeks into a three-month tour, which began Dec. 25. This tour is part of their 75th-anniversary season. Since 1927, the team has been combining basketball and comedy on the court.

The team and crew have performances every day and sometimes twice a day. The team also practices two hours a day.

All the physical activity is strenuous on the players, said Dan Pickett, Harlem Globetrotters athletic trainer.

"It is a pretty physical game out there," Pickett said.

"People look at it and think it is all just fun, but injuries occur out there just as frequently as in the NBA."

The players exhibited their skill through a skit, which was in a basketball-game setting.

"The slam dunks and half-court shots are not tricks," Pickett said. "A trick is something that is made up. That out on the court, that is athletic skill."

A large portion of the show includes audience participation. Team members chose children and adults from the audience and made them part of the show. Paul "Showtime" Gaffney, No. 32 and star of the show, decided to take Baggett's purse from her and carry it around during the game. He then brought her out onto the court, and the two of them danced.

"I was so surprised when he started talking to me," Baggett said. "I was thinking, 'Oh no, what is he going to do?' It was a lot of fun."

After completing their U.S. tour, the group will have a few weeks off before heading to Europe. Although the schedule is rough, Pickett, who has been with the team for four years, said he will continue to travel for as long as he is able.

"When you are having lunch at a foreign embassy with a United States ambassador or are onstage as Santana's special guest in Croatia or having a casual conversation with the vice president of the United States — it is hard to think about giving that up," Pickett said.

Get
Carded

Use your Wildcat card
and support the K-State
Alumni Association.

Official Visa®
Wildcat Card.

Apply today.

www.intrustbank.com

630 Humboldt/Manhattan
(785) 565-5400
1-800-222-7458

YES YOU CAN. INTRUST.

Member FDIC

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS

TODAY THROUGH THURSDAY ONLY!!

The following employers have listed intern, summer or co-op positions in the Virtual Career Fair. You may view company profiles and job descriptions, as well as send your resume directly to the employer from the Career & Employment Services (CES) website, www.ksu.edu/ces. You must be registered with CES to participate.

Feb. 9-15: Employers Listing Intern, Summer, & Co-op Positions

Associated Electric Cooperative, Inc.	Kiewit Construction Company
Bank of America	Land O'Lakes Farmland Food, LLC
Brant Lake Camp	Lockheed Martin Aeronautics
Brookover Feed Yards	LSI Logic Storage System
Burns & McDonnell	May Hoffman McCann, LC
Cal-Maine Foods	Microsoft Corp.
Camp Towanda	Northwestern Mutual Financial Network-Ertz
CCH Incorporated	Agency
Cintas Corp.	Point O'Pines Camp for Girls
Citgo Petroleum Corporation	Production Advisory Services, Inc.
City of Topeka	Security Benefit Group of Companies
DeBruce Grain Co.	Sedgwick County Public Works
Deloitte & Touche	Sherwin Williams Co.
Enterprise Rent-A-Car	Six Flags Elitch Gardens
Geoprobe Systems	Sprint
George Butler Associates, Inc.	St. Louis ARC
GeoSystems Engineering, Inc.	Stone & Ward, Inc.
Geotechnical Services, Inc.	Target Stores
Honeywell	The Country Club at Lake MacGregor
Hormel Foods Corporation	Tidestone Technologies, Inc.
IFR Systems, Inc.	Turner Construction Company
Jeld-Wen	Western Resources
Kansas Department of Transportation	Worlds of Fun
Kaydon Fluid Power-Great Bend Industries

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2001

e ONLINE
Read Lorena Barboza's column in English and Spanish at www.kstatecollegian.com.

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

Restrictions on Kansas Lottery unnecessary

The Kansas Lottery should not be scratched.

Recently the Kansas Legislature has decided to vote on the continuation of the lottery.

The bill would keep the lottery in operation until July 1, 2008, but place operation restrictions on it. Under the current law, the lottery would end July 1, 2002.

The restrictions would prohibit individuals from paying for tickets with credit cards and ban the Internet from advertising the lottery.

There should be no restrictions on the lottery.

The lottery raises an estimated $60 million that is used for economic development, prison maintenance and education programs.

Those who support this bill say it will help with addiction and that the $4 million airport incentive included in the bill will help Wichita attract a discount airline. Originally the bill was supposed to be voted on last week, but it was postponed for changes and for a better look at the details.

While the discount airline would be a bonus, it should not govern a program that assists so many other organizations and programs.

The Kansas Lottery is a tax only on those who choose to play. It is a tax that helps everyone.

► OUR VIEW
is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari

Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson

Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner

News Editor

Erin Schneweis

Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull

Campus Editor

Nancy Foster

City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan

Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll

Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crable

Copy Chief

Sara Martin

Design Editor

Jamie Barrett

Online News Editor

Travis Weigel

Columnist

Left brain

Right brain

Fundamental physics laws mystifying to those accustomed to grammatical arcana

OK, so here it is. I am an English major, right? I love English.

Every day, I go to class and I learn about things such as subjunctive phrases, adverbial clauses and negative gerunds. And this stuff makes sense to me. It makes my world seem stable and predictable. Nothing is more comforting to me than discovering the original derivatives of modern words, or using satirical syntax in order to truly understand a poem. So, as I advance in my studies, and have more and more English classes, I am falling into a peaceful world made perfect by grammatical accuracy. Ah, I am at ease.

Well, I would be at ease, except for one complicated glitch that occurs in my otherwise smooth schedule. What is this glitch, you might ask? What is making my semester overwhelmingly difficult? P-World. Yes, P-world. Physics 110.

It is not that the class is boring. On the contrary, in fact, I find the lectures to be very exciting and entertaining. And it is not that the assignments are that hard, because once I figure out which number goes in what equation, it is really quite simple. You know what it is about physics that is so complicated? The basic concepts behind it all.

Get this. The other day I was sitting in class and we were discussing natural forces or something else relevant. And then, out of nowhere, my professor proceeded to tell me (and the rest of the class) that when we are walking down the sidewalk we are not responsible for our own movement ... the sidewalk is. Really.

Let me run this by you again. Apparently, friction or gravity or normal force or something else is actually responsible for propelling us forward. No joke. And obviously, I am not good at science, but I did take anatomy and physiology in high school, and I remember enough to know that there are like a million muscles in each leg, which somehow I falsely assumed were responsible for that motion.

Now, I have a roommate who is in architectural engineering and she has taken a construction materials class and has verified the fact that sidewalk concrete contains absolutely no muscle tissue. None. Yet, still it is responsible for our movement? Right. Can anyone explain that to me?

OK, well, let's assume that I can somehow comprehend this. Here is something even crazier that absolutely blows my mind: a couple of weeks ago, my professor actually propelled a pencil through a piece of plywood. No kidding. How did he do this? Well, I am not really sure, but it had something to do with a cylindrical-shaped piece of glass called a "vacuum tube" and a lot of other fancy terms that previously did not exist in my vocabulary. Do you even understand the ramifications of such a gadget?

Now here is what I am thinking. Physics of such an advanced caliber could be extremely dangerous, and I don't think that it should necessarily be taught in schools.

I mean, could you imagine what would have happened if the Russians had caught wind of this "vacuum tube" thing during the Cold War? It could have been disastrous. What would have stopped them from covering the entire United States with a piece of cylindrical glass and bombarding each and every one of us with office supplies? If a pencil could puncture plywood, imagine what a compass could do to the White House!

I mean, seriously, this craziness has got to stop. I fall asleep every night pondering if it is really me lying on my bed, or if it is just gravity holding me down. What if it is gravity? And at some point, what if that gravity becomes so strong that I can no longer resist it and I become immobile? The next thing I know a pencil will be careering toward my forehead, and I won't be able to do anything to stop it.

The laws of physics leave me with absolutely no control over the rest of my life. Scary, scary stuff.

Physics is complicated. Very, very complicated. And I do not think that it should be approached in the lighthearted manner that many scientifically minded people seemed to be accustomed to.

So, anyway, for all you physics majors, I know this stuff makes sense to you, the way that alveolar retroflex and alliteration make sense to me.

So maybe we could help each other out. If any of you out there are needing help in your Expository Writing classes, give me a call. I have a P-World test coming up. Maybe we could work something out...

Keira is a sophomore in English. You can e-mail her at KeiraNeelea@hotmail.com.

KEIRA N. MANN

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

I can't remember the last time I went to 75 percent of my classes in one week. Should I be worried?

Hey, "Monkey Boy," "The Wizard of Oz" called, and they want their script back.

I don't understand why Carmike is having problems. I mean, what college student wouldn't want to spend $6.75 on a movie ticket?

I'm tired of my roommates complaining that they have no money, even though their parents send them checks every month. Sorry, you're in college now, and you need to grow up.

It's no mystery to anybody why Carmike Cinemas is in financial problems. Just go to the movies and prepare to whip out your Visa card.

I just wanted to provide a public service and tell everyone not to bother going to the student attorney.

Good call on the snow day, Dr. Wefald.

School's canceled? What happened, did we beat Texas?

It's Saturday afternoon, and I just drove by campus, and I think you guys are blowing this parking problem way out of proportion.

This is really the girl with the flaming heart tattoo. I just wanted to say that I didn't put that in the forum. And no, I do not have a boyfriend.

Who is dumb enough to rob Dollar General and then not get any money out of the deal?

Question for Tuesday: Why do you think Nicole Kidman and Tom Cruise separated?

Reasons behind artwork's removal simple, disturbing

There's no need to panic. The sculptures of human genitals that mysteriously disappeared last week from the art show in the K-State Student Union weren't stolen by international art smugglers. You can rest assured international art smugglers only exist in James Bond movies.

For that matter, they weren't stolen at all.

By now you've probably heard about the notorious anatomical sculptures that were displayed prominently in the Union art gallery. You've also probably been made aware that a week after the student show opened, the three pieces vanished, leaving a conspicuous vacancy in the southeast corner of the gallery.

Sound like a set-up? Surely we weren't supposed to believe something this clichéd and archaic could happen on K-State's campus in the 21st century.

There's no way puritan censorship could rule less than 20 yards from the free-speech zone, so it must be some kind of test, right? This came straight from the "you've-got-to-be-kidding-me" file, so they're just waiting for us to take the bait. The whole thing is actually the master's thesis of some grad student in sociology.

I'll admit I was among the first to take the bait, and I was about to blow the whistle when I met the sculptor in question.

The artist is MFA student Jody Kingery-Page, a classy, clear-headed fellow who made the decision to pull the sculptures himself — with a little pressure.

Here's the lowdown: the good folks at Union Program Council (no sarcasm there; the Union has always advocated student art and will continue to do so) were asked by powers unknown to move the provocative sculptures toward the back of the gallery, so as not to scandalize high school and middle school students visiting the campus.

When Kingery-Page's teacher and personal mentor Dan Hunt delivered the news, he decided the best road to take would be to remove the work altogether and say no more about it.

This plan would have worked fine if everyone who had seen the original show were willing to comply with the "say-no-more-about-it" clause. So can thousands of K-State students, faculty and staff all manage to keep it to themselves?

Don't count on it. The penis fountain was the unofficial centerpiece of the student show before it was removed. Once the font and its two companion pieces were extracted, they became the hottest item in the Union since the announcement that we were getting a Chick fil-A.

Students who had already strolled through the gallery more than once returned yet again, this time to scribble angry responses in a book allotted for comments about the work still on display.

Too bad for the artists whose work is still there.

After five years on campus, the student art currently on display is finest that I can remember. Ever. The outstanding quality of K-State's sculpture department is practically a secret for most of the year, so thank goodness the recently renovated Union space can showcase them on occasion. Provided they don't sculpt genitals.

We can't have a scandal until someone deems a situation scandalous.

The sad reality is that Kingery-Page's work, which was displayed to fine praise and not so much as a suspicious glance last year at Lindsborg's non-secular Bethany College, came packaged with a hair trigger. Beguiling to the point of discomfort, his pieces were doomed from the day the show opened, destined to disappear the first time someone raised an eyebrow.

As for the impressionable students visiting our campus, the message seems to be "Come to K-State! Be an artist! Don't be afraid to express yourself! And don't ever make us uncomfortable, or else we'll put you in the back!"

Kingery-Page's decision to withdraw was ultimately a wise one, as he did not want to make waves for his fellow sculptors or his department. Meanwhile, he has bigger fish to fry. In addition to working on his MFA show, he and his wife, Mary, became parents for the first time two weeks ago. With fine work in his personal collection and a new baby girl in his life, Kingery-Page is an artist on more than one level.

He's the real thing, so he can afford to take the moral high ground.

Meanwhile, the student sculpture show has another week left in the Union, and it's dynamite.

If you haven't yet had the chance, you should take the opportunity to marvel at the work of your fellow students. These artists are probably going places, so you should get a peek while they're still working for free. Soon we might not be able to afford them.

So I suppose this story almost has a happy ending. If Kingery-Page's work were still on display everything would be just about perfect. But the sobering point of the story is that his work is gone and not without reason. Everybody's loss.

Christopher is a senior in theater. You can e-mail him at crp3280@ksu.edu

CHRISTOPHER PIATT

Educational entertainer performs 'Toying with Science'

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Garry Krinsky balances a peacock feather on his hand Sunday at McCain Auditorium. His show, "Toying With Science," teaches children about Galileo, Newton and what they contributed to science in a fun and high-energy way.

By BRENDA KIRKHAM
Kansas State Collegian

Children of all ages shifted toward the edge of their seats as the lights dimmed at McCain Auditorium and Garry Krinsky took the stage.

Krinsky has performed his program, "Toying With Science," all over the United States. He also has appeared on the NBC "Today Show."

He not only entertains the audience members, but also teaches them about the wonders of science. His main objective is to keep them entertained while explaining basic concepts of science in ways children can understand.

"Understanding how things work can make us more powerful," Krinsky said during the performance.

His show combines circus skills, mime, original music and audience involvement to make science fun and exciting.

Krinsky used extensive facial expressions and mime movements to draw the audience into the excitement. The show also was physically demanding, as Krinsky balanced as many as five ladders on his chin.

Sarina Sutton attended the show with her grandparents and said the part when Krinsky balanced the ladders was the best. However, she said she didn't think she would try anything like that very soon. One thing she said she might try is juggling with plastic grocery bags like Krinsky had done.

Krinsky juggled grocery bags and scarves to explain the concept of air resistance. He also emphasized that juggling was quite simple when broken down into steps.

"My point is that if we go step-by-step, we can do almost anything," he said.

Krinsky illustrated how easy it was to learn about science by involving audience members.

He taught a young boy how to balance objects on his hand, and he taught a girl how a fulcrum works by launching little balls off a piece of wood balanced on a step ladder.

While teaching the audience about these basic scientific concepts, Krinsky occasionally would do rhymes and songs that went along with what he was teaching.

Krinsky said one of the rewards he gets from his show is writing and using songs and lyrics during his performance.

Since he's now been doing the show for five years, he said it's not quite as thrilling to hear his own songs, but it still gives him a sense of accomplishment.

"One of my favorite things about the show is how it makes me feel," he said.

Since he basically is the only one in charge of his show, Krinsky gets to rewrite the script to include anything he wants.

He said he keeps learning along the way, and the dictionary always is a great source of knowledge for him.

For example, he said when he looked up the word "science" in the dictionary it had two meanings. The one he said he liked the best was "how things work."

"I started realizing science wasn't just facts and books," he said.

Since Krinsky does his show all over the United States, he said the most demanding part is the traveling.

"I don't mind being on the road because I like doing the show," Krinsky said.

Krinsky said even though at times he does get a little tired of doing the same show, performing in front of a live audience really helps him because they help to wake him up.

His performance at McCain was only one of the 120-150 shows Krinsky will do this year.

Richard Martin, director of McCain, said they chose Krinsky because he has the ability to keep children's attention and include educational information.

"He does not talk down to them," Martin said. "He tries to engage them through audience participation."

As Krinsky asked for volunteers throughout his show, there never was a shortage of children wanting to participate. Even those who first seemed hesitant eventually were drawn into Krinsky's enthusiasm and love for science.

"If I had somebody do for me what I did for these kids, my life would have been different. I wouldn't have run away from science," Krinsky said.

STAY CONNECTED...KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KSU Department of Theatre Presents

How I Learned to Drive

a Pulitzer Prize winner
by Paula Vogel

SPECIAL TALKBACK SESSIONS
IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING
PERFORMANCES ON THE 8, 14 & 15

The clearer this picture gets
The better you will know this family

February 8-10, 14-17
Nichols Theater 8 p.m.
$6 for students/seniors
$9 general public
McCain Box Office 532-6428

CONTAINS MATURE SUBJECT MATTER

The more your heart will break for them

Enjoy
Valentine's Day
With Us!

February 12-14

Skillet Dinner for two
Includes coffee and juice

Village Inn
Good Food...Good Feelings

Valid Only At:
204 Tuttle Creek
Manhattan, KS

ONLY $14.95

10% OFF
ON ANY PURCHASE REPAIR SERVICE

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
216 South Fourth St.
VFW Plaza • 776-1193

Repair Work On Shoes
Boots • Luggage • Backpacks
Purses • Leather Coats
Ball Gloves
Leather Craft Supplies
We Dye Satin Shoes

Exp. 2/28/01

AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
AUTO HOME BUSINESS HEALTH LIFE

Tim Engle
K-State Grad 88

"Call us for your Health
and Auto Insurance"

3320 Anderson
539-9200

American Family Mutual Insurance Co.
and its Subsidiaries
Home Office: Madison, WI 53703-0001
E-Mail: tengle@amfam.com

MODEL SHOWINGS! NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM	2 BEDROOM	3 BEDROOM
1941 College Heights #8 Tues. 5 - 8 p.m. Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m. Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m. • Starting at $350	926 Bluemont #12 Mon., Wed. & Fri. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $530	822 Fremont #7 Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m. Tues. 4 - 7 p.m. Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. Sun. 1 - 4 p.m. • Starting at $720
1119 Laramie #4 Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m. Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m. Sat. 3 - 5 p.m. • Starting at $430	1005 Bluemont #10 Mon., Wed., & Fri. 5:30 - 7:30 p.m. Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $500
413 N. 17th #5 Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30 Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m. • Starting at $380	1026 Osage #15 Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m. Sat. 1 - 3 p.m. • Starting at $540
1005 Bluemont #12 Mon. 2 - 6 p.m. Tues. 11 - 1 p.m. Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m. • Starting at $395	1113 Bertrand #4 Mon. 1 - 4 p.m. Wed. 6 - 9 p.m. • Starting at $560
700 Fremont By appointment only • Starting at $390	1417 Leavenworth #4 Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m. Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $570
925 Denison #5 Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m. Sat. 12 - 2 p.m. • Starting at $410	1524 McCain #11 Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m. • Starting at $550
1858 Clafflin #15 Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m. • Starting at $385	700 Fremont by appointment only • Starting at $500
1700 N. Manhattan Royal Towers on site office Tues. 6 - 8 p.m. Wed. 5 - 7 p.m. Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m. • Starting at $410	1115 N. 12th by appointment only • Starting at $575
1722 N. Laramie #9 Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m. • Starting at $405
Wareham 418 Poyntz by appointment only • Prices vary
1852 - 1856 Anderson by appointment only • Starting at $410

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittnay Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

Department of Modern Languages
Kansas State University

SUMMER STUDY IN MEXICO 2001

ZACATECAS AND CUERNAVACA
MAY 24- JULY 1

INFORMATION MEETINGS WILL BE HELD ON :
Mon. Feb 12
4:30 p.m.
124 Eisenhower Hall

For more information, call the Dept. of Modern Lges., 532-6760, or contact
Dr. Bradley Shaw, 532-1988 (e-mail: bradshaw@ksu.edu)

Delivers the latest!

OPEN LATE!

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

702 N. 11th Street
770-3333
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

770-3333 Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

Checks add 50¢

MONDAY MANIA

"Carry Out Only"

LARGE CHEESE PIZZA

$3.99

Additional Toppings $1.00 per topping

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

CARRY-OUT SPECIALS

16" 1-Topping $6.99
14" 1-Topping $5.99

BONUS BUYS MENU
with any food purchase

• 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99
• Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99
• 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99
• Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99

STIX IT TO ME TUES.

Buy One Pokey Stix at Regular Price get Equal or Lesser Value for Free

"Tuesday Only"

(Carry Out or Delivery)

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough Development
2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

Colorado in control

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Colorado's D.J. Harrison goes over the top of Larry Reid for a rebound Saturday in K-State's 63-70 loss. Reid had 11 points and eight assists in the game.

Cats face 6-game losing streak after weekend loss to Colorado

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

After losing all but two of its Big 12 games, the K-State men's basketball team should have taken the floor Saturday against Colorado ready to knock some heads together.

The Cats didn't. They lost 63-70, and neither the players nor the coaches could understand why.

"You'd think a team that's lost seven of their last eight would come out and play with some intensity," forward Matt Siebrandt said. "But we didn't. I can't explain it."

In what seems to have become a trend, the Cats squandered comeback opportunities late in the game through turnovers and defensive miscues.

However, this game was different from the last three close losses in that K-State never led. Colorado (15-9, 5-6) took advantage of uninspired first-half play from K-State (8-13, 2-8) to take a 28-27 lead at halftime and forced the Cats to fight an uphill battle from then on.

"We turned the ball over, and we just never could get it going," point guard Larry Reid said. "If we scored, they'd score an easy basket — we gave them too many layups in the paint. That hurts your team, because once they get going, they're just going to keep on flowing."

"We just came out flat and not ready to play. We just laid down in the first half."

The feeling that K-State was outplayed was easily recognized by everybody watching the game, head coach Jim Wooldridge said.

"I think everybody in the gym felt like Colorado was in control of that game from start to finish — I know I did," he said. "We had a few moments of energy, but it wasn't consistent enough or good enough to beat that team."

Granted, the Bulls did shoot 51.5 percent in the first half, but that actually was 1 percent less than K-State. The main difference between the two teams offensively was that Colorado scored 12 points off Cat turnovers.

Besides turnovers, the Colorado defense kept K-State out of sync all afternoon, partly through putting increased pressure on Reid. The Cat point guard had averaged 16 points in the last seven games but the Bulls kept him to just four points in the first half.

"I think a couple of those times they came out in a box-and-one, and I think we really didn't recognize it," Reid said. "That's putting more pressure on me not to get the ball, and when I did, they were trying to get it out of my hands. It made it hard for me to get open looks on the offensive end."

In the second half, K-State did manage to fight its way back to within six points four times, but every time the Cats did so, Colorado would hit a basket to increase its lead again.

With 4:38 left to play, Colorado's Richard Fox was whistled for an intentional foul on forward Travis Reynolds, who hit both free throws to pull within six points. On the ensuing possession, however, Reynolds missed a shot and was called for a foul on the rebound. The Bulls then went on a four-point run.

K-State did fight back, and with 2:59 remaining guard Phineas "Tony" Atchison hit a three-point basket to pull the Cats to within five points. True to form, though, K-State turned the ball over on its next two possessions, and the Cat threat was over.

As a result, the game turned into just another close loss that could have been easily avoided.

"Later in the game we're making turnovers," Reynolds said. "You've just got to be confident in what you're doing, confident in that the pass is going to get there, and don't try to do anything stupid. Just take care of the ball and make plays."

Now, the Cats are saddled with a six-game losing streak, which is the worst stretch in many of the players' careers. Reid, for instance, never had lost more than one game in a row prior to this season.

"This is the first time I've ever been on a team that's lost so many games," he said. "It's kind of tough coming from a transition like that, from winning and winning and then you come here, and you're losing close

See BASKETBALL on PAGE 8

1950-1951 basketball team honored during halftime of CU game

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

It's been 50 years since a packed Ahearn Field House served as home court for K-State basketball, but the memory of the Cats' march to greatness in 1950-51 in Ahearn's first year still shines on in the faces of those who were a part of it.

Members of that historic team made their way back to Manhattan on Saturday afternoon to celebrate the golden anniversary of K-State's trip to the NCAA Championship in Minneapolis during halftime of the Cat's loss to Colorado.

Success, it seems, was part of this team's chemistry from the start.

K-State's rich basketball tradition is rooted in the 1950-51 season when players like Lew Hitch, Jack Stone and Ernie Barrett started for the purple and white. All three earned All Big 7 honors, and coach Jack Gardner's team still has a distinct place in K-State sports lore as the only team to play for a national championship in school history.

"It was just amazing, a heck of a thrill," Ed Head, a forward on the 1950-51 team, said. "We came out of Nichols Gym, playing the last game there and the first one at Ahearn, and the atmosphere was great."

Gardner's staff featured a person who ultimately would revolutionize basketball by installing the "triple-post" offense.

That man was Fred (Tex) Winter, and as an assistant under Gardner, Winter perfected the triangle offense to help K-State win three conference titles in four years.

In total, the Cats claimed one of the most dominant lineups in the nation that season, with one All-American and three All Big 7 players.

Two of Gardner's troops went on to play in the NBA, and Winter's new offense would help the Chicago Bulls and Los Angeles

Lakers win NBA titles 40 years after it first appeared in Ahearn.

"We had never seen anything like that before," Glenn Channel, a senior on the team, said. "We didn't have anything that even resembled that where I came from."

In front of a capacity crowd nearly every night at K-State's new Field House, the Cats compiled a 25-4 record that season, including three wins over ranked teams on the way to Minneapolis for the big dance.

Although the Cats couldn't find the answer on Saturday, Head said he was excited to see first-year head coach Jim Wooldridge in Manhattan taking the same early steps that ensured success in K-State's glory days.

"He talked to us last night, and everyone came away with a real positive outlook," Head said. "He's tough, he's winning some tough games and playing hard on the road without the greatest personnel."

Wooldridge spoke after the game about the 1950-51 team with respect, and said it was tough not to come out and win for the school's alumni.

"It's great to have them here," Wooldridge said. "It's disappointing we couldn't play better for them today. We had our 50-51 team back, and these these guys are all tremendous people and proven winners, both as athletes and people, and I wish we'd played better for them. It hurts not to play better in those situations, it really does."

However, Head said he sees good things coming out of Manhattan soon. With a solid fan base and the right coach, he said, the future of K-State basketball looks as bright as its successful past.

"It's tuning up," he said. "I'm pleased with the increased volume because that is really important. The students are coming back to watch, and they're needed because this team here is worth hanging around for."

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

Former K-State assistant and head basketball coach Tex Winter greets the crowd at the half-time honoring of the 1950-51 K-State basketball team, of which Winter was an assistant coach.

Women's tennis defeats WSU, improving record to 3-2

By ERICA SAUERWEIN
Kansas State Collegian

K-State's tennis team made the nervous car ride to Wichita worthwhile Saturday.

The team traveled through bad road conditions to compete against Wichita State University at Crestview Country Club. The Wildcats defeated the Shockers 6-1 to improve their record to 3-2.

"We have won pretty convincingly the last couple of times, so today wasn't that different," head coach Steve Bietau said. "I think the balance and the progress the team is making across the board is most striking to me. There were a number of contributions by many people."

K-State started the match against WSU by winning the doubles point. All three of K-State's doubles teams won their matches. In the last four out of five matches, the Wildcats have won the doubles point.

"I am pleased about that," Bietau said. "I have seen good improvement in different areas, which indicates balance. It shows that this is a coachable team, and that they are responding to what we are asking them to do."

Alena Jecminkova and Eva Novotna won their doubles match 8-5.

"We played pretty good," Jecminkova said. "We struggled a little in the first games. At first it was close, but then we just won the important points."

The Wildcats then went on to win five of the six singles matches. No. 1 singles player Alena Jecminkova won the first match against Amanda Cervantes, 6-1, 6-0. No. 2 Petra Sedlmajerova also had a short match, winning 6-1, 6-0. Novotna, Paulina Castillejos and Hayley McIver also easily defeated their opponents.

KAREN MIKOLS/Collegian

Alena Jecminkova returns the ball to Wichita State opponent Amanda Cervantes during the match Saturday in Wichita. Jecminkova and Eva Novotna won their doubles match 8-5. K-State defeated Wichita 6-1, improving its overall record to 3-2.

See TENNIS on PAGE 8

Women's basketball loses to Iowa State Saturday, 52-81

K-STATE SPORTS INFORMATION
Kansas State Collegian

The K-State women's basketball team lost to the No. 9/7 Iowa State Cyclones 52-81 Saturday in Ames, Iowa.

Freshman forward Nicole Ohlde led the Cats with 28 points and 10 rebounds on the night for her fifth double-double of the season. It was the fourth time Ohlde scored 20 or more points against a Big 12 opponent. The Clay Center, Kan., native also has scored in double digits 16 of the last 17 games.

The Cats (11-11, 1-10) had a season-low eight turnovers on the night against Iowa State (19-2, 9-1). However, the team trailed the Cyclones 21-48 at halftime after shooting a season-low 24.3 percent from the field. The 21 points scored were also the lowest halftime scoring output for K-State this season.

Freshman guard Kimmery Newsom was a bright spot for the Cats, scoring a career-high nine points, all on three-point field goals.

IN REVIEW

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2001

7

Cryptoclip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

FOR RELEASE MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2001

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Picnic invader
4 Chap
7 The Mac-Donald estate
11 Major defeat
13 Khan honorific
14 Supposition
15 Oppositionist
16 Curse
17 Hit the horn
18 Dumb place for a cradle
20 Maja painter
22 Border
24 Tahini base
28 Restraint
32 Taste
33 Neighborhood
34 — Mahal
36 Suva's country
37 Tether
39 Fourth president
41 Ohio city
43 Future rose

DOWN
2 Admonition to
3 "Swan Lake" costume
4 Chart
5 Head over heels
6 Largest of the Cyclades islands
7 Healthy
8 Commotion
9 Speedwagon letters
10 A well-come sight
12 Drunk
19 That girl
21 Certainly
23 Witicism
25 Hertz rival
26 Voodoo charm
27 St. Patrick's home
28 Ump's pronouncement
29 Sandwich treat
30 Approach
31 On the — (fleeing)
35 Uppercut
38 Waste no time
40 Soon to arrive
42 Insulting
45 Show chutzpah
47 Barrie's bell
48 One side of the Urals
49 Ohio nine
50 Favorite
51 Work with 52 "Norma —"
54 Margery of rhyme

Solution time: 24 mins.

Monday's answer 2-12

CRYPTOQUIP

ST QTK FKL LTFJ
EIZPWY-ZIE SEPGJEF
VPXN CIEQWYPPXFF ICC
NIGJ NTIEFJLTVEJ?

Saturday's Cryptoclip: YOU CAN BET THAT CAUTIOUS STOCKBROKERS TRULY LIKE TO KEEP THEIR OPTIONS OPEN.

Today's Cryptoclip Clue: L equals P

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, toll-free. (18+ only.) A King Features Service, NYC.

2-12 CRYPTOQUIP

ST QTK FKL LTFJ
EIZPWY-ZIE SEPGJEF
VPXN CIEQWYPPXFF ICC
NIGJ NTIEFJLTVEJ?

Saturday's Cryptoclip: YOU CAN BET THAT CAUTIOUS STOCKBROKERS TRULY LIKE TO KEEP THEIR OPTIONS OPEN.

Today's Cryptoclip Clue: L equals P

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 11 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Cryptoclip Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. The Cryptoclip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error. © 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW RELEASES

VIDEO

"Bless the Child"

"Get Carter"
"Bring It On"

DVD

"The Adventures of Rocky and Bullwinkle"
"Bring It On"
"Drinking Games"

MUSIC

John Frusciante:
"To Record Only Water For Ten Days"

Bare Jr.:
"Brainwasher"

Michael Rose:
"Never Give It Up"

Dianne Reeves:
"The Calling: Celebrating Sarah Vaughan"

Bob James:
"Dancing On The Water"

COURTESY PHOTO

no saving 'SILVERMAN'

Movie's slapstick humor, scattered plot causes few laughs

Only fans of off-beat dark comedy will be able to appreciate the quirkiness of the otherwise dull "Saving Silverman."

Darren Silverman (Jason Biggs, "American Pie") is part of a Neil Diamond tribute band with his two best friends until he gets involved with an overly controlling woman, Judith (Amanda Peet, "The Whole Nine Yards") forces Darren to lose his loser friends and leave their Neil Diamond tribute band behind.

Wayne (Steve Zahn, "You've Got Mail") and J.D. (Jack Black, "High Fidelity") play the idiot friends who kidnap Judith to break up Darren's engagement and get him back with his true love, Sandy (Amanda Detmer, "Boys and Girls").

The best scenes come from Zahn and Black, who both are proving to be hilarious character actors. Look for some great interaction between them and their high school football coach.

Unfortunately, not even their comic talent can save a script that is so scattered and flat. As quickly as the movie wins an audience laugh from the antics of the two misfit friends, it jumps back to Darren's troubles, which usually are dull.

The movie seems to revert to slapstick humor and sexist jokes when all else fails. While it's true many of the best gags are in the previews, the sexual humor left out of the trailers adds quite a few laughs to the film.

Instead of the audience becoming attached to Darren, the guy makes people wonder if he's worth all the trouble his friends go through for him.

Biggs should start looking to play more colorful characters if he wants to last. Darren is one more Biggs nice, naive, romantic guy. The same character he has been playing since he first caught attention in "American Pie."

What hurt the film the most was that no one laughed when the writers expected them to. Sometimes director Dennis Dugan's childish humor works, such as in "Happy Gilmore" but in this film Zahn and Black are the only reason the audience even sticks around.

The obsession with Neil Diamond in the movie adds another aspect to the wackiness of the film with a quirky cameo by the early '70s superstar. The finale, featuring Diamond, is a special benefit for anyone who sits through the film.

"Saving Silverman" has enough screen time for Zahn and Black to get a few laughs from the audience but even if they can save Silverman, they can't save the movie.

"SAVING SILVERMAN"

★★★★★

MOVIE REVIEW BY JJ DUNCAN

Donnas grow up; music continues to sound same

Turning 21 doesn't mean growing up for the west coast punk-rock women The Donnas.

With a sound that blends the attitude of KISS with the upbeat drive of the Ramones, "The Donnas Turn 21" takes on sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll from the female perspective.

The fun-first attitude that has been driving The Donnas from the beginning keeps you listening to this blast of an album.

Taking on subjects such as kidnapping a police officer for her personal use, Donna A. sings with the same nonchalant tone that makes Joey Ramone so much fun to listen to.

The band members have said in interviews they project an image that is more extreme than reality. Still, by the time the album is over, it sounds totally reasonable that when they tour there's "no time to see the sights" because as they say in "40 Boys in 40 Nights," they're "Spendin' every night in a different state/Spendin' every night with a different date."

Not much can be said for the originality of the album — it sounds a lot like their previous album "Get Skintight," but The Donnas' sound definitely is unique. Anyone who likes the tough-girl punk sound with an average track time of two minutes 34 seconds will dig this album.

The Donnas seem to view boys as nothing more than objects (in a fun way) in songs like "Little Boy" when they sing, "Little Boy, Little Boy/Go and find some other girl to annoy/Don't you know I can't be treated like a toy/Cause that's for me to do to you."

Taking cues from plenty of artists on the Lookout! label before them, the Donnas don't mind singing about bad break-ups either. In "Drivin' Thru My Heart," Donna A. sings about the guy who took her heart and "Crushed it like a can in your Landrover."

The main problem with the new Donnas album is that after three albums, the concept is getting old. When a band is based on being teen-age bad girls no mother wants to see her son dating, the image can get stale if it doesn't grow up.

"THE DONNAS TURN 21"

★★★★★

ALBUM REVIEW BY JJ DUNCAN

Shocking sequel lives up to original thriller

This weekend, despite the harsh weather conditions, audiences packed Seth Childs Cinema to sold-out capacity to get a glimpse of everyone's favorite screen villain.

Ten years after "Silence of the Lambs," the sequel "Hannibal," based on the novel by Thomas Harris, thrills audiences with graphic violence and brain teasers and soon will reach status as one of the greatest psychological thrillers ever produced.

In this latest installment, FBI Special Agent Clarice Starling (Julianne Moore) once again clashes with Dr. Hannibal "The Cannibal" Lecter (Anthony Hopkins) in a thrilling battle of wits. This time, Lecter is hiding in Europe under an alias and is terrorizing Italy with his unusual taste for violence. On the other side of the world, Agent Starling is working with Lecter's sole surviving victim (Gary Oldman), who is nothing more than a playboy-turned-vegetable, who yearns for revenge against the man who stole his life.

This is one of the only sequels I've ever seen that can live up to the original. Hopkins obviously enjoys his role as a cannibal, and he hasn't lost the ability to make your skin crawl. Moore is a worthy successor to the Starling role, one Jodie Foster (as Starling from "Lambs") refused to tackle again. Moore brings the grit and determination of Starling back to the screen, and brings with her a touch of elegance that Foster didn't possess. Although she most certainly will catch flack from critics as not being able to match up to Foster, Moore proves she can handle such a difficult role as well as Foster, perhaps even better.

The setting of the film is a wonderful change as well. The juxtaposition of Lecter's violence set in front of a beautiful European backdrop makes his killings seem even more gruesome. The shock value is still there.

And there is, indeed, much shock from this movie, especially in the final sequence, in which Lecter and Starling play a psychological game of cat and mouse at the dinner table. Certain aspects of the ending sequence, while they will thrill fans of Hannibal Lecter, are sure to shock and even disgust other viewers. They might seem tasteless and tacky, but they stay true to Lecter's style, as twisted as it might be.

If you're not a fan of the original movie, you're sure to be disgusted by its sequel. Don't even bother going if you haven't seen the original, because you probably won't understand many references in the film, and you can't appreciate many of the scenes. But true fans of "Silence of the Lambs" definitely won't be disappointed by "Hannibal." See it with some fava beans and a nice chianti and relive the horror of the original all over again.

"HANNIBAL"

★★★★★

MOVIE REVIEW BY CORBIN H. CRABLE

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL

TENNIS

■ continued from page 6

"She made more mistakes," Sedlmajerova said of her opponent Annelie van den Heever. "She came to the net a lot. I was hitting my passing shots really well, so that helped."

Bietau said winning the first matches is important.

"It was a great start with Alena and Petra," he said. "They dictate the match with the early momentum. They close the door of possibility for the opponent to come back. The top people are showing good leadership, and they have responded to doing the things we asked them to do. The freshmen are handling the expectations placed on them with reasonably good success."

The Wildcats were without senior Cathy Chuda. Although she played in a doubles match, Bietau decided to keep her back from playing singles.

"She could have played today," he said. "But this gives us flexibility to come into a match like this and try some different things. People are put in a situation where they have to come through."

K-State has this week off before it faces Brigham Young and Notre Dame in Manhattan on Feb. 22-23.

"We have competed for four weeks, and now we have a weekend off," Bietau said. "This is a time to step back and look at where we are. It's a logical break for us. We have some more non-conference play before the Big 12 play starts."

BASKETBALL

■ continued from page 6

games, and you know you should have had them. It really hurts."

Painful as it is, inexperience with losing is not an excuse for any player, Wooldridge said.

"We have to be accountable for everything we do. Although Larry hasn't been on a team that's lost more than one in a row, he's a big part of this team," he said, "and he can have something to do with winning the next game."

Left: Quentin Buchanan and Ivan Sulic try to steal the ball away from Richard Fox during K-State's loss to Colorado on Saturday at Bramlage Coliseum.

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Clip here & SAVE!

Order your Royal Purple!
$34.95

On sale at Kedzie 103

BEAT
THE CLOCK
Mondays

Gambino's
Pizza

The Time is the Price!
6 p.m. - Close
Large One Topping Pizzas!
Add $3 & choose a Specialty

Dine In • Carryout • Delivery
537-9090

BUY 1 MEAL GET 1 FREE AT
EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE

EXCLUDING SPECIAL OF THE DAY

SAFARI
JACK
WATERING HOLE

Valid only Sunday
- Thursday

710 N. Manhattan

Expires 6/01/01

PRO
FITNESS

in Aggieville 539-7095

Buy 1 membership
Get 1 half off
excluding specials

$22

for 1 month
unlimited tanning

$29 for any 5lb. Protein & 10% off Glutamine

Optimum NUTRITION

• Increase Energy • Decrease Appetite • Increase Metabolism • Decrease Body Fat

GNC LiveWell.

WESTLOOP
537-8191

Locally Owned & Operated

GNC LiveWell.

Save $5
on Sennatrim & Sildenafil

Excludes 100-1000 Locally owned and operated 776-5577

1800 Claflin Road

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus
in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Valentine
Special

Message, facial, and hairstyle

$110

Facial and hairstyle
$70

TINA'S Studio 32
FOR HAIR

Project
WELLNESS

Kansas State University

www.ksu.edu/projectwellness

Of those who drink, 73% reported they limit the amount of money they bring or spend on alcohol.

Most K-State students
drink moderately, if AT ALL

0-5

drinks when they party

About one drink per hour over a 4 hour period
1 drink = 12 oz. beer = 4-5 oz. of wine = 1 oz. liquor

*Based on a 2000 classroom campus-wide survey of 1,192 KSU students that was representative of the K-State student population with regard to demographics such as age, GPA, college, class, and gender.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2001

9

LET'S RENT

101 Rental Wanted

WANTED TO SUBLEASE One-bedroom apartment to sub/short-term lease August 1 - December 31, 2001 539-6484

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE NOW, TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus, 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $530. Call 785-456-2812.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer, 14-month lease. No pets 776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

"LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION." Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

WELL MAINTAINED, one-eight-bedroom houses, and apartments, also studio apartments, central air, washer/dryer near K-State June, August, now. (785)539-0549.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please; Great two-bedroom apartment, $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan, (785)537-7228.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-6178.

we kick ads.
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/kscf

SCUBA LEARN to scuba dive at the areas only, PADI approved dive centers. Join the fun, get certified for spring break and summer. Call Creative Travel and Scuba at 539-0531.

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

LOST: GOLD Omega chain necklace. Call 395-2630 ext. 327. Reward given.

LOST: MENS gold wedding band, possibly near Ahearn. Call 565-8614.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

100 housing/real estate

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Summer lease only. $600 month including all utilities, washer/dryer. Call 341-5401.

Got old stuff? GET RID OF IT! in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGE 103 Kedzie 532-6555

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

WELCOME HOME

- Sparkling swimming pool
- Spacious deck/patio
- Avail. June 5 and Aug 5
- Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
- On-site laundry facilities
- Economical gas heat

Office: 2400 Kimball Ave. at College Ave. (across from K-State)

Call Sara at 537-7007 for an appointment.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

EXTRA NICE two-bedroom, with washer and dryer hookups. No pets $425/month. 539-2356.

FURNISHED OR unfurnished for August. Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment. 350 N 16th, 1230 Clifton. $510. Also for June and August. Large one-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $450. Heat, water, trash three/ four paid laundry mat 539-2482.

Leasing Now For August

- Cambridge Square
- Sandstone Apts.
- 1114 Fremont
- 2000 College Hgts.
- 519 Osage
- Fireplaces • Carports
- Pool • Private Deck
- Laundry Facilities
- Large 2-bedroom Units

CALL NOW 537-9064
Weekdays 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.
Saturdays 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March. 1854/ 1858 Clifton. $385-. $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3804.

Park Place Apartments
Showings Mon.-Fri. 1-2:30 Bedrooms 539-2951

120 For Rent-Houses

FOR AUGUST near KSU. Nice house, 312 N 15th St. Four, five-bedroom, $1100. Basement two-bedroom, $320. 539-2482.

JULY LEASE. Two-bedroom with living room, hardwood floor, study, family room, one and three-fourths bath, one car garage. No smoking, drinking, pets. $600/ month plus utilities. 539-1554.

Two-bedroom, $435/ month available 5/1. No deposit/lease until 6/1. Pets ok. 587-8677.

145 Roommate Wanted

$220/ MONTH-utilities included. 1870 College Heights A. House. Contact Gina at 537-7701.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share very nice two-bedroom townhouse. $250/ month plus one-half utilities. Call Sophia, 776-3979, or 532-6745.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Two-bedroom apartment with dishwasher, washer and dryer. Central heat and air. $217 monthly, plus half utilities. 537-0489.

ONE BEDROOM in two-bedroom apartment. Ten minute walk to Aggieville and campus. $237.50/ month. 537-3320.

ROOMMATES NEEDED 4 BEDROOM

- 2 bath
- Fully furnished
- Modern
- Recreation facilities
- Fitness center
- Computer Labs
- Washer/Dryer
- and many more amenities

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

539-0500 UNIVERSITY COMMONS

APARTMENTS 2215 COLLEGE AVE

150 Sublease

AVAILABLE NOW: spacious four-bedroom furnished apartment. $450 for entire summer. (May 15- August 5) Call Beth or Kim, 770-9566.

NEED MORE privacy? One-bedroom, kitchen, bath two other rooms all to yourself. Washer/dryer, $230/ month, four blocks/ campus. Greg, 539-6522.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for four-bedroom furnished apartment. $450 for entire summer. (May 15- August 5) Call Beth or Kim, 770-9566.

THREE-BEDROOM. TWO bath house, 1870 College Heights, $700/ month (gas bill included). 537-7701.

200 service directory

255 Other Services

HOUSECLEANING! IMMACULATE work by conscientious/ experienced/ reliable Christian co-ed. References. 539-3055.

300 employment/opportunities

310 Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. For info, call (203)977-1720.

"THE GREATEST SUMMER of your life! Camp Pontiac, a premier overnight camp in New York is hiring enthusiastic and mature individuals that have skills in: Basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball/ softball, golf, swimming, sailing, ropes/ climbing wall, gymnastics, art, drama, lacrosse, football, volleyball and video/ web design. Information and interviews February 15th. E m a i l campontiac@hotmail.com to set up an interview.

ADMISSIONS REPRESENTATIVE. Kansas State University is recruiting of the position of Admissions Representative. The person will be responsible for the development and implementation of an effective student recruitment program within a specific geographic region; serving as the primary recruitment representative; developing and maintaining service relationships with high schools and community colleges; attending major community events; and coordinating efforts for the region with K-State faculty and staff. Qualifications for the position include: a recent K-State bachelor's degree; familiarity and excitement for K-State; demonstrated student involvement/ leadership skills in student groups and organized living; strong communication skills (oral/ written); strong social skills for a variety of situations; ability to work independently; overall high energy level and enthusiasm; willingness to travel extensively; and a valid driver's license. Position will start Thursday, July 5, 2001, and pay $26,000 for 12 months. Candidates should send a letter of application, resume, transcript(s), and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three references to: Search Committee, New Student Services, Kansas State University, 122 Anderson Hall, Manhattan, KS 66506. Deadline for applications is Monday, February 26, 2001. Kansas State University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer. KSU encourages diversity among its employees.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS WANTED. Friendly Pines Camp in the cool pine mountains of Arizona, is hiring staff for the 2001 season. May 27- July 29. Program offers horseback riding, waterski, rock climbing, fishing, crafts, sports, and more. Competitive salary and travel allowance. We'll be interviewing on campus Thursday, February 8. For application information call (520)445-2128 or e-mail us at info@friendlypines.com. Download an application at our Website! www.friendlypines.com.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews. Friday, February 16th 100 Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.kau.edu/cscs Applications available at our website www.camptowanda.com Additional information at (800)923-2267.

410 Items for Sale

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

310 Help Wanted

ARTISTS/ ART Students: Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltankofgas@hotmail.com

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. TRIPP LAKE CAMP for Girls, Poland, Maine. Noted for picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June thru mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, baseball, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, golf, flag football, roller hockey, field hockey, swimming, sailing, water skiing, gymnastics, dance, horseback riding, archery, weight training, newspaper, photography, video, woodworking, ceramics/ pottery, crafts, fine arts, silver jewelry, copper enamel, nature study, radio/ electronics, theater, costume, piano, accompanist, music instrumentalist, backpacking, rock climbing, canoeing/ kayaking, ropes course, secretariat, nanny. Call Takajo at 800-250-8252 or Tripp Lake at 800-997-4347. Submit application on-line at www.takajo.com

www.tripplakecamp.com

COUNSELORS WANTED for a Colorado camp in the heart of the Rocky Mountains. Camp Timberline is a Christian sports and mountain adventure camp in Estes Park, CO. Looking for enthusiastic, energetic, individuals who have a passion for children (7-18 years) and have experience in coaching sports and/or wilderness activities. Stop by and see us in the Student Center on February 12 between 1-5pm. Would love to meet you and share more about the incredible opportunity that could be awaiting you this summer!! www.camptimberline.com

CRUISE LINE- entry level on board positions available. Great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruise-careers.com

DO YOU like children? If this is for you, I am looking for a helper for my in-home daycare. Hours vary. If interested please call Melissa at 776-3543.

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary- Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2820.

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@nural.net

Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

310 Help Wanted

SUMMER CAMP JOBS. Camp counselors needed for top girls' camp in Maine. Top salary, travel paid in full, room/ board/ laundry and uniform provided. Skilled in Arts/ Crafts (ceramics, jewelry, stained glass), Basketball, Canoeing, Baskettball, Jazz, Tap, Field Hockey, Golf, Gymnastics, Horseback Riding/ English Hunt Seat, Lacrosse, Photographer/ Videographer, Piano, Accompanist, Office Administration, Outdoor Adventure, Ropes/ Challenge Course, Sailing, Soccer, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Theatre, Volleyball, Water-skiing, Windsurfing. Additional opportunities for kitchen, cooks, maintenance, nurses, CAMP VEGA FOR GIRLS!! Visit our website at www.campvega.com to complete an application and receive a camp video or call 1-800-838-8342. Come see us! We will be on campus Wednesday, March 7th West Stateroom #3 in the Union from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Drop-in interviews encouraged, no appointment necessary.

410 Items for Sale

COMPUTERS. PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160. www.kslaptops.com

455 Sporting Equipment

DUCKS UNLIMITED FIRST ANNUAL DRAKE'S NIGHT Sunday, February 18. Blue Hills room, 2315 Tuttle Creek Boulevard. Silent auction begins at 2 p.m. Watch KSU vs. Texas Tech on big screen. Tickets $20 includes meal and one chance at Benelli Nova. Call 539-6542.

500 transportation

1992 FORD Ranger XLT pickup. Manual, tilt, cruise. Call 537-0456 after 5:00 pm

1992 THUNDERBOLT. Power doors, windows, seats. 136,000 mostly highway miles. Excellent condition. $2700 or best offer. (785) 395-1511.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door; power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition. one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

FOR SALE: 1993 Ford Taurus GL, 3.8 V-6, full options, six disc CD changer, $3300. 776-4662.

600 travel/trips

630 Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummertours.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLESALE SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island. www.pirentals.com/spring-break. 1-800-292-7620.

SPRING BREAK PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES. (404) 355-9637.

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

435 Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160. www.kslaptops.com

455 Sporting Equipment

DUCKS UNLIMITED FIRST ANNUAL DRAKE'S NIGHT Sunday, February 18. Blue Hills room, 2315 Tuttle Creek Boulevard. Silent auction begins at 2 p.m. Watch KSU vs. Texas Tech on big screen. Tickets $20 includes meal and one chance at Benelli Nova. Call 539-6542.

500 transportation

1992 FORD Ranger XLT pickup. Manual, tilt, cruise. Call 537-0456 after 5:00 pm

1992 THUNDERBOLT. Power doors, windows, seats. 136,000 mostly highway miles. Excellent condition. $2700 or best offer. (785) 395-1511.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door; power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition. one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

FOR SALE: 1993 Ford Taurus GL, 3.8 V-6, full options, six disc CD changer, $3300. 776-4662.

600 travel/trips

630 Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummertours.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLESALE SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island. www.pirentals.com/spring-break. 1-800-292-7620.

SPRING BREAK PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES. (404) 355-9637.

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

410 Items for Sale

630 Spring Break

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

435 Computers

BASEBALL

■ continued from page 1

The two teams displayed good defense and kept the game close. However, the Cats opened a big fourth inning with a single by senior catcher Nick Scelfo, then got four straight walks and a hit by pitch to take a 5-1 lead. With the bases loaded and one out, Cavender came through with his second big hit on the game, a double, that drove in Weishaar and senior first baseman Mark English from second and third base.

Senior second baseman J.D. Loudabarger followed with an RBI single in a batter later that gave K-State a commanding 8-1 lead. The Wildcats would add another run on a RBI single by sophomore outfielder Pat Maloney in the fifth inning to extend their lead to 9-1.

Facing a huge deficit, LSU finally got its offense on track, scoring two runs on two hits and an error in the bottom of the fifth inning to cut the lead to 9-3, then got five runs on five hits and an error in the sixth to close the game to 9-8. Things remained tight the rest of the way.

LSU won the second game of the double-header 4-0, but K-State played hard behind the pitching of junior transfer Luke Robertson, Clark said.

"We didn't let up in game two," he said. "We just couldn't sustain anything offensively in the second game. Regardless, I thought our effort was outstanding."

In the third game, played Sunday, the Cats fell, 8-14. Cavender continued his offensive prowess by slamming two home runs, including a three-run blast in the first inning. However, LSU would light up K-State starter Brock Smith with seven runs in the second inning.

Offensively, Cavender went 3-for-5 with five RBI. Weishaar also hit 2-for-3. The Cats finished the series with a 3-2 overall record.

SNOW

■ continued from page 1

construction science and management, said. "It was really nice to have a day off."

Todd Nicewonger, graduate student in adult, occupational and continuing education, said he was glad for the break in classes.

"I was basically waiting for the cancellation, but I was also prepared to go in case we had school," Nicewonger said. "It was relaxing to just watch TV and catch up on some homework."

Still, other students had mixed feelings about the cancellation.

"It was good just to screw around all day, but I have three tests next week, so it would have been nice to have those reviews on Friday," Jason Wheeland, senior in electrical engineering, said. "It was kind of a catch-22."

HONOR

■ continued from page 1

"We are a proactive program and want people to be able to learn from what they did wrong. We are here to help if someone needs it."

Bailey said from her experience with the Honor System, the student she caught cheating was able to stay in the class and learn a lot from the experience.

"We were able to work through the problem," Bailey said. "I think he was able to grow as a person. I am in education to help people learn and grow, so I was glad the ordeal turned out the way it did."

Bailey said she was glad she had the Honor System to turn to when she encountered the problem.

"I would have gotten too emotionally involved with it," Bailey said. "I felt comfortable with the system because that way my own decision could not be called into question."

NAPSTER

■ continued from page 1

stayed pending the 9th Circuit review.

But the three-judge appellate panel also could rule more broadly, describing how copyright law should apply to emerging technologies that make it ever more difficult to control and profit from the distribution of music, software, books, movies and other creative content.

U.S. copyright law includes a doctrine of fair use, which allows copies to be made and used without permission if the copying is for a nonprofit purpose, and won't cause the creative content to lose value in the marketplace.

The question is whether it is personal use when Napster users collectively make millions of music files available for free to anyone else with a computer and a modem.

www.kstatecollegian.com

SIEMENS Westinghouse

Ignite The Excitement

Realize Your Potential

Power The World

You're illuminated with knowledge, energized by your own potential. You want to charge ahead and change the world. It's time you were enlightened about the opportunities at Siemens Westinghouse Power Corporation.

Engineer-In-Training Program

This 6-9 month Field Service Engineering Program features 2 months of classroom and laboratory instruction in Orlando, FL and 4-7 months of on-the-job training at a Siemens Westinghouse service location or on actual field assignments. We prefer candidates with at least a 2.7 GPA in the following majors:

- Mechanical Engineering • Electrical Engineering
- Mechanical Engineering Technology
- Electrical Engineering Technology

Siemens, our parent company, is one of the largest employers on earth, giving us the strength to help you power the world.

See Us On Campus

Information Session • Tuesday, February 13

Contact the Career Center for information session details.

On-Campus Interviews • Wednesday, February 14

Position Details Online @ www.siemenswestinghouse.com/jobs

It is the policy of Siemens Westinghouse Power Corporation to not discriminate on the basis of race, gender, creed, color, age, religion, national origin, disability or veteran status, and to provide equal employment opportunity.

More Power To You

Siemens Westinghouse
Power Corporation
A Siemens Company

Bob's DINER

1103
N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT

OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY

7 DAYS A WEEK

is

EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY

$1.99

BREAKFAST

ALL THE TIME

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

Happy
Valentine's
Day!

Little Caesars

MONDAY Madness

NEW! 1 BIG BIG! LARGE PIZZA 14" WITH 1 TOPPING

$5.99

Valid Monday only at participating locations for a limited time. No coupon necessary. ©1999 Little Caesars Enterprises, Inc.

Little Caesars Pizza

Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!

MANHATTAN (Westloop Center) 539-3333

PART-TIME JOBS

Starting at $7.50 per hour

Help needed to take inventory in retail stores. Average 10-12 hours on weekends. Weekday daytime hours are also available, averaging 25 to 35 hours depending on your availability.

Apply in person
State Room, Ramada Inn

Feb. 14, 2001 at 4:30 p.m. or 6 p.m.

Interviews will start promptly

Now Featuring Balfour Fine Jewelry

The Collegiate Collection

Early Bird Special:
Order now and receive 15% off personalized announcements. Offer not valid with other sales or discounts.

Open Mon.-Sat. 9-9
Sun. 11-7
539-0511

GRADUATION ANNOUNCEMENTS

C-B Graduation Announcements

The diploma you can wear.

JOSTENS
REWARD YOUR ACHIEVEMENT

Order now for all your graduation needs. Varney's Book Store Graduation Fair February 12, 13, 14
Representatives will be available from 11 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

"We Give You Our Best"

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 43 ■ LOW 27

TUESDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSCOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 13, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 97

Local bands step into spotlight

■ page 11

Colleges prepare for proposed budget cuts

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

Due to lagging state revenues, an across-the-board budget cut is being proposed for the state of Kansas.

K-State Budget Director John Struve said Gov. Bill Graves' budget calls for a $2.1 million cut in systems and another $1 million in an instructional technology fee.

The proposed cuts have K-State officials speculating on what to do if it is passed by legislators.

At the same time, it has officials lobbying members of the Legislature, Struve said.

Senate Majority Leader Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, said there is a hole in higher education because it is a tight year in the budget.

"We realize there are holes in the higher-education funding," Oleen said, "but we don't have them solved yet."

The effects of the proposed budget cuts are unclear to K-State, but they could result in fewer classes being offered and cuts in the number of faculty teaching, officials said.

"I have been here 30 years, and we have had cuts of various sizes, and potentially this could be the worst," said Michael Holen, dean of the College of Education.

The cuts would span across the campus' different colleges. It has K-State looking into how it can meet the needs of students if cuts occur.

One area of interest is the technology fee. Students now pay $1 per credit hour with $2 in matched fees from the state in the instructional technology fee. In the College of Human Ecology alone, this fund has produced more than $200,000 in the last three years and has helped the college spend money on technology and equipment.

In the College of Architecture, Planning and Design, the fund has helped the college stay up to date with technology.

"It is lab money that the college uses to buy lab equipment every year," said Dennis Law, dean of the architecture college.

Law said he would like to see the program continue.

"It is sad because we had instituted a system that had been working well, and it has been jerked out from under us," he said. "It makes it hard to prioritize. We are just putting out fires at this point."

However, it also is difficult to make decisions on cuts because technology, faculty and learning go hand-in-hand, Law said.

Another point of cuts might be the number of classes offered to students.

"It is a tough thing because we have already submitted the line schedule, and some of the courses we are offering might end up not being there," Holen said.

Holen said it is a situation in which, if the cuts are made, there could be fewer programs offered and changes to curricula possibly made in order to account for the proposed cuts.

"Throughout this, we have said that our goal is that students are not delayed in their progress towards a degree," he said.

In some instances, it also might increase class sizes and alter the number of programs available, Holen said.

See BUDGET on PAGE 12

K-State students travel to lobby state Legislature

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

With budget cuts proposed in the state Legislature, K-State students are heading to the state's capitol Wednesday in a lobbying effort.

The event takes on even more importance due to the proposed budget cuts currently pending in the state Legislature, Student Body President Jake Worcester said.

Worcester and other students will lobby the state for several reasons.

One reason is the technology fee match that allocates $2 for every $1 of tuition money under its current system. That money means about $1 million in revenue for the

See LOBBYING on PAGE 12

Students continue Napster usage

By CRISTINA JANNEY
Kansas State Collegian

K-State students who use Napster said they would continue to use the Internet-based music service if it became a fee-based system.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday that Napster must prevent users from accessing content that could infringe upon copyrights.

"I am all for getting the artists what they deserve," said Michael Pule, junior in radio and TV broadcasting.

Pule said he was downloading five to 15 songs every day before changes in the university computing system made the transfer of Napster files much slower.

The university has limited the amount of bandwidth available for recreational computer use, which includes Napster. Those limits result in Napster functions being slower, said Beth Unger, vice provost for academic services and technology.

The policy is based on recreational traffic infringement on academic use, she said.

"We can only afford so much bandwidth," Unger said.

The court decision should have no effect on the university's policy, she said. The policy is based on usage and not on whether the activity is illegal.

Pule said if Napster became a fee-based system, he thinks the university should not limit the speed of traffic or amount of information that is loaded.

"If it were fee-based, I would expect to use it to its full potential," Pule said.

Pule said he used the service to explore new bands. He said it was not so much about getting free music but finding little-known bands that are trying to make their marks. Pule said trips to Napster often lead him to buy a new compact disc he might not have otherwise purchased.

Stephanie Caouette, sophomore in kinesiology, said she used to buy five CDs a month, but not after she started using Napster.

Downloading an average of 25 songs a day, she used Napster to

See NAPSTER on PAGE 12

Sticking with his beliefs

Craig Wanklyn, freshmen in architectural engineering, celebrates after answering a question correct in Trivial Pursuit. Wanklyn was passing time with his Moore Hall friends before watching the second episode of "Survivor." Wanklyn said he believes he can have fun with friends without drinking alcohol.

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

■ Freshman makes effort to enjoy free time, weekends without alcohol, acquires respect of friends, relatives.

By MICHELLE BERTUGLIA
Kansas State Collegian

College life and home life are two different worlds for one freshman, but he said he is the same person in both.

For Craig Wanklyn, freshman in architectural engineering, alcohol is not a part of either world.

Wanklyn is active in Moore Hall Governing Board and a representative in the Kansas State University Association of Residence Halls. He said he creates his own excitement without alcohol.

"I think you can have fun without drinking," Wanklyn said.

"I have found I have a lot of fun without it, so I don't see why I should do it."

Weekends for Wanklyn are filled with fun, friends and studying, he said. Wanklyn said that when life gets hectic, sometimes he will spend one night studying, but he still likes to find time to get away.

"I take personal time, hang out with friends, talk to people, watch movies or just do whatever to take some time to get away from the hassles of class, homework and the stresses of college life," Wanklyn said.

Brandon Grossardt, ninth-floor resident assistant in Moore Hall and senior in math, said he has a variety of freshmen on his floor.

Although Wanklyn is not one of his residents, Grossardt said he knows him well enough to know he does not drink.

"He makes a point to let people know that he can have fun without alcohol and I think it is awesome," Grossardt said.

Grossardt said Wanklyn's beliefs and drive make him different from most freshmen.

"His stance on alcohol and leadership and his ability to not succumb to peer pressure make him unique," Grossardt said. "He is not scared to tell people he does not drink."

The choice not to drink, Wanklyn said, came from the influence of his family. Neither his parents nor his older brother drink. At home, Wanklyn said he was looked up to for his beliefs.

"People looked up to me and said, 'You should

See LEADERSHIP on PAGE 12

Freshman looks toward getting involved

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Christie Horton, freshman in open-option, said she is feeling optimistic about this semester.

"It is going to be a lot better," Horton said. "My classes are things I am interested in and, so far, my professors seem really good, so I am excited about that."

Horton said she hasn't decided on a major yet but still is leaning toward public relations.

"I am really looking in that direction," she said. "I have a class called Mass Communication and Society that is really interesting, and it kind of deals with that major."

Horton also plans to work for KSDB-FM 91.9, the campus radio station.

"That is my goal for the semester — to get involved," she said. "They have different areas you can apply to work in, and right now I am really interested in the promotions department. They told me if I succeed in that area, it's really good because that is a difficult area. So I decided to give it a try."

Horton, who pledged Kappa Alpha Theta sorority at the beginning of the fall semester, also plans to become more involved in her sorority.

"We have a formal dance coming up, and the new members have to plan it," she said. "I am actually going to be singing with some of the other girls. I guess, in a way, I am going to provide some of the entertainment for the evening."

Besides planning for the semester, Horton said she is trying to adjust to the changes she noticed while she was at home over winter break.

"My parents live in Manhattan, so I didn't have far to travel when the dorms

See CHANGES on PAGE 12

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Christie Horton, freshmen in open-option, smiles at a friend as she works at Dillons Monday afternoon. Horton said her goal for the semester is to get involved.

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jib7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari Editor in Chief
sb3046@ksu.edu 532-6556
Kelly Glasscock Photo Editor
kg3544@ksu.edu 532-0735
Ken Wells Online Editor
kg3544@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson Managing Editor
bw1@intelligencia.com
Bryan Scribner News Editor
bsc3639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett Online News Editor
jib7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull Campus Editor
nh6062@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster City & Government Editor
nf1480@ksu.edu
Michael Noll Sports Editor
mn15855@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan Arts & Entertainment Editor
jd1666@ksu.edu
Erin Schneeweis Opinion Editor
es1786@ksu.edu
Sara Martin Presentation Editor
sm3920@ksu.edu
Curtis H. Drake Copy Chief
ch1669@ksu.edu
Danny Ellsworth Ad Manager
de0091@ksu.edu
Alissa Duncan Assistant Ad Manager
ad0849@ksu.edu
Emily Rand Online Ad Manager
er1158@ksu.edu

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.ksstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291-030), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

News of the weird

William R. Macera was re-elected mayor of Johnston, R.I., despite being found in October in a car that police said heavily reeked of marijuana smoke; he narrowly edged out write-in candidate Louis L. Vinagro Jr., who had been arrested hours before the election for threatening a state official inspecting his waste-hauling business.

Meeting on mandatory housing inspection today

Students will have the chance to voice their opinions on mandatory housing inspections at today's Manhattan City Commission workshop meeting.

The meeting will be at 5 p.m. at the city commission room in City Hall and will discuss a final proposal created by the Special Rental Housing Inspection Committee.

"This will not be any kind of a done deal," Mayor Karen McCulloh said.

No action will be taken today because it is a work session, she said. In the work session, the commission will accept the proposal — meaning it then will begin to work on final action.

Because it is a work session, that means they will decide what work needs to be done after accepting it. A staff will look into the proposal and creating a possible ordinance. If an ordinance is implemented, further steps will be taken.

Steps in the future could include forums for debate.

McCulloh said anyone is welcome to attend the work session and that she expects quite a turnout.

Former senator's lecture hoped to be rescheduled

Inclement weather Friday prohibited Paul Simon from presenting the second annual Huck Boyd Lecture inside Forum Hall.

"It is disappointing," said Gloria Freeland, director of the Huck Boyd National Center. "I was hoping it would hold off for 24 hours."

Simon, a former U.S. senator from Illinois, was scheduled to take the podium at 10:30 a.m., but school was canceled at the university. Simon has been working as a professor at Southern Illinois University and in the Public Policy Institute, a center designed to solve some of the country's oldest problems, since retiring from the Senate in 1997.

One of the center's accomplishments has been its work on campaign finance reform in the state of Illinois. Campaign finance legislation the center led has been called the greatest state reform in more than 25 years.

While his work goes on, it is unclear whether his speech will be rescheduled.

"We are going to try and bring him back, but it is hard to tell because of his schedule," Freeland said. "Hopefully, sometime later in the spring or next fall he will be able to come."

— Nick Bratkovic

Scientists work to gain benefits from genome

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Now that scientists have published their first examinations of nearly all the human genetic code — the genome — the job of figuring it out and reaping benefits is just beginning.

Both teams that largely decoded the genome say their results already have helped others find dozens of disease-promoting genes. That's a step toward understanding the biological roots of disease, which could someday pay off in better treatments.

But that's just one payoff scientists are hoping for from the genome work.

Researchers also want to find ways to use a patient's particular genetic makeup to choose therapies that will work best and with the fewest side effects, for example. Better understanding of human biology should also help scientists evaluate environmental hazards as well, researchers say.

And on the scientific side, scientists hope to learn more about evolution, ancient migrations of human populations and puzzles about the genome's own history and structure.

"We have peered for the first time at the ancient text," said Eric Lander, director of the Whitehead Institute Center for Genome Research in Cambridge, Mass., and co-author of one of the new analyses. "We find a few answers and dozens of new mysteries."

The two groups determined most of the 3 billion "letters" of the human DNA code, a long chemical sequence that contains the basic instructions for building and running a human body. Both agreed they found surprisingly few genes, some 26,000 to 39,000 according to Celera Genomics, and about 30,000 to 40,000, according to the consortium.

The findings reaffirmed all humans were almost genetically identical, Roger Gerard Schwartzberg, France's minister of research, said at a Paris news conference. "Today, the 12th of February is a bad day for supporters of racism and xenophobia."

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

There was an error in Monday's Collegian.

The decision to cancel classes was made in part by the K-State Police.

The Collegian regrets the error.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletin@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Society of Women Engineers will meet at 6:30 tonight in Durland 129.
- Greeks Advocating the Mature Management of Alcohol will meet at 6 tonight in Union 213. Representatives are encouraged to bring friends.
- The registration deadline for Career and Employment Services' Dining Etiquette Workshop is today. The workshop will be at 5:30 p.m. March 1 in the Dirty Dining Center. Professional business attire is required at the dinner. The cost is $5.25 per person or meal exchange for students with a K-State meal plan.
- Hispanic American Leadership Organization will meet at 5:30 p.m. today in Hale Library Tower Room 3.
- KSU Karate Club is beginning classes in Okinawan Goju-ryu Karatedo today and Thursday. Call Charlene at 776-2112 or Roy at 395-2037 for more information.
- Marketing Club will meet at 7:30 tonight in Kedzie 106.
- Chimes Junior Honorary applications and scholarship applications are now available in the Office of Student Activities and Services. The applications are due at 4 p.m. Wednesday. Applicants must have at least a 3.0 cumulative GPA and must be juniors in the fall 2001 semester.
- The International Student Center will have an International Coffee Hour presentation, "The Way of Life in Africa," at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the student center.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct a resume-critique workshop from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Wednesday in Holtz Hall.

■ Graduate Students of Visual Arts will have an art exhibition through Feb. 23 in the Willard Hall Gallery. The show is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and a reception will be Friday.
■ Can't use your e-mail? Reactivate your ID at www.ksu.edu/activateID.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County Saturday, Feb. 10

■ At 2:35 p.m., Linda K. McCaslin, 381 Johnson Road, was arrested for battery.
■ At 5:50 p.m., Julie R. Ivy, 21161 Ober Road, was arrested for theft.
■ At 7:05 p.m., David D. Clanton, Marlatt 421, was arrested for driving on a canceled driver's license.
■ At 11:45 p.m., Justin W. Harris, Mt. Hope, Kan., was arrested for DUI.

Sunday, Feb. 11

■ At 12:10 a.m., Donnie J. Lalonde, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for battery.
■ At 12:30 a.m., Yvonne M. Holthaus, 821 Dondee Drive, was arrested for battery.
■ At 3:48 a.m., John R. Doney, 2400 Greenbriar, was arrested for DUI.
■ At 4:15 a.m., Terry L. Bradshaw, 1209 Claflin Road, was arrested for DUI.
■ At 5:15 a.m., Thomas N. Murphy, 300 N. Fifth St., was arrested for driving on a canceled driver's license.
■ At 3:20 p.m., Arielle R. Nolte, 1225 Ratone St., was arrested for theft.
■ At 6 p.m., Tyler J. Kough, Scott City, Kan., was arrested for worthless checks.
■ At 11:15 p.m., Judson W. Webb, 1950 Hunting Ave., was arrested for driving on a canceled driver's license.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

HANSEN NUTRITION CENTER
Locally owned one stop Health Food Supermarket
3112 Anderson • 537-4571
Across from Plaza West

MFA Candidate Exhibition
Brought to you by CNOVA
KSU Willard Hall Gallery
February 10th-23rd
Reception - February 16th 5-8 pm

STUDENTS

Your student government leadership wanted you to pay a few more $$ per semester to build a new services building.

85% of you said NO!

Now, your student leadership wants a rental inspection program that may cost apartment residents $10 per month.

Come to the Manhattan City Commission work session at City Hall, City Commission Chambers TUESDAY, FEB. 14 at 5 p.m.

TELL THEM NO AGAIN

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.

DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.

Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)

DMS Bail Bonds

"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

hang ten, earn six*

summer sessions, hawaii

* 6 weeks, 6 credits, as low as $2,900 (based on typical costs of tuition, room & board, books, and estimated airfare)

Term 1: May 21-June 29 • Term 2: July 2-August 10
www.summer.hawaii.edu • toll-free 1 (800) 862-6628

University of Hawai'i at Mānoa, Summer Sessions

Delivers the latest!

OPEN LATE!

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

OPEN LATE!

702 N. 11th Street
770-3333
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Checks add 50¢

770-3333

Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

MONDAY MANIA

"Carry Out Only"
LARGE CHEESE PIZZA

$3.99

Additional Toppings $1.00 per topping

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

CARRY-OUT SPECIALS

16" 1-Topping $6.99
14" 1-Topping $5.99

BONUS BUYS MENU
with any food purchase

- 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99
- Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99
- 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99
- Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99

STIX IT TO ME TUES.

Buy One Pokey Stix at Regular Price get Equal or Lesser Value for Free

"Tuesday Only"

(Carry Out or Delivery)

A CU+ ABOVE Hair and Nail Salon

We are happy to welcome Jamie (previously of Impressions Salon) to our team!!

Jamie comes to us with six years experience. She specializes in all hair care services.

Call and ask for Jamie & receive $5 off a highlight/cut. Exp. March 1, 2001

(785) 537-3200 • 1800 Claflin Road • Suite 110
next to Pizza Shuttle

Athlete keeps family close

By JAMIE BARRETT
Kansas State Collegian

Paulina Castillejos knows she has found herself a new home at K-State, but she said she is certain not to let her connection to her hometown of Puebla, Mexico, slip away.

"I am really close with my younger sister," said Castillejos, freshman in management information systems. "I am able to talk to her in Spanish about things that are going on here. I miss her, and I really like talking to her."

When she does talk to her family, Castillejos said she is able to tell them something new every time. From a new combination of classes, tennis meets, practices and all the people she has met since coming to K-State, Castillejos said her schedule is busy and keeps her family interested when she calls them on the phone.

"I have a lot to do this semester," Castillejos said. "We started tennis season, and I have 15 hours of class."

Castillejos keeps a busy schedule of her day-to-day activities. With class every morning and tennis practice every afternoon, she makes sure to get all of her homework done before she spends time with her friends.

"After practice I head home to take a shower and go to dinner," Castillejos said. "I usually have homework, but sometimes I can watch a movie with my friends."

Castillejos said she does not mind being busy, and even with her weekends filled by tennis meets, she is able to experience different things to do in Kansas and in the United States.

"I was able to go home to Kansas City with my roommate over Thanksgiving," Castillejos said. "I had a lot of fun with her and her family."

FROM THE BEGINNING

Editor's note: From the Beginning is an ongoing series chronicling the lives of five K-State freshmen.

See pages 1, 5 and 7 for additional profile stories.

Sarah Geer, freshman in business, is Castillejos' roommate. Geer said getting to know Castillejos has been a great experience, and she considers her to be someone with whom she will be lifelong friends.

"Paulina and I get along great," Geer said. "We spend a lot of time together and are already planning on living in the dorms together next year. I am also going to go to Mexico with her this summer."

Castillejos said she considers Geer to be her family away from home. Although she feels a special connection to her sister, Castillejos said she feels a similar connection to Geer through the friendship.

"She is a good friend to me," Castillejos said. "I am able to tell her anything."

Geer said since she has known Castillejos, she has noticed a lot of changes in her.

"Paulina is much more confident this semester," Geer said. "She is more confident in her English, and I think she is even more comfortable now than she was first semester. We were gone for a long time over winter break, and she is back in the groove."

Castillejos said although she is busy due to the start of tennis season, she is glad to be competing and playing every weekend.

"I feel at home when I am able to compete and play," Castillejos

MICHAEL YOUNG/Collegian

Paulina Castillejos is advised as she changes sides by Dinah Watson during a tennis match at Cottonwood Racquet Club. Castillejos said she does not mind the heavy class load of 15 hours and having most of her weekends consumed by tennis matches.

said. "I like to play, and I want to do it throughout college."

Steve Bietau, women's tennis head coach, said he thinks Castillejos has adapted well to her new home and has continued to play an important role on the tennis team.

"Paulina makes a significant contribution to our team," Bietau said. "She has adapted well, and I attribute that to her strong values and solid family background. She is a strong individual who is very well defined."

Now that she has been at K-State for nearly six months, Castillejos said she made a good decision in coming here.

"I love it here," Castillejos said. "I feel at home, and after I graduate I think I want to stay here for a while. I am sure I will go back to Mexico sometime, but I know I want to stay here for several years."

Hoyt students talk

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

One week after three students were charged when authorities uncovered a plot to attack their school in northeast Kansas, students still are concerned.

"It just doesn't seem like it could happen in a small, close-knit community like that," said Helen Burns, freshman in electrical engineering, who graduated from Royal Valley High School in May 2000.

The trio, Richard Bradley Jr., 18; Jason Moss, 17; and James Lopez, 16, were arrested Feb. 2 on charges of conspiracy to commit murder and conspiring to criminally use explosives after officials searched two homes in Mayetta and Hoyt.

Detective Steven Rupert of the Jackson County Sheriff's Office said the suspects had discussed the Columbine High School attack and allegedly planned to make a similar attack on Royal Valley High School in May.

Jenny Morse, who graduated in 1999 from the high school, said she was in disbelief when she heard the news.

"I had to go right out and get a newspaper and read it for myself," Morse, sophomore in elementary education at Manhattan Christian College, said.

"I was really angry at first and then I started to feel worried because I still know a lot of people there."

Travis Green, who graduated in 2000 from the high school, had the same emotions about the arrest.

"I never thought something like that would happen," Green, freshman in mechanical and nuclear engineering, said. "It was really scary to hear that it was true."

When the homes were searched, deputies found bomb-making materials, hand-drawn floor plans of the school, a modified assault rifle and about 400 rounds of ammunition and white-supremacist and Nazi drawings.

Morse said she is still in shock. She never expected this to happen.

"Lots of people knew the boys that were involved and can't believe they would do such a thing," she said.

"It is hard to grasp that something like this could happen in small-town middle-America."

Art display removed

By THERESA BECKER
Kansas State Collegian

A sculpture on display in the Union art gallery was removed last week under a cloud of controversy.

The sculpture, which depicted a flaccid penis fountain, was originally in the front of the gallery. After receiving complaints, the artist was asked by K-State Student Union officials to move it to the back of the gallery. It was then that the artist chose to remove it completely.

Jody Kingery-Page, graduate student in art, was the artist.

"I wasn't asked to remove it. I made a judgment call based on the way we all, as a group, set up the show. It seemed silly to move it 15 feet back when you can still see it," he said.

Kingery-Page said he didn't want to cause any problems for the other students by leaving the sculpture in the gallery.

Gayle Spencer, coordinator for student activities, said the Union had received complaints about the sculpture.

Kingery-Page said he wasn't surprised he was asked to move the art work.

"I really wasn't surprised," he said. "I found it to be inconvenient more than anything. There are lots of things on campus I don't like to look at, and there's nobody protecting me. It speaks to a greater problem."

Dan Hunt, assistant professor of art and Kingery-Page's professor, said it never was intended to cause problems.

"It had already caused so much controversy, and it was not intended to cause controversy at all," he said.

Kansas State University

DON'T LET IT ZOOM BY, GET YOUR COPY OF THE NEW CAMPUS PHONEBOOK, NOW

GRADUATION ANNOUNCEMENTS

C-B Graduation Announcements

The diploma you can wear.

JOSTENS
REWARD YOUR ACHIEVEMENT

Order now for all your graduation needs. Varney's Book Store Graduation Fair

February 12, 13, 14

Representatives will be available from 11 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE

"We Give You Our Best"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

On the Topic

Why do you think Nicole Kidman and Tom Cruise separated?

Nicole Kidman and Tom Cruise separated? I am so out of the loop. Why didn't anybody tell me? Do you think he'll stay single by the time I'm on spring break, or should I just drop out of school now and move to California?

Why did Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman separate? They met on the set of "Days of Thunder." If my spouse was in that God-awful movie, I would divorce them, too.

I think that there are a lot more valuable things we can be talking about in the Fourum than the broken relationship of two movie stars.

I think I know the reason why Kidman and Cruise broke up. Nicole and I did a bad, bad thing.

With Nicole Kidman and Tom Cruise separating, is there really any hope for the rest of us?

Tom and Nicole. Why they separated, I don't know. But one thing I am sure of is that Nicole Kidman is single, baby.

Has anyone else noticed that Tom Cruise only has one front tooth?

Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman split up because he keeps calling my roommate. Every night. He just won't leave her alone. It's ridiculous.

Off the Topic

To the girl at Taco Bell who thought I was cute, thanks for the best birthday present ever.

Hey, Cat fans, why don't you go support your baseball team? You guys got something special there. Go check them out.

I have never had so much fun ice skating to class.

This is another beautiful example of Chase Manhattan Apartments' management skills: I just want to thank them for using their snow plow to pile 4 feet of snow behind my car and then pack it in even more by using the snow blower to clear sidewalks off from the other direction so I'm totally packed in, and it takes me 20 minutes and three guys pushing to get my car out of a parking spot. I really appreciate that.

To the guys in the white pickup who were driving around helping people who got stuck in the snow on Friday, way to go. Sorry, I don't know your names.

I just wanted to let facilities know that it's time to switch to snow removal Plan B, because Plan A ain't working.

Hey, Keira, maybe you should go back to high school.

I just wanted everyone to know that I have a picture of one of those Project Wellness guys puking and holding an alcohol bottle.

Do you "In Review" people like any movies you see, or what? Maybe you are just a little too bitter. I think that's what it is.

I just want to thank the nice parking service guys who helped me with my flat tire. You guys are awesome.

Question for Thursday

Do you agree or disagree with the penis sculpture being removed from the Union art gallery? Why or why not?

Cold beer warms heart

Ex-wife, police fail to damper columnist's snow day

It is a winter's tale
That the snow blind twilight ferries over the lakes
And floating fields from the farm in the cup of the vales.
—Dylan Thomas, Welsh poet;
from "A Winter's Tale"

The following are my reflections on a snow day:

1) First, I'd like to thank President Jon Wefald for giving us the day off. Blizzard is my favorite weather. An unexpected holiday to play in the snow is the best present I've received all winter. Besides, I'm sure I wasn't the only one who desperately needed a bit of a breather from the semester. So, Wefald, thank you very much.

2) When I went to bed Thursday night, it was raining ice. With the cost of energy on the rise, I've been keeping my house at a temperature just above what it takes to freeze my water pipes. (That's plumbing, not hookahs.) I sleep under three blankets, a 20-degree sleeping bag and my North Face five-degree sleeping bag.

When my clock radio sounded the next morning, the condensation emanating from my breath made it difficult to see what the time read.

Thoughts of getting out of bed were most unappealing. I sleep soundly. Even on the best of days I have difficulties rousing from slumber.

Then the radio guy said K-State was having a snow day. I was out of bed and at the window in an instant. It's amazing how the words "snow day" will wake one up. I need to get a morning alarm that sounds "Snow day!"

Snow day! Snow day!

3) It's amazing how good a beer tastes first thing in the morning on a snow day. Then again, everything is better on a snow day.

4) Friday was a state-mandated in-service day off for all public school kids. This would have been their first snow day since the big Halloween snowstorm of 1993. That's outside living memory for most of these youths. Every kid between the ages of five and 17 in this town feels completely ripped off. I'd stay clear from the mall for a couple more days.

5) Former Sen. Paul Simon was scheduled to give the Huck Boyd Lecture on Friday morning in the K-State Student Union. With the closing of the school came the cancellation of his lecture. Figuring the senator was snowed in with nothing to do, I thought perhaps he'd be up for lunch or coffee or sledding or something. A conversation with a former senator could make for a good future column.

I left a message at the Ramada Plaza Hotel to see if the senator could come out to play. I was promptly called back and informed that Simon was on his way out the door to catch the next shuttle to KCI, but thanked me very much for the invitation.

I then had to call my ex-wife about something. She works for the Manhattan Mercury. I told her how I tried to get a date with Simon but failed. She asked if he was staying at the Holidome. I told her no, he was at the Ramada.

Later in the day when I picked up the Mercury, I saw on the front page that my ex had scooped me. She caught him while he was waiting for his shuttle.

Simon was one of my favorite senators because I thought he was very intelligent, but how smart can a guy really be who'll drive to Kansas City in a blizzard just to sit in a snowed-in airport?

6) It's amazing how good a beer tastes after talking to one's ex-wife on a snow day. Then again, everything is better on a snow day.

7) I love driving in snow. The quiet and softness of the road, the gentle flakes streaming onto the windshield, no traffic; it's completely hypnotic, a perfect Zen meditative state.

After I chiseled the ice off the car, with a six-pack along, I went out for a little spin (so to speak). With John Coltrane playing on the tape deck and serenity of mind, I drove north on Juliette Avenue and up over Manhattan Hill.

Did you know the Riley County Police Department hires a police officer just to sit on Manhattan Hill and bust people who drive around the "Road Closed" barrier?

I told the police officer that those signs are old and were installed back in the day when they used to make cars with rear-wheel drive. I told the police officer I drove up the hill without slipping and crashing, and that he followed me up the hill without slipping and crashing, and even if I did, there isn't anybody else driving about even to smash into.

That's when the police officer asked me if I knew my tags were expired. After checking with headquarters, the police officer informed me my tags were actually registered to a car I owned two vehicles ago. This service cost me 80 bucks.

8) It's amazing how good a beer tastes after getting an $80 ticket on a snow day. Then again, everything is better on a snow day.

9) I thought it would be fun to go do some donuts in one of the parking lots on campus. One can't do donuts forward in a front-wheel drive car. So there I was, driving around, doing donuts in reverse.

Did you know that K-State hires a police officer just to sit out in the parking lot behind Weber Hall just to bust people doing donuts?

I told the police officer that there wasn't any school, and that no one was parked in the lot, and that no one else was even around to smash into. I told the police officer that I paid a crapload of dough for a parking permit that I never use because I can never find a parking spot, and that this is the first time I even got to use the parking lot in about 3 1/2 years.

That's when the police officer asked me if I knew that my tags were expired. I showed him the ticket I just got about 10 minutes earlier. He placed his right hand up over his eyes, shook his head and told me just to go home.

8) It's amazing how good a beer tastes after getting out of a ticket on a snow day. Then again, everything is better on a snow day.

9) Someone once said, "One good thing about a snowfall is that it makes your lawn look as good as your neighbor's." A good blanket of snow makes the world look new and fresh. The quickest way this can be ruined is when your dog goes out and has explosive diarrhea all over the place. My house is the one with the brown snow out front.

10) I tend to be an optimist. It's only mid-February. Perhaps God and Wefald can get together and give us a few more snow days before spring blooms full. One can only hope.

David is a graduate student in entomology. You can e-mail him at bugs@ksu.edu.

VINCE JACOBSON/Collegian

Finding women to date not that difficult for men

Wednesday, Feb. 14: St. Valentine's Day. The holiday when single guys everywhere are reminded of what losers they are. Some guys can't seem to get a date, regardless of how hard they try. This is bad, because it's common knowledge no one can live a full and happy life without being involved in a romantic relationship.

I really want to help these guys, so I've compiled a little guide to help them create romantic relationships. With a bit of luck and some effort, they might even be able to get a date for tomorrow night.

First, choose a woman. This is perhaps the most important step, because most successful romantic relationships involve more than one person. The choice is a little bit tough, but you can simplify it by selecting a woman on the basis of her outward appearance. Don't worry about whether she's "nice" or "funny," because those are just distractions. The less personality she has, the better.

You must select a woman who isn't too attractive, because if she's really pretty, she probably won't go out with you. This step can prove a bit tricky because you probably have an overinflated view of yourself.

The best way to go is to find someone with whom you think you might stand a chance, and then select someone else slightly less pretty. Ideally, she'll think you're too good for her, and you'll think that she's too good for you. This is called "mutual fear of being abandoned for a more attractive person," and it's a vital part of any healthy relationship.

The next item of business is to ensure that she is aware of your existence. You can accomplish this by beating on various objects with your face and screaming nonsensical things to no one in particular.

This action will elicit one of two responses. Either she will notice you and stare or she'll pretend not to notice you. It's a win-win situation; either way, she knows you exist.

Once you've broken the ice by letting her know that you are part of this plane of existence, you've practically won the battle. Your next move is to actually make eye contact. This can be difficult, but there are ways to make it easier.

If you wear corrective lenses of any kind, remove them. This will give you a false sense of security, since you won't be as aware of her eyes looking at you. If you can still distinguish features without your corrective lenses, focus your eyes on the wall behind her. Chances are, she won't notice at all.

MICAH HAWKINSON

To get a date, you must speak to her. I know it seems an extreme measure to take, but it's necessary. To make it easier, you can use a witty and clever line. Here's a good one: "I am new in this town and have not yet acquired a telephone number. Would you let me borrow yours?"

If you deliver the line properly, she will laugh and give you her phone number. If you deliver it improperly, she will stare at you as she would at someone with horns growing from his head. If this happens, it is your responsibility to laugh—no pickup line may be delivered without someone laughing at it.

Once you exchange clever banter, you have to ask her out. If she has given you her phone number, it's easy: you can just tell her that you'll call her sometime. Interaction is a lot easier over the telephone, so you'll probably be fine.

If she hasn't given you her phone number, your task is a bit harder.

You have to suggest going out. It's best to make your suggestion a non-threatening one like going out for coffee or tofu pizza. If she says no, weep bitterly and leave the room muttering under your breath. Then find another woman and try again.

If you follow these simple steps, you'll have a girlfriend in no time. If you have questions, feel free to call me. I'm home a lot.

Micah is a sophomore in English and history. You can e-mail him at mph7686@ksu.edu.

Grading systems vary by sections

By KRISTEN DYMAK
Kansas State Collegian

It took Melanie Bean only a few classes before she said she saw discrepancies in grading systems at K-State.

"I had a really easy introductory section of psychology my first year here," Bean, senior in advertising, said.

Bean's friend took the same section of psychology with a different instructor, she said, and had a harder class.

"My class was taught by a grad student. I learned a lot, but I didn't have to exert much effort," Bean said. "My friend had a professor, and she struggled for a 'B.'"

But Microeconomics was just the opposite experience, she said.

"I had a grad student, who was a terrible, terrible teacher, and I struggled for a 'B,'" Bean said. "But I had a friend who took it with a professor of economics, and he easily got an 'A.'"

Victoria Clegg, director of the Center for the Advancement of Teaching and Learning, said it's not unusual to have instructors use different grading systems.

"There are no universitywide grading systems required of the faculty other than what's in the student handbook," Clegg said.

The 2000-02 Undergraduate Catalog only distinguishes the grades the university uses.

Clegg said the university doesn't get any more specific than that because of the variety of classes K-State offers.

"Most often, the decision is left to the faculty member or possibly the department, because of the different expectations in different areas," she said. "If instructors are teaching classes that are more advanced, they expect more from those students."

Dallas Johnson, head of the Department of Statistics, said grading systems vary from department to department.

Some statistics courses, such as STAT 320 and 330, Johnson said, use similar tests throughout the sections to help maintain consistency of grades.

"The students in those sections all take common exams and common projects," he said. "Very little curving goes on."

But Johnson said instructors in upper-level statistics classes are allowed to choose the grading system they wish to use, because there are no common exams in those sections.

"The only way we would be able to have every section treated the same way is to give common exams for every section," he said. "It's very difficult to do that. Common exams usually have to be given at night, and there are just not enough large rooms to do that."

He said grading systems vary from class to class because instructors styles vary.

"We can't guarantee a student that got a 'B' in one class couldn't have gotten an 'A' in another," Johnson said. "What we hope is that all students are treated fairly."

John Harrington Jr., head of the Department of Geography, said students should not be surprised when instructors use different grading procedures.

"The instructors provide the syllabus at the beginning of the semester, so students are aware of the grading system from the start," Harrington said.

Marcie Mamura, junior in dance, said she likes the fact that there isn't just one grading system used at K-State.

"It might not always be beneficial to students if teachers were to use the same grading system," Mamura said.

"Sometimes things don't always follow the initial plan, so professors should have the ability to change the grades with dynamics of the class."

Non-traditional accounting major strives for degree, balances family, school, job

By APRIL MIDDLETON
Kansas State Collegian

When April 15 rolls around and everyone has filed their taxes, Kim Boyd, freshman in accounting, will be able to take her first breather of the semester.

Kim Boyd is a paraprofessional at an accounting firm as well as a wife and mother of three. She said this time of the year is always the busiest.

However, returning to school this year as a part-time student has required even more of her time.

"People want their taxes done.

They don't care what else is going on in your personal life," Boyd said.

"It's going to be rough until the tax deadline rolls around."

Boyd is enrolled in two classes. Because there is so little free time in her days, she has scheduled her classes during her only free time: one during her lunch hour and one in the evening.

Boyd said it is difficult to find time to study when her work and home life require so much of her time.

"I've been working over 50 hours each week since January," Boyd said.

"My work hours aren't different than they are any other year. Now I just have other things that I have to fit into my schedule."

Boyd's manager, Theresa Westphal, said she is hard-working and a willing employee.

"Kim is always willing to take on anything she is handed," Westphal said. "And, during this time of the year, it is very busy around here."

Returning to school this year to pursue her degree in accounting is something Boyd said she has been wanting to do for a long time.

She said receiving her degree will allow her opportunities for advancement. Westphal agrees.

"Once Kim gets her degree, she will have the opportunity to progress. I think her decision to pursue it is a great one for her and for the position she holds here," she said.

Westphal said she admires Boyd for being able to maintain her full-time job, take care of responsibilities at home and find time for her studies.

"I'm sure this is hard for her. I

KAREN MIKOLS/Collegian

Kim Boyd, freshman in business administration, works on taxes at Varney and Associates. Boyd has worked for the company for several years, but is now pursuing a college degree, taking several hours each semester. Since it is tax season, she is working about 55 hours a week in addition to going to school and taking care of her family.

don't know how she does it," Westphal said. "But she stays organized and on top of everything. What she is doing is really great."

Boyd said last semester isn't much indication of how this one will go, mostly because the time commitments to her job have increased.

"Last semester there was some stress, but it wasn't overpowering," Boyd said.

"This semester won't be like that. There are going to be some bad days, and no one at home will like me very much."

However, Boyd said her family has been supportive of her and the decisions she has made.

"Everyone at home has been great," Boyd said.

"It's not that different at home other than I have to find some quiet time to study."

Finding time to study in the midst of everything else going on in her life is what worries Boyd the most.

"My biggest concern this semester is being able to devote enough study time. I want to be as successful this semester as I was last semester," Boyd said.

"It will all work out in the end, I'm sure."

FROM THE BEGINNING

Editor's note: From the Beginning is an ongoing series chronicling the lives of five K-State freshmen.

See pages 1, 3 and 7 for additional profile stories.

Bobby T's
Taco Tuesday Remember the Taco

$0.50 Tacos
$1.00 Draws
$1.50 Margaritas
$2.00 Coronas

Don't Forget, Wednesday Karaoke Night 9 p.m.

Bob's DINER 1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT
OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

is EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY
$1.99
BREAKFAST
ALL THE TIME

Happy Valentine's Day!

Little Caesars
TUESDAY SPECIAL!

1 18" GIANT PIZZA
WITH 1 TOPPING
PLUS AN 8 PIECE ORDER
OF CRAZY BREAD

$9.99

Call: 539-3333
MANHATTAN (Westloop Center)

No Coupon Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2000 L.C.E., Inc.

Strike a Pose

Don't miss your chance to be SEEN in the 2001 Royal Purple for FREE.

Bring your friends, family, significant others, co-workers, inside jokes and ideas, and we'll put you in the Royal Purple yearbook.

10 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Wednesday, Feb. 14
at K-State-Salina in the Tech Center Lobby

10 a.m. - 6 p.m.
Thursday, Feb. 15 - Friday, Feb. 16
in the Union Courtyard

Order your own 2001 Royal Purple yearbook for only $34.95 at Strike a Pose.

2001 Royal Purple
royalpurple.ksu.edu

DRY CLEAN CITY INC.

PREPAY $2.49 STORE HOURS
M-F 7-7
SAT 9-5

MOST DRYCLEAN ITEMS

LAUNDRY • JEANS $2.75 • SHIRTS $1.50 • KHAKIS $2.75

WHY PAY MORE?
427 E. POYNTZ • NEXT TO HASTINGS • 776-1515

TUESDAY DINNER BUFFET

Gambino's Pizza 5pm-7:30 pm

1219 Bluemont Ave. 537-9090

$3.99 ALL YOU CAN EAT!
Pizza, Pasta, Calzones, Cheese Sticks, Soups, Wings & Dessert Pizza

virtual CAREER FAIRS Feb. 9-15, 2001 Intern, Colleg, summer positions www.ksu.edu/ces virtual CAREER FAIRS Feb. 16-22, 2001 Fulltime career positions

Apply to be a 2001 Summer Orientation Leader

Enthusiastic, motivated leaders are needed to assist new Wildcats in their transition to the university.

Applications and additional information available at New Student Services, 1 Anderson Hall or call Susan at 532-6318

Application deadline:
Wednesday, February 28, 2001

Kistner's Flowers

Cross over the bridge, and we are a mile south of the mall on Highway 177 South

Cash and Carry
ROSES $30
a dozen
including tax, baby's breath, greenery, & water tubes

- ♥ Cut flower vases and bouquets
- ♥ Blooming and green plants
- ♥ Balloons and stuffed animals
- ♥ Tulips (10 stem bunch) $10
- ♥ Mixed flower bunches $6

SERVING MANHATTAN AND K-STATE SINCE 1974
SEE OUR FLOWERS IN THE UNION BOOKSTORE

Open: Monday - Friday 8 - 5:30
Call 776-7989 or 776-7044

be your own search engine

Don't take a break from your day. Break into it.

K-State high jumper Heather Robinson attempts to clear the bar during a track meet in Ahearn Field House in a previous season.

FILE PHOTO BY IVAN KOZAR/Collegian

Hinds tries to improve on previous time

By ERIKA SAUERWEIN
Kansas State Collegian

Korene Hinds has the fourth-fastest collegiate mile time by a woman in the country.

She was K-State's lone winner at the Iowa State Invitational over the weekend, setting career-best and NCAA-automatic-qualifying marks by running the mile in 4:40.78 seconds. She also was named Big 12 Indoor Track and Field Female Athlete of the Week on Monday.

But Hinds wants to get faster. "I want to break 4:40, and I think I can do it," Hinds said. "I still have room for improvement. I have been pushing myself more and have been having some good practices."

Head coach Cliff Rovelto said he's noticed her determination.

"Korene is a talented gal," Rovelto said. "Her training age is relatively young. She is making great strides now. She has really developed a good foundation, and she is excited and hungry for her future. And that's what it is all about."

Hinds might have been the only winner at the meet, but five other Wildcats posted NCAA-provisional marks. The Iowa State Invitational was not a scored meet, so the total success of the track team wasn't measured.

"There were a number of quality performances," Rovelto said. "That is what is so misleading about our sport."

Rovelto said about 80 schools were represented at the meet. It originally was larger, but poor weather conditions prevented teams from making the drive to Ames. Nevertheless, the invitational possibly was the weekend's premier meet.

"There were four major meets this weekend around the country, and this one is probably the biggest and the best," Rovelto said. "There is no way of really knowing what team won the meet unless you sat down and figured it out, but if I was to score the meet, I would say we placed really high. Probably in the top three."

Freshman Queeneth Evurunobi earned a provisional mark in the long jump with a jump of 20 feet, 2 1/2 inches. Sophomore Amy Mortimer tallied her second provisional mark in the 3,000 meters with a time of 9:23.30 seconds. Teresha DeRossett jumped 5 feet, 9 3/4 inches in the high jump to tie her career best.

On the men's side, freshman Joseph

Lee finished second in the 800 meters when he ran a career-best and NCAA-provisional time of 1:49.86. Lee also ran a leg in the men's distance medley relay team that took second place also with a provisional time of 9:39.43.

"I run well when I have good competition," Lee said. "When they run faster, I start running faster. The large meets help me perform better. All the athletes, spectators and noise really gives me a rush."

The Wildcats return home this weekend for the KSU Open in Ahearn Field House on Thursday and Friday.

"It is definitely a time where we back off," Rovelto said. "Our volume is not as great. The intensity is still there but volumes go down. We will then be able to go into the Big 12 Conference a little fresher."

Equestrian falls short of post-season competition

By ERIKA SAUERWEIN
Kansas State Collegian

The Western riders on the equestrian team came up eight points short of qualifying for post-season competition as a team.

The Wildcats tallied 186 points throughout the season and finished third in the region behind West Texas and Texas A&M.

"We didn't go on as a team, because at the beginning of the season we were just starting out as a new team," head coach Teresa Slough said. "For the first shows, we were not ready. West Texas was ready. But since then, we have beat them. They just got so far ahead in points the first couple of shows that we couldn't catch up."

Although the Western team won't advance, four riders will go on to compete individually in regionals March 3 in College Station, Texas. A rider qualified in each of the five divisions.

"I am disappointed that I can't take a team on, but I'm not disappointed in the way the girls performed," Slough said. "I have seen some big improvements."

Kelly Gratny qualified in both Open Horsemanship and Open Reining for regionals. Megan Douthit qualified in Advanced Horsemanship. Kara Nielsen will ride in the Intermediate Horsemanship and Megan Hemberger will show in the Beginning division.

"I am very excited," Nielsen said. "I have never shown horses before. I have ridden horses for a couple years, but nothing competitive. I am just going to work on the same stuff I have been working on. I think I have an advantage because many of the girls around the region have their points being carried over from last year, and I didn't."

In the last regular-season shows at Oklahoma State last weekend, the Western team took a second-place finish and two first-place finishes.

On Friday, the team took second place as Reserve High-Point Team. The Wildcats tallied 14 points, only three behind Oklahoma State. K-State placed in every division it entered. Gratny received Reserve High-Point Rider honors, placed third in Reining and won the Open Horsemanship division. Jamie Dickson placed second in Advanced Horsemanship and Jessica Gittleman finished second in Beginning Walk/Trot.

"In the last seven shows, we haven't lost to anybody but the home team," Slough said. "So a lot has to do with home-field advantage."

The Wildcats won the second show of the weekend by defeating Oklahoma State by two points. K-State compiled 23 points. The team was led by Douthit, who placed first in Advanced Horsemanship II, and Heather Hogan in Advanced Horsemanship I.

In the third show, K-State tied for first with Texas A&M, finishing with 27 points. Gratny had another strong show by winning the Open Horsemanship division and placing second in Open Reining.

FILE PHOTO BY STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

K-State rider Jessie Baldwin rides in Advanced II Horsemanship on Oct. 6 in Canyon, Texas. Baldwin placed first in Advanced II during the third show this weekend in Stillwater, Okla.

"It was a really good weekend," Nielson said. "It's a big accomplishment to go to Oklahoma and beat them twice at home. We were riding their horses that they practice on every day. I think it says a lot about the team."

The English riders return to action when they travel to Canyon, Texas, this weekend for a three-show event. The shows will decide which English riders and teams advance to regionals.

Columnist reflects on various sports issues, XFL, K-State baseball, NBA

Some broken-field running while wondering where the Royals would be today had Bo's hip not slipped:

The front page of Sunday's Dallas Morning News sports section displayed suggested slogans for the Texas Rangers' upcoming season. One was "Stop Yankee Imperialism." Apparently, the Rangers are concerned the cash-rich Yankees are buying their way into the postseason. Allow me to introduce the pot to the kettle.

Speaking of baseball, does it get any better for the K-State baseball team than beating the defending national champion LSU Tigers at LSU's Alex Box stadium in its season opener? I was ready to call this season a success just because the Wildcats finally have a stadium of which they can be proud. Now K-State's sluggers have a win against the third-ranked team in the nation.

CHRIS McLEMORE

Continuing the thread: there might be 10 inches of snow on the ground, but major league pitchers and catchers report to camp four days from now. Every good fan knows this means the Royals will be mathematically eliminated from the playoffs before Kimmi gets kicked off the island. Call me a sucker for futility...

Watching the XFL is like dating Pamela Lee in a chastity belt: you see lots of cleavage, but get no action...

Was anyone else bothered that the dunks in Sunday's All-Star Game made Saturday's Slam-Dunk Contest look like the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex on a Thursday night?

Side note: If Allen Iverson is "the Answer," what's "the Question?"...

National signing day has come and gone, and the K-State football team has landed its finest recruiting class yet. This is football's version of the "if-you-build-it-they-will-come" phenomenon. My friends, our field of dreams is 6,360 square yards of well-worn AstroTurf...

Minnesota Gov. Jesse Ventura refuses to reveal to his Minnesotan constituents how much cash he's pulling in from his continuing brush with bad broadcasting. He's probably afraid the players will revolt when they realize he and his press-box buddies are the only ones making NFL-sized dollars...

It's too bad for Michael Jordan that Sunday's All-Star Game will be the only decent basketball game played in Washington this year.

Or next year...

Unfortunately the NFL can't exile Mark Chmura to the XFL. There's no doubt that the frozen tundra's former tight end will wind up on some NFL roster next year despite his run-in with teenage girls. The good news for Chmura is that the NFL season doesn't conflict with high school prom night...

Of the 62 people who have visited the Royals' Web site and responded to the question "How many wins will Jeff Suppan post in 2001?" five respondents said "13-18," 12 said "8-12," and the remaining 45 said "Who's Jeff Suppan?"

Has anyone else noticed Major League Baseball is having discussions on "the state of the game," the NBA is discussing "what's wrong with basketball," and the XFL is trying to show us the problems with the NFL? Hockey claims to be fine, but the most storied Canadian franchise is passing the reins of ownership to an American. Let us hope all is not lost...

Sure, I voted for him, but can I really put my faith in George W. Bush, the same man who authorized trading Sammy Sosa to the Cubs? More pressing: Will I ever forgive Allard Baird for trading Johnny Damon to the As even though I know he had little choice?

Speaking presidentially, even with the addition of Alex Rodriguez, the Texas Rangers

Ratings tumble for NBC's XFL in 2nd week

The Associated Press

The XFL wasn't as big of a turn-on in week two, as the football league that's as much about spectacle as sports drew only half as many viewers as it did for the debut broadcast on NBC and was pummeled in the TV ratings by the film "The Parent Trap."

The 50-percent decline mirrors what happened to the USFL, another spring football league, albeit one that — unlike the XFL — lured away some top talent from the NFL.

The USFL went from a 14.2 rating in its first game, on ABC in 1983, to 7.4 in its second game. It was down to 3.3 by week 15 and folded after three seasons.

Similarly, the preliminary overnight rating for Saturday's XFL show on NBC was a 5.1, meaning an average of 5.1 percent of television homes in the country's largest 49 markets tuned in at any given time. Last week's preliminary Nielsen number was 10.3.

Another bad sign: Repeating a pattern seen in week one, the XFL rating decreased each half hour from 8 to 10:30 p.m. EST.

That was followed by a razor-thin increase for the next 30 minutes, but then the audience expanded by 25 percent from 11 to 11:45 p.m. as the Los Angeles Xtreme pulled out their 39-32 victory over the Chicago Enforcers in double overtime.

The silver lining for the network and its partner in the XFL, the World Wrestling Federation, though, is that even with the decline, Saturday's rating was in line with the 4.5 national rating that advertisers were promised. Saturday night's national rating should be out Tuesday.

"We remain a work in progress, and our numbers last night are exactly where we said they would be the last six months," NBC Sports chairman Dick Ebersol said.

What remains to be seen is whether the XFL can prevent further ratings erosion.

"We have to wait at least four weeks to get an accurate prediction for the season," said former CBS Sports president Neil Pilson, who now runs a TV consulting firm.

The week two rating, though, "does establish that last week we had an enormous tune-in from people who probably are not going to be regular viewers of the XFL," Pilson added.

This Week in Sports

Today
Men's Golf — at Rice University Classic, Houston, Texas
Wednesday
Men's Basketball — at Nebraska, 7:05 p.m.
Women's Basketball — at Oklahoma, 7 p.m.
Friday
Baseball — vs. Utah at New Mexico
Saturday
Women's Basketball — vs. Nebraska 7 p.m., Bramlage Coliseum
Baseball — vs. UNLV at New Mexico
Equestrian — at West Texas A&M
Sunday
Men's Basketball — vs. Texas Tech, 2:30 p.m., Bramlage Coliseum
Baseball — at New Mexico

Christopher McLemore is a senior in political science. You can e-mail him at cml182@ksu.edu.

PIT STOP
AUTOMOTIVE

WINTER SPECIALS

- Tune-Ups • Brakes
- Exhaust • Shocks

OIL CHANGE, LUBE, & FILTER
(Up to 5 qts.)

$15.95

4 WHEEL COMPUTER
ROTATION AND BALANCE $29.95

Includes free brake inspection for cars and light trucks
(By appointment)

TRANSMISSION Flush
complete fluid exchange

$79.95

MOST CARS

Wilbur Hunter-ASE & Ford
Certified 42 Years Experience
Owner Bud Valeries

Coolant Exchange with New Antifreeze

$59.95

1629 FAIRLANE • MANHATTAN • 785-539-6650

Court decides Napster must stop sharing copyrighted music

By RON HARRIS
The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — Napster must stop allowing the millions of music fans who use its free Internet-based service to share copyrighted material, a federal appeals court ruled Monday.

The three-judge panel allowed Napster to remain in business but told a lower-court judge to rewrite her injunction that ordered Napster to shut down pending a trial in a lawsuit filed by the recording industry.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals also said Napster must lock out those users who exchange copyrighted songs without permission.

The appellate court had earlier issued a stay of the injunction.

"This is a clear victory," said Hilary Rosen, president and CEO of the Recording Industry Association of America. "The court of appeals found that the injunction is not only warranted, but required. And it ruled in our favor on every legal issue presented."

Napster can stay in business until U.S. District Judge Marilyn Hall Patel

retools her injunction, which the appellate court's 58-page opinion called overbroad. In fact, minutes after the panel's decision, thousands of Napster users were still trading music files on just one of the company's more than 100 servers.

The panel said Napster may be liable if it does not actively prohibit its users from swapping protected material. Rather than placing the entire burden on Napster, however, the court said the recording must warn Napster that copyrighted work is on the service before the company is found liable.

The court did not specify what kind of sanctions Napster might face.

In a statement, Napster said it was "disappointed" by the ruling, and said it would appeal. "We look forward to getting more facts into the record. We will pursue every avenue in the courts and the Congress to keep Napster operating."

The judges said it was apparent that "Napster has knowledge, both actual and constructive, of direct infringement," adding that the recording industry "would likely prevail" in its suit against the file-swapping service.

"We affirm the district court's conclusion that plaintiffs have demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits of the contributory copyright infringement claim," the ruling said.

"We, therefore, conclude that the district court made sound findings related to Napster's deleterious effect on the present and future digital-download market," the appeals court ruled. "Having digital downloads available for free on the Napster system necessarily harms the copyright holders' attempts to charge for the same downloads."

Napster argued that it was not to blame for its subscribers' use of copyrighted material, citing the Sony Betamax decision of 1984, in which the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hold VCR manufacturers and videotape retailers liable for people copying movies.

Fearing an immediate shutdown of the service that has changed the face of music, millions of users flooded the company's computer servers this weekend to download free music. Napster has an estimated 50 million users.

Webnoize, which monitors the digital entertainment economy, estimated that 250 million songs were downloaded using Napster over the weekend, and that on average, 1.5 million users were logged on at any one time.

Major record labels hoped Monday's ruling would force millions of computer users to pay for music the online music-swapping service has allowed them to get for free.

Had Napster won, the ruling could have given new life to other business ventures that have been waiting for guidance on whether a "personal-use" exception to copyright law allows or prohibits trading songs over the Internet.

The digital music technology Napster made popular is here to stay either way. The recording industry appears stymied by the notion of funneling music to consumers via the Internet for a price, while freely available computer applications allow even the computer novice to do it for free.

The five largest record labels — Sony, Warner, BMG, EMI and Universal — sued as soon as Redwood City-based Napster took off, saying it could rob them of billions of dollars in profits.

In May 1999, Napster founder Shawn Fanning released software that made it easy for personal computer users to locate and trade songs they had stored as computer files in the MP3 format, which crunches digital recordings down to manageable lengths without sacrificing quality.

Since the appellate judges began deliberating in October, Napster has made agreements with former business foes like Bertelsmann AG, the parent company of the BMG music unit.

The German media giant has promised much-needed capital if Napster switches to a subscription-based service that pays artists' royalties.

"Today's decision is another step in the process of accommodating the legitimate rights of copyright holders and the important interests of Napster users," Bertelsmann said in a statement.

The other major labels held out for Napster's demise.

Napster users were, not surprisingly, upset by the ruling.

"I'm bumming," said John Nock, 35, of Morgantown, W.Va., adding that the ruling could prevent him from mixing more tapes for his June wedding. "I've actually coordinated the whole music program off Napster. I got all the fun dance and good-time music. The love portion, I'm going to have to do it the old-fashioned way."

GLASS HEARTS Several Sizes & Wonderful Designs, From Three Studios $6 - $50

GLASS FLOWERS Red Roses, Anthuriums, Calla Lilies... $9 - $17

REAL ROSES With Gold, Silver or Copper Plating $29 - $45

GEMSTONE JEWELRY Sterling Silver & Garnet, Moonstone... $25 - $110

JEWELRY BOXES Contemporary Design, Two Styles $52 - $83

GLASS IMPRESSIONS
329 Poyntz Ave. 539-4610
Tue-Fri 11-6 • Sat 10-5

VALENTINES DAY

early edition restaurant

breakfast * brunch * lunch

Owners and Staff would like to thank all of our loyal customers who have contributed to our success and helped us to be voted the

#1 BREAKFAST IN MANHATTAN.

We appreciate your business and look forward to providing you with great food and great services for years to come!!

Thank You!!

Early Edition

3210 KIMBALL (in the Candlewood Shopping Center)

Southern Sun

Spring Break Special

It's $dollar$ days at Southern Sun. $1.00 a day until spring break. Start whenever you choose. the number of days until Mar. 18 is all you pay to tan everyday.

Get That Golden Tan!

776-8060

3232 Kimball Ave. (Next to Bobby T's)

Always Great Bulbs at the Best Prices!

Don't Even Think About It.

Get a clue. Take advantage of the convenience of the Bookstore's Valentine's Day booth, and buy your gifts on campus. Pre-order your gifts for free on-campus delivery.

Valentine's Day Booth

Feb. 9, & 12-13 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Feb 14 7:30 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Union Main Level

Bookstore

"Your Official KSU Bookstore"

www.ksubookstore.com
532-6583

The Salvation Army Family
Thrift Store

Wide Arrangement of Furniture & Electronics

310 Poyntz

Convenient Back Door and Front Door
Parking

Open Mon.-Sat.
10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Help Us Help Others!

WE WANT TO GIVE YOU A BIG KISS!

FREE GIANT HERSHEY'S® KISS

with purchase

HERSHEY'S® KISSES®

Starting February 9th-14th, just spend $75 or more at any Manhattan Town Center store and receive this Giant Hershey's® Kiss. It will be love at first bite of this 7 oz. of delicious milk chocolate.

A retail value of $7, and it's our FREE gift to you. Present your receipts at the Customer Service Center.

While supplies last. Limit one per person per day, please.

MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

3rd & Poyntz • 539-9207 • www.manhattantowncenter.com

Committee endorses bill to extend life of Kansas Lottery

■ Internet advertisement, credit-card purchase bans among changes proposed.

By JOHN HANNA
The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Most members of the Senate Federal and State Affairs Committee didn't like a lottery bill passed by the House, so they junked it Monday.

Instead, the Federal and State Affairs Committee endorsed its own version of a bill extending the Kansas Lottery's life.

The bill approved by the House contained proposed restrictions on the lottery's operations.

They included a ban on Internet advertising of lottery tickets, a prohibition on credit card purchases of tickets, and a requirement for fewer Keno games each day.

The House's legislation also would have created a $4-million program with lottery revenues to help decrease the cost of fares for people flying into and from Kansas airports.

The Senate committee's bill, endorsed on a voice vote, contains none of those provisions.

It would keep the lottery in operation until July 1, 2007, five years past the abolition date of July 1, 2002 set by Kansas law.

Leaders have said the Legislature needs to act this year, because the lottery would need a year to pay off prizes, make good on its bills and wind down its operations were it abolished.

The House bill would have kept the lottery operating for an extra year, until July 1, 2008.

But it was the restrictions on lottery operations and the proposed airfare program that bothered a majority of committee members most. They said they wanted a "clean" bill.

The Senate committee's bill isn't entirely clean, however.

Members added a provision that would require the lottery to undergo a security audit at least once every three years.

The committee's action could lengthen the debate over the lottery.

Had it endorsed and the Senate approved the House's bill, leaders could have appointed a joint conference committee to draft the final version.

Unless legislative leaders get creative — they've found a way around such dilemmas in the past — the House would have to take up the Senate's bill, debating lottery issues a second time.

776-5577

Perfect for You and Your Sweetheart.

This Dairy Queen® Sweetheart frozen cake for two is the most delicious way to say "Be My Valentine." You get famous Dairy Queen® chocolate and vanilla soft serve topped by chocolate fudge and chocolate crunch and decorated especially for Valentine's Day.

Dairy Queen

We Treat You Right®

1015 N. 3rd

801 N. 3rd St. (on 3rd) 801 N. 3rd St. (on 3rd) 801 N. 3rd St. (on 3rd)

776-4117

Perfect Valentine's Day Gifts for HER:
Flowers, Candy, Jewelry, Poetry...

Perfect Valentine's Day Gifts for HIM:
Bike gear, Swiss Army knife, fly fishing tools, camping stove, Yakima rack, hiking boots, headlamp, fleece sweater, hydration system...

...a few ideas sure to win his heart from

the PATHFINDER

OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS

Serving K-State Since 1975

304 POYNTZ, DOWNTOWN 539-5639

Body First

* 2308 Anderson Ave * (785) 587-8300*

Specials for the month of February
Happy Valentine's Day

- * One hour massage is only $35.00
- * (One hour massage + Traditional Facial + Paraffin Hand Wax + Sauna) Only $55.00

We now accept advertised specials from any other massage therapy establishment. Just bring in their Special and we will meet their price.

Hours

M-F 8a.m. - 7p.m. &

Sat 9a.m. - 6p.m.

Kisses Book

only $4.95

Enjoy 96 pages of black and white photography of couples (including celebrities) kissing in a variety of environments. This book includes quotations and anecdotes on the romance of kissing.

While supplies last.

Valentine's Day is Wednesday, February 14.

Rod's Hallmark Shop

1300 Westloop
9-9 Monday-Saturday
12-5 Sunday

Four Winds
Therapeutic
Massage

Valentine Special
1/2 hr. massage
& hot tub
$20

1114 Laramie

539-5919

Don't Miss Your

Valentine Kiss

- * Candy • Flowers
- * Balloons • Stuffed Animals
- * Area-wide Delivery

1-800-336-7973
537-2845

1130 Westport Dr. - next to Blockbuster

GOLDEN WOK BUFFET

Valentine's Day Special

We invite every family to join us Valentine's Day.

You can have a steamed big live lobster, plus our Chinese buffet for only $11.99 - only $5 extra!

Regular Chinese buffet still available for $6.99.

Happy Valentine's Day

From 3:30 to 10 p.m.

Anderson

ALCO

GOLDEN WOK

Seth Childs

10% off

our Lunch or Dinner Buffet, (including Valentine's Day) Not valid with any other offers.

For a limited time,
receive a FREE
gift when you open a
Positively FREE
Checking account

or

Sign up for
NEW SunNet
Online Banking.

SIGN UP NOW
Receive a FREE gift.

GIVING AWAY THE STORE

FREE

- 16-piece Stoneware Set
- 6-piece Salad Bowl Set
- Frosty Freezer Mugs
- Set of Glass Canisters
- Stainless Steel Utensils
- Stainless Steel Gadget Set

FDIC

Limited quantities. Limit one free premium item per household.
Offer limited to rate amounts and new SunNet online enrollments.
First come, first served. Ask customer service representative for details.

'Titans' coach latest black leader to speak at K-State

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Following in the footsteps of famous black Americans, Herman Boone, the coach the movie "Remember the Titans" is based on, will visit K-State tonight.

He will speak at 7 p.m. in Forum Hall, and the movie will be shown free of charge immediately following the lecture.

"I want to encourage everyone to come out," said Maurice Parks, president of Black Student Union, "because he really has a good story to tell about people from different backgrounds coming together to meet a common goal."

K-State has a history of famous black Americans who have visited the campus, including the Rev. Jesse Jackson and Martin Luther King Jr.

Jackson presented a Landon Lecture on Nov. 29, 1993, titled "Trapped in the Trade Winds of Our Time" that focused on crime and violence in America.

"He fit in perfectly with the others who have presented Landon Lectures," Charles Regan, chairman of Landon Lectures, said. "He is a very famous person in the public scene, and we were lucky to have him."

"He is a very famous person in the public scene, and we were lucky to have him."

— Charles Regan, chairman of Landon Lectures speaking about the Rev. Jesse Jackson

Regan said Jackson was hard to get a commitment from because of his complicated schedule.

"He is just extremely busy," Regan said. "President Wefald personally called him several times to get the lecture scheduled, and then we provided a private jet for him."

Dahomey Abanisha, special programs chair for BSU, said she thinks it is important for black leaders to visit campus.

"It is relevant not only for the black students on campus to build a strong self concept," Abanisha, senior in psychology, said, "but it is also good for the student body as a whole, because the African experience is not something everyone knows about. Having Jesse Jackson and Martin Luther King here on campus is inspiring to students. It gives us a basis to work from."

King presented his lecture, "The Future of Integration," at K-State on Jan. 19, 1968, just 2 1/2 months before he was assassinated.

King's speech addressed the distance that still needed to be forged in narrowing the racial divide of the day. He spoke to a crowd of more than 7,000 people in Ahearn Field House.

James Boyer, professor emeritus of curriculum and American ethnic studies, arrived at K-State shortly after King spoke.

"Unfortunately, I was not able to hear his message," Boyer said.

"However, I did attend Jesse Jackson's lecture and feel very fortunate for that. He is one of the most gifted artists of our time, and he brought a whole new message to this community."

Parks thinks it is important to remember the visits by Jackson and King.

"It is definitely worth remembering and worth using that background to keep striving towards the goal," Parks said.

"However, just because they visited once doesn't change things. We need to keep going with that and bring in more lecturers to

Horticulture Club V-day Rose Sale

February 14
in the Throckmorton Lobby
at 8 a.m. (while supplies last)

Single wrapped - $5.00
Single vase - $8.00
Dozen - $45.00

Valentine's Day is tomorrow . . .
let Homestead Floral deliver something special to your sweetheart.

We have a nice selection of fresh and silk flowers as well as green plants. We also have stuffed animals, balloons, Jelly Belly products and other gifts.

HOMESTEAD Floral

785-293-5584 or toll free at 877-293-5584
8801 University Park Road

Franz - White Liquor
1130 Westport #7
539-5052

Luna di Luna $9.99
Cab./Merlot
Forrest Glen $7.99
Forest Fire
Gossamer Bay $5.99
All Flavors

All Wines 10% Red tag, 20% White tag on V-day

Claflin Books and Copies
776-3771

Peaceable Kingdom
Valentine Cards

Hurry today to get all of your Valentines a Valentine's card and book!

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HUNAM
1304 WESTLOOP RESTAURANT & LOUNGE 539-8888
539-0888

Valentine Week Buffet
and Mongolian BBQ

Your Choice
$7.95
All You Can Eat

99¢ Glass of Champagne
GUYS, IMPRESS YOUR DATE ON A COLLEGE BUDGET!!!
"Create your own dish and watch our chef grill for you!"
OFFER GOOD V-DAY ONLY

Instant Classics.

Olson Birkenstock
Aggieville
539-8571

BIRKENSTOCK

FLOWERS...
THE PERFECT
VALENTINE'S DAY GIFT

WE HAVE A GREAT DEAL FOR VALENTINE'S DAY ON 1 DOZEN ROSES!

LONG STEM ANY COLOR:
$45.00 ARRANGED IN VASE
$38.00 BOXED

EXTRA LONG STEM RED:
$55.00 ARRANGED IN VASE
$50.00 BOXED

FREE LOCAL DELIVERY!!

We Also Have:
Unique and Traditional Fresh Flowers-Candy-
Plush Animals-Greeting Cards-Balloons-Candles-
Picture Frames-And much more for your sweetheart!

STONE HOUSE FLORIST
8095 E. Hwy. 24 Manhattan, KS
(785) 537-2926 Toll Free: (877) 799-1146
MON-FRI 8:30-6:00 SAT 8:30-4:00

The Gift of Massage is ideal for your
VALENTINE!

½ hour.....$25.00
1 hour.....$40.00
1½ hours.....$60.00

Gift Certificates
Available

Optimum
Therapeutic Massage
Relaxation • Stress Reduction
Professional Setting

10 % OFF with student ID

Hair Experts
Design Team

Discover the Difference

TRUE CALM
BY REDKEN
THE POWER BEHIND BEAUTIFUL HAIR

*CHILL SHAMPOO,
EASY UP ANTI-STRESS
CONDITIONER, WITH CANDLE:
$14.95

1323 Anderson Ave.
Aggieville, Manhattan
776-4455

Elements of Taste
Presents Valentine's Day Forte...

Dinner for two $12.95
Choice of Chicken, Pork, or Beef Entree:
• Stuffed Chicken Breast
• Roasted Pork Loin
• Roast Beef

Dessert and Dolce for Two $12.00
House-made Speciality Dessert:
• Triple Chocolate Mouse Cake
• Upside-Down Berry Pie
• Lady Godiva Chocolate Cheesecake

e
elements of taste
Call for Reservations 770-3000

Ristorante
Marco Polo

Come enjoy a quiet and romantic atmosphere with excellent service for Valentines Day and everyday!

- Authentic Italian Cuisine
- Hand-Cut Steaks
- Seafood
- Weekly Specials
- Wide Selection of Imported & Domestic Wine & Beer
- Full Bar

11 AM - 2 PM & 5 PM - 9 PM
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY UNTIL 10 PM
CLOSED ON MONDAYS

770-3999
Plaza West Shopping Center
3003 Anderson Ave., Suite 953

GAIA
An Aveda Concept Salon
108 S. 4th St. • 539-2622

Feel Alive. Experience Aveda.

A salon experience centered on one thing—you. At Aveda Concept Salons/Spas, we pamper you with sensory experiences you can't get anywhere else. A sip of comforting tea, a stress-relieving head and shoulder massage with pure plant and flower essences, a makeup touch-up before you leave. You'll feel more like yourself than you ever have. Call today to book your appointment.

AVEDA
The art and science of pure flower and plant essences.

Find Aveda by calling 800-368-6849 or visiting aveda.com ©Aveda Corp. All rights reserved.

IN PROFILE

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 2001

11

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JAVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Humpty's perch
5 Matter-horn, e.g.
8 Denomination
12 Author Wiesel
13 Through
14 Brightly colored fish
15 VIP
17 Outcry of the avaricious
18 Cistern
19 Carnival center
20 Hickory nut
21 Heart-breaking
22 Smack
23 Unreliable auto
26 Hacker's equipment?
30 Teensy bit
31 Tom Hanks movie
32 PC symbol
33 Arizona city
35 Hairnet

DOWN
1 Into the sunset
2 Moises of baseball
3 Branch
4 Shelter
5 Duck
6 Beach resort
7 Stipend
8 Beatles hit
9 Grand-scale
10 First miracle site
11 Subsequently
16 Cereal choice
20 Snapshot
21 "West Side Story" song
22 Crone
23 Once around the track
24 Biblical verb suffix
25 Cattle call?
26 Blend
27 "Foucault's Pendulum" author
28 Excessively
29 Remnant
31 Lobster-eater's accessory
34 Bottom line
35 Sushi bar beverage
37 Ladies
38 Teeny tales
39 Hypothesis
40 Singer Campbell
41 Interlaced
42 "Oops!"
43 Green Hornet's valet
44 React to red
46 Fool
47 Peruke

Solution time: 21 mins.

ANT MAN FARM
ROUT AGA IDEA
ANTI POX YOGI
BIOUGH GOYA
HEM SESAME CONTROL SAVIOR AREA YAJ TIJTI
LEASH MAJESTION
LORIAN BUD
DEAD SODIAR
PURR SIO LOSE
ESAU TIRA ENID
TEEM YEW GAS

Yesterday's answer 2-13

STUMPED?
For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

2-13 CRYPTOQUIP

PGB QYRAQEU IBHPAUB
ZLBS PY SIBER EKYZP
KBQYRAJF E FIBEP

LPEJS-ZH QGERBUBYJ
Yesterday's Cryptquip: DO YOU SUPPOSE RACING-CAR DRIVERS WITH LARYNGITIS ALL HAVE HOARSEPOWER?

Today's Cryptquip Clue: Q equals C

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals Q, it will equal Q throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

LOCAL TALENT

WHO: Bill Hurrelbrink, musician

Bill Hurrelbrink, junior in mass communications, plays three instruments in several groups. Among them, he plays bass in the K-State Jazz Combo, performing at 8 p.m. Thursday in Union Station.

Hurrelbrink also plays in the Concert Jazz Ensemble, the Latin Jazz Ensemble and practices with a band made up of his friends. Hurrelbrink said he plays in many groups because he enjoys the experience of performing in front of an audience.

With the virtuoso skill to play not only bass, but also drums, piano and guitar, Hurrelbrink said it is easier for him to listen to other band members. Having a good ear not only improves the musician, but the whole band, he said.

As a radio personality, Hurrelbrink is able to bring jazz to a wider audience on Sunday mornings on the KSDB-FM 91.9.

Though Hurrelbrink is heavily involved in jazz, he said he enjoys many styles, and just enjoys playing in bands.

"I've been into jazz for as long as I can remember, but I'm into all kinds of music," he said. "I just like seeing people's reactions to what I play."

If you have a suggestion for an interesting person to profile in brief, contact the arts and entertainment editor at arts@pub.ksu.edu.

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Thomas Grabe plays the guitar Thursday night at Bobby T's. The open-mic night gives beginning bands an opportunity to develop a stage presence.

Open-mic delight

Beginning musicians, bands perform for audiences weekly at local bar

By KATIE LANE

Kansas State Collegian

For anyone who appreciates local music and tries to keep an eye on upcoming artists, Bobby T's open-mic night offers a venue where new voices can be heard and make a name for themselves.

At 8:30 p.m., every Thursday, Bobby T's turns off the music and opens up the stage for open-mic night. The club has been offering the spotlight to upcoming musicians for more than seven years and is the only open-mic in Manhattan.

The weekly event is organized by Sharkey's Little Groove Box vocalist Jeremy Hollembeak. He said he agreed to take it over when given the opportunity because he feels it is an important asset to Manhattan.

"I started doing open-mic night last fall. I think every college scene needs an open-mic night," Hollembeak said. "This is where I got my start, and I might not be in the band I am now without it."

The open-mic night gives beginning bands an opportunity to develop a stage presence that isn't readily available at other establishments in town.

Hollembeak said.

"In Manhattan, especially, there are not a lot of bars that give new bands a chance. After playing at open-mic night, they have a better chance of making a good impression the first time they play somewhere else," he said.

The number of performers at open-mic night varies, but the event usually boasts at least four or five artists with a variety of styles, Hollembeak said. All types of performers are welcome, from musicians to comedians, he said.

Former member of the band Crooked Pinky, Trevor Dubbert, junior in graphic design, performed two original songs in his set at last Thursday's open-mic night. It was the first time he had performed solo at the club.

"When I was in Crooked Pinky, we played at Rusty's, Bobby T's and skate park benefits, but since I am not in a band anymore, I needed a place to play. I use this opportunity to play as an outlet for my music," Dubbert said.

The Manhattan music scene is benefited by open-mic night because it gives players experience in front of a crowd and the chance for performers to meet each other, Dubbert said.

Following Dubbert was the band Mike, Mike and Mickey. This was the first time the three of them had played together since one of them lives out of town. Michael Haag, junior in business, said the reason they decided to play was because while the three friends all had played with each other, it was the first time they were able to perform as a trio.

Since it is difficult for bands to get into clubs, an open-mic night is a venue where audiences can experience more variety, Haag said.

"Open-mic is free and a lot easier to walk in and play than to try to audition," Haag said.

Band member Michael Smith, junior in military science, said he thinks open-mic night is great because it is a relaxed environment and there isn't much stress involved in playing a show.

Two members from the band Invalid performed their own brand of hard rock for those in attendance. Iria Mawhirter, freshman in secondary education, and Royce Russell, sophomore in computer science, both play guitar and have been playing together for four years, Mawhirter said.

He said it helps to play at open-mic night because it gives performers practice at live shows. It also gives people a chance to hear music that isn't normally represented on the local scene.

"We play hard rock music and I think we are too hard for the area. This offers musicians a chance to be heard when no one else in town will give them that chance," Mawhirter said.

Russell said he feels the lack of hard rock leaves a void in a scene dominated by more trendy genres.

PHOTOS BY KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Adam Role Dean plays guitar for open mic night at 8:30 Thursday night at Bobby T's. Iria Mawhirter, freshman in secondary education, sings at Bobby T's as part of open mic night. Mawhirter has been performing with his friend Royce Russell for four years.

"Manhattan's music scene needs some hard rock, and that is what we are trying to do," Russell said. "We are tired of all the ska and bay bump in town. We are trying to get a hard rock scene started." The two said they plan to make an appearance every Thursday. Mawhirter said not only does he enjoy performing there, but he also enjoys the variety of musicians an open-mic nurtures.

"It is a great place to hear new bands and aspiring musicians," he said. "There is a lot of diversity here, and you have to have different kinds of music."

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

CHANGES

■ continued from page 1

closed for break," Horton said. "But even though I live so close, I did notice some changes over break. My parents were more relaxed, and there wasn't as many rules."

Horton also said the basement where she lived is being remodeled, so her family had packed up all of her belongings.

"I felt like I didn't have my own spot anymore," she said. "And over spring break I will have to share a room with my sister."

Horton's father, Neil Horton, said his daughter always will have a spot at their house, even if it wasn't her own room.

"It hasn't been too hard to let go yet because we are still close enough that she comes home when she can," he said. "She also holds a part-time job, so we don't get to see a lot of her."

Horton's mother, Janet Horton, said she has had to get used to her daughter not living there anymore.

"When you don't have your oldest child at home, it is definitely different," she said. "She helped out with a lot of the chores around the house. Of course, I miss her, too, because I don't get to talk to her as much."

Janet Horton said she thinks Christie is adjusting to college more easily this semester.

"She is doing much better," she said. "The first semester, I think, was a little tough because she had to adjust to harder classes and more studying. But now she is excited about her classes and about her social life. She is really getting involved, and we are proud of her."

Horton said her relationship with her parents is good right now.

"They are really great," she said. "I feel like they are trying to push me away a little bit and encourage me to be independent, but yet they still stay in contact and make me feel welcome at home."

However, Horton has different feelings about her three younger siblings.

"I think my sister and brothers were anxious to have me leave," she said. "They are getting used to life with out me."

LEADERSHIP

■ continued from page 1

set an example and show people you don't have to do it to be liked," Wanklyn said.

Rachel Buffington, Wanklyn's friend and sophomore in biology, said Wanklyn is a good influence.

"Craig is the epitome of a positive influence," Buffington said.

Paul Myers, Wanklyn's roommate and junior in mass communications, said he thinks a lot of freshmen drink out of rebellion.

"I think a lot of kids party because it was taboo at home and now they don't have their parents dictating over them," Myers said.

"People say I should just experience it," Wanklyn said.

But Wanklyn said he doesn't know if he ever will drink.

"I can't say I won't, but at least not now," Wanklyn said. "I don't see myself doing it now because there is too much at stake for me here. You put a lot of money into this."

Myers said there are too many good examples of why you should not drink.

"Anytime I get around alcohol I get nervous because I know bad things can happen," Myers said.

"There are so many examples through rock 'n' roll and everything else. There are so many examples, why do people still do it?"

Wanklyn said he hopes he is respected for his stance.

Buffington said she thinks he is respected. She said he is not afraid to show his true colors.

"He is really confident of himself and what he stands for," Buffington said. "He is not afraid to let people see who he is."

Wanklyn said he has other plans for his weekends.

"I go out and drive around because I am used to open spaces," he said. "Sometimes I will go out to Tuttle Creek and look at the stars. Some people think it is stupid, but that is all we see at home."

For Wanklyn, the activity he most enjoys is hanging out with friends.

"Most of the time the best thing to do is to go out, play games and just be with friends," Wanklyn said.

about," he said.

The group plans to visit the offices of the state Legislature, and Worcester said it is an effort of which more people should be made aware.

"I would encourage students to write local legislators and talk to them," he said.

Wolters said students might not realize the importance of the budget cuts.

"By and large, unless you pay attention to state politics, you are not going to fully understand what is going on and its impact," he said.

It is a battle Worcester said he believes the university and higher education can win as the legislative session continues.

"The Student Senate is working to change the proposal," he said.

"If we can work to get the appropriate technological match back, and then base education level back, then it will be a success. We have a lot of hard work ahead of us."

BUDGET

■ continued from page 1

The proposed cuts have also made it difficult to hire faculty needed to teach courses in architecture.

"Right now, we have a hiring freeze on," Law said. "We have a candidate coming in next week, and we are unable to offer the position until we know there is money in the budget," he said.

"Politicians have no idea what goes on in a place like this, and sometimes I doubt they even care," he said.

Holen said rumors of budget cuts can hinder a university's ability to hire top faculty.

"When you get rumors of budget cuts, it can make it hard to attract top faculty," Holen said.

In addition to the cuts, the budget proposal does not address the university's $1.5-million shortfall in utilities due to increased costs and the governor's proposed pay increase for classified staff, Struve said.

Struve said while it is not a direct budget cut, the initiatives are unaccounted for by state dollars and in the university's budget.

With the Legislature in debate and lobbying groups working to limit the amount of cuts, Carol Kellett, dean of the College of Human Ecology, said the college is cautiously optimistic.

"We are hoping for the best but preparing for the worse," she said. "We hope the lobbying effort is successful and it restores funding to its present level."

NAPSTER

■ continued from page 1

build an extensive music collection.

"It's a lot easier to pick and choose the songs you want," she said.

Caouette said her continued use of Napster would depend on the cost of the service. She said $10 to $20 seems fair.

The ruling against Napster was unfair, she said.

"The way I see it, it was users sharing with users," she said. "They should be able to share that material."

The university computer system's slowing of Napster transfers has also slowed Caouette's use of the system.

Joyeeta Mazumder, freshman in computer engineering, said she didn't think the ruling against Napster was fair, but she would continue to use the service if it was fee-based.

She went to Napster to find oldies, R&B, rap and remixes she couldn't find anywhere else.

Mazumder said Napster didn't prevent her from buying CDs.

"If I like a couple of songs on a CD," she said, "I would buy the CD anyway."

Have you got your copy of the Campus Phone Book?

Purchase now in Kedzie 103

Stay connected...

collegian.ksu.edu

PART-TIME JOBS

Starting at $7.50 per hour

Help needed to take inventory in retail stores. Average 10-12 hours on weekends. Weekday daytime hours are also available, averaging 25 to 35 hours depending on your availability.

Apply in person
State Room, Ramada Inn

Feb. 14, 2001 at 4:30 p.m.
or 6 p.m.

Interviews will start promptly

K-State Housing and Dining Services

If you plan to return to the residence halls next fall, submit a Residence Hall Application Card and $25 application fee prior to participating in the Early Room Preference Process.

Applications are available from your RA/MA or at the Pittman Building.

Early Room Preference Timeline

Monday, February 12 • 8:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

Preference your current room in your current hall at the front desk.

Tuesday, February 13 • 8:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

Preference any room in your current hall at the front desk.

Wednesday-Friday,

February 14 – 16 • 8:00 A.M. – 5:00 P.M.

Preference a room in any hall at Derby Dining Center (Ford, Haymaker, Moore, West, Boyd, Putnam and Van Zile) or Kramer Dining Center (Marlatt and Goodnow).

If you have questions concerning room preference or are interested in reserving a small single, see your residence life coordinator/assistant coordinator.

MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30 p.m.
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed., & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #15
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

http://www.mdiproperties.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. Call 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 2001

13

LET'S RENT

101
Rental Wanted

WANTED TO SUBLEASE One-bedroom apartment to sub/short-term lease August 1 - December 31, 2001 539-6484

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE NOW, TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $530. Call 785-456-2812.

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets 776-2102.

"LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION" Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION" Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

ONE, TWO, and THREE-BEDROOMS One block to campus. All bills paid. Off-street parking. No pets. Available June and August. 313-4812

TWO-BEDROOM AVAILABLE March 1. Park Place Apartments $445 includes expanded basic cable/water/trash. Call 565-0636 or email shaker@wheat.ksu.edu

WE kick ads.

120
For Rent-Houses

ATTRACTIVE, CLOSE to campus with new appliances, includes washer/dryer. Three, five, six-bedroom houses. No pets. Available June 1. 313-4812.

145
Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please; Great two-bedroom apartment, $245/month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan, (785)537-7228.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for great furnished two-bedroom, two bath. Sublease, $325/month. Enjoy your FIRST MONTH rent FREE! 537-8226

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASERS WANTED for four-bedroom furnished apartment $450 for entire summer (May 15-August 5) Call Beth or Kim, 770-9566.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath house, 1870 College Heights, $700/month (gas bill included), 537-7701.

200 service directory

255
Other Services

HOUSECLEANING! IMMACULATE work by conscientious/experienced/reliable Christian co-ed. References. 539-3055.

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

THE COLLEGIAN cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Classifieds section. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

$1500 WEEKLY potential making our circulars. For info, call (203)977-1720.

THE GREATEST SUMMER of your life! Camp Pontiac, a premier overnight camp in New York is hiring enthusiastic and mature individuals that have skills in: Basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball/softball, golf, swimming, sailing, ropes/climbing wall, gymnastics, art, drama, lacrosse, football, volleyball and video/web design. Information and interviews February 15th. Email: campontiac@hotmail.com to set up an interview.

ARTISTS/ART STUDENTS: Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltank@aol.com

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. TRIPP LAKE CAMP for Girls, Poland, Maine. Noted for picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June thru mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, baseball, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, golf, flag football, roller hockey, field hockey, swimming, sailing, water skiing, gymnastics, dance, horseback riding, archery, weight training, newspaper, photography, video, woodworking, ceramics/pottery, crafts, fine arts, silver jewelry, copper enamel, nature study, radio/electronics, theater, costume, piano, accompanist, music instrumentalist, backpacking, rock climbing, canoeing/kayaking, ropes course, secretarial, nanny. Call Takajo at 800-250-8252 or Tripp Lake at 800-997-4347. Submit application on-line at www.takajo.com or www.tripplakecamp.com

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisecareer.com

FARM WITH crops and livestock looking for part-time help. Experience with shop work, crop machinery and planters helpful. (785)457-3440.

310
Help Wanted

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/photo, newspaper, ropes/wall, pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+Room+Board+Travel. 1-800-762-2820.

FULL-TIME DELIVERY/ warehouse person at Faith Furniture. Please apply in person at 302 E. Highway 24.

NEW DONORS earn $25 TODAY! and Help Save Lives! Your blood plasma donations are urgently needed by hemophiliacs, burn victims, surgery patients and many more! Call or stop by: Nabi Biomedical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan. (785)776-9177. (for approximately two hours) Fees and donation time may vary. www.nabi.com

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

SECURITY OFFICER needed for apartment complex. Reply in person at 1409 Chase Place.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 10h Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.camptowanda.com Applications available at our website www.camptowanda.com Additional information at (800)923-2267.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS: Camp counselors needed for top girls' camp in Maine. Top salary, travel paid in full, room/board/laundry and uniform provided. Skilled in Arts/Crafts (ceramics, jewelry, stained glass), Basketball, Canoeing, Dance (Jazz, Pointe, Tap), Field Hockey, Golf, Gymnastics, Horseback Riding/English Hunt Seat, Lacrosse, Photographer/Videographer, Piano Accompanist, Office/Administration, Ropes/Adventure Course, Sailing, Soccer, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Theatre, Volleyball, Water-skiing, Windsurfing. Additional opportunities for kitchen, cooks, maintenance, nurses. CAMP VEGA FOR GIRLS! Visit our website at www.campvega.com to complete an application and receive a camp video or call 1-800-838-8342. Come see us! We will be on campus Wednesday, March 7th West Stateroom #3 in the Union from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Drop-in interviews encouraged, no appointment necessary.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealistic potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or vls1.com www.campbuckskin.com

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruraltel.net

310
Help Wanted

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interarts, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplaural.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplaural.com.

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

FOR SALE: 1993 Ford Taurus GL, 3.8 V-6, full options, six disc CD changer, $3300. 776-4662.

600
travel/trips

630
Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummertours.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island. www.pitentials.com/spring-break. 1-800-292-7520.

SPRING BREAK, PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES (404) 355-9637

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS - PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clafin Rd. #160. www.ksulaptops.com

455
Sporting Equipment

DUCKS, UNLIMITED FIRST ANNUAL DRAKE'S NIGHT. Sunday, February 18. Blue Hills room, 2315 Tuttle Creek Boulevard. Silent auction begins at 2p.m. Watch KSU vs. Texas Tech on big screen. Tickets $20 includes meal and one chance at Benelli Nova. Call 539-6542.

500
transportation

PART-TIME JOBS Starting at $7.50 per hour. Help needed to take inventory in retail stores. Average 10-12 hours on weekends. Weekday daytime hours are also available, averaging 25 to 35 hours depending on your availability.

Apply in person State Room, Ramada Inn Feb. 14, 2001 at 4:30 p.m. or 6 p.m. Interviews will start promptly

510
Automobiles

1992 FORD Ranger XL pickup. Manual, tilt, cruise. Call 537-0456 after 5:00 pm

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

FOR SALE: 1993 Ford Taurus GL, 3.8 V-6, full options, six disc CD changer, $3300. 776-4662.

600
travel/trips

630
Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummertours.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island. www.pitentials.com/spring-break. 1-800-292-7520.

SPRING BREAK, PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES (404) 355-9637

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS - PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clafin Rd. #160. www.ksulaptops.com

455
Sporting Equipment

DUCKS, UNLIMITED FIRST ANNUAL DRAKE'S NIGHT. Sunday, February 18. Blue Hills room, 2315 Tuttle Creek Boulevard. Silent auction begins at 2p.m. Watch KSU vs. Texas Tech on big screen. Tickets $20 includes meal and one chance at Benelli Nova. Call 539-6542.

500
transportation

PART-TIME JOBS Starting at $7.50 per hour. Help needed to take inventory in retail stores. Average 10-12 hours on weekends. Weekday daytime hours are also available, averaging 25 to 35 hours depending on your availability.

Apply in person State Room, Ramada Inn Feb. 14, 2001 at 4:30 p.m. or 6 p.m. Interviews will start promptly

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $7.35
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $8.65
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $10.15
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $11.25
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $12.25
each word over 20 40¢ per word (consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000
bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

SCUBA LEARN to scuba dive at the areas only, PADI approved dive centers. Join the fun, get certified for spring break and summer. Call Creative Travel and Scuba at 539-0531.

020
Lost and Found

FOUND: CAMERA at Cico Park on Friday, February 9 at 3:30 p.m. Call 537-3035.

LOST SATURDAY set of car keys on blue leather key chain with letters Sydney Operahouse. Three keys. Reward offered 776-8930 ask for Taryn.

LOST: GOLD Omega chain necklace. Call 395-2690 ext. 327. Reward given.

LOST: MENS gold wedding band, possibly near Ahearn. Call 565-8614.

030
Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

PLACE YOUR Valentine personal in the K-State Collegian classifieds for only $5. (maximum word limit is 30). HURRY, DEADLINE IS NOON TODAY!!!

100
housing/real estate

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

105
For Rent-Apts. Furnished

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Summer lease only. $600/month including all utilities, washer/dryer. Call 341-5401.

WELCOME HOME

• Sparkling swimming pool
• Spacious decks/patios
• Avail. June 5 and Aug. 6
• Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
• On-site laundry facilities
• Economical gas heat

1 BDRM $400 $480 $470
2 BDRM $570 $580 $590
3 BDRM $730 $750 $760
4 BDRM $880 $900 $920

Office:
2400 Kimball Ave.
at College Ave.
(across from Brandage)

CALL Sara at 537-7007 for an appointment.

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

FOR AUGUST near KSU. Nice house, 312 N 15th St. Four five-bedroom, $1100. Basement two-bedroom, $320. 539-2482.

FURNISHED OR UNFURNISHED for August. Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment. 350 N. 16th, 1230 Clafin, $510. Also for June and August. Large one-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $450. Heat, water, trash three/ four paid laundry mat. 539-2482.

Park Place Apartments
Showings Mon.-Fri. 1-2-3 Bedrooms 539-2951

JULY LEASE Two-bedroom with living room, hardwood floor, study, family room, one and three-fourths bath, one car garage. No smoking, drinking, pets. $600/month plus utilities. 539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE one and one-half blocks from campus. Very nice. Open house Sunday, the 18th from 1:00 to 3:00 at 1112 Thurston (913)829-0985.

Two-bedroom, $435/month available 3/1. No deposit/lease until 6/1. Pets ok. 587-8677

110
For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

Leasing Now For August

• Cambridge Square
• Sandstone Apts.
• 1114 Fremont
• 2000 College Hgts.
• 519 Osage

• Fireplaces • Carpets
• Pool • Private Deck
• Laundry Facilities
• Large 2-bedroom Units

CALL NOW 537-9064

Weekdays 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.
Saturdays 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March. 1854/ 1858 Clafin. $385- $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3804.

120
For Rent-Houses

AVAILABLE JUNE: Close to campus, two-bedroom, three-bedroom, four-bedroom. Call (785)539-3672, leave name and phone number.

FOR AUGUST near KSU. Nice house, 312 N 15th St. Four five-bedroom, $1100. Basement two-bedroom, $320. 539-2482.

Astronauts install docking port

By JUAN A. LOZANO
The Associated Press

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Space shuttle Atlantis' astronauts Monday put a docking port in place on the international space station's newly installed science laboratory.

In addition, spacewalking astronauts put more finishing touches on the lab.

From inside Atlantis, astronaut Marsha Ivins used the shuttle's robotic arm to place the docking port at the end of Destiny, space station Alpha's new science laboratory. Shuttle commander Kenneth Cockrell sent computer commands to bolt the port onto the lab. The port is where the shuttle will dock on future missions.

Meanwhile, spacewalkers Thomas Jones and Robert Curbeam Jr. worked to attach various other equipment and fixtures to the exterior of the lab, including the future connection point for the space station's robotic arm — due to be brought up in April. The spacewalk was scheduled to last just more than six hours.

The port had been moved to a temporary location during the mission's first spacewalk Saturday, to be out of the way when the Destiny $1.4 billion lab, the newest and priciest addition to the station, was attached to Alpha. On Sunday, space commanders opened the door linking Destiny and the rest of the station.

Before the start of the spacewalk, Ivins grabbed the docking port with the robotic arm and then waited for Jones to help her unlatch the port from its temporary location.

At the end of the spacewalk, space station flight controllers were to send Destiny's computers' commands to begin spinning four large gyroscopes on Alpha, which eventually will help control attitude, saving station fuel. Testing of the gyroscopes will continue throughout the mission.

If the astronauts had not been able to attach the docking port to Destiny, it would have halted future space station construction until a fix was worked out.

The complex mission has proceeded so far without any significant problems.

"I am very pleasantly surprised that it has gone as well as it has," flight director Bob Castle said.

Monday's spacewalk was the second of three scheduled for the mission to mount and outfit Destiny — which is 28 feet long and 14 feet in diameter.

After opening the hatch Sunday, the crews of Atlantis and Alpha installed fire extinguishers and emergency masks and lights in the laboratory. They also hooked up the air-circulation system, cameras and computers. There was no research equipment to set up; the first experiment doesn't arrive until the next shuttle mission in early March.

Destiny's computers and systems will allow NASA to take control of the space station in a month or two. Until now, the two Russian pieces of Alpha provided the life support and commanding capability.

The lab also gives station commander Bill Shepherd and his two Russian crewmates more room to work and live. They have been aboard Alpha since Nov. 2.

Spacecraft attempts to land on asteroid

By PAUL RECER
The Associated Press

COLUMBIA, Md. — The NEAR Shoemaker spacecraft successfully fired its rockets to start descending toward a feather-light touchdown on a barren space rock called Eros in history's first attempt to land an object on an asteroid.

"We are on a flight path that will take us to the surface," NEAR mission director Robert Farquhar said Monday after receiving a signal back from the spacecraft.

He said the rocket firing that dropped the spacecraft from its 15-mile orbit of Eros and started its descent "worked quite well. We are within 1 percent of our targeted accuracy."

Commands were stored in the craft for four more braking rocket firings that would ease the craft toward the asteroid surface.

The goal is to slow the descent until the spacecraft speed, relative to the surface of the asteroid, is 3 to 5 miles an hour, about the speed of a fast walk.

Failure to slow the craft sufficiently could send it crashing into Eros, 196 million miles from Earth, or bouncing off into space. The ship wasn't designed to land.

"We're anticipating a really good day, but we're ready for anything," Farquhar said on NBC's "Today."

"We have completed our primary mission, and it's been very successful, and now we're trying to get a little bonus science. And yes, it's a little risky, and it's a very complicated set of engine burns," he said. "But we feel at this moment in the mission, the only risk is not taking one because we're going to get a lot of really good science if this comes off."

NEAR, or Near Earth Asteroid Rendezvous, was launched five years ago and has been in a 15-mile orbit of Eros, its cameras taking thousands of pictures of the 21-mile-long asteroid.

Shaped like a tin can with solar panels attached, the craft was programmed to continue taking pictures as it descended from orbit. If all goes well, it could continue sending signals to Earth for another three months.

NEAR traveled more than 2 billion miles during its five-year mission.

Listening key to leading

■ Former dean delivers speech after cancellation by attorney general.

By COLLEEN FOOTE
Kansas State Collegian

When the keynote speaker for K-State's Rotaract Club canceled at the last minute, the solution was to replace her with a campus legend.

Don Rathbone, former dean of the College of Engineering, was the keynote speaker for Rotaract Club Monday night in the Union Cottonwood Room. Rathbone had only a few hours to prepare for his speech after Carla Stovall, Kansas attorney general, canceled because of the flu.

Rathbone dedicated his speech to leadership and success. He focused on leadership, dealing primarily with the university, business leadership and individual leadership.

"Rotary is known for its leadership aspect, and its members are generally leaders," said Rathbone, a member of Rotaract Club. "Those who are here to learn about Rotaract, I encourage them to join and experience a lifetime of leadership."

Rathbone said he thinks K-State has wonderful leadership that is nationally recognized by its academic success.

"Our students at K-State are very good," said Rathbone, after whom Rathbone Hall was named. "We don't appreciate how good our students are."

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian
Don Rathbone, former dean of the College of Engineering, spoke Monday night at the K-State Student Union. Rathbone was filling in for Carla Stovall at the Rotaract Club.

Tremendous personal skills and great enthusiasm are important qualities for careers in business, Rathbone said. He talked about a former president of Boeing in Wichita and how his leadership skills influenced his life.

"He made his employees feel special by talking with them and listening attentively," Rathbone said. "That is a talent we should all work for."

There is a shortcut to individual success, Rathbone said, and the bad news is, the shortcut is hard work. Hard work develops communication skills that are essential for any type of personal achievement and success, he said.

"Effective communication skills are so very, very important," Rathbone said. "Seek first to understand, then to be understood."

Many in the audience came to learn more about Rotaract Club, an organization dedicated to community service.

"Tonight was a night to learn more about Rotaract and its reception for the new members," said Mollie Dvorak, Rotaract Club secretary and senior in Spanish. "Dr. Rathbone did an excellent job speaking to our new and potential members about the importance of leadership now and in years to come."

Casey Parks, Rotaract Club member and junior in anthropology, said he thought Rathbone's speech was educational and informative.

"I felt that his comments were inspiring," Parks said. "His examples about how a positive outlook can contribute to effective leadership especially made an impression on me."

Most K-State students drink moderately, if at all.

Based on a 2000 classroom campus-wide survey of 1,192 K-State students that was representative of the K-State student population with regard to demographics such as age, GPA, college, class, and gender.

94% reported they can have fun without alcohol.

Project WELLNESS

Kansas State University

www.ksu.edu/projectwellness

Ramblers STEAK HOUSE & SALOON

T-Bone Tuesday
14 oz. USDA Choice T-Bone with all the Trimmings.
(Baked potato, salad & dinner roll)

Drink Specials
$1 Old Mill Light Bottles
$1.50 Domestic
$3.75 Pitchers

8711 E. Hwy. 24
Manhattan, KS
539-4989

Pregnancy Testing Center 539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

HUNAM Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ

Lunch Buffet
All you can eat!
$4.95

Friday Seafood Buffet
$7.95
Crab legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.

Dinner Buffet
$6.95 All you can eat!

Make reservations for Valentines Day
Call 539-8888

FREE DELIVERY
with $9 minimum order
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 28 ■ LOW 17

WEDNESDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601
WWW.KSSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 14, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 98

'Titans' coach delivers keynote speech
■ page 8

Housing registration discussed at work session

By SCOTT ALDIS-WILSON
Kansas State Collegian

Ideas about mandatory rental inspections aren't dead, but they are being approached more cautiously after the Manhattan City Commission's Tuesday work session.

The meeting, where the city's Special Rental Housing Inspection Committee presented its model for citywide rental inspections, ended with commissioners agreeing to look into registering properties for now.

The majority of the meeting consisted of more than four hours of public comment from citizens concerned about the economics and ethics of the proposed program. In many cases, landlords and citizens in general questioned if Manhattan has a defined housing problem or just a suspicion of one.

"I think this meeting, and the length it's taken, has left me more unsettled about this decision," Commissioner Roger Reitz said.

The proposed rental inspection program, passed in a 5-1 vote in the inspection committee, consisted of a three-year program with a $5 registration fee that is managed by private employees instead of city employees.

Under the system, a private, certified inspector would issue passing properties certificates that would be valid for three years. Rental properties that do not pass inspection would risk a penalty similar to the city's current mowing policy on yards.

The program was estimated to cost

$112,000 over three years. A voluntary inspection system has been in place for nearly a decade.

The mandatory proposal garnered supporters and enemies at extremes of every direction.

Phil Anderson, instructor of dance and theater as well as a local landlord, said most landlords do the right thing, but a few exploit students who don't know what to look for.

"They may have high ACT scores, but they can be taken advantage of," he said. "The problem is, we don't have a way methodically so far of making sure those properties are compliant."

Ruth Schrum, another landlord, said renters need to make choices like anyone else.

"You don't have to rent my apartment if you don't want to," she said. "People who sign leases should take the time to read them."

Mary Ann Fleming, neither a renter nor a landlord, said she would rather have the inspections.

"I don't really spot electrical problems well, and I spot a plumbing problem if it has a rag around it," she said.

Mandatory inspections, she said, would level the playing field between landlords and slumlords, as well as raising neighboring property values.

Student Senate Chair Travis Lenkner said landlords have a tough job that mandatory inspections would make tougher, but they can get out of the profession if they wish.

K-State students, on the other hand, must find a place to live, he said.

"Students can't get out," he said.

"Students have no choice."

Students have known from the start that inspection fees would be passed to them in higher rent, Lenkner said. As for landlords who don't want to come up to codes, Lenkner said they will be replaced quickly.

"Where there is demand, and where there is a captive audience, there will be a supply," he said.

Landlord Charles Fleeker said he doesn't serve students. He serves the poor, he said, who cannot take added costs.

"These zoning laws would put low-income apartments, and there are damn

See HOUSING on PAGE 12

Women live without heat since Friday

By COLLEEN FOOTE
Kansas State Collegian

For more than a week the women of Alpha of Clovia have been forced to live without heat.

Last Wednesday the residents of Clovia awoke to discover the power burner on their boiler had failed.

"The house wasn't cold in the beginning because then we were having wonderful weather at the time," said Tatum Sprague, Clovia president and sophomore in animal science. "But on Thursday night and Friday morning it was really cold after the snow storm hit."

The main problem was finding a replacement part for the 40-year-old boiler.

"It took me three days to find a part that could be shipped here quickly," said Michael Shea, employee of Powell Brothers Plumbing & Heating. "When we first heard it would take three weeks to ship the part, I was like 'Oh no.'"

A temporary electric furnace was used as a heating replacement to provide warmth for the 51 women who live in the house. Animals such as hamsters and fish also were brought near the electric furnace for protection.

During the past week the residents have worn layers of clothes and stayed in the warmest area of the house,

See CLOVIA on PAGE 12

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

Jennifer McVey, freshman in secondary education, and her roommate Erin Solomon, junior in agricultural education, get ready for bed by bundling up. Many of the women of Alpha of Clovia now sleep in gloves, scarves, sweatshirts and earmuffs to stay warm through the night since the power burner on their boiler failed Wednesday.

Nominations announced for Oscars

By DAVID GERMAIN
The Associated Press

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — "Gladiator," Hollywood's high-tech return to the glories of Rome, led Academy Award contenders Tuesday with 12 nominations, including best picture, actor and director.

"Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon," the Mandarin-language martial arts epic, was close behind with 10 nominations, including best picture and best director. The other best-picture nominees were the French romance "Chocolat," the legal drama "Erin Brockovich" and the gritty drug-war saga "Traffic."

Steven Soderbergh had two directing nominations, for "Erin Brockovich" and "Traffic." That's the first time that's happened since 1938, when director Michael Curtiz was nominated for both "Angels With Dirty Faces" and "Four Daughters" (Curtiz lost to Frank Capra, who

See OSCARS on PAGE 12

PHOTOS BY STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Ken and Lois Kennedy (right) read a Valentine's Day card from their grandson Andy Jarrett, sophomore in business, as they continue their tradition of a red and white dinner Tuesday night. Jarrett's girlfriend, Jessica Bolton, sophomore in psychology, joined them for the dinner.

A Valentine's tradition

■ Couple maintains holiday ritual in celebration of love for more than 4 decades.

By NANCY HULL
Kansas State Collegian

Ken and Lois Kennedy are continuing a Valentine's Day tradition that began almost 45 years ago.

When the oldest of their four children was eight years old, the Manhattan couple decided to celebrate the day they call a time for expressing love to everyone in their lives by having their first red and white dinner.

This tradition, which has been passed on to the homes of their children's families, includes red and white food, a red tablecloth, white dishes, a red candle centerpiece, gifts wrapped in white and red heart paper and typed Bible verses with the word 'love' at each place setting on red construction paper.

Over the years, the menu has changed, but family favorites like cranberry juice and angel food cake with red ruby cherries and whipped topping will stay. The largest dinner served 12 people, and this year's dinner Tuesday night included four people: Ken, Lois, their grandson Andy Jarrett, sophomore in pre-professional business administration, and his girlfriend.

The Kennedys still extend Valentine's wishes to those who are not near; they sent 35 Valentine's cards — not including ones sent by e-mail.

Sending the cards and preparing the meal always is a joint effort — just as everything has been throughout the Kennedys' 55 years of marriage.

"We're joined together in a sense of outreach. It's a sense of identity and self-worth," Ken said. "I think we're privileged to have the richness of a shared life."

Each day their sharing begins when they wake up and devote an hour of prayer together.

Reading together is something they said they value. When they go on trips, she reads while he drives.

They even smile and laugh when they remember taking turns washing cloth diapers in a kettle at their first apartment in Wheaton, Ill., during the late 1940s.

But there was a time during their relationship when they were apart. Actually, their first form of communication was through writing.

In winter of 1944 while Lois was attending K-State, she met one of Ken's five sisters who told Lois about her only brother Ken, who was stationed in England during World War II. Lois learned he had broken at least five bones on the left side of his body when he blacked out driving a jeep.

So Lois decided to write him. "It seemed like the patriotic thing to do. I just thought I could help cheer him up," Lois said.

Lois Kennedy reads a Bible verse during a red and white Valentine's Day dining Tuesday night. It has been a tradition for Kennedy and her husband, Ken, for almost 45 years.

After they met in person during May 1944 in Manhattan, the original act of kindness grew into more.

"We just kind of knew we should be together," she said.

After Ken's short stay, the U.S. Air Force sent him to several states, and for almost six months they were

See VALENTINE on PAGE 12

Habitat Dance-a-thon registration begins today in Union

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Just in time for Valentine's Day, informational and registration tables for the K-State Dance-a-thon will be on the first floor of the K-State Student Union from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. today.

"As a special for Valentine's Day, we are letting couples sign up together for a discounted rate," said Grant Helmers, freshman in business and dance-a-thon committee member. "Also, KJCK-FM 94.5 will be broadcasting live today from the booth."

Couples can sign up for $20 per dancer today, down from the regular

MORE INFO?

Call Grant Helmers at 537-9362 or email her at gth9988@ksu.edu or the Dance-a-thon committee at ksuhouse.ksu.edu.

houses that will be known as the houses that K-State built for Habitat for Humanity."

The group is attempting to raise more than $45,000 to build the first house that will be dedicated in memory of Nancy Bennett, the late wife of K-State cost of $25 per person.

"Part of the proceeds will go towards Habitat for Humanity," Helmers said, "but the focus of the money will go toward a series of defensive football coach Paul Bennett.

"Building this house is something that Nancy would have been proud to be involved in," Bennett said. "She was a loving person who cared for everyone. My children and I are very proud of the organization's efforts and what they are trying to do."

Helmers said each of the houses will be dedicated to late members of the K-State community.

"It is a great way to honor them," he said. "As more money comes in, more houses will be built and dedicated."

Last year, the Dance-a-thon raised a little over $7,500, and this year the committee plans to double that.

"We want to raise around $14,000," Helmers said. "We are going to increase involvement and awareness at K-State and in the community, which we hope will get more people to participate."

Dancers will be eligible for a variety of prizes throughout the night, and spectators also are encouraged to attend. "There will be a small fee for people who don't want to dance that will benefit Habitat for Humanity," Helmers said, "but that fee hasn't been set yet."

The Dance-a-thon will be from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. April 27 in Ahearn Field House. An additional informational and registration table will be in the Union from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on March 13.

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Week
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Week
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jbb7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glascock
kg1544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
kg1544@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
bw1544@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bsc3039@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jbb7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
nh1606@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nf1430@ksu.edu
Michael Noll
mn1585@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jdd666@ksu.edu
Eric Schneeweis
ers878@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm6920@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
chc766@ksu.edu
Danny Ellsworth
des0091@ksu.edu
Allison Duncan
add049@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
err1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
(USPS 291-020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66506. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

Freaky phobias

Ambulophobia: Fear of walking.
Gynophobia or Gynophobia: Fear of women.
Logophobia: Fear of words.
Peladophobia: Fear of bald people.
Somniphobia: Fear of sleep.

Committee sends version of lottery bill to Senate

TOPEKA — A Senate committee endorsed a bill extending the Kansas Lottery's life for the second time in two days, once again rejecting a House plan designed to increase air travel traffic in Kansas.

The Federal and State Affairs Committee took less than five minutes to strip down a House-approved lottery bill and endorse it. The action sent the House bill to the Senate for a debate today.

"We're on schedule, and we're on track," said Senate Majority Leader Lana Olen, R-Manhattan.

The legislation endorsed Tuesday is similar to a Senate bill the committee endorsed Monday.

Both versions leave out House proposals to restrict lottery operations.

Among the new restrictions would be prohibitions on the agency from operating video gambling machines, credit card purchases of tickets and Internet advertising of games.

Neither version contains the House's proposal to use $4 million in lottery revenues for a program to decrease fares for people flying into and from Kansas airports.

The bill endorsed Tuesday would keep the lottery in operation until July 1, 2008, or six years past the July 1, 2002, abolition date set in Kansas law.

But the contents of that Senate bill didn't force the committee to take a second look at lottery legislation. Instead, it was the committee's decision Monday to set aside the bill approved by the House.

Many legislators saw the committee's action Monday as a mistake that threatened to slow progress toward passage of a lottery bill. Gov. Bill Graves and legislative leaders want a bill to clear the Legislature as quickly as possible.

— The Associated Press

Bill touting alternative energy sent to House

TOPEKA — A House committee has backed five bills intended to encourage development of alternative energy sources and help increase electrical generation capacity in Kansas.

The House Taxation Committee endorsed the measures on voice votes Monday.

Two of the measures were sent to the full House. One would grant a property tax exemption for property used to make biodiesel fuels. The other creates a similar exemption for property used in manufacturing ethanol.

Ethanol is made from grains such as corn, wheat and barley. Biodiesel uses animal fat or soybeans. Both burn cleaner in vehicles than other fuels.

Three other measures were sent to the House Utilities Committee for more review.

One would create an income tax credit for companies that generate electricity using wind and water power.

Another would grant a 10-year property tax exemption for any state-regulated utility that builds a new coal-fired generating plant or fits an existing plant with pollution control devices. A fifth bill would create the same exemption for power wholesalers.

The taxation committee did not have estimates on how much the various bills would cost the state or local governments in tax revenues.

— The Associated Press

House endorses raise in state aid per student

TOPEKA — The House Appropriations Committee endorsed a $2.6 billion public schools budget Tuesday that raises state aid by $50 per pupil and does not include a tax increase.

The measure increases spending for elementary and secondary schools by $68 million, about $130 million less than requested by the Department of Education for the fiscal year that starts July 1.

"This represents the best budget at this time," said Rep. Clark Shultz, R-Lindsborg, chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee on education. "Obviously, there's not a lot of new money available."

About $29 million of the increased spending would result from the proposed rise in base state aid to school districts to $3,870 per pupil from the current $3,820.

Shultz said his subcommittee looked at doing the most for early childhood education programs with the dollars available.

Members of the full Appropriations Committee raised the possibility of the "C" word — cuts — if state revenues continue to fall short of expectations. Through January, revenue collections were $48 million short of estimates.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegen@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ Chimes Junior Honorary applications and scholarship applications are now available in the Office of Student Activities and Services. The applications are due at 4 p.m. today. Applicants must have at least a 3.0 cumulative grade point average and must be juniors in fall 2001.

■ Fall 2001 student teachers will meet at 3:30 p.m. today in Blumont 101.

■ Career and Employment Services will conduct a résumé-critique workshop from 3:30 to 5 p.m. today in Holtz Hall.

■ KSU Akido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.

■ The International Student Center will have an International Coffee Hour presentation, "The Way of Life in Africa," at 4 p.m. today at the student center.

■ Agricultural Education Club will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in Weber 111.

■ In conjunction with the meeting, Alpha Tau Alpha will have its 116th annual induction of new members.

■ Filing forms for Student Governing Association elections are due at 4 p.m. Friday in the Office of Student Activities and Services. Forms can be obtained online at www.ksu.edu/elections.

■ Graduate Students of Visual Arts will have an art exhibition through Feb. 23 in the Willard Hall Gallery. The show is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and a reception will take place Friday.

■ Intramural Free Throw has been rescheduled for Friday and Saturday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. Participants will compete at the time they originally signed up. Call 532-6980.

■ Applications for KSU Student Foundation are available at the Foundation building or in the Office of Student Activities and Services. An international reception will be at 4 p.m. Monday in Union 212 for students interested in the organization. Applications are due in the OSAS by Feb. 23.

■ Homecoming Student Committee applications can be picked up at the Office of Student Activities and Services. Applications are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 23 at the K-State Alumni Association, 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 400.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County Monday, Feb. 12

■ At 11:55 a.m., Addie J. Stokes, 615 Ratone St., was arrested for theft.

■ At 12:05 p.m., Dale A. Straub, St. George, Kan., was arrested for probation violation, theft, failure to appear and worthless checks.

■ At 3:30 p.m., Joe L. Caetano, Fort Riley, was arrested for driving on a canceled driver's license.

■ At 5 p.m., Logan N. Smith, 3214 Valleydale Drive, was arrested for criminal threat.

■ At 11 p.m., Dannel L. Thompson, 3404 Chimney Rock Road, was arrested for theft and criminal trespassing.

Tuesday, Feb. 13

■ At 2:21 a.m., Joshua A. Aldrich, Warnego, Kan., was arrested for unlawful possession, possession of drug paraphernalia and DUI.

■ At 3:27 a.m., Paul K. Seger, 2215 College Ave., was arrested for DUI.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

On the topic or off the topic: 395-4444

Happy Valentine's Day!
Claflin Books and Copies

Revive your sole.

- Authorized Birkenstock repair service.
- We change old Birkenstock footwear into new.
- We use genuine Birkenstock materials.

SPECIALTY STORE
BIRKENSTOCK
Olson's Birkenstock
Aggieville
539-8571

BIRKENSTOCK

Mel's Tavern
Manhattan's Downtown Sports Bar & Grill

10 oz.

Top Sirloin

Baked Potato
Veggie and Texas Toast

$5.99

Domestic Bottles $1.50
Old Milwaukee &
Old Milwaukee Light
$1.00

Mel's Tavern
105 N. 3rd Manhattan
(785) 776-9879

PART-TIME JOBS

Starting at $7.50 per hour
Help needed to take inventory in retail stores.
Average 10-12 hours on weekends.
Weekday daytime hours are also available, averaging 25 to 35 hours
depending on your availability.

Apply in person
State Room, Ramada Inn

Feb. 14, 2001 at 4:30 p.m.
or 6 p.m.

Interviews will start promptly

"Her loveliness
I never knew until she smiled at me."

Henry Hartley

Teeth cleaning from $40

SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.
514 Humboldt Plaza - Hygiene Department 913-837-8823

For more information, see our ad in your Supers *Manhattan Southwestern Bell Yellow Pages.

MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal
Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed., & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #3
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough Development
2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Travis Lenkner, senior in print journalism and pre-law, and Mary Bosco, senior in public relations, announce their running for student body president and vice president Tuesday morning outside of Denison Hall.

Lenkner, Bosco announce candidacy for presidency

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

Travis Lenkner and Mary Bosco want K-State students to expect more from the university. The pair kicked off their bid for the student body presidency and vice presidency in chilly conditions Tuesday near Denison Hall.

The Lenkner/Bosco platform is centered around four core issues, and the candidates said they look forward to the upcoming campaign and, they hope, to the future.

"We look forward to the campaign and the opportunity to serve K-State students over the next year," Lenkner said. "Hopefully, in the next year, we can show real progress to students."

One goal is to increase the uses of the Wildcat Card. It would expand the use of the card away from those areas already equipped with the service to areas such as local merchants and restaurants.

"We want to give students a one-stop card," Bosco said.

Another issue is online enrollment. While the team said KATS has improved the enrollment system, there still are some quirks that need to be worked out.

These include things like limiting the number of credit hours that students can enroll in without adviser permission. Now, students are able to enroll in an unlimited number of hours and thus are able to save spots in classes for lowerclassmen.

Lenkner and Bosco also plan to focus on wait lists.

"We would work to help the university get a uniform policy on waiting lists," Lenkner said.

He said a uniform policy is necessary because different instructors have different policies on what exactly it takes to get into a course. Throughout the announcement, students walked by heading to their 11:05 classes as a group of K-State students listened and applauded the speech.

Lenkner said he was pleased with the turnout and said it was good despite the weather.

He and Bosco wore shirts that said "Lenkner-Bosco" with "expect more" on the back.

"I am excited to get the campaign started," Bosco said.

Another issue the pair will address is the issue of Options for Safe Transportation on Campus, otherwise known as SafeRide.

The SafeRide program would

On the Web

The Lenkner-Bosco campaign also has a Web site that can be accessed at www.ksu.edu/expectmore.

be part of the city bus system — something the campaign supports.

Lenkner and Bosco said they would seek alternatives to the program to provide this system to students, which includes seeking private funds and corporate sponsorships and organizing local initiatives to promote safe transportation.

The campaign platform also would include initiatives to make campus events more publicized.

"We have a lot of activities, such as speeches here every day, and yet we still have people who say there is nothing to do in Manhattan," Lenkner said.

The system Lenkner proposed would work to improve the university's calendar and give K-State a central source of information on what is happening.

The plan also would target planning of events and encourage communication between campus groups.

Lenkner said all of the programs traced back to the campaign's theme.

"I think 'expect more' sums it up," he said.

Kansas ranked 5th in region for public-education spending

By LUCAS SHIVERS
Kansas State Collegian

Public-education spending, the fastest growing expenditure in the state's budget in the last decade, has ranked Kansas fifth in a 15-state Midwestern region.

According to a report by Kansas' House Education School Finance committee, equality in funding does not have uniform meaning throughout the state. Instead, it varies by locality. The committee perceived the challenge to be providing flexible considerations while capitalizing on local capacities.

"We always hope to offer local control," said state Rep. Kathe Lloyd, R-Clay Center and vice-chairperson of the K-12 education committee.

"Education should be controlled by people who know their (school) systems."

The report outlined five potential topics for further study that include special education funding, financial equality issues, transportation, declining enrollment and teacher recruitment. With a narrowed view, attention can be placed on fewer issues, said state Rep. Robert Tomlinson, R-Roland Park and school finance subcommittee chairman.

"We can hire as many consultants as we want, but the legislature has to take action," he said. "Why not skip the middleman and hit what we need?"

Exploring these issues will ensure high state standards, Tomlinson said.

"With education as a clear bipartisan priority, the future is bright," he said. "No matter how painful the process, we will deliver to meet expectations."

The finance committee was formed to discuss how to fund K-12 education effectively and fairly.

Tomlinson said public education is not being left out of the number crunch in the modern era of financial accountability.

"Districts need to be absolutely accountable," he said. "K-12 public education makes up the majority of our total budget. If they are not accountable, what are we doing up here?"

Bruce Stiles, Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 business director, said a financial report is submitted in August to the County Clerk and State Department of Education for certification.

"We are required to have a report on file for the various audits they perform throughout the year to check our budgets," Stiles said.

Stiles said the system is adequate in reporting the direction of tax dollars. However, he said simpler forms could track program results better.

"In the complexity of the system, communicating what we do tends to be a little difficult," he said.

Hale receives rare-book donation

By BENJAMIN HODGE
Kansas State Collegian

The interest in helping others to learn important aspects of Kansas history has driven Scott Price to donate more than 100 rare books to Hale Library.

Price, who works in the public relations office at Fort Riley, began collecting books while growing up in the 1960s. He was able to pay for these books with money earned from odd jobs, he said.

When he was 15 or 16, he was trying to save money for a car, he said, and he painted houses and worked other jobs to earn money. However, he saw an importance in purchasing certain books when the opportunity arose, Price said.

Price bought each book one at a time, and he said that as an adult, he has been able to buy the books he was unable to purchase while growing up.

Many of the books Price has donated are books printed about 30 years ago that are reprints of much older books, he said. These books, he said, deal with the struggle against the institution of slavery that formerly existed in this country until 1865.

These reprints were printed in the late 1960s and early '70s by the Negro University Press. He said the company, which went out of business in the 1970s, printed about 1,000 copies of these books.

These reprints are difficult to find because so many libraries have purchased them, Richard Adams, rare books librarian, said. He said Price's donations are very significant.

"We really look forward to working with him every year," Adams said.

A heart attack in 1997 caused Price to start thinking about what he wanted to do with his collection. Price said he wanted these books to be available for researchers and college students.

He said the books almost went to Fort Sumter, S.C., because he wasn't getting much of a response from the people he had talked to in Kansas. However, he decided to contact K-State, and after speaking to John Fairman, assistant vice president of university relations, he discovered the university was very interested.

Price grew up in St. Louis, where he attended integrated schools until he was 9 years old, and then his family moved to Alabama. Price said he noticed a significant difference in race relations between Alabama and St. Louis.

For instance, he once observed

Find the books

These rare books are located on the fifth floor of Hale Library in the special collections department. The department is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

his friends throwing rocks at a bus of civil rights workers, he said. His mother, he said, told him that he would be punished if he threw rocks in a similar manner.

Price attended the University of Alabama, where he majored in American history. In 1977, he joined the U.S. Army, which he remained a part of for more than 15 years.

Joining the military as a private, he worked his way up to the rank of major. He last worked as the commander of the Army Correctional Brigade at Fort Riley.

To be an educated person, Price said, one needs to know the history of our nation, and these books include an important part of history. Price mentioned how President Harry Truman once told British Prime Minister Winston Churchill that to be able to understand America, one needs to understand football and the story of the American Civil War.

AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
AUTO HOME BUSINESS HEALTH LIFE

Tim Engle
K-State Grad 88

"Call us for your Health and Auto Insurance"

3320 Anderson

539-9200

American Family Mutual Insurance Co. and its Subsidiaries
Home Office: Madison, WI 53783-6001
E-Mail: tengle@amfam.com

dance-a-thon
THE HOUSE THAT K-STATE BUILT IN MEMORY OF NANCY BENNETT

april 27, 2001 7 p.m. - 7 a.m.
Ahearn Field House

registration dates Wednesday, February 14
11 a.m. - 1 p.m. Union Main Level live remote with Bradley J from 94.5

Register to win a TV if you sign-up this day with $10

valentine's day special
Sign-up with another person and it's just $20 to dance per person.

Dancers must raise $25 before April 27 and must have $10 to register.

questions or for more information contact us at ksuhouse@ksu.edu next registration date is March 13.

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

776-5577

1800 Claflin Road

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Union Program Council Events

Showing This Week

Dr. Strangelove

February 16 and 17
7:00pm and 9:30pm

Admission: $1.75

K-State Student Union Forum Hall

JAZZ NIGHT
featuring the
KSU Jazz Combo

Thursday, February 15
8:00pm
Union Station
FREE ENTERTAINMENT!

Poetry Reading
"How's Your Heart?"
Thursday, February 15
8:00pm
Java in Aggieville

SNOW CREEK
skiing trip
Space is limited!
Sign up deadline is Feb. 16
Cost: $50
Call 532-6571 for details

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY!
from the Union Program Council

For Event and Membership Information: Visit Us! 3rd Floor K-State Student Union! Call Us! 532-6571 Visit us Online! www.ksu.edu/events

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

Paying fees for MP3 downloads prudent solution

Metallica probably is happy right now — thousands of music lovers probably are not.

It's official — the federal appeals court ruled Monday that Napster must stop allowing free copies of music to be provided to millions of music fans on the Internet. Napster must lock out those users who exchange copyrighted songs without permission.

There has been talk that Napster still might be able to operate if members pay to share, and thus obtain, songs.

This is the right approach to take. Most people would be more than happy to pay a small fee to have a variety of music to download. It is only fair to pay for a portion for this service.

Napster led people to realize that the days of paying for a $15 compact disc were gone. While it upset a lot of larger bands and musicians, it was favored by the majority of smaller groups as a way to get their music heard.

If Napster won the case it would have opened up a new world in terms of other business ventures that have been in the shadows awaiting exception to copyright laws.

Napster was able to open up the doors to a different style of entertainment. A small fee to use the service should be welcome.

OUR VIEW
is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari
Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
News Editor

Erin Schneeweis
Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll
Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crable
Copy Chief

Sara Martin
Design Editor

Jamie Barrett
Online News Editor

Travis Weigel
Columnist

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

This is to anyone who thinks they've actually been affected by the campus's decision to slow down Napster: there are other programs out there. Just try searching for them. And I still download about 20 songs a day.

Dear city of Manhattan: thank you so much for finally clearing off my street. Only now my car is barricaded in by a two foot wall of snow. Thanks so much.

This is Adam, and I just wanted to say thanks to whoever found and turned in my ID and money at the Rec. If you come find me, I'll buy you a beer.

This is to Wooldridge and the Cats: you have nothing to hang your heads about, guys. We're behind you. Keep up your hard work.

As great as Derby Dining is, they need to learn how to cook the pizza.

To all my new weightlifting buddies, you cannot get big and huge in the month before spring break. Why don't you just do us all a favor and stick to the tanning beds, powder puffs.

I'd just like to say that I am getting tired of all of these rational, responsible columns in the paper. I think it's high time that we get some more fundamentalists back at the paper.

Yeah, I'm a nice guy and I just got dumped the day before Valentine's Day. So I guess I need to be a jerk now, or what?

David Levin, I've got an ex-wife who works for the Manhattan Mercury too. I feel for you, man.

Question for Thursday: Do you agree or disagree with the penis sculpture being removed from the Union art gallery? Why or why not?

ESCAPING THE ALMIGHTY GPA

Columnist realizes grades not important in real world

I was told something a couple of weeks ago that surprised me. I heard this interesting tidbit in a meeting for a summer internship I was looking into.

When our meeting was drawing to a close, our presenter asked us if we had any questions. Someone in our group asked her what she looked for in a résumé. She ran down all of the run-of-the-mill résumé fillers like objectives, work experience, references, education and other relevant experiences that related to the position. There was one thing she said she didn't want to see on a résumé. She told us to leave off our grade point average because she didn't care what our grades were.

Now, wait just a minute, I thought. That really doesn't make any sense. All of my life my teachers and counselors have been telling me the only way I would succeed in the real world was if I studied hard and got good grades. Why wouldn't my potential employer want to see how well I did in school? Wouldn't he or she be impressed by all of the hours I dedicated to my studies? Wouldn't that person be glad I had my priorities straight?

Once I thought about it, the more I realized how insignificant a GPA is in the real world. Your GPA isn't a true indicator of your future success in the corporate world. All a 4.0 says about a candidate for a job is he or she has good study skills and can read a boring textbook without falling asleep.

I know there are some people out there who think I'm insane. They would say a good GPA is a sign of follow-through and dedication to schoolwork. It's a sign you have your priorities in the right order.

I used to think like that, too. When I didn't get the award for 4.2 and above: GPA my senior year in high school, I felt like a failure. I was sure I never would be successful in college, much less get anywhere in life. I figured the highest rung on the corporate ladder for me would be a manager at my local McDonald's.

Fortunately, I can say that that was back in high school when I was young and naive, well, at least more so than I am now. I've realized grades aren't everything. The most important aspect of college isn't your GPA; it's the experiences you have.

Being involved in activities looks better on your résumé than a

SARAH MCCAFFREY

4.0. I came to the conclusion my freshman year it was going to be okay if my grades did slip a little in exchange for a well-rounded college experience. I took the initiative and got involved.

Being involved in different organizations on and off campus has taught me a lot of skills I wouldn't learn in a college classroom. One of the most important skills I've learned is time management. Yes, I am a slave to my planner now, but it's worth it. Employers are looking for someone who can balance their personal and professional lives. They want an employee who knows when they need to begin working on tasks to meet their deadlines. Being involved in many organizations at once teaches you the value of planning your schedule out in advance.

Employers also are impressed by extracurricular involvement because it shows you can interact well with other people. I guess you could say it shows you are a team player. Studying pretty much is a solo activity. It doesn't show how well you can interact with others.

I think it's also okay to let your grades slide a little so you can experience college. Now, I'm not talking about letting your grades take a nose dive because you decided to get drunk every night of the week, I'm talking about enjoying college.

Don't stay home every weekend with your nose buried in a book. Go out to parties or to Aggieville and get to know some people. You can learn a lot about yourself and about life from the people you meet. I wouldn't have much to write about in this column if I didn't go out and socialize with others.

College is a time to try new things and get to know yourself. It's the last chance many of us will have to blow off some of our responsibilities and get away with it. We don't have to worry about the mortgage or putting food on the table for our families. It's time to enjoy our lives.

I'm encouraging all of you to go out and celebrate because you made it through a stress-filled week of tests. And remember, grades aren't everything.

Sarah is a sophomore in public relations and print journalism. You can e-mail her at scm7597@ksu.edu.

AUSTIN PORTER/Collegian

Rating housing easier with standard scoring system

Statistically, I'm scared. In Manhattan, 67 percent of K-State students will have a roof cave in on them zero to five times in their college careers. At least, there is a chance. Time to call Geico for a life insurance quote? No. It's time for off-campus students to ante up the $5 bill of yearly mandatory rental inspections.

Inspections, however, will not be able to protect K-State students immediately, and the costs might run higher. I'm guessing most leases will be signed on the dotted line and somehow grandfathered in if a policy is implemented this spring. Maybe I'll be wrong, I hope so.

Even if inspections are passed, I'm here to offer a BCS system for classifying rental properties over the next 13 weeks of football, err, housing hunts.

Whether you are a freshman or upperclassman, make sure you run your potential properties through the BCS formula.

The BCS has four components. Polls, computer ranking, strength of schedule and losses determine the best.

When shopping for housing this spring, you should consider these four categories.

Polls:

For housing rankings, you won't be able to recruit Associated Press writers or coaches. Remember playing house? You be the AP daddy and have your friend serve as Coach Mommy. Sit down after looking at all of the potential properties you like and rank them, top to bottom. There is no science to this component, only emotion. Tally votes and determine rankings.

Computer ranking:

Using a top-secret formula only known to a few housing gurus, I will let you rank each rental property on hidden factors some folks won't ever think about.

First up is the very important total square foot per dollar. How much room will you get for your buck?

The second component is energy efficiency. Your monthly bills will depend on this. Will your house burn gas faster than a squirrel eluding a pack of wild dogs?

Third in the computer is code compliance. If your property is up to date, it scores highly in this column. If your dream accommodation meets the Americans with Disabilities Act, add a bonus to this portion. For ADA compliance, check the widths of your doors (are they 36"?), ramps allowing access to them and related requirements.

Strength of schedule:

Rental properties are strong programs year in and year out if they can always have the following on their slate.

Distance from campus is critical. Will you be close enough to walk? Or will you be forced to battle the parking sharks in the trenches of A-30 lot?

Second, good parking accommodations at your residence are a strong team to have on your schedule. If you have off-street parking for each of the tenants' vehicles, you score highly in this department. A garage scores you extra points in this category.

ZAC COOK

Next up on the schedule is bathroom accommodations. Will you have to walk 100 yards in your towel to shower? Sharing a bathroom with more than two people subtracts from the strength, while you can score a bonus with a single bathroom attached to your room.

The fourth factor in the strength of schedule is kitchen space. Males generally fail to secure more than a Division I-AA quality kitchen. Make sure your kitchen has room to turn around and an oven larger than a mailbox.

Finally, a national champion caliber property would have access to a clean pool. Having a well-maintained pool is equivalent to scheduling Nebraska, Florida State, Miami and Florida all in the same season.

You can relax near the water by day and watch scantily clothed intoxicated people dip by night. You can lose schedule points if the pool is a filthy one that grows fungus in the off-season.

Losses:

If you don't have these, you lose. Subtract one point for each of the following you lack.

1. Washer and dryer
2. Garbage disposal
3. Dishwasher
4. Ice maker

Follow the formula. Keep yourself from the ghetto.

Good luck this housing season. I hope you can avoid a cave-in and score as the National Champion of Off-Campus Housing.

Zac is a senior in Prague. You can email him at zac3480@ksu.edu.

Johnson, Burgess discuss city platform issues, candidacy

By SCOTT ALDIS-WILSON
Kansas State Collegian

Like unexpected changes in the weather, Jan. 23 saw a couple of surprise last minute filings for Manhattan City Commission.

Campaign signs for three available seats on the Manhattan City Commission are sprouting throughout town, and not too soon, either. With seven candidates in the running, a primary election is scheduled for Feb. 27 to narrow the field down to six.

The final election is scheduled for April 3, when the candidates with the highest and second highest number of votes each will receive three-year terms. The third-place candidate will receive a two-year term. The three winners are expected to begin duties at the commission's April 17 meeting.

In the meantime, the candidates have agreed to discuss why they are running and what they are running for.

Until Jan. 23, most people following the city commission elections thought five candidates would be the only ones running. In a last-minute change that surprised many, this year's city commission elections have two candidates that filed the last day they could, both because they said they wanted to give voters more choices for 2001.

JOHNSON

David Johnson

Occupation: Self-employed financial and aviation consultant.
Reasons for running:

Johnson was one of two candidates who filed within an hour of the Jan. 23 filing deadline.

"I've been agonizing over it for a while," he said. "I felt like the voters needed more choice."

Three platform issues:

1. Accessibility — Johnson said he wants to restore constituents' faith in their local government.

"I want to be their commissioner," he said. "I want to listen to them, not dictate to them."

2. Controlling spending by local government — Johnson said he's seen a city government that is spending more than ever on roundabouts and the T. Russell Reitz Animal Shelter than fixing roads and the water system or contributing to Habitat for Humanity.

"Did you know we have a bike coordinator in this town that makes $50,000 a year?" he said. "We need to change where some of this money is going."

Sitting on the commission is a public trust, he said, not a chance to follow personal projects.

Redirecting public funds possibly could reduce rising taxes, he said.

3. Economic development — The city needs to attract a Fortune

500 company, Johnson said, that pays high enough wages to create disposable income within the city. Johnson said getting one company could create a snowball effect to draw other businesses.

At present, he said, Riley County ranks in the top three counties statewide for poverty, but Manhattan has low crime, low commute time and access to rail, air and road that companies need.

"What doesn't Manhattan have that other places have?" he said.

Art Burgess

Occupation: Vice president of Kansas Electrical Supply.
Reasons for running:

BURGESS

Burgess was another candidate who filed to run less than an hour before the deadline.

"I was seventh, but I didn't know that," he said.

Burgess said he is running primarily because of the proposed redevelopment that began last year near his shop.

"There is too much university influence on the commission," he said. "They don't know how a small businessman has to survive."

Four platform issues:

1. Renovation of the Union Pacific Depot — Burgess said the city needs to have a specific purpose in mind before continuing restoration of the historic building near Fort Riley Boulevard.

"They're going to renovate a building, but they don't know what they're going to put in it," he said. "How can you renovate a building if you don't know?"

2. Economic development — City funds should not be used to pay companies to come in, Burgess said, but used to fund the city's search for non-polluting companies that will pay $8 or more an hour.

3. Southeast redevelopment — Burgess said a Tax Increment Financing district west of Juliet Avenue and north of Poyntz Avenue needs to produce low-income housing. The area, he said, has all the necessities except medical attention.

"You don't need a car in that area," he said.

However, Burgess said he wants businesses in the area spared.

4. A more efficient city government — Burgess said the city would be risking bankruptcy if it were a small business. Changes in small ways, like replacing city employee uniforms with ID badges, could cut expenses and avoid higher taxes, he said.

"We should conserve water, gas, electricity, manpower, sewage, vehicles, equipment," he said. "There's not a part of the city that could not use help."

Bush looking to move forward, end congressional investigations

By TOM RAUM
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Bush indicated Tuesday he has little enthusiasm for congressional investigations of President Clinton's final acts in office, including pardons he granted.

"I think it's time to move on," Bush told reporters while flying back from Norfolk, Va. But he acknowledged that Congress is going to do what it's going to do.

Bush also attempted to defuse another controversy surrounding the ex-president.

"All the allegations that they took stuff on Air Force One are simply not true," Bush said. He referred to published accounts suggesting members of Clinton's party stripped the plane of glasses and other souvenirs as it took the former president to New York from Washington the day he left office.

Congressional committees are looking into Clinton's pardon of fugitive financier Marc Rich, whose ex-wife is a major Democratic contributor. Republicans, who control Congress, say they want to know whether Clinton's actions were influenced by political contributions.

Bush spoke with reporters on the half-hour flight from Norfolk, Va., where he had given a military speech, back to Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland.

Bush welcomed a new report suggesting a surge in consumer spending in January — but said it's not an indication the economy isn't still weak, nor does it detract from his argument for a $1.6 trillion, 10-year tax cut.

Americans pushed up sales at the nation's retailers in January by a strong 0.7 percent, the biggest jump in four months, according to a new government report.

"I think that's a good statistic amidst a sea of pretty dismal statistics," Bush said. "I'm concerned about the economy."

He said he hopes to continue to work with Congress in getting a tax-cut package through in time for taxpayers to get a break on their 2000 taxes, which are due April 15.

Bush has supported making his tax cut retroactive, but few in Congress expect a package of such magnitude can be passed by April 15.

Fiscal policies include tax cuts, which are under the authority of the president and Congress. Monetary policy is controlled by the Federal Reserve, including the setting of interest rates.

Weekly Flour Sale
12 noon - 4 p.m. Today
Shellenberger 220

5 and 50 lb. bags
Many varieties available

GRAIN
SCIENCE CLUB
532-6161

Little Caesars
WEDNESDAY
HOT & READY
1 LARGE 14" PIZZA
WITH PEPPERONI
5:00 PM - 8:00 PM
$5.00

CALL 539-3333
Manhattan (Westloop Center)

TACO HUT
"Where good friends get together since 1969"

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

Sancho or Burrito - $1.65
Taco Dinner - $2.45

Drive thru now open!

MON. thru THURS. 10:30 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.
FRI. 10:30 A.M. - 11:30 P.M.
SAT. 11:00 A.M. - 11:00 P.M.
SUN. 11:00 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.

2809 CLAFLIN 539-2091

Virtual Career Fairs
...On-line at
www.ksu.edu/ces

View positions on-line and send resume directly to employers

February 9-15, 2001
Intern, Summer and Co-op Positions

February 16-22, 2001
Full-Time Career Positions

Visit CES at 100 Holtz Hall or call 532-6506 for more information

(must be registered in advance with Career & Employment Services to participate)

Bob's DINER 1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT
OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

is EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY
$1.99
BREAKFAST
ALL THE TIME

Happy Valentine's Day!

KSU Meat Sale
WEDNESDAY & FRIDAY
3-6 p.m. & Noon-6 p.m.

Rm. 166 Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst
PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

For information call 532-1279

the nicholas payton
ARMSTRONG CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION
Sunday, February 17 at 8:00 p.m.

For ticket information, call 785-532-6428 or stop by the McCain Box Office Monday through Friday, noon to 5:00 p.m.

pre-performance lecture at 7:00 p.m. in room 204 McCain by Dr. Alfred Cochran

Major funding provided by

MCCAIN PERFORMANCE SERIES SPRING 2001

Get $ for School

Applications for Blue Key Scholarships are available in the Office of Student Activities & Services and the Leadership House at 914 Manhattan Ave.

Blue Key Senior Honor Fraternity

Applications are due by 4:00pm February 19th

SURVIVING the MILLENNIUM

Hear from the Pros Question the Pros

Student Career Day
Featuring Mitch Holthus
Voice of the Kansas City Chiefs
February 23, 2001
9:30 am to 3:00 pm

Pozez Education Center
1505 SW 8th St. Topeka, Kansas

Workshops for Advertising and Public Relations Students
For additional information, call Barbara Hersh at (785)354-5725 or send an email to BarbaraH@stormontvail.org

Presented by Public Relations Society of Topeka and Topeka Advertising Federation

SPORTS BRIEFS

Men's golf team places 10th in 1st competition

The Cats showed signs of rust in the Rice Intercollegiate in Katy, Texas, the team's first competition since October.

After 36 holes of play on Monday, K-State finished 10th in the 10-team field. The Cats shot an opening-round 310 and had three golfers shoot over 80 strokes. Freshman Aaron Watkins led the team by shooting 74-75—149 to tie for 20th. Freshman A.J. Elger also performed well, shooting rounds of 77-74—151 to tie for 29th.

The second round went slightly better for the Cats, with four golfers improving on their opening round score, but they still found themselves eight points behind ninth-place Southwest Texas State.

Five other Big 12 schools are also competing in the meet — Kansas (1), Baylor (3), Texas Tech (6), Missouri (7) and Nebraska (8).

The Cats played the final 18 holes on Tuesday.

Cavendar named Big 12 Player of the Week

K-State designated hitter Josh Cavendar posted one of the best offensive weeks of his career to earn the Big 12 Player of the Week honor.

The senior went 9-for-17 (.529) in four starts with three runs scored, 10 RBIs and two home runs. Most of the damage was done against LSU over the weekend, when Cavendar lit up the defending national champion Tigers with 6-for-12 (.500) hitting, nine RBIs, three runs scored and two home runs.

"This is an outstanding and deserving honor for Josh," head coach Mike Clark said. "He really paced us this weekend from his designated hitter spot."

He not only hit the two home runs but also came up with some key hits with runners in scoring position that enabled us to stay competitive with a team of LSU's caliber."

Cavender is the first K-State player to earn the accolade since second baseman Chad Tabor did so on April 20, 2000.

Ohlde named conference Rookie of Week 3rd time

Freshman forward Nicole Ohlde was named the Big 12 Rookie of the Week for a league-leading third time.

Ohlde averaged 28 points, 9 rebounds, 3 steals and 36.5 minutes in two outings last week.

She has led K-State in scoring 13 times and in rebounding 16 times. With five games still remaining in the regular season, Ohlde has already tied the freshman record for field goals made with 147.

K-State track Athletes of Week announced

Korene Hinds, Joseph Lee, Queeneth Evurunobi and Tamel Sisney have been honored by the K-State coaching staff as the team's Athletes of the Week for their performances at the Iowa State Track and Field Classic last weekend.

Hinds placed first in the mile with a personal best and NCAA automatic qualifying time of 4:40.78.

She also helped the distance medley relay team to a first place finish and NCAA provisional qualifying time of 11:19.13.

Lee ran the second fastest 800-meter time in K-State history, finishing with an NCAA provisional time of 1:49.86. He also ran the opening leg of the distance medley relay team that placed first with an NCAA provisional time of 9:39.43.

Evurunobi set two personal best marks in the long jump and triple jump.

Her distance of 20-2.25 in the long jump placed fifth and was an NCAA provisional time. She also placed fifth in the triple jump with a leap of 40-7.

Sisney placed 10th in the shot put with a distance of 55-11.25, his second-best mark of the year, and placed 12th in the weight throw with a heave of 59-1.50.

DANGEROUS THREAT

Freshman forward shoots, rebounds her way to contend for Big 12 Freshman of Year honor

Freshman Nicole Ohlde drives around an Oklahoma State defender in a game earlier this season. Ohlde has been named Big 12 Rookie of the Week three times this season.

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

Making the trip from Clay Center, Kan. to Manhattan, freshman forward Nicole Ohlde probably couldn't have imagined how big of a factor she would become in her first season in the Little Apple.

A three-sport star in basketball, track and volleyball while in high school, Ohlde chose to trade her Tiger stripes for the Wildcat pride this fall after being named a USA Today All-American after her senior season at Clay Center by leading her team in scoring, three-point shooting, field goal percentage and steals.

Given that résumé, it's no wonder Ohlde has become one of the Cats' most dangerous threats on the Bramlage Coliseum floor so far this season, head coach Deb Patterson said.

"Her play is significant because it is a standard of excellence," she said. "It is a standard of achievement and competitiveness that will allow you, individually, to succeed in the Big 12."

Still, Ohlde is reluctant to take credit for her early success. Rather, she chooses to shun the spotlight and direct it to her teammates' play.

"I do what I can, but I'm trying to focus on the team aspect," she said. "I have complete confidence in the perimeter players on this team."

Ohlde began making her presence felt early this season when, in only her second collegiate game, she paced the Cats with 36 points and 19 rebounds in the Beaver Classic against Wyoming on Nov. 24.

Her first double-double would not be the last, either. In fact, the 6-foot-4 freshman has recorded five similar performances this season, including Saturday's 28 point, 10 rebound performance against Big 12 co-leader Iowa State.

Against the Cyclones, Ohlde led K-State for the 13th time in scoring and for the 16th time in rebounding while tying the freshman record for field goals in a season.

Despite Ohlde's impressive numbers, K-State again fell short against the Cyclones. It was the latest in a string of games in which the freshman has starred for the Cats in a losing effort because of a lack of consistency from the team's other four players, Patterson said.

"What's amazing is the consistency and the steady improvement that Nicole has demonstrated while the team, as a whole, has struggled in the last three ball games," she said. "It has been critical in that it has been the one shining bright spot Nicole Ohlde has stepped on the floor and met all expectations and, in fact, surpassed them."

Those expectations already were lofty when after just three games with the Cats, Ohlde was inserted into the starting lineup against Texas Southern to open the Commerce Bank Classic.

Averaging 26 minutes and 22 points in the previous two games as K-State's top reserve, Ohlde averaged just 19 minutes and 9.5 points per contest as a starter while the Cats won their invitational, but things would soon change.

Now, with 18 starts under her belt, Ohlde has established herself as a legitimate contender for Big 12 Freshman of the Year honors since playing more than 20 minutes in every game since the Classic and scoring at least 10 points in every contest except one.

"What's really impressive to me about her is that she has done what she should do through the course of the season," Patterson said. "Her numbers have increased, she's become a better defensive player and she's leading this team in scoring and rebounding which is phenomenal for a freshman in this league."

Still, despite the early success, Ohlde remains a soft-spoken power in the Wildcat post. Although her numbers against Missouri and Iowa State were good enough to earn her the Big 12 Freshman of the Week honor, Ohlde is focused on improvement.

"It's exciting, but I'm really trying to focus on our team goals right now," she said. "I see a lot of areas where I can get better."

"I think that regardless of what happens this year, we'll come out and say we've got something to prove next season."

The prospect of Ohlde's continued improvement and a healthy class of incoming recruits plus the return of preseason freshman of the year Laurie Koehn to the K-State lineup is enough to make Patterson beam and other coaches in the Big 12 shudder.

"I think the coaches in this league understand that we don't go deep, we're young and athletically we don't match up well. That's given, with the exception of Nicole Ohlde," Patterson said.

"It's just a bright light of hope that flashes before your eyes because you understand the magnitude of athletic and basketball talent that are going to be on the floor for us. That is extremely encouraging on paper and in concept."

K-State hopes to end Oklahoma's 10-game winning streak

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

K-State will look to bounce back from Saturday's 81-52 loss to Iowa State tonight in Norman, Okla. for a 7 p.m. tip-off with the No. 10 Oklahoma Sooners.

Despite a season low eight turnovers and freshman Nicole Ohlde's fifth double-double of the season, K-State (11-11, 1-10) was limited to just 21 first-half points in suffering its sixth straight conference loss to the Cyclones.

On the opposite end of the Big 12 standings sits Oklahoma, (19-4, 10-1) and the Sooners' 10-game winning streak, including road wins at Nebraska and Oklahoma State last week. Head coach Deb Patterson said the key to OU's success this season has been their scoring depth.

"Oklahoma is great because they've got eight players who can score," she said. "Literally they can score right deep, and they're all big and strong and yet athletic."

Four Sooners averaged double-digit scoring in Oklahoma's wins over the Huskers and Cowgirls, including point guard Stacey Dales' 19 points per game, which accounted for nearly one quarter of the Sooners' offense.

Dales is one of 10 finalists from around the nation for the Conesco/Nancy Lieberman-Cline Step Up Award given to the top point guard in Division I women's basketball and leads the team with 7.3 assists-per-contest.

Defending the likes of Dales and LaNeishia Caufield figures to be quite a struggle for the Cats, but Patterson said she expects a higher level of defensive intensity out of her team not only tonight but for the remainder of the season.

"I don't think we're defending at the level we're capable of," she said. "I think our lack of intensity and lack of execution on the defensive end is something we have control over."

"It's being possessed about completing the assignment and being true to the scouting report. Those are areas where, as we head down these last five games and into the Big 12 Tournament, I'm expecting drastic improvement."

Senior guard Kristin Rethman said she agreed and said one aspect the Cats must improve in is consistency on the defensive side of the ball.

"We need to keep the intensity there," she said. "We need to not let teams rattle us if they get one or two good plays or something bad happens because there's 40 minutes in a ball game, and we can't quit playing."

One player who has consistently stepped up for the Cats during the losing skid has been freshman phenom Nicole Ohlde, who, with back-to-back 28-point games against Iowa

See OKLAHOMA on PAGE 10

Cats travel to Nebraska today with revenge on minds

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

Three points doesn't sound like much. That's all the extra K-State men's basketball team needs to muster to reverse its fortunes against Nebraska tonight.

In the two teams' previous match up on Jan. 30, K-State led for nearly the entire game, but the Huskers squeaked out a 63-61 victory in Bramlage. The game's deciding basket, a Nebraska layup, came off a last-minute Phineas Atchison turnover.

Now, just two weeks later, the Cats will attempt to finish what they started in Manhattan.

"It's really the very fundamental things that make the difference between these games," head coach Jim Wooldridge said. "Even though we're familiar with them, and they're a little more familiar with us now, it's probably going to come down to who does the little things the best."

If the last match up was any indicator, the biggest little thing will be not getting shots swatted away by Husker center Kimani Ffriend, who blocked seven shots in Manhattan.

The key to handling Ffriend lies not in avoiding him, however, but actually in taking the ball right at him, forward Matt Siebrandt said.

"You've just got to take it right at him, try to draw contact. The last time we played him, we were just trying to get shots up and around him instead of going right at him," he said.

In addition to scoring in the paint, K-State also will have to improve its ball movement along the perimeter, a need that cannot be solved by just one player. Over the last four games, Larry Reid has averaged nearly 18 points, including a 30-point performance at Iowa State. K-State cannot expect Reid to carry it, though, forward Quentin Buchanan said.

"Larry had a good game against Iowa State. He was on fire that game," Buchanan said, "but he's not the type of player that can put up 30 points every night."

Against Colorado last Saturday, the Cats and Reid started the game flat, and the offense sputtered as a result. If the Cats play with that same type of energy level at Nebraska, one more loss will ensue.

"We know how we played with a lack of intensity, and we saw what happened when we played Colorado," Buchanan said. "I think we'll come out with high intensity. We're a good team."

Such optimism might sound out of place for a team that has lost six games in a row, but staying positive is of utmost importance for K-State, Wooldridge said.

"There's no point in beating your team up or constantly dwelling on the fact that you're having a hard time winning. I think we have to find just the opposite," he said. "I think we have to find positive things to point out and try to build upon so that we're giving our team the best chance to win."

And so far, even though the losses don't show it, the Cats have kept their spirits up.

"I think our team has been pretty resilient in coming back from the loss. Some of them have been the kind of losses that can really take the heart out of a team," Wooldridge said, "and yet we've seen them come back and play pretty good basketball

Larry Reid shoots the ball in Saturday's game against Colorado.

See NEBRASKA on PAGE 10

Quick, accurate recording of testimony result of court reporter's skill

By AMY MORGAN
Kansas State Collegian

Lori Coleman's day as a reporter is different than most. Her days are spent in courtroom proceedings, taking down every word every person says.

Coleman is an official court reporter at the Riley County Courthouse for the 21st Judicial District, which includes Riley and Clay counties under Judge Paul E. Miller. Her job is to appear at every court hearing in which Miller appears, and she must take down a transcription, or official record, of the hearing.

"We are incredibly unique in this state," Coleman said. "Most court reporters just take record — we do everything. We serve as administrative assistants, schedule court hearings, type decisions and do correspondence."

"Nobody in the state of Kansas does it," Coleman said. "When we get done in court, we're not done."

Coleman came to her position in February 1976 after a few short months as a freelance court reporter in Hutchinson, Kan.

At the time, Brown Mackie College in Salina, Kan., offered a court reporting school where Coleman received her training.

Since then, she also has completed two advanced court reporting training courses. Coleman is a state board-certified as a court reporter.

"There is a real shortage and a huge demand in this profession," Coleman said. "We are the silent profession that most people just don't know about."

The technique Coleman uses daily is machine shorthand.

Coleman uses shorthand while typing on a smaller version of a typewriter. The machine allows her to print out the notes, and it also has the capability to record the notes on a computer disk that is inserted into the side of her machine.

Coleman said she writes phonetically and combines some letters to create other letters.

"I can type about 260 words per minute on testimony," Coleman said. "Shorthand takes about three months to learn and at least two years to get fast at it."

Coleman said she loves her job and the environment in which she works in.

"I love the people I work with and am lucky to have wonderful co-workers," she said. "I care about the people in the courtrooms and have great respect for the lawyers and judges I work with."

The only downfall, Coleman said, is the commitment to always being at work.

"You cannot miss a day," Coleman said. "It was harder when my kids were younger. A lot of days, my husband stayed home with the kids because his job could wait on him."

When Coleman began as a court reporter in 1976, she was the only one on staff. Since then, two others have been hired, and they assist with additional divisions as the number of hearings has dramatically increased over the years.

Michelle Pralle, official court reporter, friend and colleague of Coleman's, knew Coleman before she came into the profession.

"I knew Lori and her family years and years back," Pralle said. "Lori got me into this profession."

"She is a person that is a great co-worker, a great friend and outstanding in her job," Pralle said. "She is very helpful and knows her job well. It is like a little family between us."

Coleman said she could write books on the interesting stories she has experienced in her years of service for the courts. She talked specifically about her encounter

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Lori Coleman, a state board-certified court reporter, records every word said in the Riley County Courthouse for the 21st Judicial District. Coleman can type about 260 words per minute on testimony.

with her first big criminal case.

The case involved transvestites that had robbed a jewelry store. During the trial, the prosecutor called his witness, and a man dressed as a woman in a short skirt and a midriff shirt took the stand and gave his testimony she said.

"I didn't know transvestites existed, and about died," she said.

"I knew then it would be an interesting job."

SCOREBOARD

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY NIGHT

$1 NIGHT

Seagrams, All domestic bottles
Calls - Captain, Quervo, etc.
Fries, Burgers, Tots

$1.50 Micro & Import Bottles -
Corona, Heineken, Newcastle, etc.

$2.00 Premiums -
Crown, Sapphire, Absolut

$2.50 Pitchers

1119 Moro • 776-7714 • Open at 5:00 p.m.

SCOREBOARD

Valentine's Specials

Pamper that special someone with a Spa Package from Shear Dynamics

Diamond Package $120.00 full set of nails, scalp massage & style, spa pedicure, snack & gift	Sold Gold $65.00 haircut & style, manicure, pedicure, Snack & gift
For Gentlemen Only $100.00 1 hour massage, manicure, men's fitness facial, haircut & style, snack & gift	Shear Sampler- Try Me For $50.00 mini manicure mini facial mini massage

*UNDER 18 - Haircut & Style • Hand Treatment • 30 min. massage Customized Packages available upon request
Package must be used on the same day

Shear Dynamics Salon & Spa
 12th & Laramie • 776-9100

VALENTINE'S DAY SPECIAL

Haircut with color or highlight $55.00

Paul Mitchell 2 for $12.00
Rumble Boy's Product

1220 Moro AGGIE 776-3600
HAIR SHAPERS

Krystallos

"Where gifts are easy to buy"

Gifts • Jewelry • Clothing

We have GREAT Valentine gift ideas

Ring Sale
Sterling Silver Bands
mens & womens
50% OFF

Feb 7 - 14
ONE WEEK ONLY
708 N. Manhattan • Aggieville

Valentines Day
is Wed., Feb. 14

Patricia's UNDERCOVER Lingerie

1224 MORO AGGIEVILLE

GIFTS WRAPPED FREE

M, TH 10-7, FRI, SAT, 10-5, SUN, 1-5

VALENTINE COOKIE SPECIAL!

KSU Bakery Science Club
WEEKLY BAKE SALE
TODAY 3 TO 5 P.M.
Shellenberger First Floor

www.ksu.edu/bakeclub/

Valentine's Day Special

$2 Big Beers

$9.95 10 oz. Ribeye with Potato, Vegetable, & Salad

12th STREET Pub

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

HUNAM
RESTAURANT & LOUNGE
 1304 WESTLOOP 539-8888
 539-0888

Valentine Week Buffet and Mongolian BBQ

Your Choice $7.95 All You Can Eat

99¢ Glass of Champagne

GUYS, IMPRESS YOUR DATE ON A COLLEGE BUDGET!!!

"Create your own dish and watch our chef grill for you!"

OFFER GOOD V-DAY ONLY

Valentine's Day Special

$1 Burgers 5-9
$1 Wells
$2.25 20 oz. Amber Boch Draws

LIVE TONIGHT

SARA CHURCH
"former house band @ Joe Cocker's Mad Dog Cafe"

Cryout Live Friday

$9.99

+ TAX and delivery charge if applicable

STUFFED CRUST 1 TOPPING PIZZA

AGGIEVILLE
"A KSU TRADITION SINCE 1960"
 1121 MORO 539-7666

WESTLOOP 2931 CLAFLIN 539-7447

3RD & MORO 231 MORO 776-4334

Pizza Hut

The Best Pizzas Under One Roof!
 Thin 'n Crispy • Pan Pizza • Stuffed Crust Pizza

Coach addresses importance of diversity

MICHAEL YOUNG/Collegian

Herman Boone, former coach of the Alexandria Titans, speaks about the racism addressed in "Remember The Titans" Tuesday evening in Forum Hall. Boone promoted diversity and multiculturalism throughout his speech.

By SHANNON MARSHALL
Kansas State Collegian

During a time of racial turmoil and national unrest, one man turned a town of mere mortals into titans.

In the keynote address for Black History Month on Monday evening in Union Forum Hall, Herman Boone, the inspiration for Denzel Washington's role in Disney's "Remember the Titans," spoke to K-State students about diversity and acceptance of all cultures.

The address was sponsored by Black Student Union and the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

"You are here at K-State to become leaders and not followers in this world," Boone said to a packed crowd.

He challenged the audience to think of K-State in terms of diversity and equality and to strive to change the injustices that exist in society today.

"Does this school attract and retain the most talented minority students in the state of Kansas? If not, why?" he asked. "Does the minority student leave this school feeling so good that they would bring their children back to this school for Homecoming? If not, why?"

"Remember the Titans," released in September 2000, tells a story set in 1971 Alexandria, Va. When Alexandria's high schools were forced to desegregate and combine into one school, Herman Boone was the black football coach hired to conduct the new T.C. Williams Titans.

Boone's efforts to bring the team together and put racial differences aside won the team the 1971 Virginia football championship.

The success of Boone's message was evident by the number of audience members who remained after the speech for a free viewing of the film.

Antonio Baker, junior in sociology, said the speech was especially important for the K-State population.

"I think his speech was beneficial because there is a need for more diversity and more interracial activity on campus," he said. "His main statement was that you should respect everybody around you."

An added influence to the effect of Boone's message was the presence of K-State head football coach Bill Snyder.

"I appreciate the fact that he makes himself available to college campuses in order to share his valuable message," Snyder said. "He allows all of us to see our frailties and the role he played in uniting people in a much more difficult time."

Boone told students they must take action to create acceptance of diversity at K-State.

"Even at this university, there is much work to be done," he said. "To be the best, you must simply make a difference."

"You cannot be on the sidelines tying your shoes when you should be in the game."

www.kstatecollegian.com

VALENTINE'S DAY

10¢ wings & shrimp
$2 Micro & import
bottles
Domestic, big beers &
bottles captains & wells
13th Step LIVE!

Valentine's
Special

$10 OFF * Color • Nails • Massage
$7 OFF * Womens Cut & Style
$5 OFF * Mens Cut & Style

Gift Certificates Available

*on full services at reg. price

537-1332

IMPRESSIONS
HAIR DESIGN AND BODY TONING

1129 Moro • Aggieville

expires: 2-28-01

SUN CONNECTION I & II

TAN FREE in our new 600 TURBO BED
2/12 - 2/15/01 (one per customer)

A DOZEN
SUPER TANS
$29.99
exp: 2/15/01

2/12-2/15/01
Valentine's Week
Specials
4 super tans - $14
3 mega tans - $14
1 ultra bronze - $14

Gift Certificates Available

776-2426

1125 Laramie

537-0744

1814 Claflin

For your Valentine

the gift she will cherish...

from our silver jewelry collection

(785)776-9067
5th & Poyntz
Manhattan

Campbell's
DOWNTOWN

Mon.-Sat.
10 a.m.-5:30 p.m.
Thurs. 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Tight Fittin' Jeans 2001

LONGHORNS

3rd Round Tomorrow
Night!

Finals next
Thursday

LONGHORNS
BAR & GRILL

Come warm up at the hottest contest in town.

CASH
&
PRIZES!

1115 Moro • Aggieville

Girls &
Guys
Contest

$3 Jack
Danials
$1.75
Coors &
Coors LIGHT
BOTTLES

sponsored by
Coors Light
Sun Essentials
U.S. TOBACCO CO.

Horticulture Club
V-day Rose Sale

February 14
in the Throckmorton Lobby
at 8 a.m. (while supplies last)

Single wrapped - $5.00
Single vase - $8.00
Dozen - $45.00

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

Wednesday is

V-DAY

FEBRUARY 14

ARE YOU READY?

We'll help make you the apple of your Valentine's eye with cards, gifts and balloons to make your sweetheart swoon!

Balloons
Candy
Kid's Valentine's
Boyd's Bears
Crabtree & Evelyn
Yankee Candles
Russell Stovers
Gift Sacks
Greeting Cards

BE READY WITH CARDS AND GIFTS

704 N. Manhattan Ave. • In Aggieville • 539-7654
Mon.-Fri. 8:30-8:30 • Sat. 8:30-5:30 • Sun. 12:00-5:00

A KISS FROM OUR KITCHEN

VALENTINE'S DAY
2 FOR $25.00

Share an appetizer, choice of two entrées and our delicious
Cinnamon Dippers® for dessert

Appetizers: choose one

- Spinach & Artichoke Dip
- Chicken & Spinach Egg Rolls
- Chicken Tenderloins

Entrées: choose two

- 8 oz. Center Cut Sirloin
- Barbeque Chicken
- Blackened Chicken Penne Florentine
- Beef or Chicken Fajitas

Wednesday, February 14

PREVIEW

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JI DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 2001

9

Cryptoclip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JAVA
(785) 587-8888

FOR RELEASE WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 2001

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Coulurier
5 Donkey
8 "Waterloo"
12 Actor
13 Jannings
14 Youngster
15 False
16 god
17 Card
18 game
19 Court
20 goings-on 21 Go sight-seeing 22 Daytona
23 500
24 acronym
25 Prior to 26 Job-safety
27 org.
28 Photo
29 Flower
30 sellers'
31 grp.
32 Madonna
33 portrayal
34 Diana of 35 Hollywood
36 Dawn
37 goddess
38 Kevin
39 Kline
40 movie
41 Ecuador's
42 capital

DOWN
1 List-
2 ending
3 abbr.
4 Playing
5 marble
6 Seethe
7 Recede
8 Jannings
9 seven-city
10 site
11 Add more
12 ammo
13 Wordplay
14 (Abbr.)
15 Card
16 game
17 Advantage
18 Field
19 mouse's
20 foe
21 Pennsylv-
22 ania
23 port
24 Bill and
25 Louis
26 Sauce
27 source
28 Frees (of)
29 ASAP
30 Chit
31 notation
32 Card
33 game
34 Female 35 rabbit
36 Eventual
37 aves
38 Fresh
39 Slapstick
40 trio
41 With 42 severity
43 Lubricant
44 Trucker
45 with a
46 radio
47 Nigerian
48 city
49 More
50 despon-
51 dent
52 Normandy
53 town
54 Race
55 place
56 Biblical 57 king
58 In 59 the thick
60 of 61 Goes
62 blonde
63 Jima
64 lead-in

Solution time: 21 mins.

WALL ALP SECT
ELITE VIA OPIAH
SOME BODDY MINE
TUB RIO PECAN SAID HIT
LEMON MACHETE
ATOM BIG ICON
PHOENIX SNOOD
WEB WAG
FIGHT WORK OIKS
TIDLE SOMEWHAT
BIER AVE INTO
SAINE PEN GOOP

Yesterday's answer 2-14

STUMPED?
For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

2-14 CRYPTOQUIP

GY G U D Z Q K W S M S Q
F J O A S F U S V S W O M
F D J G Q K G E D Z Q M Z Q M O E
A V D F J O Y V S Q O Y

Yesterday's Cryptoclip: THE COMICAL REPTILE USED TO DREAM ABOUT BECOMING A GREAT STAND-UP CHAMELEON.

Today's Cryptoclip Clue: D equals O

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

The Cryptoclip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

CAMPUS

- The KSU Jazz Combo will play at 8 p.m. Thursday in Union Station. The event is free.
- Jazz musician Nicholas Payton will perform a tribute to Louis Armstrong at 8 p.m. Saturday in McCain Auditorium.
- K-State Theatre presents "How I Learned to Drive" at 8 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday.
- UPC Arts Committee presents "Matters of the Heart," a poetry reading, at 8 p.m. Thursday at Java Espresso & Bakery.

MANHATTAN & AREA

- The Columbia Theatre in Wamego presents "Steel Magnolias" at 8 p.m. Friday, 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.
- Flybox will perform at 10 p.m. Saturday at Elements of Taste.
- The Manhattan Arts Center presents "Pep Squad" as part of the Manhattan film festival at 4 p.m. at the arts center.

If you know of upcoming events in and around Manhattan, e-mail them to arts@pub.ksu.edu.

URBAN DESIGN

Aggieville gallery provides gift ideas for young cupids

EVAN SEMON/Collegian

Urban Designs features a variety of artists. The works in the Valentine's exhibit includes monoprints like this piece, titled "Virgina and Harry counting Valentines and sweet blessings," and other etchings by Ann Carter.

By CHELSEA SCHMIDT
Kansas State Collegian

Shopping for a Valentine's Day gift for that special someone can be a challenge. Questions like "Should I buy her flowers again this year?" and "Will he really like this?" create a buzz among people in stores.

For those searching for something creative and different this Valentine's Day, Aggieville's Urban Designs offers a variety of gift ideas with a special exhibit called Treats for Sweets.

"I just wanted to be able to do a show with affordable art guests for Valentine's Day," Deborah Minner, co-owner of Urban Designs, said.

Urban Designs, which opened in August 2000, features a variety of artists. The work in the Valentine's exhibit includes monoprints and etchings by Ann Carter, handmade baskets and hand-printed silk scarves by Marsha Jensen, a special line of heart jewelry by Karen Lauseng, water-color quilts by Susan Oviatt and etchings and drawings by K-State's own Teresa Schmidt.

Prices of the pieces range from $4 to $575.

"They are very affordable pieces for one-of-a-kind works of art," Minner said.

Schmidt, associate professor of drawing and print making, will show three new etchings and a few others that are a couple of years old.

"I'm constantly trying to do common, everyday things," she said.

"Hopefully, my style will initiate some kind of interest."

Minner, who was a student in one of Schmidt's classes at K-State, said Schmidt's work reflects her personality.

"She was one of the best teachers that I had," Minner said. "She is really energetic and positive. She encourages students to explore themselves and their work."

"Her art is very much her personal style — energetic and loose."

Schmidt said she is excited to be showing close to home. She has shown her work across the country and it is in at least 10 museums. For the next few weeks, Manhattan will get a taste of her style.

"It's kind of nice to show in Aggieville, too," Schmidt said. "I really am impressed with Urban Designs carrying student work and faculty work. I'm proud to be showing there."

Schmidt is not the only artist featured in the exhibit. Minner said all five artists are showing an equal number of pieces.

"I would encourage people to see it," she said. "It's a nice, diverse collection of work."

The exhibit will continue through March 3.

Doug Minner, co-owner of Urban Designs with his wife, said the exhibit lends itself to the Valentine's Day theme.

"I think it's a really nice show," he said. "I like the fact that it's all women artists. It gives it a flavor of Valentine's Day."

Schmidt said she agreed and that she

EVAN SEMON/Collegian

Urban Designs features a variety of local artists. The work in the Valentine's exhibit includes a special line of heart jewelry by Karen Lauseng.

hopes students and community members will stop in and see the exhibit.

"If we can have quality galleries in Aggieville, it says something about the university," Schmidt said. "It really is kind of a treat."

Poetry reading to focus on romantic subjects

By BETSY STVERAK
Kansas State Collegian

Love, the topic poets have been either glorified or ripped apart since poetry existed, is the focus of Java Espresso & Bakery's monthly poetry reading, taking place at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The topic "How is your Heart?" was chosen to correspond with the Valentine's Day holiday, and Blaine Wesselowski, Java employee, said he expects to see a big crowd for the reading.

"You can do pretty much anything with that topic, not just fluffy love poetry," Wesselowski, senior in English, said. "Lots of people just read what they want to, but this is a topic people write about anyway."

Java Espresso & Bakery is host to live poetry readings every third Thursday of the month. Even though the poetry is read at Java, the Arts Committee of the Union Program Council sponsors the entire evening. Andrea Harms, committee chairwoman, said.

"The UPC is proud to be a part of the poetry readings," she said.

Each night has a basic topic of poems, but all kinds of poetry are welcome. Harms said. Open poetry night allows anyone to just get up on stage and read poems. Though many poets bring their own material, Harms said it also can be someone else's work.

The readers also are as original as the poems that are read, Harms said.

"There is usually a different group of random people that read every month," she said.

The mix of poetry gives the night an eclectic feel, said David Dvorak, freshman in computer science.

"There's a lot of different styles," Dvorak, a regular at Java, said. "A variety of speakers read with different voice inflections."

Harms said she feels the poets' diversity only adds to the creativity of the poems.

"Different people read all sorts of poems and prose," she said. "Once a girl even performed with a guitar."

Wesselowski said the poetry readings are great entertainment.

"No one is really worried that much," he said. "Everyone is really supportive and can read what they want."

Wesselowski said she wants all people to feel like they have a fair shot at reading.

"Anyone can get up there and read poems, he said. "I think I will probably get up there one day and read my writings."

Dvorak said he feels the poetry readings he has seen have left an impression on him.

"It's free from a certain style," he said. "It definitely crossed my mind to go up there and read. The crowd gives off a comfortable feeling, not a hostile one."

This will be the last free reading of the semester due to spring break and a poetry contest in April, Harms said. UPC will have a poetry contest in April, and the winners will read their poems at the April reading.

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

Sports enthusiasts don't stop at football season

Imagine for a moment a phone call at 7:30 on a brisk fall Manhattan morning.

Who could it be? Most people who are up at this time, commonly known as the butt crack of dawn, are headed to work or class ready to start the daily grind in hopes of something better.

But for me, a call at 7:30 means only one thing. It means my friends already are tailgating at KSU Stadium, and they're wondering how in the world I could possibly be in bed at this time.

Let me take a step back for a moment and say that although this is extremely insane, it is one of the great things about the world of sports. You see, this group of guys is not unique in their love for sports. In fact, I'm sure if you were to look at the way you enjoy sports and who you hang out with when doing so, your group of guys or gals will look very similar to mine.

It doesn't end with football season either. Sure, autumn Saturdays for most K-State students mean pulling out the purple and having some fun at the stadium, but real sports fans are the ones who truly know that sport knows no season.

Now that football season, with the exception of the friendly XFL, is over, I can look forward to a somewhat fixed attention to my circadian rhythms, but like a moth to a flame, I can't tear myself away from a sporting event at the beautiful sports palace known as Mule and Yoxall's pad.

It's the same as any place you go for your sports fix. It's got the atmosphere of a sports bar and the refreshments of a tailgate.

Complete with a slip 'n' slide and pool out front for cozy relaxation in the frigid December air, it's got the aura of a summer water park, and yet it's open year round. In fact, I think if you put a patio out front and a basketball goal in back, it might rival Rusty's Last Chance as the premier place in Manhattan to watch a game.

It's really pretty sad to say, but I'm willing to admit that at any time of day, and with any kind of homework due the next day, that call to come over and watch the next biggest game in sports history always is too big of a temptation to pass up. I usually end up trading textbook knowledge learned from class notes for playbook knowledge learned from the sports almanac turned human who lives within those walls.

That next biggest game sometimes turns out to be just another heated match up between two scrub teams from an unheard of conference, but, once again, a true sports fan never turns down the opportunity to see something great, like the WWP (A Monday night fixture last year). Sure, often times you have to improvise, and sometimes the latest professional bowling event just doesn't do the trick, so new sports like the fusion of football and grocery carts, a la MTV's Jackass, are explored at the palace.

Wherever your place of sports worship happens to be located, I'm sure you've noticed the annual February lag in interesting sports. With college and professional football finished for the year, and pro basketball and hockey about as exciting as a Friday night spent in Hale Library, many turn to academics and more scholarly ventures. But have no fear, grizzled sports addicts.

With baseball season just around the corner and March Madness to come, the atmosphere at your local sports haven will light up soon enough and things will get back to normal.

As for me, any day is a good day to catch the latest dog show on USA, so don't expect me to be waiting in line at the reserves desk for the latest copy of Crochet World magazine. You'll find me sitting on an old couch with my feet propped up on a cap-top coffee table with the clicker-ready to find that next great moment of sports perfection.

Dan is a junior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at djs444@ksu.edu.

DAN SMITH

OKLAHOMA

■ continued from page 6

State and Missouri earned Big 12 freshman of the week honors.

Facing their second consecutive game against a top 10 team, Patterson's expectations still are high for her young squad.

"We have another chance to say we can at least be competitive with number one in our league. That's a standard this coaching staff sets.

"On paper, I don't think anybody would say we're supposed to beat Oklahoma at Oklahoma, but should our expectation as a staff and as team be that we walk into that arena and make that a competitive ball game? Absolutely."

NEBRASKA

■ continued from page 6

— not good enough to win — but at least giving ourselves a chance down the stretch in most of these games."

That K-State has had chances enough certainly is encouraging, but a close loss is not the same thing as a win.

"Everyone's frustrated. It's tough losing those close games," Siebrandt said, "but we know we still have six games to make our season. We still have to gain a lot of respect.

We were picked to place twelfth and we've got six games to go against that. We're fighting to finish it out hard."

YOU DESERVE IT!!!

JAMAICA CUNCUN MAZATLAN

SPRING BREAK 01

TRIPS INCLUDE:
FREE Meals
VIP Express Entry
RT Air
7 nights hotel
Discount at shops,
Restaurants and bars

WIN A CHANCE TO BE ON BAYWATCH HAWAII Party with the celebrities!!!

HEADLINE DJS

"Come travel with the quality company"
Mazatlan flight via Sun Country direct service
www.sunbreaks.com
888-777-4642

Check out the eCollegian at: www.kstatecollegian.com

MECA Candidate Exhibition
Brought to you by KSU
KSU Willard Hall Gallery
February 15th-23rd
Reception - February 16th 5-8 pm

Ramblers STEAK HOUSE & SALOON

HOMEMADE CHICKEN FRIED STEAK
with all the trimmings
$6.95

DRINK SPECIALS
$1 Draws
$1.75 Wells
$3.75 Pitchers

8711 E. Hwy. 24 • 539-4889
Manhattan, KS

Kistner's Flowers

Cross over the bridge, and we are a mile south of the mall on Highway 177 South

Cash and Carry

ROSES $30

a dozen

including tax, baby's breath, greenery, & water tubes

♥ Cut flower vases and bouquets
♥ Blooming and green plants
♥ Balloons and stuffed animals
♥ Tulips (10 stem bunch) $10
♥ Mixed flower bunches $6

SERVING MANHATTAN AND K-STATE SINCE 1974
SEE OUR FLOWERS IN THE UNION BOOKSTORE

Open: Monday - Friday 8 - 5:30
Call 776-7989 or 776-7044

2001-2002 SGA General Elections

Candidate Positions Available:

- Student Body President and Vice-President
- Board of Student Publications
- Union Governing Board
- Fine Arts Council
- College Councils

Applications and filing forms are now available online and in the Office of Student Activities and Services (Ground Floor, K-State Student Union).

HURRY!
The Filing Deadline is Friday, February 16 at 4:00 p.m.

Questions?
Call the OSAS at 532-6541 or logon to the web site below

ONLINE ELECTION INFORMATION:
WWW.KSU.EDU/ELECTIONS

Don't miss your chance to be SEEN in the 2001 Royal Purple for FREE.

Strike a Pose

We showed you ours ...

Now you show us yours!

Bring your friends, family, significant others, co-workers, props, pets, inside jokes, toys, hidden talents and ideas, and we'll put you in the Royal Purple.

Order your own 2001 Royal Purple yearbook for only $34.95 at Strike a Pose.

10 a.m. - 4 p.m.
TODAY

at K-State-Salina in the Technology Center lobby

10 a.m. - 6 p.m.

Thursday, Feb. 15 - Friday, Feb. 16
in the K-State Student Union Courtyard

Color prints of your picture will also be available for purchase.

2001
Royal Purple
royalpurple.ksu.edu

Strike a Pose is brought to you by the 2001 Royal Purple yearbook and Thornton Studio.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 2001

11

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW. TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $530. Call 785-456-2812.

LANDLORDS WITH compassion. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets 776-2102.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. FIRE-PLACE. All appliances including WASHER/ DRYER. Small quiet complex. No pets, no smokers. $475 August 1. 776-6318.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

"LANDLORDS WITH COM-PASSION." Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes. Close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now (785)537-7050.

ONE, TWO, AND THREE-BEDROOMS. One block to campus. All bills paid. Off-street parking. No pets. Available June and August 313-4812.

TWO-BEDROOM AVAIL-ABLE March 1. Park Place Apartments $445 includes expanded basic cable/ water/ trash. Call 565-0636 or e m a i l sbaker@wheat.ksu.edu

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

WELL MAINTAINED, one-eight-bedroom houses, and apartments, also studio apartments, central-air, washer/ dryer NEAR K-STATE June or August lease. (785)539-0549.

115
Rooms
Available

NEXT TO CAMPUS Starts August, one/ two-bedroom, central air/ heating, balcony, fully equipped kitchen, quiet, off-street parking, water and trash paid, low utility bills. 539-2702.

120
For Rent-
Houses

ATTRACTIVE, CLOSE to campus with new appliances, includes washer/ dryer. Three, five, six-bedroom houses. No pets. Available June 1 313-4812.

ADVERTISE YOUR SUBLEASE IN THE LET'S RENT SECTION. 103 Kedzie • 532-6555

120
For Rent-
Houses

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE. Den, attached garage with opener, pool, tennis, basketball, clubhouse. No pets, no smokers. $600 August 1. 776-6318.

145 Roommate
Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bathroom house. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, non-smoker please; Great two-bedroom apartment. $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan, (785)537-7228.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for great furnished two-bedroom, two bath. Sublease, $325/ month. Enjoy your FIRST MONTH RENT FREE! 537-8226.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. For info, call (203)977-1720.

"THE GREATEST SUMMER of your life! Camp Pontiac, a premier overnight camp in New York is hiring enthusiastic and mature individuals that have skills in: Basketball, soccer, tennis, baseball/ softball, golf, swimming, sailing, ropes/ climbing wall, gymnastics, art, drama, lacrosse, football, volleyball and video/ web design. Information and interviews February 15th. Email campontiac@hotmail.com to set up an interview.

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. TRIPP LAKE CAMP for Girls, Poland, Maine. Noted for picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June thru mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, baseball, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, golf, flag football, roller hockey, field hockey, swimming, sailing, water skiing, gymnastics, dance, horseback riding, archery, weight training, newspaper, photography, video, woodworking, ceramics/ pottery, crafts, fine arts, silver jewelry, copper enamel, nature study, radio/ electronics, theater, costume, piano, accompanist, music instrumentalist, backpacking, rock climbing, canoeing/ kayaking, ropes course, secretariat, nanny. Call Takaajo at 800-250-8252 or Tripp Lake at 800-997-4347. Submit application on-line at www.takaajo.com or www.tripplakecamp.com

CRUISE LINE- entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruiseadventures.com

DAYCARE ASSISTANT wanted. Applicants need to be creative and organized. Call Julie at 776-0019.

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+ Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2620.

FARM WITH crops and livestock looking for part-time help. Experience with shop work, crop machinery and planters helpful. (785)457-3440.

FULL-TIME DELIVERY/ warehouse person at Faith Furniture. Please apply in person at 302 E Highway 24.

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains SW of Denver. General counselors and program specialist in horseback riding, hiking, backpacking, crafts, nature, challenge course, farm, dance, drama. Administrative positions also available. June-early August 2001. MAKE A DIFFERENCE! Competitive salary, room, board, health insurance and travel allowance. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

MAIL CLERK (part-time). We are seeking a dependable individual to operate various mailing equipment and/or perform courier services. Will train but must be hard-working and willing to learn. A valid driver's license and safe driving record required. Hours required are 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday with flexibility to work up to a total of 34 hours per week for occasional projects. Please respond to the address below and include Job Number 57 in your response. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Kansas Farm Bureau & Affiliated Services. Attention: Human Resources 2627 KFB Plaza, Manhattan, Kansas 66503. We are an Equal Opportunity Employer and Encourage Diversity.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May-early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

ARTISTS/ ART Students; Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltankofgas1@hotmail.com

310
Help Wanted

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania. CAMP TOWN-AND-A has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff. Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.ksu.edu/ces. Applications available at our website www.camptownanda.com. Additional information at (800)923-2267.

SUMMER CAMP JOBS. Camp counselors needed for top girls' camp in Maine. Top salary, travel paid in full, room/ board/ laundry and uniform provided. Skilled in Arts/ Crafts (ceramics, jewelry, stained glass), Basketball, Canoeing, Dance (Jazz, Pointe, Tap), Field Hockey, Golf, Gymnastics, Horseback Riding, English Hunt Seat, Lacrosse, Photography/ Videographer, Piano Accompanist, Office/ Administration, Outdoor Adventure, Ropes/ Challenge Course, Sailing, Soccer, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Theatre, Volleyball, Water-skiing, Windsurfing. Additional opportunities for kitchen, cooks, maintenance, nurses. CAMP VEGA FOR GIRLS! Visit our website at www.campvega.com to complete an application and receive a camp video or call 1-800-838-8342. Come see us! We will be on campus Wednesday, March 7th West State room #3 in the Union from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Drop-in interviews encouraged, no appointment necessary.

SUMMER IN CHICAGO Childcare and light house-keeping for suburban Chicago families. Responsible, loving, non-smoker. Call Northfield Nannies. (847)501-5354.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

SUMMER JOBS FOR 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplaurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplaurel.com.

THE ROCK SPRINGS 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-60 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Kallert, (785)726-3555 or duankallert@nraltel.net

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Church centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

DO YOU make $100K/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2826. Member NYSE.

ADVERTISE CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions. 1800 Clafin Rd. #160. www.ksulaptops.com

450
Pets and Supplies

TO GIVE away, two cats, one male/ one female. For more information call 323-0140.

455 Sporting
Equipment

DUCKS UNLIMITED FIRST ANNUAL DRAKES NIGHT Sunday, February 18, Blue Hills room, 2315 Tuttle Creek Boulevard. Silent auction begins at 2p.m. Watch KSU vs. Texas Tech on big screen. Tickets $20 includes meal and one chance at Benelli Nova. Call 539-6542.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1992 JEEP Wrangler. Four-cylinder, five-speed, 115K, air-conditioning, white/black, soft top, new tires, much more. $5500 firm. 395-0000 ext. 13.

1993 NISSAN Altima GLE. Auto, four-door, leather, sunroof, pearl beige, all options, low miles, great condition. Best offer. 532-7520/ 537-7976.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door; power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

FOR SALE: 1993 Ford Taurus GL, 3.8 V-6, full options, six disc CD changer, $3300. 776-4662.

600 travel/
trips

630
Spring
Break

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island. www.pirentals.com/springbreak. 1-800-292-7520.

Volunteers
Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Church centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

Business
Opportunities

DO YOU make $100K/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2826. Member NYSE.

ADVERTISE CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

630
Spring
Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummertours.com.

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLESALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com 2001!

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND
www.pirentals.com/springbreak
1-800-292-7520

SPRING BREAK PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES! (404) 355-9637

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

HOW TO PAY All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$7.35
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$8.65
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $10.15
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five air planes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795. www.ksu.edu/ksfc

SCUBA LEARN to scuba dive at the area only. PADI approved dive centers. Join the fun, get certified for spring break and summer. Call Creative Travel and Scuba at 539-0531.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: CAMERA at Cico Park on Friday, February 9 at 3:30p.m. Call 537-3035.

LOST SATURDAY set of car keys on blue leather key chain with letters Sydney Operhouse. Three keys. Reward offered 776-8930 ask for Taryn.

LOST: HEART by KG Found: KG's heart by JG.

030
Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

700 housing/
real estate

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

LARGE WELL furnished two-bedroom duplex. Adjacent campus, off-street parking, no smoking or pets. Animal possession. Stockwell Real Estate. 539-4073.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Summer lease only. $600 month including all utilities, washer/ dryer. Call 341-5401.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie • 532-6555

A REAL Life-Saver

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

WOODWAY
WELCOME HOME

Sparkling swimming pool
• Spacious decks/ patios
• Avail. June 5 and Aug. 6
• Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
• On-site laundry facilities
• Economical gas heat

Office:
2400 Kimball Ave.
at College Ave.
(across from Brumlage)

Call Sara
at 537-7007
for an appointment.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

FURNISHED OR unfurnished for August. Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment. $510. 16th, 1230 Clafin. 350. Also for June and August, Large one-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $450. Heat, water, trash three/ four paid laundry mat 539-2482.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE one and one-half blocks from campus. Very nice. Open house Sunday, the 18th from 1:00 to 3:00 at 1112 Thurston (913)629-0985.

Two-bedroom, $435/ month available 3/1. No deposit/ lease until 6/1. Pets ok. 587-8677.

245
Roommate
Wanted

$220/ MONTH- utilities included. 1870 College Heights A- Houses. Contact Gina at 537-7701.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share very nice two-bedroom townhouse. $250/ month plus one-half utilities. Call Sophia, 776-3979, or 532-6745.

ONE BEDROOM in two-bedroom apartment. Ten minute walk to Aggieville and campus. $237.50/ month 537-3320.

SUBLEASER NEEDED $250/ month; all utilities paid, one room in three-bedroom house. Nice. Could walk to campus. Call 776-6467.

we kick ads.

ADVERTISE YOUR SUBLEASE IN THE LET'S RENT SECTION. 103 Kedzie • 532-6555

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March 1854/ 1858 Clafin. $385- $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3904.

Park Place Apartments
Showings Mon-Fri.
1-2-3 Bedrooms
539-2951

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE JUNE. Close to campus, two-bedroom, three-bedroom, four-bedroom. Call (785)539-367

OSCARS

■ continued from page 1

directed "You Can't Take It With You".

The other director nominees were Stephen Daldry for "Billy Elliot," Ang Lee for "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon" and Ridley Scott for "Gladiator."

After directing several English-language movies, Lee said he was delighted to see Western audiences embrace "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon."

"This was supposed to be my homecoming project," the Taiwanese-born Lee said. "I'm really taking to heart how this film is performing in America."

"Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon" is only the third film to earn both best-picture and foreign-language film nominations. The others were "Life is Beautiful" in 1998 and "Z" in 1969. Last weekend, "Crouching Tiger" hit $60 million and passed "Life is Beautiful" as the domestic box-office champ among foreign-language films.

Besides best picture, "Gladiator," the first Roman spectacle since the genre fell out of favor in the 1960s, grabbed nominations for actor Russell Crowe and supporting actor Joaquin Phoenix. Hans Zimmer's score was nominated, and the computer wizardry Scott's crew used to recreate ancient Rome was named for visual effects.

David Franzoni, one of the producers of "Gladiator," said since the movie was a big commercial success and came out back in May, he worried it might get overlooked come awards season.

"We had concerns people might write it off as a blockbuster or might not remember it," said Franzoni, who also shared an original screenplay nomination for "Gladiator." "But they remembered it, and that's a testament to the brilliant direction by Scott."

Along with Crowe, the actor nominees were Javier Bardem for "Before Night Falls," a film biography of Cuban writer Reinaldo Arenas; Tom Hanks as a man stranded on an island in "Castaway"; Ed Harris for "Pollock," a film biography of abstract painter Jackson Pollock; and Geoffrey Rush as the asylum-bound Marquis de Sade in "Quills." Hanks has won two Oscars, and Rush has one.

Oscar Nominations

The 73rd annual Academy Awards will be presented March 25 in a live broadcast on ABC from the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles. Nominees were announced Tuesday morning.

Best Movie
"Chocolat"
"Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon"
"Erin Brockovich"
"Gladiator"
"Traffic"

Best Actor
Javier Bardem, "Before Night Falls"
Russell Crowe, "Gladiator"
Tom Hanks, "Castaway" Ed Harris, "Pollock"
Geoffrey Rush, "Quills"

Best Actress
Joan Allen, "The Contender"
Juliette Binoche, "Chocolat"
Ellen Burstyn, "Requiem for a Dream"
Laura Linney, "You Can Count on Me"
Julia Roberts, "Erin Brockovich"

Best Director
Stephen Daldry, "Billy Elliot"
Ang Lee, "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon"
Steven Soderbergh, "Erin Brockovich"
Ridley Scott, "Gladiator"
Steven Soderbergh, "Traffic"

Source: www.oscars.com

CLOVIA

■ continued from page 1

elementary education.

"Some girls have been staying with friends until the heating is replaced," Spohn said. "Everybody has been really positive about this situation, and they made the most out of it."

Staying in close proximity of one another has helped the women of Clovia develop a unique closeness. Andrea Wegerer, freshman in horticulture therapy, said.

"We've all really pulled together this past week and I'm glad this happened to us and not some other house," Wegerer said. "Most of us are farm kids and can stick it out."

The boiler does not need to be replaced even though it broke, and it still should work for the next 20 to 30 years with annual maintenance, Shea said.

"You never want something like this to happen during a hard winter," Shea said. "The girls were great to work with, and they've handled this situation wonderfully."

The residents of Clovia said they hope to have the boiler fixed by today. Even though living without heat has not provided the best living conditions, it was not all that bad, Sprague said.

"Everybody is hoping it would get fixed soon," she said. "We've all made the best out of a bad situation."

VALENTINE

■ continued from page 1

writing every day.

"My Dearest" and "Sweetheart Darlin'" are greetings in the letters, which they keep in a wood-burned box from Lois' mother.

"The letters are pretty warm for people who are just getting acquainted," Lois said.

They decided on a 1945 Thanksgiving Day wedding.

"We were just so thankful for each other," Lois said.

Ken wrote their vows, and the wedding recessional was the Hallelujah chorus.

Although the deep brown of their hair in their wedding pictures has faded to gray, and a three-cent postal stamp on an old love letter that reads "With the War" under an Eagle no longer is common, the years have not faded their feelings for each other.

"We've been able to grow into a much deeper sense of knowing one another through the years and times of crisis," Ken said.

Much joy has come from raising their children and watching their nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren grow.

"It's given us a focus," he said.

Since Ken retired from his 30 years of teaching in the department of Family and Child Development at K-State in 1985, the couple has spent more time together.

They've devoted much of their time to a program called Helping International Students, where they spend time with students at K-State, and they help people with special needs through the Stephen Ministries.

"It's added strength to our marriage to be able to share these avenues that God's love moves out into the world through," Ken said.

Their oldest son Greg, who graduated from K-State, followed in his father's footsteps and now is a professor in child and family development at Central Missouri State.

He said there is no marriage he admires as much as his parents'.

"My parents choose to do things as best friends," he said.

He said he admires their willingness to allow each day to unfold together.

"I just marvel at how they become better friends and closer partners every day more than the day before."

Lois said during her 55 years of marriage she's realized a lasting relationship doesn't just work if two people are in love at the beginning of the marriage.

"You have to nurture the relationship. From the beginning we were committed," she said. "We knew that it was for life."

HOUSING

■ continued from page 1

few, out of business," he said.

"Listening to these college kids, you'd think they were the only ones in town."

Fleeker said most of his properties probably wouldn't make code, but he rents low enough that renters can live there on minimum wage.

"You don't even know these people exist, but our community is full of them," he said.

Roger Seymour, a contractor and landlord, said the city might be pursuing mandatory inspections because they were recommended by the recent housing study, but numbers of deteriorated or dilapidated houses are not necessarily unsafe.

"You've got to show that we have unsafe housing. You've found ugly housing," he said. "Substandard does not mean unsafe."

Thus, the commission decided to instruct city administration to look into registering houses for more information, but no inspections yet.

"I regard this as sort of a first cut," Commissioner Carol Peak said. "We need to understand what kind of housing we have, how much, who our tenants are."

Student Foundation

Join us for an informational membership meeting Monday, February 19 at 4:00 pm in the K-State Union room 212.

Applications available at the Office of Student Activities & Services. Applications due by Friday, February 23.

Questions - Email Jackie Bryant: jib4733@ksu.edu

GRADUATION ANNOUNCEMENTS

C-B Graduation Announcements

The diploma you can wear.

JOSTENS
REWARD YOUR ACHIEVEMENT

Order now for all your graduation needs. Varney's Book Store Graduation Fair
February 12, 13, 14

Representatives will be available from 11 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE
"We Give You Our Best"

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 32 ■ LOW 20

THURSDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 15, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 99

Singing telegram welcome during class

■ page 3

THE LOVE DRUG

Psychoactive party drug ecstasy gaining in popularity in larger cities

Drug Facts

Ecstasy is clinically known as MDMA (2, 4-Methylenedioxyamphetamine). It is Schedule I synthetic, psychoactive drug possessing stimulant and hallucinogenic properties.

The drug's history

In 1912 it was synthesized by a German company as a possible appetite suppressant. In the 1970s it was used to facilitate psychotherapy by a small group of scientists in the United States. It did not become popular until the late 1980s and early 1990s.

Side Effects

Users say the drug produces positive feelings of empathy and causes relaxation.

Short term, negative effects dehydration exhaustion nausea hallucinations chills sweating increases in body temperature tremors involuntary teeth clenching muscle cramping blurred vision

Long term, possible effects

Recent studies have shown damage to neurons in the brain that transmit serotonin, depression, anxiety, memory loss, other neuropsychotic disorders

Source: Drug Enforcement Agency in the U.S. Department of Justice

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

Ecstasy affects countless numbers of people. There are those who use it and those who want to. There are those who attend all-night raves looking for it.

The drug reaches far beyond the simple high it gives users. These are the stories of people and how they are effected by the drug clinically known as MDMA and on the street known as XTC, or the love drug.

Raul didn't know what to expect when he first tried ecstasy more than three years ago.

What he discovered was a tremendous feeling that could turn to drastic side effects.

"It is just the feeling of bliss and complete, utter happiness," said Raul, whose name has been changed to protect his identity. "You won't experience that kind of high anywhere. But it has its risks, like any other drug."

He now is 21 and has stopped using ecstasy. He recently dropped out of K-State for reasons he said are not related to the drug.

More ecstasy pills are being seized each year. In 1999, according to Drug Enforcement Agency data, the number of pills seized increased 890 percent from 1998 to 1999. 2000 figures were not yet available.

Ecstasy, which is most popular among people aged 15-25, appears to be used more in larger cities, Riley County Police Department officials said.

"We haven't seen any information to suggest that it is a major problem in the city of Manhattan," Sgt. Mark French of the RCPD said. "Most of the ecstasy we see is from rave parties in Lawrence or Kansas City."

French said this might not always be the case.

"I think there will be an increase in

PHOTO ILLUSTRATION BY JEANEL DRAKE/Collegian

A person's jaw will clamp up when using ecstasy. To prevent this, ecstasy users suck on pacifiers.

ecstasy from the information I am receiving," he said.

Ecstasy, he said, runs from $5 a pill in Kansas City or Lawrence and is $25 a pill in Manhattan.

Sgt. Mike Patrick of the Lawrence Police Department said his department has not seen a huge amount of the drug, and the majority of the pills seized have come as a result of different types of searches. However, he said how much the drug increases or decreases largely will depend on what society dictates.

"If society deems that this is the next drug like crack or cocaine, then we will definitely see more use of it," he said.

Raul said he used it at a number of places, including raves, and while hanging out at house parties or with a few friends. He also said control over the drug never was an issue.

"I never felt out of control. I knew the risks I was taking," he said. "We were responsible enough to use it and be safe. We wouldn't mix it with other drugs."

K-State officials said they do not often see

See ECSTASY on PAGE 10

Student leaders lobby capitol

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

Students from K-State descended on the capitol building Wednesday to meet with legislators to discuss proposed budget cuts at Kansas' regent universities.

The group of about 26 K-State students, with along with student leaders from other regents schools, went to the Statehouse to meet with senators and representatives from around the state.

Throughout the day, students were allocated anywhere from five to 10 minutes with a given representative or senator. Interest was focused on the technology match fee.

Matt Wolters, Student Senate Government Relations chair and junior in agricultural education, said a lot of the administrators and legislative liaisons of the different schools are working on other budget cuts.

Wolters said the majority of the day was spent discussing the technology fee match.

See CAPITOL VISIT on PAGE 10

Evolution requirements make return

Local officials approve

By APRIL MIDDLETON
Kansas State Collegian

The reinstatement of evolution as a central part of Kansas' science curriculum has spurred response by the city of Manhattan as well as K-State.

The State Board of Education voted 7-3 Wednesday to approve science standards that will be used to develop tests which will be given to students this spring. Those tests will include questions on evolution.

These new standards will replace the ones adopted in August, which didn't include concepts of evolution.

Flordie Pettis, Manhattan Board of Education president, said she thinks Kansas has been criticized enough for the previous standards. It's time, she said, to take a step forward.

"We have been criticized since the previous standards were adopted," Pettis said. "I think the decision made by the Board was a good move. It was time to set this new standard."

The new standard sets what students should know, be able to do

See EVOLUTION on PAGE 10

State Board of Education votes to replace standards adopted in 1999

By JOHN MILBURN
The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Evolution has been restored as a central theory in Kansas' science curriculum, ending a debate that subjected the state to international ridicule over the teachings of the origins of man.

The State Board of Education voted 7-3 Wednesday to approve new science standards to be used in developing tests that will be given to students later this spring. The tests will include questions on evolution, which now will be considered one of the unifying concepts of the state's science curriculum.

The new standards will replace ones adopted in August 1999, which omitted references to many evolutionary concepts. Those standards brought Kansas international attention and criticism from scientists and science groups who saw evolution's de-emphasis as a step back.

"I believe now that we have science standards that the rest of the world could look to," said board member Carol Rupe, of Wichita, who voted for the new standards.

Voting with Rupe were Chairman Sonny Rundell, of Syracuse; Sue Gamble, of Shawnee; Val DeFever, of Independence; Janet Waugh; of Kansas City; Bill Wagnon, of Topeka; and Bruce Wyatt, of Salina.

Florist employee spends long Valentine's Day surprising students with flowers

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

Josh Heptig, senior in golf course management, came to work at Westloop Floral at 2:30 p.m. knowing he had a busy day in store. Heptig began working for Westloop Floral over winter break. He said he took the job to make some extra money and decided to stick with it after the seasonal rush.

By JAMIE BARRETT
Kansas State Collegian

Meggie Carpenter was shocked Wednesday afternoon when she saw Josh Heptig waiting for her in the foyer of the Kappa Delta house with two dozen red and white roses.

"My boyfriend was not supposed to send me anything," said Carpenter, sophomore in marketing and management information systems. "He did a good job of surprising me. He knows I hate to be surprised."

Heptig, senior in golf course management, just smiled as Carpenter took the arrangement from him and signed the piece of paper he handed her. It was part of his job as a delivery person for Westloop Floral.

When Heptig came to work at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, he knew he had a busy day in store.

"I knew that I was not going to get to go home until around 10 p.m.," Heptig said. "I knew that I would be driving all over the place."

Heptig began working for Westloop Floral over winter break. He said he took the job to make some extra money and decided to stick with it after the seasonal rush.

"I have never done anything with flowers or with delivery before," Heptig said. "I was using maps for a while. I thought I knew Manhattan pretty well before, but from all the delivering I know the roads a lot better now."

When Heptig loaded his van to begin his deliveries, he said he was anticipating seeing a lot of happy faces.

"Most of the time people are not expecting it when you bring them flowers," Heptig said. "I think that I bring them enjoyment, but you can do that with any job if you have fun with it."

Myrna Rivera, senior in elementary education, was the first person Heptig delivered flowers to on his route. Rivera said she was surprised by the flowers because she was not sure who they were from.

"The card is not signed, so I am not sure who sent them to me," Rivera said. "But it is always nice to get flowers."

Heptig said his favorite part of delivering flowers is taking them to people in hospitals and rest homes.

"Most people are really nice when you bring flowers to their door," Heptig said. "But when you take them to people in hospitals or rest homes, they are just so happy to see you, and the older people just want you to come in and talk and have cookies."

Heptig said since it was his first Valentine's Day being a delivery person, he was wondering whether it would be like a normal day of delivering. In any case, he said he did not mind working because his girlfriend is in Germany.

"My girlfriend, Christiane, is from Germany, so she is there studying right now," Heptig said. "It is kind of hard to see all the other couples

See DELIVERY on PAGE 10

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jib7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glasscock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
sigma7@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
rewil@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bys9639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jib7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
neh6062@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nf4148@ksu.edu
Michael Noll
mno555@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jld666@ksu.edu
Erin Scheweis
ers777@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm8820@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
chc7669@ksu.edu
Daisy Ellsworth
de0091@ksu.edu
Alissa Duncan
ad00849@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
err1235@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.ksstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian (ISSN 0014-0250) is a student newspaper at Kansas State University, published by Student Publications Inc., 1010 Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1010 Manhattan, Kan. 66506-2102.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

News of the weird

In November, Chicago divorce court judge Edmund Ponce de Leon ruled that a pregnant wife must give her estranged husband visitation rights to the baby she was about to give birth to and that, for the baby's well-being, it should be given breast milk during the visitation; thus, the judge ruled, the mother would have to pump extra breast milk in advance for the husband to feed to the baby. (Shortly afterward, an appeals court suggested he rethink the order, and at a December hearing, he changed his mind.)

KC university fraternity suspended for hazing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A fraternity at Rockhurst University has been suspended for three years because members had been hazing young pledges. "In the scheme of things, the hazing was not horrible," said Liz Brent, Rockhurst's vice president for student development. "It was calisthenics, drill-sergeant, clean-my-room" type hazing.

Brent said it was the first such suspension at the Jesuit college. She said pledges alerted school officials about the hazing.

The fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, had existed at Rockhurst since 1972 and had about 45 members. Rockhurst fraternities and sororities do not have official chapter houses on campus.

Members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon could not be reached for comment Tuesday night.

— The Associated Press

Eminem pleads guilty; sentence left to judge

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. — Rap superstar Eminem, who is nominated for four awards at next week's Grammys, has agreed to plead guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, prosecutors announced Wednesday.

Eminem faces up to five years in prison when he is sentenced on April 10. However, a publicist for the controversial rapper, whose real name is Marshall Mathers III, said Eminem will seek probation.

In return for the plea, Macomb County assistant prosecutor David Portuesi said a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon was dropped.

The rapper's sentence will be left up to the judge.

Eminem was charged after an altercation last June outside a nightclub. Police said he struck a man who was allegedly kissing Eminem's wife, Kim.

Eminem, who lives in Macomb County's Clinton Township, still faces charges in neighboring Oakland County of carrying a concealed weapon and brandishing a firearm in public. Dennehey had no comment on pending charges.

Messages left with Eminem's attorneys were not immediately returned Wednesday.

— The Associated Press

NEAR spacecraft mission extended for extra study

LAUREL, Md. — The NEAR spacecraft, which surprised experts by landing so softly on asteroid Eros that it still is working, has been given a reprieve.

NASA is adding 10 extra days to its mission so scientists can use instruments to probe the surface of the distant space rock.

Radio communications with NEAR, which on Monday became the first manmade object to land on an asteroid, were scheduled to end Wednesday, but NASA agreed to continue monitoring the craft with the Deep Space Network for at least 10 more days.

"The landing on Eros was so successful that not only did the spacecraft survive the impact, but we have remained in communications," said Jay Bergtrahl, director of NASA's solar system exploration program. "This is beyond our highest expectations and NASA is taking advantage."

He said scientists will continue to collect data from a NEAR instrument that can analyze the chemistry of the barren space rock. NEAR rests on the surface of Eros, 196 million miles away, like a tripod, leaning against the outer edges of two solar panels and on the edge of its base.

The craft's solar panels are pointing at the sun, gathering full power, officials said.

However, the craft's best antenna is not pointed at Earth, and mission controllers said they can receive only about 10 bits a second of data from a low-gain, backup antenna. From the high-gain antenna, data is about 2,600 times faster.

But officials said the communication is good enough to gather data from NEAR's gamma ray spectrometer, an instrument that can evaluate the chemistry of the asteroid rock.

Mission officials said an analysis of radar and other data from the landing Monday shows that NEAR — Near Earth Asteroid Rendezvous — actually landed more smoothly than originally thought.

Engineers at first believed NEAR hit Eros and then bounced off — perhaps as high as 300 feet.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ The Department of Geology will have a seminar, "Hinterland to Foreland: The Sevier Orogenic Belt: Metamorphic and Tectonic Evolution of a Large Orogenic Wedge," at 4 p.m. today in Thompson 213. Adolph Yonkee, Weber State University, Ogden, Utah, will give the seminar.

■ Phi Alpha Theta will meet at 5 p.m. today in Eisenhower 218. Contact mks8487@ksu.edu for information.

■ Intramural wrestling will be at 7 tonight in the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. Participants must weigh-in between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

■ The Society for Creative Anachronism/Shire of Spinning Winds will meet from 6 to 8 tonight in Ahearn 204.

■ Agricultural Education Club will meet at 7 tonight in Weber 111. In conjunction with the meeting, Alpha Tau Alpha will have its 116th annual induction of new members.

■ The Campus Greens will meet at 9 tonight in Union 209.

■ Hillel Jewish Student Organization will meet at 8:30 tonight at Java Espresso & Bakery in Aggerville.

■ Graduate Students of Visual Arts will have an art exhibition through Feb. 23 in the Willard Hall Gallery. The show is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and a reception will take place Friday.

■ Filing forms for Student Governing Association elections are due at 4 p.m. Friday in the Office of Student Activities and Services. Forms can be obtained online at www.ksu.edu/elections.

Intramural free throw has been rescheduled for Friday and Saturday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. Participants will compete at the time they originally signed up. Call 532-6980.

■ Applications for KSU Student Foundation are available at the Foundation building or in the Office of Student Activities and Services. An informational reception will be at 4 p.m. Monday in Union 212 for students interested in the organization. Applications are due in the OSAS by Feb. 23.

■ The registration deadline for Career and Employment Services' Dining Etiquette Workshop has been extended to Tuesday. The workshop will be at 5:30 p.m. March 1 in the Derby Dining Center. Professional business attire is required at the dinner. The cost is $5.25 per person or meal exchange for students with a K-State meal plan.

■ Homecoming Student Committee applications can be picked up at the OSAS. Applications are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 23 at the K-State Alumni Association, 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 400.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County Tuesday, Feb. 13

■ At 11 a.m., Traci L. Lawrence, 1023 Garderway, was arrested for probation violation.
■ At 4 p.m., Allan E. Miller, 1725 S. St. Francis, was arrested for worthless checks and failure to appear.
■ At 11:50 p.m., Ryan D. Howser, 3220 State St., was arrested for criminal deprivation.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

Advertise

118 KEDZIE • 532-6560

haircuts and color facials and massages manicures and pedicures

GALLERY
Glen Theodore
FOR HAIR

3266 Kimball Ave.
Candlewood • 776-5632

Delivers the latest!

OPEN LATE!

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

702 N. 11th Street
770-3333
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Checks add 50¢

770-3333 Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

Feast for Four

→ XL 16" one topping pizza
+
→ 10" Pokey Stix
+
→ 2 liter pop
=
$12.99

CARRY-OUT SPECIALS

16" 1-Topping $6.99
14" 1-Topping $5.99

BONUS BUYS MENU
with any food purchase

• 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99
• Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99
• 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99
• Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99

THE BIG ASS

One 20" Massive 1-Topping Pizza
$10.99
2 for $19.99
Additional Toppings $1.30 per pizza

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

"We're giving away FREE tickets to every KSU men's basketball game!"

Win a Pair of Tickets to the Wildcat's Next Home Game:

KSU vs Texas Tech
7:00 pm, Sunday
February 18

One pair of free tickets for each home game will be given away at each FirstBank location in Manhattan. Come in and register today!

Win a KSU Autographed Basketball!

Each time you register to win free game tickets, you'll automatically be entered in the drawing to win a basketball autographed by the KSU men's team and coaches.

$125 FirstBank Hotshot Shoot-Out at Each Game!

At half-time of each game, one lucky contestant will have the chance to take 5 shots at different locations on the court. Each shot is worth $25 for a total potential of $125. Enter to win at the game.

Free Wildcat Mini-Balls and T-Shirts for Kids!

Willie The Wildcat will be tossing out free mini-basketballs and T-shirts at the game!

*No cost. No obligation. Need not be present at drawing to win.

Serving Kansans Like You For 113 Years

FirstBank
www.firstbank1.com

Manhattan - 537-0200
Main Bank • 701 Poyntz West Facility • 3005 Anderson
University Facility • Denison & Claflin

FDIC

Keith Montgomery, a Manhattan High senior, laughs as T-Shane Roberts, a singing telegram artist from Westloop Floral, performs before Montgomery's class.

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Election filing deadline Friday

By AMY MORGAN
Kansas State Collegian

The filing deadline for the K-State Student Governing Association elections is approaching, and students have until 4 p.m. Friday at the Office of Student Activities and Services to submit applications for all positions.

Application packets are available online or at the OSAS. Included in the application packet is all forms, regulations and a timeline that students can view for the election process.

Students interested in running for any position must complete the application and then attend one mandatory informational meeting out of three scheduled times.

The informational meetings are scheduled for 9 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the Union Big 12 Room and 9 p.m. Wednesday in Union 213.

Dustin Petrik, senior in microbiology and Student Senate election chair, said the rules for campaigning, spending and violations will be reviewed at the meetings.

After the 4 p.m. deadline, the Election Committee then will put names together by office and group offices together to create ballots, Petrik said.

Petrik said the ballots will be sent Thursday to an election vendor who is hired and paid by SGA to run the election online.

Beginning at 5 p.m. Feb. 25, candidates will be allowed to start their campaigning by chalking sidewalks, visiting campus

"Speak to as many people and groups and let them know you're running. Listen and communicate with other students."

— Dustin Petrik,
Senate elections chair groups, posting materials on campus and wearing campaign shirts. On Feb. 26, they will be permitted to set up campaign tables in the Union.

General election voting will take place March 5-7.

Jake Worcester, student body president, encourages students to apply and run in the elections.

"I think running is beneficial, and running a campaign is educational and a way to get out and talk to people on campus," Worcester said.

He said students must know the process coming in and know the system and hit the ground running when elected.

"They must be a leader on campus and be willing to dedicate time to making changes that take time and work," Worcester said.

Petrik advises students interested in applying to read through all election information and be familiar with the regulations and running of a campaign.

"Speak to as many people and groups and let them know you're running," Petrik said. "Listen and communicate with other students."

LOCAL SINGERS ADD A SPECIAL TOUCH FOR A FUNNY VALENTINE

By JENNIFER O'NEILL
Kansas State Collegian

Students at Manhattan High School West Campus not only were excited while exchanging Valentine's Day gifts during their passing period Wednesday morning, but they also were curiously watching a man in a cape stroll through their halls.

The man was T-Shane Roberts, and his cape was part of his costume as a singing telegram.

Roberts, of Wamego, Kan., was hired by Westloop Floral. For $15, customers paid to have Roberts sing to their loved ones for Valentine's Day.

"I do it for the pure shock and thrill of it," he said.

Roberts went to a variety of schools, businesses, residences and even some sorority houses at K-State.

At Manhattan High, Roberts surprised Keith Montgomery, a 17-year-old senior, with flowers, balloons and a song.

Montgomery, whose girlfriend set it up, wasn't shocked, nor hugely embarrassed.

"I had an idea that this might happen," he said. "It's slightly embarrassing, but it's still fun at the same time."

Roberts has been doing the routine for about 15 years, and he said he tries to work with a different flower shop each year. He has accumulated so many funny stories over the years, he said, he intends to write a book about it someday.

Karen Medlin, owner of Westloop Floral, said she had requests this year by her customers to have someone do a sort of singing performance.

"I'm always looking for something fun, new and different to do on Valentine's Day," she said.

Have you got your copy of the Campus Phone Book?

Purchase now in Kedzie 103

GET IT ONLINE

Order your Royal Purple!
$34.95

On sale at Kedzie 103

Clafin Books and Copies

Dependable Quality Service

Photo Copying

Across from Goodnow Hall

HANSEN NUTRITION CENTER

Locally owned one stop
Health Food Supermarket
3112 Anderson • 537-4571
Across from Plaza West

MFA Candidate Exhibition
Sponsored by GSOVA

KSU Willard Hall Gallery
February 15th-23rd

Reception - February 16th 5-8 pm

中國廚 Chinese Chef

Authentic Chinese Food
DINE IN or CARRY OUT
DRIVE THRU
Phone 537-3333 • 2704 Anderson Ave.

Daily Special $3.95
w/ soda

Hours Open:
Mon - Thurs 11:00 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.
Fri - Sat 11:00 A.M. - 10:30 P.M.

Olson's Shoe Service

Replace Heels & Soles
& Repair Western Boots,
Women's & Men's Dress, All
Birkenstock, Handbags & Backpacks.
Edwin C. Olson Sr., Certified Pedorthist

~ Aggieville ~
539-8571 • 1214-B Moro

PURPLE WAVE AUCTION

224 Leavenworth Manhattan, Ks. 66502 (785)-537-5057

• CONSIGNMENT • ESTATE SALES • FARM AUCTIONS • BUSINESS LIQUIDATIONS

• CHARITY AUCTIONS

Consignment Auction

Every Thurs. 7 p.m.

--computers --housewares
--electronics --appliances
--tools --furniture
--party supplies --beds
--automobiles --antiques
--sporting goods --business supplies
--office supplies

Shape Your Future in Health Care as a Doctor of Chiropractic

- If you want to help people get well and stay well.
- If you want to work independently as a self-employed chiropractic physician
- If you want to achieve the financial success commensurate with your professional standing as a primary care physician
- If you want to establish your position in the community as a well-respected Doctor of Chiropractic

If any of these criteria match your professional aspirations, please contact Logan College of Chiropractic, today!

1-800-533-9210

www.logan.edu loganadmi@logan.edu
1851 Schoettler Road, Chesterfield, MO 63017
An Equal Opportunity Institution of Higher Education

LOGAN
COLLEGE OF CHIROPRACTIC

Bob's DINER

1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT

OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY

7 DAYS A WEEK

is

EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY

$1.99

BREAKFAST

ALL THE TIME

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

IT'S VALENTINE'S DAY ALL MONTH LONG AT RAMADA AND GOLD FORK!

ENJOY DINNER FOR TWO AT GOLD FORK

AND

SPEND THE NIGHT AT THE RAMADA PLAZA

(THERE WILL BE COMPLIMENTARY BOTTLE OF CHAMPAGNE IN YOUR ROOM!)

RAMADA
PLAZA HOTEL

ALL FOR JUST

$79.95

Now that's a sweetheart of a deal!

AVAILABLE THROUGH FEBRUARY 28

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

On the Topic

Do you agree or disagree with the penis sculpture being removed from the Union art gallery? Why or why not?

I disagree with the removal of the penis sculpture. In fact, that guy should design a pair of breasts and a vagina squirting water to go with it. Put art back in the Union.

We should respect the artist's right to make the final decision about his artwork. And furthermore, we should not criticize the art for being a nude piece. Otherwise David, by Michelangelo, would be shown with underpants.

Sure, why not? Who wants to stare at a penis anyway?

I disagree with the penis sculpture being removed from the Union art gallery because I never got to see it.

I think you should definitely take the penis out of the Union. Sculptured or the real thing, it is definitely ugly.

Two words describing art in the Union: "meat gazers."

Must be embarrassing if your girlfriend tells you she's seen better than you in the Union gallery.

I wouldn't mind seeing the sculpture of the male anatomy, just as long as it is accompanied by its female counterpart.

Yes, the use of a condom would have made the sculpture safer.

I agree with the penis sculpture being removed from the Union art gallery because it gives the girls too high of an expectation of what the men should be like here at K-State.

Off the Topic

To the guy at Taco Bell, I still think you're cute. Same time, same place on Sunday?

Valentine's Day: the day where couples show their love for one another. And the rest of us are reminded about how pathetic we are.

I was just wondering if it is considered cheating when an instructor tells one student what will be on the exam, but not the rest of the students in the class. Yeah, just wondering.

Snow day or not, drinking and driving is still wrong, dangerous and selfish.

Does anyone else think it's ironic that Valentine's Day fell on hump day this year?

I find it very funny that people will wait 10 minutes outside the Rec for a parking space. I thought they went there to exercise, so I don't see what a little extra walking is going to hurt anybody.

Wow, I'm glad I live at Chase. I can't even have more than 10 people at my apartment at once now.

I don't care if it is Valentine's Day. That doesn't mean that you two freshman in my advertising class can make out during the commercials. It's sick and wrong.

Rule of thumb: If there are two minutes left of class and the professor is still talking, would you please not pack up your books when he is talking? That is so rude. He is not finished.

To that girl in our history class who's eating the Cheerios — this isn't church, and you are not four years old.

OK, who else did a back flip on the stairs outside of Calvin? Come on, I know you guys are out there.

I would just like to say that I got the best Valentine's gift today because, after all, I did get dumped by e-mail. I mean, what other Valentine's present could a girl ask for? I mean, that is the best ever.

Question for Thursday

What do you think about the recent State Board of Education's decision to re-instate evolution into the science standards?

FILM FRENZY

Cinematic entertainment best, when you can find it

So the Oscar nominations are out, and ... I'm disappointed.

I think it's because this year's just been a thin crop of entertainment across the board.

KEN WELLS

Wants To Be a Millionaire?" and Richard "Au naturel" Hatch on "Survivor."

Music's new golden boy is Eminem, who — while infinitely more musically mature and progressive — still makes Vanilla Ice look like Plato. So if cinematic quality is going to ebb, well, it feels like a general cultural lull and not the silver screen specifically. If you ask me, I blame NASDAQ.

There haven't been a whole lot of "must-see" movies that have rolled out Manhattan-way. "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon" certainly fits the bill. But, let's see, hrm ... nope, no mega-Oscar-nominee in this town. Oh, we've got "Left Behind" (OK, in this town, I understand the marketing idea, but still ...), "Valentine," "The Wedding Planner" and "Head Over Heels" ... as if Carmike Cinemas couldn't possibly tap into the "cheap romance movie with dim-witted leads" market enough. Give the people what they want ... or what you want them to want, I guess (Convince me more people will want to see "Sugar and Spice" than "Crouching Tiger." C'mon. We've got all day).

So if I want some Chow Yun-Fat and Michelle Yeoh (spell check suggests "yeah" for "Yeoh," and I concur), I'm hitting the highway. But it's hard enough to justify trudging outside, shelling out $13.50 (before refreshments) to watch a flick usually turned up to WAY FRICKIN' LOUD, especially when fate so often dictates I sit behind the one person who needs the entire film explained to them by their date. Leaving town to do so — that makes it a pilgrimage, and c'mon, that's just silly (When I have to drive to Clay Center — that's friggin' Clay Center, here, people — to see "Boys Don't Cry" on the big screen, something's severely messed up).

No "Dancer in the Dark." No "Quills." For God's sake, no "Requiem for a Dream."

So, I'm at the acceptance phase. "Manhattan" means "mass-market movie mecca" (Took me a few seconds to think of an m-word for city. This is your first example of overworked alliteration). Artsy movies either slink quietly into the K-State Student Union or ... we wait until it emerges on video and carry it home to watch in comfort and privacy, and really, even excluding cost, that's just much more fun anymore. Sorry, Carmike.

That dead horse being thoroughly throttled, let's take a look at the movies, hrm?

"Gladiator" — bread-and-circuses still packs 'em in. Gotta admit, it's not "Citizen Kane," but it doesn't try to be, and it's enough fun on its own terms. It's what it aspires to be — and in this case, that's just fine. Somewhat surprised by its nomination haul, especially the editing nod (uhm, did anyone try following those fight scenes?), but hey, it still feels like a sub-par year.

"Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon" — OK, so Ang Lee makes "Sense and Sensibility" and now "Crouching Tiger." Is this man in a creative rut or what? ... Just kidding. Would love to emigrate to a nearby village to witness this someday. Someone gimme a day off already. But from what I've seen, it looks like "The Matrix" with fewer cell phones.

"Traffic" — "The Matrix" with more drugs.

"Cast Away" — "The Matrix" with a smaller (and more spherical) cast.

"102 Dalmations" — "The Matrix" with more dogs.

"Chocolat" — "The Matrix" with better food.

"Dungeons & Dragons" — "The Matrix" with ... OK, I'm kidding, enough already, you can breathe again. Still, it helps to have a baseline, and you know I'm not using "Battlefield: Earth," for God's sake.

If the "selection" of first-run movies saps your will to live and you've already drained the rental stores dry, do what we do in the newsroom: Pick a word of the day and replace words in movie titles with that key word. I blame sleep deprivation for us getting so enthusiastic about it. But you can't beat staffers running around exclaiming "How Stella Got Her Panties Back!" "Dude, Where's My Panties?" "O Panties, Where Art Thou?" and our editor-in-chief demanding in a disturbed, quivering voice that the little game stop. She would deny us our fun. (Other recommended key words: "nipple," "puppy," or any suitably Anglo-Saxon epithet).

Give it a shot. Sometimes it's more fun than going to the movies. Especially if it's "Autumn in New York." Shudder.

Ken is a graduate student in English. You can e-mail him at sigma7@ksu.edu.

Inner beauty hard to find at bars

Painting the town purple might sound like a lot of fun, but there is a lot more to it than most people realize.

Especially when it comes to dealing with members of the opposite sex. There is a world of difference when guys and girls go out.

With a guy, you usually can automatically tell how naturally attractive they are.

There is very little they can do. They can fix their hair, put on some nice clothes and bathe in cologne, but that is it.

Now, guys don't really know what a girl actually looks like when they meet her in a bar.

They don't know if a girl's hair is really blonde or not, or if it's straight or curly. She could have the bad habit of nail biting, but one cannot tell with the claws on her hands.

Make-up is another element that makes things hard.

Make-up is supposed to be used to enhance natural beauty, but some girls take it to an extreme. An extreme of preparing to scare off bulls at a rodeo, to entertain small children minus the big red nose or to prepare for war with a massive selection of paint.

And if you think she has a nice set of "twins," those very well could be silicone; or worse yet, they could suddenly, magically disappear when the Wonder Bra comes off. Just like racks in ovens can come out, so can racks in terms of padding from bras.

So the girl you were fortunate enough to take home isn't the one you necessarily could wake up with.

Yet it's hard to think with the mind instead of the eyes when you are out on the town, but that is what needs to be done.

The truly important things such as personality, having a sense of humor and intelligence seemingly very well can be the only things reliable when it comes to finding someone in a bar.

But it doesn't take much to impress someone after a few too many drinks. After all, it doesn't take a rocket scientist to make claims in regards to how bad the techno crap they continuously play at Tula's Out of Bounds Sports Bar and Grill is. However, when you are drunk, that one common bond of agreeing on something can make you feel like you were meant to be together.

Yet before that common bond can occur, someone has to initiate the conversation.

In order to do this, guys normally have to rely on what I call the charm factor.

Charm basically is a word describing how smooth verbal communication is. And with that, guys usually fall into two categories: saying too much or not saying anything. The first makes one think they probably say the same thing to every other girl within a 200 mile radius. The latter makes one think they don't feel anything in regards to the girl.

I don't think a lot of girls realize the larger the groups of other females they hit the town with, the less likely their chances are in terms of meeting up with guys. The reason? Guys often are a lot more nervous to approach a pack of girls than just two or three, especially if they are all dressed the same, have the same type of facial expressions and laughs (Girls have other reasons to go out besides looking for guys by the way).

Yet bars seem to be one of the key places to meet people, although few connections turn into anything substantial.

After all, you are supposed to be quiet in libraries, there usually is only an hour in a class period and, of course, there is no alcohol involved in these atmospheres (Usually).

However, there is something wonderful about meeting someone in a learning environment or during the middle of some random day. Odds are, they won't be wearing anything that will make them appear to be someone they are not, without the war paint, without the form-fitting, butt-squeezing pants that leave red marks on one's stomach when the clothing is removed. Without the hair perfectly done. Without the bullshit, so to speak.

This reminds me of one of my friends, Courtney, who I saw out a few weekends ago. She had a sweatshirt on and jeans, her hair was relatively wet and pulled back into a ponytail. Even though she had little make-up on, the guys around her could not get enough of her. They were watching her every move. Her smile and laughter, her true character and natural beauty, stood out amongst the sea of clones.

I told her how pretty she looked and she said, "No I don't. My roommate asked me to go out with her for a drink. That was at 5 o'clock." And there it was, drawing closer to closing time.

Yet I bet there were plenty of guys who went home that night hoping to see her out again.

There was nothing fake about her. She was real, and because of that, she was truly, naturally beautiful.

Ah, the joys that come with painting the town purple. Some colors look so similar that they become a light violet, while others stand out and become a beautiful, passionate color that words can't describe, a shade that has nothing to do with anything store bought or applied, but instead a matter of what is truly important to members of both sexes, not at closing time, but at anytime.

Erin is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at rivetted4@yahoo.com.

ERIN SCHNEWEIS

BECKY WILSON/Collegian

Fire victim's work, skills remembered

By KECIA N. SEYB
Kansas State Collegian

She was a woman who put people at ease, a woman who wouldn't give up on people. A woman who devoted much of her life to helping others, using her years of experience.

Her name was Margaret Grayden. She was a psychotherapist who worked at Lafene Mental Health Center for 23 years, retiring in 1990.

She died at the age of 72 because of a fire in her home, 2428 Dickens Ave., in Manhattan on Feb. 2.

Grayden began working at Lafene in 1966 in the old Mental Health Center, said Fred Newton, director of University Counseling Services at Lafene.

In 1988, when University Counseling Services and the Mental Health Center merged, Grayden became part of the merger, Newton said.

"She was highly devoted," he said.

Grayden brought a lot of experience with her from New York City, where she worked as a Medical Social Worker for Bellevue Hospital, as well as from many other places, said Betty Garzio, who worked at Lafene in the Mental Health Center with Grayden.

Grayden worked as Garzio's supervisor when Garzio first began at Lafene.

"She was an excellent supervisor," Garzio said. "She was the kind of person who wouldn't tell you what to do, but would draw you out and say, 'What would you do in this situation?'"

"To me, it was the best kind of supervision you could get. She made me think and put things together and then tried to help me in terms of how I might help the client deal with the problems they're having. She finally said to me, 'You're off on your own now, but you can always come to me.' That was the beauty of her supervision."

Grayden received her bachelor's degree in sociology and English from Smith College in Massachusetts in 1950. She then attended the Smith College School for Social Work. In 1955, she earned her master's degree in social work from the Oklahoma University School for Social Work.

"Margaret Grayden worked as a very skilled psychotherapist," said Sam Lacy, who also worked with Grayden at Lafene. "I'd say she qualified as a senior psychotherapist."

"She was an extremely devoted, extremely ethical person who was totally involved in being a good clinician."

— Sam Lacy, retired Lafene employee

Lacy, now retired, said Grayden was a committed social worker and therapist to all of her clients.

"She was an extremely devoted, extremely ethical person who was totally involved in being a good clinician," Lacy said.

"She gave all her energies. She was just a totally devoted clinician, where if she were a general practitioner, she would have worked 90 hours."

Income didn't matter to Grayden, Lacy said. He said she was willing to come in after hours.

According to her obituary, Grayden also occasionally served as a guest lecturer for undergraduate social work courses, as well as a field instructor for the University of Kansas School of Social Work, where she would supervise and train graduate students.

Grayden worked with serious cases and would not give up on even the toughest cases, Lacy said.

"She worked with anybody who came to her. Margaret treated some of the toughest people, who very well may have been suicidal. She knew how to deal with any kind of person," he said.

Telefund volunteers offered jobs, internships

By APRIL MIDDLETON
Kansas State Collegian

The 22nd annual KSU Foundation Telefund is raising money and the hopes of several students who have been offered jobs and internships while making calls.

Darcy Rucker, senior in chemical engineering, was offered a summer internship with IBM while working the Telefund.

Though Rucker still is considering the offer, she said it is a good opportunity because it goes along with her major.

"We were just chatting about K-State, and somehow or another an internship offer came up," Rucker said.

Sarah Fjell, sophomore in biological and agricultural engineering, also is considering an internship she was offered while working the Telefund.

"I worked the Telefund because I have a scholarship, and I think it's important to do my part," Fjell said. "This internship offer just happened to come up while I was making calls."

Gordon Dowell, director of annual giving, said although raising money is the main focus of the telefund, jobs and internship offers often come up in casual conversation between students and alumni.

Dowell said students in the College of Veterinary Medicine and College of Engineering probably make the most contacts for jobs and internships during the telefund.

"While making calls, students have conversations with the callers, and jobs and internships are the result," Dowell said. "Alums look to K-State to fill vacant spots."

Rucker said alumni from their own college always are interested in what is going on and how current students are doing.

"These people you call are concerned about how their old college and students there are doing," Rucker said. "We as students are offered good opportunities because of it."

Roller hockey team at No. 1 entering regionals

By LAURA BOYD
Kansas State Collegian

The K-State roller hockey team will take their No. 1 ranking to regionals in St. Louis next weekend in hopes of a win and a trip to nationals in Los Angeles.

Placing No. 1 in their league is something the team is proud of. Beating out top teams such as the University of Missouri, Iowa State and the University of Iowa to kick off the season gave the feeling that this team could go all the way.

"We played all the tough teams in the beginning," said club president Jeff Wilke, senior in civil engineering. "We knew those games were going to make it or break it for us."

Before they knew it, they weren't just beating the top teams in the league, they were beating nearly everybody in the league, racking up a 17-5 record.

"We had a great season," Wilke said, "better than I could have ever hoped for."

Though players admitted they didn't know what to expect for the season, they are all pleasantly surprised.

Looking back on his time with the team, Wilke said he believes the talent level is getting greater every year. As a senior, he has seen the numbers growing and the interest level for the sport ever rising.

"We have a lot of experience on this team because all of the guys have played before," Wilke said. "We are still getting better every day."

The Collegiate Roller Hockey league is spreading to colleges all over the nation. Like most club sports, funding is difficult and facilities are scarce.

K-State's roller hockey team heads to Junction City twice a week for their practices because there is no skating rink in Manhattan.

Wilke said travel is a hassle, but not as bad as it seems. The team's next obstacle will be funding for nationals. The team already has fund raisers planned in preparation of the big event.

"It is going to take a lot of fund raising to make it to nationals," Wilke said. "But it will definitely be worth it."

The team started their play in October and will conclude the regular season this weekend with the regional tournament Saturday and Sunday. Even if the team does not win the tournament, it still has a chance of going to nationals because of their 17-5 record.

Nationals will mean a trip to Los Angeles in April and a new respect within the sport for the team, Wilke said.

"It's giving us more name recognition," he said.

Federal prosecutors begin investigation of Rich pardon

By PAT MILTON
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Federal prosecutors have opened an investigation into President Clinton's last-minute pardon of fugitive financier Marc Rich, a source familiar with the case said Wednesday.

U.S. Attorney Mary Jo White in New York is trying to determine if there was a transfer of money to buy the pardon, the source told The Associated Press, speaking on the condition of anonymity.

Rich's former wife, Denise Rich, has been a major contributor to the Democratic Party, the Senate campaign of Hillary Rodham Clinton and the Clinton Presidential Library Fund.

White is expected to examine bank and telephone records and other documents to determine whether there was a link between the contributions and Clinton's decision to grant the pardon, the source said.

A spokesman for Denise Rich did not immediately return a call.

White, who was appointed to her post by Clinton in 1993, has said the pardon was granted without consultation with her office, which indicted Rich in 1983.

A spokesman said White had no comment and a Justice Department spokeswoman in Washington also declined to comment. Hillary Rodham Clinton, through a spokesman, referred questions to her husband's transition office, which did not return a telephone message.

The Constitution gives presidents the right to grant pardons. But Rich's pardon, one of 141 granted by Clinton on Jan. 20, his final day in office, has prompted sharp bipartisan criticism and hearings by House and Senate committees.

Before his pardon, Rich was wanted by the Justice Department on charges of evading more than $48 million in taxes, fraud and participating in illegal oil deals with Iran.

He was indicted on federal charges in 1983, shortly after he left the country for Switzerland. The indictment was filed when Rudolph Giuliani, now the Republican mayor of New York, was running the office.

Rich and his lawyers, who include former White House Counsel Jack Quinn, flooded the White House with calls and letters supporting the pardon just before Clinton left office, documents show. The pardon application and letters show those efforts date at least to 1987.

The application characterized the 1983 indictment, which alleged a tax fraud scheme on oil transactions, as based on U.S. government energy controls that were later deemed unworkable, incomprehensible and counterproductive and eventually abolished by President Reagan.

Don't miss your chance to be

SEEN

in the 2001 Royal Purple for FREE.

Strike a Pose

Bring your friends, family, significant others, co-workers, props, pets, inside jokes, toys, hidden talents and ideas, and we'll put you in the Royal Purple yearbook.

We showed you ours ...

Now you show us yours!

Order your own 2001 Royal Purple yearbook for only $34.95 at Strike a Pose.

10 a.m. - 6 p.m.
TODAY and Friday
in the K-State Student Union Courtyard

2001
Royal Purple
royalpurple.ksu.edu

Color prints of your picture will also be available for purchase.

Strike a Pose is brought to you by the 2001 Royal Purple yearbook and Thornton Studio.

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS

STARTS TOMORROW!!

The following employers have listed full-time positions in the Virtual Career Fair. You may view company profiles and job descriptions, as well as send your resume directly to the employer from the Career & Employment Services (CES) website, www.ksu.edu/ces. You must be registered with CES to participate.

Feb. 16-22: Employers Listing Full-time Positions

American Express Financial Advisors	Kinko's Corp. Headquarters
Arthur Anderson, LLP	K-State Research and Extension
Associated Electric Cooperative, Inc.	KVC, A Behavioral Healthcare Network
Bank of America	La Petite Academy
Boeing Company	Larkin Group Consulting Engineers, Inc.
Brookover Feed Yards	Legacy Financial Group
Burns & McDonnell	Lockheed Martin Aeronautics
Cactus Feeders	LSI Logic Storage System
Cal-Maine Foods	Mayo Clinic
CCH Incorporated	Microsoft Corp.
Cessna Aircraft Company	National Instruments
Chrysler Financial, LLC	Noble Hospitality, Inc.
Citgo Petroleum Corporation	Peace Corps
Conklin Cars	Premier Personnel
Consolidated Grain & Barge Co. (CGB)	Professional Service Industries (PSI)
DeBruce Grain Co.	Quintiles, Inc.
Deloitte & Touche	Security Benefit Group of Companies
Dodge City Public Schools	Sega, Inc.
Enterprise Rent-A-Car	Sherwin Williams Co.
Federal Aviation Administration	Sodexo Marriott Services
Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City	Spring Hill USD #230
Fort Worth ISD	Sprint
Geoprobe Systems	St. Louis ARC
George Butler Associates, Inc.	State Street
GeoSystems Engineering, Inc.	Target Stores
Glendale Elementary School District #40	TEKSystems
Honeywell	Tomball ISD
Hormel Foods Corporation	Tractor Supply Company
Houlihan's Restaurant Group	Turner Construction Company
IBP, Inc.	United Methodist Youthville
IFR Systems, Inc.	University Outreach & Extension
Jeld-Wen	US Marine Corps
Kansas City Power & Light Company	USD #305 Salina Public Schools
Kansas Department of Transportation	Walgreens
Kiewit Construction Company	Western Resources

100 Holtz Hall

www.ksu.edu/ces

532-6506

SEVEN IN A ROW

Women's team falls to Sooners; Rethman scores 19 for K-State

The Associated Press

NORMAN, Okla. — Stacey Dales had 20 points and 10 assists as No. 10 Oklahoma beat K-State 79-60 on Wednesday night.

LaNeisha Caufield added 16 points to help Oklahoma (20-4, 11-1 Big 12) take the conference lead. Jamie Talbert had 11 points for the Sooners.

Kristin Rethman had 19 points for K-State (11-12, 1-11). Rethman made all five of her three-point attempts.

Oklahoma scored the final 13 points of the first half to take a 38-23 lead. The Sooners opened the second half with a 9-1 run and led by as many as 24 points.

Oklahoma moved a game in front of Iowa State in the Big 12 standings with the No. 6 Cyclones' 73-66 loss at Colorado.

GAME STATS

K-STATE 60

11-12 overall, 1-11 in Big 12

OKLAHOMA 79

20-4 overall, 11-1 in Big 12

K-STATE	FG	3PT	FT	TP	MIN
Rethman, Kristin	7-9	5-5	0-0	19	36
Ohide, Nicole	4-12	0-0	1-2	9	30
Sailors, April	3-6	1-3	0-0	7	16
Ferguson, Denisha	2-2	0-0	2-2	6	4
Dutmer, Amy	3-7	0-0	0-0	6	18
Webb, Marshella	2-3	0-0	0-0	4	12
Armstrong, Andrea	2-5	0-0	0-3	4	13
Finneran, Morgan	0-4	1-1	0-0	3	12
Woodlee, Kim	1-2	0-1	0-0	2	29
Booker, Shalonda	0-8	0-3	0-0	0	23
Hutton, Danielle	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	5
Newsom, Kimmerly	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	2

TEAM	25-58	7-13	3-7	431	538	429
------	-------	------	-----	-----	-----	-----

OKLAHOMA	FG	3PT	FT	TP	MIN
Dales, Stacey	9-16	0-2	2-2	20	30
Caufield, LaNeisha	6-8	0-1	4-7	16	29
Talbert, Jamie	4-7	0-0	3-5	11	22
Hill, Caton	4-7	0-1	3-5	10	34
Ross, Rosalind	4-7	2-4	0-0	10	19
Hardeman, Sunmy	2-5	2-5	0-0	6	35
Seelye, Jadra	1-5	0-0	2-2	4	17
Selmon, Shannon	1-1	0-0	0-0	2	3
Britt, Emily	0-1	0-0	0-0	0	3
Scott, Kate	0-1	0-0	0-0	0	3
Luce, Stephanie	0-1	0-1	0-0	0	3
Simon, Stephanie	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	2

TEAM	31-62	4-14	13-18	500	286	722
------	-------	------	-------	-----	-----	-----

Halftime — Oklahoma 38, K-State 23. Rebounds — K-State 30 (Ohide 8), Oklahoma 39 (Hill 9). Assists — K-State 12 (Booker 4), Oklahoma 24 (Dales 10). Turnovers — K-State 18, Oklahoma 14. Total fouls — K-State 15, Oklahoma 11. Attendance — 1,915.

CHELSEA SCHMIDT/Collegian

SCOTT MCCLURG/Daily Nebraskan

ABOVE: Matt Siebrandt shoots over Steffon Bradford during K-State's game against Nebraska. The Cats play Texas Tech at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Bramlage Coliseum. RIGHT: Richie Terry runs through Rodney Fields in K-State's 82-56 loss to Nebraska. Terry led the Wildcats with 16 points.

SCOTT MCCLURG/Daily Nebraskan

Wildcats lose to NU in away game, 56-82

By DOUG ALDEN
The Associated Press

LINCOLN, Neb. — Kimani Ffriend, who scored 17 points and pulled down 11 rebounds, was the main threat for the Wildcats on Wednesday as Nebraska pushed K-State's losing streak to seven straight with an 82-56 win.

K-State (8-14, 2-9) trailed by 17 at halftime and never got closer than 14 in the second half.

"I think our team has hit a point where maybe the losses have mounted up to where they're losing some of their spirit," head coach Jim Wooldridge said. "We're not successful right now. The hardest thing to do is fight through this."

Richie Terry scored 16, and Larry Reid had 10 points for the Wildcats, who haven't won since upsetting then-No. 20 Missouri 80-59 on Jan. 16.

K-State had a free throw before the tip-off after Nebraska got a technical for dunking during warm ups. Reid, a 78 percent free-throw shooter, missed the shot, and things went downhill from there for K-State.

The Wildcats, who lost to Nebraska 63-61 on Jan. 30, were not able to rally after falling behind 14-3 at the start of the game.

Reid drove for a layup to pull the Wildcats within 63-45 with 9:14 left in the game, but the Huskers scored the next 13 points for their largest lead of the season.

"I just think they were a lot more physical than we were," Wooldridge said. "You've just got to match that or surpass it. That didn't happen."

Brian Conklin had 11 points and 16 rebounds and Cookie Belcher finished with 15 points for the Cornhuskers (12-12, 5-6 Big 12), who shot 53 percent (32-for-60) from the field.

Rodney Fields added 11 points for the Huskers, who swept a season series for the first time since beating Kansas twice in the 1998-99 season.

Wilson Thomas, a receiver on Nebraska's football team, hit consecutive layups, Belcher made a three-pointer and Ffriend went 1-for-2 from the free-throw line. Fields hit a pair of free throws and, after a Wildcat turnover, made a three-pointer that put Nebraska up 76-45 with 5:22 left to play.

The 31-point lead matched Nebraska's largest for the season, which the Huskers set in a 84-55 win over Alaska-Fairbanks.

Nebraska led 40-23 at halftime after putting together two big runs in the first 20 minutes. After K-State hit the first basket, the Huskers outscored the Wildcats 14-1 over the next five minutes. Ffriend started the run with a layup and Cary Cochran hit a three-pointer, followed by a Ffriend dunk that got the Huskers rolling.

The Wildcats got within 21-13, then Nebraska scored the next seven points to start a 14-3 run.

Ffriend had 14 points, and Conklin pulled down 11 rebounds in the first half as the Huskers went 16-for-30 from the floor.

GAME STATS

K-STATE 56

8-14 overall, 2-9 in Big 12

NEBRASKA 82

12-12 overall, 5-6 in Big 12

K-STATE	FG	3PT	FT	TP	MIN
Terry, Richie	6-8	2-4	2-6	16	30
Reid, Larry	3-13	1-6	3-5	10	27
Howell, Kelvin	3-5	0-0	2-7	8	27
Buchanan, Quentin	3-11	0-0	2-2	8	32
Reynolds, Travis	3-5	0-0	1-1	7	25
Atchison, Phineas	1-5	1-2	0-0	3	22
Wallace, Donnie	1-2	0-0	1-2	3	9
Sulic, Ivan	0-1	0-0	1-2	1	12
Siebrandt, Matt	0-3	0-0	0-0	0	8
Washington, Rashad	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	8

TEAM	20-53	4-12	12-26	377	332	462
------	-------	------	-------	-----	-----	-----

NEBRASKA	FG	3PT	FT	TP	MIN
Ffriend, Kimani	7-11	0-0	3-8	17	24
Belcher, Cookie	6-9	2-3	1-1	15	24
Fields, Rodney	4-5	1-1	2-2	11	25
Conklin, Brian	4-9	2-4	1-1	11	33
Cochran, Cary	3-5	3-5	0-0	9	23
Bradford, Steffon	3-6	0-0	3-5	9	16
Thomas, Wilson	3-5	0-0	0-1	6	10
Ford, Kedrick	1-4	0-0	0-0	2	8
Booker, Justin	1-1	0-0	0-0	2	5

TEAM	32-60	8-16	10-18	533	500	555
------	-------	------	-------	-----	-----	-----

Halftime — Nebraska 40, K-State 23. Rebounds — K-State 30 (Reynolds 6), Nebraska 45 (Conklin 17). Assists — K-State 5 (Terry, Atchison 2), Nebraska 25 (Belcher 8). Turnovers — K-State 16, Nebraska 14. Total fouls — K-State 21, Nebraska 19. Attendance — 7,022.

CHELSEA SCHMIDT/Collegian

Virus promising Kournikova images highlights discrepancy between males, females in sports

My gift for Valentine's Day was Anna Kournikova.

Or at least I thought it was. I received an e-mail on Monday with the subject line "Here you have, :o)" and a message that promised a picture of the 19-year-old Russian tennis beauty. Of course I clicked to open it.

It didn't work. All I got was some computer lingo on a gray screen and an icon on my desktop. So, I tried it again and again — four times in all — because I wanted to see Anna Kournikova, damn it.

But instead of a picture, all I got was a desktop full of little page icons and the realization that I'm a huge idiot.

See, it turns out this innocuous little e-mail actually is a computer virus that has overwhelmed servers worldwide. Millions of hopeful men in dozens of countries could have been found Monday desperately double-clicking on some attachment to no avail.

We wanted to gawk. As a result, every one of us verified we are pathetic.

We fawn all over an average tennis player who never has won a major tournament and occasionally comes as a bad actress. Actually, what we're paying homage to is long legs, curves, blond hair, spandex shorts and un-little-girl-like poses that have appeared in Sports Illustrated, GQ and Esquire.

If the computer virus had promised the statistics to Kournikova's latest match, only her mom's computer would have been infected.

So, in penance for my contributing to the propagation of a computer virus and sexist attitudes toward women athletes, I now will give Kournikova the praise she should have received, but didn't, from all those infatuated men worldwide.

Ahem.

According to her official Web site, Kournikova may be the most popular tennis player in the world not to have won a singles championship. That statistic won't last too long, however, as this 19-year-old Russian is one of the most talented and fastest rising players on the WTA.

All right, that's about enough. The rest of the site continues on with more of the same, plus loads of "the best Kournikova photos available," including one entitled "Anna go bra" that features, that's right, Kournikova standing in front of a giant billboard featuring her in a bra.

You see, the problem really isn't with the guys checking their e-mail. The reality is that many men just don't care about women's sports, and neither do many women. Don't believe me? Quick, name the leading scorer in the WNBA, the top-rated female tennis player, the highest paid female golfer or even just three members of the USA women's soccer team besides Brandi Chastain, who bared her bra after scoring the winning goal in the '99 World Cup.

Ninety percent of those reading this can't. Now, name one athlete who posed in Playboy. You probably can name two.

But the same also is true of men's sports. Most people probably can't name more than two New York Knicks players other than Latrell Sprewell. For the most part, athletes only receive recognition through off-the-field incidents and photo spreads, men and women alike.

There probably have been just as many photos of Dennis Rodman in erotic poses as Kournikova. The only reason Rodman received the attention in the first place was because he was an above-average basketball player. On the other hand, there were photos of a cute, little Russian tennis player circulating through magazines when she was a 15-year-old nobody.

This trend isn't limited to on the field, either. Aspiring female sportscasters are greatly disadvantaged if they can't also win a swimsuit competition. Nobody, on the other hand, wants to see ESPN analyst Chris Berman in a swimming suit.

Unfortunately, it doesn't appear that this paradox will end anytime soon. However, at least one female athlete has decided to go along with the situation.

Kournikova.com admits that she was always the center of attention at events due to her talent and beauty.

Only one of those attributes is the selling point behind the framed GQ Magazine's August 2000 issue, which features Kournikova in a revealing spandex outfit — just $39.99 — stats not included.

Michael is a sophomore in print journalism and English. You can e-mail him at mtn5855@ksu.edu.

MICHAEL NOLL

Golf team takes 10th place during Rice Intercollegiate

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

A slow start doomed the K-State men's golf team at the Rice Intercollegiate in Texas on Monday and Tuesday.

The Cats couldn't overcome an opening round team score of 310 and finished 10th in a 10-team field. K-State did, however, make up ground with two consecutive rounds of 301 and finished with a 912, five shots behind ninth-place South Texas State and seven shots behind No. 8 Missouri.

The poor start was the result of practicing in Kansas weather, or rather, practicing indoors to avoid that weather, head coach Tim Norris said.

"We just didn't make the transition from playing indoors to outdoors," he said. "We practiced very hard in the indoor facility during the winter, but it is a different game outside. We got off to a rough start, but we can take some positives away from this event."

One of those positives was the play of junior Bryan Milberger, who shot an even-par 72 on the final round to move up 15 spots and tie for 26th place.

"I thought Bryan played a very good tournament," Norris said. "He didn't make any putts the first couple of rounds, and that showed with his score. He was finally able to make a couple putts today."

Freshman Aaron Watkins also played well for the Cats, shooting a final-round 77 to tie for 26th with Milberger. Watkins led K-State throughout the first two rounds.

The University of Kansas, which shot 861, won the meet.

— K-State Sports Information contributed to this article.

Final placings

Team: (10th of 10)
Aaron Watkins
Bryan Milberger
A.J. Elger
Matt Williams
Daryn Soldan
Scott McNeely

310-301-301 — 912
T 26, 74-75-77 — 226
T 26, 78-76-72 — 226
T 33, 77-74-77 — 228
T 49, 85-76-75 — 236
T 51, 81-78-78 — 237
60, 84-79-81 — 244

TRENDS

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 2001

7

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
- 1 Santa's runway
 - 5 One of "My Three Sons"
 - 9 Energy
 - 12 Competent
 - 13 Get better
 - 14 Have bills
 - 15 Eternal optimist
 - 17 Say it's OK
 - 18 Shut tight
 - 19 Congo, once
 - 21 "A Night — the Roxbury"
 - 22 Ice-cream purchase
 - 24 Navigator's stack
 - 27 "— Town"
 - 28 Chinese gooseberry
 - 31 Past
 - 32 A March sister
 - 33 Massachusetts cape
 - 34 Computer brand
 - 36 Born
 - 37 Requests
 - 38 Terence's tongue
- DOWN
- 40 Billboard, e.g.
 - 41 In the loop, with "to"
 - 43 Magician's outcry
 - 47 Nearly exhausted
 - 48 1981 John Waters movie
 - 51 "Eureka!"
 - 52 The Hyde
 - 53 Scarlett's place
 - 54 Cribbage scorer
 - 55 Appointment
 - 56 Leprechaun territory
 - 1 Knocks
 - 2 Reed instrument
 - 3 — podrida
 - 4 Guys
 - 5 Punch-card piece
 - 6 Bidday
 - 7 Mr. Ziering
 - 8 Shopping center
 - 9 Political actions
 - 10 Basin accessory
 - 11 Mr. Sampras
 - 16 Still
 - 20 Clumsy craft
 - 22 Hive bigwig
 - 23 Desire
 - 24 Frenzied
 - 25 Birthday statistic
 - 26 Tadpole
 - 27 Old Atlanta arena
 - 29 Moo goo gai pan pan
 - 30 Check-cashing items
 - 35 Restroom, for short
 - 37 Fideles precursor
 - 39 Categorized
 - 40 Exist
 - 41 Fall heavily
 - 42 Architect Mies van der —
 - 43 TV Marine
 - 44 Constellation component
 - 45 Actress Hatcher
 - 46 Stopover en route to Casablanca
 - 49 Eggs, zoologically
 - 50 Torched

Solution time: 25 mins.

WANG AIS ABBA
EMIL TIO BIAL
PTINCHILE AICIA
TIRIAVIEL NAISCAR
ERIC OISHA
PITCHYD PIERON
OIRIS EIOS DAIVE
QUITTY ETC TAW
STOITTE B
GIBOLLA RIELLOID
ANAIAG INIRUMIMY
EDIE OWL ERATE
NIYETS SOY RITIS

Yesterday's answer 2-15

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

H DQJBDV SZV ABPIHEVPS
AWKJVPVK ABPDHEVKVE
ZHYDVG I W SKQV
DZVGI-YWEV YWP

Yesterday's Cryptquip: AS A YOUNG KID IN THE CITY, I LIKED TO HANG AROUND UNDER CLOTHESLINES.

Today's Cryptquip Clue: P equals N

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error. © 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MIX MASTERS

WHO: Mandy Springer, Porter's Bar

Mandy is a senior in elementary education.

SPRINGER

DRINK: Hey, Scottholder, That's My Bike!

2 oz. Silver Spiced Rum
1 oz. Absolut Vodka
1 oz. Midori

Splash of: Pineapple juice
Sours
7-Up

Orange juice
Cranberry juice
Grenadine

Top off with a slice of lemon, a slice of lime and a cherry.

ONLINE:

Learn to make this drink from the master. Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for exclusive video footage.

Ambiance

Coffee shop walls offer artists display space

By JJ DUNCAN
Kansas State Collegian

As customers sip hot coffee within the ambiance of Espresso Royale Caffe, it often doesn't take them long to notice the art that occupies the shop's lighted wall space.

Josh Olsen, Espresso employee and senior in architecture, said sometimes it is interesting just to watch the way people start to notice the works.

"People are drinking coffee and just sitting there, and sometimes they won't be thinking about it, but they are taking in a certain painting," Olsen said. "I've seen people just stare at some of the art while thinking about other things and eventually they just have to get up and get close to it to really see it."

The art that appears is directed by Teresa Schmidt, associate professor of art. Jamie Leonard, manager of Espresso, said the art Schmidt hangs makes the coffee shop more interesting, even for long-time employees.

"One day we'll walk in and the old show is down, and the next day the new one is up," she said. "The cool thing is that they are students who might not otherwise get the chance to show their work, so we get all kinds of stuff."

Schmidt said the fact that the art shown can differ vastly from show to show keeps the wall space interesting.

"In one show, we'll have a very conservative style with water paintings of landscapes, and the next show we may have a very abstract artist using a totally different medium," she said.

Giving the opportunity to students to show their work in a public place gives them good exposure and experience, Schmidt said. It is positive because it also teaches them how to professionally mat, frame and hang a show, she said.

Not many people realize that Schmidt has been directing the shows at Espresso for 14 years. With the cooperation of the managers who have worked at Espresso, Schmidt said Espresso has become an excellent place to display the work.

"In 1987, I walked into the shop and just thought it was beautifully designed," she said. "It had spotlights on the walls, but the walls were empty, so I thought it would be a nice place for students to hang work."

The exposure already has helped the currently displayed artists Mike O'Leary, senior in print making, and Trevor Roediger, junior in art. O'Leary said they have received several offers on their works.

He said they spent a great deal of time preparing the show and the recognition they have received from it is appreciated.

"Lots of people who like art go through Espresso, so a wide variety of people are exposed to the work," O'Leary said. "We didn't intend to sell anything but the exposure has brought in some offers."

PHOTOS BY KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

"Goddess of Dreams" by Trevor Roediger is one of many pieces of art being displayed at Espresso Royale Caffe. BELOW: Trevor Roediger's monoprint "Night With Desert" hangs on display at Espresso Royale Caffe.

Though showing at Espresso isn't necessarily prestigious, it is a big step for students to learn the aspects of hanging a show, O'Leary said.

Some of the work O'Leary included in the show are photographs of people hanging out on the weekend. The photos are from a series he shot at the Hardee's parking lot in Aggieville, he said.

"On a Saturday night, I just started taking photos of kids hanging out in the Hardee's parking lot," he said. "It seemed like such an obvious opportunity to document a cultural phenomenon that occurs in Manhattan."

The art contributes to the atmosphere of the coffee shop not only because it decorates the walls, but also because it has the effect of stimulating conversation, Olsen said.

After working so closely on the art shows for so many years, Schmidt said she feels a personal attachment to the venue and keeps an eye out for student talent to feature there. Schmidt said she is proud of the students who show there and just wants people to take notice of their talents.

"When people go in and see the work, I would like them to be critical and notice when the work is provocative," she said. "They should be aware that an individual's hand-work went into that piece. It took human inspiration to create each piece."

WEB SITES TO WATCH

Digital Club Network

URL: www.dcn.com

★★★★★

Digital Club Network offers live and prerecorded performances from up-and-coming bands throughout the country. The coolest part is that every show is broadcast live from small clubs. Even the Granada in Lawrence has a couple of shows on the site.

If you are short on stuff to do on a Saturday, Digital Club Network is the site to check out since Saturdays are when the performances are broadcast.

The shows require a pretty fast connection and uses Real Player software, so on a 56k modem things can get difficult, but other than that, the site is an excellent library of concerts.

Chowbaby.com

URL: www.chowbaby.com

★★★★★

Chowbaby.com is a Web site that offers listings of restaurants in any zip code in the United States. Addresses, menus, descriptions and even reviews of the food are offered to help people decide where to eat.

One of the most interesting features of the site is the interactivity that allows people to leave personal ratings and reviews of any restaurant they choose.

The site is extremely useful if you are looking for an interesting place to eat when visiting a town you don't know. The user-friendly interaction makes it easy to find the right place to eat.

THE GONGFARMER

Monkey Boy

BY RANDY REGIER

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@NOTMAIL.COM

Candidates focus on budget issues

By SCOTT ALDIS-WILSON
Kansas State Collegian

On Feb. 27, Manhattan voters will narrow the field of seven candidates for the Manhattan City Commission down to six. For now, candidates are talking about their platforms, hopefully in preparation for the final April 3 election for three open seats on the commission.

Two of this year's commissioner candidates are running as native sons. Though both have lived away from Manhattan, both graduated from Manhattan High School and K-State. They now are raising their families in the town each one calls home.

Mark Taussig

Occupation: University landscape architect.

Reasons for running: He decided to run for the commission in light of increased city spending and property taxes, he said.

"What folks are telling me is we've got to get back to some common sense decisions," he said.

"A commission that listens."

Four platform issues:

1. Keeping to the basics of spending — Taussig said the city has been investing in too many things at a time with public dollars.

"When I manage my family budget, I've got to draw the line," he said. "We've got to say, 'Does this make sense?'"

2. Street maintenance — One of the things Taussig said the city is spending enough on is the street system.

"I think the city has a good plan to take care of streets," he said. "That's something we just shouldn't cut."

3. Safety — Taussig said he is willing to spend funds on the police force.

"You want to live in a safe community," he said. "It's going to be important to me that we're tough on crime."

Taussig, in a recent meeting with the director of the Riley County Police Department, said he had been told drugs figured prominently into local crime. Not only would he like to see harsher penalties on drug dealers, but Taussig said he would be interested in alternate transportation for drunk drivers instead of catching and arresting the ones headed home.

4. Recreation — Taussig said one of his challenges with the K-State club sports has been finding spots to play.

"(Frank) Anneberg Park is nice, but we could almost use another," he said. "That's something that keeps our kids occupied."

"I think these things bring a lot of visitors into town," he said. "It's an economic issue, too."

Brad Everett

Occupation: General manager of the Fairfield Inn by Marriott.

Reasons for running:

Everett said he decided to run for commission to give back to his hometown and to slow city spending to keep up with inflation.

"I think I'd be a better steward of the resources," he said. "You have to live within the limitations of the boundaries that you're provided by your revenues."

Four platform issues:

1. Fiscal restraint — In his business, Everett said he looks at the annual expenses, then monthly, then daily, then hourly. By streamlining, he said, public dollars could be saved.

"My approach to city government is, you can't micro manage, but you can provide a theme," he said.

2. Transit — Everett said he has apprehensions about the proposed transit plan, such as whether students reject it in later years of the ridership forecast.

"I think it's opening up a significant black hole, if you will," he said.

With the possibility that Bramlage Coliseum will have half of the funds it collects for a shuttle system for its own purposes, he said the student body and student government might not have all the information they need. As far as transportation, Everett said he would be more comfortable strengthening the local taxi service and the Riley County ATA bus.

"These services might make better sense to enhance," he said.

3. Making Manhattan affordable — He said he would like to look at economic development as a tool to explore. Bringing in small and large businesses could keep the local sales tax down, while bringing services that citizens leave Manhattan to find.

"We just need to give ourselves more opportunities in the city of Manhattan," Everett said.

4. Giving back to the community — "This is truly my hometown," he said.

Republicans investigate harassment allegations

By JENNIFER LOVEN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Republican National Committee is investigating allegations that the head of the party's national college campus operation sexually harassed female colleagues and misused party funds.

Three women — Kathleen Kirt, Jennifer Gorski and Youmna Salameh — alleged the misconduct in affidavits obtained by The Associated Press.

The women maintained that Scott Stewart, chairman of the College Republican National Committee, made unwanted advances and regularly spoke in sexually graphic terms to and about female employees.

They also claimed Stewart allegedly authorized the use of several thousand dollars in GOP funds to pay for his own and others' personal expenses, such as cellular telephone bills, plane tickets and campaign mailings.

Gorski was an office manager who was fired by Stewart last year. Kirt was an intern in 1999. Salameh worked at another RNC-affiliated organization next door to the College Republicans. Stewart, who is seeking another two-year term to the $40,000-a-year post, did not return four telephone calls requesting comment.

The Republican National Committee, which provides the college Republicans with office space and much of its budget, was given the affidavits in January, said Jason Zanetti, the campus group's Northeastern caucus chairman, who spoke on the women's behalf.

The affidavits were taken in mid-November to try to remove Stewart at a meeting of College Republicans that month in New Orleans, Zanetti said. But there were not enough votes to oust Stewart, so the women took their charges to the RNC.

RNC spokesman Mark Miner said when party officials were given the affidavits, "we jumped on it immediately."

"Our legal department is looking at the situation and there should be a conclusion in the coming days," he said.

Zanetti said the women are confident the RNC will take appropriate action and do not plan a lawsuit.

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
776-5577
1800 Claflin Road

Trip-On:

Amsterdam Barcelona
Berlin Brussels
Dublin London Madrid
Paris Rome

UNBEATABLE PRICES!

PACKAGES INCLUDE:

- Student roundtrip airfare
- Accommodations
- Airport transfers and Travel Card*
- Camera, document organizer, discounts, guidebooks, maps and more

*Select cities only

Council Travel
America's Leader in Student Travel
1-800-2Council
counciltravel.com

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.

DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.

Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)

DMS Bail Bonds

"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

"Beginning with you" for 15 YEARS

LORI, LORI, TRACY, SANDY, ANGELA, & LINDA
INVITE YOU TO

COME CELEBRATE AND SAVE

SAVINGS ON RETAIL CELEBRATING 15 YEARS
TUES, WED, THURS, & FRI.
Feb. 20, 21, 22, & 23

NEW BEGINNINGS

HAIRSTYLING & TANNING

1130 WESTPORT DR. #6

537.1003

TANNING SESSIONS
$10.00-$25.00

Drawings for Prizes

WEEKEND DRINK

SPECIALS

BOBBY T'S

OPEN MIC NIGHT

Starting at 9 p.m.

w/ Jeremy Hollembeak of

Sharky's Little Groove Box
$1.00 Draws & Wells

$2.99 Burgers (4:30 - 8 p.m.)

The Tavern

Thursday Specials ALL DOMESTIC BEERS

$4.00 Pitchers 75¢ Draws
$2.25 BIG BEERS

6625 Dyer Rd.
587-9224

NEIGHBORHOOD Tavern

-SUNDAY-
$1 domestic bottles
-WEDNESDAY-
75¢ draws $1.50 Big Beer
$3.00 pitchers
-THURSDAY-
$1.75 wells $2 calls
$2.00 Premiums
(785) 776-6699
2413 Stag Hill Road
Manhattan, KS 66502

Ramblers STEAK HOUSE & SALOON

Thursday Night Specials

12 oz. Top Sirloin

w/ baked potato, salad and dinner roll
all for $6.99

or
"The Couples Special"
2 complete dinners for only $12.99

8711 E. Hwy. 24

539-4989

WATCH SURVIVOR HERE TONIGHT

Buy 1 STEAK

get 1 FREE

$1.75 SMIRNOFF ICE

LIVE DJ

18 to Enter

RC McGraws Karaoke Nite

Thursday Specials!

$6.49

Large Homemade Pizzas with Unlimited Toppings

$1.99

Island Oasis Margarita & Hurricanes

2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, KS
776-9588

LADIES & 80's NITE

Yesterday's Favorites with a blend of today's Hot Hits.

10¢ Wings
Crawfish
5-9

$1.50

Bud & Bud Light
Bottles

$1.50

Wells

Including: Live D.J. Blake Chaffin

LIVE TONIGHT
Cryout

Tuesday

CD release bash, 10 p.m.
Sharky's Little Groove Box
w/ Flybox LIVE

FREE CDs for first 150 people

Tight Fittin' Jeans 2001

Girls & Guys Contest

Best bods in town

$1.75

Coors &

Coors LIGHT BOTTLES

$3.00

Jack Daniels

CASH & PRIZES!

JOIN IN ON THE FUN!

Longhorns

sponsored by

Coors Light • Sun Essentials • U.S. TOBACCO CO.

1115 Moro • Aggieville

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 2001

9

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE AUGUST Spacious one and two-bedroom, 1100 block of Bluemont, trash paid, off-street parking, no pets. 776-0683.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW. TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $530. Call 785-456-2812.

LANDLORDS WITH compassion. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets. 776-2102.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. FIRE-PLACE. All appliances including WASHER/ DRYER. Small quiet complex. No pets, no smokers. $475 August 1. 776-6318.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

"LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION." Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now (785)537-7050.

ONE, TWO, AND THREE-BEDROOMS. One block to campus. All bills paid. Off-street parking. No pets. Available June and August. 313-4812.

TWO-BEDROOM AVAILABLE March 1. Park Place Apartments $445 includes expanded basic cable/ water/ trash. Call 565-0636 or e m a i l s b a k e r @ w h e a t . k s u . e d u

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

WELL MAINTAINED, one-eight-bedroom houses, and apartments, also studio apartments, central air, washer/ dryer NEAR K-STATE June or August lease. (785)539-0549.

115 Rooms Available

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Starts August, one/ two-bedroom, central air heating, balcony, fully equipped kitchen, quiet, off-street parking, water and trash paid, low utility bills. 539-2702.

ROOMS FOR RENT in nice two story house one block from campus. One-seventh utilities. Call Cynthia. 537-7381.

120 For Rent-Houses

ATTRACTIVE. CLOSE to campus with new appliances, includes washer/ dryer. Three, five, six-bedroom houses. No pets. Available June 1. 313-4812.

120 For Rent-Houses

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE. Den, attached garage with opener, pool, tennis, basketball, clubhouse. No pets, no smokers. $600 August 1. 776-6318.

145 Roommate Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bath-house. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0738.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED. non-smoker please. Great two-bedroom apartment, $245/ month plus one-half utilities, two blocks to campus and Aggieville. Call Megan. (785)537-7228.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for great furnished two-bedroom, two bath. Sublease. $325/ month. Enjoy your FIRST MONTH rent FREE! 537-8226.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

300 employment opportunities

310 Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

$5 GET paid for your opinions! Earn $15-$125 and more per survey! moneytopinions.com

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. For info, call (203)977-1720.

ARTISTS/ ART Students, Author in search of artwork for travel book. "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadultankofgas1@hotmail.com.

ADMISSIONS REPRESENTATIVE. Kansas State University is recruiting of the position of Admissions Representative. The person will be responsible for the development and implementation of an effective student recruitment program within a specific geographic region, serving as the primary recruitment representative; developing and maintaining service relationships with high schools and community colleges; attending major community events; and coordinating efforts for the region with K-State faculty and staff. Qualifications for the position include: a recent K-State bachelor's degree; familiarity and excitement for K-State; demonstrated student involvement/ leadership skills in student groups and organized living; strong communication skills (oral/ written); strong social skills for a variety of situations; ability to work independently; overall high energy level and enthusiasm; willingness to travel extensively; and a valid driver's license. Position will start Thursday, July 5, 2001, and pay $26,000 for 12 months. Candidates should send a letter of application, resume, transcript(s), and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three references to: Search Committee, New Student Services, Kansas State University, 122 Anderson Hall, Manhattan, KS 66506. Deadline for applications is Monday, February 26, 2001. Kansas State University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer. KSU encourages diversity among its employees.

SICK CHILDREN need your help now! Donate your life-saving blood plasma and receive $25 TODAY (for approximately 2 hours). Call or stop by NABI Bio-medical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan (785)776-9177. Fees and donation time may vary. www.nabi.com

SUMMER CAMP JOBS in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania CAMP TOWANDA has 100 openings for caring, enthusiastic staff Counselors, WSI, Arts, Athletic Specialists and more!! GREAT SALARY and travel allowance in addition to the "finest summer you will ever have." On campus interviews, Friday, February 16th 100 Holtz Hall. Sign up for interviews on line at www.ksu.edu/ces Applications available at our website www.camptowanda.com Additional information at (800)923-2267.

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!! Come to Mainel Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplaurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplaurel.com.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisecareers.com

310 Help Wanted

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine, TRIPP LAKE CAMP for Girls, Poland, Maine. Noted for picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June thru mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, baseball, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, golf, flag football, roller hockey, field hockey, swimming, sailing, water skiing, gymnastics, dance, horseback riding, archery, weight training, newspaper, photography, video, woodworking, ceramics/ pottery, crafts, fine arts, silver jewelry, copper enamel, nature study, radio/ electronics, theater, costume, piano, accompanist, music instrumentalist, backpacking, rock climbing, canoeing/ kayaking, ropes course, secretarial, nanny. Call Takajo at 800-250-8252 or Tripp Lake at 800-997-4347. Submit application on-line at www.triplakecamp.com

we kick ads. Kansas Mail Volume 632-6660

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+ Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2820.

FARM WITH crops and livestock looking for part-time help. Experience with shop work, crop machinery and planters helpful. (785)457-3440.

FULL-TIME DELIVERY/ warehouse person at Faith Furniture. Please apply in person at 302 E Highway 24.

MAIL CLERK (part-time) We are seeking a dependable individual to operate various mailing equipment and/or perform courier services. Will train but must be hard-working and willing to learn. A valid driver's license and safe driving record required. Hours required are 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday with flexibility to work up to a total of 34 hours per week for occasional projects. Please respond to the address below and include Job Number 57 in your response. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Kansas Farm Bureau & Affiliated Services. Attention: Human Resources 2627 KFB Plaza, Manhattan, Kansas 66503. We are an Equal Opportunity Employer and Encourage Diversity.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, sailing, golf, water-skiing, skiing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

HEART FOR CHRIST? National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

DO YOU make $100K/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2828. Member NYSE

400 open market

BOOK. The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

415 Items for Sale

$20. COUCH with sleeper included. Good condition! Come and get as soon as possible! 395-5850.

435 Computers

LAPTOPS. PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clafin Rd. #160. www.kslaptops.com

450 Pets and Supplies

TO GIVE away, two cats, one male/ one female. For more information call 323-0140.

310 Help Wanted

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

320 Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

DO YOU make $100K/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2828. Member NYSE

400 open market

BOOK. The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

415 Items for Sale

$20. COUCH with sleeper included. Good condition! Come and get as soon as possible! 395-5850.

435 Computers

LAPTOPS. PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clafin Rd. #160. www.kslaptops.com

450 Pets and Supplies

TO GIVE away, two cats, one male/ one female. For more information call 323-0140.

310 Help Wanted

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

320 Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

DO YOU make $100K/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2828. Member NYSE

400 open market

BOOK. The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

415 Items for Sale

$20. COUCH with sleeper included. Good condition! Come and get as soon as possible! 395-5850.

435 Computers

LAPTOPS. PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clafin Rd. #160. www.kslaptops.com

450 Pets and Supplies

TO GIVE away, two cats, one male/ one female. For more information call 323-0140.

310 Help Wanted

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

320 Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

DO YOU make $100K/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2828. Member NYSE

400 open market

BOOK. The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

415 Items for Sale

$20. COUCH with sleeper included. Good condition! Come and get as soon as possible! 395-5850.

435 Computers

LAPTOPS. PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clafin Rd. #160. www.kslaptops.com

450 Pets and Supplies

TO GIVE away, two cats, one male/ one female. For more information call 323-0140.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five air-planes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)458-2795. www.ksu.edu/kscf

SCUBA LEARN to scuba dive at the areas only, PADI approved dive centers. Join the fun, get certified for spring break and summer. Call Creative Travel and Scuba at 539-0531.

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND. CAMERA at Cico Park on Friday, February 9 at 3:30p.m. Call 537-3035.

FOUND. GLOVES in Kedzie Hall bathroom. Describe and claim in Kedzie 103 or call 532-6555.

LOST SATURDAY set of car keys on blue leather key chain with letters Sydney Operhouse. Three keys. Reward offered. 776-8930 ask for Taryn.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

LARGE WELL furnished two-bedroom duplex. Adjacent campus, off-street parking, no smoking or pets. August possession. Stockwell Real Estate. 539-4073.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT furnished or unfurnished. Summer lease only. $600 month including all utilities, washer/ dryer. Call 341-5401.

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

ADVERTISE YOUR SUBLEASE IN THE LET'S RENT SECTION. 103 Kedzie • 532-6555

WOODWAY ANNOUNCES

Welcome Home

- Sparkling swimming pool
- Spacious decks/ patios
- Avail. June 5 and Aug. 1
- Kitchens includes microwave and dishwasher
- On-site laundry facilities
- Economical gas heat

1 BEDRM $450 $460 $470
2 BEDRM $570 $580 $590
3 BEDRM $735 $750 $765
4 BEDRM $880 $900 $920

Office: 2400 Kimball Ave. at College Ave. (across from Farmington)

Call Sara at 537-7007 for an appointment.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

CAMPUS EAST apartments. March availability, one-bedroom apartment. Quiet, close to campus. 539-5911.

HAVE IT ALL Large One & Two Bedroom Apartments

Large Closets
Fitness Center
On-Site Laundry
Park-Like Setting
Responsive Maintenance

WESTCHESTER PARK 776-1118

LIVE LARGE • Spacious 1 & 2 Bedrooms • Enormous Closets • Washers/Dryers • Vaulted Ceilings

GEORGETOWN 776-8080

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

FURNISHED or unfurnished for August. Next to KSU, deluxe two-bedroom apartment. 350 N. 16th, 1230 Clafin, $510. Also for June and August, Large one-bedroom apartment, $330. Large two-bedroom apartment, $450. Heat, water, trash three/ four paid laundry mat. 539-2482.

Leasing Now For August

• Cambridge Square
• Sandstone Apts.
• 1114 Fremont
• 2000 College Hgts.
• 519 Osage

- Fireplaces • Carpets
- Pool • Private Deck
- Laundry Facilities
- Large 2-bedroom Units

CALL NOW 537-9064

Weekdays 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.
Saturdays 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March. 1854/ 1858 Clafin. $385- $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM JUNE or August lease close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air and heat. 537-7810

Park Place Apartments

Showings Mon-Fri 1-2-3 Bedrooms 539-2951

THREE OR four bedrooms. August lease close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air and heat. 537-7810

120 For Rent-Houses

AVAILABLE JUNE Close to campus,

ECSTASY

■ continued from page 1

or treat people for the drug. Bill Arck, K-State director of Alcohol and Other Harmful Drugs Education Services, said he has not seen it as much of a problem compared to other drugs.

"I really don't think that MDMA is much of a problem," Arck said. "The biggest problem we have is alcohol, the second highest is marijuana."

In fact, K-State Police Capt. Robert Mellgren said the department has never seen any instance of the drug.

"We have not so far, ever, at least that we are aware of," he said. "Here, we see more of the marijuana or old-hat drugs."

"I am not born yesterday. I am sure it is used out there, but it hasn't been reported."

Likewise, it is not a drug local bar managers want to see usage increase.

"I haven't seen it, don't want to see it," said Terry Wark, general manager of Porter's, Joe's Tap Room, Rowdy Trouty's and O'Malley's Alley.

A friend introduced Raul to the drug.

"A friend said, 'Try some of this.' Sure enough, I was curious," Raul said.

"It was the best high I've had to this day."

Raul never has been caught by legal authorities. While Raul never suffered the legal ramifications of the drug, it was a bad trip more than a month ago that caused him to stop.

"I was dehydrated heavily, and my body temperature was real high. I had this extreme tingling in my head. It's hard to explain, but it is a totally bad trip," Raul said. "It's something you don't easily forget. So I cut back."

DEA documents describe the drug as having serious side effects. Short-term effects caused by the drug can range from exhaustion to severe nausea, hallucinations, chills, sweating and increases in body temperature. Shirley Armstead, public information officer for the DEA, said it also has caused cases of overheating.

"It is illegal and has devastating effects," she said. "It can increase the body temperature. We have had body temperatures recorded as high as 109 degrees."

French said one of ecstasy's dangers is that there is not any set style of the drug, and pills do not have any specific dosage.

"A person can take three pills at one party in a city and then take three pills at a different party and see completely different effects," French said.

Finding a reliable source, Raul said, never was a problem — he got it from a friend or a friend of a friend.

"Always people that I trust. I haven't found a reliable source in Manhattan. It's real easy to get in Kansas City or Lawrence. It's probably easier to get X now than it was to get weed when it was at its peak in the mid 90s."

With the expanding use of ecstasy, people also are experiencing the long-term effects of the drug. In 1998, a research report from Johns Hopkins reported that random MDMA users had immediate deficiencies in verbal memory, coupled with delayed visual memory deficits, lower vocabulary scores, and deficits in sustained attention tasks requiring mathematics and/or word skills.

In the long run, it damages serotonic neurons responsible for controlling mood.

The bad trip caused Raul to stop. Nevertheless, Raul said he expects to use again.

"Like any drug, you grow out of it," he said. "I will probably do it again, just less often."

Raul said many people are using because of the way it makes them feel.

"For the same reason that people drink alcohol — to get away," he said.

"Putting too much of any substance is dangerous to the body. But for that moment, the feeling of euphoria outweighs the risks."

CAPITOL VISIT

■ continued from page 1

"We talked a lot about the technology fee issue, and they seemed receptive to finding money to pay for it," Wolters said.

State representative Barbara Ballard, D-Lawrence, said there still is time to work in the technology match fee.

The budget will have to go through a variety of committees and subcommittees.

"I think the best we can say, is we are still working on the budget," Ballard said.

She said students lobbying legislators brought the importance of the issue to life and liked the way students showed solidarity.

"We hear a lot about apathy in young people, but if students are willing to come down and advocate for education, then that is not apathy," Ballard said. "Technology is important in staying current."

However, she said the tricky part is finding the money.

"When you put the money towards a technology match fee," she said, "you have to take the money from someplace else, and you have to have an answer for where you get it. If the answer is the state general fund, there is not the money there."

K-State Student Body President Jake Worcester said the fee match was an issue that legislators appeared to be concerned about, and said the problem was with lagging state revenue.

"There is not an over abundance of money available in balancing the budget," Worcester said.

He said there was some talk of ways to gain revenue, including tax increases on selected items.

Wolters said legislators asked if Kansas would support a tax increase.

"That is something we didn't have an answer to," he said.

He said the support was encouraging, but it is hard to see what actions will be taken from the lobbying, which Worcester said is a continuing process.

In meeting with the different senators and representatives, Wolters said he got the type of response he expected with some people in favor and others not of the bill.

The problem is the lagging revenues involved in the state.

Representative Jeff Peterson, R-Manhattan, said the students at the capital was appropriate in showing the need for the technology match fee.

"I had a good meeting. Their objectives are the same as mine," he said.

"The technology student fee match is an issue this year and the students voices are voices that need to be heard."

DELIVERY

■ continued from page 1

on this day. I was able to talk to her for about an hour and a half on the phone, but it is just not the same."

Heptig said Valentine's Day usually is just another day for him. Working on Valentine's Day was not a big deal and was just another thing in his schedule to do.

"It is not a hard job," Heptig said. "When I do delivery, I listen to my German tapes. I am trying to learn German since my girlfriend is from there, so being in the car makes it pretty convenient."

Heptig said the only real downfall to his job is that he never gets any tips.

"People that are receiving flowers are usually not the ones paying for them," Heptig said. "The people that buy them do not think to tip the delivery person."

For Heptig, being a delivery person is the type of job that matches his personality. He stays cool and calm, delivers flowers and generally makes people happy.

"I am a laid-back kind of guy," Heptig said. "This is fun because it is a laid-back job, and you get to see people smile a lot."

EVOLUTION

■ continued from page 1

and what they will be tested over.

John Staver, professor of science education, said the standard emphasizes the nature of science as it is practiced by the scientific community. Staver was a co-chairman on the 27-member writing team that developed the new science standards.

"These standards are a clear reflection of what constitutes good science for students from elementary to high school to be taught," Staver said. "These theories are based on what the mainstream science community is doing."

Elaine Gruenbacher, senior in secondary education, said the decision to put evolutionary theory back into the Kansas science curriculum is important to ensure quality education of children.

"Evolution is the base of a lot of scientific theories," Gruenbacher said. "If we don't teach children these basic theories, we are basically leaving them empty-handed when they get to more complex ideas."

The theory of evolution, which was developed by Charles Darwin and other scientists, states the Earth is billions of years old, and all life evolved from a simpler form.

Gruenbacher said the theory is important for all people to understand even if it might conflict with what their religions have taught them.

"Teaching a theory doesn't have to conflict with religious beliefs," she said. "It's a scientific theory that everyone should be aware of."

Pettis said she agreed the teaching of evolution in Kansas' schools is important to the quality of education, regardless of personal beliefs.

"Education isn't just one person's opinion. In order to appreciate education, you have to gain all the knowledge you can and make your own assessment of it," Pettis said.

KSU Department of Theatre Presents

How I Learned to Drive

a Pulitzer Prize winner

by Paula Vogel

SPECIAL TALKBACK SESSIONS
IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING
PERFORMANCES ON THE 8, 14 & 15

The clearer this picture gets

The better you will know this family

The more your heart will break for them

February 8-10, 14-17
Nichols Theater 8 p.m.
$6 for students/seniors
$9 general public
McCain Box Office 532-6428

CONTAINS MATURE SUBJECT MATTER

CONTINUUM NUTRITION

• Increase Energy • Decrease Appetite • Increase Metabolism • Decrease Body Fat

GNC LiveWell

WESTLOOP
537-8191

Locally Owned & Operated

GNC LiveWell

Save $5
on Sennatrim & Sildenafil

Westloop, 537-8191 Locally owned and operated

Check out great rates at the Ramada

A KISS FROM OUR KITCHEN

VALENTINE'S DAY

2 FOR $25.00

offer good until Feb. 28th

Share an appetizer, choice of two entrees and our delicious Cinnamon Dippers® for dessert

Appetizers: choose one

- Spinach & Artichoke Dip
- Chicken & Spinach Egg Rolls
- Chicken Tenderloins

Entrees: choose two

- 8 oz. Center Cut Sirloin
- Barbeque Chicken
- Blackened Chicken Penne Florentine
- Beef or Chicken Fajitas

Gold Fork
CULIN. FINE & FUN

MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM	2 BEDROOM	3 BEDROOM
1941 College Heights #8 Tues. 5 - 8 p.m. Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m. Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m. • Starting at $350	926 Bluemont #12 Mon., Wed. & Fri. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $530	822 Fremont #7 Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m. Tues. 4 - 7 p.m. Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. Sun. 1 - 4 p.m. • Starting at $720
1119 Laramie #4 Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m. Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m. Sat. 3 - 5 p.m. • Starting at $430	1005 Bluemont #10 Mon., Wed., & Fri. 5:30 - 7:30 p.m. Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $500	4 BEDROOM
413 N. 17th #5 Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30 Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m. • Starting at $380	1026 Osage #3 Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m. Sat. 1 - 3 p.m. • Starting at $540	1620 McCain #9 Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m. Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m. • Starting at $940
1005 Bluemont #12 Mon. 2 - 6 p.m. Tues. 11 - 1 p.m. Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m. • Starting at $395	1113 Bertrand #4 Mon. 1 - 4 p.m. Wed. 6 - 9 p.m. • Starting at $560	2538 Candlecrest Circle Brittany Ridge Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m. Fri. 3 - 5 p.m. Sun. 2 - 5 p.m. • Starting at $950
700 Fremont By appointment only • Starting at $390	1417 Leavenworth #4 Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m. Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $570	1700 N. Manhattan Royal Towers On-Site Office Tues. 6 - 8 p.m. Wed. 5 - 7 p.m. Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m. • Starting at $840
925 Denison #5 Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m. Sat. 12 - 2 p.m. • Starting at $410	1524 McCain #11 Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m. • Starting at $550
1858 Claflin #15 Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m. • Starting at $385	700 Fremont by appointment only • Starting at $500
1700 N. Manhattan Royal Towers on site office Tues. 6 - 8 p.m. Wed. 5 - 7 p.m. Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m. • Starting at $410	1115 N. 12th by appointment only • Starting at $575
1722 N. Laramie #9 Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m. • Starting at $405
Wareham 418 Poyntz by appointment only • Prices vary
1852 - 1856 Anderson by appointment only • Starting at $410

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough Development
2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

Equal Housing Lender

TODAY'S
WEATHER

HIGH 39 ■ LOW 12

FRIDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 16, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 100

Short stories read at museum

■ page 5

Senate approves resolution on bond surplus

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Student Senate approved a resolution Thursday to recommend ways to use excess funds in the bond surplus account.

Three recommendations were supported, including a proposed $220,000 to bring Forum Hall into better compliance with the Americans Disabilities Act, $480,000 for the completion of phase two of the Hale Library InfoCommons and $1 million for the installation of an all-weather playing surface at Memorial Stadium.

"We are recommending this for several reasons," Privilege Fee Chair Ryan Walker said. "It will allow us to improve technology in the library and increase student life with better access to Forum Hall and better facilities on Memorial Stadium."

The money will come from excess money that has been paid on bonds. The state of Kansas requires that extra is paid on each bond in case the school experiences a decrease in students or credit hours.

"This way, we had the extra money there because we are in a legal contract to pay a certain amount each year," Walker said. "We felt that the extra money we have acquired since there has been no decrease should be used to benefit the student body."

Completion of the second phase of the InfoCommons proposal incorporates 100 new workstations, including 20 laptops for student checkout, five new print stations, the replacement of three aging laser printers, wireless infrastructure for laptops, wireless cards for laptops, servers to support increased number of machines and a student development computing center.

"The student development computing center will support some projects that require technology we can't provide elsewhere on the university," Senate Chair Travis Lenkner said. "This would be student accessible and would be on a scheduling basis."

The center would include CD ROM writers, DVD writers, multimedia equipment, a color printer and three scanners.

"By completing this phase, it is going to benefit students substantially," Matt Wolters, governmental relations chair, said. "With the cut of the technology fee matches, I think this is going to move us in the right direction."

Additional funds for the completion will come from private donations to the library, Walker said.

Construction of the Memorial Stadium artificial turf proposal includes reconstruction of the track to make it a 1/5 mile track and more egg-shaped, sports field lighting for night games and practices, and a 6-foot chain link fence with a gate around the north end of the track.

"This is a chance to take something historical and significant on campus and improve it," Wolters said. "The other option will be some sort of grass surface, and the restrictions on practice and play time will become tighter. It wouldn't be nearly as accessible to students as it is if we go with the artificial turf."

Student Body President Jake Worcester said he thinks the artificial turf will be beneficial to students.

"It will allow club sports and the band to schedule practices and games,"

See SENATE on PAGE 8

Apartment investigation continues

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Nearly three weeks after a floor buckled at Chase Manhattan Apartments, the cause still is under investigation, officials said Thursday.

"We have been working very hard on this situation," said Sheryl Krzanowsky, regional manager for First Management in Lawrence. "We have been working with structural engineers, design engineers and the city of Manhattan."

Krzanowsky said the company hopes to have more information within the next week that will permit the city to determine the cause.

"It is ultimately up to the city," she said. "For now, we are listening to some recommendations from the city to limit the gatherings in the apartments."

Chase Manhattan posted a notice on residence doors saying they will be enforcing a new restriction on parties effective immediately. In the new restriction, no more than 10 people will be allowed in an apartment at one time.

"We are doing this for the safety of our residents," Krzanowsky said. "Having a lot of people over, centered in one part of the apartment, will add stress to the structure. We just want to prevent that."

However, this has many residents upset with the management.

Dusty Lohmann, who lived in the apartment that buckled, said he is not planning to abide by the new restriction.

"It was not in our original contract," Lohmann, sophomore in environmental design, said. "I don't think they can enforce a new rule all of a sudden. We will continue to have our parties and to have our friends over."

Kim Kraetzer, who lived in the apartment below, also is upset with the notice.

"Three of us that live in the apartment are all the same major," Kraetzer, sophomore in architecture engineering, said. "We have a study group that meets here in the apartment that almost meets the 10 people limit. If a couple more people stopped by, we would be in violation. It doesn't have a capacity limit anywhere in the lease."

Kraetzer and Lohmann's apartments both were condemned, and the residents of both were moved into a different unit in Chase. Lohmann and two of his roommates have been relocated to a three-bedroom apartment, and his other roommate moved in with a friend.

"All they had open was a three-bedroom apartment, so we took that," Lohmann said. "We haven't heard any information from Chase about what is going on."

Now, the three bedroom apartment would cost the men $50 more per month in rent.

"They have offered to take $10 off per person, but we haven't paid rent yet, so we don't really know what

See CHASE on PAGE 8

PHOTOS BY STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Mac Darnall, sophomore in pre-health professional, fights hard during a wrist wrestling match Thursday night at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

WRIST WRESTLERS

Competition at Recreation Complex offers camaraderie, exercise

By COLLEEN FOOTE
Kansas State Collegian

The grunting, the straining, the pulling, the sweating, the thrill — all is part of wrist wrestling.

The Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex sponsored its annual wrist wrestling tournament Thursday night. More than 60 participants entered the competition.

Lauren Bova came to the tournament as the women's 136 pounds and above two-year defending champion. Wrapping her leg around the table while she is wrist wrestling is a special technique she uses.

"It's fun being out here, but kind of embarrassing because a lot of people are watching," Bova, senior in advertising, said. "I'm a little bit nervous about defending my championship."

She was beat by fellow Alpha Chi

Omega sorority sister, Kelly McHale.

"I'm way excited. I didn't think this would ever happen," McHale, sophomore in pre-nursing, said. "We're good friends, so it doesn't matter who won."

Mac Darnall, sophomore in pre-health professionals program, lost six pounds so he could compete in the lightweight division. This was the first time Darnall competed in the competition after hearing about it from his roommate.

"I felt like I was going to throw up because of all of the people watching," he said. "I'm glad I did it, and I'll do it again next year."

The contestants face each other across the table, grasping the base of each other's thumbs, with wrists perpendicular. Two referees oversee each match, making sure the contestants follow the rules.

Rules state the elbows must remain in the elbow containers, at least one foot must remain on the floor and the left forearm must remain in contact with the table throughout the match.

Aaron Stroot, sophomore in business, competes against Scott Wartman, freshman in education, Thursday night at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. Stroot won the match.

A winner is declared when one contestant forces the opponent's wrist or forearm to parallel or beyond, said Todd Bauer, intramural supervisor and referee during the event.

"People have a lot of fun with this because you don't have to train for it," Bauer said.

Jason Heffner, the defending flyweight champion, said he wrist

See WRESTLING on PAGE 8

MIKE SHEPHERD/Collegian

Tim Schartz, junior in mechanical engineering, plays the trombone Thursday night at Union Station, while Adrian Angold, junior in music, waits his turn to play the saxophone during the KSU Jazz Combo performance.

Jazz Combo's talents displayed in Union Station

By BECKY FISCHER
Kansas State Collegian

Music floated through the air, calling more people into the already packed audience.

Students, faculty and community members filled the chairs and stood in the back of Union Station on Thursday night to hear K-State's Jazz Combo and were treated to some of the most talented musicians in the jazz program.

"These are the guys I'd take with me to a gig," Wayne Goins, director of jazz ensembles, said. "They know their music and are great performers."

Paul Schimming, senior in clarinet performance, has been performing in jazz combos since their beginning three years ago. He said he enjoys playing music to a live audience.

"It's a much different feeling. It's more fun when there's an audience to play to," Schimming said.

Schimming played tenor and soprano saxophone Thursday. Students can play different instruments in different combos.

Bill Hurrelbrink, junior in mass communication, has also been participating in jazz combos since their rebirth. He plays a variety of instruments, including piano, guitar, bass guitar, and drums.

"I don't really have a favorite instrument," Hurrelbrink said. "They're all fun."

Hurrelbrink said performing in front of an audience can set the mood of a show.

"The more the audience gets into it, the more we get into it," he said. "It's a

e ONLINE
See video clips of the K-State jazz Combo at www.kstatecollegian.com.

nice relationship."

Renee Bayard, freshman in music, said she came to the show because jazz music is a favorite of hers.

"It's something I can connect with," Bayard said, who herself plays the alto sax. "I've been listening to CDs and was excited to get the chance to listen to some live music."

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the week
 E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jhb7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
 sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glasscock
 kg3544@ksu.edu
Kon Wells
 kgm7883@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
 bewil@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
 bsc939@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
 jhb7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Null
 nn5555@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
 nuf1480@ksu.edu
Michael Null
 mn5555@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
 jjd666@ksu.edu
Erin Schneeweis
 es8786@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
 sm6920@ksu.edu
Curtin H. Crable
 chc766@ksu.edu
Danny Ellsworth
 dse0091@ksu.edu
Alissa Duncan
 ad00849@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
 er1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
 532-6556
 Photo Editor
 532-0735
 Online Editor
 Managing Editor
 News Editor
 Online News Editor
 Campus Editor
 City & Government Editor
 Sports Editor
 Arts & Entertainment Editor
 Opinion Editor
 Presentation Editor
 Copy Chief
 Ad Manager
 Assistant Ad Manager
 Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
 Newsroom 532-6556
 Display advertising 532-6560
 Classified advertising 532-6555
 Delivery Problems 532-6555
 Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
 Kansas State Collegian
 Kansas State University
 Manhattan, KS 66506
 ON THE WEB
 www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
 (ISSN 251-0306), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-2167.
 © Kansas State Collegian, 2001

Question of the week

Q: What are some fun classes I can take for credit through UFM?

A: UFM is a community education and resource program. It is a nonprofit organization that serves Manhattan and K-State. UFM offers a variety of classes for credit and not for credit. Some of the credit classes they offer include Scuba Diving, Fly Fishing, Ballroom Dancing, Judo, Swimming and Archery. The complete catalog for classes can be found at www.ksu.edu/ufm/.

Democrats announce budget, tax-cut goals

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Democratic congressional leaders announced their own broad budget goals Thursday, saying they favor a tax cut less than half the size of President Bush's proposal and aimed more at lower- and middle-income people.

Though they provided no details — reflecting divisions among Democrats — House Minority Leader Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., and Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., also said they would set aside more of the projected federal surplus than Bush for debt reduction and spending for schools, new Medicare prescription drug benefits and other priorities.

"This debate is not the Democratic tax cut versus the Republican tax cut," Daschle told reporters. "This debate is about Republican priorities versus Democratic priorities."

According to the numbers the Democratic leaders used, their plan would result in a $750 billion, 10-year tax cut, though the government would lose an additional $150 billion in interest costs because there would be less debt reduction. Bush has proposed a $1.6 trillion tax reduction, which many analysts have said also would cost roughly $300 billion more in extra interest costs.

— The Associated Press

Civilian from Navy sub speaks about accident

HONOLULU — A civilian on the Navy submarine that struck a Japanese fishing vessel said Thursday that he pulled levers for the ascent drill, but had a crew member right beside him.

"I was to the left in the control room, and I was asked by the captain if I would like the opportunity to pull the levers that start the procedure that's called the blowdown," John Hall told NBC's "Today" show.

"I said, 'Sure, I'd love to do that,'" he said.

Hall said the nearest crew member was "right next to me, elbow to elbow. I mean, what's important to know here is you don't do anything on this vessel without someone either showing you how to do it, telling you how to do it or escorting you around."

On Wednesday, National Transportation Safety Board member John Hammerschmidt had confirmed a civilian visiting the sub — closely supervised — was allowed to pull the levers that sent the attack submarine Greenville streaking toward the ocean surface Friday where it sank the Japanese vessel, the Ehime Maru.

"The accident certainly is unusual. In terms of civilians being in those positions — I'm not sure that's unusual," Hammerschmidt said.

Nine people, four of them Japanese high school students, still were missing. The Coast Guard said it could call off the search for them as early as Thursday.

Another civilian, Todd Thoman, told the NBC show that a periscope was most definitely used to check the ocean surface before the drill Friday.

"We came up to periscope depth and another member of the crew took the periscope up and made two complete rotations at 360 degrees," Thoman said.

The captain of the submarine, Cmdr. Scott Waddle, made his own check through the periscope, Thoman said. "We saw no vessel, and at that point he said 'OK,' and he brought the periscope down and we proceeded with the maneuver," he said.

The Navy has refused to disclose the identities of the 16 civilians visiting onboard the Greenville. It has said they are civic and business officials.

— The Associated Press

Criminal investigation of Rich pardon confirmed

NEW YORK — A federal prosecutor has cranked up the heat on former President Clinton, launching a criminal investigation to determine if money played a role in the last-minute pardon of fugitive financier Marc Rich.

U.S. Attorney Mary Jo White, in a brief statement issued Thursday, confirmed her office and the FBI have opened an investigation to determine whether there have been any violations of federal law in the pardons of Rich and his partner, Pincus Green. It did not elaborate.

White's probe is expected to examine bank and telephone records and other documents for evidence of illegal conduct, according to a source with knowledge of the investigation.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

There was an error in Wednesday's Collegian. The rare books librarian for Hale Library is Roger Adams. The Collegian regrets the error.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

Filing forms for Student Governing Association elections are due at 4 p.m. today in the Office of Student Activities and Services. Forms can be obtained online at www.ksu.edu/elections.

Graduate Students of Visual Arts will have an art exhibition through Feb. 23 in the Willard Hall Gallery. The show is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and a reception will take place from 5 to 8 tonight.

KSU Aikido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.

Intramural free throw has been rescheduled for today and Saturday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. Participants will compete at the time they originally signed up. Call 532-6980.

Intramural volleyball tournament will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Rec Complex. Call 532-6980 for more information.

The K-State Linux Users Group is having a general discussion at noon Saturday at Hunam's Mongolian BBQ. Everyone is invited.

"The 10 Commandments of Dating" an open discussion about dating in the 21st century, will be presented at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Manhattan Arts Center, 1520 Poyntz Ave.

Christian Explorers will meet for Bible study at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Campus Center, 1021 Denison Ave.

Lutheran Campus Ministry — ELCA will meet for worship at 7 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.

K-State Women's Rugby will have practice at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the northwest field of the Rec Complex.

Anime and Manga Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Union Big 12 Room.

Golden Key Executive Board will meet at 6 p.m. Sunday in Union 205.

Beta Alpha Psi will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the Union Big 12 Room. The topic will be Phillips Petroleum careers in accounting.

Blue Key scholarship applications are due at 4 p.m. Monday in the OSAS.

Collegiate 4-H will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Waters 137.

Applications for KSU Student Foundation are available at the Foundation building or in the OSAS. An informational reception will be at 4 p.m. Monday in Union 212 for students interested in the organization. Applications are due in the OSAS by Feb. 23.

UFM Community Learning Center is now recruiting for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship. An informational meeting will be at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the UFM Center, 1221 Thurston. Application materials may be obtained at UFM from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Applications are due March 9.

Homecoming Student Committee applications can be picked up in the OSAS. Applications are due by 5 p.m. Feb. 23 at the KSU Alumni Association, 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 400.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

Applications for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship are due March 9.

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

"Beginning with you" for 15 YEARS

LORI, LORI, TRACY, SANDY, ANGELA, & LINDA
 INVITE YOU TO

COME CELEBRATE AND SAVE

SAVINGS ON RETAIL CELEBRATING SERVICES
 15 YEARS

TUES, WED, THURS. & FRI.
 Feb. 20, 21, 22, & 23

NEW BEGINNINGS

HAIRSTYLING & TANNING

1130 WESTPORT DR. #6

537.1003

the nicholas payton

ARMSTRONG CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

Saturday, February 17 at 8:00 p.m.

For ticket information, call 785-532-6428
 or stop by the McCain Box Office
 Monday through Friday, noon to 5:00 p.m.

pre-performance lecture
 at 7:00 p.m. in room 204 McCain by
 Dr. Alfred Cochran

Major funding provided by the KSU Fine Arts Fee

McCain
 PERFORMANCE SERIES
 SPRING 2001

HAVE THE SUMMER
 OF YOUR LIFE!

Positions Available:
 Swimming
 Sailing
 Water-ski
 Soccer
 Basketball
 Baseball
 Softball
 Tennis
 Gymnastics & Dance
 Horseback Riding
 Cooking
 Wilderness Adventure
 Ropes Course
 Arts & Crafts
 Ceramics
 Video
 Musical Theater
 Photographs
 General Counselors
 Activity Directors
 AND MUCH MORE!

Point O'Pines Camp for Girls and

BRANT LAKE CAMP FOR BOYS

Point O'Pines Camp and Brant Lake Camp located in the majestic setting of the Adirondack Mountains in Upstate New York want YOU to experience the best summer of your life!

A representative from Point O'Pines will be on campus Friday, February 23rd. A representative from Brant Lake will be on campus Tuesday, March 13th.

Call us toll-free at 1-888-726-9908 to schedule an interview
 Take a look: pointopines.com or www.brantlake.com

• PAID TRAVEL & COMPETITIVE SALARY •

SURVIVING the MILLENNIUM

Hear from the Pros

Question the Pros

Student Career Day
 Featuring Mitch Holthus

Voice of the Kansas City Chiefs

February 23, 2001

9:30 am to 3:00 pm

Pozez Education Center

1505 SW 8th St. — Topeka, Kansas

Workshops for Advertising and Public Relations Students

For additional information, call Barbara Hersh at (785)354-5725 or send an email

to

BarbaraH@stormontvill.org

Presented by Public Relations Society of Topeka and Topeka Advertising Federation

12th St. Pub Friday & Saturday

$2
 $3

Captains
 Margaritas

Stoli Flavors

DESTINATION... WILLIAMS

Interviews

WHERE ARE YOU GOING...

...to go after graduation
 ...to live
 ...to work
 ...to be five years from now?

While we can't tell you the answers to these questions we can tell you about being an industry leader in energy and communications and the great benefits we give our employees. But that alone won't distinguish the road to Williams from other corporations. Where we came from, where we're going and what we stand for places Williams above the rest. It's up to you to decide if you want to be a part of our adventure.

We will be conducting interviews at Kansas State University on Tuesday, March 6. We are specifically looking for students with the following degrees:

• Electrical, Computer, Mechanical, Chemical,

Industrial and Civil Engineering
 • Management Information Systems, Computer Science

If you would like to interview with Williams, you must apply on-line with Career and Employment Services by Monday, February 19. Please call 785-532-6506 for more information.

Williams

Find out more about Williams at www.williams.com.

Farming practices revised for future

By OLENA NIKOLAYENKO
Kansas State Collegian

Economic pressures that might threaten to make the Kansas family farm a thing of the past could be avoided by using sustainable agricultural practices of the future.

"Costs have risen while commodity prices have dropped," said Jana Beckman, coordinator for the Kansas Center for Sustainable Agriculture and Alternative Crops. "As net farm income declines, the viability of the farming operation is threatened and the economic and social health of rural communities begins to suffer."

K-State now is taking an active role in research on sustainable agriculture.

The Kansas Center for Sustainable Agriculture and Alternative Crops, located on the third floor of Throckmorton Hall, opened another chapter in agricultural research.

"Having the center will benefit Kansas and K-State in obtaining research and education funds," Beckman said. "Since sustainable agricultural systems involve so many disciplines, having a centralized Sustainable Ag Center will facilitate cooperation and coordination."

"K-State conducts a volume of research that supports the family farm and sustainable practices."

The practice seeks to protect and sustain the environment, Beckman said.

Alternative crops diversify income and integrate management practices to conserve resources. In some cases, alternative crops stimulate new business opportunities in rural communities, she said.

"The conventional farm grows one or two crops year after year," said Rhonda Janke, associate professor and extension specialist in sustainable cropping systems for the Department of Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Services. "Sustainable farming involves more things mixed up — a different crop each year."

Soil quality and water quality preservation is a significant concern of sustainable agriculture. Practitioners seek a higher degree of crop diversification in order to alleviate potential problems.

Travis Kriegshauser, graduate student in agronomy and a native of western Kansas, said he has witnessed changes in his homeland.

"Western Kansas has changed tremendously compared to eastern Kansas," he said. "It gets just 15 to 20 inches of rain, and many small farms are not making money."

Sustainable agriculture originated in the 1920s. It existed before chemical farming became popular, Janke said.

The practice was revitalized in the 1970s. In 1985, the U.S. Department of Agriculture began providing funding for the farming technique.

It has not yet found popularity in Kansas, Janke said, because some people believe it challenges the status quo.

The high cost of sustainable farming practices also is a burden for many farmers. Janke said grain used in the practice could cost two to three times more than traditional grain.

"Out of 63,000 farms in Kansas there are between 100 and 200 certified organic, and probably about that many that are organic, but not certified farms," she said. "Every year I receive more requests to meet farmers and discuss with them sustainable farming practices."

The seventh annual Kansas Sustainable Agriculture Roundup, which will be at the K-State Student Union today and Saturday, will provide information on sustainable farming practices, marketing strategies, water quality and creating a sustainable food system. It is free and open to the public.

"It is not a pie in the sky," Janke said. "The roundup will deal with practical down-to-earth issues."

The Kansas Rural Center gave financial support for the roundup as well as K-State's Kansas Center for Agricultural Resources and the Environment.

"The roundup shows how K-State collaborates with non-profit organizations on topics of sustainable agriculture," Janke said.

Wes Jackson, president of the Land Institute, gave a speech about the new agricultural paradigm at Throckmorton on Feb. 8.

He said young people should break away from conventional practices.

"The modern agriculture has to drop the heroic industrial language — we must feed the world," he said. "We have to begin a conversation with nature, so to speak."

"When we are talking about sustainable agriculture, we are talking about agriculture where the reward runs to the farm and the land."

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Kyle Barker, junior in political science and public relations, (right) announces his running for student body president with running mate Brandon Kauffman, junior in political science, Thursday morning in the Union Plaza.

Barker, Kauffman announce candidacy

By SHANNON MARSHALL
Kansas State Collegian

"Small steps, big changes" were the words of Kyle Barker and Brandon Kauffman as they announced their campaign Thursday morning for student body president and vice president.

Barker, junior in political science and public relations, and Kauffman, junior in political science, introduced their platform to a gathering of students in the free-speech zone between Seaton Hall and the K-State Student Union.

Platform issues include increasing awareness and acceptance of diversity on campus, creating a new freshman orientation, enforcing Dead Week, transportation issues and solving problems associated with evening tests.

After listening to the candidates' announcement, Anna Coats, sophomore in pre-nursing, expressed her support for Barker and Kauffman.

"They both are strong leaders both on campus and in extracurricular activities," she said.

Barker said the platform already has generated positive feedback.

"We're really excited about it. It offers good issues to students," he said. "We've received good support so far. I think people are happy about the issues and want to see things changed."

The candidates' slogan of "Small steps, big changes" refers to the issues of their platform.

Matt Zender, junior in marketing and international business, expressed his enthusiasm for the candidates' stance on promoting diversity on campus.

"K-State preaches a lot about diversity here, but you don't see a lot happening. It's pretty much everyone doing his own thing," he said.

Sean McGivern, sophomore in French and political science, helped develop Barker and Kauffman's platform and said the student body would benefit greatly from the candidates' ideas.

"I've been helping them to put a lot of serious thought and involvement into these issues. We've done a lot of brainstorming," he said. "Most of these issues are campus-wide — everyone will benefit from them."

Barker and Kauffman will answer questions and further explain their platform at meeting for the candidates at 8 p.m. Sunday, at Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

SGA
ELECTIONS
March 5-7, 2001

Winter weather leads to supply shortage

By AMY MORGAN
Kansas State Collegian

With the winter weather hitting Manhattan with several inches of snow and freezing temperatures, local businesses have been trying to meet the demands of customers dealing with snow and ice.

Veronica Mangiaracino, Wal-Mart assistant manager, said they have been having a difficult time keeping items like ice melting spray, shovels, ice scrapers and sleds in stock.

"As soon as we get them in, they sell out," Mangiaracino said. "We received three cases of shovels on Monday, and they are already sold out. We have orders on everything to be brought in."

Wal-Mart continues to order products, but they are unable to get items like fashion gloves since those items were put on sale and are almost gone.

"All we carry is work gloves, which we always have, but there is no way for us to even get any other types of gloves," Mangiaracino said.

All sleds that Wal-Mart carried were completely sold out after the first snowstorm. They still do not have any in stock, she said.

The warehouse for Wal-Mart is located in Ottawa, Kan., and the Manhattan Wal-Mart staff can call in orders and get an idea of availability.

Mangiaracino also said they usually try to place the items like shovels, ice scrapers and ice melting at the front of the store because that is what customers are looking for right now.

Ron Dewese, general manager of Ace Hardware, said their store had sold about three times as much ice melting spray within the last few winter months as they had in the last three years.

"We have sold tremendous amounts," Dewese said.

Dewese also said the city has consumed a large amount of the store's ice melting spray supply in their work efforts.

"The city has purchased two or three times more than what they would normally do," Dewese said.

Dewese also said they had sold about two times as many shovels and ice scrapers.

"We replenish our stock about two times a week," Dewese said.

MODEL SHOWINGS! NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30 p.m.
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed., & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #3
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough

Development
2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

Don't miss your chance to be

SEEN

in the 2001 Royal Purple for FREE.

Strike a Pose

Bring your friends, family, significant others, co-workers,
props, pets, inside jokes, toys, hidden talents and ideas, and we'll put you in the Royal Purple yearbook.

Order your own 2001 Royal Purple yearbook for only $34.95 at Strike a Pose.

10 a.m. - 6 p.m.
TODAY

in the K-State Student Union Courtyard

2001
Royal Purple
royalpurple.ksu.edu

Color prints of your picture will also be available for purchase.

Strike a Pose is brought to you by the 2001 Royal Purple yearbook and Thornton Studio.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kodzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 • letters@pub.ksu.edu

Ticketing for broken meters should cease

A Parking Services policy needs to be altered.

Students now can be issued a citation if parked in front of a broken parking meter.

The problem? Unless students call Parking Services and a record of the complaint is made, they will be responsible for the ticket.

Parking Services officials said a call does two things: It protects the individual driving the car, and it informs them of the problem with the meter.

But sometimes, especially if an individual is on their way to a class, there is no time to make the call. It should not be the responsibility of the student to inform this service of its broken meters.

When employees of Parking Services check for expired meters, they also should check for malfunctioning meters. It is nice for people to inform the university when there is a problem, but part of the job requirement should be to check for broken equipment.

Parking Services gets plenty of money.

When students park in front of a broken meter, they should not be obligated to make the call.

► OUR VIEW is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari
Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
News Editor

Erin Schneewis
Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll
Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crabie
Copy Chief

Sara Martin
Design Editor

Jamie Barrett
Online News Editor

Travis Weigel
Columnist

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

Thanks, Sarah McCaffrey, for the pep talk. Now me and my roommates 1.5 and 1.7 doesn't look so bad.

Would you rather fight Mike Tyson or talk like him? Thought-provoking, isn't it?

I would like to know why we get Martin Luther King Day off of school, but we don't get President's Day off. Both holidays celebrate great leaders in America's history. What makes one less worthy than another?

Now Chase Manhattan Apartments wants to limit how many people I can have at my party. Ten. That means my roommates and all of our parents can't be in the apartment at the same time. Will they consider that a party?

Screw SGA.

This is to Erin: from a male perspective, I could not agree with you more, and by the way, will you marry me?

Please, basketball coaches, tell us that our teams have not given up.

Nice article about Westloop Floral. Too bad they didn't deliver the flowers I paid for.

This is to the person that called in complaining about people packing up their books and leaving before the teacher's done lecturing. The teacher works for me, and when that bell rings, he is on my time, so unless he decides to pay me for that, I'm going to walk out. He has his hour. If he can't say what he needs to say in an hour, then he needs to rethink his lecture schedule.

Hey, Ken Wells, I've seen "Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon" and let me just say it makes "The Matrix" look like "Battlefield Earth."

Question for Tuesday: What do you think about the recent State Board of Education's decision to reinstate evolution into the science standards?

Decent proposal

Pornography exploitative, gives women unrealistic body images

It was one of those conversations you feel like you have had a million times.

I was cuddling on the couch with a date when, somehow, strip clubs came up.

He said his roommate and some friends were going to the strip clubs that evening. I held my breath and waited for him to continue.

He said he never had gone to one, but that he might some day.

I knew he was waiting for me to deliver my response. I said something to the effect of "OK, I guess it is a free country." My next question was, why would he go to a strip club?

He then proceeded to tell me how much fun his roommates had told him they had there. He told me it was just a good time of drinking beer, looking at girls and laughing at the whole thing.

Right.

I knew he was waiting for my real, true response. I am pretty sure I sat up and moved away from him and said how, on an ethical level, I was completely against strip clubs or any industry promoting the selling and subordination of women.

I know a lot of guys who like pornography. I mean, a lot. For some damned reason, I wind up being the only female voice in the room who is willing to present a different side to the issue when the topic comes up. I am beginning to think people intentionally bring up the subject at parties just to see me get heated up about the issue. But, as most of my good friends know, once I get going on an issue like this — it is best for all sensitive ears to duck and take cover.

Pornography always has been wrong to me. It seemed more wrong and inappropriate after I had taken the Violence Against Women class from Women's Studies. For the first time, tangible reasons were presented to me as to why pornography and the whole industry that is focused around selling women's bodies was wrong.

There are heated debates that rage on both sides of the gender lines about the issue. The last thing I can do is clear it up in a 20-inch column, but what I hope to do is enlighten you to think about the side that is not heard enough when it comes to this critical issue.

It is a sad world when women can make more money selling their bodies than working as a teacher or social worker. It makes my body quiver when I think about what this really says about our culture. It sends the message loud and clear that we value women's bodies — women's sex more than their brains. My guess is, if I sold my soul to the sex industry tomorrow, I would make more money that way than I ever could as an anthropologist.

Secondly, this whole industry further perpetuates unrealistic visions of women. I mean, let's face it, does Anna Nicole Smith look like any woman you have ever seen in your life? No way. By watching pornography, by reading the magazines, you see these pictures of women who are completely unrealistic.

The most disturbing part of the whole issue is, young women today feel they have to try and live up to this completely unrealistic standard. So they get breast implants, stop eating and work out endlessly to try and achieve the impossible standard of beauty they see in the media and pornography industry.

Third, it changes the role of sex. It takes this beautiful, wonderful expression between a couple and puts terms on it, or even worse, brings violence to the table. As we were shown in my class, often pornography uses themes of dominance and subordination. Most of the time, the man is the dominator and the woman is on the receiving end.

There is no direct research that has found pornography to be a direct cause of gender violence, but if you think about it, there has been no evidence that links violence in the media and its effects on children. But in my mind, there is reason to think that in both cases there must be some connection. Look at the statistics: I believe right now one in three women are raped at some point in their life.

What does that say? It says we have a messed up view of what is and is not allowed in the sexual arena. It makes me wonder. What if we as a culture did not invest so much in the trade of pornography? Would some men still view women as sexual objects they can take advantage of?

These are just a few of the concerns I have about pornography and its place in our greater society.

Guys, what do you think?

What do you think a girl thinks the first time she comes over to your apartment and sees your Playboy on the table? Let me clue you in, it is not "Yippie, this boy is cool." No, I am afraid it is something more to the effect of, "Why in the hell does he have this?"

As for the boy I was cuddling on the couch with, he said after I went on my little tirade, that he was just testing me. I was a bit insulted by that. But maybe if we all are tested a little bit more, forced to think about issues we would not normally think about, we would sound the horn and dispel of those things that divide us as men and women.

And maybe if we took that breath, that heated moment more often and put power and force behind our words and actions, then maybe, just maybe this world could be a better, safer, place for all of us.

Just call me an idealist.

Michelle is a senior in anthropology. You can e-mail her at mlb1805@ksu.edu.

MICHELLE BERTUGLIA

ADAM HAYES/Collegian

Awareness of Honor System on rise

The Undergraduate Honor System case load continues to increase during our second year of existence, which seems to indicate heightened awareness by students and faculty.

By the end of our first semester in operation, fall 1999, there were 10 cases. By the end of the spring 2000 semester we had an additional 15 cases, or 25 for the year. By the end of the fall 2000 semester we had 22 cases, and the expectation is that we'll surpass 50 cases by the end of this semester, which means we're on track to at least double our case load from last year.

Of the 22 cases this semester, 16 concerned plagiarism, or the taking of other's original work and attempting to pass it off as one's own. Many of those cases involved finding a paper on the Internet and handing it in as original work.

Students caught participating in this deceitful activity also discovered what they could quickly and conveniently pirate from the Internet also could be just as easily discovered by their professors, who invariably expressed dismay, disappointment and displeasure at this dishonest behavior.

Two of the students caught plagiarizing Internet sources surprisingly claimed ignorance that their actions would be considered an Honor Pledge violation. Other cases involved copying another student's journal, another student's original artwork, or another's paper.

Often, the attempted deception suffered from lack of cunning, such as the plagiarized paper handed in to a professor in one section, who recognized a personal reference in the paper as being directed toward a professor in another section. Or the male writer of a plagiarized journal who foolishly overlooked a reference to the importance of "my sorority."

Honor Pledge violations other than plagiarism included test forgery (taking a test for another student), test copying, unauthorized collaboration, fabrication of a journal, and altering a test and submitting for a regrade.

In one of the test forgery cases, the faculty member requested the students be assigned an XF. The students thought an XF was too harsh a penalty since the Honor Pledge violation was only on a major quiz. An Honor Council Hearing Panel heard testimony from all sides and decided to sustain the faculty member's request for an XF. The F indicates failure in the course, the X indicates the reason was an Honor Pledge violation. The F remains permanently on a student's transcript; the X can only be removed by successfully passing an academic integrity course, designed and approved by the Honor Council.

Of the 22 students involved in 22 cases, 17, or more than half, were first year students, which suggests perhaps many of our incoming young scholars arrive from a high school culture where cheating is commonplace and possibly acceptable behavior.

Indeed, recent studies indicate that our cheating culture has infiltrated high schools, even percolating down into the grade school level. The remaining cases from this semester were evenly split between sophomores, juniors and seniors. A senior who receives an XF probably will face the additional burden of a delayed graduation. Indeed, one senior this semester failed an entire semester's internship due to an Honor Pledge violation, to say nothing of the loss of trust from faculty, resulting in a reluctance to write letters of recommendation.

In general, students caught violating the Honor Pledge invariably accept responsibility for their transgression, though they also point to reasons such as procrastination, poor organizational skills, overcommitment to a club or social organization or a general lack of academic discipline as the catalyst for their fall from grace. After falling behind, it becomes too tempting to look for an easy way out.

The good news is that K-State seems to be making progress toward creating an academic culture which respects and nourishes ethical behavior.

Cases have originated in all eight undergraduate colleges, almost all by a different faculty member. Students also have become more active in reporting cases, serving as witnesses or tipping off faculty regarding questionable or suspicious behavior by other students. Deans have taken seriously the task of appointing excellent and fair-minded faculty to positions on the Honor Council.

The Student Body President has done the same in appointing excellent student leaders as members of the Honor Council. Since the integrity of a K-State degree is the prize, all of us have a stake in its protection.

If you haven't already done so, visit our Web site, www.ksu.edu/honor. You'll find there an abundance of useful information including strategies for avoiding academic meltdown as well as humorously generic scenarios of the escapades of those who didn't.

Phil is the director of the Honor Council. You can reach him at phil@ksu.edu.

PHIL ANDERSON

Candidates stress housing need

By SCOTT ALDIS-WILSON
Kansas State Collegian

Less than two weeks remain before the citywide primary election for the Manhattan City Commission. Though the Feb. 27 primary will eliminate one of the seven candidates, remaining campaigners, three of whom are current commissioners whose terms are up, still have more than a month to square off before the final April 3 general election.

Karen McCulloh

Occupation:
Assistant to the dean for Hale Library.

Reasons for running:

McCulloh said supporters helped her decide to run again. The current commission has begun to address issues, such as housing and zoning, that she said should be continued.

"I even think the campaign forces you to look at the issues," she said. "I think I'm frugal economically, but socially liberal."

McCulloh said she also wants to bring attention to public art in Manhattan with this campaign.

Four platform issues:

1. Affordable housing — McCulloh said she wants tax incentives and abatements, as well as bringing in more developers for the city's need for low- and moderate-income housing.

A growing K-State also might need more housing, she said.

"We don't have space for another 5,000 students," she said.

2. Economic development — McCulloh said she wants job training for the local work force and incentive packages for new and local companies. She said she was also interested in a market study of the downtown and Aggieville areas to see what is drawing shoppers out of town.

"You have to see what the niche is we're missing," she said.

3. Quality-of-life bond issue — McCulloh said she would like to look at a bond issue for financing economic incentives by next year. Options could include an indoor pool facility, transportation or housing issues.

"I think it will be a hard sale, but if people see enough possibilities in it, it could work," she said.

4. Government efficiency — Though some candidates have mentioned cutting costs, McCulloh said it is easier said than done.

"If you're going to cut, you have to cut services, and most people don't want to lose those services," she said. "You can't have the police not show up for three hours."

Cost-of-service studies are under way, she said, to find out where services are being duplicated.

Carol Peak

Occupation:
— Director of the Kansas Center for Rural Initiatives.

Reasons for running:

Peak said she can bring her personal expertise on community development.

"I think my point of view is very community-based," she said.

With a slowing economy, Peak said decisions on city spending will need to be more cautious.

"We're facing challenging economic times for individuals and our community," she said.

Four platform issues:

1. Affordable housing — Though the recent housing study shows a need across all levels of housing, Peak said most of the need will center on creating more low-income housing. There are several tools to help create affordable housing, she said, such as city-sponsored housing loans.

"One of the most serious boundaries to house ownership is down payments and closing costs," she said.

2. Downtown redevelopment — Peak said she remains a strong advocate for developing the downtown area into a commerce center. The city needs a strong core along Poyntz Avenue for retail, and commercial and housing interests. Part of that need will be redevelopment, she said.

"There is no new land," Peak said.

3. Positive growth for the future — Peak said Manhattan needs more industrial space, and she said she hopes an upcoming revision of the city's Comprehensive Land-Use Plan will provide direction.

"I think it needs to be well planned, and we need to have a community consensus on how and where to grow," she said.

4. Responsible economic development — "We continue to have a need to diversify our economic base," she said.

The community, she said, needs to recruit companies that pay adequate wages and perhaps supply child care, transportation, health care or housing.

Roger Reitz

Occupation: Physician in internal medicine for Manhattan Medical Center.

Reasons for running: Aside from medical school and military service, Reitz said he has lived in Manhattan since 1934.

"I've seen a lot of change, so I can put that to use," he said.

He also has no particular axe to grind, Reitz said, so he can approach issues fairly.

Four platform issues:

1. Planning for expansion — The expansion Reitz said he sees is redevelopment within the city limits and westward.

"There is some chance, I suppose, of going east, but I don't know how we'd get the water," he said.

With redevelopment, Reitz said the areas west of the Union Pacific Depot to the former jail and west of Pierre Street to Fort Riley Boulevard will need to entice a developer.

2. More low-income housing — For low-income housing, he said the land has to be inexpensive. Though Reitz said he would like to set portions of the westward development aside for low-income housing, it is not a sure thing.

"I'm sure that land will be expensive," he said.

3. Transit — Reitz said he remembers the bus system Manhattan once had and how it faded away. He said he would generally favor a new transportation system, but the students, university and federal government all have to buy into the idea. Reitz said he would like a general vote for the issue.

4. Dealing with water and sewage systems — "That, again, will depend on whether we decide to go west," he said.

REITZ

MICHAEL YOUNG/Collegian

Judith Slater, professor of English at the University of Nebraska, reads from her debut short story collection "The Baby Can Sing and Other Stories" on Thursday evening in the UMB Theatre at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art. Slater won the Mary McCarthy Prize in short fiction in 1998 for her works.

Author offers stories

By CAMILLE BOISSEAU
Kansas State Collegian

Taking her characters with well-developed personalities and placing them in ordinary situations is how Judith Slater creates her short stories.

Slater, professor of English at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, gave a reading of two of her short stories Thursday evening at the UMB Theatre in the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art.

"I really like her readings for people — they are a way of listening to art. They are not just stories, but craft," Elizabeth Dodd, K-State professor of English, said.

Slater's readings Thursday were "David Morning" and "The Baby Can Sing." She received the 1998 Mary McCarthy Prize in Short Fiction for "The Baby Can Sing and Other Stories."

Slater's style of writing in some stories is a form of magic realism in which she takes real characters and places them in everyday settings.

"I think her characters are so interesting and are like real people, but take us one step farther without emotions," Dodd said.

These everyday situations included in her stories are blind dates and spending evening with friends.

In the story "David Morning," the main character begins the story single. The story develops around her dating and all of the traumas that go with dating. The character faces these problems just as every person does.

In "The Baby Can Sing," Slater developed her characters through the idea of magic realism.

Slater said she always has been interested in writing, but did not start writing until later, Slater said.

"I came from a family of business, so I had never really had the chance to write until later," Slater said.

Slater's writings also includes novels, which are what she is working on now, but Slater said short stories were her favorite.

"She is not afraid to take risks in her style. She mixes magic realism and makes her own world," said Shelle Barton, graduate student in English. "I picked up her book last year and had a vote in getting her here. I am a true-blue fan."

BUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888

Lunch Buffet
All you can eat!
$4.95

Friday Seafood Buffet
$7.95
Lobster legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.

Dinner Buffet
All you can eat!
$6.95

$1.00 OFF
Evening Buffet
Sat-Thurs.
Please present coupon

FREE DELIVERY
with $9 minimum order
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

Bek's DINER 1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT
OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

is
EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY
$1.99
BREAKFAST
ALL THE TIME

KSU Department of Theatre Presents

How I Learned to Drive
a Pulitzer Prize winner
by Paula Vogel

SPECIAL TALKBACK SESSIONS
IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING
PERFORMANCES ON THE 8, 14 & 15

The clearer this picture gets
The better you will know this family
The more your heart will break for them

February 8-10, 14-17
Nichols Theater 8 p.m.
$6 for students/seniors
$9 general public
McCain Box Office 532-6428

RELIGION DIRECTORY

JOIN THE DIRECTORY
Call at 532-6560

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH
612 Poyntz • 776-8821
Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Church School all ages 9:45 a.m.
Pastors: Jim Reed, Frank Fritz, & Ken Willis
fumc@flinthills.com
www.flinthills.com/~fumc

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center
MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m.
Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

Lutheran Campus Ministry
at Luther House 1745 Anderson
Sunday Evening Worship
7:00 p.m. at Danforth Chapel
www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
Pastor Jayne Thompson
(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451
— Open to All —

FIRST LUTHERAN
10th Poyntz 537-8532
Worship
Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

First Presbyterian Church
801 Leavenworth St. • 537-0518
Sunday Schedule
Contemporary Worship
at 9:15 a.m.
Sunday School for all ages
at 9:15 a.m.
Traditional Worship
at 10:30 a.m.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
DISCIPLES OF CHRIST
Sunday
8:30 a.m. - Early Service
9:45 a.m. - Sunday School
10:55 a.m. - Late Service
11:30 a.m. - Live Broadcast
Angel 95.3 FM
5th & Humboldt
776-8790

ST. MARY MAGDALENE ORTHODOX CHRISTIAN MISSION
ECM Bldg. 1021 Denison, 2 South.
539-3440
Services: Divine Liturgy 9:30 AM Saturdays in the ECM Nave
Visit the K-State OCF webpage at www.ksu.edu/orthodox

ECM Christian Explorers
Food, Fun & Fellowship
Sunday 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Bible Study
Tuesday 5:30 p.m.
Meditation class
Wednesday 7am
1021 Denison Ave.
539-4281 or email at ecm@ksu.edu

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
8:15 & 9:30 & 11:00AM
College and Young Married Couples
Sunday School 9:30 & 11:00AM
Bible Study @ 7:00PM Tuesdays
Youth Ministry Opportunities
College Pastor: Aaron Martin
Senior Pastor: David Thompson
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

Agape Family Church
An Affiliate of RHEMA Bible Church
aka Kenneth Hagin Ministries
SUNDAY
Sunday Broadcast 9:05 a.m. on 95.3 FM
School of the Bible 9:30 a.m.
Worship Service 10:30 a.m.
Evening Fellowship 7:00 p.m.
Wednesday Service 7:30 p.m.
Everyone is welcome to come and be part of our family
STERLING HUDGINS-PASTOR
116 S. 4th, Downtown Manhattan
(785) 539-3570

The Salvation Army High Plains Worship Center
"Helping People With Care"
Our vision?
We are Chosen, Blessed, Broken, and Given of God!
Service Times:
Sunday School 10 a.m.
Worship Service 11 a.m.
Evening Service 6:30 p.m.
Wednesday Bible Study 6:30 p.m.
4th & Leavenworth, Manhattan, KS
785.539.9392

First Baptist Church
Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
For free transportation within city limits, call the church.
Pastors Karen & Alan Selig
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691
An American Baptist Congregation

ST. FRANCIS CANTERBURY
THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH
AT KANSAS STATE
SUNDAY WORSHIP
5:00 PM
ST. FRANCIS CHAPEL
1823 LARAMIE
"Love the Lord your God with all your heart, soul, mind, and strength. And love your neighbor as yourself."
REV. CATHY BASCOM 532-9099

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
481 Zeandale Road, 1/2 mile S on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile
Programs each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flinthills.com/~uufellow

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
Saturday 6 p.m. Traditional Service
Sunday 8:30 a.m. Traditional Service
9:30 a.m. Fellowship
9:45 a.m. Sunday School & Bible Study
11:00 a.m. Contemporary Service
Campus Ministry - Pastor Eric Wood
<http://www.flinthills.com/~stlukes>
330 Sunset Ave. 539-2604

First Assembly of God
Weekly Schedule of Services
Sunday
Worship Services 8:30 & 11:00 a.m.
Kid's Church 8:30 & 11:00 a.m.
Sunday School 10:00 a.m.
Nueva Vida 10:00 a.m.
Worship Choir 4:15 p.m.
Evening Worship 6:00 p.m.
Wednesday
All ministries begin at 7:00
Prayer Meeting
Nueva Vida Ministry (Spanish)
Youth Group (grades 7-12)
Royal rangers (Boys Club)
Missionettes (Girls Club)
Thursday
Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship
7:00 p.m. for College Students
(K-State Union room 212)
Nursery Provided for All Services
Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor
2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS
(785) 537-7633 www.manhattanag.org

Manhattan Mennonite Church
Sunday School 9:30 a.m., Worship 10:45 a.m.
Richard & Barbara Gehring, Co-Pastors
10th and Fremont 539-4079
Welcome Students and Staff!

Blue Valley Memorial UMC
835 Church St. 539-8790
Worship: Sat. 5:30 p.m./Sun. 10:30 a.m.
Free food after services
first Sun. of the month
e-mail: revs2@flinthills.com

Grace Baptist Church
2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child
♦ Sunday ♦
Morning Worship
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.
776-0424

Wildcats face Tech on Sunday

By DEREK BOSS
Kansas State Collegian

At least one team's losing streak is certain to end Sunday. K-State (8-14, 2-9), riding a seven-game skid and plummeting to the bottom of the Big 12 standings, will take on Texas Tech (8-13, 2-8), a loser of six straight, at 3:30 p.m. in Bramlage Coliseum.

The teams post nearly identical records. Both teams' last victories came Jan. 16, a drought spanning over a month.

It might seem as if this weekend's contest will end in considerable relief for one ball club — especially considering each team is coming off a shellacking this week at the hands of Big 12 foes.

Nebraska did the honors to K-State on Wednesday night in Lincoln, tying Cat season-highs for biggest margin of defeat (26) and largest halftime deficit (17) in a 82-56 rout.

Needless to say, head coach Jim Wooldridge felt a little disheartened after his team's performance, as K-State only managed 23 points in the first 20 minutes and was out-rebounded by the Huskers 45-30.

"This was a real nightmare," he said after the game. "It really surprised me what happened here tonight, not in the loss to Nebraska, but how the game unfolded — how we reacted to the game. It was a huge disappointment."

"As a coach and as players, we need to be accountable. It's hard to say why we played this way tonight. We have to go home and figure out how to give a better effort."

Meanwhile, Tech is coming off a 73-56 loss at Texas, where five Longhorns scored in double figures. Like K-State's defeat at Nebraska, rebounding also was a problem for the Red Raiders, as Texas out-rebounded Tech 24-4 in the second half.

The Red Raiders have beaten K-State in four of their past five tries in the series, including a 75-64 win in 2000. However, Tech hasn't won in Manhattan since the 1996-97 season and has lost six straight road games this year.

The Red Raiders are led by 6-foot-11 inch center Andy Ellis, who averages 14.8 points and 6.7 rebounds per game, while Cliff Owens and Jamal Brown also post double figures at 12.3 and 11.6 points, respectively.

In addition, Owens' 7.3 boards per outing is tops for Tech, and Brown's 6.8 assists per game ranks sixth in the nation and third in the Big 12.

However, the Red Raiders will miss the presence of graduated Rayford Young, who posted 25 points, including nine in the final four minutes, against K-State last season.

UP NEXT

Texas Tech at K-State (8-14, 2-9)
Day: Sunday
Where: Bramlage Coliseum (13,500)
Time: 3:30 p.m. (Time changed from 2:30 p.m.)
Radio: WIBW-AM 580
TV: ESPN Regional; WIBW in Topeka

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Larry Reid reaches around Jose Winston as he attempts to steal the ball during K-State's game against Colorado.

For the purple, Phineas Atchison remains atop the Cat season scoring charts at a 12.2 point-per-game clip, while Larry Reid and Travis Reynolds add 11.0 and 10.9 points, respectively.

Against Nebraska on Wednesday, though, it was transfer Richie Terry who found his stroke. The junior set a career-high with 16 points on 6-for-8 shooting, topping his previous collegiate best of 11 on Nov. 18 against UT-San Antonio. Terry also set a career — and season — high with five steals.

The Husker contest also saw the debut of Cat freshman guard Rashad Washington, who saw eight minutes of action.

"I was really sad with the outcome of this game, (but) I felt I was ready to play tonight," Washington said after the game. "I played up to my potential considering it was my first D-I game. My shot wasn't there, but in time it will come."

— K-State Sports Information contributed to this article.

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

K-State's Nicole Ohide shoots the ball in Bramlage Coliseum earlier this season. The Cats will take on Nebraska on Saturday in Manhattan.

OU loss still offers hope for K-State

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

Despite the lopsided final score, K-State's 19-point loss at No. 10 Oklahoma on Wednesday was far different from the team's previous blowouts against ranked teams.

After losing by 29 points at No. 12 Texas Tech, head coach Deb Patterson said her team was outclassed. The same wasn't true at higher-ranked Oklahoma.

"I really don't think so. I was extremely pleased with large segments of how we played," Patterson said. "I saw a lot of positives."

Most encouraging for the Cats was their play to start the contest. The Sooners led by 15 points at intermission, but K-State was in the game up until the final four minutes of the first half.

"The first 16 minutes of the game, we kept the game even. It was never more than a two-point game," Patterson said. "It was as good as we've played for the last five or six games, and it was against a very good Oklahoma team — what I think is the best team in the league."

Oklahoma was able to make a late run only when it took advantage of K-State's most glaring weakness, its point guard, Patterson said.

"The last four minutes of the first half was when our inexperience and lack of composure at the point position factored into the basketball game. It really changed the way we played,"

she said. "Offensively, we changed our shot selection. We took quick shots and became a point guard based team, and we're not at our best when that happens."

Because the Cats cannot depend on their point guard, Shalondra Booker, to effectively shoot the jump shot, the other guards, Kim Woodlee and Kristin Rethman, are forced to elude both their defender and Booker's.

"At the point position, because we don't have a shooter there, teams can switch off the point onto Kim and Kristin," Patterson said. "If you don't have to guard our point, you can cheat over on a pass to Kim and Kristin."

As discouraging as the situation sounds for the Cats, there is hope in sight. Booker has shown signs of improvement. Other than that four-minute stretch to end the first half, she directed an offense that stood nearly toe-to-toe with the Big 12's top team.

"I was extremely pleased for Shalondra to string together 16 minutes of quality basketball like she did at Oklahoma," Patterson said. "It's very impressive."

The Cats now have a certain level of momentum heading into their Saturday contest against Nebraska, which has won just one more conference game than K-State.

UP NEXT

Nebraska (10-15, 2-10) at K-State (11-12, 1-11)
When: 7 p.m. Saturday
Where: Bramlage Coliseum
Radio: The Wildcat Sports Network — WIBW-AM 580

Game between 2 teams on losing streaks crucial to winning record at home

I just love the irony. K-State and Texas Tech, two teams whose athletic departments might need to look into point shaving in order to win a game this year, are set to meet Sunday in Manhattan.

Neither squad has seen victory in more than a month. The Cats have lost seven straight. The boys from Lubbock — six.

Both teams' records are slipping faster than the morons who could be seen vaulting from their homemade snow ramp at West Stadium.

Each program's last win came on the same day — Jan. 16.

Both of those wins came against top-25 opponents. K-State: a 80-59 romp of then-

No. 20 Missouri; and Tech: a 60-59 upset of then-No. 22 Oklahoma.

The stage is set.

DEREK BOSS

wearing thin.

As much a supporter of K-State athletics as I might be, and as much promise I see in Cat basketball next season, it's hard to find positives in this year's drudging campaign. Many of the pieces are there, but for now, the puzzle is far from complete.

I don't blame Jim Wooldridge for feeling upset, disheartened or disappointed (just a few terms found in the head coach's vocabulary this past month). He went as far to call the Cats' 82-56 loss Wednesday night to Nebraska a "nightmare."

A nightmare. Seems to sum up the 2000-01 season pretty well, doesn't it? With the exception of two victories over ranked opponents this year (No. 19 Iowa on Dec. 23 and Missouri), K-State's performances have tended to be quite predictable, especially in the Big 12 scene.

The Cats either (a) get pimp-slapped by 20+ points, (b) trail the whole game and then chip the lead down to five or six in the final minutes before committing a crucial turnover, or (c) give away the lead and the contest down the stretch and manage to literally "beat themselves."

Just about enough to start pulling your hair out, huh? That might be the case, but Wooldridge still has a full head of hair heading into Game No. 23.

On the flip side, though, Tech hasn't exactly done much to impress anyone, either.

The Red Raiders did get their first win over a ranked opponent in two years, but then again, they couldn't even handle the likes of Texas A&M-Corpus Christi at home in mid-December, falling 86-80.

All in all, I'm glad one of these struggling teams will get to taste victory this weekend. College-age men simply hate withdrawal — in any facet of life.

So as for Sunday, let's hope K-State fans get out to Bramlage and give the Cats an added boost against Tech. Needless to say, the team's success might depend on it.

After all, it might be the last chance at victory this season in Bramlage, with No. 7 Iowa State and No. 6 Kansas rounding out the Cats' 2000-01 home campaign.

Plus, unless Wooldridge's boys plan to pull an upset over either the Cyclones or Jayhawks, a win Sunday over Tech is needed to preserve K-State's streak of 54 straight seasons with a winning home record. The Cats post a 7-5 record in Manhattan this year.

Let's just hope K-State doesn't add a minus in the history books to its list of disappointments this season.

Derek is a sophomore in print and electronic journalism. You can e-mail him at dnb8765@ksu.edu.

K-State, KU tied at KSU Open

By ERIKA SAUERWEIN
Kansas State Collegian

The KSU Open is not a big meet for the track team.

It's just another weekend before the Big 12 Championships next week in Nebraska.

"It's a time to prepare," head coach Cliff Rovelto said.

The women's team competed Thursday night at Ahearn Field House against Cloud County, Emporia State, Fort Hays State and Kansas. The Wildcats tied with Kansas with four events won. Only half of K-State's top athletes competed in the meet.

"We accomplished what we needed to accomplish with the kids that competed today," Rovelto said. "It's an opportunity to get sharper before the Big 12, especially for those that don't get to do an event as much."

Tina Clincy set a personal record and a meet record in the 60-meter hurdles with a time of 8.58 seconds.

"Last week, Tina ran a poor race, and now she sets a personal record," Rovelto said. "That's got to make her feel good, and it makes us feel good. That will give her a lot more confidence going into the conference. In the Big 12, there is a lot of depth in the huddles, so you have to be on."

Nicole Grose placed first in the 400 meter with a time 57.93 seconds.

"She really showed us her fitness level by winning the event," Rovelto said. "She made a lot of tactical mistakes and still won."

Leslie Mikos won the weight-throw event with a throw of 55 feet, 3/4 inches, and the 4x400 meter relay team won the event by almost five seconds with a time of 3:55.39.

Athletes in the field events also performed well, Rovelto said.

"Morgan High jumped a lot better this week," he said.

"Terresha DeRossett also had some really close attempts in the high jump at reaching the NCAA qualifying mark. These girls will take this confidence into the conference."

Freshman Sarah Tilling also set a personal record in the weight throw by throwing 49 feet, 4 1/2 inches. K-State's best woman thrower, Rebekah Green did not compete, as didn't several others due to injuries and the need for rest.

"We have a couple of people banged up," Tilling said. "Today wasn't a big meet, but we all want to be doing our best before going into the conference. Our goal is to win the conference."

Today, the men's side of the KSU Open competes at Ahearn.

"We are expecting the exact same thing," Rovelto said. "We want to accomplish the same things with the men as we did today with the girls, and I think we will."

Baseball team takes lessons from LSU series to New Mexico

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

When head coach Mike Clark took his team to Baton Rouge, La. for a three-game series with the Louisiana State University Tigers, not too many people were expecting to see a battle.

Fresh off a national championship season, and full of inspiration in Coach Skip Bertman's final season at Louisiana State, many considered the Cats a stepping stone for Bertman's club in his swan song.

But Clark and his team were singing to a different tune.

"We went down there with the intention of winning that series," Clark said, "and we put ourselves in position in all three ball games."

Not only did the Cats put themselves in position to win the series, K-State shocked the college baseball ranks by ruining opening day for the defending national champions by taking the first game 9-8 behind a six-run fourth inning. After being shut out in the second game, K-State also held a 3-0 lead in the final game.

"We played with confidence," said designated hitter Josh

Cavender, Big 12 player of the week. "We knew what we had to do, and if we cut down the punchouts we win."

K-State suffered from a suffocating 25 strikeouts over the weekend, compared to just 10 for the Tigers, something the Cats have been working on in preparation for this weekend in Albuquerque, N.M.

"We've got to work on our pitch selection a little bit for this weekend," Cavender said.

Cavender seemed to be picking out pitches at will in the series against the Tigers, going 6 for 12 for the series with nine RBI and two home runs. The same kind of output will be expected out of Cavender this weekend when the Cats take on Utah, UNLV and New Mexico in the Spalding Baseball Fiesta.

"We're happy, but we're not satisfied," Clark said. "We did some good things against LSU, but we've got to get better and compete against these clubs this weekend."

K-State starts off with an 11:30 a.m. game against Utah (5-5) on Friday, a team that has picked up steam as the season has progressed. After losing five straight to start the season, the Utes are now on a five game winning streak.

"Utah's a good baseball team," Clark said. "Just because they're not nationally known doesn't mean they can't beat us."

Fueling the Utah effort will be center fielder Sam Swenson, who has found his groove early on for the Utes, banging four home runs and nine RBI while hitting at a .390 clip and shortstop Tommy Maestes, who leads the team in hitting with a .447 average.

K-State will see limited, if any, action from Big 12 batting average leader, transfer newcomer Osmar Castillo, due to an injury. In his absence, freshman Ty Soto is expected to see some action this weekend at second base for K-State with senior J.D. Loudabarger moving over to pick up the slack at shortstop. Soto went 1 for 5 against the Tigers with one RBI and a walk in the final game of the series.

K-State will finish the Fiesta with matchups against UNLV (2-4) at 11 a.m. Saturday and host school New Mexico (3-6) at 12:30 p.m. Sunday before heading to Austin next week to start Big 12 Conference play with the Texas Longhorns.

Calling all K-State Students! Paid internships for work abroad.

AIESEC Kansas representatives will give information sessions for students wishing to do paid internships overseas for a semester or a summer.

Wednesday, February 21
11:30 a.m. Calvin 218
1:30 p.m. Calvin 202

For further information call the Office of International Programs, 532-5990

New & Improved FREE Food Buffet

5 - 7

Hot Little Smokies & Meatballs
Potato Chips & French Onion Dip
Queso & Nacho Chips
Sliced Ham & Turkey
Pasta Salad
Veggie Tray
Cocktail Buns
Mustard & Mayo

Come Down Early

2 PIZZAS

$8.99
MEDIUM
WITH 1 TOPPING
CARRYOUT PLUS TAX,
DELIVERY CHARGE
MAY APPLY

MAKE IT LARGE!
for an additional $4.00
CARRYOUT PLUS
TAX, DELIVERY
CHARGE MAY APPLY

Little Caesars® Pizza
Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!

MANHATTAN (Westloop Center)

539-3333

KSU Meat Sale

WEDNESDAY & FRIDAY
3-6 p.m. & Noon-6 p.m.

Rm. 166 Weber Hall

BEEF

roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK

pork chops, pork steaks, sausage,
ground pork, bacon

For information call
532-1279

IT'S VALENTINE'S DAY ALL MONTH LONG AT RAMADA AND GOLD FORK!

ENJOY DINNER FOR TWO AT GOLD FORK

AND

SPEND THE NIGHT AT THE RAMADA PLAZA

(THERE WILL BE COMPLIMENTARY BOTTLE OF CHAMPAGNE IN YOUR ROOM!)

RAMADA®
PLAZA HOTEL

ALL FOR JUST

$79.95

Now that's a sweetheart of a deal!

AVAILABLE THROUGH FEBRUARY 28

Be Smart. Log On. Get Jobs! Check out the Virtual Career Fair

GeoSystems
ENGINEERING INC.

Mark A. Loes, C.E.T., C.W.F.
Principal

7802 Barton
Lenexa, Kansas 66214
(913) 962-0909/0924 (fax)

m_loes@geosystemseng.com

www.securitybenefit.com

The Security Benefit
Group of Companies

700 SW Harrison St., Topeka, Kansas 66636-0001

Please send resumes to the attention of
Human Resources. Our telephone number is 785-431-3000, fax is 785-431-3546.

Turner

A Century of Excellence

ENGINEERING STUDENTS! We have full-time career opportunities and co-op programs available for candidates seeking a career in construction management and general construction. Find out more about Turner - The nation's leading general builder & construction management company - at www.turnerconstruction.com and contact us at the virtual Career Fair! EOE

Hospitality Managers • Patient Service Managers • Dietitians • Retail Managers • Food Service Manager • Environmental Services Managers

Sodexo Marriott Services, is the largest provider of outsourced food service and facilities management in North America. We'll be conducting interviews on Tuesday, March 13, 2001, at Kansas State. We are looking for entry-level, goal-oriented leaders who will fill critical management roles in our expanding business locally and nationwide.

If you are unable to interview with us, please fax your resume to Sandy Joiner, Recruitment Manager, at (630) 810-0399, or e-mail it to sjoiner@sodexhomarriott.com

Sodexo Marriott

Introducing Sprint PCS Voice Command.™

There, that's one thing off your hands.

works on any
Sprint PCS Phone
call 500 people just
by saying their names

three simple ways to update your address book

Just say a name and the phone does the rest. Now you can get and dial phone numbers simply by speaking naturally into your Sprint PCS Phone. It's a convenient, powerful new way to store and access all of your important numbers, and it works on any Sprint PCS Phone.

FREE! Get Sprint PCS Voice Command free with a service plan of $49.99 or more and a one-year Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement™ - for a limited time.

And, as always, you can count on crystal-clear calls, thanks to the only all-digital, all-PCS nationwide network built from the ground up, serving more than 300 major metropolitan areas.

The clear alternative to cellular.™

Sprint PCS®

To find out more or to order your phone with free delivery, visit www.sprintpcs.com or call 1-800-480-4PCS. Or shop at one of the locations below:

JUNCTION CITY
701 N. Washington St.
(785) 762-3434

MANHATTAN
404 Poyntz Ave.
(785) 537-3500

SAUNA
1801 S. 9th St.
(785) 452-9720

Also available at:

The Sprint Store At:

RadioShack

amazon.com

OfficeMax

STAPLES

ABILENE
Mid-America
409 NW 3rd
(785) 263-3899

JUNCTION CITY
On-Line
895 S. Washington
(785) 223-0200

MANHATTAN
K-Mart
401 E. Poyntz Ave.
(785) 776-4026

SAUNA
K-Mart
400 S. Broadway
(785) 625-1591

Target
2828 Market Place
(785) 825-4354

Visit our booth at
the Virtual Job Fair!

DeBruce Grain
INC.

Find a great
internship at
DeBruce Grain Co.

www.debrucegrain.com

Geoprobe Systems

Geoprobe Systems
601 N Broadway
Salina, KS 67401
785-825-1842

info@geoprobesystems.com

www.geoprobesystems.com

Manufacturers of Geoprobe Soil Probing
Equipment, tools, and site remediation equipment.

Want to find a job involving consumer services with interests in monitored
services and energy?

Visit our booth at the Virtual Career Fair!

Western Resources®

www.ksu.edu/ces/

Broken parking meters require telephone call

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Students frustrated with not being able to find a parking spot on campus sometimes are frustrated upon finding a space.

"It would be confusing to pull into a spot and have the parking meter not work," Angie Snyder, senior in graphics, said. "How do you know if you are going to get a ticket or not?"

Darwin Abbott, director of Parking Services, said students will experience problems with parking meters occasionally, but for the most part, the meters are reliable.

"We experience most of the problems with the parking meters when there is a seasonal change," Abbott said. "When we go from fall to winter, the cold weather can sometimes hurt the battery. We usually go lot by lot and check the meters."

Abbott said that by calling Parking Services, the office will have a record of your name, vehicle and where you are parked, in order to prevent a ticket.

"We will try and get someone out to fix the meter," he said, "and then they will set the meter at the maximum amount of time for you." If a ticket already is issued,

Abbott said it might be cleared if there is a record of a call.

However, some K-State students said that calling is not always an easy task.

"If I park in a meter and find out it is broken, I don't have time to call before class," Snyder said. "I think that if they can have the attendants check the meters in order to give out tickets, they can check to see if they are broke before issuing the ticket."

Joe Anderson, junior in music education, said he doesn't think students should be accountable for broken meters.

"It should be their job to keep the equipment maintained," he said. "We should be able to expect to find a working meter in the parking lot."

SENATE

■ continued from page 1

Worcester said. "We will have a scheduling system that will give them first priority, but after that any other organization will have the chance to utilize the field."

Construction costs also will be funded by the KSU Alumni Association and City/University Tax Fund.

In other action, Senate passed a bill revising student activity fee funding regulations.

The revision would only allow campuswide organizations and college council groups to be allocated a maximum of $1,000 per group or a maximum of $100 per person — up to $1,000 — for travel expenses for each travel request submitted during the fiscal year.

This legislation will take effect at the beginning of the 2001-2002 Senate term.

CHASE

■ continued from page 1

is going on," Lohmann said. "It is all up in the air, but we may have to consider legal counseling."

Kraetzer and her three roommates were also relocated within Chase, but were able to move into a four bedroom.

"It is a different floor plan than what we originally had," Kraetzer said. "Plus, we miss our neighbors. We are mainly upset about the management not letting us know what is going on."

Krzanowsky said Chase gave the option of relocating or having their security deposit returned.

"Both of the sets of residents chose relocation," she said.

However, Kraetzer said she and her roommates will not renew their lease next year.

"We had plans before to move, but after all this, there is no doubt in our minds," she said. "They have left us completely out in the cold, and we have no idea what is going on."

Krzanowsky said the company has properties in three states and others in Manhattan, but said she does not wish to name those properties. She also said this was the only such incident she has seen with one of the company's properties.

"These are the only two apartments that have been condemned," she said. "They are the only ones we have had problems with, and we are working on solving the problem."

WRESTLING

■ continued from page 1

Heffner said. "It looks good."

Wrestling is fun to participate in and to watch because it isn't something people normally do, said Steve Martini, intramural director at the Rec Complex.

"These guys and gals are having fun," Martini said. "It's a fun sport to watch. Some matches last longer than a minute, while others last only a few seconds."

The winner of each wrestling division will take home their own intramural champion T-shirt, Martini said.

"Tonight is all about having fun, and most people don't take this seriously," he said. "One thing is for sure: their elbows are going to hurt tomorrow."

T.G.I.F.

$1 Draws $2 Wells

LONGHORNS

BAR & GRILL

Check out great rates at the Ramada

A KISS FROM OUR KITCHEN

VALENTINE'S DAY

2 FOR $25.00
offer good until Feb. 28th

Share an appetizer, choice of two entrees and our delicious Cinnamon Dippers® for dessert

Appetizers: choose one

- Spinach & Artichoke Dip
- Chicken & Spinach Egg Rolls
- Chicken Tenderloins

Entrees: choose two

- 8 oz. Center Cut Sirloin
- Barbeque Chicken
- Blackened Chicken Penne Florentine
- Beef or Chicken Fajitas

For all your real estate needs...

Ready to buy, but don't know where to start?

- Call, write or email us today.
- We will pre-qualify you in minutes.
- There is no cost to you.
- We offer buyers representation.

Are you considering selling your home?

- We will be glad to do a free market analysis to enable you to establish a value on your real estate.

A family agency with three generations of K.S.U. grads

Century 21

Century 21 Irvine Real Estate, Inc.
1018 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, KS (785) 539-2356 or 1-800-634-1259 or email-cent21@flintheills.com or www.Century21Irvine.com

MONTH TO MONTH LEASING

- Discount on rent if 9-month term paid in advance
- Water and Trash paid
- Community activities
- Convenient location
- 1,2,3, BR units
- Competitive rent
- Pool

539-5791

113 By Pass K
Manhattan

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus

ONE BEDROOMS

1022-1026 Sunset
$345-385
1212 Thurston
$440-460
1950-1960 Hunting
$440-460
1837 College Heights
$385

TWO BEDROOMS

1825-1829 College Hts.
$600-700
Aggieville Penthouse
Apts.
$550-725

3 & 4 BEDROOMS

1841 College Heights
$750-900

Call Today for an Appointment

537-7701

1109 Hylton Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502

NOW Leasing

1,2,3 and 4 Bedroom Apartments

WE OFFER-

- Private Balconies/Patios
- Microwaves, Refrigerators
- Garbage Disposals, Dishwasher
- Central heat/air, Ceiling Fans, Walk-in Closets
- Cable & Phone in every bedroom

YOU WILL ENJOY-

- 24-hour laundry & workout facilities
- Swimming pool with sundeck, basketball court
- 24-hour maintenance
- Discounted Cable w/HBO, water & trash paid
- Private clubhouse, fax & copier services
- Professional on-site management

Chase Manhattan

APARTMENTS

1409 Chase Place • 776-3663

Park Place Apartments

Showings Monday-Friday
1-2-3 Bedrooms
539-2951

Self-Serve

All it takes is a nickel

Clafin Books and Copies

American Legion

BINGO!

Sunday 2 p.m.

Tuesday 1:30 p.m.

Wednesday 7:30 p.m.

"Progressive Bingo"

Sundays & Wednesdays

- Win Big Bucks -

114 McCall Rd.

PIZZA SHUTTLE

DELIVERS

776-5577

1800 Claflin Road

Pregnancy Testing Center

539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Virtual Career Fair

Starts TODAY!

W
W
W
•
k s u
•
e d u
/
c e s

Feb. 16-22, 2001

Full time

Career Positions

What are YOU doing this weekend?
Join us for some K-State Basketball!

Women's Basketball

SATURDAY

Feb. 17th

vs. Nebraska

7PM

FREE RALLY TOWELS!

For tickets for both games call,

1-800-221-CATS!

Men's Basketball

SUNDAY Feb. 18

vs. Texas Tech

2:30 PM

FREE RALLY TOWELS!

WEEKENDER

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 2001

9

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 "Kapital"
4 McNally partner
8 Swampy area
12 Terrorist's weapon
13 OPEC bigwig
14 Loosen
15 Manifold
17 Topped a torte
18 Womenswear item
19 Every last crumb
21 Flushed
22 Spiny-finned fish
26 Witness's place
28 Irritate
30 Throughfare (Abb.)
31 Centers
32 Train portion
33 Ballet bend
34 Consumed
35 One of the Brady Bunch
36 Christmas mail decorations

DOWN
2 True, in Barcelona
3 Barn attachment
4 Put up
5 Increased the volume
6 Zilch
7 Visionary
8 Colonial writer
9 Fam. member
10 Citric quencher
11 Mercury or Mars
16 Whirlis black
20 Illumination unit
23 — Land (Los Angeles)
24 Malevolence
25 Ball-bearing items
26 Counterfeit
27 Nobel-winning bishop
28 First victim
29 Truck driver's place
32 Bart Simpson's expletive
33 Gaffer Calvin
35 Lustrous black
36 Navy builder
38 Gary Cooper role
39 Alley oops?
42 Sandwich cookie
43 Unyielding
44 Year-end refrain word
45 Elbow
46 Raw rock
47 Tease
49 Grecian vessel

Solution time: 25 mins.

ROOF CHITP PIET ABLE HEAL OWE POLLYANNA LIT
STALLED ZAIRIE
MIAPS OUR KIW
AGO MEG GOD
DELL NEE ASKS
LATIN AD
PRIVY PRESTO
LOW POLYESTER
OHIO EVIL YARIA
PEIG DATE ERIN

Yesterday's answer 2-16 vessel

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

2-16 CRYPTOQUIP

L W XLSJ AN APLYS
NYJ DLHPA HJA B
UXBA ALVJ UVND B

UNVS LY APJ VNBW
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: I SUPPOSE THE CONFIDENT CARPENTER CONSIDERED HIMSELF A TRUE SHELF-MADE MAN.
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: A equals T

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Digital Shelf

DVD & PS2 Rental

We buy Dreamcasts, PS2 games & DVDs.
www.ksudigitalshelf.com
now online and updated

701 N. 11th
776-6959

MOVIE TIMES

SETH CHILDS CINEMAS

"Cast Away"
4 p.m., 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.
"Chocolat"
7 p.m.
"Hannibal"
4 p.m., 7 p.m. and 9:45 p.m.
"Head Over Heels"
4:25 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.
"Left Behind"
7:10 p.m.
"Oh Brother, Where Art Thou?"
4:30 p.m., 7:15 p.m. and 9:35 p.m.
"Save the Last Dance"
4:05 p.m., 7:15 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.
"Saving Silverman"
4:35 p.m., 7:20 p.m. and 9:40 p.m.

"The Wedding Planner"
4:35 p.m., 7:25 p.m. and 9:45 p.m.
"Valentine"
4:20 p.m. and 10 p.m.
"Sweet November"
4:15 p.m., 7:10 p.m. and 9:50 p.m.
"Recess: School's Out"
4:40 p.m., 7 p.m. and 9:15 p.m.
"Down to Earth"
4:40 p.m., 7:20 p.m. and 9:40 p.m.

Forum Hall:
"Dr. Strangelove"
7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Movies at Seth Childs Cinema are $4.50 for matinees and $6.75 for evening shows.

Grammy-award winning artist to perform Louis Armstrong tribute

By BRENDA KIRKHAM
Kansas State Collegian

It only makes sense that Nicholas Payton is playing a tribute to jazz great Louis Armstrong.

Not only does Payton attempt to reproduce the complicated sound of Armstrong in his acclaimed performance, but with the trumpeter's cheeks and short-cropped hair, the resemblance Payton bears to the jazz legend is uncanny.

Payton, a Grammy-award winner, will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday at McCain Auditorium.

Payton is considered by many to be one of the most influential trumpet players in the history of jazz. Wayne Goins, director of jazz, said. Payton and his band are touring all over the United States to mark the 100th anniversary of Armstrong's birth with their Armstrong Centennial Celebration.

Even though he's only 28 years old, Payton already has performed with many legendary jazz musicians and has won a Grammy, said Thom Jackson, marketing and development officer for McCain. His 1997 duo with trumpeter Doc Cheatham won him the award for "Best Solo Jazz Performance."

Growing up in New Orleans, Payton started playing the trumpet at the age of four when he received a trumpet from his dad as a present.

He started playing professionally at the age of 11 with the All-Stars Brass Band, entertaining tourists and playing in the Mardi Gras parades.

Payton's style is taken not only from local New Orleans musicians but from internationally known artists such as Miles Davis and Stevie Wonder.

Jackson said Payton waited to go on tour until his musical style had matured, and his sound has benefited greatly.

"He is considered to be one of the best and premier jazz trumpet players in the country, even at a very young age," Jackson said.

Goins said he is not the only local musician and jazz enthusiast who is looking forward to Payton's performance.

"I just think it's fantastic that he's coming to Manhattan because we get a chance to see the best right here in our own backyard," he said.

Goins said Payton already is a part of the history of great New Orleans trumpets.

New Orleans trumpets are different than those from other areas because of the intense level of talent said Curtis Oberle, graduate student in music. Oberle said this dates back to the days when jazz bands would play on riverboats. There were so many musicians that to be noticed, a musician really had to work at bringing something new and fresh to the scene.

Louis Armstrong did this in earlier years, and Nicholas Payton is considered to be the newest comparison to Armstrong, Oberle said.

"He is regarded as carrying the torch for the New Orleans trumpet sound," he said.

Oberle also said it is important that people in Manhattan get exposure to great artists such as Payton, and people should take advantage of the opportunity to hear such a legend and not have to travel to a bigger city to get the experience.

Goins said Payton considers it an honor to be compared to Armstrong and to carry on the tradition of great jazz trumpet playing.

"He represents the entire history of jazz trumpet right now," Goins said.

Jazzing it UP

Q&A with Payton

By AMY J. DEVAULT
Kansas State Collegian

Q: Why did you decide to do the Louis Armstrong tribute?

Being a trumpeter, Louis Armstrong has always been a source of inspiration for me. The Armstrong tribute is something I've had in my mind for a long time, but I wanted to wait until I could do something worthy of the jazz master. I hope people not familiar with Armstrong will enjoy it and be inspired to listen to Louis Armstrong's work — maybe go out and buy one of his recordings. Hopefully, those already familiar with Armstrong will hear something new — a different twist with what our band does with his music.

Q: What do you consider Armstrong's most important contributions to music?

Armstrong revolutionized the art of jazz and improvisation. Trumpetwise, he expanded the range of the instrument. Before him, trumpeters only played up to C's, and Louis played up to F, G and A. Harmonically he was far more advanced than anyone before him. Both instrumentally, and vocally, he changed the interpretation of the song.

Q: Since 1995, when you became a band leader, you have recorded six albums, played with some of the great jazz musicians and won a Grammy Award for Best Jazz Solo Performance. How would you describe your musical growth in the last six years?
I've gotten better at being able to express my ideas through music. Music is about expression. When you play, you're talking to people — the instrument is just the vehicle through which you communicate. The older I get, and the more I understand about life, the better I become at that.

Q: As a composer and arranger, is there a particular style or period that you draw from most?

I love all sorts of music — classical, jazz, R&B, hip-hop, even '80s music. In my compositions, I draw from all types of music. I love good music, not just jazz. I look for music that just sounds good to me.

Q: What do you hope you will have accomplished 50 years from now?

I hope I can make some kind of contribution to music, be someone who added something to the great music that's out there. If, 50 years from now, some kid can pick up one of my records and say, "Yeah, that's Nick Payton, he's cool," that would please me.

THE GONGFARMER

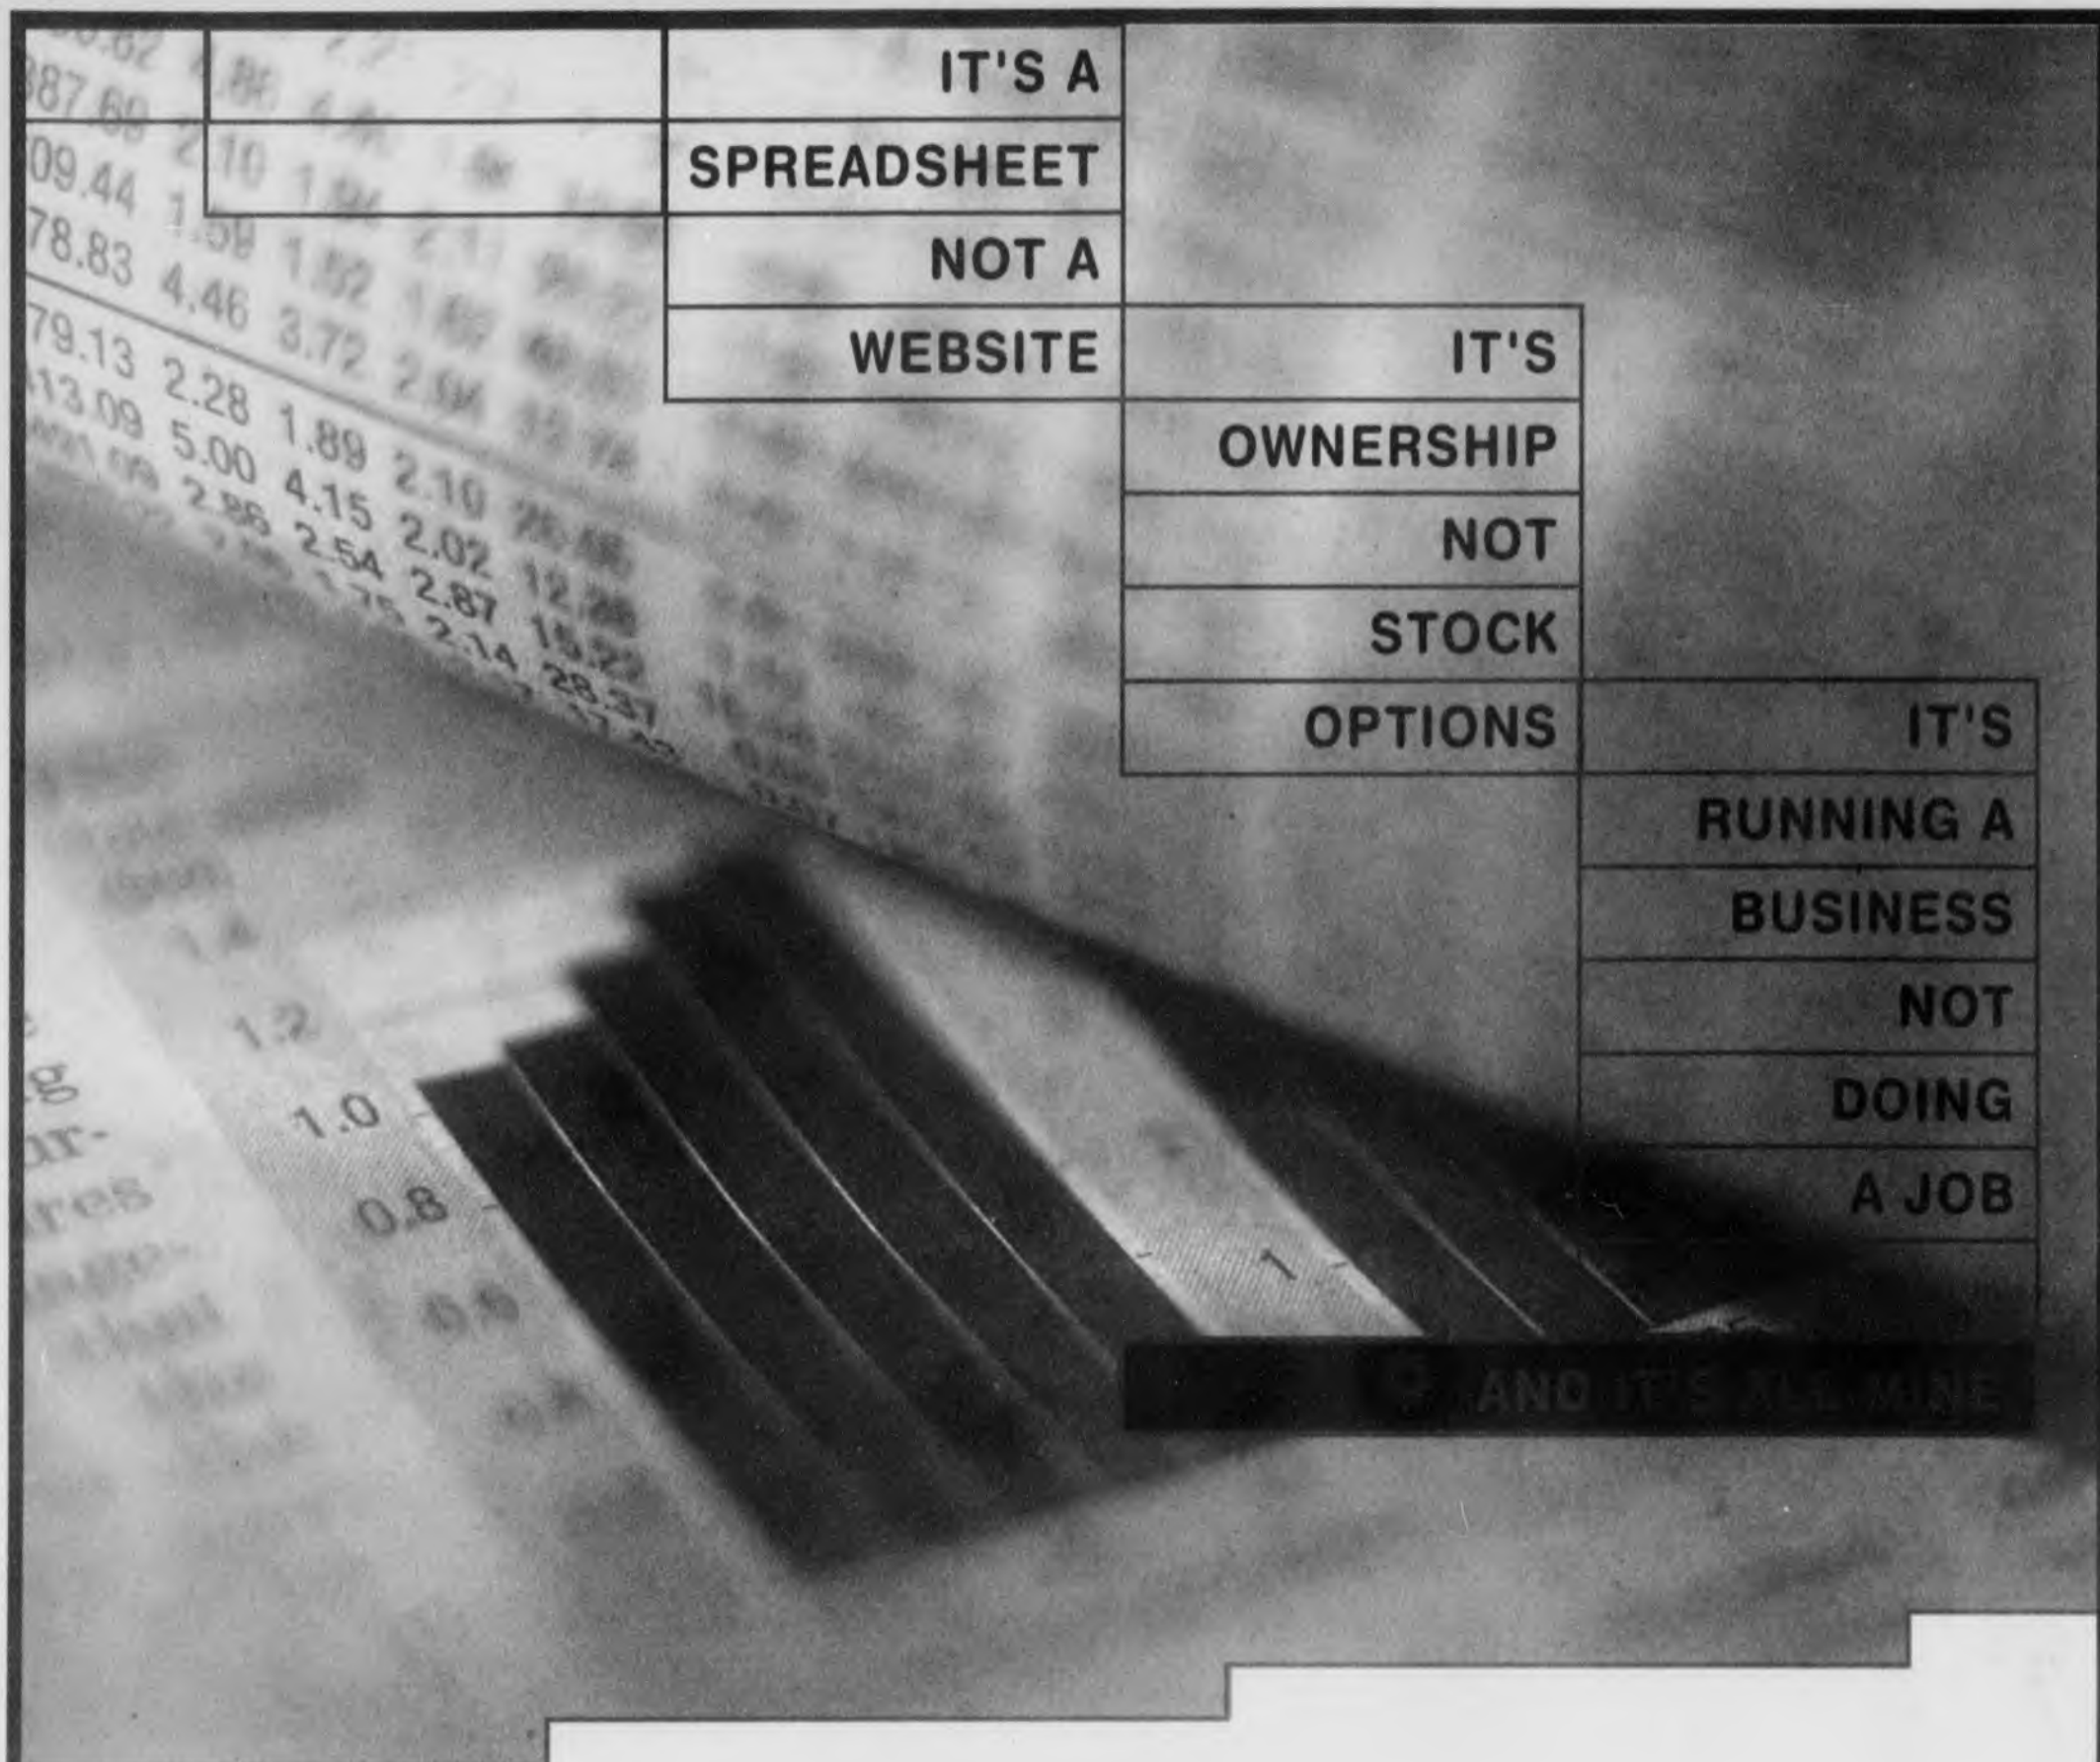

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

IT'S A SPREADSHEET NOT A WEBSITE
IT'S OWNERSHIP
NOT STOCK
OPTIONS	IT'S RUNNING A BUSINESS
	NOT DOING A JOB

AND IT'S ALL MINE

There are easier jobs than the ones at Enterprise.

I've done them. But here I see the whole picture, not the inside of a cubicle. I deal with clients, grow my business, hire people I like being around. And when the balance sheet says we're #1 in operating profits...nothing's better.

Enterprise is about challenge, pace, solving problems. I'm fast-tracking in a $5 billion company with 38,000 people. Yet it's also a tight-knit culture, where energetic people have a lot of fun taking ownership of their careers. And I really enjoy that.

My personal enterprise enterprise.com

Enterprising applicants, please contact us through the Virtual Career Fair or apply online at www.enterprise.com. EOE

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 2001

11

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Available August, one-bedroom unit, central air/heating, balcony, fully equipped kitchen, quiet, off-street parking, water and trash paid, low utility bills. 539-2702.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE AUGUST. Spacious one and two-bedrooms. 1100 block of Blumont, trash paid, off-street parking, no pets. 776-0683.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW, TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $530. Call 785-456-2612.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets 776-2102.

"LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION." Available August 1. Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY. Off-street parking, pets maybe. (785)632-6240 or (785)632-0917.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. FIREPLACE, all appliances including WASHING MACHINE, DRYER. Small quiet complex. No pets, no smokers. $475 August 1. 776-6318.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS CLOSE TO CAMPUS. Water/trash paid. $515-$565/month. 539-1897.

ROOMS FOR RENT in nice two-story house. One block from campus. One-seventh utilities. Call Cynthia. 537-7381.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

ONE, TWO, and THREE-BEDROOMS. One block to campus. All bills paid. Off-street parking. No pets. Available June and August. 313-4812.

TWO-BEDROOM AVAILABLE March 1. Park Place Apartments $445 includes expanded basic cable/water/trash. Call 565-0636 or email sbaker@wheat.ksu.edu

WELL MAINTAINED, one-eight-bedroom houses, and apartments, also studio apartments, central air, washer/dryer. NEAR K-STATE June or August lease. (785)539-0549.

115
Rooms Available

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Three bedrooms from campus. $175/month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-9178.

120
For Rent-
Houses

ATTRACTIVE, CLOSE to campus with new appliances, includes washer/dryer. Three, five, six-bedroom houses. No pets. Available June 1. 313-4812.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE. Den, attached garage with opener, pool, tennis, basketball, clubhouse. No pets, no smokers. $600 August 1. 776-6318.

145
Roommate Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bathroom HOUSE. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for great furnished two-bedroom, two bath. Sublease, $325/month. Enjoy your FIRST MONTH rent FREE! 537-8226.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three bedrooms from campus. $175/month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-9178.

255
Other Services

ELLERY, ENGINEERING senior, does affordable maintenance, home or rental including appliance repair, also build budget computers to fit your needs. Eight years experience. 539-0232.

300
employment opportunities

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, water polo, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May-early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext 281 or email rhondam@gsmh.org

THE COLLEGEIAN cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Carer classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegeian urges our readers to contact The Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

GET paid for your opinion! Earn $15-$125 and more per survey! money4opinions.com

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. For info, call (203)977-1720.

ARTISTS/ ART Students. Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltankofgas1@hotmail.com

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. TRIPP LAKE CAMP for Girls, Poland, Maine. Noted for picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June thru mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, baseball, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, golf, flag football, roller hockey, field hockey, swimming, sailing, water skiing, gymnastics, dance, horseback riding, archery, weight training, newspaper, photography, video, woodworking, ceramics/pottery, crafts, fine arts, silver jewelry, copper enamel, nature study, radio/electronics, theater, costume, piano, accompanist, music instrumentalist, backpacking, rock climbing, canoeing/kayaking, ropes course, secretariat, nanny. Call Takajo at 800-250-8282 or Tripp Lake at 800-997-4347. Submit application on-line at www.takajo.com

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplaurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplaurel.com.

CRUISE LINE- entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruiseadvice.com

DAYCARE ASSISTANT wanted. Applicants need to be creative and organized. Call Julie at 776-0019.

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary-Room-Board-Travel. 1-800-782-2820.

FARM WITH crops and livestock looking for part-time help. Experience with shop work, crop machinery and planters helpful. (785)457-3440.

FULL-TIME DELIVERY/ warehouse person at Faith Furniture. Please apply in person at 302 E. Highway 24.

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a Camp Counselor at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains SW of Denver. General counselors and program specialist in horseback riding, hiking, backpacking, crafts, nature, challenge course, drama, dance. Administrative positions also available. June-early August 2001. MAKE A DIFFERENCE! Competitive salary, room, board, health insurance and travel allowance. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmh.org

KANSAS STATE COLLEGEIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 member summer staff. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, kitchen positions, custodial, maintenance and internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs is a nationally-recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 people each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For application or more information call or write: Rock Springs 4-H Center, c/o Summer Jobs, 5405 West Hwy K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. A representative from Rock Springs will be visiting KSU on February 12, 13, 14, contact the Career Development Center for more information.

WANTED: Looking for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@nrratel.net

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

510
Automobiles

1992 JEEP Wrangler. Four-cylinder, five-speed, 115K, air-conditioning, white/black, soft top, new tires, much more. $5500 firm. 395-0000 ext. 13.

1993 NISSAN Altima GLE. Auto, four-door, leather, sunroof, pearl beige, all options, low miles, great condition. Best offer. 532-7520/537-7976.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space. EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

600 travel/trips

630
Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, ednessummers@aol.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $399 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen!) Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$7.35
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$8.65
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $10.15
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103
(across from the K-State Student Union).
Office hours are
Monday through Friday
from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
The office is open
except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account
with Student
Publications Inc.
Cash, check,
MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on
all returned checks.
We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly
classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in
your ad, please call us.
We accept responsibility
only for the first
wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item
before your ad has expired, we will refund
you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge,
we'll put a headline
above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call

LEE'S WESTERN WEAR

ARIAT

BOOTS $126.00 TO $178.00

Lee's Western Wear
MANHATTAN, KS
776-6715

MON.-FRI. 10-6
SAT. 10-5:30
8426 E. HWY 24
MANHATTAN, KS
776-6715

Wondering if you might be pregnant?

We can help!

Stop by Birthright
for a pregnancy test
that is free, accurate,
reliable, and confidential.
No appointment needed.

Birthright
of Manhattan inc.
206 S. 5th
(785) 539-2555

MFA Candidate Exhibition
brought to you by GSOVA

KSU Willard Hall Gallery
February 18th-22nd

&

Reception:
February 16th 5-8pm

EXPLOITATION

CHRIS ROCK

A story of premature reincarnation.

DOWN TO EARTH

PG-13 PARENTS STRONGLY CAUTIONED
Some Material May Be Inappropriate for Children Under 13
For rating reasons, go to www.filmratings.com

www.downtoearthmovie.com

STARTS FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16TH | SETH CHILD THEATRE
2010 N. BROAD • 785-776-9000

For the store nearest you please call TOLL-FREE
1-877-hastings(427-8464)
Monday-Friday 9am-6pm Central Time.
Offers good thru 2/25.

hastings
Your Entertainment Superstore

30% OFF

Books $13.99 Each

Check out Microsoft's simple guides to answering basic questions for Excel and Windows. With easy to use flowcharts to identify key problems, you can target the solution and fix it fast. The books also include FREE solution updates on the web!

Music

Get $6.00 Credit*

Dave Matthews Band
Everyday
Available Feb. 27th

FREE Vitamin C-More

*when you trade in Backstreet Boys
"Black & Blue"

Reserve your copy TODAY and reserve a FREE Limited Ed. Web Link Card
While supplies last.

Join us February 26th for
Dave Matthews Band
Listening Party

Available to rent or buy.

Video

$19.99 Each ON SALE DVD

Bring It On (DVD)

Urban Legends
Final Cut DVD

Michael Jordan
To The Max

$9.99 VHS $14.99 DVD ON SALE

Greek Community

Lambda Chi Alpha would like to invite the following women to their 2001 Valentine's Day Party.

Kristi Anspaugh	Dee Kilpatrick	Rebecca Roth
Mary Bosco	Valerie Kircher	Shannon Rundell
Whitney Boomer	Katie Khun	Jacque Schwartz
Tracy Boucher	Shelly Laubhan	Kristin Swafford
Megan Bradbury	Amy Martin	Andrea Trapp
Jayne Coon	Ali Miller	Kristina Von Pange
Janele Davignon	Jennifer Mohrney	Jess Warkentin
Andrea Ediger	Rachel Noll	Brandee Welgos
Jessica Fallin	Jenny Oehrke	Lori Whitney
Maris Haster	Amanda Pittler
Sarah Johnson	Julie Roonie

Looking for a way to get involved?
A Home Away from Home?
COME CHECK US OUT!

Spring Recruitment
February 28 & March 1

For more information
Please Contact Kristina at 395-2960

SIGMA KAPPA SORORITY
Bringing Sisterhood To Life

Delta Tau Delta

Semi-Formal February 17, 2001

Sarah Wyr	Courtney Wickline	Sara Bulk
Laurie Burkhart	Maggie Wu	Maria Agostino
Jennifer Munzer	Kristin Johnson	Liz Sorenson
Lara Litton	Abby Robertson	Molly McPartlin
Jessica Irick	Jamie Oberg	Kari Baldonada
Kristen Summerson	Dana Miller	Trisha Wagner
Shannon Ryan	Laura Mendola	Bridget Greene
Abby Foust	Kim Nguyen	Erin Dean
Carly McKinley	Betsy Kelly	Jonna Gordon
Kelly Ragan	Katie Clancey	Jessica Johnson
Katie Witcher	Laura Faulkner	Joanna Vandraska
	Courtney Rowland

Fiji - ATO

Rumble Stumble Feb. 17, 2001

Meridith Duncan
Kate Stucky
Erin Mauck
Jessica Butterfield
Stacy Itaas
Krista Guntell
Kari Dammerich
Lee Gaddie
Audre Klassen
Kelsey Dunoway

Averie Windsor
Keri Wills
Kelly West
Lindsey Allen
Jessica Vega
Carly Kimbrough
Karen Ast
Chelsea Hixon
Cammie Barkyoub
Renee Frazey
Lori Engel
Stacy Williams
Erica Fisher
Sara Tirrell

Jamie Ingram
McKenzie Reifschneider
Ashley Cloud
Mary Weixelman
Jo Morrison
Becky Ramel
Trina Davis
Lori Pollman
Katie Zellhoefer
Lindsay Tanner
Meredith Dikeman
Krista Annan
Megan Meyer

Tiffany Fisher
Alison Badger
Kassie Inness
Jana Schmitt
Holly White
Nikki Spencer
Amy Summers
Whitney Jarvis
Casey Hale
Katie Spathe
Jenny Rice
Angela Weins
Sara Evans
Alisha Blackmore

Jill Rodriguez
Monica Mokia
Erin Eskie
Courtney Ash
Amy Scanlan
Sara Hough
Melissa Kochne
Lewrin Bartsch
Gala Azember
Nancy Hall

Kappa Kappa Gamma ~ Gamma Alpha Sapphire Ball February 16, 2001

Seth Martin
Dane Hartman
Ted Conrad
Drew Timberlake
Derrick S. Foul
Bradley Little
Scott Simon
Chris Lilley
Cody Navis
Josh Gruber
Drew Whitlock
Brian Burns
Kevin Knuch
Joe Hanson
Charles Morrison
Andrew Jones
Jared Baughitz
Thomas Kephart
Chris Condon
Brian Turner
John O'Hara
Scott Bess
Derek Harnad
Mark Rader
Chris Perkins

David Shodgrass
Eddie Hamlin
Travis Engelbert
Ryan Young
Mike Timmermeyer
Paul Deane
Adam Baldwin
Mark Perrier
Daniel Meyers
Mike Walker
Cade Rensink
Tyler Delzeit
Matt Newhouse
Ryan Workoff
Cody Tubbs
Caleb Larue
Justin French
David Pratt
Andy Armbruster
Jon Watkins
Matthew Bell
Brent Osborn
Dave Smith
Jonathan Carl
Cris James

Jacob Taussig
Matt Phipps
Chris Flynn
Dustin Dibble
Stafford Redding
Jason Jaggard
Jeff Compton
Daniel Schmidt
Thomas Sleen
Ryan Snell
Darin Todd Schmanke
Heath Farrar
Derrick Miller
Officer Shepard
Casey Connealy
Matt Selee
Ryan Thompson
Brent McKeeman
Steve Brandau
Mike Lyon
Chad Johnson
Eric Schraeder
Evan Grier
Matt Brooks
Jon Richardson

Tyler Darnell
Jason Jaggard
Jeff Maxwell
Tom Huemen
Chris Graham
John David Pond
Cody Tubbs
Dan Lindahl
Sean McGivern
Scott Simon
TJ Villanueva
Erik Dill
Jim Schreyer
Steven Copp
Luka Sealy
Justin Fulk
Carl Schaeffer
Scott Parker
Jacob Pittrell
Heath Ledger
Ben Alleck
Kevin Knox
Casey Clark
Drew Peine

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 52 ■ LOW 29

MONDAY

8

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 19, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 101

ALL TIME
3pt SHOOTER

STATECOLLEGIAN.CO

Woodlee
grabs record in game with NU

■ page 6

Burger King to shut down for summer

By RACHEL POWERS
Kansas State Collegian

Burger King in the K-State Student Union food court will close June 22 and reopen Aug. 13 for the start of the fall semester.

Robin DiPietro, Burger King district manager, said Burger King will not be open for six weeks this summer because it cannot sell enough to make a profit during the summer semester. She said that last summer the restaurant had to move employees to other locations because it was slow in the Union, she said.

"It just isn't viable to stay open," DiPietro said. "Last summer sales were low, and we were extremely slow. This year we are going to try closing for about six weeks during this slower time. We are not sure if we will do this again. We'll try this and see how it goes from there."

DiPietro said last summer the restaurant spent money supplying food that was not sold, paying for electricity and paying employees, but could not break even. She also said the down time would allow the manager to have a vacation.

Cindie Snyder, Union marketing and promotions director, said Burger King will close June 22, the last day of student orientation.

"During June we have about 4,000 incoming students visit campus with their parents," she said. "After the orientation is over, Burger King will close for the summer months."

More than half of K-State students do not attend summer semester. The Registrar's Office reported 6,215 students enrolled for summer 2000, compared with the 19,494 students now enrolled in K-State classes.

See BURGER KING on PAGE 5

City continues cleanup from snowstorm

By JENNIFER O'NEILL
Kansas State Collegian

For more than a week, K-State students and the community have been affected by a snowstorm that canceled the university's classes Feb. 9.

While K-State is back in session, snow remains on many side streets in the city.

"The problem is that the cars parked on the side of the street and the end of driveways are being piled up with snow from the plows," Mayor Karen McCulloh said.

The snow removal crews began working the morning of Feb. 8 in preparation for the storm. After the big snow fell Feb. 9 and 10, crews were working 14-hour shifts to make the roads drivable.

The crews started downtown and made sure all main artery roads and emergency snow routes were cleared.

"We initially hit the most highly traveled, arterial and collector streets," Ron Fehr, city manager, said.

Fehr said there are about 35 emergency snow routes. Some of those roads are Anderson and Bluemont avenues, Tuttle Creek Boulevard (to eastern city limits) and Kimball Avenue.

McCulloh said another reason it is taking a while to clear all of the streets is because the winter weather did not ease last week, causing crews to constantly reclean major streets.

Mary Knapp, state climatologist, said Manhattan has received more than seven inches of snow in February.

See ROADS on PAGE 5

THE RAVE SCENE

"You're probably heard a lot of things about this crazy thing called the rave scene. Forget everything you've heard."

— a flier taken from a Kansas City, Kan., rave

PHOTOS BY EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

As a disc jockey, Ernie Seville says he has a perspective of the rave scene different from that of a rave-goer. He enjoys playing at a party and the ability to help people have a good time through the music. However, he says he dislikes the drugs. While walking through the campus, people call him "Aturnie," the stage name he uses while playing at either Elements of Taste or a rave in a bigger city.

Rave-goers enjoy atmosphere, music of all-night parties

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

Ernie Seville wants to make music, but he dislikes the negative aspects associated with being a disc jockey in the rave or dance music scene.

And he's not alone. Hundreds of people who feel the rave experience is all about hanging out and listening to music feel the rave drug, ecstasy, gives them a bad rap. Still, the stigma doesn't stop people from going to the parties.

"It seems like public sentiment is that raves are bad," said Erich Douglass, senior in kinesiology at the University of Missouri-Rolla, "and that everyone who goes there is using drugs. It is like a giant party, a giant house party."

Seville is learning the craft of being a DJ and spends countless hours perfecting his music. While walking through the campus, people call him "Aturnie," the stage name he uses while playing at Elements of Taste or a rave in a bigger city.

He likes playing at the Aggieville bar where he simply can concentrate on his music and nothing else — like the drugs typically associated with raves. Seville, who has aspirations of playing big clubs and parties, is heading to graduate school and will study recording.

As a DJ, Seville said he has a perspective of the rave scene different from that of a rave goer. There are aspects of raves he likes, such as playing at a party and helping people have a good time via music. He likes the situations where canned food drives are sponsored at raves and benefits for cancer occur.

However, what he dislikes is the drugs. Sometimes, people abuse drugs and forget what raves are all about — the music. Seville said his profession is targeted at the all-night dance parties.

"We as DJs are more harassed than people with the drugs on them," Seville said. "I have had to dump out records, records searched and equipment torn, and they gave us a worse time than the purveyors of the drugs. Kind of ridiculous. We are just here to do a job."

He and two of his fellow DJs, John Stone and Adam Welker, otherwise known as "Eclypz" and "Flotilla," said the popularity of raves is hurting the lifestyles of musicians and some ravers.

"Since the music is becoming more massified, it leads to more exploitation of drugs, and people don't go to parties for the dancing purposes, they go for the drugs," Welker said.

As a result, the trio said they are becoming more than just DJs.

"John and I were talking, and it's like the DJs and the people throwing the parties are becoming more like police officers themselves so the party can continue and doesn't get busted."

Welker said parties are being thrown where police officers are working in agreement with promoters to keep the drugs out.

"We are policing people, and we cannot enjoy ourselves anymore," Stone said. "It's like having a house party and you are always worried if something is going to go wrong. If you see a kid pulling some gun out of his pocket to give it to somebody else, you throw them out and don't ask questions — you just react."

Police officers in the area have been responding to the use as well.

See RAVE on PAGE 5

The enjoyment a disc jockey receives from playing the dance music makes it easier to tolerate the negative aspects of raves, such as stereotypes and false associations with the drug, ecstasy. In addition to being a performer, Ernie Seville said listening to the dance music that has evolved into different genres can be a mesmerizing experience.

Cadets endure physical challenges in preparation for evaluation

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Group One runs across log bridges at the second of 20 obstacles on the course at Fort Riley. The course helps the squads prepare for their summer evaluations. The squads ran the course in 18-degree weather.

By CORBIN H. CRABLE
Kansas State Collegian

Four squads of ROTC cadets braved the cold weather at Fort Riley on Saturday to take part in an activity that would help to determine where their careers in the military would take them.

The squads went through a 20-part obstacle course in 18-degree weather in preparation for a summer evaluation of their skills.

Cadet Jeff Redmond said the obstacle course is important in preparing for their summer evaluation and letting cadets know what they'll be going through next year. The cadets' performances on the course itself is not evaluated.

"We go to Seattle during the summer and get evaluated on a lot of things," Redmond said. "Based on these evaluations, you get a score, which helps your evaluators to decide where to send you after you graduate."

Redmond said the course, which includes log hurdles, ditch jumps and rope-bridge crossings, is physically demanding and requires endurance.

"It zaps all of your strength. It's physically exhausting," he said.

The week's accumulation of ice and snow didn't help, either, Redmond said. Because of the weather conditions, three of the 20 points on the course had to be closed down.

Major Art DeGroat, who led the squads in a walk-through tour of the course beforehand, said he believes the weather conditions are appropriate.

"The challenging weather is a good thing," said DeGroat, K-State professor of military science. "It introduces adversity into the equation. They learn to manage themselves and still go through the course."

The cadets who ran the course, however, had a different opinion.

"The cold weather hurt us. We'd get sweaty and then cold again," Cadet Jacob Moulin said. "There was a lot of slick terrain, and so the weather was a problem. In all, though, the course went well."

Redmond said that in the course, one main challenge sticks out to him.

"Trying to keep the team's cohesion and make it through the whole course is the hardest part," he said. "You're only as strong as your weakest link."

This, in turn, benefits the cadets, DeGroat said. "It builds confidence and leadership and teamwork skills," he said. "There's a buddy system in the obstacle course. The guys look out for each other."

Cadet Mistee Luna said she did indeed have to work with her fellow cadets throughout the course.

"It was challenging, and we had to use teamwork," she said.

Cadet Kevin Morgan's squad was the first to finish the course. Morgan said the sense of accomplishment outweighs the challenge of the course.

"You're working so hard during the course that you feel great when it's over because you know you've finished it," Morgan said.

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jib7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glasscock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
kg3544@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
bw3544@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bs3544@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jib7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
nh3544@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nf3544@ksu.edu
Michael Holl
mh3544@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jd3544@ksu.edu
Erin Schneeweis
es3544@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm3544@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
ch3544@ksu.edu
Danny Ellsworth
de3544@ksu.edu
Allison Duncan
ad3544@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
er3544@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian (ISSN 1041-1010), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., 1010 E. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekly during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Payment for advertising is paid to Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1010 E. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-1102.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

Overland Park couple among civilians on sub

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. — An Overland Park couple was among the 16 civilians aboard the USS Greenville when it collided with a Japanese fishing vessel off Honolulu.

Jay and Carol Brehmer returned to their home in suburban Kansas City on Saturday from their vacation in Hawaii.

Jay Brehmer released a statement to reporters that said the couple was cooperating fully with naval investigators and the National Transportation Safety Board. Of the 35 people aboard the fishing vessel, 26 were rescued and nine remained missing Saturday.

"Our thoughts and prayers go out to the families of those killed in this tragedy," the statement said.

The 360-foot submarine was on a one-day mission Feb. 9 with 16 civilians aboard as part of a community relations program when it struck the 500-ton Ehime Maru.

The submarine performed an emergency surfacing drill as a demonstration for the civilians. The submarine's rudder superstructure knifed through the hull of the ship, which sank within minutes, officials said.

— The Associated Press

Clinton writes piece in NY Times about pardon

NEW YORK — It is utterly false to suggest fugitive financier Marc Rich was pardoned in return for donations to the Clinton library, former President Clinton wrote in an Op-Ed piece in Sunday editions of The New York Times.

Clinton said he pardoned Rich, who allegedly evaded $48 million in U.S. taxes, for a number of reasons, and only after concluding that the case should have been handled in a civil rather than criminal court.

"The suggestion that I granted the pardons because Mr. Rich's former wife, Denise, made political contributions and contributed to the Clinton library foundation is utterly false," Clinton wrote.

The former president said he specifically fashioned the pardon to allow for the pursuit of possible civil charges against Rich.

"There was absolutely no quid pro quo. Indeed, other friends and financial supporters sought pardons in cases, which, after careful consideration based on the information available to me, I determined I could not grant," he wrote.

Furthermore, Clinton noted that under the terms of the pardon Rich was required to waive all legal defenses he might have planned to use in the event of civil litigation brought by the government after the pardon.

Clinton also wrote that "the case for the pardons was reviewed and advocated" by former White House counsel Jack Quinn and three Republican attorneys: Lewis Libby, Vice President Dick Cheney's chief of staff; Leonard Garment, a former Nixon White House official; and William Bradford Reynolds, a former official in the Reagan Justice Department.

All three of the Republican attorneys denied the claim.

"It is absolutely false that I knew about and endorsed the idea of a pardon," Garment said in a separate article in the Times.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletin@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

Applications for KSU Student Foundation are now available at the Foundation building or in the Office of Student Activities and Services. An informational reception will be at 4 p.m. today in Union 212 for students interested in the organization. Applications are due in the OSAS by Friday.

Blue Key scholarship applications are due at 4 p.m. today in the OSAS or the Leadership House.

Collegiate 4-H will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in Waters 137.

Christian Science Organization will meet at 5:30 p.m. today in Danforth Chapel.

Beta Alpha Psi will meet at 7 tonight in the Union Big 12 Room. Phillips Petroleum careers in accounting will be discussed.

K-State Women's Rugby will meet at 4:15 p.m. today in the northwest field of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

KSU Aikido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.

Education Council will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Blumont 100.

The registration deadline for Career and Employment Services' Dining Etiquette Workshop has been extended to Tuesday. The workshop will be at 5:30 p.m. March 1 in the Derby Dining Center. Professional business attire is required at the dinner. The cost is $5.25 per person or meal exchange for students with a K-State meal plan.

UFM is recruiting for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship. An informational meeting will be at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the UFM Center, 1221 Thurston Ave. Application materials can be obtained at UFM from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Applications are due March 9.

Future Female Executives will meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday in Calvin 209. Denise Wilson of Cessna Textron Co. will be the guest speaker.

BAPP Club will meet at 5 p.m. Tuesday in Union 212.

Muslim Student Association will have a public lecture, "From Atheism To Belief," at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Big 12 Room.

ASEC Kansas will make presentations on international paid internship opportunities at 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Calvin 218 and Calvin 202. Sessions are open to all interested students.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

Leadershape applications are available at the Leadership House or the OSAS. They are due at 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2000. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

At 2:10 a.m., Michelle L. Bolton, Rossville, Kan., was arrested for DUI.

At 4:23 a.m., Matthew R. Muse, 417 Fremont St., was arrested for failure to appear.

At 5:30 p.m., Adam C. Johnson, 1920 Hunting Ave., was arrested for failure to appear.

At 7:30 p.m., Joleen R. Castanon, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for probation violation.

At 7:30 p.m., Raymond M. Davis, Ogden, was arrested for probation violation and driving on a suspended license.

At 8 p.m., Gayla M. Miller, 3508 Dempsey, was arrested for DUI.

At 11:49 p.m., Ernesto Perez, 1510 College Ave., was arrested for theft.

Saturday, Feb. 17

At 1:02 a.m., Michael T. Creamer, 1117 Ratone St., was arrested for battery.

At 1:16 a.m., Luciana V. Tellez, Topeka, was arrested for battery.

At 2:41 a.m., Jeffrey S. Gasper, 2215 College Ave., was arrested for DUI.

At 3:05 a.m., Joshua L. Buhl, 605 Laramie St., was arrested for DUI.

At 3:32 a.m., Jeffrey P. Ruble, 1425 Vista Lane, was arrested for battery, criminal destruction of property and criminal trespassing.

At 5:05 p.m., Breanna K. Monahan, 812 Davis Drive, was arrested for criminal trespassing.

Sunday, Feb. 18

At 12:09 a.m., Andrew C. Williams, Ogden, was arrested for criminal destruction of property.

At 12:09 a.m., Lois A. Williams, Ogden, was arrested for criminal destruction of property.

At 12:23 a.m., Scott B. Buckley, 2250 Westchester, was arrested for DUI.

At 1:22 a.m., Shelley M. Neumann, 5904 Stony Brook Drive, was arrested for DUI.

At 1:30 a.m., Mitchell L. Reffitt, 1208 Frontier Lane, was arrested for DUI.

At 3:35 a.m., Jesse S. Riley, 1025 Alabama, was arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia and DUI.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County

Dating instructions presented in forum

By LYNNE HERMANSEN
Kansas State Collegian

The goal was to make the evening a catalyst for an ongoing conversation between men and women about relationships.

The African-American Women's Network presented a discussion Saturday evening called "The Ten Commandments of Dating" at the Manhattan Arts Center.

"We had initially planned to have a discussion panel covering a broad range of topics which affect African men and women," Melissa Green, a cancer research scientist, said.

Green said they then decided to narrow the topic down to dating and make it an audience participation discussion.

"The program was handed over to me, and I just took it from there," she said.

Green co-moderated the discussion with Jahrael Muhammad, a graduate student in human ecology.

Green and Muhammad said they have not officially studied the topic of dating.

Their discussion was centered around a book by Ben Young and Dr. Samuel Adams titled, "The 10 Commandments of Dating."

"We feel that it is important for the sexes to talk to each other," Muhammad said.

Green and Muhammad presented the 10 commandments of dating, explaining what each one meant and letting the audience take it from there.

Green said there were consequences for breaking the first one, but rewards for keeping it.

"Breaking this first commandment, 'Thou Shall Get a Life,' can bring boredom, depression and loneliness to that person's life," she said. "If you stick with it and get a life, you will have confidence, stability, happiness and contentment," she said.

Several topics were brought up during the discussion of each commandment.

Audience members had questions relating to what constitutes dating and when to introduce your new partner to your parents.

"These are personal choices that will be different for each individual," Green said. "A person has to make the choice that is best for them."

Muhammad said it is best when two partners can meet on the same spiritual, physical and social level.

Green and Muhammad said they advised to take relationships slow.

"This gives you time to bond, delay physicalness, stay connected with friends and to get to know that person," Green said. "It also protects yourself from being attached too soon."

Green and Muhammad said it is important to set boundaries for intimacy, both physical and emotional at the beginning of a relationship.

"It is all about taking it slow. It doesn't make you selfish," Muhammad said.

"Also, once you set those boundaries, you should be held accountable for those boundaries."

Muhammad gave fair fighting techniques to help make fighting situations more successful.

"You have to be calm and set the tone, shut up and listen, stop blaming that other person and, most importantly, negotiate and compromise," he said.

Green and Muhammad also gave warning signs of trouble for a relationship.

Abuse, addictions, infidelity, irresponsibility, immaturity, no attraction to the other, emotional baggage and denial all are things that kill a relationship, they said.

Green and Muhammad's overall advice for relationships was to not base ideals on outside material factors.

"Relationships take time," Green said. "We just have to look at ourselves and who we are. We need to be responsible in our decisions and take these laws seriously."

Jenny Lynn, freshman in occupational therapy, said she came to the discussion because one of her professors mentioned it to her.

"I don't know a lot about other people culturally or African-American beliefs about certain topics," she said.

Lynn said she enjoyed the evening.

"It was great to see how people looked at this topic differently and where they were coming from on this issue," she said.

MICHAEL YOUNG/Collegian

Danny Joe watches the other children rope and ride during the KSU Kids' Rodeo. It was Danny's first year to attend the rodeo. He said roping was his favorite event.

Kids' Rodeo helps create interest in becoming cowboys, cowgirls

By KRISTEN DYMAK
Kansas State Collegian

She roped, she pitched horseshoes and she barrel raced. But 5-year-old Cheyenne Hoggarth's favorite part of the KSU Kids' Rodeo was getting to keep the stick horse she had used to compete.

"I'm going to name it Sarah," Hoggarth said.

Hoggarth was one of about 80 children who competed in the ninth Kids' Rodeo on Saturday at the Manhattan Town Center. The rodeo was sponsored by the KSU Rodeo Club.

K-State rodeo coach Steve Frazier said the club sponsors the event to try to interest children in the rodeo.

"We hope they'll come out to the rodeo next weekend," Frazier said. "We also hope it will spark interest with them in becoming future cowboys and cowgirls."

Children age 10 and under competed in barrel racing, roping and the horseshoe toss. Two champions, a boy and a girl, were named for each event and awarded medals. Participants also were given a stick horse and a ticket to the KSU Rodeo this weekend at Weber Arena.

Rodeo team captain Emily Rousseau said many of the children who participated never had any experience in rodeo before.

"A lot of kids are city kids and don't have a western background," Rousseau, junior in animal science, said. "We try to give them some of that. We want the kids in the community aware of what we do at K-State."

Manhattan resident Jennifer Smith said this was the second time her 4-year-old daughter Taylor had competed in the kids' rodeo.

"She really likes to participate in this," Smith said. "Taylor wants to be a cowgirl."

Taylor, who competed in her pink cowboy boots, said she enjoyed the roping, but it wasn't her favorite event of the day.

"My favorite part was going around with the horse," she said.

Manhattan resident Roger Cranston said he was happy his 4-year-old son Austin had a chance to compete in the kids' rodeo.

"I went through rodeo school when I was a kid, so we just love rodeo," Cranston said. "I'm really glad they're doing this."

Frazier said he liked to watch the children's responses when they were competing.

"Some are so scared, they can't even talk," he said. "But some are real cool hands. It's just really fun for them."

Rousseau said it wasn't just the children who got something out of the Kids' Rodeo.

"If it makes them feel better and interests them to come to the rodeo next weekend, then I feel like I've done something," she said.

MODEL SHOWINGS! NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 11-1
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal
Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #3
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS

TODAY THROUGH THURSDAY ONLY!!!

The following employers have listed full-time positions in the Virtual Career Fair. You may view company profiles and job descriptions, as well as send your resume directly to the employer from the Career & Employment Services (CES) website, www.ksu.edu/ces. You must be registered with CES to participate.

Feb. 16-22: Employers Listing Full-time Positions

American Express Financial Advisors
Arthur Anderson, LLP
Associated Electric Cooperative, Inc.
Bank of America
Boeing Company
Brookover Feed Yards
Burns & McDonnell
Cactus Feeders
Cal-Maine Foods
CCH Incorporated
Cessna Aircraft Company
Chrysler Financial, LLC
Citgo Petroleum Corporation
Conklin Cars
Consolidated Grain & Barge Co. (CGB)
DeBruce Grain Co.
Deloitte & Touche
Dodge City Public Schools
Enterprise Rent-A-Car
Federal Aviation Administration
Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City
Fort Worth ISD
Geoprobe Systems
George Butler Associates, Inc.
GeoSystems Engineering, Inc.
Glendale Elementary School District #40
Honeywell
Hormel Foods Corporation
Houlihan's Restaurant Group
IBP, Inc.
IFR Systems, Inc.
Jeld-Wen
Kansas City Power & Light Company
Kansas Department of Transportation
Kiewit Construction Company
Kinko's Corp. Headquarters
K-State Research and Extension

KVC, A Behavioral Healthcare Network
La Petite Academy
Larkin Group Consulting Engineers, Inc.
Legacy Financial Group
Lockheed Martin Aeronautics
LSI Logic Storage System
Mayo Clinic
Microsoft Corp.
National Instruments
Noble Hospitality, Inc.
Peace Corps
Premier Personnel
Professional Service Industries (PSI)
Quintiles, Inc.
Security Benefit Group of Companies
Sega, Inc.
Sherwin Williams Co.
Sodexo Marriott Services
Spring Hill USD #230
Sprint
St. Louis ARC
State Street
Target Stores
TEKSystems
Tomball ISD
Tractor Supply Company
Turner Construction Company
United Methodist Youthville
University Outreach & Extension
US Marine Corps
USD #305 Salina Public Schools
Walgreens
Western Resources

100 Holtz Hall

www.ksu.edu/ces

532-6506

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWELS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

Participation needed during SGA elections

It's that time again. Elections for K-State student body leaders are approaching at rapid speed.

Candidates for office are working hard putting up posters, getting the word out and trying to convince students to vote for them.

However, students have an obligation to become informed about the future leaders of our university.

Students should commit themselves to being informed by reading and learning about candidates' platforms, which basically are their goals or promises for when they get elected to office.

These individuals represent the voice of the student body, and that voice should not be one of uneducated voters, or even worse, a very small number of voters.

Candidates also need to remember to abide by the rules in terms of when they run for office. There should be no short cuts or game-playing when it comes to winning an election fair and square.

Those running for office also need to work hard on their public relations by letting the news media know of events in advance.

Until elections, our campus will be decorated with posters that represent candidates who long to be leaders at our university. It is their job to inform us of their platforms, but just as important, it is students' jobs to learn.

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

To all you people living at Chase — if it's not in your lease, it's not legal. So have some parties.

This is for Ken: I agree with the fact that the movie theaters in town don't carry decent movies, but you didn't have to dis "Left Behind." It's a great story that will actually occur. Maybe you should watch it and be prepared.

This question is for Coach Wooldridge: Just what the hell were you guys supposed to be ready for? Because you sure weren't ready to win.

This is some information for all of you apartment hunters out there: Landlords with Compassion haven't shown me, or any of my friends, any compassion.

This is to the people who paint the lines on the parking lot: Not everybody drives a Ford Taurus.

Is anybody else besides me bothered by the all-university e-mails to advertise the men and women's basketball games? Just wondering.

Screw you who said screw SGA.

Ah, Michelle, hell yeah. Great article.

It's 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and I just now received my Valentine's gift from Westloop Floral. Um, yeah, I think there is a problem.

Question for Tuesday: What do you think about the recent State Board of Education's decision to reinstate evolution into the science standards?

► OUR VIEW is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari
Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
News Editor

Erin Schnewels
Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll
Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crable
Copy Chief

Sara Martin
Design Editor

Jamie Barrett
Online News Editor

Travis Weigel
Columnist

Unsolicited political comments can offend

Yea! Happy President's day! And here I am to celebrate, offering the closest thing to political commentary that you will ever hear from me.

It is no secret, I am a Democrat. But let your minds rest easy, I am not here to offer my belated pro-Gore support, nor am I about to dispute the results of November's election. I guess, actually, I am not really here to talk about politics at all (tricked you, didn't I?). Instead, I want to touch on something a little less controversial... respect.

You see, ever since that so-called circus of an election that America endured last November, politics has been a popular topic of discussion. I believe I have sat through more Democrat-bashing sessions in the past four months than I had in the previous 20 years. And for the most part I can deal with it.

All of my roommates are Republican, most of my friends are Republican. I mean, really, the majority of the tri-state area is Republican. I am not oblivious to this; as a consequence, when I am sitting in my living room at night and I choose to watch the local news or talk to my friends, I expect to be beaten over the head with pro-Bush commentary.

And that is OK with me. My friends know I am a Democrat, and they expect my rebuttal. Most importantly, however, we respect one other's opinions and are aware of each other's differences.

However, when I am sitting in class, tending to my own business, and out of nowhere someone announces that, "Those stupid Democrats are ruining everything," or "Hey, did you see what those jackass Gore people said on CNN last night?" I tend to get a little offended.

I understand Republicans are in the strong majority at K-State. But it is important to remember just that: The Republicans are in the majority, they are not the absolute population. And it is quite possible there is a person or two sitting among the majority who does not share the same views and opinions. And these people (Yes, these liberals disguised by conservative clothing) might be offended by these unintentional, however unthoughtful, attacks and unprovoked political outbursts.

Political affiliation is a sticky issue. Many different opinions exist, and generally, people feel rather strongly about the opinions they possess. Take a moment and compare politics to religion. In both politics and religion, people make their decisions based on leaders they admire, the way they were raised and their systems of beliefs, values and morals.

So, I ask you, is it OK to sit in class and belt out, "Can

KEIRA MANN

shrinking STYLE

Today's pop musicians lack integrity, image of earlier rock 'n' roll acts

A friend recently informed me she's staying on birth control until Britney Spears and Christina Aguilera are dead. It's not that she objects to deplorable music, because she knows that's never going away. She merely refuses to bring a child into the world until all the role models with unattainable bodies are gone.

I can't say I blame her. Sure, pop music is in the toilet, but that's precisely why we love it.

Thirty years from now we'll be listening to Ricky Martin on golden-olies stations while our kids roll their eyes at our lame nostalgia. It's one of those circle of life things that we can't escape. Pop music has a manifest destiny of approximately 40 years, so today's superstars are tomorrow's county fair package concert tours.

But let's take a glance backward. Consider that the premier dance craze of the early 1960s, the twist, was delivered to the world by a singer named Chubby. Later in the decade, when the music scene began to take itself more seriously, Cass Elliot of The Mamas and the Papas made it clear that big girls not only sang better but even could be more naughty than the skinny girls in go-go boots. And lest we forget Aretha Franklin, crowned the greatest woman in the history of rock 'n' roll, tips the scales at a whopping ... well, let's just say she tips them.

Meanwhile, Spears and Aguilera are nourished by the leftover remains from the bottom of a rabbit cage. Because they are kept on strict regimens of diet pills, Diet Coke and silicone until their fame runs out, we only can hope their 15 minutes don't expire before they do, which is where my friend comes in. After hearing Aguilera declare she only shows off her body to prove her own confidence, my friend, who is quite attractive herself, hit the roof.

"So I shouldn't be confident if I'm not a size negative three with fake-baked boobs and bad extensions?"

I'm paraphrasing, but her point is clear. In a country where there is enough food for everyone to eat, nobody should suffer from anorexia inspired by former Mouseketeers who can't sing terribly well. It's wasteful.

And let's not forget the countless boy bands who are cashing in on their good looks. Literally cashing in. It recently was announced that last year's most lucrative musical act was N'Sync, raking in a staggering $267 million (which actually is quite modest when you consider it is split up five ways). And the minute they develop bags under their eyes, or something cuter comes along, they'll be out with last week's Pizza Shuttle boxes.

Once again, all of this is orthodox, even expected, in the music industry. But how many of the screaming girls or horny boys who slap down $40 to hear Britney or the Backstreet Boys in concert know that because of the grinding choreography that makes these icons so sexy, most of the songs are lip-synched rather than performed live? Only a capella numbers or slow ballads actually are sung in concert without studio dubbing.

And this is where things really have changed. Witness the paramount old school example, The Monkees. When Colgems studios decided to cash in on the Beatles craze in the mid '60s, they put together a TV show about a band by assembling a band that didn't already exist. This concept of a prefab music group was revolutionary. Rather than a bunch of buddies who grew up together, or stoner friends who met and formed a band in college and then got picked up by a label, the Monkees were auditioned, carefully chosen and brilliantly packaged. And they were a sensation.

Until it was revealed the lovable boys who were seen performing their songs on the TV show didn't actually play their own instruments. They merely sang while studio musicians played for them. The news was stunning, and overnight the band went from superstar to laughing stock.

And the biggest surprise is they blew the whistle on themselves. They couldn't live with their own success because they believed themselves to be frauds. They eventually learned to play their own instruments and even wrote their own songs, some of which were quite good, but by then it was too late.

They weren't the real thing, so nobody wanted to hear from them, even if they were cute.

There was a time when young people in this country were deemed dangerous because all they craved were sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll, and the media willingly offered it up. But now we've settled for one out of three. As we gobble down music that neither rocks nor rolls and offers nothing more dangerous than the sour sugar rush of a Pixi Stick, we announce to the music industry that sex appeal is all we're shopping for. Enjoy it while it lasts.

CHRISTOPHER PIATT

VINCE JACOBSON/Collegian

Christopher is a fifth-year senior in theater. You can e-mail him at crp3280@ksu.edu.

RAVE

■ continued from page 1

Sgt. Mike Patrick of the Lawrence Police Department said while the department does not see a great deal of use in the city, law dictates that a valid search warrant be issued before anyone is permitted to enter.

Shirley Armstead, public information officer for the Drug Enforcement Agency, said she also has heard of raves being shut down because of code violations.

"Some raves in warehouses have one way in and one way out," she said. "They can be found in violation of codes."

While ecstasy dominates headlines, Welker said it is not the only drug to watch for.

"I don't think it is necessarily any one drug. It could be pot, whatever, for all we know. It's the exploitation of it at parties that is really sickening."

Still, the trio of DJs said not all raves are necessarily that bad. "We are giving the worst-case scenario," Welker said. "I have played where everyone had a great time, and it was just the perfect night."

The rave scene

"This may be your first party. You've probably heard a lot of things about this crazy thing called the rave scene. Forget everything you've heard."

These words on a piece of paper greeting those attending an all-night party in Kansas City, Kan., told ravers the late-January party would be different.

The rave took place at a rented hall in the area. Interested ravers were able to call a telephone number after 4 p.m., that gave directions and details. However, a few hours later, as the time for the party nears, the line was disconnected.

At the door of the rave a no-tolerance policy was repeated.

"That is pretty standard," said Stone, who wasn't at the party.

The rave used 14 security guards to keep the illegal drugs associated with raves out. Organizers said anyone asking for ecstasy or who looked as if they were on the substance were thrown out. Glow sticks and air masks also were banned.

Douglass, who regularly attends raves, said the security level varies depending on the gathering.

"Security sometimes at raves takes people who are using it and throws them out," Douglass said. "Sometimes, though, they overlook it — it just depends on who is throwing the party."

Attendees paid $15-$20 to get in. Rave organizers said it costs an estimated $10,000 to throw an alternative dance party, and admissions covers cost. Costs include everything from renting the dance hall to bringing in a DJ. A DJ's pay varies, and bigger name professionals will make more money.

Welker said he has been asked to play for $25 and a case of beer. Welker, who has been clean for six years, said he refused.

"I was like 'No, try $100 or $150,'" he said. He did not play at the party.

The crowd was filled with people from Kansas City metro area and surrounding areas — even as far as Chicago. They packed into the all-night rave, which began at 8 p.m. and lasted until dawn.

Some people wore baggy clothes in dawn-bright colors. Others had on skater attire with knee pads and hard hats. A few men were dressed in drag, one as a nun. Some people just showed up in everyday wear.

Men entering the transit area had their pockets checked and were thoroughly frisked. The women were checked similarly but were asked to tug on the center front of their bras.

"They did that because people can sneak in pills in there," said Chris Goetzheimer, a Kansas City college student.

For some of the crowd, it was another weekend to dance and celebrate a movement. These ravers say it never was about the illegal drugs.

Where can I find the beat?

When Douglass went looking for a place to hear dance music, specifically techno, while on a summer internship two summers ago, he didn't expect to find raves — much less a movement.

"I was walking around downtown Dallas and saw this sign in a record store," he said. "Me and my friend were really into electronic music at the time and thought we would go check it out. It was kind of overwhelming at first, but then you really just get into the music."

He attended the rave and has been going to raves ever since.

Douglass said he has been to raves in cities across the region, such as in Houston, where he was one of more than 23,000 people dancing in the arena.

In the past year he has seen people use ecstasy at raves and others who have not.

"I don't know about the statistics, but some people do it and some people don't," he said. "Some people in the rave scene know its effects, and some people don't."

He likens the use to what a person would find at any concert.

"They don't realize a rave is just like going to a concert at Sandstone," Douglass said. "Mostly it is just a really nice group of people who hang out and like to listen to music."

Welker said the enjoyment he receives from playing the dance music makes it easier to tolerate the aforementioned negative aspects of raves.

And the music keeps Goetzheimer coming back to raves as well.

"The hard-core ravers are there for the love of the music," she said. "not the ecstasy."

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

David Heller, freshman in theater, breaks into a hand stand while at Elements of Taste. Hundreds of people who feel the rave experience is all about dancing and listening to music feel the rave drug, ecstasy, gives them a bad rap.

BURGER KING

■ continued from page 1

"They have a benchmark they have to sell to break even," Snyder said. "Attendance is down during the summer. It's nothing unusual. They budget for 20,000 plus students during the fall and spring. There is no practical way for them to offer their business in the summer when there are less students on campus."

Market Carvery in the food court will be offering burgers and fries while Burger King is closed.

"They won't have the brand name, but for students who want traditional burgers and fries, they will be available in the Union," Snyder said. "They will be similar to the burgers offered in the old grill."

Snyder said she would rather not see Burger King close, but she said she understood its position.

"The volume of sales needed to stay in business is not generated in the slower months," she said. "It is not viable to stay open in the slowest time. It is a service we don't want to see interrupted, but in a franchise, like any business, they need to make a profit. We understand that."

ROADS

■ continued from page 1

totaling nearly nine inches of snow so far this year.

On the morning of Feb. 9, Manhattan had four inches of snow on the ground. By Feb. 10, the snow had accumulated to 7.8 inches.

It is not unusual to have the biggest storms in February and March, Knapp said.

Another cause for concern is the shortage of salt, Jeff Walters, street superintendent, said.

"There's been such bad weather nationwide that the salt suppliers can't keep up," he said.

After the snow, street crews used salt mixed with calcium chloride on main streets and sand with calcium chloride in residential areas.

After a few days, the crews began treating the roads with a mixture of sand and salt.

"What we use depends on the storm," he said.

As for now, McCulloch said the streets are passable.

Fehr said he hopes people will be patient as they do their best to completely clear all streets.

From ATHEISM to BELIEF
A Journey to Islam in America

Jeffery Lang
Professor in Math Department
University of Kansas

Wednesday; February 21, 2001
Big 12 K-State Union
7:00-8:30 p.m.
Refreshments Included

Student Foundation

Join us for an informational membership meeting Monday, February 19 at 4:00 pm in the K-State Union room 212.

Applications available at the Office of Student Activities & Services.
Applications due by Friday, February 23.

Questions - Email Jackie Bryant: jib4733@ksu.edu

Delivers the latest!

OPEN LATE! GUMBY'S OPEN LATE!
Pizza & Pub

702 N. 11th Street
770-3333
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Master Card VISA DISCOVER AMERICAN EXPRESS

Checks add 50¢ 770-3333 Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

MONDAY MANIA	CARRY-OUT SPECIALS	STIX IT TO ME TUES.
"Carry Out Only" LARGE CHEESE PIZZA $3.99	16" 1-Topping $6.99 14" 1-Topping $5.99 BONUS BUYS MENU with any food purchase • 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99 • Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99 • 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99 • Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99	Buy One Pokey Stix at Regular Price get Equal or Lesser Value for Free "Tuesday Only" (Carry Out or Delivery)

Additional Toppings $1.00 per topping
EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

YOU'RE ENGAGED!
You have a ring and a date all that's missing is a timeless portrait from Reflections Photography that will capture your love forever
Call 539-1550 before March 2 and save 50% off of the session of your choice.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF OPERA PROUDLY PRESENTS

A SPLENDID OPERA BY MR. AARON COPLAND

"THE TENDER LAND"

A MODERN MASTERPIECE FEATURING TOWERING LOCAL TALENT

THE HARROWING TALE OF A LOVING MOTHER AND THE TWO DANGEROUS DRIFTERS WHO TRY TO STEAL HER OLDEST DAUGHTER

DON'T MISS THIS SWELL LIMITED ENGAGEMENT!

MARCH 1 8:00 PM IN SEARSON'S MARCH 3 8:00 PM AT 8:00 PM
MOGAIN AUDITORIUM
ADULTS $21
STUDENT/SENIORS $12
CALL MOGAIN 642-6218

Senior guard sets Big 12 record in loss to Nebraska

By DAN SMITH

Kansas State Collegian

Even a record-setting night by senior Kim Woodlee couldn't put K-State over the hump Saturday night against Nebraska.

Woodlee, now the Big 12's all-time leader in three-point field goals, described her 275th career trey as bittersweet after the Cats' 77-69 loss to the Huskers.

"It feels about the same as everything else," the K-State guard said. "So what?" is about what I feel like.

"It's not turning into team success, so it's a positive, but you can't enjoy it. If it turns into wins and it turns into success for the team, it means a lot more."

Bramlage Coliseum's seventh largest crowd ever for a women's game, 6,217, was on hand to see Woodlee surpass her latest three-point milestone, and the Wildcat faithful didn't have to wait long to watch her make history.

Woodlee tied former Iowa State guard Stacey Frese's mark at the 13:23 mark in the first half with her second bomb of the night. Then, with 4:04 to go, the senior sharpshooter converted on a Kristin Rethman pass from the right wing after a solid Nicole Ohlde screen freed her to hit the record-setting trey.

However, Woodlee's four first-half three-pointers were all K-State (11-13, 1-12) would get from the senior, and Nebraska (11-15, 3-10) forward Casey Leonhardt's physical play in the post led the Huskers in their sixth straight win over K-State.

"She really came to play tonight," Nebraska head coach Paul Sanderford said of Leonhardt's fourth consecutive double-double. "When we had to have a big basket or rebound, she found a way to get one."

Leonhardt pounded the K-State post early and often, scoring the Huskers' first five points of the game on her way to setting or tying career numbers in field goal attempts with 11, points with 29, and blocks with four.

"She got really good position tonight," freshman forward Nicole Ohlde said. "One thing we didn't do was get around her good enough and play defense on her because she's pretty strong."

A normally strong K-State defense was proven weak against a Husker attack that featured Leonhardt in the post and sophomore guard Shahidrah Roberts' hot three-point shooting from the perimeter. Roberts, who came into the game averaging just 5.5 points-per-contest exploded with 17 points, all but four of which came in the second half.

"I think we've been more confident in our defense over the course of the year," K-State associate head coach Kamie Ethridge said. "So, to see that go south is a real disappointment. We haven't defended as well as we've needed to, and as a result, Casey Leonhardt was just huge for them tonight."

K-State's defensive woes translated into offensive struggles, and although the Cats turned the ball over just nine times, Nebraska kept the Wildcats to just 37 percent shooting from the field on 23-of-61 shooting.

See WOODLEE on PAGE 8

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

K-State guard Kim Woodlee and Nebraska defender Greichaly Cepero look on as Woodlee sinks her third three pointer of the night. Woodlee became the Big 12's all-time leader in three-point field goals with 276 treys. Despite her efforts, the K-State women's team lost the game, 77-69.

BREAKING THE STREAK

Cats win game against Tech following 7 losses

By MICHAEL NOLL

Kansas State Collegian

Against Texas Tech on Sunday, the Cats found a reason to play hard.

Both teams were battling losing streaks — seven games for K-State and six for Tech — and Sunday's winner would avoid falling into sole possession of 11th place in the Big 12.

"We needed it bad, both teams have the same record, I think," point guard Larry Reid said. "So it was virtually the bottom playing the bottom, so we had to come up and show that we can be good."

Even though both teams were battling the same adversities, only one team came out on top — K-State. The Cats (9-14, 3-9) led the entire game and defeated Tech (8-14, 2-9) by 19 points, 73-54.

"It was a battle of wills tonight — who was going to will their team to victory," forward Matt Siebrandt said, "and I think we just came out with a little more confidence, a little more attitude, and that's why we got the victory."

Much of that newfound energy and intensity was actually due to K-State's long slide down the conference standings.

The Cats needed a win, not just to break the losing streak, but to prove to themselves and everyone else that it was possible.

"We needed a win for ourselves," forward Travis Reynolds said. "No matter what they were doing — they could have been first in the league today — we just wanted to come out and play good. We just wanted to have a great showing."

"The last couple of weeks we hadn't been playing up to our abilities, so today we wanted to have a good showing, and I think we did."

K-State accomplished that improved performance through increased intensity on both ends of the court. On offense, for instance, Kelvin Howell scored a season-high 21 points.

However, the senior center's play was typical of the entire team's improvement.

"Part of it was Kelvin, but it was really everybody," Siebrandt said. "We were cutting hard, moving well. Once we start playing together, making hard cuts, get the offense flowing, it's going to be hard to stop us, and we just played so well together offensively tonight."

On defense, K-State kept Tech's three leading scorers to a non-factor status for much of the game.

Guard Jamal Brown and forward Cliff Owens had averaged 24 points entering the contest but scored just six Sunday.

Similarly, center Andy Ellis finished with 12 points, but eight of those came after the game was decided.

"We knew they had good post players, so we wanted to make them give the ball up when it comes inside, make them dish it back out and let somebody else score," Reid said. "So that was our plan, to trap the post men and let somebody else beat us from the outside."

Perhaps the biggest difference between this game and the previous seven losses was more subtle than just the final score.

Prior to Sunday, the Cats consistently had blown leads and opportunities late in games. Against Tech, however, the opposite was true.

With 14:58 remaining in the second half, the Red Raiders had mounted a run to close to within six points of K-State. Cat head coach Jim Wooldridge called a timeout.

"I got on them, and I told them, 'You're not playing aggressive. You're waiting on an accident. You've got to go make plays, you've got to be the aggressor,'" Wooldridge said. "I challenged them in those regards."

The Cats retook the floor and used a 10-2 run to effectively knock Tech out of the game.

"We knew what we had to do to stay in the lead. We had to be more patient and take better shots," Reid said. "We couldn't start getting in a rush and get nervous just because they've made a few runs."

"We just wanted to come out and play aggressive like we'd been doing the whole game, and finally, they broke and it was in our favor."

And finally, for the first time in a month, the Cats had something to smile about.

"I'm happy for our team. I'm happy for those kids in there who have stuck with us, stuck with the format," Wooldridge said. "It's been quite some time since we've had a win, so you can imagine how those kids feel. It's great to see."

e ONLINE

See the statistics of the men's basketball game online at www.kstatecollegian.com

MIKE SHEPHERD/Collegian

K-State's Travis Reynolds keeps Texas Tech's Jamal Brown from getting a loose ball in the second half of the Wildcats' win over the Red Raiders. The win snapped a seven-game losing streak and moved the Cats to 3-9 in the Big 12.

Howell leads team to victory with career-high rebounds, points

By DEREK BOSS

Kansas State Collegian

Sunday's "Gameday" program was somewhat prophetic.

According to popular Sports Illustrated superstition, the cover, featuring center Kelvin Howell, should have precluded the senior from playing well against Texas Tech.

That simply wasn't the case.

In fact, Howell stood alone both on the cover and the floor vs. the Red Raiders.

"Usually, there's a curse with being on the program, but Kelvin proved it wrong tonight," forward Matt Siebrandt said Sunday. "He had a huge game and was really big for us. He was probably the reason why we won the game."

Howell, who averaged just 6.2 points and 6.0 rebounds heading into Sunday's contest, poured in 21 points on 9-of-17 shooting and grabbed 20 boards, both career-highs, in leading K-State to a 73-54 win over Tech.

His career total tied Tony Kitt's Bramlage Coliseum record and also served as the most boards by a Wildcat in a conference game since Deryl Cunningham's 21 vs. Oklahoma on Jan. 26, 1994.

The Cat center said he hadn't put up those kind of numbers since his high school days in Stamps, Ark., where he once scored 34 points in the first half of a game while averaging 20.3 points and 15.9 boards during his senior campaign.

"It's been a long time," Howell said.

Yet, the Buckner, Ark., native's play wasn't an indication of a good week of practice. In fact, the center missed the last two days of workouts after an accidental Siebrandt elbow left him with a neck sprain.

Nevertheless, looking at Howell's performance, Siebrandt said he figures he ought to throw his elbow around more often.

"I told him in the locker room that I was going to do it tomorrow in practice just to get him ready," Siebrandt said. "Anytime we get him playing like that, I'll do whatever — an elbow in the chest or something."

However, Howell's break-out performance wasn't apparent in the first half of play — from the offensive end at least. At the intermission, Howell had posted four points on 2-of-9 shooting. His 10 rebounds more than tripled anyone else's on the team, but only one of his five offensive caroms resulted in second-chance points for the Cats.

The second half, though, was quite a different story.

Howell exploded for 17 points on 7-of-8 shooting, with eight of those points coming on the offensive glass.

"I was more composed," he said of his play in the final 20 minutes. "I slowed myself down and gathered myself instead of just going right at the basket and trying to shoot, score and throw the ball up."

"I just composed myself, got my feet square and went straight up with power," Siebrandt said he definitely was impressed by Howell, although he figured the center was past due for a breakout game.

"Kelvin's had his ups and downs this year, and tonight he came up big," Siebrandt said. "I think the whole team just responded and rallied behind him, and we ran with it."

"He played like an animal. It was amazing — I haven't seen him play like that this year."

Forward Travis Reynolds said he agreed that Howell had complete control of the post Sunday, and with his senior season winding down, it's more important now than ever for the center to respond.

"That's what I told him last night," Reynolds said. "I said, 'Man, you've only got but five games left — you've got to come play,' and he did that for us."

Although it is Reynolds who leads the team with eight rebounds per game, the junior said he didn't mind giving up the spotlight to Howell for a change.

"When Kelvin's going, he's probably one of the best rebounders in the Big 12," Reynolds said. "So he was going to get 'em, and I told him, 'Man, keep going to get 'em.'"

"The first half, I knocked one out of bounds from him, so I told him, 'The rest of the time, I'll let you have 'em.'"

This is not to say Howell didn't believe he was capable of posting big numbers heading into Sunday's contest.

"I feel I should be able to do that every time," he said. "That's definitely my mentality going into the last few games. I can do that every game to any person."

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

K-State center Kelvin Howell pulls down one of his 20 rebounds in K-State's game against Texas Tech on Sunday afternoon. Howell added 21 points, two blocked shots and two assists as K-State went on to beat Texas Tech, 73-54.

IN REVIEW

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: J.J. DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 2001

7

Cryptoclip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JAVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Speech impediment
5 Potential syrup
8 Florentine farewell
12 Reverberation
13 Census datum
14 "Moving" (Jeffersons' theme)
15 Spruced up
16 Perfect thing to say
18 Fleet
20 Tavern
21 "G.W.T.W." estate
23 Lapidary's item
24 Driver
28 Grandson of Adam
31 Sra. Peron
32 Private instructor
34 Jima precoder

DOWN
11 Admitting clients
17 Binge
19 Pub missile
22 "Maltese Falcon" actress
24 Kitten's comment
25 Eggs
26 Had as a goal
27 Eternally
29 Night bird
30 Fa follower
33 — Perlman
36 Make
38 Confer (upon)
40 Third O.T. bk.
42 Send forth
43 California city
44 Poet Ogden
46 Story
47 Great Lake
48 Chess piece
50 Overly

Solution time: 21 mins.

DIAS RIATID OUAIG
UZTI AMTR UNDOIO
MULTIPLE TICIDIO
BILLOUSE ALL
RED MULLET
STAND VEX AVE
HUBS CLAR PLITE
ATIE JIAN SEALS
MULDER SEE
ETIA PATOIS
JOKIE MULBERRY
ARTIO BRITE EON
BEIDS ANITE ONE

STUMPED?

2-19 CRYPTOQUIP

DNU RWXXCG TVJNTUXWXAQD
A Q XSDUL NUTVZ
DX JVG TWXIZ "CG
WASU AQ AL VIALQ!"
Saturday's Cryptoclip: PERHAPS BAKERS
TRADE RECIPES WITH EACH OTHER ON A KNEAD-TO-KNOW BASIS.

Today's Cryptoclip Clue: X equals O

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.c.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475
The Cryptoclip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Kids cheer for...

'Recess: School's Out'

COURTESY ART

Latest Disney film fun romp through childhood

The mere mention of the word "recess," at least at my elementary school, was enough to make kids shout for joy and teachers sigh in relief.

Such is the case in Disney's new animated film, "Recess: School's Out," based on the animated series. There's obviously not much to the plot: a group of government bad guys try to take recess and summer vacation away forever, and their plans are thwarted by a group of fourth-graders. Simple, right?

Not quite. While the story could've been written by a baboon on crack, the animation (especially the aerial views of the school at the beginning and end of the movie) is spectacular, and the colorful cast of voices makes the movie a treat: Dabney Coleman, Katey Sagal and Alyce Beasley have fun voicing the cast of teachers. James Woods, as the villain, rounds out the adult voices quite well.

Not only will children enjoy this movie, but parents won't be bored, either. There is a great amount of political satire and adult humor in the movie that children simply won't understand and adults will appreciate. The background music also will appeal to adults of the Baby Boomer generation: a healthy dose of 1960s music will keep the adults' toes tapping.

"Recess" is a playful romp through childhood, and it will appeal to anyone who ever has reveled in the freedom recess offers from a long day (and, honestly, who hasn't?). Probably, though, the only people to see this movie will be parents and their children. I challenge you to prove me wrong. Set aside any stereotypes you have about Disney films, and give this movie a chance. With the high content of adult humor and satire, I promise you'll be pleasantly surprised.

"RECESS: SCHOOL'S OUT"

★★★★☆

MOVIE REVIEW BY CORBIN H. CRABLE

Appeal, message lost in religious lyrics

NEW RELEASES

MUSIC

Leonard Cohen: Field
Commander Cohen: Tour Of 1979

Diesel Boy: Rode Hard And Put Away Wet

The Monkees: Music Box

The Turbo A.C.'s: Fuel For Life

MOVIES

VIDEO:

"The Prisoner"

"Blair Witch 2: Book of Shadows"

"Beautiful"

DVD:

"32 Short Films About Glenn Gould"

"Beautiful"

"The Watcher"

"THE WONDER AND THE FURY"

★★★★☆

MUSIC REVIEW BY J.J. DUNCAN

The immense musical talent of local trio Beggar's Table shines in the folk style of "The Wonder and the Fury," but the subject matter might keep some away from the heavily Christian sound.

Maintaining an incredibly full-bodied folk sound led by the excellent acoustic work of Todd, guitarist and vocalist, the album is full of appealing melodies and harmonies.

The strong vocals of Brice and Todd, who share the vocal responsibilities, keep the sound together.

Unfortunately, anyone who likes to keep their music secular, or for that matter, just likes to hear songs about several subjects on one album, won't care much for the lyrical content.

Every track is saturated with religious context that easily can grow old, especially since the average track time is well over five minutes.

To the band's credit, the message is one of love. In evangelistic music, it is easy to slip into didactic preaching that can fan the flames of intolerance, but Beggar's Table carries an attitude of acceptance.

One song that notably stands out on the album is stuck in the middle of the album at track six. "Frita Learns to Fly" shows off the talent and sense of humor of the band and keeps a positive message.

The message of the song almost can be taken away as the underlying message for the entire album with the words, "I don't know if I will ever get as far as these dreams, but if I don't I'm sure that God's got even greater things for me."

It's too bad one of the strongest tracks on the album is followed up by the completely random disco track "He could become intonite."

I'm not exactly sure why a disco track shows up on an otherwise folk album. I'm not even sure why the same guys who wrote "Frita" wrote this song. Cheesy disco definitely is not the way to take on a subject so weighty as the apocalypse.

Considering the album in its entirety, Beggar's Table has put out a quality representation of the work they care about. For those who enjoy Christian rock, the album is excellent.

For those who don't enjoy it, if you can get past the lyrics, the music definitely is worth listening to.

"DOWN TO EARTH"

★★★★☆

MOVIE REVIEW BY CORBIN H. CRABLE

Haven't I seen this movie before?

Oh yes, now I remember ... It was titled "Heaven Can Wait."

Directors Chris and Paul Weitz ("American Pie") bastardize the plot of the 1978 Warren Beatty movie by casting comedian Chris Rock (of "Saturday Night Live" fame) in the role of Lance Barton, a man who accidentally dies before his time and is sent to heaven, where he is given a second chance to go back to Earth in another body and get the woman he loves (Regina King, "How Stella Got Her Groove Back").

There's just one catch: it's the body of a white millionaire, Charles Wellington. I think we both can see where this is going.

The movie strains to get the slightest giggle from audiences, and in the end, it really just plays on racial stereotypes to do so.

I personally found many of the scenes so insulting to both blacks and whites that I'm surprised the Weitz brothers didn't need a lawyer present on the set to make sure they didn't cross the line with their attempts at such disgusting toilet-bowl humor.

As with any movie of this low caliber, there are certain bright spots, albeit small. Jennifer Coolidge is almost funny in her role as Wellington's wife, a buxom blonde who tries to have her husband killed and snag his fortune and company. Audiences also will recognize Coolidge as Stiller's Mom from "American Pie."

Comedian Wanda Sykes, meanwhile, steals the show as Wellington's crass maid. Her one-liners make it obvious she is a comedian at heart, and it is unfortunate that such a funny and talented comedian's career hasn't taken off by now. No, instead comedians such as Sykes are reduced to appearing in movies such as this.

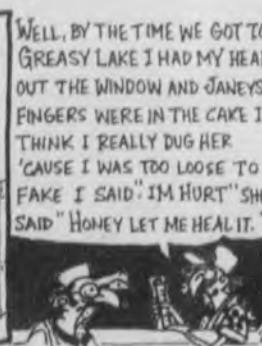

If you are a real Chris Rock fan, you'll more than likely see this movie multiple times. However, if you're not into this SNL alum, skip this one and just see "Hannibal" again.

BEGGERS TABLE

will support "The Wonder and the Fury" at the following appearances: 4 p.m. Saturday at Streetside Records; 8 p.m. Sunday at Espresso Royale Caffe; CD release party at 7 p.m. March 3 at the Houston Street Ballroom. All events are free.

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM - MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

Racing legend killed at Daytona 500

Michaels, Vitale, Costas make top 3 in columnist's best TV announcer list

By MIKE HARRIS
The Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Dale Earnhardt, the greatest stock car star of his era, was killed in a crash on the last turn of the last lap of Sunday's Daytona 500 as he tried to protect teammate Michael Waltrip's victory.

The 49-year-old driver had to be cut from his battered car and was rushed to Halifax Medical Center, where he was pronounced dead of head injuries.

"He had what I felt were life-ending type injuries at the time of impact and nothing could be done for him," said Dr. Steve Bohannon, an emergency physician at the hospital who also works for Daytona International Speedway.

Earnhardt, considered a master of superspeedway racing, was locked in a battle for third place as his newest driver, Waltrip, and his son, Dale Earnhardt Jr., headed toward the finish line for what should have been the most triumphant moment in the brief history of Dale Earnhardt Inc. The accident happened a half-mile from the finish of the NASCAR season-opener.

Earnhardt, running fourth in his famed black No. 3 Chevrolet, grazed Sterling Marlin's car while fighting for position. He crashed into the concrete wall at the fourth turn going about 180 mph, and was smacked hard by Ken Schrader's car.

"I guess someone got into Dale because Dale got into me and then we went up," Schrader said. "We hit pretty hard, and Dale hit harder."

The scene was grim as safety workers removed Earnhardt from the car, and the accident removed all the luster from a race that kept the record crowd of 195,000 spectators on their feet most of the afternoon.

Many were well on their way home when NASCAR president Mike Helton made the announcement, about 90 minutes after the race.

"This is understandably the hardest announcement I've ever had to make," Helton said.

Fans in and around the speedway wept after hearing the news.

The death of Earnhardt left NASCAR reeling in the wake of a 2000 season in which three of its young stars were killed in separate accidents.

Adam Petty, the fourth generation of stock car racing's most famous family, and Kenny Irwin died in crashes two months apart at New Hampshire Motor Speedway. Tony Roper was killed later in the year in a crash during a truck race at Texas Motor Speedway. All three died of the same type of head injuries that apparently killed Earnhardt.

Following those deaths, safety had become a front-burner issue.

The death overshadowed the victory by Waltrip, his first in 15 years and 463 years of Winston Cup racing.

At first, Waltrip, the younger brother of retired three-time champion Darrell Waltrip, was jubilant, scrambling from his car in Victory Lane and shouting in a raspy voice. "This is the Daytona 500, and I won it! I won the Daytona 500! I can't believe it!"

But he was somber as it became apparent that his new boss was badly injured.

"The only reason I won this race is Dale Earnhardt," Waltrip said.

Any sports fan knows that when watching a game on the tube, a good announcing team is about as important as having cold beer.

Conversely, bad announcing ranks up there with your mom yelling at you early on a Saturday morning. I have watched and listened to thousands of games on television and have my own little list of who I think is the best at calling a game.

With respect to ESPN's Chris Berman and Joe Morgan, as well as TNT and CBS's Kevin Harlan, here are the top three:

Al Michaels' work over the last 25 years for ABC puts him at number three on my list. He's best known for his work on "Monday Night Football," a show he has been a part of since 1986. His partners have changed frequently, but the three-time Emmy Award winner has been the mainstay of the most successful sports television series ever.

Michaels' most famous moment came in the 1980 Olympic hockey semifinal game in which a team of mostly collegiate American hockey upset a Russian team called the best hockey team ever assembled, 4-3. His quote "Do you believe in miracles? Yes!" will be remembered forever as one of the famous quotes in sports history.

Some might find Dick Vitale annoying, but I still put him at number two on my list. His thorough knowledge of the game and enthusiasm he's shown in the more than 20 years he's been in the business puts him on the list.

He shows up early at the games, and he works to shoot free throws and entertain the students. Also, his Vitale-isms, as they are called, are some-times overused but still great. My favorite is "He's on my All-Windex team" for a player who is a great rebounder.

Vitale is just as energetic when he's not in front of a camera. My family is from Detroit, where Vitale coached both the Detroit Pistons and the University of Detroit. My dad ran into him once at a drug store in the early 1980s and said, "Hey, Mr. Vitale, I love your work on ESPN."

An excited Vitale shouted back "Thanks, I just signed a multi-year pact, baby!"

He wasn't kidding about the multi-year thing. He's called almost 1,000 games.

However, the best in the business is NBC's Bob Costas. Since joining NBC in 1980 he has covered numerous World Series, Super Bowls, NBA Finals and Olympics. His anecdotal and observational style make him very informative and easy to listen to. Costas also has won an Emmy for his late-night interview program, "Later with Bob Costas."

One thing I think is great about

Costas is that he started about as low as a person can, calling games for St. Louis Spirit of the lowly ABA.

Now he's considered the top sportscaster in the world. Costas now is working on a series for HBO.

Switching gears a bit, how about the Hall of Shame for broadcasters? CBS's Chris Collinsworth is horrible, ABC's Brent Musburger is the most uninformed announcer in sports and FOX's Terry Bradshaw needs to be put on some type of horse tranquilizer to calm him down.

The worst by far is Bill Walton of NBC's NBA broadcasts. The way he talks down to viewers and his constant complaining makes me want to turn NASCAR on. And, to make matters worse, CBS reportedly is trying to destroy my favorite thing in the world, the NCAA tournament, by having Walton call some games.

David is a junior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at ddp4078@ksu.edu.

DAVID PLOUS

WOODLEE

■ continued from page 6

"We got great looks, but tonight we really didn't get much production at all from our post positions," Ethridge said. "We just had some bad shots — our posts were determined to challenge Leonhardt — and probably 10 shots should not have been taken in that manner and none of them had a chance to go in."

Again, freshman Nicole Ohlde was a bright spot in an otherwise cold-shooting K-State post. Ohlde, the Big 12's freshman of the week, scored 18 points and hauled in seven boards in her head-to-head matchup with Leonhardt. Fellow freshman Andrea Armstrong continued her shooting slump by going one-for-seven from the field.

K-State, now on an eight-game losing streak, will play its final home game of the season at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Bramlage Coliseum against Texas A&M. Despite the Cats' losing slide, though, the game is not meaningless, Ethridge said.

"We made some huge strides," she said. "They are really a group that has not quit. The light's aren't dimming at all in their eyes."

"Their practice habits and enthusiasm have been great. We can take away the positives of our guard game, and that's huge for us. If they can play like this, we like our chances. We just have to take the positives from this and work on what was broken tonight."

DEPARTMENT OF MODERN LANGUAGES KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

SUMMER STUDY IN SPAIN 2001 MAY 21-JULY 5

ONLY FOUR SPACES LEFT!

1 WEEK IN MADRID AND AREA
5 WEEKS IN GRANADA AND AREA
4 DAYS BARCELONA AND AREA

8 CREDIT HOURS: SPANISH CIVILIZATION
LANGUAGE

Required: Spanish 4 or instructor permission
INFORMATION AVAILABLE OUTSIDE
OUR OFFICES OR CONTACT US AT:

Professor Salvador Oropesa, oropesa@ksu.edu, Eisenhower 108
Professor Doug Benson, bensonml@ksu.edu, Eisenhower 06

Bob's DINER 1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT
OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

is
EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY
$1.99
BREAKFAST
ALL THE TIME

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

Call your ad rep
today at 532-6560 to get YOUR coupon in the Coupon Clipper!

Looking for a way to get involved?
A Home Away from Home?
COME CHECK US OUT!
Spring Recruitment
February 28 & March 1

For more information
Please Contact Kristina at 395-2960

SIGMA KAPPA SORORITY

Bringing Sisterhood To Life

Little Caesars

MONDAY MADNESS

1 BIG BIG! LARGE PIZZA
14" WITH 1 TOPPING

$5.99

Valid Monday only at participating locations for a limited time. No cash value. ©1999 Little Caesars Enterprises, Inc.

Little Caesars Pizza

Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!

MANHATTAN (Westloop Center) 539-3333

K-State Karate Club is starting classes
Tuesdays & Thursdays at
Ahearn Fieldhouse

For more information, contact Charlene Gibson (pggibson@interkan.net) or Roy Monfort (rem7148@ksu.edu) or call 776-2112

TONIGHT

10¢ Wings 5-9 p.m.
$2 BIG Beers

TUESDAY NIGHT LIVE!

9PM Sharky's Little Groove Box & Flybox

$2.50 Electric Parrots keep the glass

FREE C.D.'s for the first 150 people

TONS OF PRIZES-Get there early!!!

clip here & SAVE!

CLIP COUPONS FROM THE COLLEGIAN

BEAT THE CLOCK Mondays

Gambino's Pizza

The Time is the Price!
6 p.m. - Close
Large One Topping Pizzas!
Add $3 & choose a Specialty

Dine In • Carryout • Delivery
537-9090

PRO in Aggieville 539-7095

Buy 1 membership
Get 1 half off
excluding specials

$22 for 1 month unlimited tanning

10 tans for $19

$29 for any 5lb. Protein & 10% off Glutamine

BUY 1 MEAL GET 1 FREE AT EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE
EXCLUDING SPECIAL OF THE DAY

SAFARI JACK
WINTERING, ILL.

710 N. Manhattan Expires 6/01/01

Valid only Sunday - Thursday

OPTIMUM NUTRITION

PROTEIN DIET

• Increase Energy • Decrease Appetite • Increase Metabolism • Decrease Body Fat

GNC LiveWell.

WESTLOOP
537-8191
Locally Owned & Operated

GNC LiveWell.

Save $5
on Bannatrim & Sidalan

Westloop, 537-8191 Locally owned and operated

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. Call 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 2001

9

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Available August, one-bedroom units, central air, heating, balcony, fully equipped kitchen, quiet, off-street parking, water and trash paid, low utility bills, 539-2702.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE AUGUST Spacious one and two-bedroom, 1100 block of Blue-mont, trash paid, off-street parking, no pets. 776-0683.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW. TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $530. Call 785-456-2612.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. FIRE-PLACE. All appliances including washer/dryer. Small quiet complex. No pets, no smokers. $475 August 1. 776-6318.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY. Off-street parking, pets maybe. (785)632-6240 or (785)632-0917.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No pets. No smoking. Available June-August. (785)537-7050.

ONE, TWO, AND THREE-BEDROOMS. One block to campus. All bills paid. Off-street parking. No pets. Available June and August. 313-4812.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS CLOSE TO CAMPUS. Water/ trash paid. $515- $565/ month. 539-1897.

WELL MAINTAINED. one-eight bedroom houses, and apartments, also studio apartments, central air, washer/ dryer NEAR K-STATE June or August lease. (785)539-0549.

ROOMS FOR RENT in nice two story house one block from campus. One-seventh utilities. Call Cynthia. 537-7381.

120
For Rent-
Houses

ATTRACTIVE, CLOSE to campus with new appliances, includes washer/ dryer. Three, five, six-bedroom houses. No pets. Available June 1. 313-4812.

BEAUTIFUL AND SPACIOUS! five-bedroom, three bath house, close to campus, central air/ heat, dishwasher in new kitchen. Garage and lawn care provided. No smoking/ pets. June 1. $1500. 776-9719.

120
For Rent-
Houses

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE. Den, attached garage with epeler, pool, tennis, basketball, clubhouse. No pets, no smokers. $600 August 1. 776-6318.

145 Roommate
Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bath, roomHOUSE. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

FEMALE ROOMMATES WANTED! Price reduced - $275! Five minutes from campus. Call (785)770-8410 or (316) 585-2529 for details.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

TWO MALES WANTED for three-bedroom apartment. Starting June or August 2001. Across the street from campus. $230/ month. Dominic, 539-8221.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE ADVERTISING
532-6560

150
Sublease

AVAILABLE MAY 12, three bedrooms in four-bedroom apartment at University Commons. $275 a month. Call 587-0780.

AVAILABLE NOW: spacious one-bedroom apartment. Private balcony, water and trash paid. 532-9136, leave message.

SUMMER SUBLEASE Two-bedroom apartment. Washer/ dryer. Close to campus, Aggieville, park. Lease through next school year, if desired. 317-0314.

TWO-BEDROOM ONE-HALF block to campus, available March. 776-4343, leave message.

200 service directory

235
Child Care

PART-TIME CHILD care in home for infant. Will pay mileage and one week's vacation. Lorie, (785)210-3136.

255
Other
Services

ELLERY, ENGINEERING senior, does affordable maintenance, home or rental including appliance repair, also build budget computers to fit your needs. Eight years experience. 539-0232.

300 employment/opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

$5 GET paid for your opinion! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! moneytopinions.com
$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. For info, call (203)977-1720.

ARTISTS/ ART STUDENTS: Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltankofgas1@hotmail.com

A GREAT WAY TO Earn $25 Today! Donate your plasma to help save kids' lives. Earn $25 Cash (for approximately two hours). Call or stop by: Nati Biomedical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan. (785) 776-9177. Fees and donation time may vary. www.nati.com

PHARMACIST TECH/ clerk in Wamego pharmacy. Experience preferred. Send info to P.O. Box 227, Wamego, KS 66547 or cking66547@yahoo.com

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

Trying to sell your car? Try the Collegian Classifieds 532-6555

310
Help Wanted

ADMISSIONS REPRESENTATIVE. Kansas State University is recruiting of the position of Admissions Representative. The person will be responsible for the development and implementation of an effective student recruitment program within a specific geographic region; serving as the primary recruitment representative; developing and maintaining service relationships with high schools and community colleges; attending major community events; and coordinating efforts for the region with K-State faculty and staff. Qualifications for the position include: a recent K-State bachelor's degree; familiarity and excitement for K-State; demonstrated student involvement; leadership skills in student groups and organized living; strong communication skills (oral/written); strong social skills for a variety of situations; ability to work independently; overall high energy level and enthusiasm; willingness to travel extensively; and a valid driver's license. Position will start Thursday, July 5, 2001, and pay $26,000 for 12 months. Candidates should send a letter of application, resume, transcript(s), and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of three references to: Search Committee, New Student Services, Kansas State University, 122 Anderson Hall, Manhattan, KS 66506. Deadline for applications is Monday, February 26, 2001. Kansas State University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer. KSU encourages diversity among its employees.

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. TRIPP LAKE CAMP for Girls, Poland, Maine. Noted for picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June thru mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, baseball, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, golf, flag football, roller hockey, field hockey, swimming, sailing, water skiing, gymnastics, dance, horseback riding, archery, weight training, newspaper, photography, video, woodworking, ceramics/ pottery, crafts, fine arts, silver jewelry, copper enamel, nature study, radio/ electronics, theater, costume, piano, accompanist, music instrumentalist, backpacking, rock climbing, canoeing/ kayaking, ropes course, secretarial, nautic. Call Takajo at 800-250-8252 or Tripp Lake at 800-997-4347. Submit application on-line at www.takajo.com or www.tripplakecamp.com

CRUISE LINE. entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruiseadventures.com

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ whitewater, rappelling, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary: Room+ Board+ Travel - $800-762-2820.

IT'S GREEK TO ME. We need some energized people to grow with us! We've increased our sales and have full and part-time positions available in our warehouse and embroidery departments. Duties include pulling merchandise to complete orders, receiving goods, embroidery machine operators, and light cleaning work. These are excellent positions for students and parents working around home life. We offer competitive pay, flexible hours and the opportunity to be part of a great team! Our full-time benefits include group health/ dental insurance, paid annual leave and 401(k) retirement plan. Apply at 520 McCall Road or e-mail shelly@igtm.com. EOE

WANTED: OUTSTANDING Leaders of Youth: The 4-H Camps in Nebraska, located at the Nebraska National Forest-Halsey, Schramm State Park-Omaha and Harlan County Reservoir-ALma, are accepting applications for summer program staff. Spend mid-May to mid-August leading youth in outdoor programs. You will be trained to teach nature, ropes/ confidence course, canoeing/ tubing, crafts, overnight camping, and many more programs. You do not need to be in 4-H to apply. Application deadline March 1, 2001. For information call: (402)472-6717 or e-mail: blorhovic1@unl.edu

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Start last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@earthlink.net

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

320
Volunteers
Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160, www.kslaptops.com

460 Electronic Equipment

SIX PIECE stereo system, excellent condition with speaker. $300.00. 537-2213

500
transportation

1992 JEEP Wrangler. Four-cylinder, five-speed, 115K, air-conditioning, white/black soft top, new tires, much more $5500 firm. 395-0000 ext. 13.

1993 NISSAN Altima GLE. Auto, four-door, leather, sunroof, paint beige, all options, low miles, great condition. Best offer: 532-7520/ 537-7976.

1997 DODGE Dakota Club. Cab SLT 4x4 V-8, loaded, must sell. (785)537-6016 or (785)485-2273.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner. Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

600 travel/
trips

630
Spring
Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endsummer@sunshine.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

81 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endsummer@sunshine.com

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Start last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@earthlink.net

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160, www.kslaptops.com

460 Electronic Equipment

SIX PIECE stereo system, excellent condition with speaker. $300.00. 537-2213

500
transportation

1992 JEEP Wrangler. Four-cylinder, five-speed, 115K, air-conditioning, white/black soft top, new tires, much more $5500 firm. 395-0000 ext. 13.

1993 NISSAN Altima GLE. Auto, four-door, leather, sunroof, paint beige, all options, low miles, great condition. Best offer: 532-7520/ 537-7976.

1997 DODGE Dakota Club. Cab SLT 4x4 V-8, loaded, must sell. (785)537-6016 or (785)485-2273.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner. Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

600 travel/
trips

630
Spring
Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endsummer@sunshine.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

81 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endsummer@sunshine.com

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Start last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@earthlink.net

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160, www.kslaptops.com

SPRING BREAK 2001! South Padre Island www.pirentals.com/spring-break 1-800-292-7520
SPRING BREAK PANAMA CITY BEACH "SUMMIT" LUXURY CONDOS NEXT TO SPINNAKER CLUB OWNER DISCOUNT RATES (404) 355-9637

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

CANCUN BLOWOUT! Largest from Beachfront Sun $499 $559 Packages include 9th night, 7 nights hotel, party package, etc.

ACAPULCO JAMAICA $649 $509 SPACE IS LIMITED CALL TODAY!!

STUDENT TRAVEL SERVICES 1-800-648-4849 www.sttravel.com

600 travel/
trips

630
Spring
Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endsummer@sunshine.com

EIGHT-DAY FLORIDA/ Caribbean Vacation. Orlando, Fort Lauderdale, hotel, rental car, round-trip cruise for two, $398 plus docking. (888)353-1813.

GO DIRECT- Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLE-SALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252. www.springbreakdirect.com

81 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endsummer@sunshine.com

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Start last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@earthlink.net

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

BOOK: The Ten Best Chinese Literary Articles (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

BUTCHER GOATS for sale, less than one-year-old. Self slaughter on site. (785)257-3357.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160, www.kslaptops.com

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

Shhh! Conker is taking a nap.

Rare® and Nintendo® have been very naughty. They put fuzzy little Conker in a raunchy, raunchy world. Now only people 17 and older can play. Find out why at www.conker.com.

™ & © 2001 Rare. Rareware Logo is a trademark of Rare. The "N" Logo is a trademark of Nintendo of America Inc. © 2001 Nintendo of America Inc. Game and system sold separately.

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 42 ■ LOW 13

TUESDAY

8

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 20, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 102

Students release album of local talent

■ page 7

Issues arise as election nears

By NICK BRATKOVIC
Kansas State Collegian

Chalking will be paramount on campus over the next few weeks. Some students will wear buttons, T-shirts and applaud their campus candidates. It all is part of student elections, K-State's annual three-week marathon of determining its student leaders.

Five tickets have filed for the candidacy of president and vice president. In addition, about 185 applications have been filed to run for other positions within student government.

A solution to parking problems on campus is one issue students would like to see addressed in the upcoming student body elections.

Thanks to the current situation, Leslie Ahlvers, junior in family life and community service, now wakes up an hour earlier than she would have to if parking spots were easier to come by.

"If not earlier, to guarantee that we can find a spot," she said. "If we can't find a spot, then there is no use going."

Miranda Owens, graduate student in accounting, also said she thinks parking is a problem.

"Parking is horrible, and with the Alumni Center going in, I haven't seen any parking for it," Owens said. "We seem to hear the same type of things every year."

K-State students said they would like to see an easier display of information.

"I would like them to make the students more informed of what is going on," Tony Strnad, junior in agricultural economics, said.

Strnad is a member of Agriculture Council and said he finds out a lot of information about what goes on with Student Senate from the senators involved with Ag Council. However, he said it would be a quality service to students if more knew about it.

"I don't know how we could publicize it more," he said, "but it would be nice to get the word out more."

Some K-State students said they were unaware of the issues facing the campus right now and did not necessarily plan to pay attention to the upcoming elections.

"I am a part-time graduate student and don't pay a lot of attention to it," James Schneider, graduate student in history, said.

Carolyn Reitschek, freshman in pre-health professionals program, said she

See ISSUES on PAGE 10

Presidential candidates down from last year

By NANCY HULL
Kansas State Collegian

Five pairs filed to run for student body president and vice president, down from the nine pairs that ran last year.

But the number of candidates running this year still is considered average, Elections Chair Dustin Petrik said.

"From my experience here, last year was at the higher end of the range," he said.

Candidates for Student Senate positions also

See NUMBERS on PAGE 10

Underwater ADVENTURE

PHOTOS BY EVAN SEMON/Collegian

Jeff Fassbender, senior in electrical engineering, straps on his scuba gear during the second section of class. During this section students practice entering and exiting the water, swimming underwater for prolonged periods of time, suiting up and removing scuba gear and basic scuba-diving training. Top: Jeff Wilson is the scuba diving instructor for K-State's Division of Continuing Education class at the Junction City YMCA swimming pool. Wilson has been teaching lessons for 20 years. He received his certification in Pennsylvania and also is a member of the National Association of Underwater Instructors.

Scuba-diving classes offer chance to explore aquatic pastime

By AMY MORGAN
Kansas State Collegian

The deep end of the Junction City YMCA swimming pool is where many surfacing K-State students can be found during scuba-diving classes.

Classes are sponsored by K-State's Division of Continuing Education. Another session meets in the Natatorium and is sponsored by UFM. Jeff Fassbender, senior in electrical engineering, said he signed up for the course for fun.

"I was looking through the Continuing Education catalog and thought it would be awesome," Fassbender said. "For the last couple of years I had wanted to do it."

The first section of the class is spent discussing the technical aspects of scuba diving — such as diving procedures, safety regulations and rules of scuba diving.

Allowing students to get hands-on experience in the water with the scuba-diving equipment is part of the second section. Students practice entering and exiting the water, swimming underwater for prolonged periods of time, suiting up and removing scuba gear, as well as basic scuba-diving training.

After the completion of the training sessions, the students are given a written and pool examination.

Students also are required to perform test dives, where they are tested on what they would do if their face mask or oxygen supply were temporarily removed, for example.

Geoff Greenfield, junior in advertising, said scuba diving was an adventure he always thought about attempting.

"I always wanted to scuba dive and thought it would be something fun to do," he said. "I looked in the schedule, and I thought, 'Why not?'"

Scuba-diving instructor Jeff Wilson has been teaching lessons for 20 years. He received his certification in Pennsylvania and also is a member of the National Association of Underwater Instructors.

Wilson said his father was a scuba-diving instructor for 35 years, and it became a family interest. He actively scuba dives about one weekend a month and frequents locations such as Table Rock Lake in Missouri and Beaver Lake in Arkansas for scuba diving trips.

His class has a limit of 10 students unless an assistant also is present. Then, a maximum of 14 students is permitted due to insurance regulations and availability of equipment for the students to use.

Twelve sets of scuba-diving equipment are available for student use during the classes, but students are required to supply their own mask and snorkel.

"The reason you should be taking this class is for participating safely in this type of recreation," Wilson said. "It is a common-sense sport."

There is no law that requires scuba diving certification to be renewed or updated after the initial training.

Wilson said he strongly advises his students and other scuba divers to maintain knowledge of the sport by taking refresher courses.

"The longer you are out of it, the more you'll forget," Wilson said. "If you're not in it for a while, refresh your skills."

Michael Trout, senior in communication science and disorders, practices removing his scuba gear underwater and resurfacing Monday night during his scuba-diving class sponsored by K-State's Division of Continuing Education at the Junction City YMCA.

Local man arrested in shooting

By CRISTINA JANNEY
Kansas State Collegian

A 22-year-old Manhattan man is being retained on $250,000 bond in connection with a shooting early Sunday morning.

Matthew Ryan Muse was arrested and charged with attempted second-degree murder after a search warrant was served at about 1:45 p.m. Sunday at his home, at 417 Fremont St.

The criminal investigation is ongoing, according to police.

A police officer was stopped in the 1800 block of Anderson Avenue at about 4:30 a.m. Sunday, and a man told him his friend, Kenneth D. Smith, of Milford Kan., had been shot.

Smith, who had a chest wound, was transported to Mercy Health Center on College Avenue.

The hospital would not release any information Monday on Smith's condition.

"We protect the privacy of our patients," said Ann Harts, vice president of planning and development.

A press release from the police said Smith had undergone surgery and still was in the hospital.

Anyone with information on this crime can call the Riley County Police Department at 537-2112 or Crime Stoppers of Manhattan at 539-7777.

CATHY KAPULKA/UPI

Seven-time NASCAR Winston Cup champion Dale Earnhardt died in this last-lap accident with Ken Schrader in turn four at the 43rd Daytona 500, at Daytona International Speedway, Florida, on Sunday. "The Intimidator" was 49. Schrader was not seriously injured.

Legend remembered for talent, reputation

By MIKE HARRIS
The Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — The Intimidator. Old Ironhead. Tough and unyielding, a winner on the racetrack and often sarcastic and calculating off of it.

Even people who knew nothing about racing knew Dale Earnhardt's craggy, mustached face and his reputation as a driver never afraid to bang fenders or shake his fist at a rival.

Despite those traits and his rough appearance — or maybe because of them — Earnhardt was a key figure in the explosive growth of NASCAR during the past 20 years from a regional sport into a mainstream America powerhouse.

That's what made his death in Sunday's Daytona 500 so shocking.

"This is incredible, just incredible," driver Jeremy Mayfield said. "You figure he'll bounce right back. Your first thought is, 'Hey, he'll probably come back next week at Rockingham and beat us all.'"

See EARNHARDT on PAGE 10

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jlb7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Editor in Chief
532-6556

Kelly Glasscock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Photo Editor
532-0735

Ken Wells
kg3544@ksu.edu
Online Editor

Becky Wilson
bw1002@ksu.edu
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
bs9639@ksu.edu
News Editor

Jamie Barrett
jlb7883@ksu.edu
Online News Editor

Nancy Hull
nh6062@ksu.edu
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
nf4748@ksu.edu
City & Government Editor

Michael Koll
mks585@ksu.edu
Sports Editor

JJ Duncan
jd6666@ksu.edu
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Erin Scheweis
es8756@ksu.edu
Opinion Editor

Sara Martie
sm6920@ksu.edu
Presentation Editor

Corbin H. Crable
chc7869@ksu.edu
Copy Chief

Danny Elsworth
de0029@ksu.edu
Ad Manager

Alissa Duncan
ad0049@ksu.edu
Assistant Ad Manager

Emily Rand
er1358@ksu.edu
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian (ISSN 291-020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Keadie 103, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001.

News of the weird

John Bradley Park's defense at his drunk-driving trial in Llano, Texas, in October was that he was perfectly sober while driving on the night of July 4, 1999. Even though his car might have been swerving on the road, he said, but while sitting in the driver's seat after police officer Jody Deatherage pulled him over, he quickly began drinking, and that by the time he reached the medical facility to test, his blood-alcohol content, he was drunk. (He was nevertheless convicted.)

Collegian, Royal Purple win Gold Crown awards

Both K-State student publications were recognized with Gold Crown awards Feb. 15 at the 23rd Annual College Media Convention.

The Gold Crown awards are the Columbia Scholastic Press Association's top award for collegiate publications.

Of the 894 publications that entered applications, eight newspapers and six yearbooks received Gold Crown Awards. The 1999 Royal Purple and the fall 1999 and spring 2000 Collegian were among the student publications receiving Gold Crown Awards.

"They say these awards are like the Pulitzer Prize of collegiate journalism, so I was glad that we got it," Rachel Powers, 1999 Royal Purple editor, said. "It's kind of a tradition that we receive this award. I was happy to keep it going."

The Royal Purple has received eight Gold Crown awards in the past decade. The Collegian received its seventh Gold Crown Award.

"I'm very proud of the effort of my staff during the semester. I feel that the award gives recognition to all of the hard work put forth," said Kellee Miller, spring 2000 Collegian editor in chief.

—April Middleton

Bush dedicates museum for OKC bombing victims

OKLAHOMA CITY — President Bush on Monday dedicated a museum devoted to the Oklahoma City bombing, recalling the horror of the worst terrorist attack on U.S. soil and the heroism that rose from the rubble.

The twisted concrete of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building is long gone — except for pieces displayed for the nation's remembrance — Bush viewed personal effects of the dead in quiet reflection with survivors and loved ones.

"The debris is gone, and the building is no more," Bush said in dedicating the Oklahoma City National Memorial Center. "Now this is a place of peace and remembrance and life."

The memorial is near the site where a powerful truck bomb sliced into the federal building in April 1995, killing 168 people, 19 of them children.

Bush and his wife, Laura, toured the center, which features belongings of the victims, including car keys and the pink and white sneaker of a 4-year-old girl. They took the stage outside as a children's choir sang "Let There Be Peace on Earth."

"The time for mourning may have passed, but the time for remembering never does," Bush said. "Your loss was great, and your pain was deep, but far greater and deeper was your care for one another. That is what lasts."

—The Associated Press

Space shuttle remains in orbit due to weather

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — For the second day in a row, gusts of nearly 25 mph forced space shuttle Atlantis and its astronauts to keep circling Earth on Monday instead of coming home.

The weather was no better at the backup landing site in Southern California, so Mission Control ordered the crew to spend a 13th day in orbit and aim for a Tuesday afternoon touchdown.

"Bottom line is we're waving off for today," Mission Control told commander Kenneth Cockrell. "We do have three sites for tomorrow, all of them have a 'go' forecast at this time."

Atlantis and its crew of five undocked from the international space station on Friday, after delivering and installing the $1.4 billion Destiny laboratory, and should have returned to Earth on Sunday.

But the crosswind at the landing strip was well above the 17-mph safety limit, a situation that recurred on Monday. Not only that, thick clouds began moving in on Monday, and NASA worried they might bring rain.

—The Associated Press

Florida interstate closed due to 9,000-acre fire

POLK CITY, Fla. — Firefighters battled early Monday to control a 9,000-acre wildfire in a dry swampy area in central Florida.

The blaze has closed a 10-mile section of Interstate 4 and forced the evacuation of about 30 homes near here. No injuries were reported, and no houses were damaged.

The wind-driven fire in the Green Swamp grew from 2,000 acres Saturday night and jumped I-4, a heavily traveled route between Tampa and Orlando.

—The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegn@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Keadie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The registration deadline for Career and Employment Services' Dining Etiquette Workshop is today. The workshop will be at 5:30 p.m. March 1 in the Derby Dining Center. Professional business attire is required at the dinner. The cost is $5.25 per person or meal exchange for students with a K-State meal plan.
- UFM is now recruiting for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series Internship. An informational meeting will be at 4:30 p.m. today in the UFM Center, 1221 Thurston St. Application materials may be obtained at UFM from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Applications are due March 9.
- Education Council will meet at 7 tonight in Blumont 106.
- Future Female Executives will meet at 6 tonight in Calvin 209. Denise Wilson of Cessna Textron Co. will be the guest speaker.
- BAPP Club will meet at 5 p.m. today in Union 212.
- Hispanic American Leadership Organization will meet at 5:30 p.m. today in Hale Library lower Room 3.
- The College of Engineering Student Council will have Monie Carlo Night at 7 tonight in the Durlans Hall atrium. The event is in recognition of National Engineers' Week. For more information, contact Beth Weber at web7937@ksu.edu or Richard Gallagher at (785) 532-5590.
- AIESEC Kansas will make presentations on international paid internship opportunities at 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Calvin 218 and Calvin 202. Sessions are open to all - interested students.

- Muslim Student Association will have a public lecture, "From Athens To Belief," at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Big 12 Room.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct a Winning Interviews Workshop at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in Union 213.
- The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for the spring 2001 semester. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuservice@ksu.edu for more information.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County Sunday, Feb. 18

- At 11:16 a.m., Michael B. Dukes, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear.
- At 12:30 p.m., Lorraine G. McEwen, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for probation violation.
- At 2:25 p.m., Matthew R. Muse, 417 Fremont St., was arrested for attempted second degree murder.
- At 6:15 p.m., Robert J. Sugg, 823 Blumont Ave., was arrested for battery.
- At 8:15 p.m., Clint D. Alexander, 1122 Gardenway, was arrested for failure to appear.
- At 11 p.m., Gibran Suleiman, 6702 Anderson Ave., was arrested for DUI.

Monday, Feb. 19

- At 1:48 a.m., Dwayne A. McFadden, 6823 Deer Trail Road, was arrested for probation violation, unlawful possession and driving on a suspended driver's license.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Blumont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 11-1
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Blumont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Blumont #10
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #3
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

Dodge is back at Daytona.

And Ed Schram Dodge is revved up.

Dakota Module

$2,000 Cash Allowance
or 0.9% APR Financing*

$1,500 Cash Allowance
or 3.9% 60 Months
on select models

All Caravans at invoice plus rebate

1.9% APR for 60 months,
Or $2,000 Cash Allowance

*3.9% APR/60-mos. financing = $18.37 per $1,000 financed. Finance savings (for well-qualified buyers with 10% down) depend on model and are based on avg. total payments for applicable models financed during 10/1/2000 by CFC.

Up to $2,000 Cash Allowance
$1,000-$2,000, depending on model.
Or 0.9% Financing*

Dodge Different.

3100 Anderson • Manhattan
785-537-0357

www.edschramdodge.com

COURTESY ART

Ground-breaking rescheduled

By KAREN MAYSE
Kansas State Collegian

Construction equipment is starting to appear on the site for the new K-State Alumni Center. The new center will be south of Memorial Stadium and west of the K-State Student Union.

Construction will begin as soon as the weather cooperates and is expected to continue for approximately 16 months.

The ground-breaking ceremony, which was canceled when a foot of snow blanketed Manhattan on Feb. 9, has been rescheduled for April 20.

The KSU Alumni Association expects to move into the center in July 2002.

"K-Staters everywhere have so much pride in our university, and the Alumni Center gives us an opportunity to show that pride,"

Amy Button Benz, association president, said.

Construction activity follows a recent Alumni Association Board of Directors vote to go ahead with the project.

Approval was contingent on the amount of funding available for the project.

The total project cost will be about $12.6 million, and 90 percent of the funds already have been committed.

A fund-raising letter will be sent mainly to K-State alumni. Curt Frasier, Alumni Center project chairman, said.

Alumni will have the ability to place their name on pavers around the building in return for contributions.

Frasier said alumni across the country have expressed an interest in contributing to pay for construction costs.

The center will enhance the ability of the Alumni Association to serve alumni, students and the university, Frasier said.

Not only will it house association offices, but approximately 60 percent of the building will be public space set aside for meetings, receptions and banquets.

Among other activities, the building also can be used for recruiting students to attend K-State.

To select an architect for the building, invitations were mailed to all K-State architecture graduates.

Gossen Livingston Associates and Professional Engineering Consultants were chosen for the project.

The general contractors are GE Johnson Construction Company of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Conrod & Associates Construction Co. Inc. of Wichita. The main participants all are K-State graduates, as are many of their employees.

"Everyone involved has a strong interest in making this facility a place K-Staters everywhere can be proud of," Frasier said.

The project is running more than one year ahead of schedule. Karen Schroeder, director of alumni communications, said.

She said consultants projected that it would take five years to raise enough money to start construction, and the association is only about three years into the project.

"I think it shows how much support the project has and how many people are interested in having an alumni center available on campus," she said.

Spring break planning needed to avoid scams

By JENNIFER O'NEILL
Kansas State Collegian

The week of spring break is one of the most popular vacation times for students — both college and high school alike. It's also the most likely time students get taken advantage of by bogus travel companies and false advertising.

"A good sign of a sketchy deal is that if it's too good to be true, it usually is," said Jeff Trexler, general manager of USA Student Travel.

Trexler said he advised to be wary of companies that offer deals including free daily meals and alcoholic beverages. Usually, those free benefits come with certain time restrictions that aren't referred to in the original advertisement.

He said he recommends once a person has seen or heard an ad, to call the Better Business Bureau.

Another thing to watch out for is how the ad or package is presented.

"If a person hears about a package, look for it in writing," said Crystal Dittman, travel consultant at Creative Travel in Manhattan. "Read the fine print because a lot of companies will have policies that reserve the right to change your plans at any time."

Dittman said those plans could include flight times and hotel accommodations, as well as other charges.

Sonja Sun, travel agent at Five Star Travel in Topeka, said it's best not to give out credit-card information to companies that advertise over the radio or on television until they are reviewed with a travel agency.

"Usually, travel agents know which operators are reputable and are aware of those companies with financial difficulties," she said.

Another issue is charter flights. Opinions on charters vary among travel agencies.

"Be careful of a company that uses charters. A lot of times charters are unreliable and have problems," Dittman said.

Sun said she agreed that charter flights pose a problem to students.

"When a student has a travel package that includes a charter flight, the departure and arrival times aren't guaranteed," she said.

"This causes students to get stranded in airports and major delays.

Arrests made in college slaying

By TOM DAVIES
The Associated Press

NEW CASTLE, Ind. — Two teen-agers wanted in the slaying of two Dartmouth College professors were taken into custody at a truckstop Monday after a sheriff's deputy learned of their whereabouts while monitoring CB radio traffic.

Henry County Sheriff's Department Sgt. William Ward heard a trucker say he was carrying two teenagers who were looking for a ride to California. Ward, who had heard the suspects in the Dartmouth slayings might be headed west, pretended to be a truck driver and said he would pick the boys up at a truckstop along Interstate 70.

"I just said, 'Why don't you drop them off at the fuel desk and someone will pick them up?'" Ward said.

He and other officers apprehended James Parker, 16, and Robert Tulloch, 17, at the truckstop at 4 a.m. EST without incident.

A nationwide manhunt for Parker and Tulloch had been launched over the weekend. They were believed to have left their hometown of Chelsea, Vt., on Thursday bound for Massachusetts.

FULLTIME CAREER POSITIONS

WWW.KSU.EDU/CES

Registration with CES required to view positions

2.16 - 22.2001

532-6506

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS

Club Tuesday

• non-stop dance party • no country music

$2.00
wells

$2.00
pitchers

Tight-fittin Jeans
Finals
Thursday Night

doors open @ 8pm.
1150 moro

Olson's Shoe Service

Replace Heels & Soles
& Repair Western Boots,
Women's & Men's Dress, All
Birkenstock, Handbags & Backpacks.

Edwin C. Olson Sr., Certified Pedorthist

~ Aggieville ~

539-8571 • 1214-B Moro

Engineering Ambassadors would like to congratulate our new Engineering
Ambassador Executive Members:

Scott Bahr, ME
Todd Berger, ME
Marie Bunc, IE
Kyle Ginavan, CMPEN
Erin Halbleib, ME
Brandon Hanschu, IE
Mark Harter, ME
Paul Kavich, CS

Kristin Kitten, EE/CMPEN
Michael Neufeld, ARE
Mark Rice, EE
Andrew Scoby, ChE
Aliesha Scott, ChE
Ryan Simmons, CS
Brett Speaks, CS

KANSAS STATE OPERA THEATRE PROUDLY PRESENTS . . .

"THE TENDER LAND"

A SPLENDID OPERA BY MR. AARON COPLAND

A MODERN MASTERPIECE
FEATURING EXCITING LOCAL TALENT

MARCH 1 THUR MARCH 3
IN SPACIOUS AT 8:00 PM
MCCAIN AUDITORIUM
ADULTS $11
STUDENTS/SENIORS $8
CALL MCCAIN 532-6428

DON'T MISS THIS SWELL
LIMITED ENGAGEMENT!

IT'S VALENTINE'S DAY
ALL MONTH LONG
AT RAMADA AND GOLD FORK!

ENJOY DINNER FOR TWO AT GOLD FORK
AND

SPEND THE NIGHT AT THE RAMADA PLAZA

(THERE WILL BE COMPLIMENTARY BOTTLE OF CHAMPAGNE IN YOUR ROOM!)

RAMADA[®] PLAZA HOTEL

ALL FOR JUST

$79.95

Now that's a sweetheart of a deal!

AVAILABLE THROUGH FEBRUARY 28

Gold Fork

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

On the Topic

What do you think about the recent Kansas State Board of Education's decision to reinstate evolution into the science standards?

I think it's great that evolution is back in Kansas high schools, so now Kansas high schools will not look like complete idiots. I don't agree with evolution, but since I do not plan on teaching science, it does not bother me at all.

Since evolution is just another religion, shouldn't the ACLU work at removing it from the public schools? These communists sure are selective in their battles, aren't they?

There may be kids in our Kansas schools being shot by their classmates and dying of drug overdoses, but at least now they will die knowing that they are only glorified monkeys.

Sure, why not? It's always nice to hear about how we are related to apes.

Being an anthropology major, I think it's really great that they have decided to teach evolution again, because I think everybody deserves to know that they are only one chromosome short of being a monkey.

Thank God. I mean, thank Darwin.

The new science standards are a great step forward. We now have some of the best science standards of any state in the country.

Off the Topic

Putnam RAs plus Manhattan police department equals no Sunday beer.

I can only have 10 people in my apartment. What is this, my little brother's tree house?

To the boy whose girlfriend dumped him the day before Valentine's Day, don't feel bad, because I drove 3 1/2 hours and baked my boyfriend 10 dozen cookies for him to cheat on me the day after Valentine's Day.

You will be missed, Dale.

I want to encourage the students to get out and vote for any kind of city commissioner that is for inspections on landlord's properties, because these guys, they are total slumlords in this town. Eight hundred dollars for a two bedroom? That is ridiculous. Especially when there is a drain hole in the floor. It's time to police them.

Most college students drink one to five drinks when they party, but most college squirrels drink until they puke.

Now my fiancé cannot say that I am the only one who thinks porns are trash and very disrespectful to women. Thanks a lot, Michelle.

I think there is something wrong with my paper. The picture on the front is all blurry. I don't understand.

I would just like to thank the girl who said she got a Valentine's gift at 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. That means I've still got hope.

Have we gone back in time? Because the Collegian tells me I'm in the year 200.

Just because our basketball team sucks doesn't mean you have to cheat us out of knowing who the top 10 teams are.

Maybe it's just me, but the "Crocodile Hunter" guy isn't playing with a full deck.

Keira Mann — it's called freedom of speech.

I think it's funny that today's Collegian had a headline of Burger King closing over the summer due to the fact that there are not many students, and Dale Earnhardt's death made page eight. Good priorities, folks.

If you want to really enjoy Hannibal, read it. Besides, Jodie Foster is much better.

Question for Thursday: Do you think the bombing of Iraq was a good decision?

Space Invasion

Superficial conversations, relationships prove safe, lack substance

We've all heard it a thousand times: "Hi, how are you?" "Good, how are you?" "Good." Uncomfortable silence. Then, "So, how are classes?" "Oh, they're good. How are yours?" "Good. (Insert inane chatter here, if desired.) Well, it's been good talking to you. Keep in touch, OK?" "Yeah, you too."

Lather, rinse, repeat, and you have a typical evening at any social function. The thing is, most people don't see anything wrong with conversations like this one. Why should they? Superficiality is safe.

We Americans like our comfort zones very much indeed, and what's wrong with that? Don't violate anyone else's personal space, and they won't violate yours; it's all very simple.

Why should anyone want to try to interact on a deeper level? Anything more than mindless chatter might actually make you concerned about someone else's feelings, hopes and dreams. This would be bad because it means you could lose sight of yourself and focus on other people.

Our nation has a rich heritage of superficial relationships. Society tells us that we have to look out for Ol' No. 1 if we expect happiness in life. For people who aren't looking beyond themselves, it's hard to have complex relationships of any kind.

It's no surprise, then, that most incidental conversations follow the pattern I outlined above. It is, quite simply, the easiest course to take.

This is why we don't talk about what we really feel. We are defined by our hopes and dreams more than anything else, but we rarely discuss them. Instead, we talk about why Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman broke up, and isn't it sad because we always thought they were such a cute couple.

This cultural shallowness doesn't merely affect our conversations; it actually defines the way we live our lives.

Take dating, for instance. We consider it normal for two people to pay an obscene amount of money for the privilege of sitting quietly in a huge, crowded, dimly-lit room for two hours.

If one of them talks to the other during the two-hour period, the people near them will glare and make obscene gestures at them, since talking distracts people from the flashing lights on the screen at the front of the room.

I had been under the impression that the purpose of dating was to get to know someone better. (Although I could be wrong about this, seeing as I haven't had a date since the Eisenhower administration.)

If this is the case, then going to a movie seems like an extraordinarily dumb activity to do on a date.

Why do people do it? We do it because meaningful conversation is hard. Have you ever tried to sit and talk to someone else for two consecutive hours? It's difficult enough to do when the other person cooperates, but it's well nigh impossible if neither of you wants to talk about what truly matters to you.

So we talk about meaningless, petty things: classes, parking, the weather, how drunk that one guy was last night. We never talk about what we truly want in life. We don't even mention our deepest beliefs and convictions.

Instead, we walk through life smiling, shaking everyone's hand and feeling horribly alone. In the final analysis, that's the biggest downside to meaningless interaction with others — it wastes everyone's time on things that don't matter.

In the meantime, we live out a game with no goal, where nobody wins. There's no one to share our hopes, dreams, and desires — no one who knows what we fear and how we feel.

Whenever someone stops playing, everybody else gathers around a hole in the ground, and they tell each other what a nice person he was. Then they go to the church basement and eat potato salad.

Are you dissatisfied with this picture? If so, change it. Dare to have genuine, meaningful conversations. Don't take refuge in apathy and fear. Above all, share yourself with others.

Life's too short to live a lie.

Micah is a sophomore in English and history. You can e-mail him at mph7686@ksu.edu.

Pornography not as morally wrong as portrayed

Michelle Bertuglia asks in her column last Friday about the harmful effects of pornography. "Guys, what do you think?" In an exercise in being contrary, the following is a rebuttal to Bertuglia's column that pornography in and of itself is morally and ethically wrong.

Bertuglia first presents the intrinsic argument that it is wrong that occupations of greater social importance such as teaching, doing social work or being an anthropologist are culturally valued less than an occupation in the sex industry, as measured by salary.

I agree, but there exists many socially lesser occupations that pay more than these more important vocations. Such occupations include professional athletics, fashion modeling and being involved in any way with MTV. For sure, the culture is screwed up, but one can't make the claim that baseball is and will continue to be morally wrong and inappropriate until teachers make as much money as a starting pitcher for the Yankees.

Bertuglia's second argument is that the porn industry perpetuates unrealistic visions of women and thus is morally wrong, because this results in some women feeling inadequate due to the fact that they can't live up to this unrealistic standard.

True, but the fashion and the entertainment industries are more culpable than the porn industry in perpetuating unrealistic visions of women and men, too. Are all movies that star Nicole Kidman or Tom Cruise morally wrong because no one is as beautiful as those two people? What about the Spice Girls or Boyz II Men?

Besides, that's what a good deal of these three industries are all about — exhibiting what the popular culture at the time deems as "good-looking" people. The ideal appearance as presented by these industries is as much shaped by the surrounding culture as the culture is shaped by these industries. It's human nature to enjoy looking at things that are aesthetically pleasing, and good-looking people fall into this category.

All cultures, regardless of the existence of a fashion or entertainment industry, have an ideal appearance from which all individuals deviate. Human beings, being social organisms whose survival and quality of life depend upon being in a group, possess an innate desire to look good as compared to some ideal appearance standard the group values. In other words, we all care about how we look.

Some individuals, however, have a serious problem with their own self-image and worth. Within their own minds, they are inadequate and no matter what they do, can never approach what they consider the ideal appearance to be. This is a physiological problem and not the fault of elements within the greater society. These people have to learn to accept themselves and the value of their own persons.

There are many guys who feel inadequate because they lack athletic prowess. Can one conclude from this that sports are morally wrong?

Moreover, except for the models in Playboy and Penthouse, a good deal of the female talent in the porn industry is fairly plain. At the far extreme of this exist fetish magazines in which the female models are morbidly obese. I don't know of any woman who feels inadequate because she doesn't weigh 300 pounds.

The final argument presented is that pornography leads to gender violence. Bertuglia herself wrote in her column that there exists no scientific evidence linking pornography to gender violence, and believe me people have tried. Argument over.

In fact, the evidence suggests the contrary. According to the U.S. Department of Justice's National Crime Victimization Survey (a survey of 80,000 people taken twice a year since 1973, age 12 and older, including both reported and unreported crimes; rapes and attempted rapes have been dropping steadily from 2.8 victimizations per 1,000 persons in 1979 to an all-time low of 0.9 in 1996 and has been holding at this number ever since (last available year: 1999). Since 1993, there has been a 43.8-percent drop in rapes and attempted rapes.

This drop in the number of rapes has been happening concurrently with the explosion of the porn industry due to the advent, first of the home video tape recorder, and more recently with Internet access. In addition, over this timeframe the explicitness of sex acts and violence in the popular culture (television, movies, music) also has been increasing.

I know of no evidence suggesting that increased availability of pornography reduces the likelihood of rape. (This drop in victims could be due to increased awareness, better economy, President Clinton's COPs program.) However, it does strongly suggest against a positive correlation between pornography and rape.

As a point of clarification, Bertuglia's number that one in three women are raped over the course of her lifetime is inflated. The NCVS in 1978 calculated the number to be 8 percent, or one in 12.5. For 1999, I roughly calculate the likelihood of a woman being raped over the course of her lifetime to be (taking into account the NCVS numbers for the variation in the likelihood of being raped over different age ranges) to be around one in 16.5 (or 6.05 percent).

Rape and other violence against women are very serious crimes. The one in 16.5 number is still egregiously high. If as a society we're going to fight this, we must elucidate the true causes and be knowledgeable about the true facts of these crimes. It's a needless distraction and a waste of time and effort to base an anti-rape campaign on false beliefs. In the meantime, real people are getting hurt.

Some forms of pornography that are morally wrong do exist. These include forms in which the participants are exploited, coerced or forced to take part (e.g. child pornography). Any industry that partakes in such deeds (e.g. a good deal of the clothing industry) is morally wrong. I don't believe that the line of women waiting to have their pictures taken in the buff for scores of thousands of dollars are being exploited, coerced or forced to take part.

Pornography or dancing for men is not degrading to women. Several years ago there was a columnist for the Collegian named Page Getz whose ultra-liberal feminist writings makes me look like the Republican Party's poster boy. In one of her columns about how her after-school job was being a stripper, Getz made the point that being a feminist meant that a woman can be anything she chooses, be that a doctor, lawyer, president of the United States or a stripper. Being a feminist meant having freedom of choice.

As far as inviting one's date home for her to see the collection of coffee table books are all porno mags, I wholly agree with Bertuglia that that's pretty weak. As it stands, after the publication of this column, I'm never going to get a date in this town again.

David is a graduate student in entomology. You can e-mail him at bugs@ksu.edu

EXACT SCIENCE

Doug Strathman, freshman in construction science, works on an isometric drawing of the Konza Prairie House for class in Fairchild Hall's top floor studio Monday evening. At night, Strathman uses the time to complete any unfinished work from the day's class period.

MICHAEL YOUNG/
Collegian

Use of PDA products rising

By CHARLIE MORASCH
Kansas State Collegian

A technology trend is developing at K-State.

As advanced technology rapidly makes products affordable, department heads are allowing faculty to use Personal Digital Access products, or PDAs, which are similar to the Palm Pilot.

Dan Barnes, computer sales clerk at the K-State Student Union Computer Store, said an increasing number of faculty members have purchased PDA products, and several department heads have bought PDA products for their employees.

"It seems like the departments have been buying more and more," Barnes said. "The division of continuing education just bought a bunch of them."

Barnes said the affordability of the technology probably has contributed to the purchases.

Bryan Kraus, systems coordinator for the controller's office, said the decision to buy seven PDAs benefits employees who need to check their calendars to set up a meeting while they're at another meeting.

"We saw the Netscape calendar, and after K-State planned to use the Netscape calendar universitywide, we had the ability to interface that calendar with these palms," Kraus said. "You could have that interface between the calendar and your palm while you're away from your computer."

Kraus said the controller's office carefully examined PDA technology before purchasing them. They were cautious about the decision because of cost.

"These are just over $200," he said.

Elizabeth Unger, vice provost of academic services and technology, said she has encouraged departments to seek technology for faculty.

"We've encouraged it, and it helps for research and instruction," Unger said.

Unger said the largest use for employees is in scheduling.

"All of our coordinators use them. They can search for conferences and classes and can use the university calendar effectively," she said.

Unger said faculty in the Colleges of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine will be able to find many uses for PDA products.

"They can stand out in wheat or corn fields, collect the data and use the geopositioning system to know exactly where that point is," Unger said. "You can have a class go out to the Konza Prairie or a field of wheat and have the class record data to determine if it is a productive environment."

Harvard Townsend, director of computer and network services, said he rarely buys new technology for his employees to use, but he decided to make PDA technology available to his employees.

"This past fall I've made them available to all staff who have felt it would be productive to their work to get a palm computer. The other side is that it's helpful for us to use the technology so we can better help the people we serve. More and more of our customers are using palm-type devices."

Townsend said using PDA products also helps his employees manage the calendar system. He said his department will continue to purchase PDA products.

"We've got about 10, and about another ten staff chose to wait until this spring to get one," he said.

He said CNS staff members use them for the to-do list and the calendar to schedule meetings.

"You can do a lot more with palms than what I do — there is one guy in our department that uses it pretty effectively. He downloads software and also gets news on his palm pilot," he said.

Unger said K-State needs to continue to keep up with important trends in technology.

"Personal digital access that is wireless, has television, telephones and the Internet is coming. It's very much the wave of the future, and we've got to stay ahead of it."

Bill to extend lottery for 5 years; students speak out

By STEFANIE HOWARD
Kansas State Collegian

Kansans will be able to put themselves in a winning state if the Federal and State Affairs Committee passes an endorsed lottery bill to keep the lottery in operation until July 1, 2007.

The bill would extend the lottery operations for five years past the abolition date. Kansas law originally set the date for the lottery abolition for July 1, 2002.

Leaders have said Legislatures need to act this year. The lottery would need a year to pay off prizes, make good on its bills and wind down if it was abolished.

A previous lottery bill that was passed by the House was defeated by the Senate's committee.

The bill would have placed a ban on Internet advertising of lottery tickets, a prohibition on credit card purchases of tickets and a requirement for fewer Keno games each day.

Dale Johannsen, junior in park management and recreation, said he doesn't see anything wrong with the lottery and hopes it will stay.

"I think the lottery is all right. I see it as a form of entertainment. I don't play it myself, but if you have the money to do it, you should be able to."

Some students who play the lottery said they don't view it as a form of gambling, but more as a form of entertainment or hobby.

D. Jay Taylor, junior in management information systems and finance, said he doesn't play the lottery often. When he does play, he usually buys scratch tickets.

"I like the lottery. It brings in money for the state of Kansas."

Some students said they disagree with the lottery.

"I kind of think it is a dumb way to blow spare cash, but then again, I am a poor college student," Jacqueline Griffin, junior in secondary education, said.

Griffin also said the chances of actually winning are slim to none.

"If someone has enough faith that three or four numbers might bring him eternal wealth, who am I to rain on his ignorant parade?"

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

TUESDAY DINNER BUFFET

Gambino's Pizza

5pm- 7:30 pm

1219 Bluemont Ave. 537-9090

$3.99 ALL YOU CAN EAT!

Pizza, Pasta, Calzones, Cheese Sticks, Soups, Wings & Dessert Pizza

STEAK NIGHT

STEAK, POTATO, & TEXAS TOAST

$5.99

TONIGHT

$2.50
ELECTRIC PARROTS
keep the glass

Sharky's Little
Groove Box &
Flybox
LIVE!
@ 9 PM

TONS OF PRIZES-Get there early!!!
FREE C.D.'s for the first 150 people

"Beginning with you" for 15 YEARS

LORI, LORI, TRACY, SANDY, ANGELA, & LINDA
INVITE YOU TO

COME CELEBRATE AND SAVE

SAVINGS ON RETAIL CELEBRATING
15 YEARS
SAVINGS ON SERVICES

TUES, WED, THURS, & FRI.

Feb. 20, 21, 22, & 23

NEW BEGINNINGS

HAIRSTYLING & TANNING
1130 WESTPORT DR. #6

537.1003

TANNING
SESSIONS
10 for $25.00

Drawings for Prizes

CAREER DAY 2001

College Center Conference Room

- Flight Safety International
- Allenbrand-Drews & Associates, Inc.
- Black & Veatch
- Kennedy and Coe, LLC
- Boeing
- School Specialty, Inc.
- KASA Industrial Controls
- Bartlett & Company
- Brungardt Honomichl & Company
- Duncan Aviation
- Aerospace Systems & Technologies
- GE Engine Services
- Mid-States Energy Works Solomon Corporation

K-State - Salina

Sponsored by KSL - S Career Services, 826-2608

Are you running for office?

If you filed to run in the SGA General Election, you must attend one of the following Mandatory Information Meetings:

- Tuesday, February 20 at 9:00 p.m.
Union Big 12 Room
- Wednesday, February 21 at 9:00 p.m.
Union 213

Questions?

Call the OSAS at 532.6541 or logon to the web site below

ONLINE ELECTION INFORMATION:

WWW.KSU.EDU/ELECTIONS

Tuesday
February 27
9am - 2:30pm

- LSI Logic
- Western Resources
- Kansas Air National Guard
- Manpower Professional
- The Bradbury Company
- Garmin International
- Moridge Manufacturing
- Premier Pneumatics
- Raytheon Aircraft Company
- Cessna
- Tony's Pizza Service
- U.S. Army Recruiting Station

Wildcats win 2 of 3 in New Mexico

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

K-State continued one of its best starts ever when the Cats took two of three games in the Applebee's Baseball Fiesta to extend their record to 5-3 in Albuquerque, N.M.

Second baseman Ty Soto burst onto the K-State baseball scene after being inserted into the Wildcat defense for ailing Osmar Castillo. The Bakersfield, Calif., native went 4-for-9 in the Cats final two games of the tournament, including a 3-for-6, five RBI outing in K-State's 20-9 win over UNLV on Saturday.

"I thought we hit the ball extremely well despite the fact that we are playing at a field known to be a hitter's park," head coach Mike Clark said after the game. "Ty really looked good with his two big doubles."

K-State managed to put together an 11-run third inning behind Soto's back-to-back doubles in the frame. Junior starter Luke Robertson regained his composure after surrendering five earned runs on nine hits in 6 2/3 innings, and got the win after

See BASEBALL on PAGE 8

Men win 2 events at KSU Open

By ERIKA SAUERWEIN
Kansas State Collegian

The men's track team came away from the KSU Open Friday at Ahearn Field House with the confidence it needs for the upcoming Big 12 Indoor Championships.

Although the Wildcats won only two events in the meet, head coach Cliff Rovelto said the team will enter the conference this weekend rested and optimistic.

"A lot of people set some personal records or had some improvements today that will help their mind-set for conference," Rovelto said. "I can't think of anyone who is coming out of this meet not feeling good. Just about everybody feels like they are on the right track."

Terence Newman tallied K-State's only two victories. Cloud County Community College won five events in the meet, and the University of Kansas won three.

Newman set two meet records in both the 60-meter and 200-meter dashes. His time of 6.71 seconds in the 60-meter dash posted a personal record and his second NCAA provisional qualifying time of the season. He ran the

See TRACK on PAGE 8

K-State English rider Angie Guglielmino rides in Canyon, Texas, on Saturday during the final competition before regionals. Guglielmino placed third in the novice flat to point out of the level to intermediate flat, where she placed second in a later show.

PHOTOS BY STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Missed chance

Equestrian fails to qualify for Regional Championship by 1 point

K-State English rider Kristy Rue jumps over a fence Saturday and placed third in novice fences and second in novice flat to qualify in both for Regionals.

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

K-State's equestrian team had one last chance to qualify for the Regional Championships in the English division when it competed in a three-show event at West Texas A&M on Friday and Saturday.

However, the team fell just short of that mark in its first-ever season. The Cats finished the show in fourth place with 21 points, behind Oklahoma State (28 points), Texas A&M (23 points) and Louisiana State (22 points).

K-State finished the English season with 235 overall team points for third place in the region, 31 points behind first-place Texas A&M.

While the finish was impressive for K-State's first

See EQUESTRIAN on PAGE 8

K-State, Texas A&M to meet in Bramlage

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

Two teams hoping to end long losing streaks meet at 7 tonight when Texas A&M (12-12, 2-11) and K-State (11-13, 1-12) tipoff at Bramlage Coliseum.

K-State will have homecourt advantage for the final time this season, and for four seniors, Morgen Finneran, April Sailors, Marshela Webb and Kim Woodlee, tonight's game also marks the final home game of their careers.

Texas A&M enters Tuesday night's contest losers of seven straight, including a 67-54 loss to Colorado on Saturday night. K-State hasn't posted a win in eight tries, a streak dating back to mid-January.

The similarities don't end there, either. Both teams' last victories came over a ranked opponent at home. On Jan. 20, the Aggies used a 34-point effort from senior guard Jaynetta Saunders to shut down then-No. 25 Baylor 87-81, three days after the Cats' last win.

K-State last tasted victory against then-No. 17 Texas on Jan. 17, thanks to junior guard Kristin Rethman's 24 points and a solid second-half that saw K-State outscore the Longhorns 47-35.

Woodlee, who poured in 12 points in the 72-63 win over Texas, will be making her first appearance since breaking the Big 12's all-time three-point record by hitting four treys against Nebraska on Saturday night.

"I can't even begin to express what an accomplishment it is," K-State associate head coach Kamie Ethridge said after the Cats' 77-69 loss to the Huskers. "In an incredibly athletically skilled basketball league, for her to be able to get that number of shots off and get them to go in is just amazing."

"It speaks to how dedicated she is as a player and how good she is at what she does. It is a tremendous credit to Kim."

One aspect Woodlee, Rethman and the rest of the K-State guards will be looking to improve against the Aggies will be shot selection. After solving the ball control problem by committing just nine turnovers against the Huskers, the second fewest this season, K-State managed to shoot just 37 percent on 61 attempts from the field.

"We made some huge strides," Ethridge said. "Most of the time, when we look at a stat sheet and see our team have nine turnovers, we expect to have lots of chances to win the game. That's the real disappointment—we fixed that problem and then broke something else."

K-State also benefited from the physical play of freshman Amy Dutmer's presence in the past against Nebraska. The York, Neb., native came

See BASKETBALL on PAGE 8

Collective bargaining agreement might be difficult to make for Major League

This year's World Series might start Oct. 20, but Major League Baseball's real fireworks don't begin until Oct. 31.

That's the day the collective bargaining agreement between the owners and players expires, and reaching a new agreement might prove more difficult than confirming John Ashcroft.

If the owners and players can't come to an agreement, baseball will experience its ninth work stoppage since 1972. In winter 1994, during the last labor renewal, the players went on strike when they couldn't reach a compromise. The owners declared an impasse in the negotiations and tried to unilaterally impose a new system. A federal judge struck down that effort, and the players ended their strike.

The strike lasted long enough to force the cancellation of the World Series, and the league has yet to recover. A repeat of 1994 would be devastating to the game. Even Mark McGwire has said he will retire if an agreement can't be reached without a work stoppage.

The central conflicts in the negotiations are economic and seem nearly impossible to resolve. Once again, the battle between the high-revenue clubs and the low-revenue clubs wages on. The question isn't whether payroll disparity exists. After all, the Yankees had a $113 million payroll last year, while the hapless Minnesota Twins had a payroll of $15 million. The question for baseball is how the league can bridge such a huge gap.

At a time when some football critics claim that the NFL has too much parity, Major League Baseball is struggling to keep its disparity from growing even further.

Revenue sharing was discussed extensively in 1994 and will be an important issue again. Unfortunately, the owners (or at least the wealthy owners) refuse to support pooling their television revenues to help teams that cannot generate large television and radio contracts.

Inevitably, the owners of high-revenue teams like the Yankees and the Mets will argue that poor management plays the most important role in a lack of success and will point to the success that the Oakland A's have had recently with a relatively small budget. On the other hand, teams like the Kansas City Royals have floundered in the wake of questionable management decisions.

However, small-market teams like Kansas City face a larger burden than poor decision-making. A team with a $113 million budget can afford to make managerial mistakes. Teams like the Royals have their mistakes magnified because of their inability to fix them.

In an attempt to start a dialogue about possible solutions, Baseball Commissioner Bud Selig has made it clear that absolutely every option is on the table. That means there could be a luxury tax on wealthy clubs or that Derek Jeter could be forced to play at least two games for every team in baseball.

But even as Selig struggles to build consensus, one Major League executive called the proposed changes a "new roof on a house that needs a new foundation." Unfortunately, the owners aren't willing to address the faulty foundation.

Of course, the owners aren't the only problem in the economic equation. The players refuse to agree to a hard salary cap to help limit exorbitant contracts.

In the past, the players have supported some restrictions such as limits on free agency. Basketball and football both have salary restrictions, and in both leagues the players have experienced economic rewards. But in the wake of an off-season that produced the most lucrative contracts in sports history, it's unlikely that baseball players will support a cap or a luxury tax.

With each side refusing to flinch, every day of the season becomes one less day to reach a settlement and one day closer to another work stoppage.

In 1942, at the height of World War II, journalist Quentin Reynolds pleaded with Major League Baseball to keep playing the game despite the ongoing war. He wrote: "Hitler has killed a great many things in the past few years. Do not let him kill baseball."

Baseball's current menace is far less heinous than Nazism, but the threat to the game is as real now as it was in the 1940s.

It took great perseverance and bravery to win World War II. Hopefully, those same virtues will find their way into baseball's negotiations, and this October will be remembered as the beginning of compromise, and not the end of baseball.

Christopher is a senior in political science. You can e-mail him at cml1182@ksu.edu.

CHRIS McLEMORE

my view

IN PROFILE

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 2001

7

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
- 1 Collapsed
 - 5 Cistern
 - 8 Roll call
 - 12 Wind instrument
 - 13 "Hail, Caesar!"
 - 14 PC symbol
 - 15 Saharan
 - 16 Unlikely winner
 - 18 Winning jockey
 - 20 Super-market section
 - 21 Nosh
 - 22 Dorsal feature
 - 23 Small fruit
 - 26 Yen
 - 30 Hosp. area
 - 31 Polish
 - 32 Plagiarize
 - 33 Archer's implement
 - 36 Strollers
 - 38 Diving bird
 - 39 Retainer
 - 40 Leg parts
 - 43 Way back when
 - 47 Classical-music lover
- DOWN
- 1 Colt or filly
 - 2 Spanish river
 - 3 Cut of pork
 - 4 Account-ant's book
 - 5 Man-servant
 - 6 Shakespeare's river
 - 7 Coffee break
 - 8 On the way up
 - 9 Publisher
 - 10 Gadget
 - 11 Stud fee?
 - 17 Profit
 - 19 Rotation duration
 - 22 A TV network
 - 23 Cartoonist
 - 24 "Foucault's Pendulum" author
 - 25 Scoot
 - 26 Ally
 - 27 Playwright
 - 28 — de plume
 - 29 "Pygmalion" writer's monogram
 - 31 Moo goo gai pan
 - 34 Hindus' sacred river
 - 35 Jeb or George
 - 36 Corral
 - 37 System of government
 - 39 Twosome
 - 40 Tend hungry hogs
 - 41 Sharpen
 - 42 Erstwhile Peruvian
 - 43 Zoo animal
 - 44 Enthusiastic, plus
 - 45 Percussion instrument
 - 46 Scraps
 - 48 "Eureka!"
- Solution time: 27 mins.
- Yesterday's answer 2-20
- 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

E P L I Z F B P N W K M A S
P I I W H P L J E Z F F I A F P R F I
O A F P R H K G A J S J W P E Z P I H F
W B O W N O W N O W M G J S ?

Yesterday's Cryptquip: THE GLOOMY ARCHAEOLOGIST IS OFTEN HEARD TO CRY ALOUD. "MY LIFE IS IN RUINS!"

Today's Cryptquip Clue: N equals M

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 21 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error. © 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

LOCAL TALENT

WHO: Elemental

Elemental blends the pop feel of emo and punk with hip-hop to create a style all their own.

The band will be performing at Tula's Out of Bounds on Wednesday night to support the "Radio Rage" compilation disc, which they appear on. Elemental has been together for more than a year, and vocalist and guitarist Brandon Eck said they are all close friends. Eck had been collaborating with vocalist Kevin Regier and drummer Justin Peterson all through high school before they met bassist Ben Gray to complete the band.

Though all the musicians are Christian, and they let that influence their style, Eck said they think of themselves more as a rock band that happens to be Christian and not a Christian rock band.

Mostly, Eck said he just wants people to enjoy the sound and energy of Elemental.

"We want people to show up and have a really fun time," he said. "Hopefully, they will recognize the energy we put into our music."

If you have a suggestion for an interesting person to profile in brief, contact the arts and entertainment editor at arts@pub.ksu.edu.

ECK

GRAY

RADIO RAGE

MIKE SHEPHERD/Collegian

Jeff Bilberry, senior in advertising, will see a dream become a reality tonight when "Radio Rage," the CD he co-produced, is introduced to the public at a release party at Joe's Tap Room. Bilberry, a former on-air personality at KSDB-FM 91.9, said he is hoping the CD increases exposure for Manhattan's local music scene.

Student-compiled disc offers insight into local scene

By JJ DUNCAN
Kansas State Collegian

Radio Rage

"Radio Rage" CD release parties will take place Tuesday at 10 p.m. at Joe's Tap Room and Wednesday at 10 p.m. at Tula's Out of Bounds. The first 150 people to show up at each show will get a free "Radio Rage" CD. Wednesday's show will be 18 and over.

Jeff Bilberry made it his personal goal when he left for college to get a band together and release an album he could be proud of. Bilberry is graduating at the end of this semester, and while he never found a steady gig in a band, the album part has come true.

"When I was in high school I was in this band, and we tried pushing one of our songs and getting it recorded," Bilberry, senior in advertising, said. "By the time we got the song recorded, the band broke up, so I wanted to get in a band and put out a CD in college. In a way, I did that."

Bilberry, with the help of Dave Studnicka, trombone player for Ruskabank, put together the "Radio Rage" album. The album is a compilation of local music that has helped to promote the work bands are doing, as well as put Manhattan's music on the map, Bilberry said.

Tonight and Wednesday night, the release of the compilation will be celebrated with the final two compact-disc release parties for "Radio Rage." The album will be given away to the first 150 people who show up to each of the shows, Bilberry said.

Besides the more than 300 CDs that already have been given away, Studnicka said about 200 have been sold through local vendors.

With so many albums in circulation, Studnicka said every band on the compilation has received excellent exposure.

"It helped us in Ruskabank as far as exposure because of all the established names that appear on the CD," he said. "People have told me they bought the album for the Pomeroy track or the Ultimate Fakebook track. Then they are exposed to all these new bands they may end up really liking."

The fact that so many local acts have been included on one compilation increases the support and the perceived validity of the music scene, said Britt Desbien, vocalist for Flybox, who will be performing at the Tuesday show.

"That CD had done great things for the local music scene," he said. "It gives bands a chance to be heard. That's important because right now the Manhattan scene really is getting stronger, and people need to hear it and be exposed to it."

Bilberry said the original intent of the album was to promote "The Local Show" on KSDB-FM 91.9, which he and Studnicka are hosts of. As the compilation developed, the purpose became larger, Bilberry said.

"It became a way to prove to the whole state that Manhattan and northeast Kansas has a real rock scene," he said. "With the 'Radio Rage' CD we set out to put Manhattan on the musical rock map."

The idea at first was to compile a CD of live performances on "The Local Show," Bilberry said. After it was decided to let bands submit studio recordings, Bilberry said there was so much response it quickly became a studio album.

Since its inception, "The Local Show" has become an integral part of the local music scene, and Bilberry said he is proud of the reputation it has achieved.

Desbien said the show gives people a way to find out what is going on with Manhattan music. It not only provides an outlet for the bands' music but also gives bands a chance to promote themselves through appearances and live performances, Desbien said.

"The Local Show" helps out because the crowd can get to know the personalities of the bands and their music," he said. "Without that show people might not even know about some of the bands in Manhattan."

While Bilberry no longer appears on "The Local Show," he still helps and said he and Studnicka have begun to pass the torch to Brothers From Different Mothers vocalist, Aaron Graversen.

Bilberry and Studnicka said being hosts of the show means more than just showing up and playing music; the hosts take on the unwritten

MIKE SHEPHERD/Collegian

A flyer announcing the "Radio Rage" album release party hangs on a bulletin board in the KSDB-FM 91.9 studio. Two parties, one at 10 p.m. Tuesday at Joe's Tap Room and one at 10 p.m. Wednesday at Tula's Out of Bounds, will mark the album's release.

responsibility of helping out the local music scene as a whole. Experiencing the music through the role of a promoter, Bilberry said he realized how much he could help out local bands through the radio.

"I started out in Manhattan playing in bands, and once I started doing radio I liked the experience from that side of the music," he said. "Helping out the local music scene almost consumed me because I can do so much in the way of promoting bands from that side of things."

Helping local music is something Studnicka said he takes seriously. As part of a local band, he said he makes it his responsibility to help other bands, and so do many other people who care about the music.

Brandon Eck, guitarist and vocalist for Elemental, said he is excited to be able to support the album at Wednesday's show, and the album has brought the band good exposure. The work put into the CD is appreciated by many bands, he said.

"I think the album shows the potential we have here in Manhattan," Eck, sophomore in graphic design, said. "Jeff and Studnicka have done a great job on it."

Even though Studnicka was a little skeptical at first, he said when the project really began to take off, many of his fears were cast aside. The album ended up being something Studnicka said he is really proud of.

"It turned out so much better than I thought it would," he said.

"Every band has been ecstatic about the way it turned out, which is a real compliment to Jeff and I."

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM - MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

TRACK

■ continued from page 6

200 meters in 21.47 seconds, also a provisional time.

"That's the first time Terence has ever competed in the 200," Rovelto said. "He really didn't technically run a good race, but it was his first time ever running it. It just shows you how talented he is."

Several Wildcats placed second in the meet. Jason Green ran the 200 meters in 21.97 seconds to tie for second and post a season best. Istvan Nagy also ran a season best to place second in the 800 meters. In his season debut, Tony Thompson placed second in shot put by throwing an NCAA-provisional qualifying mark of 60 feet, 2 1/2 inches.

"There were some really significant marks," Rovelto said. "Tony has performed well in practice, but struggled in the last meet. But today, that mark is significant. If he throws like that in conference, he will be in the top three or four."

K-State jumpers also had a good meet. CJ Jamison placed third in triple jump by posting a personal record of 49 feet, 2 1/2 inches.

"This is my first year competing in triple jump," Jamison said. "It is hard to learn because there is so much technique involved. But I jumped pretty good today. I have jumped a personal best in every meet this year, so I have been improving."

Rovelto said K-State's heptathlon athletes Pat Pyle and Justin Robinson also had good marks to carry into the conference championships.

"Pat had a personal record in the high jump and a solid throw in the shot," Rovelto said. "Justin had a personal best in the 60 meter dash. He vaulted okay and also a personal best in the shot. Those are good marks in events that aren't necessarily their strong events. They are events that they can feel good about."

MIKE SHEPHERD/Collegian

Pat Pyle clears 6 feet, 7 inches to take second place in the high jump at the KSU Open at Ahearn Field House on Friday.

The Big 12 Indoor Championships are Feb. 23-24 in Lincoln, Neb., and following Friday's success, a top-two finish is possible for the Cats, Rovelto said.

"As a team, we feel like we can go get second in the meet after tonight if we all take care of business," he said.

BASEBALL

■ continued from page 6

striking out a season-high eight.

"Luke was a little rocky at first but really turned it on in the last few innings with the strikeouts," Clark said.

Saturday's win over UNLV came one day after K-State beat the University of Utah to open the ABE. Five Ute errors in the first three innings and senior J.D.

Loudabarger's three-run home run in the third inning allowed the Cats to build a 6-0 lead, and junior Chad Duckers earned his second win of the year after giving up just four hits and two runs in 6 1/3 innings.

"When we got the lead, we just turned it over to Duckers," Clark said. "He did a fantastic job, and I was happy with the way we finished the game."

K-State finished in a four-way tie for first place in the tournament after giving up six runs in the fifth inning of the Cats' 12-3 loss to host school New Mexico on Sunday. Junior southpaw Brock Smith suffered his second loss of the year after giving up six runs on eight hits in four innings.

The Cats are back in Manhattan before starting conference play this weekend in Austin, Texas, with a three-game series against the Longhorns. The series kicks off with a 2:30 first pitch from Disch-Falk Field.

— K-State Sports Information contributed to this article.

BASKETBALL

■ continued from page 6

off the bench for the Cats to score a career-high seven points in 13 minutes.

"I think we're going to be really motivated because right now we're looking for anything and everything to come out and get a win, and we're improving now," Dutmer said. "We're going to be ready on Tuesday."

Texas A&M is expected to be ready tonight as well. Saunders, the Big 12's scoring leader at 24.1 points-per-game, also leads the Aggies with 7.1 rebounds-per-game, and backcourt mate Toccaro Williams leads the conference in assists, averaging 7.6 per contest.

"They're going to be a real challenge for us defensively," Ethridge said. "Our goal will be to be able to keep them in front of us and to a lower percentage shooting night and at the same time try and build on our positives."

Order your Royal Purple!

$29.95

On Sale at Kedzie 103

2000 2001
Don't lose touch.
Get a K-State Campus Phone Book

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING 118 Kedzie 532-6560

Weekly Flour Sale

12 noon - 4 p.m. Wednesday
Shellenberger 220

5 and 50 lb. bags
Many varieties available

GRAIN
SCIENCE CLUB
532-6161

Little Caesars
TUESDAY SPECIAL!

1 18" GIANT PIZZA
WITH 1 TOPPING
PLUS AN 8 PIECE ORDER
OF CRAZY BREAD*

$9.99
PLUS TAX
DELIVERY CHARGE
MAY APPLY

Call:
539-3333
MANHATTAN (Westloop Center)

No Coupon Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2000 L.C.E., Inc.

Bob's DINER

1103
N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT

OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY

7 DAYS A WEEK

is

EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY

$1.99

BREAKFAST

ALL THE TIME

A new wing
will soon be completed
that will include a smoke free
area and a new salad bar

EQUESTRIAN

■ continued from page 6

season, not advancing to Regionals was still disappointing, head coach Teresa Slough said.

"It certainly was. It was disappointing for us to ride well at the end of the season and not qualify," she said. "But, it was our first year riding as a team, and we had lots of individuals qualify, so it was a good year."

While the English team didn't advance, eight individual riders will compete at Regionals: Maureen Reynolds will compete in Intermediate Fences and Open Flat, Kara Jagels and Kristy Rue qualified in Novice Fences and Novice Flat, Angie Guglielmino in Novice Flat, Emily Mertz in Intermediate Flat, Katie Griffin in Walk/Trot/Canter and Callie Smith and Gretchen Pfister in Walk/Trot.

Qualifying for Regionals did not come down to the final show for all those riders, however. Jagels, for instance, qualified in the very first show of the season. Nevertheless, she still is excited about the chance to continue advancing into the season.

"I'm excited that I have two chances to compete at Regionals," Jagels said. "I hope to go on to Zone, hopefully in both divisions, jumping and flat."

Eight English riders will continue competing this season, but 21 will not. They said, however, they still had good seasons. Lindsey Hill placed in all three shows last weekend in the Beginning Walk/Trot division, but she didn't advance.

"We really did have some riders who had good shows, but in previous shows they didn't do so well and didn't qualify," Slough said.

Because it was K-State's first season, its riders didn't benefit from any carry-over points from the previous season and faced a certain disadvantage in qualifying, Slough said.

"The biggest indicator of success or lack thereof is to look at how they were riding at the beginning of August and how they are riding now," she said. "They were at a disadvantage in terms of carry-over points, but in terms of riding skill, they were right up there."

As a result, the team already is looking forward to next season.

"We started the year with completely nothing. Since it was all new to us, we didn't know what was going to happen," Jagels said. "I still thought we did a good job, and we should do very well next year. We will bring a lot of good riders back."

The equestrian team will be back in action March 3 at Texas A&M in Canyon, Texas, for the Regional Championships. The top three riders in each division will advance to the Zone Championships on March 14.

Claflin Books and Copies
Dependable Quality Service

Color Copying

Across from Goodnow Hall

American Legion
BINGO!

Sunday 2 p.m.
Tuesday 1:30 p.m.
Wednesday 7:30 p.m.
"Progressive Bingo"
Sundays & Wednesdays
- Win Big Bucks -
114 McCall Rd.

HANSEN
NUTRITION CENTER
Locally owned one stop
Health Food Supermarket
3112 Anderson • 539-4571
Across from Village Plaza

Pregnancy
Testing Center
539-3338
•Free pregnancy testing •Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment
Located across from campus
in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

BOBBY T'S Remember the Taco

Taco Tuesday

50¢ tacos
$1.50 margaritas
$1 DRAWS
$2 Coronas

Don't Forget, Wednesday Karaoke Night 9 p.m.

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.

DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.

Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)

DMS Bail Bonds

"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

K-State Karate Club is starting classes
Tuesdays & Thursdays at
Ahearn Fieldhouse

For more information, contact Charlene
Gibson (pggibson@interkan.net) or Roy Monfort (rem7148@ksu.edu) or call 776-2112

Calling all K-State
Students! Paid internships for work abroad.

AIESEC Kansas representatives will give information sessions for students wishing to do paid internships overseas for a semester or a summer.

Wednesday, February 21
11:30 a.m. Calvin 218
1:30 p.m. Calvin 202

For further information call the Office of International Programs, 532-5990

99¢ Corona
Every Tuesday at...

$1
Taco Bar
5 to 8

LAST CHANCE
SALOON

No Cover, Never had it, Never will!

HAVE THE SUMMER
OF YOUR LIFE!
Positions Available:
Swimming
Sailing
Water-ski
Soccer
Basketball
Baseball
Softball
Tennis
Gymnastics & Dance
Horseback Riding
Cooking
Wilderness Adventure
Ropes Course
Arts & Crafts
Ceramics
Video
Musical Theater
Photographs
General Counselors
Activity Directors
AND MUCH MORE!

Point O'Pines Camp for Girls and
BRANT LAKE CAMP FOR BOYS
Point O'Pines Camp and Brant Lake Camp located in the majestic setting of the Adirondack Mountains in Upstate New York want YOU to experience the best summer of your life!

A representative from Point O'Pines will be on campus Friday, February 23rd.
A representative from Brant Lake will be on campus Tuesday, March 13th.

Call us toll-free at 1-888-726-9908 to schedule an interview
Take a look: pointopines.com or www.brantlake.com

•PAID TRAVEL & COMPETITIVE SALARY•

CLIP N SAVE

Oil Change Special (Up to 5 Quarts of oil filter and lube changes) $19.95

Tire Balance and Rotation w/
Free Brake Inspection (Most cars and light trucks) $29.95

OPPY'S AMOCO SERVICE
605 S. THIRD
MANHATTAN, KS 66502
(785-776-9940)

ASE Certified
Call for appointment
Accept all major credit cards
(Expiration 5-31-2001)

OPPY'S WESTSIDE AMOCO
3001 ANDERSON AVE.
MANHATTAN, KS 66502
(785-539-4331)

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 2001

9

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Available August, one-bedroom units, central air/ heating, balcony, fully equipped kitchen, quiet, off-street parking, water and trash paid, low utility bills, 539-2702.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AFFORDABLE ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartments. Available now! Water and trash paid. No smoking and no pets. (785)539-1975.

AVAILABLE AUGUST Spacious one and two-bedroom, 1100 block of Bluemont, trash paid, off-street parking, no pets. 776-0683.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW, TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus, 1320 N. Manhattan Ave. $530. Call 785-456-2812.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS CLOSE TO CAMPUS. Water/ trash paid $615- $685/ month. 539-1997.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. FIRE-PLACE, all appliances including WASHER/ DRYER. Small quiet complex. No pets, no smokers. $475 August 1. 776-6318.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE For rent. 776-9214 or 587-9224.

115
Rooms Available

ROOMS FOR RENT in nice two story house one block from campus. One-seventh utilities. Call Cynthia, 537-7381.

120
For Rent-
Houses

BEAUTIFUL AND SPACIOUS! five-bedroom, three bath house, close to campus, central air/ heat, dishwasher in new kitchen. Garbage and lawn care provided. No smoking/ pets. June 1. $1500. 776-9719.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE a JUNE lease, washer/ dryer hook-ups, four blocks to campus. AUGUST lease, washer/ dryer, garage, fireplace, hardwood floors, new carpet. Two blocks to campus. No pets. 313-4812.

LUXURY TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE Den, attached garage with opener, pool, tennis, basketball, clubhouse. No pets, no smokers. $600 August 1. 776-6318.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

SPECTACULAR MOBILE HOME! Three-bedroom, one bath, huge yard behind park, new carpet, tile and paint, washer/ dryer. All appliances stay. Central air, two sheds, lighted driveway. $5500. Available May 1. 539-5534 or (785)845-8455.

145
Roommate Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bath-roomHOUSE. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

FEMALE ROOMMATES WANTED! Price reduced - $275! Five minutes from campus. Call (785)770-6410 or (316) 585-2529 for details.

TWO MALES WANTED for three-bedroom apartment. Starting June or August 2001. Across the street from campus. $230/ month. Don-Inc, 539-8221.

CLASSIFIED ADS
LET THEM WORK FOR YOU
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie • 532-6555

150
Sublease

AVAILABLE MAY 12, three bedrooms in four-bedroom apartment at University Commons. $275 a month. Call 587-0780.

AVAILABLE NOW: spacious one-bedroom apartment. Private balcony, water and trash paid. 532-9136, leave message.

SUMMER SUBLEASE Two-bedroom apartment. Washer/ dryer. Close to campus, Aggieville, park. Lease through next school year, if desired. 317-0314.

TWO-BEDROOM ONE-HALF block to campus, available March. 776-4343, leave message.

200 service directory

235
Child Care

PART-TIME CHILD care in home for infant. Will pay mileage and one week's vacation. Lorie, (785)210-3136.

255
Other Services

ELLERY, ENGINEERING senior, does affordable maintenance, home or rental including appliance repair, also build budget computers to fit your needs. Eight years experience. 539-0232.

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

HORTICULTURAL SERVICES Inc. is seeking full-time and part-time sales clerks at our retail Garden Center. Sales and business experience preferred. plant knowledge helpful. Above average wages and benefits. Apply in person at 11524 Landscape Ln., St. George, KS 66535. (785) 494-2418 or (785)776-0397.

IT'S GREEK TO ME. We need some energized people to grow with us! We've increased our sales and have full and part-time positions available in our warehouse and embroidery departments. Duties include pulling merchandise to complete orders, receiving goods, embroidery machine operators, and light cleaning work. These are excellent positions for students and parents working around home life. We offer competitive pay, flexible hours and the opportunity to be part of a great team! Our full-time benefits include group health/ dental insurance, paid annual leave and 401(k) retirement plan. Apply at 520 McCall Road or e-mail shelly@igtm.com. EOE.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfowl, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS TECHNOLOGY Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A+ Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6454, or email to dean@co.riley.ks.us. Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

ARTISTS/ ART Students: Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltankofgas@hotmail.com

$5 GET PAID for your opinion! $5 Earn $15-$125 and more per survey! money4opinions.com

$1500 WEEKLY potential making our circulators. For home info. call (203)977-1720.

ARTISTS/ ART Students: Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltankofgas@hotmail.com

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfowl, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS TECHNOLOGY Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A+ Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6454, or email to dean@co.riley.ks.us. Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfowl, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS TECHNOLOGY Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A+ Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6454, or email to dean@co.riley.ks.us. Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

000
bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/kscf

SCUBA LEARN to scuba dive at the areas only, PADI approved dive centers. Join the fun, get certified for spring break and summer. Call Creative Travel and Scuba at 539-0531.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: PRECIOUS Moments watch in 108 Waters. Call 539-0531.

030
Personals

We require a form of picture ID (K-State, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

100
housing/ real estate

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2440.

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

LARGE WELL furnished two-bedroom duplex. Adjacent campus, off-street parking, no smoking or pets. August possession. Stock-Well Real Estate. 539-4073.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

LEASING FOR fall 2001 two-bedroom, excellent condition and location. 776-4166 or www.angelire.com/ks2/bluestem

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March. 1854/ 1858 Clifton. $385- $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM JUNE or August lease close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air and heat. 537-7810.

Park Place Apartments Showings Mon.-Fri. 1-2-3 Bedrooms 539-2951

THREE AND SIX-BEDROOM duplexes next to campus. Central air, parking, free washer/ dryer. No pets, no smoking. Available June or August. 537-7050.

THREE OR four bedrooms. August lease close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air and heat. 537-7810.

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE JUNE, campus area, three-bedroom house, three-bedroom duplex, no pets. (785)539-5627.

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

WELCOME HOME

• Sparkling swimming pool
• Spacious decks/ patios
• Avail. June 5 and Aug. 6
• Kitchen appliances include microwave and dishwasher
• On-site laundry facilities
• Economical gas heat

1 BDRM $450 $480 $470
2 BDRM $570 $580 $560
3 BDRM $750 $760 $730
4 BDRM $880 $900 $870

Office:
2400 Kimball Ave.
at College Ave.
(across from Bramlage)

Call Sara
at 537-7007
for an appointment.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

LEASING FOR fall 2001 two-bedroom, excellent condition and location. 776-4166 or www.angelire.com/ks2/bluestem

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available now and March. 1854/ 1858 Clifton. $385- $395 per month. Water and trash paid. Balcony and laundry facilities. Cats allowed. Call MDI at 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM JUNE or August lease close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air and heat. 537-7810.

Park Place Apartments Showings Mon.-Fri. 1-2-3 Bedrooms 539-2951

THREE AND SIX-BEDROOM duplexes next to campus. Central air, parking, free washer/ dryer. No pets, no smoking. Available June or August. 537-7050.

THREE OR four bedrooms. August lease close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air and heat. 537-7810.

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE JUNE, campus area, three-bedroom house, three-bedroom duplex, no pets. (785)539-5627.

AVAILABLE JUNE, campus area, One-bedroom basement. No pets. 539-5627.

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE JUNE, campus area, three-bedroom house, three-bedroom duplex, no pets. (785)539-5627.

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE JUNE, campus area, One-bedroom basement. No pets. 539-5627.

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE JUNE, campus area, One-bedroom basement. No pets. 539-5627.

310
Help Wanted

CRUISE LINE- entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisecareer.com

AVAILABLE NOW: spacious one-bedroom apartment. Private balcony, water and trash paid. 532-9136, leave message.

SUMMER SUBLEASE Two-bedroom apartment. Washer/ dryer. Close to campus, Aggieville, park. Lease through next school year, if desired. 317-0314.

TWO-BEDROOM ONE-HALF block to campus, available March. 776-4343, leave message.

200 service directory

235
Child Care

PART-TIME CHILD care in home for infant. Will pay mileage and one week's vacation. Lorie, (785)210-3136.

255
Other Services

ELLERY, ENGINEERING senior, does affordable maintenance, home or rental including appliance repair, also build budget computers to fit your needs. Eight years experience. 539-0232.

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

HORTICULTURAL SERVICES Inc. is seeking full-time and part-time sales clerks at our retail Garden Center. Sales and business experience preferred. plant knowledge helpful. Above average wages and benefits. Apply in person at 11524 Landscape Ln., St. George, KS 66535. (785) 494-2418 or (785)776-0397.

IT'S GREEK TO ME. We need some energized people to grow with us! We've increased our sales and have full and part-time positions available in our warehouse and embroidery departments. Duties include pulling merchandise to complete orders, receiving goods, embroidery machine operators, and light cleaning work. These are excellent positions for students and parents working around home life. We offer competitive pay, flexible hours and the opportunity to be part of a great team! Our full-time benefits include group health/ dental insurance, paid annual leave and 401(k) retirement plan. Apply at 520 McCall Road or e-mail shelly@igtm.com. EOE.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfowl, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS TECHNOLOGY Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A+ Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6454, or email to dean@co.riley.ks.us. Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

ARTISTS/ ART Students: Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltankofgas@hotmail.com

$5 GET PAID for your opinion! $5 Earn $15-$125 and more per survey! money4opinions.com

$1500 WEEKLY potential making our circulators. For home info. call (203)977-1720.

ARTISTS/ ART Students: Author in search of artwork for travel book, "An Open Road and a Full Tank of Gas Part 2." E-mail at openroadfulltankofgas@hotmail.com

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfowl, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS TECHNOLOGY Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A+ Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6454, or email to dean@co.riley.ks.us. Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfowl, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS TECHNOLOGY Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A+ Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6454, or email to dean@co.riley.ks.us. Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

310
Help Wanted

EARNHARDT

■ continued from page 1

The 49-year-old racer was fighting for position when he slammed into the wall on the final turn of the race. He died instantly of head injuries, said Dr. Steve Bohannon, a doctor at Halifax Medical Center.

"There was nothing that could have been done for him," Bohannon said.

Earnhardt was the first driver killed in the Daytona 500, which began in 1959. Six drivers have died of injuries from wrecks during practice or qualifying races for the 500.

The wreck happened a half-mile from the finish of the NASCAR season-opener, won by Michael Waltrip.

"People like this are not supposed to die. These are heroes," said Sean Brong, a fan who went to Halifax Medical Center after the crash. "He went to his peak and beyond. It was way too short-lived."

Earnhardt was the leader among active Winston Cup drivers with 76 career victories. He also had the most victories, 34, at Daytona International Speedway.

Born in Kannapolis, N.C., Earnhardt raced for the first time in Winston Cup in 1975. He got his first victory at Bristol Motor Speedway in 1979; his last win was in October at Talladega Superspeedway.

His father, Ralph, was one of the pioneers of NASCAR in the 1950s.

"NASCAR has lost its greatest driver ever, and I personally have lost a great friend," NASCAR chairman Bill France Jr. said.

Earnhardt died perhaps because of an uncharacteristic decision to let his son and the newest driver on his own team fight it out for the victory while he protected their flank.

He crashed on the last turn of the last lap vying for third place at the front of a tight five-car pack. In front of him, Waltrip kept off Dale Earnhardt Jr. The elder Earnhardt grazed Sterling Marlin's car, crashed into the wall at the high-banked fourth turn going about 180 mph and was smacked hard by Ken Schrader.

He had to be cut out of his car.

Doctors said Earnhardt suffered massive trauma at the base of his skull, just the kind of injury that led to the invention of a protective device called the Head And Neck Safety (HANS) system.

Only about a half-dozen drivers donned the U-shaped device for the 500; Earnhardt and most of the others shunned it as bulky and uncomfortable.

NASCAR, heeding the concerns of its drivers, has so far declined to make the device mandatory. Officials say additional tests are needed.

The death of Earnhardt left NASCAR reeling in the wake of a 2000 season in which three of its young stars were killed in separate accidents.

Last May, Adam Petty was killed in Loudon, N.H. Two months later, Winston Cup driver Kenny Irwin also was killed at New Hampshire International Speedway.

NASCAR truck series driver Tony Roper was killed in October at Texas Motor Speedway.

In addition to his wife and eldest son, Earnhardt's survivors include another son, Kerry, a driver who failed to qualify for the Daytona 500, and daughters Kelly and Taylor.

NUMBERS

■ continued from page 1

are down from last year. The College of Arts and Sciences, which has the most Senate positions available at 17, has 31 students running compared to the 54 who filed last year.

Of the spots available for candidates in Senate and College Councils, 10 positions have more seats available than the number of filings. These open spots will be determined by write-ins.

Students who run active campaigns for write-ins, which involves sidewalk chalking or anything that costs money, still have to turn in expense reports.

A different ballot-counting vendor is being used this year that will allow write-in ballots submitted online to be electronically counted. In the past, these ballots had to be hand counted. The new vendor, Validity Systems, is replacing votehere.net.

Student Body President Jake Worcester said although he doesn't know why there was more interest in presidential elections last year, he thinks there is a good group of candidates running that will make this election fun to watch.

"There are always issues that bring interest," Worcester said.

Advising and mandatory rental inspections are issues he said will most likely be important to presidential candidates.

"We always will see things continue to change, and we'll always need good student representation on campus," Worcester said.

ISSUES

■ continued from page 1

would like this election to address the amount of money organizations are allotted.

"A lot of organizations I am a part of have no money at all," she said.

Reitcheck said she wasn't as informed as she would like to be about Student Senate and all of its activities — something Joseph Unekis, associate professor of political science, said is quite common when there is not a controversial issue taking place.

He said this lack of general knowledge happens both during the national elections and the Student Senate elections — students not realizing what kind of programs student senators and student government handle as a whole.

"There is not much in the way of hot issues that students feel impact on their lives or interest the vast majority," Unekis said. "Student senators are people who are innately interested in that type of activity."

Daytona trip leaves 4 missing

The Associated Press

ATLANTA — Four men returning home from the Daytona 500 auto race were missing after their plane crashed in the Atlantic Ocean off the Georgia coast, the Coast Guard reported Monday.

The Beechcraft Bonanza was flying parallel to the coast when the Federal Aviation Administration lost radar contact at 8:17 p.m. Sunday.

The Coast Guard said there was no distress call from the plane before it crashed.

Aboard the plane were pilot William Pritchett of Windsor, N.C.; his brother John Pritchett, of Chesapeake, Va.; and Ray and Ken Chapman of Virginia Beach, Va., said Coast Guard spokesman Dana Warr.

Debris from the crash was found floating 25 miles from where officials believe the plane hit the water, Warr said.

GET IT ONLINE

Give us your opinion.

Campus Fourum:
395-4444

Ramblers
STEAK HOUSE
& SALOON

T-Bone Tuesday

14 oz. USDA Choice T-Bone with all the Trimmings.
(Baked potato, salad & dinner roll)

Drink Specials

$1 Old Mill Light Bottles
$1.50 Domestic
$3.75 Pitchers

8711 E. Hwy. 24
Manhattan, KS
539-4989

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS

776-5577

1800 Claflin Road

The Tavern

Tuesday & Thursday
Specials
ALL DOMESTIC BEERS

75¢ Draws
$4.00 Pitchers
$2.25 BIG BEERS

6625 Dyer Rd. 587-9224

Delivers the latest!

OPEN LATE!

770-3333 Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

Checks add 50¢

MONDAY MANIA "Carry Out Only" LARGE CHEESE PIZZA $3.99 Additional Toppings $1.00 per topping	CARRY-OUT SPECIALS 16" 1-Topping $6.99 14" 1-Topping $5.99 BONUS BUYS MENU with any food purchase <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99 • Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99 • 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99 • Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99 	STIX IT TO ME TUES. Buy One Pokey Stix at Regular Price get Equal or Lesser Value for Free "Tuesday Only" (Carry Out or Delivery)
--	---	--

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

"Ready, Set, Swing Dance!"

Have you ever wanted to learn how to swing dance and didn't really know where to go?

The Picnic Place in Manhattan Town Center!!!

Tuesday evenings from 6:30pm to 7:30pm!

We're offering Free Swing Dance lessons that are fun and easy to learn at your own pace!

MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

Students, couples or sensational seniors, now is your chance to learn to swing dance. While you're here register to win free meals and other prizes from Manhattan Town Center Merchants!

3rd & Poyntz • 539-9207 • www.manhattantowncenter.com

"We're giving away FREE tickets to every KSU men's basketball game!"

We believe Coach Wooldridge is going to rebuild the men's basketball program at KSU. Join us in helping bring back the winning Wildcat tradition. Come in and register to win a pair of free tickets to the next game!

Win a Pair of Tickets to the Wildcat's Next Home Game:

KSU vs Iowa State
7:00 pm, Wednesday
February 21

One pair of free tickets for each home game will be given away at each FirstBank location in Manhattan. Come in and register today!

Win KSU Autographed Basketball!

Each time you register to win free game tickets, you'll automatically be entered in the drawing to win a basketball autographed by the KSU men's team and coaches.

$125 FirstBank Hotshot Shoot-Out at Each Game!

At half-time of each game, one lucky contestant will have the chance to take 5 shots at different locations on the court. Each shot is worth $25 for a total potential of $125. Enter to win at the game.

Free Wildcat Mini-Balls and T-Shirts for Kids!

Willie The Wildcat will be tossing out free mini-basketballs and T-shirts at the game!

*No cost. No obligation. Need not be present at drawing to win.

Serving Kansans Like You For 113 Years

FirstBank
www.firstbank1.com

Manhattan - 537-0200
Main Bank • 701 Poyntz West Facility • 3005 Anderson
University Facility • Denison & Claflin

FDIC

TODAY'S
WEATHER

HIGH 37 ■ LOW 26

WEDNESDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 21, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 103

Quirky comedy displays local talent

■ page 6

Commission approves rezoning for Walgreens

By SCOTT ALDIS-WILSON
Kansas State Collegian

A Walgreens drugstore and perhaps a larger redevelopment of east Manhattan are one step closer after Tuesday night's Manhattan City Commission meeting.

Commissioners unanimously approved a revised plan by developer Howard Paul, of Topeka-based H.T. Paul Company, to rezone a 2.4-acre track of land north of Moro Street, west of North Third Street, east of North Fourth Street and south of Bluemont Avenue.

The almost rectangular area, now a combination of commercial and residential-use property, partially was approved for rezoning to a Planned Unit Development. The area, proposed to house the 15,000 square-foot drugstore, will not infringe on the neighboring Long John Silver's.

Paul said the new plan now will need to return to the Manhattan Area Planning Board, and later the commission, for reapproval, but it is hoped they will break ground by June. Once started, he said construction should take six to nine months.

Revisions to the plan included 10 recommendations from the planning board, dealing primarily with limits to signage, more landscaping and additional shielded lighting to reduce glare.

Relations with the surrounding area were one reason cited by commissioners and the planning board to add more stone to replace metal and plastic on the proposed store's front sign.

Ann Kosch, a resident on Vattier Street, said she wants a buffer maintained between her house and the new business. In particular, she said she wants more landscaping on Bluemont Avenue and the sign moved as far east as possible, she said. "Through my kitchen window I can see this," she said. "I would like to feel like I'm still living in a neighborhood."

Traffic additions to Fourth Street by the new arrival also were discussed. Part of the development would add a new deceleration lane to the right side of eastbound Bluemont Avenue for those entering the Walgreens/Long John Silver's area. Commissioner Carol Peak said redevelopment should be encouraged in the area, but carefully.

"This may not be a huge traffic generator, but neighbors will feel it," she said.

Commissioner Bruce Snead said he sees the store as progress, but only for a small part of the potential area. In comparison, he said, the recently-failed but much larger Third Street redevelopment proposal was an all-in-one deal to confront the area's traffic problems.

The area itself is planned to have 91 off-street parking spaces, with 69 allocated for Walgreens and 22 for Long John Silver's.

In other business, commissioners voted 5-0 to accept their first entry into the new Manhattan Register of Historic Places. The entry, a house located at 1922 Leavenworth St., was estimated to have been built in 1930 and was designed by local architect Paul Weigel in the Cape Cod style.

As a designated structure, the local Historic Resources Board would need to approve demolition, as well as any alterations or construction, that could affect special features of the house.

"I think it's important to reiterate this only applies to the exterior," Mayor Karen McCulloh said. "You can do whatever you want with the interior."

KSDB-FM to move to Union

By COLLEEN FOOTE
Kansas State Collegian

KSDB-FM 91.9 is changing the look of its station by moving to a new location.

The new station, located on the east side of the K-State Student Union's first floor, hopefully will be completed by next fall, Bernard Pitts, Union director, said.

Candy Walton, KSDB station manager, said they have been planning for the new station this past year, but it has been an idea for the past 25 years.

"One of the main reasons we're moving is to get more exposure to our audience," Walton said. "This will give us greater visibility and help us recruit students for the station."

Wildcat 91.9 now is on the third floor of McCain Auditorium. KSDB Program Director Matt Jolly said the move to the Union will provide Wildcat 91.9 with better visibility, more access to students and new equipment.

"This is definitely a positive move," Jolly, junior in public relations, said. "This will showcase the hard work 91.9 does."

The move hopefully will increase student participation within the station, Walton said.

"Right now, only 40 percent of the students who work at 91.9 are journalism majors," Walton said. "We are open to anyone who is a K-State student."

Pitts said the station's new location also will benefit the Union.

"We are very supportive of this change," he said. "This is another example of how the Union supports campus organizations."

Construction funding will come from various donations, said Todd Simon, director of the A.Q. Miller School Journalism and Mass Communications.

"This has the capacity for increasing the foot traffic in the Union," Simon said. "Overall, it's a win-win situation for both the Union and 91.9."

Jolly said the move would not be possible without the dedication of many people.

"The hard work, especially in the last two years, has helped make this move possible," he said.

JEANEL DRAKE/Collegian

Melissa Stirrett, of the Hair Experts Design Team since June 2000, cuts Sara Ferguson's hair. Ferguson is a student at Emporia State University, who went to high school with Stirrett, and she travels from Emporia to get her hair cut and colored.

A passion for hair

■ Hair stylist's passion for job, connection with customers keeps her salon chair occupied.

By ERIN DEHN
Kansas State Collegian

Life at work sometimes gets a little hairy for Melissa Stirrett, stylist at Hair Experts.

Stirrett, who began working at the Manhattan branch in June, is the most recent addition to the salon team.

"Everybody there is very passionate about what they do," Stirrett said. "If you don't have the passion, you won't be part of the team."

Stirrett said the atmosphere is what stylists and customers enjoy most about the salon.

"The people that come into the salon are all different," she said. "Everybody seems to like our environment."

Stirrett's typical day is either a 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. shift or a 12 p.m. to 8 p.m. shift with no set dinner breaks.

"You eat when you can," Stirrett said. "That's why Goodcents is just right next door. They love us."

Throughout the day, Stirrett can be found with shears in hand, ready to address the many requests of her clients. Those requests range from a little snip to a complete makeover. However,

Stirrett said her favorite task is coloring hair.

"I like to get creative," she said. "I'd have to say coloring is my favorite."

Success for Stirrett means making people feel good about themselves.

"I feel like I'm sincere about what I do," she said. "It's all about making other people feel good."

The most difficult aspect of her job is communication, Stirrett said.

As for any horror stories, Stirrett said she hasn't experienced any.

"I haven't turned anybody's hair green or pink," she said.

Lindsey King, Stirrett's co-worker, said the qualities Stirrett possesses only adds to her talent as a stylist.

"She's a people person," King said. "I think you have to be to be in this business."

That ability to connect with clients is obvious by the amount of business the salon generates.

"Thursdays and Saturdays are just rocking the house," Stirrett said. "We want to keep the phone ringing."

Passion, sincerity and a team mindset are what Stirrett says makes the salon popular.

"We educate ourselves to service our clients to the best of our ability," she said.

Another aspect Stirrett said she enjoys about her job are the opportunities to give back to the community. Every year the salon is host to a cut-a-thon to raise money for The City of Hope, a foundation dedicated to fighting breast cancer. For one day, the salon

See HAIR on PAGE 8

working in the COMMUNITY

Who: Melissa Stirrett
Job: Hair Experts stylist

Knowledge of trivia pays off in BSU competition

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

Matt Williams, freshman in international business and marketing, was the winning contestant against Megan Smith, sophomore in apparel design, in a game of "Black History Squares" during a Black Student Union meeting Tuesday night.

By BENJAMIN HODGE
Kansas State Collegian

Both education and entertainment were included in the Black Student Union's presentation of "Black History Squares" on Tuesday night.

The event was based on the game show "Hollywood Squares." Sitting in chairs and raising poster boards with either X's or O's written on them, nine students formed a large tic-tac-toe board and answered questions during each round. Each of the two contestants decided if he or she agreed or disagreed with the answer given by a person sitting in a "square."

Each question related to black history in honor of Black History Month. The contestants were asked questions such as "Who was the first African-American to win an Academy Award?" "Who founded the Black Panther party?" "In which decade did the Harlem Renaissance take place?" and "What song did Paul Robeson sing in 'Showboat'?"

Two games were played. Matt Williams, freshman in international business and marketing, won the first round and tied the second round.

Williams said he has been involved in BSU since September and said he definitely plans on staying involved.

The game was played after various business matters were discussed at the organization's weekly meeting. BSU usually plans an event or discussion to spur learning, said Maurice Parks, BSU president and senior in international business and marketing.

Tuesday's meeting kicked off with the singing of "Lift Every Voice and Sing," the U.S. black national anthem. This singing period, during which people stand in a circle and hold hands, is a weekly tradition at the meetings.

Before "Black History Squares" began Tuesday night, BSU members discussed plans for the 24th annual Big 12 Conference, which takes place this weekend at the University

See SQUARES on PAGE 8

Student numbers increase

By JENNIFER O'NEILL
Kansas State Collegian

An increase in enrollment since last spring retains K-State's position as the second-most populated university in the state, trailing the University of Kansas by about 7,000 students.

Combined spring 2001 enrollment for both the Manhattan and Salina campus is 19,667, which is an increase of 173 students since last spring. The Manhattan campus alone has 132 more students than it did a year ago.

The increase partly is due to K-State having the biggest freshman class last fall in the school's history, Pat Bosco, dean of student life, said. He said retention could be a direct result of recruitment, but it might not be this way for long.

Next fall, for the first time in the state's history, all regent schools will have admission criteria assigned by the Kansas Legislature. Students who wish to attend a state school will have to meet one of three criteria.

Under the qualified admissions standards, all high school graduates and anyone under the age of 21 must receive an ACT score of at least 21, finish in the top one-third of their high school graduating class or earn a grade point average of at least a 2.0 on a 4.0 scale in a pre-college curriculum.

K-State will have a 10 percent window, however, where students who don't meet the required criteria could be admitted.

"This is for students who maybe received an ACT score of 20 instead of 21 or have a high GPA but missed a particular course," Bosco said. "We're doing all we can to listen to families, high school counselors and students about individual cases."

"I'm looking forward to a new chapter in higher education in Kansas," he said.

The curriculum described by the legislature includes four years of English, three years of math, three years of natural sciences and a computer technology course.

Future enrollment at K-State might be a concern with the enactment of this new policy.

"In theory, we'll have students coming to K-State better prepared," Bosco said. "In the long run, we should have increased retention rates."

Now, about 80 percent of freshmen return to K-State for their sophomore year. For students who have an above average ACT score, the return rate is even greater.

"The national average is a 65 percent return rate," he said. "K-State does a remarkable job of helping students to be successful regardless of their ACT score."

K-State might have students coming next fall who are more prepared for college, but the question remains how qualified admissions will affect the university's numbers. Bosco said he thinks enrollment numbers could level off to about 21,005, but it might be a few years.

"We predict admission will level off and we will maybe see a change in the mix of in-state and out-of-state

See ADMISSIONS on PAGE 8

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jib7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Katie Glasscock
kg1544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
kenwells@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
beckywilson@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bs9639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jib7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
nh6606@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nf1480@ksu.edu
Michael Noll
mn5855@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jlduncan@ksu.edu
Erin Schneeweis
es8750@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm6620@ksu.edu
Cortis H. Crable
chc766@ksu.edu
Dany Elsworth
de0091@ksu.edu
Alissa Duncan
ad0089@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
er1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.ksstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian (ISSN 281-620), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., 1000 N. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1000 N. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7302.

Freaky phobias

Ablutophobia: Fear of washing or bathing.
Chrometophobia or Chromatophobia: Fear of money.
Epistaxiophobia: Fear of nosebleeds.
Ichthyophobia: Fear of fish.
Panophobia or Pantophobia: Fear of everything.

RCPD arrests freshman linebacker on DUI charge

K-State football player Josh Buhl was arrested at 3:05 a.m. Saturday for DUI. The arrest was made at the block of Sunset and Anderson avenues.

A $500 bond was set and posted by Buhl, according to the Riley County Police Department. As a redshirt freshman linebacker last season, Buhl saw time mostly as a special teams player. He appeared in 12 games and made 11 tackles, eight of which were unassisted. He also had one tackle for a one-yard loss.

— Michael Noll

Former Kansas governor diagnosed with cancer

TOPEKA — Former Gov. Joan Finney, the first woman to win the state's highest elected office, has been diagnosed with liver cancer, her daughter said Monday.

Sally Finney said her mother, in recent days, began notifying friends of her illness. Her diagnosis was confirmed early this year.

"She knows she's in for a tough fight," Sally Finney of her mother's prognosis.

The former governor first was diagnosed with a tumor in November, but doctors determined the growth was benign, Sally Finney said. When Finney continued to have problems, she went to Houston, where the cancer was detected.

Finney, who turned 76 on Feb. 12, began chemotherapy last week. She continues to live in her Topeka home, where she is under the care of an oncologist. She also is receiving medical care as an outpatient at the M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston.

Finney, then the state treasurer, stunned the Kansas political establishment in 1990 by defeating former two-term Gov. John Carlin in the August Democratic primary. In November of that year, she upset incumbent Republican Gov. Mike Hayden to become not only the first woman governor, but at 65, the oldest in Kansas history.

— The Associated Press

KU joins K-State in halt on hiring due to budget

LAWRENCE — The University of Kansas has become the second regents university to announce a hiring freeze in response to Gov. Bill Graves' budget proposal.

K-State put a hiring freeze in place last week. And Monday, University of Kansas officials announced a freeze on hiring and equipment purchases, attributing the action to the governor's proposal and higher-than-expected utility costs.

Provost David Shulenburg said the Lawrence campus will cut $1.15 million from this fiscal year's budget and $3 million from proposed spending in the next fiscal year, which starts July 1.

Graves' budget director Duane Goossen said the governor's proposal gives the schools an extra $8.5 million to increase faculty salaries. But higher education officials say the increase is offset by cuts in other areas.

They say health insurance and other employee compensation were not figured into the current services budget. This shorts KU's Lawrence campus by $1.6 million and the Kansas University Medical Center by $814,000, University of Kansas Chancellor Robert Hemenway said.

— The Associated Press

Atlantis makes landing Tuesday in California

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — Space shuttle Atlantis and its crew landed in the Mojave Desert on Tuesday after three straight days of bad weather prevented the ship from returning to its Florida home port.

Atlantis swooped through a hazy sky and touched down at 12:33 p.m. — 13 days after lifting off for the international space station. During the mission, the five astronauts delivered and installed a $1.4 billion laboratory that is considered the most sophisticated research module ever to fly in space.

"Welcome back to Earth after placing our Destiny in space," Mission Control said, referring to the new laboratory.

Thick, low clouds kept Atlantis from touching down at Kennedy Space Center in Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Tuesday. On the previous two days, the problem was gusty wind.

The weather was deemed acceptable at Edwards Air Force Base, the backup landing site, and Mission Control gave the go-ahead for the shuttle braking rockets to be fired and for the astronauts to finally come down. They had just one more day's worth of fuel and supplies.

— The Associated Press

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

There was an error in Tuesday's Collegian. The 2000 Royal Purple won the Gold Crown Award. The Collegian regrets the error.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kodzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletin@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ AIESEC Kansas will make presentations on international paid internship opportunities at 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. today in Calvin 218 and Calvin 202. Sessions are open to all interested students.

■ Muslim Student Association will have a public lecture, "From Atheism To Belief," at 7 tonight in the Union Big 12 Room.

■ K-State Women's Rugby will meet at 4:15 p.m. today in the northwest field of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

■ The National Society of Professional Engineers will have its annual Egg Drop from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today in the Durland Hall atrium. Eggs will be dropped from 12:45 to 1:15 p.m.

■ KSU Akido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.

■ Horticulture Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in Throckmorton 2024. The topic will be résumé building, and pizza will be served.

■ The Department of Geology will present "Proterozoic Gneisses and Cretaceous Flood Basalts 2000 km From Shore: Did the Kerguelen Plume Influence the Breakup of Eastern Gondwana?" at 4 p.m. Thursday in Thompson 213. The speaker will be Kirsten Nicolaysen of Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis.

■ Applications for KSU Student Foundation are due in the Office of Student Activities and Services by 4 p.m. Friday.

■ The International Coordinating Council is sponsoring a poster contest for this year's International Week. The deadline for submitting the design is

Friday. Entries are due at the International Student Center. The contest winner will receive a cash prize and T-shirt. Contact Maria Beebe at 532-6448 or Soledad Villamil at 532-4743 for more information.

■ Applications for Leadership Studies and Programs Ambassadors are available at the OSAS and Services Leadership House, 914 N. Manhattan Ave. They are due by 5 p.m. March 16 at the Leadership House.

■ The K-State Community Service Tutoring Program is accepting applications for tutors for spring 2001. Tutors will be placed in Manhattan K-12 schools. The service can be done for credit, and there is a scholarship reward. Contact Brandi at 532-5701 or ksuserv@ksu.edu for more information.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County Monday, Feb. 19

■ At 10:30 a.m., David A. Davidson, 1700 Hudson Ave., was arrested for driving on a suspended license.
■ At 3:10 p.m., Jacqueline O. Bell, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for battery.
■ At 6:25 p.m., Craig B. Schmitt, 825 Hams Ave., was arrested for failure to appear.
■ At 7:05 p.m., Marlon D. Kayhill, 1980 Lincoln Drive, was arrested for worthless checks.
■ At 7:30 p.m., Jeremy J. Wilson, 109 S. 5th St., was arrested for pending trial.

Tuesday, Feb. 20

■ At 1:15 a.m., Michael D. Baker, 1112 Gardenway, was arrested for battery.
■ At 4:46 a.m., Dustin R. Kemp, Ogden, was arrested for probation violation.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

Make your voice heard!
CampusForum:
395-4444

Clafin Books and Copies
Dependable Quality Service
Self-Serve Copying
Across from Goodnow Hall

DRY CLEAN CITY INC.
PREPAY
$2.49
MOST DRYCLEAN ITEMS
STORE HOURS
M-F 7-7
SAT 9-5
LAUNDRY • JEANS $2.75 • SHIRTS $1.50 • KHAKIS $2.75
WHY PAY MORE?
427 E. POYNTZ • NEXT TO HASTINGS • 776-1515

PULITZER PRIZE WINNER DRAMA
EBONY THEATRE PRESENTS
A SOLDIER'S PLAY
BY CHARLES FULLER
March 8, 9, 10
Purple Masque Theatre 8 pm
Matinee Saturday, March 10, 1 pm
Tickets: $4 students $6 adults
McCain Box Office - noon to 5 pm weekdays
532-6428 (For mature audiences)

VIRTUAL CAREER FAIRS
February 16-22, 2001
Full-time positions
Contact KSU's Career and Employment Services to register!
www.ksu.edu/ces
785.532.6506

"You're never fully dressed without a smile."
Zombi enhancement by the professionals
Teeth cleaning from $40
SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.
514 MANHATTAN PLAZA, 11th FLOOR, DEPARTMENT 514-SAT-3422
For more information, see our ad in your Sally • Manhattan Southwestern Bell Yellow Pages.

Tight Fittin' Jeans 2001
LONGHORNS
Girls & Guys Contest
Finals tomorrow night!!!
Tues., Feb. 27, Mardi Gras Party open @ 9 pm
Come warm up at the hottest contest in town.
$1.75 Coors & Coors LIGHT BOTTLES
$3 Jack Daniels
CASH & PRIZES!
1115 Moro • Aggieville
sponsored by: Coors Light, Sun Essentials, U.S. TOBACCO CO.

From ATHEISM to BELIEF
A Journey to Islam in America
Jeffery Lang
Professor in Math Department
University of Kansas
Wednesday; February 21, 2001
Big 12 K-State Union
7:00-8:30 p.m.
Refreshment Included

Wooten, Shea hope 3rd time running might be charm

Rick Wooten, senior in radio and television broadcast, (right) and Aaron Shea, senior in secondary education, announce their candidacy for student body president and vice president Tuesday at Memorial Stadium. The duo plans not to spend any money on their campaign, and any money donated to their campaign will be donated to charity.

MATT STAMEY/
Collegian

By CRISTINA JANNEY
Kansas State Collegian

Rick Wooten and Aaron Shea are hoping the third try will be the charm.

The pair announced their candidacies for student body president and vice president Tuesday at Memorial Stadium.

This is the third year the duo has run for office. They said running was a good way to get involved and learn about the other candidates on a first-hand basis.

The candidates' main issue is campaign finance reform.

"It should be about you and not how many T-shirts you can hand out," Shea, senior in secondary education, said.

Lowering the legal spending limit would open elections to more diverse groups — not just people whose families have money, Shea said.

The candidates only spent a total of $40 for their two previous campaigns. This year they said they plan on spending nothing. Any money donated to their campaign will be donated to charity. Wooten, senior in radio and television broadcast, said.

They would like to see opportunities for more diverse representation in Student Senate. They said they hope to achieve this by opening up positions to living groups like the residence halls.

"Student Senate is an aristocracy," Shea said.

He said students bring out ideas they couldn't possibly meet, such as the proposed student activities center.

"I am glad we had a referendum because it came down as a resounding 'no,'" Wooten said.

He and Shea said they support the use of referendums as a means of gauging student opinion.

They also said they would encourage representatives to keep in contact with their constituents through e-mail or other means.

Wooten has served in other leadership roles as the president of DeMolay, a state-wide youth organization, and as vice-chairman of College Republicans.

Although other candidates might be putting more money into their campaigns, the students were optimistic about their chances on election day.

"We have a chance as long as people pay attention to the issues," Shea said.

SGA ELECTIONS
March 5-7, 2001

New composition, bone-density measurement machine purchased

By LYNN TREVINO
Kansas State Collegian

K-State's Department of Human Nutrition recently has purchased a machine that is considered to be the gold standard for accurate measurement of body composition and bone density.

In comparison to the other methods used to determine body composition, such as underwater weighing, skin folds and girth measurements, the dual X-ray absorptiometer, such as the one recently purchased, emits X-rays to determine measurements of muscle mass, fat mass and percent body fat.

"It is non-invasive and gives you a body composition analysis that you can actually see where the fat is and where the muscle is located," said Denis Medeiros, head of the Department of Human Nutrition.

Mark Haub, assistant professor of human nutrition, said the dual X-ray absorptiometer acts much like a photocopier. The machine is attached to a computer, and as it scans the body or portions of the body, pictures and measurements are sent to the computer, where they can be seen and analyzed.

"The scan takes five minutes," Haub said. "If someone was to schedule an appointment, it would take 15 to 20 minutes from the time they walked in the door to the time they left."

Much like the scan to determine body composition, the dual X-ray absorptiometer also performs a second function in which the machine measures bone density.

"Bone density is critical in determining osteoporosis and is mainly used for older women," Haub said.

During the scan for body composition or bone density, it is advised that comfortable clothing be worn and all jewelry be removed.

"Unlike other methods used to determine body composition, like underwater weighing, it does not invade a person's privacy," said Christine Ferguson, teaching technician in the Department of Kinesiology.

During the scan to determine body composition, Haub said the amount of exposure due to radiation is equivalent to the exposure a person would receive being outdoors in the sunlight for 12 hours. Because the FDA considers the machine a medical device and X-rays are involved, a referral by a physician is needed.

The human nutrition department spent $67,000 in research funding to purchase the dual X-ray absorptiometer. Medeiros said future maintenance of the machine also will be paid for through research grants and contracts. So far, the machine only has been used for training purposes, but Haub said the department is in the process of making the machine available to the community.

KSU professor, high school sophomore develop math club for younger students

By QUINN ASPEGREN
Kansas State Collegian

K-State has invited children to have fun with mathematics by offering a new math club for students in grades 5-9.

Yan Soibelman, professor of mathematics, and his son Sasha, a sophomore at Manhattan High School, have organized the club.

"I want to challenge students and show them that mathematics can be fun. At most American schools, I think kids are not challenged by mathematics," Soibelman said. "The problems they are asked are rather standard, and I think that's one reason why so many people in this country dislike or have difficulty with math."

During the weekly sessions, students will play mathematical games, tackle brain teasers, take part in competitions and solve Olympiad-like problems.

"The math club is for students who enjoy math, not just for those who excel at it," Soibelman said.

Nancy Bridges, clinical instructor with K-State Professional Developmental Schools and the Partnership of Leadership Cadre for Manhattan-Ogden U.S.D. 383, both with Amanda Arnold Elementary School, said she thinks students definitely would be interested in the math club.

"The club gives kids with special interests in math an avenue to explore more opportunities for learning," Bridges said.

The math club will meet weekly, is free to students and has no registration fee.

"K-State's department of mathematics has offered to sponsor the club if money is needed for things like prizes.

There is no fee for the students, and they don't even have to bring paper or pencils, as they may choose to work without them.

"I just require that they bring their brains along," Soibelman said.

The first math club meeting was last week, and approximately 50 students from grades two through eight attended. Soibelman said he was happy with the number of students thus far but also expects numbers to drop slightly in the following weeks.

He plans to have regular weekly meetings through the end of the semester.

MORE INFO?

The next meeting for the K-State math club will be 6:30 p.m. Thursday in 120 Cardwell Hall.

Bob's DINER 1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT

OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY

7 DAYS A WEEK

is

EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY

$1.99

BREAKFAST

ALL THE TIME

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

Supporting KSU's most talented students!

BURGER KING

UPC PROUDLY PRESENTS THE BURGER KING

Lunchtime Lounge

WEDNESDAY:

Come and enjoy the entertainment!

FREE!

Sharkey's Little Groove Box

12 pm to 1 pm Union Courtyard

SPONSORED BY UPC SPECIAL EVENTS & BURGER KING!

KSU Meat Sale

WEDNESDAY & FRIDAY

3-6 p.m. & Noon-6 p.m.

Rm. 166 Weber Hall

BEEF roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

For information call 532-1279

Ramblers STEAK HOUSE & BALLOON

HOMEMADE CHICKEN FRIED STEAK with all the trimmings

$6.95

DRINK SPECIALS

$1 Draws

$1.75 Wells

$3.75 Pitchers

8711 E. Hwy. 24 • 539-4889

Manhattan, KS

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

776-5577

1800 Claflin Road

Union Program Council Events

BACK TO THE FUTURE

February 23 and 24

7:00pm and 9:30pm

Admission: 1.75

K-State Student Union Forum Hall

WEEKLY

MOVIE NIGHT

featuring

Princess Bride

Thursday, February 22

8:00pm

Union Station

FREE ENTERTAINMENT!

For Event and Membership Information:

Visit Us! 3rd Floor K-State Student Union!

Call Us! 532-6571

Visit us Online! www.ksu.edu/events

Burger King presents

"Lunchtime Lounge"

with

SHARKY'S LITTLE GROOVE BOX

TODAY!

12-1 pm

Union Courtyard

Call the UPC Events Hotline For Weekly Updates! 532-6572

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

OPINION

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

Students should use information to avoid scams

To the majority of college students, the two words "spring break" bring forth images of a sandy beach, skiing, or overall, just a much-needed break from school.

However, not everything about spring break is wonderful, especially when scams are involved.

A lot of companies have been offering dream vacations at seemingly cheap prices. However, with the majority of those, the cheap prices signify that something is amiss.

A popular saying is, "if it seems too good to be true, then it probably is." That also should be applied to spring break package deals.

There are some things students can do to avoid a possible scam. It is important to read the fine print on the package deals because a lot of companies reserve the right to change plans at any time.

Checking with a local travel agency is a very intelligent move to make. They usually are aware of what is a good deal and what is just appearing to be.

Students also can call a toll free number, (800) 856-2417, for the Better Business Bureau.

It also is important to call and confirm reservations.

Spring break is a nice chance to get a way from the world of tests and books. Unfortunately, getting away from scams is not quite as easy.

► OUR VIEW is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari
Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
News Editor

Erin Schneeweis
Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll
Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crable
Copy Chief

Sara Martin
Design Editor

Jamie Barrett
Online News Editor

Travis Weigel
Columnist

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

I just wonder why teachers bother taking attendance in a classroom of 300 students if they have absolutely no intention of using it as part of their grading procedures. This just doesn't seem like it makes any sense to me.

If I had to vote for a No. 1 pothole in town, I would have to say Claflin and College.

Yes, every raver that I know does do X. And I wish the Collegian would quit trying to write about stuff that they don't know what they are talking about.

Why can't more people be like Bob Sager?

I'm glad David Levin is an entomology major. It's obvious that entomology majors don't need to take statistics courses.

I've got a date. Is there anything to even do in Manhattan?

What's with professors making us buy their notes at the Copy Center? I mean, what happened to the good 'ol days when we actually went to class and actually took notes?

Did anyone else see the butchered goats for sale in the Classifieds?

David, I'd just like to say that I only agree with one point in your article, and that is you will never get another date in this town again.

You know in the Classifieds where it says, "We rent Manhattan," what they really mean is we rent to suckers.

Micah Hawkinson is my hero.

Mac Krause deserves a code red.

Question for Thursday: Was the bombing of Iraq a good decision?

MATERIALISM

Desire to acquire threatens relationships, self-esteem

It's inescapable. Everywhere we go we're bombarded by its message. What is it?

Materialism.

We live in a society fueled by acquisitiveness. I've even seen the message plastered on the back of cars. You know the bumper sticker I'm talking about. It's the one that reads "He who dies with the most toys wins."

We can't even escape the claws of materialism as we walk across our beautiful campus. The credit card solicitors offer free T-shirts and imitation Oakley sunglasses just to get us to sign up for a credit card. Usually, it's a card that offers low interest rates for the first six months so we can buy, buy, buy without having to think about the consequences until later.

But why are we so materialistic? What drives our need to have more or better things than our friends do?

For some people, buying fulfills a need. Something is missing in their lives, so they go out and buy something. For a while, the void is filled. The need is gone. But soon the satisfaction of having made the purchase dissipates. Time to hit the mall again. It's a vicious cycle.

Some people would argue there is nothing wrong with materialism. They contend materialism is as American as apple pie, the cornerstone of our economy is our acquisitiveness. The advertisers and marketers would be standing in the unemployment line if it weren't for our need to keep up with the Joneses.

To a certain degree, I think materialism is OK. It does create jobs and a demand for products and services. A little materialism can go a long way, though. When our acquisitiveness goes to the extreme, materialism becomes a problem.

Materialism in its extreme forms causes problems with debt, personal relationships and self-esteem.

Credit cards are an easy way to lure students into debt. It's easy to buy when you don't have to pay right away. With a credit card, you can go on that shopping spree at the Gap, so you'll be in style like all of your friends this spring. But when the bill arrives, you're probably going to regret your excessive spending.

Materialism also can hurt us in other ways. For those people who are dubbed shop-a-holics, buying merely is a quick fix. Spending is a way to avoid the real problem. As long as you can buy to ease the pain, the loneliness or to fill the void, why address the problem which lies behind the acquisitiveness?

Our selfish desires also can hurt others. Some people resort to shoplifting to satisfy their materialistic urges. In the long run, this hurts everyone since retailers are forced to hike prices to cover their losses.

Our relationships with others also can be damaged. I've known people who have resorted to taking 20 bucks from Mom's purse when their parents refuse to give them money. Even though they are your parents, it's still stealing. Had their parents figured out they did this, I know these individuals would have been in some hot water. Stealing from family members erodes any trust or faith they have in you. No one wants to have to watch over their belongings like a hawk in their own house, especially parents.

Next time those urges to buy hit you, just try to be happy with what you have. If we took just a few minutes out of every day to count our blessings, we all would realize how rich we really are.

Our families and friends don't care how much we have. They care about the things money can't buy like our kindness, our compassion and our sense of humor.

In the long run, it isn't going to matter who drove the nicest car or who had the latest cutting edge technological gadget in their apartment. No matter how many toys you have in the end, you're still going to be dead.

Sarah is a sophomore in public relations and print journalism. You can e-mail her at scm7597@ksu.edu.

SARAH MCCAFFREY

AUSTIN PORTER/Collegian

Nation in need of direction to forge into future

President George W. Bush cannot be a happy man. His Texas-size ego has got to be hurting right now. No matter what he does, Bill Clinton still overshadows him.

We sit here more than three months after the most exciting election in American history, and all we can talk about is Clinton's controversial pardoning of Marc Rich and others. It is an issue that dominates headlines and leaves the real issues to slip by in peril.

Sure, Bush is trying to start his agenda. He introduces new parts of his agenda each week. One week he is attempting to save American Education, the next he is proposing a $1.6 trillion tax cut for the country, another he is proposing bills that will allow private or religious organizations to compete for federal funding.

Still, it appears few Americans care. Hypothetical conversation anywhere in America:

"Did you hear about Bush's tax plan?" Joe, the Republican, asks.

"OK. Whatever," Todd, the independent, says. "Didn't his father do things a little bit differently?"

"He's more like Reagan was," Bob says. "Oh, who cares?" Todd asks. "Now, who is this fugitive Bill Clinton pardoned? What the hell was that about? This is an outrage."

Now, that might not be an accurate depiction of every American's opinion, but Clinton dominates headlines across the country.

It just continues. Last week, NATO air forces bombed Iraq, and Clinton told his side of the pardons in an opinion column in the New York Times.

The bottom line—America cannot get enough of him. It's a sickness.

Americans either love him, sometimes literally, or they love to hate him. Seriously, "Dallas" never had as many twists and turns as Clinton does. You couldn't write a better soap opera.

There is another reason why we can't let go.

Drum roll, please.

George W. Bush is not that exciting. He's pretty dull, actually.

And he has not actually been elected by the popular vote.

That leads to angst. It leads to the American people not knowing what direction they want to head in. They cannot find a rallying cry to get excited about, but rather bury their thoughts in irrelevant issues like Clinton.

They understand there are problems but do not know which direction to turn. That's why the 2000 presidential election was so close: nobody knew who was right, Bush or Al Gore? Uh, well, maybe I will punch the ballot twice and see what happens, Florida voters said. In the end, Gore lost the election due to poor technology and an inadequate system of recounting in Florida.

So why would America be excited about Bush's plan? The people are receiving gridlock because that is the situation they created. They have no idea where they want to go.

Why else would Americans cry out for values and then make "The Jerry Springer Show" and the World Wrestling Federation's "Raw is War" top-rated programs in their respective genres.

Why else would media across the country continually lead papers and television news shows with stories on where Clinton's post-presidency offices are going to be, instead of Bush's plan for improvement?

There is no other way to explain it.

It all points to apathy about current issues. We sit like a flock of birds that flies neither north nor south but east and west, basically trying to fly ahead of the tide and duck the airplanes.

We need to find a direction to fly. We need leaders who inspire us to dig deep within ourselves and make the world better. We need leaders who care more than just about the bottom line and getting reelected.

But we need the partisan political debates to continue. Last fall, debates were heard from every pub to every church in America, and it was a time of raw debate and pure emotion. We need to renew those discussions in a bipartisan manner.

Now is the time to reevaluate priorities and figure out where we want to fly. But we need to do it without the party lines. The next time you enter into a political debate, do me a favor and try something new. Forget about whether you are a Libertarian, Reform candidate, Democrat or Republican — be yourself. Debate your own platform.

Have ideas and do your research.

That's how you change the world.

As a country, in order for us to succeed, we need to go from being a group of wandering generalities to one of meaningful specifics. It's time we move on past Clinton. Let the authorities take care of him and his ill-advised pardons.

However, I question whether Clinton did do anything wrong, in the grand scheme. He just isn't that dumb.

Regardless, issues need to be addressed in political discussions, because it could once be said we wanted a society where people could get the help they need and everyone could achieve the American Dream.

Now what can we achieve? What, as a society, will we achieve?

Economic expansion of the past is slowing and we need to practice responsibility. The question is, will America work toward a better society or simply a quicker retirement? The choice is ours. Neither option really is that bad.

Nick is a junior in print journalism and public relations. You can e-mail him at

NICK BRATKOVIC

READERS WRITE

Clarification needed for meter malfunctions

Editor,

I am writing to clarify several points mentioned in the editorial appearing in the Friday edition of the Collegian.

There are several types of meter malfunctions that flash various messages on the meter. The message "dead" says the battery has "failed" and tells us the meter mechanism is malfunctioning and a blank screen or error messages denote a specific problem. In all these cases, no ticket is issued. The meter number and the problem is called to the office and maintenance personnel are notified. We would like to encourage people to let us know about these problems, but you do not receive a ticket for parking in these types of meters.

Under some circumstances, you might put money in a meter and it will continue to flash "0.00". Parking Services can't differentiate between this type of failed meter and a meter that has expired or not been paid. The regulations are designed to help the person parking in the malfunctioning meter because they are given two hours after the issuance of a citation to make contact with Parking Services. Citations might be issued before the person parking has the opportunity to call in. That is why meter malfunctions are logged on our computer and are used to void tickets issued against malfunctioning meters.

Some peer and "Big 12" universities solve this problem by making it illegal to park in failed or malfunctioning meters. We believe our solution, making a phone call, is preferable to leaving empty spaces when parking is a premium.

—Darwin Abbott
Parking Services Director

SPORTS EDITOR: MICHAEL NOLL
532-0732 ■ sports@spub.ksu.edu

SENIOR SENDOUT

4 Wildcats celebrate final basketball game at Bramlage Coliseum with 1st win since Jan. 17

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

"Count it."

Those in attendance Tuesday night at Bramlage Coliseum probably didn't hear it, but as Kim Woodlee's second free throw sailed through the air with 21 seconds to go in K-State's 60-55 win over Texas A&M, the senior guard said it.

"I said 'Count it' when I let it go," she said. "I'm not a trash talker, but there wasn't a whole lot of time left, so I just said it. That's not typical of me."

Woodlee had plenty of reason to be excited after a pair of Shalondra Booker free throws 13 seconds later extended the K-State (12-13, 2-12) lead to seven, sealing a Wildcat win for the first time since Jan. 17.

"It's been rough," Woodlee said. "We needed this so bad, and we did it. We sucked it up and gave it a lot of energy."

At first, it looked like Texas A&M (12-13, 2-12) wouldn't provide much of a challenge to an inspired K-State team on the Wildcats' senior night.

K-State built an early 18-1 lead in the game's first 6:30 behind two Woodlee three pointers. Junior guard Kristin Rethman added three assists, and the Wildcat defense also came out ready to play, forcing five early Aggie turnovers during the run.

Woodlee's first try, which came off freshman Nicole Ohlde's tip to start the game, was only the beginning of a story book night for the Beersheba Springs, Tenn., product.

"That was a nice way to start the game," she said. "I asked Coach (Kamie) Ethridge at the very last second if I could start down there because I have a lot of faith in Nicole, and it worked out OK."

"I was very happy with our momentum and our energy and our communication."

Woodlee wasn't the only one.

"I think it was a huge positive for us," head coach Deb Patterson said. "It just worked that off the tip she got that first three. For a lot of ball clubs, that wouldn't be a good shot, but for us, a wide open three with her is just ideal."

A lot of things seemed to go according to plan early for the Cats. K-State kept A&M to just one point for the game's first 8:34 while building a lead that would climb to as many as 17 in the first half.

Despite shooting at a 33-percent clip, the Aggies didn't lie down, and after Woodlee's third and final three pointer fell at the 5:21 mark to give the Cats a 30-14 lead, A&M mounted a 10-2 run to slice the margin to eight at the intermission.

A&M's run was fueled by five Wildcat turnovers in the final 5:30 of the first half. Senior guard Jaynetta Saunders hit two shots with less than a half minute left to cut the lead to single digits.

"She's so good," Patterson said of Saunders, the Big 12's second leading scorer. "It's not unusual for her to average 25-30 shots a game, so you know that she's a player that's going to want the ball, and they're going to want it in their best player's hands."

On Tuesday night, it wasn't hard to know who that player was for the Aggies. In the second half, Saunders took the Aggies' first eight shots and scored 10 in a row.

But K-State found the answer in 6-foot 4-inch forward Nicole Ohlde, who matched Saunders shot for shot, scoring the Cats' first 10 points in the second frame as the lead climbed to 11 with 10:02 to play.

But what Patterson was most impressed with about the freshman's play Tuesday was not her 32 points, but rather the more fundamental aspects of her game.

"I'm not talking about points," she said. "I'm talking about defending, working on every possession and rebounding the way you're capable of and improving — and tonight she did."

The Cats now head to Colorado on Saturday looking to expand on Tuesday's successes with payback on their minds after a 67-62 loss to the Buffaloes on Jan. 6.

Senior forward Marshela Webb, who was one of four seniors making their final appearance at Bramlage, said it will be nice to head to Boulder with more than a moral victory on her mind.

"It's a confidence booster," Webb said. "It's something that we really needed to finish the season strong."

"We all came out and worked hard tonight, and it was good to know that what we did really paid off."

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Denisha Ferguson rebounds the ball as Texas A&M players attempt to knock it away. The Cats won their last home game of the season, 60-55.

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

K-State guard April Sailors and Texas A&M's Toccara Williams fight for a loose ball Tuesday night at Bramlage Coliseum. The win was K-State's first since Jan. 17, and it was the last home game for four seniors.

K-State forward Nicole Ohlde pulls down a rebound over Texas A&M's Toccara Williams on Tuesday night at Bramlage Coliseum. Ohlde had 32 points and 10 rebounds in the 60-55 win.

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Freshman forward leads team with 32 points, 10 rebounds

By ERIKA SAUERWEIN
Kansas State Collegian

Although it was senior night for the women's basketball team, it was a freshman who shined Tuesday night at Bramlage Coliseum.

Nicole Ohlde scored a game-high 32 points and grabbed 10 rebounds in the Wildcats' 60-55 victory over Texas A&M. Ohlde attributes part of her success to the seniors.

"What haven't I learned from the seniors?" she said. "I have learned a lot about the game of basketball and how hard you work. I look up to them on and off the court. They have helped me in my transition into college. You name it, and they helped me out."

Although Ohlde has recorded six double-doubles this season, head coach Deb Patterson said she has been asking the freshman to perform at a higher level.

"I think she took another step tonight," Patterson said. "The last two games, we have really challenged her. We felt she wasn't playing at the level she was capable of playing. We felt there was more there."

"We want to challenge her as a freshman. It's not OK to be tired. You've got to get that ball. You have to assert yourself, and you've got to be consistent. And she has to do it because she is that good and that capable. I am not talking about points. It is how hard she is working."

Ohlde accepted the challenge and ran with it Tuesday night. The 6-foot, 4-inch forward had her way in the paint against the Aggies. She shot 82.3 percent by hitting 14 of 17 attempts.

"I was able to get position easier tonight," Ohlde said. "I got the ball when I wanted it. The guards did a good job of finding me and getting me the ball. I had some good looks at the basket."

Ohlde's 10 boards place her as

K-State's all-time freshman rebounder with 197 rebounds. She surpassed Diana Miller's 1988 record of 195. She also added to her freshman scoring record, extending the total to 420 points.

She is the second Wildcat in history to record two 30-plus point games in one season.

"It's exciting to break records, and I enjoy it even more when we get a win," Ohlde said.

Ohlde also is up for the Big 12 Freshman of the Year. She has led K-State in scoring 15 times this season. She also has led the team in rebounding, averaging 8.1 per game.

Men's basketball team faces No. 6 Iowa State after win over Texas Tech

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

Obviously, wins are good, especially if they're by a team that's lost seven games in a row.

But for the men's basketball team, the win against Texas Tech on Sunday allowed for a complete change in mentality. Prior to that game, the key words floating around Bramlage Coliseum were responsibility and accountability.

"We have to show character. We have to show accountability for what we do," head coach Jim Wooldridge said after the team's Feb. 10 loss to Colorado, the team's fifth straight loss.

"We can't point fingers at one another, and we can't give up."

Those words aren't exactly light-hearted. Following the Tech victory, however, the team's attitude was completely different.

"This team was picked to finish last. They might finish last, but look at all the opportunities we have to prove people wrong," Wooldridge said. "Why not go and enjoy this, and why not play with a real abandon and enthusiasm for the game?"

"To do that, you have to put your mind in that framework — we're going to have fun, let's go do this together, let's go play with enthusiasm."

The Cats will need a lot of enthusiasm tonight when they face No. 6 Iowa State. The Cyclones firmly stay at the top of the Big 12 standings and just defeated then-No. 6 Kansas last Saturday.

In K-State and Iowa State's last meeting Feb. 3, the Cats narrowly lost, 68-74. While it can be argued that K-State has improved since then, the same can be said of the very talented Cyclones, Wooldridge said.

"They are my favorite team in the league. I think they play well together, they play smart, they are tough, they are everything I think coaches enjoy working with," he said. "I'm sure they are substantially better because they are continuing to do better and better things."

Even though K-State enters the contest with a win under its belt, the Cats are not making early plans for a two-game winning streak. They will put their best effort on the floor and see what happens, Wooldridge said.

"I don't know that I would use the word confident. I would like to think our team would approach this game with some real enthusiasm," he said.

"They are one of the best teams in the country, and we have the chance to compete with them on our home floor and see if we're good enough to compete with them and get ourselves into an opportunity to play with a

UP NEXT
Iowa State (22-3, 10-2) at K-State (9-14, 3-9)
When: 7 tonight
Where: Bramlage Coliseum
Radio: WIBW-AM 580
TV: Metro Sports (K.C.)

top-five team."

To keep the game close, K-State will have more than the usual weapons to stop. All year, Iowa State has been led by senior guards Jamaal Tinsley and Kantrail Horton, who average a combined 25 points per game.

Against the Jayhawks, however, Iowa State was led by freshmen Jake Sullivan and Shane Power, who combined for 10-for-12 shooting from behind the three-point arc. Sullivan alone scored 22 points and was named the Big 12 Rookie of the Week.

No matter who has the hot hand, though, K-State plans on trying to carry over any momentum gained by its win three days ago.

"What we did tonight, we've got to take it in to the next game," point guard Larry Reid said. "We've got to execute on offense and not turn the ball over. We've got to be more poised on offense and hopefully play together every possession."

PREVIEW

6

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 2001

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: J.J. DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

Cryptopip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JAVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Energy
4 Vegas opener
7 Actress Moore
8 Tortellini, e.g.
10 Wrestler Hulk
11 Burial
13 "Catch a Rising Star" performers
16 Olympian's perfection
17 Take the helm
18 Ninny
19 Pod items
20 Quite
21 Mowing path
23 Dagwood's dog
25 Low-ph
26 Rescue
27 Director Howard

DOWN
28 Lanai
30 Ovine remark
33 Shenanigans
36 Land that
37 — Day
38 Crucifixes
39 Square
40 Away from SSW
41 Seurat minutia

DOWN
1 One who avoids animal products
10 White House monogram
12 Frightening
14 Hexagonal state
15 Agent
19 Tablet
20 Compete
21 Use steel wool
22 Champ
23 Speaker's platform
24 Ducked
25 Sandy's reply
26 Dazzles
28 Boats : buoys : planes :
29 Tolerate
30 Jaunty hat
31 "B" — "boy"
32 Donkey
34 Night light
35 Porto — (capital of Benin)

Solution time: 26 mins.

Yesterday's answer 2-21

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

2-21 CRYPTOQUIP

W ZGEVYVPTPIH DTII-
CWEWATO VGO NWXC

DYII WIDWHV GNTX

YEVWPEP AXWVVYNYZWPYGE.

Yesterday's Cryptopip: CAN THE FAMOUSLY ARROGANT CHEERLEADER PLEAD GUILTY TO A CHARGE OF POMPOMPOSITIVITY?

Today's Cryptopip Clue: V equals S

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 11 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptopip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WHAT'S HAPPENING

CAMPUS

- Sharkey's Little Groove Box will play from noon to 1 p.m. today in the Union Courtyard.
- Midnight Madness will be 11:30 p.m. Thursday in the Purple Masque Theatre.

MANHATTAN AND LOCAL AREA

- Elemental and Time Has Come will play the "Radio Rage" CD release party at 10 tonight at Tula's Out of Bounds.
- Female Brownie Mix Wrestling will be Thursday night at Safari Jack's.
- "Any Wednesday" will show at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday at the Manhattan Arts Center.
- "Noises Off" will show at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday at the Junction City Little Theatre.

If you know of upcoming events in and around Manhattan, e-mail them to arts@pub.ksu.edu.

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Mindy Joy Hines, senior in pre-law and musical theater, playing the part of the Ellen Gordon, the mistress, looks at Clive Fullagar, associate professor of psychology, playing the part of John Cleves, during a dress rehearsal of "Any Wednesday." The play opens Friday night at the Manhattan Arts Center.

Balancing Act

Executive in local play searches for stability in life

By J.J. DUNCAN

Kansas State Collegian

An hour and a half of fast-paced, light fun is how director Jason Chanos describes "Any Wednesday," opening Friday at the Manhattan Arts Center.

"This play will hold people's interest the whole time," Chanos said.

"Any Wednesday" is a comedy about a well-paid executive's struggle to keep his job, wife and mistress in line through a turbulent series of events.

Lucas Rice, who plays Cass Henderson, said the play is especially witty and should win audiences with its quirky humor.

Rice, sophomore in sociology, said he thinks audiences will have fun seeing the play.

"I just want people to enjoy the play," he said. "I hope they go home thinking 'Man, that was fun to see.'"

Mindy Joy Hines, who plays Ellen Gordon, the mistress, said much work has been put into each character, and she wants people to enjoy the fun personalities.

Since the cast is so small, plenty of time went into each character's distinct personality, said Hines, senior in pre-law and musical theater. Hines said that even though her character is the mistress, she is the type everyone hopes things will work out for.

"Ellen is genuine," she said. "She's not always the brightest person, and she can be tricked, but she always means well."

"Any Wednesday"

"Any Wednesday" will show at the Manhattan Arts Center at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. The play will continue to run at 8 p.m. March 1, 2 and 3 and 2 p.m. March 4.

The fact that Hines' boyfriend, Rice, plays Cass didn't affect anything except the physical work they do with each other, Hines said.

"When it came to the physical stuff we had to do with each other, like kissing, we didn't have that awkward period where we're getting used to each other," she said.

Each character in the play goes through significant change and growth in the play, which is an exceptional thing to see in a comedy, Chanos said.

While "Any Wednesday" is a comedy, Chanos said it still deals poignantly with the issue of adultery.

With a shorter, fast-paced production, the play maintains the audience's attention without a lull, Chanos said.

"The play holds people's interest because since it is short, none of the information is redundant," he said.

Working with an agenda besides just directing a play, Chanos said he wants to do all he can to promote local theater.

Chanos said his goal is to gain the interest of new people, especially students, to create a broader base of support for theater.

"I hope when people leave the play, they want season tickets," he said. "I want people to be that impressed with the talent here. I want them to say, 'I want to see more of that.'"

To make that impression, Chanos said it takes the work of not only actors but an adept technical crew.

"The show is clean, sharp, the acting is good and the tech is fantastic, and to bring that all together is an amazing experience," he said.

Chanos said he is proud of the production and has great respect for the actors because he isn't an easy director to please. He said he is hoping for a large turnout to make everyone's work worth it.

"This is the best team I could work with," he said. "Since they are doing this volunteer, I want to at least reward them with a good attendance."

Safari Jack's to offer brownie-mix wrestling Thursday

By KATIE LANE

Kansas State Collegian

4 tablespoons cocoa
1 stick butter or margarine
2/3 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

These are the ingredients for the brownie mix that women will be wrestling in Thursday night at Safari Jack's Watering Hole.

About 20 women have signed up for Thursday's tournament, and any female older than 18 is eligible to participate, said Jillyn Peters, manager of Safari Jack's and senior in psychology. Anyone who wants to wrestle should come in before Thursday and sign up, Peters said.

The idea to have a brownie wrestling tournament came from a flyer advertising a similar event earlier in the year.

The management of Safari Jack's decided this kind of event would increase bar sales and promote business, Peters said.

"We wanted to do something different, so when I found this flyer, I called the girls to ask about some of the details," Peters said. "I think that people will come just to see what it is. We are expecting anywhere from 200-500 people to show up."

The two women who sponsored the first brownie wrestling contest were Tracy Pinsent, sophomore in mechanical engineering, and Paige Crowson, sophomore in architectural engineering. The first wrestling contest was in mud, which quickly was changed to brownie mix, Pinsent said.

"We still have scars from all of the rocks. Mud was a bad idea, so we changed to brownies," Pinsent said.

Pinsent and Crowson distributed flyers advertising their mud and brownie wrestling contests, which attracted about 200 people each and raised $400 for the two.

Pinsent said the reason why she thought the event was successful was because of the participants.

"A lot of guys are willing to pay to watch girls wrestle in chocolate," she said.

Mary Shanahan, freshman in theater, attended the last brownie wrestling contest and already has signed up to participate on Thursday.

"I really wished I would've signed up to wrestle last time, so when I saw this opportunity, I decided I wanted to do it," Shanahan said. "You come to college to do something crazy, and if you don't, you are wasting your college experience."

Kate Allred, freshman in open-option, also has signed up to participate. Allred said she is excited and is expecting to have a lot of fun and get really dirty.

"I figure this is a once in a lifetime chance, and I won't have this body forever," Allred said.

Budweiser is donating three

Budweiser swimsuits to the top three winners and is sponsoring the tournament.

First place will receive a cash prize of $100, second place will be awarded a $50 gift certificate to Safari Jack's and third place will win a $25 gift certificate to Safari Jack's.

The event will begin at 10 p.m. and run until 1:30 a.m. or until the tournament ends. Admission is $2.

Shanahan said she expects a lot of people to come and watch the event because there isn't another place where people will get to see women wrestling around in food.

"Women should come to be proud of our gender, and men should come to feed their testosterone level for the day," she said.

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 2001

7

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Available August, one-bedroom units, central air/ heating, balcony, fully equipped kitchen, quiet, off-street parking, water and trash paid, low utility bills, 539-2702.

STUDIO APARTMENTS NEXT TO CAMPUS. 1219 Claffin. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE AUGUST. Spacious one and two-bedroom apartments, 1100 block of Blue-mont, trash paid, off-street parking, no pets. 776-0683.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW. One and two-bedroom apartments next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan, 1225 Claffin. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer/ dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

LANDLORDS WITH compassion. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets. 776-2102.

"LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION." Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

ONE-BEDROOM ALL bills paid. Close to campus. 341-4496.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS CLOSE TO CAMPUS. Water/ trash paid. $515- $565/ month. 341-4496.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE For rent. 770-9214 or 587-9224.

ADVERTISE CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

TWO-BEDROOM MAIN floor duplexes. two-bedroom basement apartment, huge one-bedroom basement apartment. All really close to KSU campus. Off-street parking. Some with washer/ dryer hookups. No pets. June 1. Call 776-4827 or 537-7852 for appointment.

115 Rooms Available

ROOMS FOR RENT In nice two story house on 10th near campus. One-seventh utilities. Call Cynthia. 537-7381.

120 For Rent-Houses

BEAUTIFUL AND SPACIOUS! five-bedroom, three bath house, close to campus, central air/ heat, dishwasher in new kitchen. Garbage and lawn care provided. No smoking/ pets. June 1. $1500. 776-9719.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE. A JUNE lease, washer/ dryer hook-ups, four blocks to campus. AUGUST lease, washer/ dryer, garage, fireplace, hardwood floors, new carpet. Two blocks to campus. No pets. 313-4812.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

SPECTACULAR MOBILE HOME! Three-bedroom, one bath, huge yard behind park, new carpet, tile and paint, washer/ dryer. All appliances stay. Central air, two sheds, lighted driveway. $5500. Available May 1. 539-5534 or (785)845-8455.

145 Roommate Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bath-house. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

FEMALE ROOMMATES WANTED! Price reduced - $275! Five minutes from campus. Call (785)770-8410 or (316) 585-2529 for details.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one week's utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

TWO MALES WANTED for three-bedroom apartment. Starting June or August 2001. Across the street from campus. $230/ month. Dominic. 539-8221.

ADVERTISE YOUR SUBLEASE IN THE LET'S RENT SECTION. 103 Kedzie • 532-6555

150
Sublease

AVAILABLE MAY 12. three bedrooms in four-bedroom apartment at University Commons. $275 a month. Call 587-0780.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two-bedroom apartment. Washer/ dryer. Close to campus. Aggieville, park. Lease through next school year, if desired. 317-0314.

TWO-BEDROOM ONE-HALF block to campus, available March. 776-4343. leave message.

200 service directory

235 Child Care

PART-TIME CHILD care in home for infant. Will pay mileage and one week's vacation. Lorie. (785)210-3136.

255 Other Services

ELLERY, ENGINEERING senior, does affordable maintenance, carpentry, and appliance repair. Also, builds budget computers fitting your needs. Eight years experience. 539-0232.

TAX PREPARATION. Federal and Kansas. KSU students. $25. Credit Counselors. chris@tax-relief-system.com. 587-8967.

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

HELP WANTED: Earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. Int. (504)646-1700 Dept. KS-6438.

HORTICULTURAL SERVICES inc. is seeking full-time and part-time sales clerks at our retail Garden Center. Sales and business experience preferred. plant knowledge helpful. Above average wages and benefits. Apply in person at 11524 Landscape Ln., St. George, KS 66535. (785) 494-2418 or (785)776-0397.

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains SW of Denver. General counselors and program specialists in horseback riding, hiking, backpacking, crafts, nature, challenge course, team, dance, drama. Administrative positions also available. June - early August 2001. MAKE A DIFFERENCE! Competitive salary, room, board, health insurance and travel allowance. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

PERSONAL CARE: Female to provide night support for disabled adult. You can sleep or study. $100/ week. Call Bobbie, 532-7815.

PHARMACIST TECH: clerk in Wamego pharmacy. Experience preferred. Send in to P.O. Box 227, Wamego, KS 66547 or cking66547@yahoo.com.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May - early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

WANTED! OUTSTANDING Leaders of Youth: The 4-H Camps in Nebraska, located at the Nebraska National Forest-Halsey, Schramm State Park-Gretna, and Harlan County Reservoir-Alma, are accepting applications for summer program staff. Spend mid-May to mid-August leading youth in outdoor programs. You will be trained to teach nature, ropes/ confidence course, canoeing, tubing, crafts, overnight camping, and many more programs. You do not need to be in 4-H to apply. Application deadline: March 1, 2001. For information call: (402)472-6717 or email: BLORKOVIC1@UNL.EDU.

310
Help Wanted

Paid Summer Adventure Training for K-State Students! Are you interested in rappelling, orienteering and learning how to lead? We have a limited number of slots available for an all-expense paid summer camp that will build confidence, teach you about the military and even pay you to attend ($750). This camp lasts 35 days and is conducted at Fort Knox, Kentucky by Army ROTC. The catch? There is none - all you have to do is take a physical and be able to graduate from KSU in two years. You'll get an introduction to the Army and ROTC and even have a chance to compete for scholarships worth almost $16,000 (pays for two academic years at KSU). Please call 785-532-5173 for more information on this unique program. This is one opportunity you won't want to miss!

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary: Room + Board + Travel. 1-800-762-2820.

FRATERNITIES • SORORITIES • Clubs • Student Groups. Earn $1000- $2000 this semester with the easy Campusfundraiser.com three hour fundraising event. No sales required. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so call today! Contact Campusfundraiser.com at (888)923-3238 or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

HELP WANTED: Earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. Int. (504)646-1700 Dept. KS-6438.

HORTICULTURAL SERVICES inc. is seeking full-time and part-time sales clerks at our retail Garden Center. Sales and business experience preferred. plant knowledge helpful. Above average wages and benefits. Apply in person at 11524 Landscape Ln., St. George, KS 66535. (785) 494-2418 or (785)776-0397.

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains SW of Denver. General counselors and program specialists in horseback riding, hiking, backpacking, crafts, nature, challenge course, team, dance, drama. Administrative positions also available. June - early August 2001. MAKE A DIFFERENCE! Competitive salary, room, board, health insurance and travel allowance. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

PERSONAL CARE: Female to provide night support for disabled adult. You can sleep or study. $100/ week. Call Bobbie, 532-7815.

PHARMACIST TECH: clerk in Wamego pharmacy. Experience preferred. Send in to P.O. Box 227, Wamego, KS 66547 or cking66547@yahoo.com.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)-844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May - early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsmhc.org.

WANTED! OUTSTANDING Leaders of Youth: The 4-H Camps in Nebraska, located at the Nebraska National Forest-Halsey, Schramm State Park-Gretna, and Harlan County Reservoir-Alma, are accepting applications for summer program staff. Spend mid-May to mid-August leading youth in outdoor programs. You will be trained to teach nature, ropes/ confidence course, canoeing, tubing, crafts, overnight camping, and many more programs. You do not need to be in 4-H to apply. Application deadline: March 1, 2001. For information call: (402)472-6717 or email: BLORKOVIC1@UNL.EDU.

310
Help Wanted

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one- three years related computer support experience. A+ Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6464, or email to jdsan@co.riley.ks.us. Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

SUMMER IN CHICAGO Childcare and light house-keeping for suburban Chicago families. Responsible, loving, non-smoker. Call Northfield Nannies. (847)501-5354.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with un-realized potential who are experiencing social difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbucksun.com

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Maine! Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplaurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplaurel.com.

THE LAN Technologies section of Computing and Network Services is looking for a motivated individual who is interested in participating in the support of the University Computing Lab environment. This is a part-time student position. Applicants should be available to work at least 15 hours/ week, 8am-5pm. Summer and intersession availability desired. LAN Technologies maintains the PC and printing environments for the University Computing Labs. Primary duties include maintaining equipment in software installation, configuration and/or testing. Candidates should have a background of Windows 95/ 98/ NT, HTML and PC hardware. Novell, networking, interpersonal and communication skills are beneficial. $7.00/ hour. Applications are available at the front desk at CNS, 2323 Anderson, Suite 146, and must be submitted by 5:00pm Friday, March 2. Call 532-6311 with questions.

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@ruralnet.net

310
Help Wanted

The Tavern

WANTED Bartenders Barmaids Waitresses

587-9224

WOULD YOU accept $25 to save kids' lives? Donate your life- saving blood plasma and receive $25 TODAY (for approximately two hours) Call or stop by Nabi Biomedical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan. (785)776-9177 Fees and donation time may vary. www.nabi.com

320 Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST" National Church centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

DO YOU make $100k/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2828. Member NYSE. endlessummers.com

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLESALE Spring Break packages (no middleman)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com

400 open market

Items for Sale

BOOK: Chinese Anthology of Literary Essays (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

435 Computers

LAPTOPS - PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions. 1800 Claffin Rd. #160. www.ksulaptops.com

450 Pets and Supplies

ADORABLE SILKY terrier puppies for sale. Call 539-0259.

480 Electronic Equipment

SIX PIECE stereo system, excellent condition with speaker. $300.00 537-2213

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE 103 Kedzie 532-6555

A REAL Life-Saver

SUMMER CAMP JOBS

Camp Counselors needed for top girls' camp in Maine. Top salary, travel paid in full, room/ board/laundry and uniform provided. Skilled in Arts/Crafts (ceramics, jewelry, stained glass), Basketball, Canoeing, Dance (Jazz, Pointe, Tap), Field Hockey, Golf, Gymnastics, Horseback Riding/English Hunt Seat, Lacrosse, Photographer/Videographer, Piano Accompanist, Office/Administration, Outdoor Adventure, Ropes/Challenge Course, Sailing, Soccer, Softball, Swimming, Tennis, Theatre, Volleyball, Water-skiing, Windsurfing. Additional opportunities for kitchen, cooks, maintenance, nurses.

CAMP VEGA FOR GIRLS!! Visit our website at www.campvega.com to complete an application and receive a camp video or call 1-800-838-8342.

Come see us! We will be on campus Wednesday, March 7th West Stateroom #3 in the Union from 10 am - 3 pm. Drop-in interviews encouraged, no appointment necessary.

500 transportation

1997 DODGE Dakota Club Cab SLT 4x4, V-8, loaded, must sell. (785)537-6016 or (785)485-2273.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space, EXCELLENT condition, one K-STATE fan owned! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515

WANTED: MR. FIX IT

TO ADVERTISE YOUR SERVICES IN THE AUTOMOTIVE REPAIR SECTION OF THE CLASSIFIEDS. KANSAS STATE COLLEGE 103 Kedzie 532-6555

600 travel/trips

630 Spring Break

500
transportation

510 Automobiles

1997 DODGE Dakota Club Cab SLT 4x4, V-8, loaded,

ADMISSIONS

■ continued from page 1

students," Bosco said.

Other schools across Kansas are experiencing increased enrollment as well. Pittsburg State University is enjoying an increase in their enrollment since last spring. The university's numbers climbed a little over two percent to about 122 students.

"We managed to retain a good number of students from a large freshman class from fall to spring semester, and our international student base is up," said Ange Peterson, director of admissions and retention at Pittsburg State. "Our new Kansas City site has assisted us as well."

Peterson said she thinks qualified admissions will affect enrollment. She said a smaller freshman class might be the result next fall.

Kansas is the only state in the country that still has open admission policies. Bosco said the matter has been well publicized to high school freshmen across the state. He said it's important for graduating seniors to contact the admissions office as soon as possible or go to any university's Web site to get more information.

The introduction of qualified admissions combined with proposed budget cuts also might be a concern.

At this time, though, John Struve, K-State budget director, said the school's enrollment and recruitment funding will not be affected.

HAIR

■ continued from page 1

offers haircuts for donation only. Last year, the salon raised $7,000.

Though life in Manhattan has been a change from Stirett's hometown of Wichita, she said she enjoys being a part of the community.

"It's not too big, and it's very friendly," she said. "I like it."

Despite the friendly faces Stirett encounters on a daily basis, she said the general public doesn't give hair stylists enough credit. Practically everybody uses the services of a stylist at one point or another, Stirett said.

"I cannot tell you how many times people ask me, 'Are you going to school?' No, this is my life. This is my profession," she said.

SQUARES

■ continued from page 1

of Kansas.

"I've been hearing about it from everybody," Williams said.

Students attending the conference from K-State will have a motto unique to the group.

Everyone present at Tuesday's meeting practiced chanting the motto, which reads, "One unda the sun, One people, One purpose, One pride cuz we equal." One student provided percussion by hitting a trash can to the beat of the chant.

Marvin West, freshman in theater, said he first became interested in BSU during his freshman orientation last summer and that he thinks BSU is a good way to become involved on campus.

BSU stimulates awareness, West said, and it helps people to appreciate the black leaders from previous generations. He said people forget the month of February is Black History Month.

Paris Rossiter, sophomore in computer information systems, said BSU helps minority students find people to whom they can relate.

Rossiter said these students often are unable to see other minorities who are in authority positions and who are successful.

Providing minority students with the opportunity to find these role models helps them, Rossiter said.

It helps them to say, "I can do this" and "I can do great things," Rossiter said.

Revive your sole.

- Authorized Birkenstock repair service.
- We change old Birkenstock footwear into new.
- We use genuine Birkenstock materials.

Olson's Birkenstock
Aggieville
539-8571

BIRKENSTOCK

SCOREBOARD

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY NIGHT

$1 NIGHT

Seagrams, All domestic bottles
Coke - Captain, Quervo, etc.
Fries, Burgers, Tots

$1.50 Micro & Import Bottles -
Corona, Heineken, Newcastle, etc.

$2.00 Premiums -
Crown, Sapphire, Absolut

$2.50 Pitchers

All for a buck!

1119 More • 776-7714 • Open at 5:00 p.m.

SCOREBOARD

KSU Bakery
Science Club

WEEKLY BAKE SALE
TODAY 3 TO 5 P.M.
Shellenberger First Floor

JOIN Student Friends!

Become a founding member of this exciting new group!

Meeting Dates:
Feb. 22 5:30 pm
March 1 5:30 pm
March 8 5:30 pm

Kansas State University • 701 Beach Lane • Manhattan, KS 66506 • (785) 532-7718 • www.ksu.edu/bma

Little Caesars
WEDNESDAY
HOT & READY
1 LARGE 14" PIZZA
WITH PEPPERONI
5:00 PM - 8:00 PM
$5.00

No Coupon Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2000 L.C.S. Inc.

CALL 539-3333
Manhattan (Westloop Center)

TACO HUT

"Where good friends get together since 1969"

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS

Sancho or Burrito - $1.65
Taco Dinner - $2.45

Drive thru now open!

MON. THURS. 10:30 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.
FRI. 10:30 A.M. - 11:30 P.M.
SAT. 11:00 A.M. - 11:00 P.M.
SUN. 11:00 A.M. - 11:00 P.M.

2809 CLAFLIN 539-2091

150th Anniversary

Established May 15, 1851 as the first sorority.

Alpha Delta Pi is celebrating 150 years of tradition in excellence.

the first and the finest

AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
AUTO HOME BUSINESS HEALTH LIFE

Tim Engle
K-State Grad 88

"Call us for your Health and Auto Insurance"

3320 Anderson

539-9200

American Family Mutual Insurance Co. and its Subsidiaries.
Home Office: Madison, WI 53783-0001

E-Mail tengle@amfam.com

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF OPERA PROUDLY PRESENTS

"THE TENDER LAND"

A SPLENDID OPERA BY MR. AARON COPLAND

A MODERN MASTERPIECE
FEATURING EXCITING LOCAL TALENT

The harrowing tale of a loving mother and the two dangerous drifters who try to steal her oldest daughter...

DON'T MISS THIS SWELL LIMITED ENGAGEMENT!

March 1 thru March 3
In Spacious McCain Auditorium
Adults $11
Students/seniors $8
Call McCain 532-6428

STAY CONNECTED...KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM	2 BEDROOM	3 BEDROOM
1941 College Heights #8 Tues. 5 - 8 p.m. Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m. Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m. • Starting at $350	926 Bluemont #12 Mon., Wed. & Fri. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $530	822 Fremont #7 Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m. Tues. 4 - 7 p.m. Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. Sun. 1 - 4 p.m. • Starting at $720
1119 Laramie #4 Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m. Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m. Sat. 3 - 5 p.m. • Starting at $430	1005 Bluemont #10 Mon., Wed., & Fri. 5:30 - 7:30 p.m. Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $500
413 N. 17th #5 Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30 p.m. Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m. • Starting at $380	1026 Osage #3 Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m. Sat. 1 - 3 p.m. • Starting at $540
1005 Bluemont #12 Mon. 2 - 6 p.m. Tues. 11 - 1 p.m. Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m. • Starting at $395	1113 Bertrand #4 Mon. 1 - 4 p.m. Wed. 6 - 9 p.m. • Starting at $560
700 Fremont By appointment only • Starting at $390	1417 Leavenworth #4 Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m. Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. • Starting at $570
925 Denison #5 Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m. Sat. 12 - 2 p.m. • Starting at $410	1524 McCain #11 Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m. • Starting at $550
1858 Claflin #15 Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m. Sat. & Sun. 11-1 • Starting at $385	700 Fremont by appointment only • Starting at $500
1700 N. Manhattan Royal Towers on site office Tues. 6 - 8 p.m. Wed. 5 - 7 p.m. Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m. • Starting at $410	1115 N. 12th by appointment only • Starting at $575
1722 N. Laramie #9 Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m. • Starting at $405

4 BEDROOM

- 1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940
- 2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950
- 1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

REACH FOR THE STARS! BECOME A LEADER WITH... UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL!

- Kansas State University's Union Program Council is searching for students to fill its Executive Council Leadership positions. If you enjoy a challenge and are interested in further developing your leadership skills, this might be just the opportunity for you! The Council will be taking applications for the following positions:
- President
 - Vice President of Public Relations
 - ATR & Entertainment Committee Chair
 - Feature Films Committee Chair
 - Forums Committee Chair
 - Classic Films Committee Chair
 - Multicultural Committee Chair
 - Adventure Committee Chair
 - Daytime Programs Committee Chair
 - Special Events Committee Chair

Applications are now available to be picked up in the UPC office, 3rd floor K-State Student Union. The applications are due February 28, 2001. For more information, call the UPC office at 532-6571.

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

TODAY'S
WEATHER

HIGH 50 ■ LOW 31

THURSDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 22, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 104

Student artist group to display work

■ page 7

Senators make education budget recommendations

By JOHN MILBURN
The Associated Press

TOPEKA — A Senate committee endorsed recommendations Wednesday to spend nearly $1.5 billion on its higher education system.

The state would spend more than $180 million for the operations of the Board of Regents and $1.31 billion on its six universities, the University of Kansas Medical Center and the Kansas State University Veterinary Medical Center.

The proposed spending is for the state's 2002 fiscal year, which begins July 1.

However, the proposed budgets do not include funds to cover Gov. Bill Graves' recommended adjustments in pay for employees, longevity bonuses, an increase in the base pay for civil service workers, or an increase in merit pay for professors and other employees outside the civil service system.

Graves issued an executive order Jan. 1 eliminating the bottom three levels on the state's pay scale, a move designed to make salaries more competitive with those in the private sector. Agencies were asked to find the additional revenue for the pay raises within existing dollars.

Also missing from the regents budgets are additional funds to help universities cover increased utility bills associated with the high natural gas prices this winter.

Some legislators expressed concern that they were not keeping a promise to adequately finance higher education when they reorganized the system in 1999.

"If these can't be added in omnibus, we have breached our promise to the regents," Sen. David Adkins, R-Leawood, said. The omnibus is the year's last spending bill, approved before legislators adjourn.

Chairman Steve Morris, R-Hugoton, said the governor's recommendations for changes in the pay scale did not occur as Graves intended. House and Senate leaders are working with Graves to come up with a plan to remedy the situation, Morris said.

"The governor felt like he was treating everyone fairly good, but this wasn't his intent," Morris said.

U2, Steely Dan, Hill among winners at Grammy awards

By NEKESA MUMBI MOODY
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Veteran rockers U2 and Steely Dan and country singer Faith Hill stole some of the Grammy thunder Wednesday from Eminem, whose angry lyrics entangled the ceremonies in controversy.

Steely Dan, who never had won a Grammy until Wednesday, claimed three, including album of the year for "Two Against Nature," besting Eminem's controversial "The Marshall Mathers LP." Eminem won three awards in rap music categories.

U2 also won three awards, including the prestigious song and record of the year for "Beautiful Day."

"It's a very unique emotion I'm feeling right now. I think it's called humility," said U2's Bono, who said fellow nominee Macy Gray and others should share the band's award. "I'm completely not used to it."

Hill won three awards, including best country album. Her "Breathe" won best country vocal performance, and her duet with her husband, Tim McGraw, won best country collaboration with vocals.

"Wow! ... Oh, I cannot believe this," Hill said. "I would like to thank my mom and dad for allowing me to go to my first concert when I was 8 years old to Elvis Presley."

D'Angelo and Destiny's Child won two Grammys apiece.

D'Angelo's "Voodoo" won best R&B album and his song, "Untitled (How Does It Feel)" won best male R&B vocal performance. Destiny's Child's "Say My Name" won best R&B

See GRAMMY on PAGE 8

High jumper star on 'Letterman'

By NANCY HULL
Kansas State Collegian

High jumping on "The Late Show with David Letterman" tonight does not make Nathan Leeper feel nervous, but talking with Letterman does worry him.

After all, Leeper, a former K-State track star and the No. 1 ranked high jumper in the U.S., jumped in front of over 110,000 people at the summer Olympics in Sydney.

"Letterman gets pretty goofy sometimes. I'm sure he'll make fun of my name and that I'm from Kansas and that I'm short for a high jumper," Leeper said, "but I can take it in stride."

Leeper is now an unpaid assistant with K-State track and field. He recently was told by his agent that his appearance would include jumping outside of the Ed Sullivan Theater in New York City on 53rd Street throughout the show and visiting on-air with Letterman.

Letterman is a big track fan, Leeper said.

In high school, Letterman was a high jumper, and Leeper said Letterman has talked about his interest in track and field on his show.

Making viewers more aware of the time and effort track and field athletes put into training is what Leeper said he hopes to achieve from the show.

"I think Letterman is in it for the same reasons we are," he said.

Leeper won the 1998 NCAA high jump championship while at K-State. He competed in the Olympics in Sydney and, until last weekend, he had the high jump world record.

Leeper is making time for his Letterman appearance before going to the U.S. championships next week in Atlanta.

Leeper's roommate, Jason Kridner, will join Leeper on the show.

Kridner said he thinks his role will consist of helping Leeper measure steps out in the street, and he said he doubts Leeper will be jumping over a bar.

"He'll probably be jumping over people or something," Kridner said. "I'll just be laughing and watching and hoping I'm not on TV."

Kridner and Leeper have been good friends since first grade, and Kridner said he's excited to watch Leeper since he hasn't been able to watch him jump since K-State meets.

"I'll always support him. He's just the same guy I grew up with, except he's in the spotlight," Kridner said.

"Being on Letterman together will be one of those once-in-a-lifetime things."

PHOTOS BY JEANEL DRAKE/Collegian

ABOVE: Brad Caywood, senior in mechanical engineering, calls alumni at the KSU Foundation Telefund for the College of Arts and Sciences on Wednesday night on the third floor of the KSU Foundation Building. BELOW: Cristina Salndon (left) and Krista Williams, seniors in biology and pre-medicine, raise their hands while working at the KSU Foundation Telefund for the College of Arts and Sciences on Wednesday night.

MAKING HISTORY

Senior receives unexpected $5,000 donation early in evening

By SHANNON BURKDOLL
Kansas State Collegian

Russ Francis made KSU Foundation Telefund history Wednesday night.

After stumbling through the first call, Francis, senior in anthropology, called his girlfriend to lift his spirits before returning to the calling list. Soon after, Francis received an unexpected donation of $5,000 — the first $5,000 donation of the year.

"I'm speechless," Francis said.

The College of Arts and Sciences battled countless answering machines and unanswered calls to earn $7,572 within an hour of dialing the first number. It was the fourth night for the college's calling.

Marilyn Peine, sophomore in life sciences, received the first pledge of the night within three minutes of the cow bell that rang to signal the beginning of the race.

After an hour and a half of pledges, rejections and voice messages, the callers reached the $900,000 mark, and everyone received a 100 Grand candy bar.

With 30 minutes left to call alumni, the Telefund callers had earned $259,466 for the College of Arts and Sciences, making the college's grand total $977,222.

The College of Arts and Sciences' Telefund week will end tonight. The goal is to beat last year's ending total of $261,000, and this year's College of Engineering total of $288,000. The ultimate Telefund goal is to earn more than $1,234,567 for K-State student scholarships.

Adam Mason, freshman in theater, was using one of the six cell phones, a new feature to the Telefund, to make his calls. Mason said he was receiving more voice mail messages than talking to alumni.

"I've been getting a lot of 'Hello, I can't come to the phone right now,'" Mason said.

Faculty members were joining in on the Telefund

See TELEFUND on PAGE 8

SIFE helps students market products

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Sara May, Brian Ingalls and Jessica Powell had no idea they would star in a commercial during their visit to K-State on Wednesday.

The three high school students presented a commercial on a product they made during a break-out session for the Entrepreneurship Symposium sponsored by the College of Business Administration and Students In Free Enterprise.

"We want people to remember our product," said Ingalls, senior at Shawnee Mission West High School. "It is called a Happy Hat and is aimed toward younger children."

Each group of students was given a bag that contained materials for constructing a product, and then the group created and presented a commercial.

"It is dealing with marketing," said May, senior at Bishop Carroll High School. "We have to find a way to get our product to stick in people's minds. We decided to go with a lot of enthusiasm."

The teams then were judged by SIFE members, and the winner moved on to final competition. The Happy Hat team did not advance.

"It's really sad we didn't move on," Ingalls said, "but I definitely took something away from the activity. I learned that teamwork and having fun is important no matter what you are doing."

Powell, senior at Bishop Carroll High School, said

See COMMERCIAL on PAGE 8

Jessica Powell (left) constructs a product from a bag of items with Brian Ingalls and Sara May on Wednesday afternoon in Forum Hall. They did a commercial to market the product, which they called a "Happy Hat," during an entrepreneurship symposium.

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jib7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glasscock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
kgm7@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
rewil@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bs9639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jib7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
nh6062@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nf1748@ksu.edu
Michael Noll
mn5555@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jdd606@ksu.edu
Eric Schneewick
ers786@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm6920@ksu.edu
Curtis H. Crable
chc7669@ksu.edu
Denny Ellsworth
des0091@ksu.edu
Allison Duncan
ad0549@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
err1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.ksstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
1150 S. 29th St., a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., 1033 Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66506. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1033 Manhattan, Kan. 66506-7107.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

News of the weird

In December in Las Vegas, Don D. Astorga, 31, was sentenced on federal smuggling charges; airport police had found 12 baby lizards (including two endangered monitor lizards) stuffed in his crotch. And Austrian botanist Johann Zillinger was arrested in February on the way to the airport in Rio de Janeiro; allegedly, he was preparing to smuggle out five parakeet eggs, which he had carefully stored in his crotch to keep them warm.

Manhattan woman found dead in her apartment

Debra A. Doenges, 41, was found dead in her Manhattan apartment on Tuesday.

According to a press release issued by the Riley County Police Department, the department was summoned to Doenges' residence to investigate her whereabouts.

An autopsy will be performed by the Riley County Coroner's office at the Shawnee County Coroner's office in Topeka. The cause of death has not been determined. RCPD Capt. Gary Grubbs said no further information would be available until autopsy information is reported. Foul play is not suspected.

—April Middleton

FBI working to estimate damage by alleged spy

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The FBI is trying to calculate the national security damage allegedly wrought by one of its own agents, Robert Philip Hanssen, accused of spying for Russia for more than 15 years. FBI Director Louis Freeh says the intelligence losses appear to be exceptionally grave.

An FBI affidavit describing Hanssen's alleged spying said he passed along to Soviet and later

Russian agents 6,000 pages of documents — a virtual catalogue of top secret and secret programs.

Attorney General John Ashcroft asked former CIA and FBI Director William Webster to convene a panel of experts to review internal security procedures within the FBI and recommend changes.

"The attorney general views the case very seriously," said Mindy Tucker, Ashcroft's spokeswoman. "The fact that there are still countries that are interested in stealing our intelligence secrets shows that we need to take steps to review our security measures so that this doesn't happen again."

"It's even more disturbing because this is someone who knew how things worked," said Tucker. Hanssen was a counterintelligence expert.

Intelligence experts estimate that Hanssen's disclosures were highly damaging.

—The Associated Press

Legislators renew debate over registration of kegs

TOPEKA — A proposal requiring liquor stores to register beer kegs might have aged enough to finally advance from committee.

For at least five years, law enforcement and anti-drinking advocates have asked legislators for a law they say will decrease underage beer parties by allowing law enforcement to track who bought the kegs.

This year the backing of freshman Sen. Jim Barnett, a Federal and State Affairs Committee member, is making the difference.

On Wednesday, Barnett, R-Emporia, brought an empty keg to the meeting to illustrate how much beer is in a typical keg.

"Underage drinkers drink in two ways," Barnett said. "They drink until the beer is gone or until they are gone."

Chairwoman Nancy Harrington, R-Goddard, said the committee owed it to Barnett, sponsor of this year's bill, to consider the proposal.

Under current law, when police bust underage drinking parties, no one will usually identify the adult who purchased the kegs. The proposal would require liquor stores to give beer containers of more than four gallons an identification number and record the purchasers' name and address.

Law enforcement would then be able to access the information when they are investigating drinking parties.

Supporters of the bill say the registration will discourage adults to purchase kegs for underage drinkers.

—The Associated Press

Bush proposes increase in budget for education

TOWNSEND, Tenn. — President Bush proposed an 11.5 percent increase for the Department of Education on Wednesday, saying it would be the biggest spending boost he will seek for any agency.

Bush, who formally submits his budget to Congress next week, previewed the educational portions as he wrapped up a two-day swing to promote his domestic agenda.

"There is no more important subject than public education. We must get it right," Bush told an audience of teachers, students and parents at a rural elementary school in the Smoky Mountains, near Knoxville.

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail college@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletin@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- Horticulture Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. today in Throckmorton 2024. The topic will be resumé building, and pizza will be served.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct a Winning Interviews Workshop at 6:30 tonight in Union 213.
- Engineering Student Council E-Week Relay will be at 3:30 p.m. today in the Durland Hall atrium.
- Ag Ambassadors and Ag Reps will meet at 6 tonight in Waters 231.
- Pre-law Club will meet at 7 tonight in Union 205.
- American Ethnic Studies Student Association will have a brainstorming session at 7 tonight in Union 208.
- The Society for Creative Anachronism/Shire of Spinning Winds will meet from 6 to 8 tonight in Ahearn 204.
- The Department of Geology will present "Proterozoic Gneisses and Cretaceous Flood Basalts 2000 km From Shore: Did the Kerguelen Plume Influence the Breakup of Eastern Gondwana?" at 4 p.m. today in Thompson 213. The speaker will be Kirsten Nicolaysen of Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis.
- Hillel Jewish Student Organization will meet at 8:30 tonight in Java Espresso & Bakery.
- Applications for KSU Student Foundation are due in the Office of Student Activities and Services office by 4 p.m. Friday.
- The International Coordinating Council is sponsoring a poster contest for this year's International Week. The deadline for submitting the design is

Friday. Entries are due at the International Student Center. The contest winner will receive a cash prize and T-shirt. Contact Maria Beebe at 532-6448 or Soledad Villamil at 532-4743 for more information.

■ Applications for Academy Counselor positions with the Earl Woods National Youth Golf Academy are available at the OSAS and the Leadership House. The submission deadline is March 16.

■ Class leaders are wanted to facilitate a small group of 15-20 freshmen scholarship students in Introduction to Leadership Concepts for Fall 2001. Applications are available at the OSAS. The submission deadline is March 16.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County

Tuesday, Feb. 20

- At 8:25 a.m., Joshua M. Tschudin, 512 Blumont Ave., was arrested driving on a suspended license, criminal destruction of property and failure to appear.
- At 9:46 a.m., Staci L. Clanton, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear.
- At 3:17 p.m., Derrick V. Green, 1119 Laramie St., was arrested for probation violation.
- At 4:30 p.m., Michael R. Nash, 3124 Bldg Lane, was arrested for probation violation.
- At 8:52 p.m., Michael L. Stephenson, 1140 Village Drive, was arrested for probation violation.

Wednesday, Feb. 21

- At 2:07 a.m., Jeremy B. Black, 3217 Meadow Road, was arrested for unlawful possession.
- At 2:07 a.m., James D. Silva, 511 Houston St., was arrested for DUI.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

STAY CONNECTED...KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

中國廚
Chinese Chef
Authentic Chinese Food
DINE IN or CARRY OUT
DRIVE THRU
Phone 537-3333 • 2704 Anderson Ave.
Daily Special $3.95
Hours Open:
Mon.-Thurs. 11:00 A.M. - 10:00 P.M.
Fri.-Sat. 11:00 A.M. - 10:30 P.M.

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS
776-5577
1800 Claflin Road

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.

DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.

Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)

DMS Bail Bonds

"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

Delivers the latest!

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

702 N. 11th Street
770-3333
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

770-3333 Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

Feast for Four	CARRY-OUT SPECIALS	THE BIG ASS
→ XL 16" one topping pizza + → 10" Pokey Stix + → 2 liter pop = $12.99	16" 1-Topping $6.99 14" 1-Topping $5.99 BONUS BUYS MENU with any food purchase • 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99 • Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99 • 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99 • Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99	One 20" Massive 1-Topping Pizza $10.99 2 for $19.99 Additional Toppings $1.30 per pizza

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

Central Nervous System (CNS)
Consists of the brain and spinal cord
Both brain and cord are encased in bone

What are you really learning in College?

FIND OUT AT ESPRESSO ROYALE CAFE

6pm until midnight

616 N. Manhattan Ave. Aggieville

537-2345

• Increase Energy • Decrease Appetite • Increase Metabolism • Decrease Body Fat

GNC LiveWell™

WESTLOOP
537-8191

Locally Owned & Operated

GNC LiveWell™

Save $5
on Bannettlim & Sidalen

Westloop, 537-8191 Locally owned and operated

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

On the Topic

Do you think the bombing of Iraq was a good decision?

Where was I when we bombed Iraq?

I am not going to debate whether or not the bombing of Iraq was a good idea, but I think in any case, all Americans need to support their troops.

The bombing of Iraq was very stupid. Why did we bomb a country that didn't do anything to us? Stop the bombing and use the money for something else.

Off the Topic

I'm going to move out of the Chase Manhattan Apartments for someplace better. Does anybody know the rent for those construction trailers they are setting up by the East Stadium?

A rich, bad-boy race car driver cheats death and loses, and we all mourn. Meanwhile, AIDS sweeps Africa and violence tears up the Middle East, and we hardly notice. Welcome to America.

Can someone help me? I just lost the front end of my car in a pothole.

If you need to roll around in public in brownie mix to boost your ego, then you have some major self-esteem issues.

Voters spent a million dollars on a law enforcement center in Manhattan, but now can we fix the dang roads?

Is it just me or is Science Fair — f-a-r-e — misspelled on the Open House posters?

The lottery is for the poor and the mathematically challenged.

Don't talk trash on Ranger Steve, the crocodile hunter. He is the man.

I'm sick of hearing so many people complain about the parking problem on campus. I live a couple miles from campus and rarely do I drive to class. I either walk or ride my bike, so it seems to me there isn't an abundant absence of parking spaces, but an abundance of laziness.

I think it's great, all of the debate about the lack of parking on campus, and yet K-State still blocks half of the damn parking lot so that students can't park there. They reserve it for high school swim meets. I paid for this parking permit, let me use it.

Apparently in addition to being pieces of meat, women are now pieces of brownie. Thank you, women brownie wrestling organizers, for contributing to the subjection of your own sex.

I think that Darwin Abbott needs to clarify Parking Services policies with his employees — who give the tickets. Not in the paper.

Is it wrong to have to jump start my boyfriend?

Question for Tuesday

The Kansas Legislature is trying to make it mandatory to register kegs. Should it be required?

READERS WRITE

Earnhardt's death deserved better coverage in newspaper

Editor,

America lost one of its greatest sports stars Sunday. In his field, he was the best there was.

Dale Earnhardt was one of the best NASCAR drivers ever and, at 49, was fiercely competitive.

I found coverage of his death on page eight of the Collegian. The Kansas City Star, USA Today and countless other papers ran the story on the front page, above the fold and dominant.

If another one of sports greatest stars suddenly died, say Tiger Woods, I sure as hell wouldn't want to read about it on the second to the last page of the paper.

— Jim Reintjes
senior in print journalism

OPINION

Guiding faces

Teaching implies more than mere instruction

BECKY WILSON / Collegian

So, who are your teachers?

Sorry, trick question. If you give me a list consisting of your instructors — and nobody else — you're either a hopeless grade point average lemming or you're just a little too tired this morning. It's a semantic trap — we still use the word "teacher" far too often at this level of education. Nowadays, I use "instructor" more often than not, despite that bulky added syllable, to avoid just that trap.

Well, back in first grade, "teacher" made a lot of sense. Initially, those teachers were supreme authority figures with apparently infinite power — if Mrs. Vesterberg said "Sit down," you did so. If she said "Be quiet," you clamped shut. She could make you nap on command. Not many people can do that to me on this campus, at least not intentionally (lecture ... overwhelming, consciousness ... fading).

How? Simple. Remember that at that age, we still were asking questions — your parents will back me up on this. And she had all the answers and was ready to fill our emptier-than-a-rave-in-Dighton minds with information. Moreover, she was an arbiter of moral authority — she knew what was right and wrong and was fully qualified to pass judgment with which we'd eventually agree. If "mother" really is the word for God on the lips of children, "teacher" must be a translation of "priest."

Then we became teenagers and, while our instructors still had all the answers, we knew that we already had them. Face it, teen-agers are insane. Can't blame 'em. When you've got a truckload of hormones pulsing through your body and you're completely reassured that you finally understand the entire universe just because you don't wet yourself when a Godzilla movie comes on anymore, you can be pretty hard to endure (For some of us that phase never ends. And some of us still can't watch Godzilla movies without a towel handy).

Assuming we survive that phase, voila, we're in college. Some of us still cling to the tattered flag of our omniscience in awe-inspiring feats of denial. Some of us cave in to the certainty that we know nothing and probably never will know nothing but might as well give it a shot. Some of us just want the degree. I guess some just are here for the beer.

Worse, our instructors don't have all the answers anymore (Some say they do. They lie. And they want to lure you to office hours to make you into those sandwiches they serve at faculty meetings. Don't go unless you go well with pastrami). But they don't have to.

At this stage, the name of the game isn't pure recitation and retention anymore. We don't parrot answers and color inside the lines all day. Now we're looking for something bigger than a list of state capitals or multiplication tables. We're looking for all sorts of things. Maybe it's a toolbox of skills for a specific career. Maybe it's a new perspective on our world. Maybe it's a system of critical thought. Whatever it is, we're out of the No. 2-pencil-and-multiple-choice words now.

Instructors are guides. Some are better than others. But they're not all teachers.

Way I see it, teachers (duh) teach. They alter or shape our perceptions — of our world, of other people, of ourselves. They bring insight. They challenge us, stimulate our intellect and imagination — they make us think. They change us.

I've had a lot of teachers. Some stood in the front of my classes and spoke. Some sat in desks and listened. Some answered phones and fielded paperwork. Some cleaned the floor.

Something I never expected happened when I trudged through two semesters as a graduate teaching assistant. I had a sea of faces in each class — each bringing their own talents, values and interests into the class. Thank God the class was Expository Writing — I got to know most of them better than most math or physics GTAs ever will know their students. And I don't think they ever realized it, but through their efforts and aspirations, I think I understand people in general — and maybe the more elusive parts of my own psyche — better.

Our instructors aren't implacable icons anymore. They're people, fallible and sometimes annoyingly human. But the best of them still have so much to offer. They can teach us if we're willing to learn.

And sometimes, though we might never know it, we teach them.

Ken is a graduate student in English. You can e-mail him at sigma7@ksu.edu.

Use of pornography unlikely to attract women

In the past week readers have been given two different sides of pornography. One was in favor of and the other was against the issue.

So, is the world of strip clubs and in-depth, intelligent movie plots involving plumbers and various service men bad? Not necessarily. By no means am I what one would consider "pro-porn." But, prior to last year, I had been judging something that I never even had experienced before.

ERIN SCHNEWEIS

I had never seen live male entertainment, but yet I had judged it saying it was wrong, without actually knowing if I considered it to be or not.

So, my roommate and I decided to give it a try and we went to a club in Topeka, where they had a traveling segment. When I left, I wanted to buy a flea collar and some Lysol to cover my entire body because I had no idea where these men had been previously, nor did I want to know.

In a way, I felt sorry for the men who danced that night because they were letting money govern their actions. Yet, I also felt sympathy for the women who were so excited to be touched by a man that they didn't realize the sole reason they were receiving such attention — money.

There are some positive things porn brings forth. Some couples claim watching movies enhances their sex lives. Porn also makes lonely nights for the majority of my single, male friends not seem so lonely.

Yet there are negative things as well — as David Levin pointed out — especially when children are involved. Both columnists pointed out that there is evidence that strongly suggests a correlation between pornography and rape. Porn on the Internet is too easily accessible as well.

So, is porn degrading to women? Yes, it is. But these women choose what they do or do not do. No one forces them to take off their clothes and dance in front of strangers. So, men cannot be the only ones to blame for still turning to and being turned on by porn.

Both the women who use their body to make money and the men who pay them play a part in this. That is similar to the law of supply and demand. If women continue to take their clothing off for money, men will continue to pay for it. And vice versa.

It is a shame we live in a society where you can make more money taking off your clothes than teaching our future leaders. It is disconcerting to think you can make more money swinging seductively around a pole than you can by being a social worker. But which is more respectable? The latter in both of these examples by far. I have no respect for people who take their clothing off for money.

I don't understand some parts of the porn world — namely bachelor parties.

I don't have that big of a problem when I am dating someone and they go to a bachelor party at strip clubs or where stripping is involved. Yet, I don't see the connection between a higher level of commitment signified by being surrounded by naked women.

Men get bachelor parties that often have strippers — and women get bachelorette parties involving bar hopping and T-shirts covered with Lifesavers and a slogan, "Suck for a buck."

Women probably would be more into the world of porn if it wasn't so slanted and one-sided.

I'm trying to be realistic in my approach to my opinion on pornography. Men are far more visual than women, so I can understand why seeing a beautiful, naked woman would get their juices flowing, so to speak.

I don't think a lot of men realize how turned off most women I know get when they go over to the house of a guy they like and see pictures of naked women and Playboy magazines everywhere.

Just as men don't like to hear about periods, most women don't like to see pornographic images around their significant other's house.

And trust me, when a guy wears a shirt to the bars that says, "Show Me Your Pussy," chances are he is going home alone, and he should be.

There is no doubt that pornography can turn something meaningful, that is supposed to be sacred, into something cheap.

Erin is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at riveted4@yahoo.com.

BECKY WILSON / Collegian

EVAN SEMÓN/Collegian

Students gathered Wednesday in the K-State Student Union courtyard to listen to local band Sharkey's Little Groove Box. The concert was part of Lunchtime Lounge, sponsored by Burger King in the Union and the UPC Special Events Committee.

Band's sound attracts listeners to Union

By JENNIFER L. SHERRY
Kansas State Collegian

Whether students were eating lunch Wednesday in the K-State Student Union or just passing through on their way to class, it was hard to miss the crowds gathering in the Union Courtyard to listen to local band Sharkey's Little Groove Box.

"I like their jams," Josh McRae, junior in chemical engineering, said. "Their laid-back style in performing and in their music is really cool."

The concert was part of Lunchtime Lounge, sponsored by Burger King in the Union and the Union Program Council Special Events Committee. At noon every first and third Wednesday of the month, students perform a variety of talents.

Andy Gough, bass guitarist, said he was happy with the turnout and glad people stayed for the entire show.

"It was a great crowd," Gough, junior in public relations, said. "The Union is one of the best places to play because all different types of people are listening."

The Lunchtime Lounge not only provides entertainment, but it also gives local talent an opportunity to perform. Macey Ray, junior in business finance, said it is nice for bands to have such a visible outlet.

"It gives bands a chance to make a name with the students," she said.

Justin Ostrander, junior in public relations, said he also was impressed with the performance.

"Sharkey's is a lot of fun to watch," he said. "They relate well to the crowd and still know how to rock out."

Sharkey's Little Groove Box formed more than two years ago and, in that time, it has been voted The Best Band of Manhattan by the Collegian Reader's Choice Awards, won the Opus Band Competition, produced a self-titled album and new single, "Solid Ground," and now air on KSDB-FM 91.9 and KMKF-FM 101.5.

"Hearing us on K-Rock was a cool feeling because they're so mainstream," Gough said. "It's great when they stick local bands into their program."

MORE INFO

Go to www.little-groovebox.com to learn more about Sharkey's Little Groove Box.

Jeff Sharkey, drummer, said radio play is exciting, and it motivated them to grow as a band.

"I felt like a rock star the first time I heard us on the air," he said.

Jeremy Hollebeak, lead singer and guitarist, said the band's uniqueness in their music is directly related to the varying musical interests of each band member.

"All of us are so different, and we draw from all different sources and incorporate them into our music," Hollebeak, senior in chemical engineering, said.

Gough said Sharkey's music can be defined as melodic groove rock, deriving from blues rock.

Blake Chaffin, guitarist and singer, listens to anything from blues to country to influence his style.

"I'm into Van Halen, Kenny Wayne Sheppard and Mark Selby, a phenomenal blues musician," Chaffin, senior in marketing, said. "I like all music that is positive."

Hollebeak said he can't sit for more than a few minutes with a guitar before he wants to start writing a song.

"Music is a vehicle, and I'm interested in the way it affects people," Hollebeak said. "I idolize John Lennon for the way his lyrics touched people's lives."

Breathing problems land Finney in Topeka hospital

By JOHN HANNA
The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Former Gov. Joan Finney was in a local hospital Wednesday after having trouble breathing, which doctors believe might have been related to her liver cancer.

Joan Finney, 76, was admitted Tuesday night to St. Francis Hospital and Medical Center with discomfort and congestion in her lungs, daughter Sally Finney said.

The former governor is recovering from what doctors diagnosed as congestive heart failure and might be able to return to her Topeka home in a few days, the daughter said.

"She's very comfortable and doing much better," Sally Finney said.

Joan Finney, the first woman to have the state's highest office, has been notifying her friends about her cancer.

Sally Finney said doctors said the former governor had fluid in her lungs, which in turn put more strain on her heart. Doctors believe the problems were linked to a reduction in liver function caused by the cancer, Sally Finney said.

At the Statehouse, legislators and others continued to express concern about Joan Finney's health and offer their support.

In the Senate, a guest chaplain, the Rev. John Erickson, pastor of Topeka's Sacred Heart Catholic Church, asked members to pray for Joan Finney.

"She is a good friend of mine and a good friend of all Kansans," Erickson said.

Joan Finney began chemotherapy last week. She continues to live in her Topeka home, where she is under the care of an oncologist. She also is receiving medical care as an outpatient at the M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston.

Joan Finney was elected state treasurer in 1974 and served 16 years before her run for governor in 1990.

That year, she stunned most political observers by defeating former Democratic Gov. John Carlin in the primary. In the general election, Joan Finney unseated Republican Gov. Mike Hayden.

She decided not to seek a second term in 1994 and was succeeded in January 1995 by Bill Graves, a Republican.

NEW: Collegian online forum. Chat with K-State students. Go to www.delphi.com/kstatecollegian.

Wildcat Tennis

Come and check out the action.

Wildcat Tennis in Ahearn Fieldhouse.

Thursday 2/22

Brigham Young 3 PM

Friday 2/23

Notre Dame 2:30 PM

MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 11-1
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed., & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #3
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

Introducing Sprint PCS Voice Command.™

There, that's one thing off your hands.

works on any
Sprint PCS Phone

call 500 people just
by saying their names

three simple ways to update your address book

Just say a name and the phone does the rest. Now you can get and dial phone numbers simply by speaking naturally into your Sprint PCS Phone.™ It's a convenient, powerful new way to store and access all of your important numbers, and it works on any Sprint PCS Phone.

FREE! Get Sprint PCS Voice Command free with a service plan of $49.99 or more and a one-year Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement™ — for a limited time.

And, as always, you can count on crystal-clear calls, thanks to the only all-digital, all-PCS nationwide network built from the ground up, serving more than 300 major metropolitan areas.

The clear alternative to cellular.™

To find out more or to order your phone with free delivery, visit www.sprintpcs.com or call 1-800-480-4PCS. Or shop at one of the locations below:

JUNCTION CITY
701 N. Washington St.
(785) 762-3434

MANHATTAN
404 Poyntz Ave.
(785) 537-3500

SALINA
1801 S. 9th St.
(785) 452-9720

ABILENE
MC Communications
408 N.W. 3rd
(785) 263-3899

JUNCTION CITY
On-Line
819 S. Washington
(785) 223-0290

MANHATTAN
Kansas Wireless
2026 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
(785) 565-9279

SALINA
Kansas Wireless
833 E. Crawford
(800) 381-6367

Communications Unlimited
907 W. 6th St.
(785) 238-4638

K-Mart
401 E. Poyntz Ave.
(785) 776-4026

Part Electronics
326 S. Broadway
(785) 820-9850

K-Mart
408 S. Broadway
(785) 825-1581

Target
2929 Market Place
(785) 825-1354

Sprint PCS Voice Command™ is a limited time offer. It is only available on Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement™. It is not available on other Sprint PCS service plans. A $10.00 activation fee applies to the Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement. After the one year Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement expires, Voice Command will be provided at $10.00 per month, unless the customer cancels the service or renews the Advantage Agreement. The Sprint PCS Advantage Agreement is available from January 1 to March 31, 2001. Availability of Voice Command depends upon capacity in the service area and customer demand. All items subject to credit approval. A credit check will be performed on all new customers. A $35.00 phone activation fee applies, except in select office markets. Sprint PCS Voice Command is available on the Sprint PCS Nationwide Network and is not available while roaming off the Sprint PCS Network. Activation and applicable long distance charges for a call combined with a Sprint PCS Phone™ that is placed using the Voice Command feature begin when the customer presses or activates the VCL key or voice key including the 48 seconds for making subsequent calls, but not when the call is terminated by hitting the END key or by returning to the Voice Command platform. If the customer initiates and completes a subsequent call without leaving the Voice Command platform, a separate charge for that call will begin from the time the previous call was terminated. Calls to 911 or similar emergency numbers cannot be placed through Sprint PCS Voice Command. The customer needs to dial 911 or the Sprint PCS Phone in case of an emergency. Sprint PCS Voice Command is not available in select office markets. ©2001 Sprint Spectrum L.P. All rights reserved. Sprint, Sprint PCS, Sprint PCS Phone and the diamond logo are trademarks of Sprint Communications Company L.P.

Men's golf team takes 10th place out of 15 in Southwest Classic

K-State's men's golf team had nowhere to go but up after finishing in last place at the Rice Intercollegiate last week.

Accordingly, the Cats improved, finishing 10th in the 15-team Southwest Classic in Victoria, Texas on Monday and Tuesday.

K-State was led by junior Matt Williams, who shot a career-best 2-under-par-70 to begin the Classic. He then followed up with rounds of 75 and 77 to earn the second Top 20 placing of his career. Williams' final score of 222 also was the lowest score of his career.

"I think Matt had a solid tournament, head coach Tim Norris said Tuesday. "I think it is safe to say that when he teed off this morning he was pretty nervous, but that's all right. He played well today."

Despite finishing 10th as a team, the Cats could have placed higher, but shot a final-round 310, their lowest score of the tournament, to close the day.

"We just didn't have it today," Norris said. "The course was set up pretty rough and greens were pretty firm. The team is just trying to stay patient and it is hard. I thought from an execution standpoint, this week was better than the last, but it's more about getting it done mentally right now."

"Physically, it's there, but mentally we are just trying too hard and that makes it frustrating. This group has a lot of pride, and it's going to happen for them."

Baylor University won the classic. K-State will return to action this week in the Texas-San Antonio Intercollegiate, which begins Sunday.

— Michael Noll

K-State men's golf standings

Team: (10th out of 15) 298-305-310 — 913

Matt Williams	116 70-75-77 — 222
Bryan Milberger	136 75-79-74 — 228
Aaron Watkins	141 75-76-79 — 230
A.J. Elgert	156 78-75-80 — 233
Scott McNeely	168 79-80-82 — 241

Newman earns weekly conference honor following KSU Open wins

Terrence Newman needed just three meets after switching from football to track to claim the Big 12 Athlete of the Week honor.

A defensive back on the football team, Newman earned the men's track and field team's only victories at the KSU Open last Friday.

He won both the 60- and 200-meter titles with two NCAA provisional qualifying times.

Newman ran 6.71 seconds in the 60-meter dash, a KSU Open record, and 21.47 seconds in the 200 meters, also a meet record and the second fastest time in K-State history.

— Michael Noll

K-State announces track and field honors for performances at home

In addition to Terrence Newman's Big 12 honors, he and three other athletes were named K-State track and field athletes of the week for their performances at the KSU Open. Newman, Teena Clincy, Tony Thompson and Sarah Tilling were all honored.

Clincy won the 60-meter hurdles with a meet-record 8.58 seconds. She also placed second in the triple jump with a mark of 38-2.75.

Thompson, in his first meet for the Cats, finished second in the shot put with an NCAA provisional qualifying mark of 60-2.50.

Tilling placed fourth in the weight throw with a personal-best 49-4.50.

— K-State Sports Information contributed to this article.

— Michael Noll

Tennis team to face BYU

By LAURA BOYD
Kansas State Collegian

K-State women's tennis heads into its toughest matches of the season this week against highly ranked teams Brigham Young University and the University of Notre Dame.

With three consecutive wins now in the books, the team has a positive outlook for this week's competition.

"We are very ready to play," freshman Paulina Castillejos said. "I feel like we have worked hard, and it is paying off."

Though the team's most recent win, a 6-1 victory over Wichita State last weekend, was good for the team, the players said the competition this weekend is going to take them to a whole new level.

"The competition this weekend is going to be much tougher," junior Kathy Chuda said. "We have to use everything we have learned and everyone has to get their job done."

Bringing in wins against BYU and Notre Dame could put the team one step closer to an invitation to the NCAA Tournament at the end of the season.

See TENNIS on PAGE 10

TARGET PRACTICE

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Phineas Atchison takes the ball up against an ISU defender during Wednesday's game at Bramlage Coliseum. The Cats will take on KU for the last home game of the season next Wednesday.

1st-half drought stifles Wildcats in loss to ISU

By DEREK BOSS
Kansas State Collegian

Much can be done in 15 minutes.

Fix a sandwich. Watch half an episode of "The Simpsons." Trek clear across K-State's campus.

But for the Wildcats on Wednesday night, it barely was enough time to make a basket against Iowa State.

Forward Quentin Buchanan's jumper with 14:55 left in the first half cut the Cyclone lead to one at 10-9, but little did K-State know, its next bucket wouldn't come for nearly 15 minutes.

Junior Phineas Atchison's three-pointer with four seconds remaining in the half snapped a streak of 17 missed shots by the Wildcats, who entered the intermission with only five made field goals on 26 attempts.

"We missed a lot of shots and had a lot of trouble getting the ball in the basket — just a lot of trouble," head coach Jim Wooldridge said. "Around the rim, in the paint, beyond the arc — you name it, we had trouble."

Sophomore Matt Siebrandt said he knew the Cats' struggles on the offensive end proved their demise, as the 14:51 drought in the first half enabled Iowa State to build a 37-23 halftime lead.

"We shot 19 percent in the first half — that's not going to keep you in ball games," he said. "If you shoot 19 percent, you're not going to have a chance."

K-State didn't.

Although the Cats hit over twice as many shots in the second half (12) and more than doubled their field goal percentage (44.4), outscoring the Cyclones 28-25 in the period, the damage already was done, guard Larry Reid said. K-State would finish with 51 points for the game, tying the team's third lowest point total of the season.

"We just couldn't get the ball to go down. I don't

See LOSS on PAGE 10

Cyclone defense shuts down junior point guard

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

The largest factor working against K-State in its 51-62 loss to Iowa State on Wednesday might have been the Cats' play in the teams' previous matchup.

Three weeks ago in Ames, point guard Larry Reid dropped in 30 points to help K-State nearly knock off the Cyclones.

As a result, No. 6 Iowa State (23-3, 11-2) was determined to make sure this contest against K-State (9-15, 3-10) wasn't as close.

"Our approach to the game was as good as any game we've had all year," Cyclones head coach Larry Eustachy said. "Our team came down here as a man and wanted to win this game. Their focus wouldn't have been the way it was if they didn't respect this team and what the team did to us at home."

Reid especially had vexed the Cyclones, as he did what no player had done this season.

"Reid embarrassed us at home. Our guys have got some pride," Eustachy said. "He's very talented, but he kind of had a target on his shirt today. He had 30 on us, and not a lot of guys get 30."

Iowa State certainly didn't allow Reid a repeat performance. This time around, the junior scored just seven points on 1-for-11 shooting, evidence he did have a defensive target on his back, forward Travis Reynolds said.

"Any guy who scores points like that against you, you know the next time he comes out against you, you're going to want to shut him down," he said. "They wanted to shut him down, along with the other shooters on our team, and they were successful."

Much of that success was due to Cyclone guard Jamaal Tinsley, who drew the assignment of guarding Reid much of the game. Tinsley's defensive effort was just typical of his play on both ends of the court all night.

"He controls the game from the jump to the end," Reynolds said. "He runs this team real well, then on the defensive end, he sets the tone for the team. He's on the ball trying to pressure the ball and

See TARGET on PAGE 8

KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Larry Reid fights for the ball against Kantrill Horton in K-State's loss to Iowa State.

Loss to No. 6 Cyclones should not discourage Wildcat fans

So the men's basketball team got beat again Wednesday night. So what?

Iowa State should have thrashed the Cats. They are ranked No. 6 in the nation, for crying out loud. K-State isn't even sixth in the Big 12.

Iowa State has a pre-season All-American point guard in Jamaal Tinsley, who was one of the league's best players even last season. K-State starts three players who weren't even on the team last season.

Iowa State brought in the momentum of a nine-game winning streak. K-State had just won its first game in a month.

Larry Eustachy, the 2000 Associated Press National Coach of the year, coaches Iowa State. He's one of the best in the business. K-State, on the other hand, is coached by Jim Wooldridge, who only coached two winning teams in the last six years. Now, this season, he has led the Cats to just one more win than the Tom Asbury-directed team had at the same time last year.

Evidently, things haven't changed much.

Right, and Asbury loved to dress in straw hats and overalls.

This season's K-State team is utterly and completely different than last year's squad. Ignore the records, the occasional blow outs and last-minute chokes.

Forget that the Cats' post-season destination is most likely the same as last year's — warm, balmy Manhattan, Kan.

This team has improved. Don't believe me? Ask forward Travis Reynolds.

"This year's a lot different," the junior said, "because we've given a lot of games away. We maybe should have three or four wins in the Big 12 that we don't have. It's a lot different. There are games we should have won, but we didn't."

"Last year, we were really just getting beat every game."

And don't even think about putting the names Asbury and Wooldridge in the same sentence, like I just did — my bad. You know why Wooldridge's coaching record has been over .500 just twice in the past six years? It's because he repeatedly has taken over programs that couldn't have won with even John Wooden at the reins.

They won with Wooldridge.

Louisiana Tech, for instance, had just endured NCAA probation and a 2-25 record when Wooldridge took over in 1994. The Bulldogs went 14-13 that season.

Before Louisiana Tech, Wooldridge took over a Southwest Texas that had suffered seven straight sub-.500 seasons.

In his third season, the Bobcats went 25-7 and made their first ever NCAA Tournament appearance.

Now, this season, Wooldridge has made substantive improvements in a team that won just one of its final 16 games last season.

Sure, he catches some heat for getting whopped by Kansas, but even the mere fact that fans expect K-State to have the slightest chance against the Jayhawks is a credit to Wooldridge's success.

When he arrived in Manhattan last March, it wasn't exactly to great fanfare.

The K-State faithful wanted former Iowa State head coach Tim Floyd or even former Oklahoma coach Billy Tubbs. Very few fans wanted Wooldridge — a feeling freely vented on Athletic Director Max Urick.

Now, fans have given the Cat coach a happy little nickname — "Wooley."

Last year in Bramlage Coliseum, the student section booed Asbury and cheered Kansas' Roy Williams. It was obvious to everyone in attendance that the Cats were completely outclassed, so when Kansas took a 27-point halftime lead that afternoon, nobody was surprised.

When K-State lost to Kansas in Lawrence earlier this season, however, people were mad. Therein lies Wooldridge's most important victory this season. It wasn't over any team, but over the fans.

People care about K-State basketball now. If Wooldridge history repeats itself, it won't be long before they can cheer, too.

Michael is a sophomore in print journalism and English. You can e-mail him at mtn5855@ksu.edu.

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
AggievilleJASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Pull an all-nighter
5 Tampa Bay player, for short
8 Early Oscar-winner Jannings
12 Beach resort
13 Blond shade
14 Deal with leaves
15 Tournament format
16 Verily
17 On the rocks
18 Spanish explorer
20 Opulent
22 Fight insomnia
26 1-to-10, often
29 Turquoise or topaz
30 Paving stuff
31 Gait
32 Listening device

DOWN

33 Mini-plateau
34 List-ending abbr.
35 Omega precursor
36 Hardly rosy-cheeked
37 Fight anger
40 Bellow
41 Rhododendron's cousin
45 Pesky kid
47 Interrogate
49 "Hee-Haw"-style humor
50 Assess

DOWN

1 Lummock
2 Mature
3 Citric quaffs
4 Eyeglass
5 Stagnant marsh
6 Exploit
7 Hire
8 Author Segal
9 Heavy knives
10 Mamie's hubby
11 Was ahead
19 Sock end
21 Doctrine
23 Whodunit writer Marsh
24 Bridge position
25 Entreat
26 Detail, for short
27 Roman statesman
28 Correct
32 "Chips" star
33 Handcuff
35 Sch. org.
36 Candy known for its dispensers
38 Famous
39 Snatches
42 Swag
43 Green acres
44 King of Siam's employee
45 Car-front protector
46 Uncooked
48 Long lunch?

Solution time: 24 mins.

Yesterday's answer 2-22

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873 (99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

2-22 CRYPTOQUIP

VY PXQ GFLFBV VLF
NYEYBF NPKEPNF PEVRBV'B
B VYKH EFOWQ RB

"RV'B HXYV OYBBRGWF"
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: A CONSISTENTLY WELL-MANAGED SOD FARM WILL ALWAYS OFFER INSTANT GRASSIFICATION.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: F equals E

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MIX MASTERS

WHO: Cale Doombas, Auntie Mae's Parlor

Doombas has been at Auntie Mae's for 2 1/2 years and is a senior in landscape architecture.

DOOMBAS

DRINK: Electric Tarantula

2 counts of:
vodka gin
rum tequilasplash of triple sec equal parts 7-Up, sour and pineapple.

Top with Blue Curacao, garnish with lime and cherry.

ONLINE:

Learn to make this drink from the master. Go to www.ksstatecollegian.com for exclusive video footage.

PHOTOS BY KAREN MIKOLS/Collegian

(Clockwise from left) Brent Engstrom, junior in illustrations; Trevor Roediger, senior in printmaking; Mike O'Leary, senior in printmaking; and Miles Olsen, senior in printmaking, are reflected in a copper sheet of metal. The four form the artist group MOTR. BELOW: O'Leary works on his project "Parade XIII." It is a lithograph on a plate of aluminum.

BOTTOM: Several etchings for an untitled work in progress by Olsen. Two are on copper sheets, one for blue ink and one for black ink.

creative conception

Artistic inclinations bring 4 students together for ideas, expression, influence

By CHELSEA SCHMIDT
Kansas State Collegian

Working together to influence creativity is what the artist group MOTR, made up of four K-State art students, is all about.

The students have banded together and will be displaying their artwork in a show March 1 at Java Espresso & Bakery.

"We threw ideas around last semester, and this semester we focused it," Mike O'Leary, senior in printmaking, said. "We started to organize and then push, and now we are together."

O'Leary has teamed up with Brent Engstrom, junior in illustrations; Trevor Roediger, senior in printmaking; and Miles Olsen, senior in printmaking, to form MOTR, four artists who work together to influence each other's work.

MOTR originally came from the initials of O'Leary and Roediger, but has since become a symbol of what their group is all about — creativity.

"We started with our initials, but our work is associated with symbolism," O'Leary said. "So, first you have 'mother,' and you take the 'he' out. Without the male part it is like the immaculate conception and, thus, creativity."

The four artists work together to influence one another and promote creativity, but all of their artwork is done individually and with their own flare.

O'Leary said most of his work focuses on literature, and he has been influenced by Joseph Campbell, a philosopher and author of mythology.

He said he bases much of his artwork on this concept of mythology.

"It's seminarrative,"

O'Leary said.

"There's a storyline involved.

Each image is designed specially to be a synthesis of media and idea.

Symbols I use

inside it interact with each other

in a symbolic way

but are still aware of the media they are in."

O'Leary said he works on art an average of six to eight hours each day. Nevertheless, he said it is an activity he thoroughly enjoys and what he really likes about art is the challenge.

"The challenge of art is a completely personal thing," he said. "You're not building cars or doing math equations where people can say something is right or wrong."

WEB SITES TO WATCH

SyQuil

URL: <http://www.syquil.com>

★★★★★

"SyQuil" quickly has become the most popular site for the rave scene in the Midwest. Based out of Kansas City, the site looks good and is easily navigable.

"SyQuil" has become popular with reason. Not only has it become one of the most recent sources for finding raves in the midwest, but the features are fun, too. With message boards, pictures, mailing lists and streaming techno via realplayer, the site is very comprehensive.

The site will keep you coming back for more, and not only for the latest information. The downloads section has some great video game stuff as well as some Java-based games you can play without any downloading.

I Love Bacon

URL: <http://www.ilovebacon.com>

★★★★★

"I Love Bacon" is the site billed as being "more fun than a barrel full of ebola-infested, feces-hurling monkeys," and I would have to agree.

The site consists of anything that appeals to those with a sense of humor in the toilet bowl. It boasts extensive listings of funny pictures and text files that will have you either rolling on the floor or sitting with a blank stare. There doesn't seem to be much in between when I test it out on people.

The claim that the site is juvenile humor for adults should stress that it is for adults. As soon as you've done checking out that funny file of witty things Norm from "Cheers" said, you can go look at lots of pictures of girls flashing. Seriously an immature site, but if you like that sort of thing, this is for you.

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM — MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

GRAMMY

■ continued from page 1

song and best R&B performance by a group.

Steely Dan also won best pop album for "Two Against Nature," their first disc in 19 years, as well as best pop vocal performance by a group for "Cousin Dupree."

"We've been around a long time," Steely Dan's Donald Fagen said. "It's nice to get one of these."

Eminem — the target of 100 protesters outside the awards show — was honored for best solo rap performance, best rap album and best rap performance by a duo or group for his collaboration with his mentor and producer, Dr. Dre.

"I want to thank everybody who could look past the controversy and see the album for what it was — and for what it wasn't," he said.

Eminem's nomination for album of the year for "The Marshall Mathers LP" drew the most controversy. The album,

2001 Grammy winners

Complete list of winners at 43rd annual Grammy awards:

Album of the Year:

Country Album:

Record of the Year:

Song of the Year:

New Artist:

R&B Performance by a Duo or Group with Vocal:

Rap Album:

Rock Performance by a Duo or Group with Vocal:

Female Pop Vocal Performance:

Pop Vocal Album:

Song Written for a Motion Picture, Television or Other Visual Media:

"Two Against Nature," Steely Dan

"Breathe," Faith Hill

"Beautiful Day," U2

"Say My Name," Destiny's Child

"The Marshall Mathers LP," Eminem

"Beautiful Day," U2

"I Try," Macy Gray

"Two Against Nature," Steely Dan

"When She Loved Me," (Sarah McLachlan from "Toy Story 2"), songwriter Randy Newman

The controversy, and a diverse group of nominees, promised to drive up viewership for the annual awards show.

Madonna lost out on the best female pop vocal Grammy; the award went to Gray for "I Try." In fact, Madonna was shut out of the three categories she was nominated in which, along with boy band 'N Sync, who had last year's best-selling album with "No Strings Attached."

which has sold nearly 8 million copies, denigrates homosexuals, describes the murder of his wife and has a rape fantasy involving Eminem's mother.

Elton John came under intense criticism from gay activists for agreeing to perform with the 28-year-old Detroit rapper during the Grammy show.

Their duet, on Eminem's song "Stan," included three expletives that slipped past CBS censors.

COMMERCIAL

■ continued from page 1

she also took something away from the session.

"I learned that corporation is important," she said.

Besides break-out sessions, the students attended a K-State student entrepreneurial panel discussion and listened to keynote speaker Ben Leber, K-State football linebacker and senior in management.

"The panel was definitely the most informative for the students," said Sherry Subal, secretary of SIFE and senior in marketing. "They were able to ask questions to college students who own their own business."

Mandy Kramer, vice president of SIFE, said several of the panel members were inspired to start their own businesses from events like the symposium.

"We educate them and a lot of them walk away with ideas that they want to pursue," said Kramer, senior in marketing and human resource management. "Also a lot of them already have the ideas, but they don't know where to start. We give them a focus."

Also included in the symposium was a break-out session for teachers.

"We give them projects to take home, so they can build on what we taught the students here," said Donita Whitney-Bammerlin, SIFE adviser and professor of business, said. "It is a great opportunity for all involved."

TELEFUND

■ continued from page 1

excitement as well.

Michael Ramsay, assistant professor of history, said he enjoyed calling alumni and talking to them about K-State and their careers.

"I was pleased to see one of my students that graduated last year donate," Ramsay said. "It must mean that I didn't scare him off."

The Telefund program even attracted University of Kansas graduate Jay T. Ladenburger and his family. Ladenburger is in the printing business, and the foundation is one of his longtime customers, he said.

Ladenburger brought his young daughters, Paige and Rachel, to the Telefund to help out by supplying refreshments and snacks to the callers.

"We've been bringing them here for several years," Ladenburger said. "I am really impressed with K-State and this program."

Paige Ladenburger said she planned to come to K-State when she graduated from high school.

Peter Nicholls, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said the night was quieter than the past three nights because they were in the process of calling back numbers that could not be reached earlier in the week, and they were running low on numbers to call.

Still, the night went extremely well, Telefund director Gordon Dowell said.

"This is the fourth consecutive night we have had a full house," Dowell said. "That is a record. With 86 phones and callers doing the same sort of thing, it's phenomenal."

FILE PHOTO BY KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

Former K-Stater Nathan Leeper competes in the men's high jump at the Kansas relays last year. Leeper will be a guest on "The Late Show with David Letterman" tonight.

WEEKEND
DRINK
SPECIALS

CHECK OUT THESE WEEKEND SPECIALS OFFERED BY MANHATTAN AREA
BARS AND RESTAURANTS.

TONIGHT
LAST CHANCE
brings you...
Ruskabank
and Ophil
starting at 10pm

Bacardi G $2.00 R
Bicardi Drinks A *Bicardi Girls S
will be there!

Steak $5.95
8oz Ribeye from 5pm-8pm

N I T E

DAVE MATTHEWS
DAVE MATTHEWS
Monday Night
Feb. 26th 8:00 p.m.
Showing clips of Live Concerts & New Album!
Release Party
Prizes & Giveaways from
Streetside Records,
Audio Junction, & Budweiser
1129 Laramie 537-4045

cock BULL NEIGHBORHOOD
Tavern
-SUNDAY-
$1 domestic bottles
-WEDNESDAY-
75¢ draws $1⁰⁰ Big Beer
$3⁰⁰ pitchers
-THURSDAY-
$1⁷⁵ wells $2 calls
$2⁰⁰ Premiums
(785) 776-6699
2413 Stag Hill Road
Manhattan, KS 66502

BUY 1 STEAK
GET 1 FREE
SAFARI JACK'S
WATERING HOLE
$1.50 Coors
Light Bottles and
Big Beers
FEMALE MUD WRESTLING
TONIGHT
at 10p.m.
710 N. Manhattan

RC McGraws
Karaoke Nite
Thursday Specials!
$6.49
Large Homemade
Pizzas with Unlimited Toppings
$1.99
Island Oasis Margarita
& Hurricanes
2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, KS
776-9588

The Tavern
Tuesday & Thursday
Specials
ALL DOMESTIC BEERS
75¢ Draws
$4.00 Pitchers
$2.25 BIG BEERS
6625 Dyer Rd. 587-9224

Tight Fittin' Jeans 2001
Finals Tonight!!
Girls & Guys Contest
CASH & PRIZES!
$3 Jack Daniels
$1.75 Coors & Coors LIGHT BOTTLES
LONGHORNS
Come warm up at the hottest contest in town.
Tuesday, Feb. 27th
Mardi Gras Party
Open at 9 pm
sponsored by
Coors Light
Sun Essentials
U.S. TOBACCO CO.
1115 Moro • Aggieville

BOBBY T'S
OPEN MIC NIGHT
Starting at 9 p.m.
w/ Jeremy Hollembeak of
Sharky's Little Groove Box
$1.00 Draws & Wells
$2.99 Burgers (4:30 - 8 p.m.)

SCOREBOARD WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY NIGHT SCOREBOARD
$1 NIGHT
Seagrams, All domestic bottles
Calls - Captain, Quervo, etc.
Fries, Burgers, Tots All for a buck!
$1.50 Micro & Import Bottles -
Corona, Heineken, Newcastle, etc.
$2.00 Premiums -
Crown, Sapphire, Absolut
$2.50 Pitchers
1119 Moro • 776-7214 • Open at 5:00 p.m.

e
elements of taste
Thirsty Thursday
Long Island Ice Tea $
Hurricane Pitchers $10.00
Domestic Drafts $7.50
Domestic Pitchers $5.25
Sippin' Saturday
Domestic Bottles $2.25
Game Day Pitchers $3.25
Domestic Drafts $1.75
Glasses of Selected White wines $1.00
Fuego Fridays
Corona Bottle $4.00
Margaritas $2.25
Well Tequila Shots $1.00
Live Entertainment:
Thursday • Feb. 22nd • Techno Dancing
Friday • Feb. 23rd • Salsa & Merengue (Dancing)
Saturday • Feb. 24th • (Homecoming)
11 a.m.-2a.m. Tues-Sat • 1131 Moro • Aggieville • 776-9000

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 2001

9

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Available August, one-bedroom units, central air, heating, balcony, fully equipped kitchen, quiet, off-street parking, water and trash paid, low utility bills, 539-2702.

STUDIO APARTMENTS
NEXT TO CAMPUS. 1219 Clifton, Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE AUGUST. Spacious one and two-bedrooms, 1100 block of Blue-mont, trash paid, off-street parking, no pets. 776-0663.

AVAILABLE NOW and June One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. No smoking, no pets. OFF-STREET PARKING. Call evenings 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW. One and two-bedroom apartments next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan, 1225 Clifton. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N. 10th St. $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets. 776-2102.

ONE-BEDROOM. ALL bills paid. Close to campus. 341-4496.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

'LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION.' Available August 1. 'MINI-VACATION.' Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer/ dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS CLOSE TO CAMPUS. Water/ trash paid. $515- $565/ month. 341-4496.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE For rent. 770-9214 or 587-9224.

TWO-BEDROOM MAIN floor duplexes, two-bedroom basement apartment, huge one-bedroom basement apartment. All really close to KSU campus. Off-street parking. Some with washer/ dryer hookups. No pets. June 1. Call 776-4827 or 537-7852 for appointment.

Before Time Runs Out advertise your sublease in the classifieds. Let's Rent special section

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE ADVERTISING

115
Rooms Available

ROOMS FOR RENT in nice two story house one block from campus. One-seventh utilities. Call Cynthia, 537-7381.

120
For Rent-
Houses

A FOUR-BEDROOM house close to campus, two bath, central air, laundry, 770-7230, June 1.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE, a JUNE lease, washer/ dryer hook-ups, four blocks to campus. AUGUST lease, washer/ dryer, garage, fireplace, hardwood floors, new carpet. Two blocks to campus. No pets. 313-4812.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

SPECTACULAR MOBILE HOME! Three-bedroom, one bath, huge yard behind park, new carpet, tile and paint, washer/ dryer. All appliances stay. Central air, two sheds, lighted driveway $5500. Available May 1. 539-5534 or (785)845-8455.

145
Roommate Wanted

ROOMMATE WANTED for fall 2001. Should be semi-clean, fun, doesn't mind pets. Please call Rebecca at 537-5141.

145
Roommate Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bath, room. ROOMIE Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

FEMALE ROOMMATES WANTED! Price reduced - $275! Five minutes from campus. Call (785)770-8410 or (316) 585-2529 for details.

MALES WANTED for three-bedroom apartment. Starting June or August 2001. Across the street from campus. $230/ month. Dominic, 539-8221.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASES needed. Two bedrooms in a four-bedroom apartment at University Commons. Individual leases, $283/ month. Includes cable and trash. Available immediately. Call (785)323-0178, leave message.

SUBLEASER WANTED at University Commons, fully furnished, March- August or May- August; $283/ month, rent negotiable, Devon 776-7188 or (913)579-6109.

we kick ads.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE ADVERTISING

ROOMMATES NEEDED

4 BEDROOM
• 2 bath
• Fully furnished
• Modern
• Recreation facilities
• Fitness center
• Computer labs
• Washer/ Dryer
and many more amenities

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

539-0500
UNIVERSITY COMMONS
APARTMENTS
2215 COLLEGE AVE.

200 service directory

235
Child Care

255
Other Services

ELLERY, ENGINEERING senior, does affordable maintenance, carpentry, and appliance repair. Also, builds budget computers fitting your needs. Eight years experience. 539-0232.

TAX PREPARATION. Federal and Kansas. KSU students. $25. Credit Counselors. chris@tax-relief-system.com. 587-8967.

BURGER KING is growing and striving to be #1. To do that we need #1 people. We now have all shifts available. If you are a team player, have a strong work ethic, positive attitude and previous experience, here's what we offer: paid breaks, half price meals, team atmosphere, uniform, flexible schedule, tuition reimbursement, crew incentive programs. Starting wage is up to $6.25 per hour. Please apply in person at 100 K-State Student Union, Manhattan.

CHILD CARE needed. Caring, reliable person needed for toddler care in Christian home near Warnego. Call (785)456-7899 evenings.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE student to help with remodeling. Call 539-5778.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434. cruisejobs.com

Paid Summer Adventure Training for K-State Students! Are you interested in rappelling, orienteering and learning how to lead? We have a limited number of slots available for an all-expense paid summer camp that will build confidence, teach you about the military and even pay you to attend ($750). This camp lasts 35 days and is conducted at Fort Knox, Kentucky by Army ROTC. The catch? There is none - all you have to do is take a physical and be able to graduate from KSU in two years. You'll get an introduction to the Army and ROTC and even have a chance to compete for scholarships worth almost $16,000 (pays for two academic years at KSU). Please call 785-532-5173 for more information on this unique program. This is one opportunity you won't want to miss!

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+ Room+ Board+ Travel. 1-800-762-2820

FRATERNITIES • SORORITIES • Clubs • Student Groups. Earn $1000- $2000 this semester with the easy CampusFundraiser.com three hour fundraising event. No sales required. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so call today! Contact CampusFundraiser.com at (888)923-3238 or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

HORTICULTURAL SERVICES Inc. is seeking full-time and part-time sales clerks at our retail Garden Center. Sales and business experience preferred, plant knowledge helpful. Above average wages and benefits. Apply in person at 11524 Landscape Ln., St. George, KS 66535. (785) 494-2418 or (785)776-0397.

KSU STUDENT help needed for sorting and packing tree seedlings. Start immediately. 8-12:00 a.m. Monday-Friday, four hour block required. $5.15 per hour. Apply at Kansas Forest Services, 2610 Clifton Rd.

MARKETVISION, INC. (www.marketvisiongroup.com) an innovative college marketing firm is looking for energetic, entrepreneurial campus representatives for our college program. Position involves signing up classmates and friends for free student credit cards. You will earn up to $20/ hour and gain valuable marketing experience. Call toll-free: 1-800-942-2348.

310
Help Wanted

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. TRIPP LAKE CAMP for Girls, Poland, Maine. Noted for picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June thru mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, baseball, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, golf, flag football, roller hockey, field hockey, swimming, sailing, water skiing, gymnastics, dance, horseback riding, archery, weight training, newspaper, photography, video, woodworking, ceramics/ pottery, crafts, fine arts, silver jewelry, copper enamel, nature study, radio/ electronics, theater, costume, piano, accordion, backpacking, kayaking, ropes course, secretarial, nanny. Call Takajo at 800-250-8252 or Tripp Lake at 800-997-4347. Submit application on-line at www.takajo.com or www.tripplakecamp.com

310
Help Wanted

310
Help Wanted

PHARMACIST TECH clerk in Warnego pharmacy. Experience preferred. Send in to P.O. Box 227, Warnego, KS 66547 or cking66547@yahoo.com

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)844-8085 or apply www.campcedar.com

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software hardware PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A+ Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6464, or email to jdean@co.riley.ks.us. Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

320
Volunteers Needed

"HEART FOR CHRIST?" National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com.

330
Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

DO YOU make $100K/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2828 Member NYSE.

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

25 INCH color television for sale. $125. 537-8970. Ask for Matt.

BOOK: Chinese Anthology of Literary Essays (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

415
Furniture to Buy/Sell

KITCHEN, ALSO formal dining table, six chairs, desks, microwave, bicycle, large size bed, two storage drums, coffee/ end tables. 537-4512.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160. www.ksulaptops.com

450
Pets and Supplies

ADORABLE SILKY terrier puppies for sale. Call 539-0259.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

WANTED! OUTSTANDING Leaders of Youth: The 4-H Camps in Nebraska, located at the Nebraska National Forest-Halsey, Schramm State Park-Gretna, and Harlan County Reservoir-Alma, are accepting applications for summer program staff. Spend mid-May to mid-August leading youth in outdoor programs. You will be trained to teach nature, ropes/ confidence course, canoeing, tubing, crafts, overnight camping, and many more programs. You do not need to be in 4-H to apply. Application deadline: March 1, 2001. For information call: (402)472-6717 or email to: BLOKOVIC1@UNL.EDU

310
Help Wanted

WANTED LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanekell@ruraltel.net

1997 DODGE Dakota Club Cab SLT 4x4, V-8, loaded, must sell. (785)537-6016 or (785)485-2273.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space. EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

600 travel/ trips

630
Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummertrips.com

SPRING BREAK 2001 South Padre Island www.pirentals.com/spring-break 1-800-292-7520

SWIM SUITS! Over 50 bikinis to choose from. Patricia's Undercover Lingerie, 1224 Moro in Aggieville.

630
Spring Break

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLESALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica, and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

25 INCH color television for sale. $125. 537-8970. Ask for Matt.

BOOK: Chinese Anthology of Literary Essays (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

415
Furniture to Buy/Sell

KITCHEN, ALSO formal dining table, six chairs, desks, microwave, bicycle, large size bed, two storage drums, coffee/ end tables. 537-4512.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160. www.ksulaptops.com

450
Pets and Supplies

ADORABLE SILKY terrier puppies for sale. Call 539-0259.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1997 DODGE Dakota Club Cab SLT 4x4, V-8, loaded, must sell. (785)537-6016 or (785)485-2273.

1997 PURPLE Ford Escort LX Sport. Four-door, power windows, locks, tilt, cruise, alarm system, factory tape player with six-CD changer, alloy wheels, approximately 38,000 miles, large trunk space. EXCELLENT mileage, excellent condition, one K-STATE fan owner! Asking $7750. (913)962-7515.

600 travel/ trips

630
Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Best prices guaranteed! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida. Free drink parties and so much more! Group rates still available! (800)234-7007, endlesssummertrips.com

SPRING BREAK 2001 South Padre Island www.pirentals.com/spring-break 1-800-292-7520

SWIM SUITS! Over 50 bikinis to choose from. Patricia's Undercover Lingerie, 1224 Moro in Aggieville.

630
Spring Break

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLESALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com

SPRING BREAK! Last minute deals! Cancun, Bahamas, Florida, Jamaica, and Mazatlan. Join MTV and Baywatch for Spring Break! Call for a free brochure and ask how you can organize a small group and Eat, Drink, Travel Free and Earn Cash! Call 1-(888)777-4642 or check us out at www.sunbreaks.com

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

25 INCH color television for sale. $125. 537-8970. Ask for Matt.

BOOK: Chinese Anthology of Literary Essays (Translated to English) $1. Please send check or money order $1 (plus $1 shipping and handling) to L.C. Wang, 6232 Blue Jay Lane, #24, Manhattan, KS 66502.

415
Furniture to Buy/Sell

KITCHEN, ALSO formal dining table, six chairs, desks, microwave, bicycle, large size bed, two storage drums, coffee/ end tables. 537-4512.

435
Computers

LAPTOPS- PRE-OWNED excellent condition, great prices. NorthStar solutions: 1800 Clifton Rd. #160. www.ksulaptops.com

450
Pets and Supplies

ADORABLE SILKY terrier puppies for sale. Call 539-0259.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

we kick ads.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

'LEARN TO FLY' K-State Flying Club has five airplanes, lowest rates. For information, call (785)456-2795, www.ksu.edu/kdc

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

LOST: KEYS on Saturday. Reward offered. Name on keys with eight keys plus navy dog tags. Call (785)564-0716 or drop by 1130 Thurston.

030
Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

100 housing/ real estate

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furn

TENNIS

■ continued from page 6

One of the biggest qualifiers for the tournament is a team's record against ranked teams.

Assistant Coach Dinah Watson said the winning streak is giving the team a new confidence.

"These girls are determined to win," she said.

To win against No. 11 Notre Dame, though, K-State cannot play the same as it did against a weaker Wichita State team. Because of that difference in skill level, the Cats prepare appropriately.

"We have a different strategy for each match," Chuda said.

This week's strategy will be focusing on doubles play, something in which the team has shown they can compete.

"BYU is a very solid team," Watson said.

"We are going to have to go out fighting, work hard and do well."

One advantage the team will have this week is the feeling of home. For the first time this season, the team will get to play on their home courts in Ahearn Field House. The team has spent only one other weekend at home this year but could not play in Ahearn due to scheduling conflicts.

"We are playing our two toughest competitors this week," Watson said. "Playing them on home surface gives the team that extra confidence."

Action begins at 3 p.m. today at Ahearn where the team begins play with Brigham Young.

Play will continue at 2:30 p.m. Friday against Notre Dame. The players definitely are glad to see their hard work paying off.

"We have been working so hard," Castillejos said. "It is good, though, because it makes us try even harder in competition."

Watson said she knows this week's play is going to be against tough competition, but she is confident her team will do its best.

"There is no doubt that these girls will rise to the occasion," she said.

LOSS

■ continued from page 6

know what it was," he said.

Reid, who exploded for 30 points against Iowa State in Ames earlier this season, shot 1-for-11 from the floor Wednesday.

However, in that type of situation, Reid said, a player still has to keep taking shots.

"You've just got to keep playing and keep playing. If it doesn't work out like that, then it just must be that kind of night for nothing to go in," he said.

Nevertheless, Wooldridge said he knows his team can't will the ball into the basket. They have to make shots, and against the No. 6 team in the nation, missing the high-percentage opportunities became critical, he said.

"When you play against a team like that, you really have to cash in on your easier attempts because they're good enough to guard you otherwise," Wooldridge said. "And if you're not making those easier shots, then you could foresee some real problems in some other facets of offensive play."

But Iowa State wasn't cooperative on the defensive end, either.

"They played like they were trying to win the championship," Wooldridge said of the Cyclones. "They had a lot on the line as they came in here and played tonight. They did a great job defensively."

TARGET

■ continued from page 6

make steals for them."

So, even though K-State played hard, effort wasn't enough to defeat the Big 12's top team, head coach Jim Wooldridge said.

"I don't have a problem with our effort. Our effort was great. We just played a much better team tonight," he said. "I think you have to give credit where credit is due."

To Iowa State's credit, then, the Cyclones forced the Cats into 19-percent shooting in the first half and took a 37-23 lead into intermission. That double-digit lead didn't tell the half's entire story, though. Six minutes into the game, K-State trailed by just one point and had frustrated the potent Cyclone offense.

Then, at the 13:52 mark, Reynolds was fouled in the paint by Iowa State's Richard Evans. The call greatly upset Eustachy, who vented his anger on the officials and eventually earned a technical foul. Even though guard Phineas Atchison made both free throws to take an 11-9 lead, Iowa State would go on a 21-7 run to blow the game wide open.

It was not coincidence, however, that the run came immediately after the technical foul. Eustachy's behavior actually was calculated, he said.

"There's reasons," Eustachy said. "I wanted to stand our ground quick on the road, that we expect to get this game officiated properly. Contrary to what people think, I feel very comfortable in what I'm doing on the sidelines."

Reynolds couldn't argue that the coach's move worked, but a good team like Iowa State also had to expect to eventually make a run.

"Of course, their guys knew they were going to bounce back," Reynolds said.

However, despite facing a 14 deficit, K-State's players still believed they could close the gap.

"I think our team at halftime was still in the game mentally," Wooldridge said.

"I think they still had the spirit to come back and play in the second half, and I felt like they played on that end the second half."

True to their word, the Cats mounted a comeback in the game's final five minutes, decreasing Iowa State's lead from 17 points to 10 with 31.9 seconds remaining in the second half. While the run eventually would fizzle, the effort wasn't lost on the Cyclones.

"This was the best defensive game we've had over long periods of time, so they caught our best, and in spite of it, they made a little run at the end," Eustachy said. "I was never comfortable until the game was over."

"They have a lot of respect for

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Iowa State's Tyray Pearson tries to take a shot over Matt Siebrandt and Kelvin Howell on Wednesday in the Wildcats' 62-51 loss to the No. 6 Cyclones. K-State shot just 19 percent in the first half and was two for 10 from the free-throw line in the second half.

Jim Wooldridge and their players, and they're going to be tough, whether we catch them in the tournament or next year. I just like the way they're building this program. It was a nice, nice win for us."

GET IT ONLINE

Kansas State Collegian • (785) 532-6560 • fax(785) 532-7309

SPRING BREAK

Let the Collegian help you capitalize on Spring Break 2000

Spring Break is right around the corner! Before you know it, the students and faculty of KSU will likely leave Manhattan for a week.

Now is the prime time for students and faculty to be making plans, reservations, and purchases for their big Spring Break adventures.

More than 80 percent of our Collegian readers spent more than $100 on travel last year. Don't miss out on this opportunity.

The Collegian wants to give you two chances to make your specials and sales known to all Spring Break spenders.

Run in our February 28 publication and receive 20% OFF the same size ad on March 14. Deadlines are 4p.m. two days prior to publication

Contact your Collegian representative today.

ADVERTISING
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

118 Kedzie Hall, KSU, Manhattan, KS 66506

KANSAS STATE OPERA THEATRE PROUDLY PRESENTS...

THE TENDER LAND

A MODERN MASTERPIECE
FEATURING EXCITING LOCAL TALENT

The harrowing tale of a loving mother and the two dangerous drifters who try to steal her oldest daughter...

DON'T MISS THIS SWELL LIMITED ENGAGEMENT!

March 1 thru March 3
In Spacious at 8:00 p.m.
McCain Auditorium
Adults $11
Students/seniors $8
Call McCain 532-6428

PULITZER PRIZE WINNER DRAMA

EBONY THEATRE PRESENTS

A SOLDIER'S PLAY

BY CHARLES FULLER

March 8, 9, 10

Purple Masque Theatre 8 pm

Matinee Saturday, March 10, 1 pm

Tickets: $4 students $6 adults

McCain Box Office - noon to 5 pm weekdays

532-6428

(For mature audiences)

Therapeutic Massage
Stress Reduction
First Visit 50% Off
90 minutes $16.00
776-0022

Westloop Laundromat
FREE $1.25 Car Wash
with 3 loads of wash.
1129 Gardenway
Open 7 days

Pregnancy
Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Ramblers
STEAK HOUSE
& SALOON

Thursday
Night Specials

12 oz. Top Sirloin
w/baked potato, salad and dinner roll
all for $6.99
or

"The Couples Special"
2 complete dinners for only $12.99

8711 E. Hwy. 24

539-4989

Nutrition & Eating Disorders

A free presentation in the Wellness Resource Center
at the Rec Complex
February 27 at 7p.m.

Presented by Fitness Consultants
Megan Brzon & Kendra Glassman

12TH STREET PUB

STEAK NIGHT

SIRLOIN STRIP · SIDE SALAD

BAKED POTATO · TEXAS TOAST

ALL FOR $5.95

LIVE BAND
TONIGHT

FEATURING BREE

$2.00 ANYTHING · NO COVER

ALL CHINESE BUFFET

All you can eat
all day everyday

Open 7 Days a Business Hours

Sun.-Thurs. 11-

9:30

10% OFF

Each Ticket

expires 03/01/01
Offer valid with coupon
ALL CHINESE BUFFET

10% OFF

Each Ticket

expires 03/01/01
Offer valid with coupon
ALL CHINESE BUFFET

$1 off Buffet

2pm- 3:55pm

(Mon- Fri)

Adults Only

expires 03/01/01
Offer valid with coupon
ALL CHINESE BUFFET

$1 off Buffet

2pm- 3:55pm

(Mon- Fri)

Adults Only

expires 03/01/01
Offer valid with coupon
ALL CHINESE BUFFET

539-8299 2304 Stag Hill RD

Across from the Holidome

TODAY'S
WEATHER
HIGH 50 ■ LOW 45

FRIDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

DM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 23, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 105

Engineers relax with week of activities

■ page 3

Hale Library to receive funds

By LUCAS SHIVERS
Kansas State Collegian

Hale Library's Information Commons will receive nearly half of a million dollars from the Student Privilege Fund surplus to implement phase two of the project.

"Without the allotted funds from (Student Governing Association), I don't think we would even have the option to think of a second phase," Laurel Littrell, implementation task force chairwoman, said. "The financial support sent us a clear message of students' priorities."

InfoCommons brings together print and electronic information, high-capacity computing tools and professional assistance.

"InfoCommons is an integrated approach to resources offered by (Computing and Network Services) and the library," Brice Hobrock, dean of K-State Libraries, said. "It offers technology to meet students' educational needs with a multiple-use philosophy."

Individual desktop workstations are located on the first three floors in hexagonal carrels. Selected sites feature in-line profile stations with a flat 15-inch monitor to efficiently use limited desktop space. Additional InfoCommons incentives include portable notebook computers, printing stations, application software and infrastructure with wiring and networking, Hobrock said.

"Computer technicians and library assistance staff are available to help navigate resources," Hobrock said. "We also provide refereed, scholarly information, not opinion.

That is our business, front to back."

Planning for the project began in October 1999 with an internal library task force. Faculty Senate voiced a supportive interest in the project and participated on the Advisory Task Force to develop detailed proposals, Littrell said. The Implementation Task Force took charge in May 2000.

Phase one was completed over a semester intercession and was fully operational when classes began Jan. 12. The project included 99 total computers spread throughout the building, with four laptops available for checkout.

"It was one of the most trouble-free implementations we have ever had."

See INFOCOMMONS on PAGE 10

Surplus privilege fees to make Forum Hall more accessible

By SHANNON MARSHALL
Kansas State Collegian

Disabled students and visitors to the K-State Student Union can expect additional renovations to Forum Hall soon.

Forum Hall underwent improvements last year as part of the large-scale Union renovation and is the site of many university lectures and performances. The main entrance to the facility is near the south entrance of the Union.

Recently, students and out-of-town visitors to Forum Hall have raised concerns about the limited handicap-accessible entry to the facility.

Although the entryway satisfies legal codes, disabled persons must obtain assistance from Union employees to access a separate entrance that accommodates wheelchairs. This system has proven inconvenient and awkward for many of the affected individuals.

Gretchen Holden, director of disability support services, said when the problem first was brought

See RENOVATE on PAGE 10

EXCEPTIONAL EXPERIENCE

K-State cowboys, cowgirls show children thrills of rodeo

By HEATHER GRACE
Kansas State Collegian

Bonnie Stratton said events like the Exceptional Rodeo help her son's self-esteem improve greatly.

"He comes home with these trophies and certificates," Stratton said. "He's so proud of them and wants to show everyone."

The K-State rodeo doesn't start until tonight, but Weber Arena was filled Thursday night with hootin' and hollerin' cowboys and cowgirls competing in rodeo events of a different kind.

For the seventh year in a row, the K-State rodeo club sponsored the Exceptional Rodeo for children ages 5 to 12 with special physical and mental needs.

Decked out in their bandanas and cowboy hats, each child was paired with a rodeo team or club member who helped them experience what it's like to compete in a rodeo.

K-State rodeo queen Valerie Wurtz said it's a chance for kids to interact with the cowboys and cowgirls of the rodeo.

"When you see a kid's eyes light up as you move to another event, you know you've made their day," Wurtz said.

The children were able to rope calf dummies and ride a bucking bronco. A wooden platform, rocked by team members, was used to simulate a bull ride.

Children imitated steer wrestling by riding stick horses around a hay bale that had a felt steer costume and then jumped off to wrap their arms around the costumed steer's neck. Goats and horses also were on hand for the children to pet.

K-State rodeo coach Steve Frazier said it's not only a great experience for the kids, but also for the team and club members participating.

"It's fun and educational for our kids," Frazier said. "They take away lasting memories."

The Exceptional Rodeo was started by the Pro Rodeo Cowboy Association to do something special for children. Soon, it was a part of the Kaw Valley Rodeo, and now the

See CHILDREN on PAGE 10

PHOTOS BY JEANEL DRAKE/Collegian

Brent Tully, 10, is taught how to use a lasso by Jay Johnson, Rodeo Club president and senior in industrial engineering, Thursday night at the Exceptional Rodeo in Weber Arena. The rodeo was arranged for children with special physical and mental needs. RIGHT: Roxanne Kirkpatrick, 11, of Manhattan, was one of the many children who attended the Exceptional Rodeo.

Rodeo fans to travel to Manhattan this weekend for events

By ALYSON RALETZ
Kansas State Collegian

Get ready for the sounds of hooves beating against the dirt floor of Weber Arena this weekend.

K-State Rodeo performances start at 7:30 tonight at Weber and will continue through the weekend. Finals will be at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Besides the men's and women's competitions, there will be several other events during the three days. The Miss Rodeo K-State Coronation is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday.

Reba McEntire's sister, Susie Lucksinger, also will conduct a Fellowship of Christian Cowboys Church service at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Rodeo tickets will be available at the door. Adult tickets are $7 and kids 12 and under are $3.50.

Stacia Wood, vice president of the K-State Rodeo Club and sophomore in elementary education, said the event brings a sense of pride to the community to be able to put on such a great show. Wood won the women's all-around for her performances in last year's rodeo.

"I think it does a good job of promoting the western background," Wood said. "Rodeo is different from other sports because of the camaraderie between the athletes. There is still the sense of competition, but then someone will lend another person a horse if he or she needs it."

The rodeo identifies with the heritage and culture of this part of the country, Randy Raub, Rodeo Club faculty adviser, said.

The competition attracts about 600 students from other universities

See RODEO on PAGE 10

Chalking, posterizing have new guidelines

By KRISTEN DYMACEK
Kansas State Collegian

Campus will become an array of campaign posters and brightly colored sidewalk chalkings at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Student Body President Jake Worcester said candidates for next year's Student Governing Association can begin the poster hanging and sidewalk chalking portions of their campaigns Sunday afternoon.

But Worcester said there are some rules candidates need to follow.

"We do have regulations on posters and chalkings because there are concerns about campus being tidy and looking nice," he said. "If we didn't have regulations, we'd have problems with posters and chalkings starting to look bad."

He said the Election Committee has made some changes to the campaign rules this year.

"Our goal was not to overregulate and inhibit free speech," Worcester said. "We just want to keep things in control."

Chalkings are limited only to sidewalks where they will wear or wash off easily. Chalkings are not allowed on benches, planters, buildings or faces of stairs.

"Basically, if it's in a heavily-traveled area, it's fine," he said.

Campaign posters can only be hung on trees or lamp posts and are restricted to 18 inches by 24 inches in size. Worcester said posters must be secured at all four corners and must be tied, not stapled or taped.

Posters can also be hung in campus buildings with deans' approvals.

Senate operations chair Bill Harlan said there is a residence hall region where candidates cannot hang signs or chalk.

"There's a very literal definition of where they can't chalk or hang signs," Harlan said. "It's different for each hall. Like the Putnam, Van Zile and Boyd complex, candidates can't put anything in the area from Manhattan Avenue to the Quinlan area."

As far as in the residence halls, he said candidates must follow residence hall rules.

"Anyone running is free to hang fliers or signs on residents' doors with their permission," Harlan said. "Anywhere else is governed by the residence hall's rules."

Worcester said candidates not following campaign rules could face punishment.

"If there's a complaint, we'll investigate it," he said. "If it's a minor violation, like a sign not tied down properly, the election committee has a right to take it down."

If violations aren't taken care of, Worcester said several things could happen, including hearings and appeals.

Candidates shouldn't hesitate to contact the election committee with any questions, he said.

"If there's a question about hanging a sign or something, it's best not to do it until it's been checked on, just to be safe," Worcester said. "We just want to make sure students have every opportunity to run."

MORE RULES

For a complete list of rules and regulations visit www.ksu.edu/elections.

SEE IT

The rodeo begins at 7:30 p.m. tonight and runs through the weekend. Tickets will be available at the door. Adult tickets are $7 and kids 12 and under are $3.50.

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jib7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sb3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glascock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
sigm27@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
rwil10@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bs9639@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jib7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
nh6062@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nfo1480@ksu.edu
Michael Hall
mh5555@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jd6666@ksu.edu
Erin Scheweis
ers873@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
sm6520@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
chc7669@ksu.edu
Danny Elsworth
dae0091@ksu.edu
Alessa Duncan
aad0549@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
err1358@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor

Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
ON THE WEB
www.ksstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
(ISSN 201 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., 1000 E. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Political postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1000 E. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506-2102.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

Question of the week

Q: What are some of the sports clubs K-State offers, and how can I find out how to get involved with them?

A: K-State offers more than 25 sports clubs, such as men's and women's soccer, rugby, lacrosse, table tennis and softball. A list of sports clubs can be found at www.ksu.edu/Directories/orgs-sc.html. Phone numbers and Web pages are provided as well.

Leeper's appearance on talk show to air tonight

Former K-State high jump star Nathan Leeper's appearance on "The Late Show with David Letterman" will air at 10:30 tonight on CBS.

Before Leeper left for New York City on Wednesday, he had been told by his agent that the show had plans to block off a portion of 53rd Street outside the Ed Sullivan Theater and roll out an apron for him to jump on.

He said he was under the impression he would be shown throughout the show and then sit down and talk with Letterman.

Leeper, the No. 1 high jumper in the U.S., is an unpaid assistant with K-State track and field. While at K-State, Leeper won the 1998 NCAA high jump championship. He will compete in the U.S. championships next week in Atlanta.

— Nancy Hull

Former 1st lady denies involvement in pardons

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Awash in controversy, Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton said Thursday "I did not have any involvement in the pardons that were granted or not granted" by her husband just before he left office.

At a crowded news conference, the former first lady said she did not know her brother, Hugh Rodham, had lobbied on behalf of two men who sought relief from Bill Clinton in the waning days of his presidency. She added she was very disappointed to have learned Rodham had been paid $400,000 to do so.

She also said she had no prior knowledge that her campaign treasurer had helped prepare official papers for other pardon-seekers.

With the controversy swirling, Clinton turned aside questions about the pardon decisions her husband had made, telling reporters they should address those issues with him and his staff. She specifically declined to answer when asked whether he should agree to appear voluntarily before congressional committees looking into the pardons.

The former first lady said she had heard rumors last week about her brother's involvement, but didn't follow them up. She said she learned definitively about his role Monday night while she was at the movies. She said she was "heartbroken and shocked ... and extremely disappointed."

She said she had not spoken to her brother since — and doesn't want to.

— The Associated Press

Economic activity gauge rises slightly in January

NEW YORK — A key gauge of U.S. economic activity rose 0.8 percent in January, bouncing back after three consecutive monthly declines, but not enough to ease analysts' doubts about the economy.

The New York-based

Conference Board said its Index of Leading Economic Indicators rose to 109.4 last month.

"With the 0.8 percent rise in January, the overall signal remains one of moderation in the pace of economic activity, with no recession looming on the horizon," said Ken Goldstein, economist for the Conference Board.

Nevertheless, some analysts expressed concerns that the economy could be headed for a recession.

"We're dancing with recession. It's very close. The economy threatens to stall out completely and if the stock market continues to head down and take consumer confidence with it, the possibility of recession rises significantly," said economist Mark Zandi, of Economy.com in West Chester, Pa.

— The Associated Press

ONLINE TODAY

Students lost a teacher, adviser and mentor over winter break. Paul Jennings, a professor in the Department of Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources, died Christmas Day of cancer.

A team on K-State's debate squad won the junior varsity division, and two of K-State's teams placed third in the varsity division at the San Diego State University tournament Feb. 9-11.

Read the full stories exclusively at www.ksstatecollegian.com, then pop over to the online Collegian discussion forum at www.delphi.com/ksstatecollegian and enter the Oscar contest.

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

There was an error in Thursday's Collegian, KSU Foundation Telefund earnings for the College of Arts and Sciences was $259,466. The Collegian regrets the error.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's bulletin board service. Items can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

Homecoming Student Committee applications are due by 5 p.m. today at the KSU Alumni Association, 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 400.

The International Coordinating Council is sponsoring a poster contest for this year's International Week. The deadline for submitting the design is today. Entries are due at the International Student Center. The contest winner will receive a cash prize and T-shirt. Contact Maria Beebe at 532-6448 or Soledad Villarreal at 532-4743 for more information.

Applications for KSU Student Foundation are due in the Office of Student Activities and Services by 4 p.m. today.

The National Engineers Week grand finale party will be from 8 to 12 tonight at the Wareham Opera House.

KSU Aikido will meet at 7 tonight at Ahearn 301.

Christian Explorers will meet for Bible study at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in the ECM Campus Center, 1021 Denison Ave.

Lutheran Campus Ministry — ELCA will meet for worship at 7 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.

Anime and Manga Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in the Union Big 12 Room.

K-State Women's Rugby will have practice at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the northwest field of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

Golden Key Executive Board will meet at 6 p.m. Sunday in Union 205.

Union Program Council executive and committee chair applications are available in the UPC office on the third floor of the K-State Student Union. Applications are due Wednesday in the UPC office. Call 532-6571 for information.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County

Wednesday, Feb. 21

At 8:30 a.m., Laurel L. Bartlett, 2624 Tiana Terrace, was arrested for failure to appear.

At 10 a.m., Bradley K. Schultz, Junction City, was arrested for worthless checks.

At 4:30 p.m., Lauren V. Jackson, 514 Fremont St., was arrested for failure to appear, gambling and possession of a stimulant.

At 5:05 p.m., Jeremy J. Wilson, 109 S. Fifth St., was arrested for criminal trespassing.

At 5:30 p.m., Jesse J. Jackson, 514 Fremont St., was arrested for gambling, unlawful sale, possession of drug paraphernalia, selling opiates, unlawful possession and no required drug tax stamp.

At 7:55 p.m., Scott D. Habluetzel, Fort Riley, was arrested for probation violation.

At 9:10 p.m., Dana E. Robb, Ogden, was arrested for worthless checks and probation violation.

At 9:10 p.m., Troy Williams, 1019 Fremont St., was arrested for battery.

At 10 p.m., Myrtle L. Crawford, Junction City, was arrested for criminal trespassing and probation violation.

At 10:25 p.m., Christine M. Baker, Leavenworth, was arrested for battery and criminal trespassing.

At 11:06 p.m., Harlan L. Lofthus Jr., 2315 Tuttle Circle, was arrested for DUI.

Thursday, Feb. 22

At 1:14 a.m., James C. Pandis, Haymaker 310, was arrested for unlawful possession.

At 2:10 a.m., Michael D. Burton, 624 Blumont Ave., was arrested for failure to appear.

At 2:31 a.m., Katherine J. Cogliarek, 3326 Gary Ave., was arrested for DUI.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

American Legion
BINGO!
Sunday 2 p.m.
Tuesday 1:30 p.m.
Wednesday 7:30 p.m.
"Progressive Bingo"
Sundays & Wednesdays
- Win Big Bucks -
114 McCall Rd.

SWIMSUITS!
The best bikinis are at Patricia's
UNDERCOVER
Lingerie
1224 Moro Aggieville
Mon.-Thurs. 10-7 Fri.-Sat. 10-5

The Vitae and Job Search Workshop
Monday, February 26, 2001
12 - 1 PM
K-State Union 213
For details visit: www.ksu.edu/grad/gu/or Contact: Maria Granados, maria@ksu.edu
Jawwad Gureghi, jawwad@ksu.edu
Sponsored by:
Graduate Student Council

BUILDING MATERIALS AUCTION
Saturday, February 24, 10:00 a.m.
purple wave Auction Pavilion
224 Leavenworth, MANHATTAN, KS
Tools:
Upright Tool Boxes, Floor Jacks, Shop Vacs, Pressure Washers, 12 Volt Compressor, Multi Motors, Vices, orbital Sanders, Heat Gun, Industrial Security Light, Compound Miter Saws, 9/6 to 18 Volt Cordless Drills, 18 Volt Cordless Hammer Drill, 18 Volt Cordless Saw, Band Nails, Air Staplers, Air Nailers of all kinds, Paslode Cordless Air Nailer, Drill Bits, Brad Saws, Routers, Router/Shaper with table, Sliding Compound Miter Saws, Tool Boxes, Tuning Lights, Bench-top Dremel Sander, Bench-top Belt Sander, Bench Grinder and Stand, Tool Belts, Large Drill Press, Parts Organizers, Battery Chargers and Boosters, Pumps and Sump Pumps, 110 Arc Welder, Compressors, 12.5" Planer/very nice, Saws, Rechargeable Lanterns, Tool Bags, Tool Belts, Gas Chain Saws, Electric Chain Saws, Gas String Trimmers, Electric String Trimmers, Pressure Washers, Garden Tools, Lawn Sprinklers, Lawn Fountain Kits, Miscellaneous:
Garbage Disposals, Fans, Stereo, Garage Door Openers, Many Accessories and Keypads for Garage doors, Water Filtration Systems, Water Softeners, Antique Beveled Glass Mirrors, Classic Record Collections, Fleamarket Bunkies, Misc. Treasures.
TOO MUCH MORE TO MENTION
Auctioneer's Note: The Tools and Electronics in this auction are NAME BRAND factory returns in excellent condition. This sale also has a Huge Selection of Tools and Home Goods of all kinds. Come out and enjoy the evening at the auction with us at 224 Leavenworth in Manhattan.
Aaron Michels
Professional Auctioneer
Purple Wave Auction Company
224 Leavenworth, Manhattan, KS 66502 • (785) 532-5057

sleep-in sundays
...without guilt
Come to Westview Community Church for informal worship at 6pm 3001 Fort Riley Blvd.
www.westviewcommunity.com
537-7173
David Thompson, Pastor

STREETSIDE RECORDS
1231 MORO • 776-7373
Phunk Junkiez
Sex, Drugs and Rock N Roll
13" CD only
ATC
Planet Pop
13" CD 10" Cass. 12" CD only
Mr. C The Slide Man
Cha-Cha Slide
13" CD 10" Cass.
Flying Blind
Push
13" CD only
Where you can still listen to any CD in the store!
Sale ends 03/19/01

MIKE SHEPHERD/Collegian

Catherine Artzer, senior in industrial engineering, hula-hoops Thursday afternoon in the Engineering Complex Atrium while Josh Lingenfelter, senior in industrial engineering, looks on. Lingenfelter told Artzer to hula-hoop because "it'd take me a year to do it, and this is a timed event."

Engineer's Week offers education, fun for students from college, middle school

By BECKY FISCHER
Kansas State Collegian

The Engineering Complex Atrium was transformed into a virtual playground Thursday for engineering students. Teams of five students participated in relays for prizes to celebrate Engineer's Week.

The relay included hula-hooping, crab walking, dressing up and eating whipped cream pies without using hands to find gummy bears.

"You're doing the hula hoop," Josh Lingenfelter, senior in industrial engineering, told his partner. "It'd take me a year to do it, and this is a timed event."

Teams also had to build structures out of marshmallows and toothpicks.

"We are, after all, engineers," Beth Weber, senior in industrial engineering, said. "It's the mental part of the relay."

E-Week is celebrating its 50th year. Created by the National Society of Professional Engineers,

E-Week is a time when all engineers are recognized for the work. Engineers enjoy the chance to relax.

"Students get the chance to take a break from the pressures of school," Weber said. "It's fun. The only problem can be that engineers can be a little antisocial, and this is a social event."

Weber is the director of E-Week. The week traditionally has been celebrated with an egg drop and a grand finale party at the end of the week.

Weber said she decided to add more events to increase recognition of the week.

"People would hear about the egg drop, or come to the party at the end of the week, but they weren't aware that this is an entire week dedicated to engineers," Weber said.

Ping-pong tables were set up in the atrium Monday, so students passing through could challenge their friends to a match.

All proceeds from a date auction later that night went to Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Manhattan Inc. They also had a night of casino games and other fun activities.

"We still had the egg drop. It's fun to bring the middle school kids to the campus. They have a good time and learn about engineering," Weber said.

E-Week is recognized not only by schools and colleges, but also by industry. Kansas City had a luncheon Thursday to recognize the occasion.

K-State students were encouraged to attend to meet people from different companies.

The grand finale this year will be Friday night at the Wareham Opera House.

A disc jockey will perform, and beverages and food are free for engineers and their friends.

The College of Human Ecology has been invited as well.

"It's a lot of fun," Weber said. "The DJ idea is new this year, and I think he'll get people out there to dance."

Graduation resolution approved

By JESSICA PITTS
Kansas State Collegian

Student Senate approved a resolution Thursday supporting recommendations for improving Graduate School commencement.

Senate recommends splitting the Graduate School's spring commencement exercises to provide one ceremony for doctoral degree candidates and one ceremony for master's degree candidates.

"Commencement exercises are important milestones in students' lives," Travis Lenkner, Senate chair, said, "and exercises are held to allow the graduates' family and friends to celebrate with them. The growth in the school has caused overcrowding and not allowed this to happen."

Last spring, officials tried to combat the problem of overcrowding in McCain Auditorium by creating a ticket system limiting each degree candidate to four guests.

"We don't believe that is an adequate way to deal with the problem because it forces the graduate to choose who attends,"

Lenkner said. "Plus, many graduate students have started a family of their own, which causes even more hardship when they can only invite four."

Lenkner said the Graduate School wants to keep the commencement ceremonies in McCain because of the more distinguished atmosphere.

"They could easily move to Bramlage, but they want to keep this venue because of its more formal setting," he said. "Even though they are outgrowing McCain, Bramlage would swallow them up."

Graduate Sen. Karen Stucky said she supports the recommendation.

"I really think the Graduate School needs to make a change," Stucky said. "I hope the resolution convinces them to look at the current situation and recognize that tradition shouldn't be a factor when we have a growing number of students."

In other action, the Senate adopted a resolution commending the K-State Horse Judging Team on their year of competition.

"They do a great job of representing our university," Student Body President Jake Worcester said. "They have done an outstanding job and deserve our congratulations."

The Horse Judging team won the national championship at the National Western Stock Show, as well as the National Reining Horse Association Collegiate Judging Contest.

Several members placed individually in the national championship.

"Judging teams have created a dynasty for the campus," Worcester said, "and this is just another team to add to that list."

Senate also passed a bill allocating $500 to the K-State Roller Hockey Club for their entry fee to the Collegiate Roller Hockey League's national championship tournament.

"This sports club has done a really outstanding job this year," Business Sen. Ben Harder said. "When we allocated money at the beginning of the year, we had no idea they would make it this far in competition. We definitely think it is worth supporting them financially."

Candidate numbers released

By SHANNON MARSHALL
Kansas State Collegian

Student Governing Association elections this year will feature 179 candidates running for 165 Senate positions, as well as an average number of students running for the other offices.

A list of candidates running for office was released Wednesday, and Bill Harlan, Senate operations chair, said this year's numbers do not differ greatly from past years.

"The number of candidates this year is right about average," he said. "We're right about where we were last year. The numbers just differ from college to college."

He said the College of Architecture, Planning and Design usually struggles to acquire two candidates to run for two senator positions.

However, this year there are five candidates running for the two positions.

A number of positions are not filled, giving students the option to write-in their candidacy.

Lance Stafford, Senate vice chair, said write-in candidates will file differently this year.

"We have an electronic voting system this year for write-ins," he said. "Anyone who wants to run for a write-in position can do so on the Internet."

Stafford said filing electronically is the only way to file for a write-in position this year. Students can go to KATS and enter their student ID and password, connect to a link and then follow the instructions on the page.

Harlan said the new system should be more convenient than years past.

"We tried to make it as easy and unconfusing as possible," he said.

He said this year there also is a Web page for anyone who has questions concerning SGA elections.

By going to www.ksu.edu/elections, students can find out about election deadlines and dates, how to vote and view contact names.

Harlan said he advises students to listen to candidates' platforms and to pay attention to their plans for the university.

"During the next few weeks, candidates for all positions will be out speaking on campus. It's important that students listen to what candidates are saying on campus."

There also are several debates scheduled, especially for the presidential tickets.

"It's easy to go out and vote, but it's another thing to make an educated decision about the future of our campus," he said.

Little Apple Toyota /Honda

SALES • SERVICE • PARTS • RENTALS

539-7441 • 800-365-0017 • fax 776-3787
lathd520@aol.com
 Amherst and Sethchild

TAKE IT UP A NOTCH.

TAKE IT UP A NOTCH.
PUSH YOUR LIMITS.
VISIT OUR WEBSITE.

CHOOSE THE PATH LESS TRAVELLED.

At Schlumberger we thrive on new challenges. We build and operate the most advanced technology in the world and travel to the ends of the earth to implement it. We don't follow paths, we forge new ones for the rest to follow. Our employees are trained to master the technology of today, and are challenged to create the technology of tomorrow. Go ahead, choose the path less travelled, or better yet, create your own.

Kansas State Interviews

Information Meeting:
February 26, 2001
7:00 pm - 9:00 pm
Student Union, Room 207

Interviewing:
February 27, 2001

Schlumberger
An equal opportunity employer.

www.slb.com/careers

TITAN TRAILERS

KSU RODEO

February 23 - 24 -25, 2001

Weber Arena
Wheel Accessible
(KSU Campus)

FEBRUARY 23, 2001

Friday Night Performance 7:30 p.m.

FEBRUARY 24, 2001

KIDS DAY AT THE RODEO

Saturday Afternoon Performance - 1:00 p.m.

ATTENTION ALL KIDS 12 & UNDER

February 24, 1 p.m. performance, first 300 kids receive a Cowboy Hat FREE.
Sponsored by Farm Credit Services of Northeast Kansas.

Miss Rodeo K-State Coronation - 7:00 p.m.

Saturday Night Performance 7:30 p.m.

FEBRUARY 25, 2001

Fellowship of Christian Cowboys Church Service - 9:30 a.m.
Susie Luchsinger will be conducting Services

KSU RODEO FINALS - 1:00 p.m.

ADVANCED TICKETS: ADULT - $6.00 Kids 12 & under - $3.00

DOOR TICKETS: Adult - $7.00 Kids 12 & under - $3.50

TICKET OUTLETS

Manhattan - S Bar J Western Clothiers - Lee's Western Wear
Student Union Bookstore or Weber (Room 134) - Orscheln's
Wamego - Vanderbilt's Topeka - Roy Frey Western - Vanderbilt's Junction City - Roberts Western Outfitters

RODEO DANCE AT RC McGraw's

February 23 & 24 (FOLLOWING RODEO)

For more information, contact Steve Frazier 539-8585

Farm & Home
Manhattan • Junction City
Clay Center • Topeka

Sponsored by:

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 2001

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-0732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

Student Senate reallocation of funds beneficial

Kudos to Student Senate for finding better ways to put to use the excess privilege fee money than the failed student activities center.

So far, the money will benefit three alternatives that are indeed better than the activities center because more students will benefit from it.

Senate has decided to put all-weather turf in Memorial Stadium. This will allow more athletes to be able to practice at the stadium.

Another portion of the money will be used to help Hale Library. This will provide more students with more adequate technology and resources to research and write papers.

Forum Hall also is going to become more handicapped accessible, which is something that has needed to be done for a considerable amount of time. This will help save problems, and eventually money, in the future.

The activities center would have benefited some students. Yet, since that didn't pass, Senate has done the right thing by bouncing back and putting funding to an excellent use.

► OUR VIEW
is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari
Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
News Editor

Erin Schneweis
Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll
Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crable
Copy Chief

Sara Martin
Design Editor

Jamie Barrett
Online News Editor

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

Prerequisite not required for admissions to Kansas public universities: critical thinking.

Do you really need to exercise that bad that you have to run outside in shorts and a T-shirt when it is 30 degrees? Give me a break.

I'm watching the Grammys, and I am just wondering if I am the only one who thinks Christina Aguilera is a skank.

This is a message from the guy who yells at the tennis coach about the free beer at the game. We are serious. If you serve it, they will come.

And the album of the year award goes to Steely Dan. Who is Steely Dan?

Why has there not been anything in the Collegian about the student fee surplus of $2.7 million dollars?

It's not wrong to jump start your boyfriend. Just be careful how you hook up the wires.

I was just wondering, can any of the Opinion writers think about anything besides porn lately?

Can somebody please tell me again why I am supposed to feel sorry for a guy who died making left turns at over 100 miles per hour?

I would just like to thank Alliance Property Management for turning my heat down and then putting a plastic lock box over my thermostat. They are the coolest.

A rich, bad boy race car driver cheats death and loses and we all mourn. Meanwhile, some moron calls in and tries to compare AIDS and violence in distant countries to the death of a race car driver, and we hardly notice. Welcome to the Campus Fourum.

Question for Tuesday: The Kansas Legislature is trying to make it mandatory to register kegs. Should it be required?

OPINION

With a little help from my friends

Sometimes life presents more challenges than we can handle without a little support

There are these moments in life when you realize you need people — you need help.

For me, I never will forget the first time I was confronted with this realization. I was sitting in my room in Moore Hall and my compact disc player broke.

If I had been at home in Kansas City, I would have called downstairs to my dad. He would have figured out the problem and fixed it for me. Instead, I found myself staring dumbfounded at the stereo, scratching my head. I either had to do it myself, which is the biggest joke in the world, or find someone else to do it.

At that point, I broke into a cold sweat. This semester I am a teaching assistant in a cultural anthropology class. In anthropology, we study culture and how culture shapes us into who and what we are as human beings. One of the concepts studied is the different ways children are raised throughout the world in vastly different ways of life. Typically, this anthropological study focuses on dependence versus independence training.

Dependence training, as stated by the author of our introduction book, says this phenomenon can be encountered in non-western traditional cultures where we see the family structure is more commonly made up of extended families (grandparents, second cousins, etc.) all living together. This can be found from China to the mountain towns in Appalachian.

In traditional societies, children are raised with a strong sense of responsibility to the group. They are raised to be aware of the needs of the entire group and define themselves as part of the group. Each member has an integral role that is valued and defined. The overall goal in this family situation is to work for the betterment of the groups survival — together. They are ... well ... dependent.

In contrast, independence training typically is seen as a valuable facet in industrial societies. In this world, the nuclear family, not the extended family, is the norm. This kind of training promotes a child's independence and self-reliance. The child learns from an early age that, to survive in this culture, they must be out for themselves. Call it survival of the fittest. This is the way we are raised: go to school, grow up, move away from Mom and Dad and basically become independent. Just call me a product of our culture.

I am hopelessly and fiercely independent. Asking for help always has been something I have been bad at. I always feel like I am getting in the way of someone else's life; this other person has their jive, and my needs throw their rhythm off. The last thing I want to do is be in the way.

ADAM HAYES/Collegian

But let's face it, sometimes as we hike down that road called life, we trip on a tree root that is sticking up in the middle of the ground. We tumble face first into the cold, dusty ground. Sometimes, no matter how hard we work to be self-sufficient and independent, those greater forces cause us to be dependent.

This week, I was tripped by a lot of roots. My car battery died four times, and each time, a gentleman helped me by jumping my car. Sunday evening, my car decided she did not feel like being a part of the world anymore. She died. My best friend and her boyfriend spent half of their evening driving me around town, helping me solve my truck problem.

Last Wednesday, I accidentally was locked out of my house and the sweet boys who live below me spent a half-hour of their evening helping me break into my second story apartment. Let's just say it involved a ladder and some death-defying acrobatics.

And there always is my roommate, the shining goddess that she is. Not only does she have to live with me, which is more than I could ever wish on anyone, but she is always helping me out of trouble. Whether it is letting me borrow her printer or jeep or buying the milk for the third week in a row because she knows I am too busy to breathe, she always is helping me out.

It is rough asking for help. Sure you could say it is a sign of weakness, but I will be honest if it wasn't for all the help I have received, I would probably be sprawled on the dirt path muttering to myself and too afraid to stand. Sometimes help comes around, dusts you off and walks you home, they go that extra mile to make sure you are OK. I am learning that being dependent is OK and that sometimes I like to be walked home.

Dependence or independence training, I don't know. Sure, we might be raised to be independent, but there are those who seem to step past those cultural norms and offer their hands to help us up. To all of these people, I am indebted. It is becoming more and more evident to me that chivalry is not dead. It is just hiding in the cracks and crevices of life. There are real, true, knights and "knightesses" in shining armor. They are there and seem to come out of hiding just when you need them the most.

Michelle is a senior in anthropology. You can e-mail her at mlb1805@ksu.edu.

Insurance coverage should apply universally

Someone ought to tell the legislators in Topeka your brain is as much a part of your body as any other organ. They should make insurance coverage equal for both physical and mental illnesses.

This issue, referred to as mental health parity, is being debated in the Kansas Legislature this term.

Insurance companies don't seem to be willing to acknowledge the equality of brain and body.

Companies in 18 states, including Kansas, can offer different levels of service for mental health care and physical health care.

Some companies reimburse unequally for outpatient care, put unequal lifetime caps on the amount paid for mental health services or put limits on the amount of services provided. This could mean limits on outpatient therapy visits or the number of days in the hospital.

The comprehensive insurance offered to graduate teaching assistants like myself covers mental health services 100 percent for the first $100, 80 percent for the next $100 and 50 percent for everything thereafter. Treatment for all other illnesses is covered at a rate of 80 percent.

For the average patient, only about the first two visits to a therapist at a cost of about $90 an hour would be covered at a rate equivalent to the physical illnesses. Any continued treatment would cost about $45 per visit. That really can add up if a patient is seeing a therapist two to four times a month (Rates paid by students who use University Counseling Services are much lower).

You would hope if you had to be sick and in the hospital, your insurance company would pay for services until you recovered. That doesn't necessarily happen to patients with mental illness. Some insurance companies cap the total number of days of hospitalization per year. After maybe 30 days, your coverage would run out. You and your doctor would have to decide if you should continue treatment with you bearing the full cost. Some people are forced to go home.

The suffering of someone with a mental illness is no less real than the suffering of someone with a physical illness. Mental illness also can be just as deadly.

Science has shown us most major psychiatric illnesses like depression, manic depression, anxiety disorder and schizophrenia are the result of chemical imbalances in the brain. Why is a chemical imbalance in the brain not covered at the same rate as an imbalance elsewhere in the body, say, like diabetes?

The insurance companies argue the coverage would be too costly.

A 1998 study sponsored by a division of the National Institute of Mental Health estimated adding equal mental health coverage would add less than 1 percent to the cost of a health insurance policy.

The economic effect of this legislation reaches beyond the cost of individual insurance coverage.

Better mental health coverage could mean fewer lost workdays. Access to preventive health care could mean patients might spend fewer days in inpatient care, which is much more expensive than outpatient treatment. It could mean fewer people on disability and fewer people using social service programs.

A study reported by the NIMH showed outpatient visits increased by 50 percent under parity, but the number of inpatient nights fell by almost 70 percent.

Research reported by NIMH also concluded even limited reductions in co-insurance rates and deductibles can increase access for those in greatest need of mental health services.

Parity already has been extended to state employees and has the support of Insurance Commissioner Kathleen Sebelius.

Help end this blatant discrimination against the mentally ill. Call, write or e-mail your state representatives and senators.

Tell them you want equal protection for the most important organ in your body. Tell them to use their heads.

Cristina is a graduate student in journalism. You can e-mail her at cmj7448@ksu.edu.

READERS WRITE

Family expresses concerns over Chase floor collapse

Editor,

One cold January evening, 2001, I placed a call to my son to see if his semester at K-State had begun smoothly. His response to my inquiry was not, in the least, what I expected.

I was informed that the four men who occupied Chase Manhattan Apartments, 1430 Watson Place, Apt. 16, had gone home at the end of the day to find the apartment locks changed and no entry allowed without management approval. None of the occupants had received notification of this event.

I was told by my son that, on the previous Saturday, they had a party. The floor began to buckle noticeably during the party and everyone was told to leave immediately. Our conversation was shortened because his phone went dead. I later learned the phone battery charger was locked in the apartment along with all other belongings. The fellows finally were able to reach management to at least get clothes for the next day. Evidently, an empty apartment was offered to them in which to stay. A couch at a friend's was much more acceptable.

The complex manager did not return my calls. Once I reached her, I found her behavior defensive and she demonstrated what would be considered poor management skills. She immediately blamed the four young men for having a party which caused the floor to buckle. She said that when the inspection report was received, it would prove the party Saturday night was the one and only cause of the problem. But, you see, this apartment has a history. Complaints about the condition of the floors in the apartment were made as long ago as August 2000.

Now, the occupants at 1430 Watson, Apt. 2, had to split up. Three men moved to the only available Chase Manhattan apartment offered and are expected to pay higher rent. The fourth moved into a two-bedroom at Chase Manhattan with another colleague. He also is expected to pay higher rent. Finding another apartment to rent in Manhattan at this time proved difficult.

With this done, although frustrated, the fellows thought they could at least re-orient and begin to resume a better focus on their studies. With project deadlines interrupted and tests perhaps compromised, these young men hoped to forge ahead and meet the challenges of the day.

Except ... Subsequently two other situations have arisen.

1) At least one other apartment at Chase Manhattan has a floor buckling, of which the city codes office is well aware.

My recent contacts made at the city level have thus far been objective, cordial, professional and timely; and, over time, the four men from Chase Manhattan's 1430 Watson, Apt. 16 have worked diligently to try to communicate with the appropriate authorities, including Chase Manhattan, to discuss issues concerning them as they arise.

2) An application for rental of a house for next year has been refused because the Chase Manhattan manager has informed the future landlord that the floor buckling at Chase Manhattan's 1430 Watson, Apt. 16 was the irresponsible fault of the applicant, essentially presenting the new landlord with a character analysis that is completely out of line. The defamation of character is unacceptable.

In summary, from the beginning of the spring semester the young men from Chase Manhattan's 1430 Watson, Apt. 16 have been displaced due to foreseeable consequential damage by their landlord, have experienced turmoil in their daily lives, including a slow start to the spring curriculum, have experienced defamation of character and are expected to pay higher rent as a result of it.

It is my privilege to know each of these young men and to vouch for their integrity and intelligence. I am proud to know they are standing up for their rights and doing it with dignity. Seeing their efforts in these matters is a testament to their future professional endeavors and give me confidence to know these young men, in the face of adversity, are a good example of the youth of today and a vision for our future.

— Sara Schot Skidmore, Kan.

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
AggievilleJASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Photo —
4 Part of a maraschino
8 Pinnacle
12 Japanese carp
13 Throat clearer
14 Lumber
15 Cushy job
17 Roll-call response
18 Ointment source
19 Stretch side to side
20 Actress Woodward
22 Go with the eagles
24 Creditor's claim
25 "The Jungle" author
29 Foreman foe
30 Moves like molasses
31 Dallas sch
32 Evil
34 Snakes
35 Chunk of turf
36 Explosion

DOWN
3 Bit part
40 Simple arithmetic
41 Speedy horse
42 Deerskin shoe
46 International alliance
47 Beyond control
48 Muckraker
49 Author Haley
50 Big fish story
51 San Francisco's Hill
1 Approves
2 Luau
3 Political wing of the IRA
4 "— bleu!"
5 Dull impact sound
6 Always French title (Abbr.)
8 Reeling
9 Like most schools
10 Oliver Twist's request
11 Paradise
16 Have coming
19 WWII service-women
20 "Sad to say..."
33 Fridge's ancestor
34 — mater
36 Moolah
37 First miracle site
38 Russian sea
39 Defeat Kasparov
40 Garbage barge
42 Army rank (Abbr.)
43 Medical suff.
44 Altar affirmative
45 Apprehend

Solution time: 23 mins.

CRAM BUC EMIL
LIDO ASH RAKE
OPEN YEA TICED
DESOTO RICH
COUNTSHEEP
SICILIE GEM TIA
PLACEDAIR MESA
ETCOMPST PASTITY
COUNTTIOYER
ROAR AZALIEA
BRAIT ASK CORIN
RATE DUE LOIN
AWED ABS ETNA

Yesterday's answer: 2-23

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873; 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

e ONLINE

Check out "The Gangster" and "Monkey Boy" online at www.kstatecollegian.com.

Living on moon could be solution in future

By CAMILLE BOISSEAU
Kansas State Collegian

The moon is full of potential, and someday we will learn to live off the land and extract the resources needed to survive there, said Mark Craig, the deputy director of NASA's John C.

Mark Craig, deputy director of NASA Stennis Space Center, speaks about the future exploration of space Thursday night in Fiedler Auditorium. Craig is the principle architect of NASA strategic plan and the strategy for the human exploration and development of space.

MATT STAMEY/Collegian

Stennis Space Center in Mississippi. Craig spoke Thursday evening in Fiedler Auditorium and explained his involvement with space exploration. He focused on his prediction that someday not only humans, but also other species, will need to look for a home somewhere besides earth.

"The next step to staying in space is to learn and capture benefits of space," Craig said. "We will need to learn how to grow crops and how to use lunar soil as a radiation shield."

Craig said the United States, along with 16 other nations, is working on building an international space station.

"We use to be in competition with other countries, and now we are in cooperation with them," Craig said.

The key to growth on the moon is commercial activity focused around energy, Craig said.

"The moon will be the next Saudi Arabia, and someday Exxon or some other company will be going to the moon," Craig said.

He said not only is NASA exploring the possibility of having people live on the moon, but also on Mars.

"We are beginning to believe that there was life once on Mars. We have found a rock with evidence of fossil bacteria," Craig said.

The largest technological challenge of having life on Mars is humans, Craig said.

"The bottom line is that someday we will need to be somewhere else someday to survive, not only people and species," Craig said. "We believe that Mars is the place to do that."

K-State has a long-term relationship with NASA and has several experiments on campus, in coordination with NASA. A study of how plant activity is affected in space is one of these experiments, Craig said.

Jessica Depriest, senior in civil engineering, said she gained some new knowledge from Craig's speech.

"I didn't realize that we had made some of the technological advances that Craig spoke about," Depriest said.

Tom Roberts, assistant dean of the College of Engineering, said the speech demonstrated the focus on commitment of our world and human aspects that Craig's job requires.

"He creates a balance between technology and human race. You must have this balance," Roberts said.

Mandatory keg registration earning support statewide

By KATRINA HULL
The Associated Press

TOPEKA, — A proposal to make liquor stores keep track of beer keg buyers might have aged enough to advance out of committee this year.

For at least five years, law enforcement officials and others have advocated a keg registration proposal, arguing it would reduce underage beer parties by tracking buyers. But the measures never got out of committee.

This year, the presence of freshman Republican Sen. Jim Barnett on the Federal and State Affairs Committee could make the difference. Barnett, a physician from Emporia, advocated a similar bill last year as a private citizen.

Barnett brought an empty keg to a committee meeting Wednesday to illustrate how much beer a keg holds.

"Underage drinkers drink in two ways," Barnett said. "They drink until the beer is gone or until they are gone."

Chairwoman Nancy Harrington, R-Goddard, said the committee owes it to Barnett to consider the proposal. The committee probably will vote on the bill next week, she said.

The bill would require liquor stores to give all beer containers of more than 4 gallons an identification number and record purchasers' names and addresses. Law enforcement officers could use the information when they investigate drinking parties.

Supporters say that under current law, beer kegs become orphaned when police bust parties where underage drinkers are present. Usually, they say, no one identifies who bought the keg.

Advocates also contend the bill will discourage adults from purchasing kegs for underage drinkers.

The Kansas Association of Beverage Retailers opposes the measure, saying it would unfairly keep liquor stores accountable for underage drinking.

Amy Campbell, a lobbyist for the association, said she supports efforts to curb underage drinking, but that any law should give liquor retailers immunity.

Barnett said he disagreed. He said statistics from the 13 states that have keg registration laws show that keg sales dropped by about half, although sales of cans and bottles increased.

"Immunity is a way to kill this bill," Barnett said. "I think that's part of the process that's been going on for a long time."

The city of Emporia and six Kansas counties require keg registration. Barnett and Sen. Sandy Praeger, R-Lawrence, said that without a state law, people can cross a county line and buy an unregistered keg.

Some committee members said underage drinkers could find a way around the proposed law, by removing kegs' identification, for example.

"I'm not into this stuff, but it doesn't take a whole lot of imagination to think it up," Sen. Kay O'Connor, R-Olathe, said.

PLACE TO CALL Home

LIVE LARGE

- Spacious 1 & 2 Bedrooms
- Enormous Closets
- Washers/Dryers
- Vaulted Ceilings

GEORGETOWN

Claffin & Heywood. Models Open Daily

776-8080

www.tccproperties.net/georgetown

HAVE IT ALL

- Large Closets
- Fitness Center
- On-Site Laundry
- Park-Like Setting
- Responsive Maintenance

WESTCHESTER PARK

Candlewood Dr. • Models Open Daily

776-1118

www.tuproperties.net/westchester

Park Place Apartments

Small Pet Permitted
1-2-3 Bedrooms
539-2951

MONTH TO MONTH LEASING

- Discount on rent if 9-month term paid in advance
- Water and Trash paid
- Community activities
- Convenient location
- 1,2,3, BR units
- Competitive rent
- Pool

539-5791

reobud estates
113 By Pass K
Manhattan

NOW LEASING

1,2,3 and 4 Bedroom Apartments

WE OFFER-

- Private Balconies/Patios
- Microwaves, Refrigerators
- Garbage Disposals, Dishwasher
- Central heat/air, Ceiling Fans, Walk-in Closets
- Cable & Phone in every bedroom

YOU WILL ENJOY-

- 24-hour laundry & workout facilities
- Swimming pool with sundeck, basketball court
- 24-hour maintenance
- Discounted Cable w/HBO, water & trash paid
- Private clubhouse, fax & copier services
- Professional on-site management

Chase Manhattan
APARTMENTS

1409 Chase Place • 776-3663

Nutrition & Eating Disorders

A free presentation in the Wellness Resource Center
at the Rec Complex
February 27 at 7p.m.

Presented by Fitness Consultants
Megan Brzon & Kendra Glassman

2 PIZZAS

$8.99
MEDIUM
WITH 1 TOPPING
CARRYOUT PLUS TAX,
DELIVERY CHARGE
MAY APPLY

MAKE IT LARGE!
for an additional $4.00
CARRYOUT PLUS
TAX, DELIVERY
CHARGE MAY APPLY

Little Caesars Pizza

Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!

MANHATTAN (Westloop Center)

539-3333

12th St. Pub Friday & Saturday

$2

Captains
Margaritas

$3

Stoli Flavors

Earn $5000 - $8000
this Summer

Fry-Wagner Moving and Storage offers excellent wages, potential overtime, and long term job security for college students
looking for summer employment.

Call Doug Morgan at 800-394-0049 ext. 250

to reserve your spot on the summer crew.

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus

ONE BEDROOMS

1022-1026 Sunset

$345-385

1212 Thurston

$440-460

1950-1960 Hunting

$440-460

1837 College Heights

$385

TWO BEDROOMS

1825-1829 College Hts.

$600-700

Aggieville Penthouse

Apts.

$550-725

3 & 4 BEDROOMS

1841 College Heights

$750-900

Call Today for an Appointment

DIAMOND
REAL ESTATE

537-7701

1109 Hyllon Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502

Alena Jecminkova returns the ball in her doubles match against BYU Thursday in Ahearn Field House. Jecminkova lost in both her doubles and singles matches for the day.

OFF ON THE WRONG FOOT

Tennis team plagued by slow start, loses 5-4 to BYU

By MICHAEL NOLL
Kansas State Collegian

K-State's tennis team started its match against BYU slowly Thursday and never was able to regain the momentum, eventually losing 5-4.

In doubles play, the Cats' No. 1, Alena Jecminkova and Eva Novotna, fell behind Cougars' Jodi Richardson and Lu Oswald and never caught back up, losing 8-2.

"I don't know what was wrong. We just didn't start like we wanted to," Jecminkova said. "We just have to start playing from the very first one, and I think we didn't do that."

BYU eventually took another doubles point with a victory over No. 2 Petra Sedlmajerova and Kathy Chuda.

In singles play, Jecminkova's struggles would continue and eventually prove to be her demise. Jecminkova would take too long to adjust to the hard-hitting Richardson, who caused the Cats so much trouble in doubles play, dropping the first set 6-0.

"At first, I couldn't find a weapon against her, then I kind of figured it out. I had to play a little higher so it was harder for her to hit it, but it was hard," Jecminkova said. "That's not my game, to just play it high and run the baseline and just wait for her to make mistakes."

"She liked the ground strokes from the height level of her waist. That's what she liked. As soon as the ball was a little lower or a little higher, out of her range, she'd make a mistake. That's what I was trying to do the second set."

Even though Richardson's style didn't match up well with Jecminkova's, that still is no excuse for the junior's play, head coach Steve Bietau said.

"She had a poor doubles match and played poorly in the first set of her singles. I think that's a little bit of the story of the day," he said. "She played reasonably well in the second set of her singles and looked a little more at the level we expect from her."

At No. 2 singles, Sedlmajerova earned the Cats' first point by defeating Dominique Reynolds 6-4, 6-2. Despite winning in straight sets, though, the match was anything but easy for the sophomore. Reynolds played with little aggression, forcing Sedlmajerova to force her into mistakes rather than waiting for them to happen.

"She was returning the balls back, and I had to create all the time. She was just like returning them back high over the net, so I was creating the points by myself," Sedlmajerova said. "I've been sick for a week, and my physical condition is not really well, and the match was so long."

The day's deciding point came on Chuda's match against Lindsay Ferrell. Chuda narrowly lost the first set 7-5, but ran out of gas in the next set, dropping it 6-2. Her struggles, though, were not limited to her personally but were indicative of the entire team's performance.

"One of the things we have to do is sit down with the team and understand what's going through their heads," Bietau said. "I think we played below of what we're capable today and we have to identify why."

Eva Novotna returns a serve during her doubles match with partner Alena Jecminkova. The Cats lost the doubles match against BYU, 8-2.

PHOTOS BY KELLY
GLASSCOCK/
Collegian

"We first have to have an honest and open discussion of what happened tonight."

K-State will have little time to learn from Thursday's loss, as the Cats must face No. 6 Notre Dame at 2:30 p.m. today in Ahearn Field House. The Irish already have defeated No. 7 Pepperdine this year and feature the No. 2 player in the nation, Michelle Dasso. Despite that obvious talent, however, K-State has historically competed well with the Irish.

"You look at our history with Notre Dame, we've played them a couple of times in the past and played some competitive matches with them," Bietau said. "They were typically, if not always, the better team, but we've competed pretty well" against them in the past."

As a result, the Cats expect to play well, especially since they are the obvious underdog.

"We've got nothing to lose, going into a match against a really high-ranked team," Novotna said.

Bietau, however, said he disagreed. "You do, you've got a match to lose," he said. "I think the other thing is to be wary of the idea that you don't have anything to lose so you can just kind of swing from the heels and that everything's going to be OK. That may work for a while, but at some point you have to make choice between doing things that give you a chance to win and lose, and that's what we have to be better at."

K-State looks ahead to OSU matchup after loss to ISU

Cats prepare for rematch against CU Saturday

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

Momentum might have been the biggest problem facing the women's basketball team this season.

After beginning the year an impressive 10-1, the Cats ran into a tough competitor — the Big 12 conference — and it seemed like all was lost.

Heading into Tuesday's game with Texas A&M on an eight-game losing skid, head coach Deb Patterson said a concern of the coaching staff was whether the Cats remembered how to win.

"As we watched close game after close game slip away, we lost that edge down the stretch," she said.

Then, in a true show of character and endurance, K-State battled it out for 40 minutes against the Aggies, earning the team's second conference win, 60-55. Senior forward Marshela Webb said the Cats really needed that game.

"It's a confidence booster — it's something that we really needed to finish the season strong," said Webb, who had a career-high six rebounds. "We all came out and worked hard, and it was just good to know that what we did really paid off."

"We pulled things together, came together as a team"

See MOMENTUM on PAGE 7

By DEREK BOSS
Kansas State Collegian

K-State didn't practice Thursday after its 62-51 loss to No. 6 Iowa State on Wednesday night.

But it's not like head coach Jim Wooldridge had much choice in the matter.

According to NCAA regulations, a team is mandated a day off every seven days, and with the Wildcats playing last Sunday instead of the usual Saturday scheduling, Wooldridge had a decision to make in terms of preparation.

"We either had one day before Iowa State in between the Texas Tech game, or one day in between the Iowa State game and the Oklahoma State game, and we elected to take this day," Wooldridge said Thursday. "It wasn't because we needed a day — it was just because we had to."

However, taking the extra day of practice before the Cyclone contest didn't seem to pay off, as K-State's 19-percent, first-half shooting and 14:51 without a field goal allowed Iowa State to have a double-digit lead most of the way.

As a result, Thursday's day off might be what the Cats (9-15, 3-10) need, Wooldridge said, as they travel to Stillwater, Okla., Saturday for a 12:45 p.m. tip with Oklahoma State (16-7, 7-5).

"This time of year, regardless of what's going on with wins and losses, I think it's good to give kids time off," he said. "They're kids — they're young adults — and they need a day off."

Lack of effort against the Cyclones isn't the reason they need that rest, though, as Wooldridge said the Cats have been pretty consistent in that department this season.

"There were a lot of things we could have done better, certainly, but we're still competing," he said. "We're still trying to improve and trying to win. This bunch has been the most resilient crew I've ever been around."

"They'll come back and try again, and that's the way we anticipate finishing the year."

Nevertheless, Wooldridge said it's frustrating for his team to shoot the ball as poorly as they did against Iowa State, especially in the first 20 minutes. After all, the coaches and players are so confident in their offensive system, the ball movement and the unselfish play, they do end up getting good shots — they just don't seem to fall.

"We just didn't complete the mission," Wooldridge said. "Once we got the ball where we needed it for a good shot, we just didn't finish the play. It wasn't just one guy — every guy played a hand in it."

Forward Travis

Reynolds said he agreed, but the Cats still need to keep their heads up against OSU.

The Cowboys are led by junior guard Maurice Baker's 21 point-per-game average in conference play and are coming off an 82-76 win over Texas A&M Wednesday night.

"Just keep enough confidence in your system," he said. "I think we're going to bounce back on Friday and get ready to play Saturday."

Not that Wooldridge or the players have have considered abandoning their triple-post offense. The Cat coach said there's

See CONFIDENCE on PAGE 7

Baseball to begin Big 12 action

By DAN SMITH
Kansas State Collegian

K-State head baseball coach Mike Clark is not a gymnast.

Although the Wildcat skipper hinted that six wins in the opening two weeks might elicit a tumbling act on his part, few on the team probably believed him.

"I said at the beginning of the season that, with our schedule, if we could be 6-2 at this point, I'd be doing cartwheels," Clark said. "I'm not doing cartwheels."

After K-State dropped its final game at the Applebee's Baseball Fiesta to New Mexico on Sunday, Clark managed to escape that promise by one win. Still, Clark said he's content with the Cats' start to the 2001 campaign.

"I'm happy, but not satisfied," he said. "Five-three at this point is a solid start. Our road to Bricktown starts today, so we need to be focused and play our best ball from this point forward."

K-State begins its bid for an invitation to the Big 12 baseball tournament at Bricktown Ballpark in Oklahoma City this Friday. The Cats open conference play this weekend when they travel to Austin for a three-game series with the Texas Longhorns (6-7).

"We have a lot of momentum going into Texas," junior pitcher Luke Robertson said. "It will be good for our guys to go out and play Big 12 baseball. I think we'll compete well."

"From the way we've been playing, I'd say we've got a lot going for us coming into this series, and it will be a good way to start our season off if we can at least take two out of three from them."

Texas returns 11 letter winners from last year's College World Series squad, but perhaps the most exciting Longhorn on head coach Augie Garrido's team is junior pitcher Albert Montes.

After five appearances in relief, Montes made his first start of the year against No. 6 Stanford. The Texas junior went the distance against the Cardinal, allowing just one run on six hits, while striking out six.

Montes, the Big 12's pitcher of the week, leads the talented Horns pitching staff in victories (2), ERA (0.72), appearances (6), innings pitched (25.0), saves (1) and strikeouts (21), and retired the final 11 Stanford batters he faced Sunday to post his second win on the year.

"Their numbers are excellent. A team ERA under three with aluminum bats in this day and age is fantastic, so it's going to be a little different baseball than what we've had to play," Clark said. "Hopefully, our offense will continue to execute and put pressure on them. It looks like if you score six runs, you have a great shot to win the ball game."

K-State will counter Texas' stifling rotation with the Big 12's batting leader, Josh Cavender, who is hitting at a .455 clip going into this weekend's series. The senior DH also leads the team in slugging percentage (.697), on-base percentage (.638), hits (15), runs (12), RBI (12) and stolen bases (5).

"To me, that's what I expect out of myself," Cavender said. "I don't look at the stats to see how good they are. It's more like I say, 'What more can I do to help out this ball club?' I don't get caught up in the stats and all that. I try to work extra on the stuff that I need to improve on."

With both teams coming into this weekend hoping to make an early splash in the Big 12, Clark said controlling Texas' offensive output and a concentrated defensive focus could be the key.

"One run here and one run there is going to happen," he said. "What we have to stay away from is the three, four-run big innings. If you get that, with the pitching and defense that they have, you're in big trouble."

"Our pitchers have to throw strikes, we have to play good defense, we have to execute and be ready for all of those things."

Despite perceptions, ISU seems set to make run in NCAA Tournament

Cyclones aren't exactly a common natural disaster in Minneapolis, Minn., so don't be surprised if people are thrown off guard come late March and early April.

After all, with the Metrodome being the site of this year's NCAA Final Four, I'm willing to bet not too many Minnesotans are counting on the whirlwind of destruction Iowa State's bringing to town.

Although the Cyclones more than likely will receive a No. 1 or 2 ranking in this year's NCAA Tournament field, I doubt very many brackets will be filled out with "Iowa State" penciled in the center.

Except mine.

I don't care how seemingly difficult/easy/disastrous the Cyclones' road to the national title might be when the pairings surface, but ISU will be there. I'm sure of it.

Head coach Larry Eustachy's boys might be ranked sixth in the nation, but let's just say not too many people are ready to pick Iowa State over a team like, oh, let's say Duke. The tradition just simply isn't there — yet.

Even though numerous people might have the Cyclones picked to reach the Final Four, I doubt many believe the national title will be in their hands — for several reasons:

1) First off, they're in the Big 12 — not exactly known as a big basketball conference by any means (football, with the likes of K-State, Nebraska and Oklahoma, seem to take the cake). Sure, Kansas always is in the top 10 year-in and year-out, but we all know what happens in the postseason.

Just place your hands firmly around your neck and squeeze. Get the picture?

The Big 12 hasn't even had a team win the national title since the Hawks did 13 years ago, back in the good 'ol days of Danny Manning and "Downtown" Terry Brown.

2) Weak non-conference scheduling.

I have a feeling many college basketball analysts recognize the Cyclones' record, ranking and 10-game winning streak this year, but who outside the Big 12 have they played? Nobody.

Perhaps ISU's toughest non-conference foe was Iowa in early December, and the Cyclones fell to their intrastate rivals by 12 points, 80-68.

C'mon. No offense, but K-State beat Iowa.

3) No Marcus Fizer.

Now, you might be curious why I believe Iowa State, with a 23-3 record, including 11-2 in league play, might be somewhat of a darkhorse for a NCAA Tournament title? After all, they did advance to the Elite Eight last season, before losing to eventual-national champion Michigan State, 75-64.

The difference? The Cyclones are Fizerless.

Coupled with that weak non-conference schedule, Paul Shirley and Martin Rancik don't quite instill the same fear in opponents' eyes as Fizer used to (Fizer's biceps probably equal Shirley and Rancik's combined). So, many see the Cyclones as having the finesse to win against the best in the nation, but not the physical strength or power.

Boy, it's scary to think what ISU would be like now if Fizer hadn't left Ames a year early to turn pro, although the Chicago Bulls don't seem to mind.

Nevertheless, despite a few knocks on the Cyclones, I think the Jamal Tinsley-led bunch is well on its way to a NCAA title, especially after seeing them in person twice this season.

Even head coach Jim Wooldridge said Iowa State, as of right now, has the best shot of any Big 12 team in making a run in the tournament.

"I don't know that they have the best talent, but I think they're playing better than anybody," he said. "They're playing in every phase of the game, and that's why they're leading the league."

Plus, if it's any consolation, K-State can look back at this season and say they played the national champions pretty darn tough. The Cats lost by six in Ames, and then fell by only 11 Wednesday night despite a horrific 19 percent shooting performance in the first half.

I guess every little bit helps.

Derek is a sophomore in print and electronic journalism. You can e-mail him at dub8765@ksu.edu.

DEREK BOSS

MOMENTUM

■ continued from page 6

and got that win. And that's really good, especially with the Big 12 tournament coming up, because the season's not over. We've still got the whole end of the season left."

K-State came out on top against the Aggies, but almost lost the game due to 21 turnovers, including five in the final minutes of the first half, allowing A&M to pull within eight.

After solving the turnover problem by surrendering the ball just nine times against Nebraska last Saturday, Patterson said it was painful to see her team make the same mistakes that have turned into so many close losses already this season.

"You could feel us getting on our heels and getting a little panicky," she said. "You could feel our decision-making process starting to slip away, and so I was expressing with the highest emotion the necessity for digging in and playing with intelligence and confidence and maximizing possessions."

Patterson's team listened to her pleas down the stretch, and K-State was able to hold on for the five-point win.

Now, senior guard Kim Woodlee said, comes the time when K-State will have to run with its success.

"It gives us momentum going into the next game — that's for sure," she said. "It answers a lot of questions, like, 'Can we step up and put it away in the last three minutes?' We've had several games close the last six, five or four minutes and let them slip away."

Momentum and intensity will be important Saturday when the Cats (12-13, 2-12) travel to Boulder for a rematch with the No. 16/20 Colorado Buffaloes (19-6, 10-4).

After suffering a 67-62 loss to the Bulls on Jan. 6, Patterson said she hopes the Cats will be ready this time.

"We certainly need to defend that team at a very high level," she said. "They are very balanced — potent inside and out. They have as big and deep of a frontline as we'll see this season."

CONFIDENCE

■ continued from page 6

just more work to be done.

"This time of year, a lot of what we do is trying to concentrate on what our format is and try to enhance ourselves in our format; keep trying to be as specific as we can be in what we think we need to improve," Wooldridge said. "I don't think our team, right now, needs to digest 10 different things. We really try to focus in on something pretty specific and then hope that gets into the game."

On Wednesday night, that specific assignment for the Cats was to get more involved in post-up game, and, Wooldridge said, they did a much better job in that regard.

Make your voice

heard!

CampusFourum:
395-4444

Wondering if you might be pregnant?

We can help!

Stop by Birthright
for a pregnancy test
that is free, accurate,
reliable, and confidential.
No appointment needed.

Birthright
of Manhattan Inc.
206 S. 5th
(785) 539-2555

Pregnancy Testing Center

539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus
in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

DAVE MATTHEWS
DAVE MATTHEWS
MONDAY NIGHT
Feb. 26th 8:00 p.m.
CD Release Party
Prizes & Giveaways from
Streetside Records,
Audio Junction, & Budweiser
New CD on sale at midnight
1129 Laramie 537-4045

Advertise

In the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
118 KEDZIE • 532-6560

YOU'RE ENGAGED!

You have a ring and a date all that's missing is a timeless portrait from

Reflections
Photography

that will capture your love forever

Call 539-1550

before March 2 and save

50% off

of the session of your choice.

CAREER DAY 2001

College Center Conference Room

- Flight Safety International
- Allenbrand-Drews & Associates, Inc.
- Black & Veatch
- Kennedy and Coe, LLC
- Boeing
- School Specialty, Inc.
- KASA Industrial Controls
- Bartlett & Company
- Brungardt Honomichi & Company
- Duncan Aviation
- Aerospace Systems & Technologies
- GE Engine Services
- Mid-States Energy Works Solomon Corporation

- LSI Logic
- Western Resources
- Kansas Air National Guard
- Manpower Professional
- The Bradbury Company
- Garmin International
- Moridge Manufacturing
- Premier Pneumatics
- Raytheon Aircraft Company
- Cessna
- Tony's Pizza Service
- U.S. Army Recruiting Station

Tuesday
February 27
9am - 2:30pm

K-State - Salina

Sponsored by KSU - S Career Services, 826-2608

MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 11-1
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal
Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed., & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #3
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittany Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough Development
2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

Local theater to perform farce

By BETSY STYERAK
Kansas State Collegian

The confusion of a play within a play is what drives the mixed-up comedy of "Noises Off."

"Noises Off" opens Friday night at the Junction City Little Theatre and will run through March 3. With its wild and side-splitting comedy, this play is not one that should be missed, director Mary Crubel-Brown said.

Busy with taking care of the details of the play, she said this play is worth seeing.

"It is a terribly funny British farce," she said.

"Noises Off" won writer Michael Frayn a Tony for the British play and was made into a movie starring John Ritter and Carol Burnett. The play details the mishaps of a traveling theater company while preparing for a new play.

Many actors in this play take on double roles. Not only are they acting in "Noises Off," but they also are acting in "Nothing On," which is the play within.

The parts of the actors consist of the characters rehearsing and acting in the production of their new play, Maiya Ullmer, production manager, said.

"Characters have to learn double the lines and change characters," she said. "That makes it more challenging."

Throughout the play, the actors get themselves into disastrous situations which involve everything from a can of sardines to a well-placed cactus, Crubel-Brown said.

The result is a frantic farce in which everyone struggles to keep the play from falling apart, she said.

"The play is really different — it is a change for the Little Theatre," she said. "The audience is exposed to the squabbling backstage that involves lots of sardines and doors."

"Noises Off" uses the fact that the actors all are washed up to contribute to the insanity of "Nothing On," Suzy Dotson said.

More Information

"Noises Off" will show at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and March 2-3 and 2 p.m. Sunday at the Junction City Little Theatre. Reservations can be made by calling (785) 922-7374.

Dotson plays the role of Belinda, a theater veteran playing the socialite Flavia. Dotson said it is much more work than a normal play to become another character in the middle of a play.

"We have been rehearsing for about eight weeks," she said, "so I'm really excited about it."

Dotson performed in many productions in her younger years. She was in the cast of "Prelude to a Kiss," which was presented at Junction City Little Theatre last semester.

Now, she feels challenged with the double lines she has to learn, she said.

"There is a huge cast, and with the dual roles, the timing is critical."

Not only are the actors' roles more daring, but so are the scenes, Ullmer said.

"In Act II, the show is on the road, so the entire stage is turned around and the audience gets to see the action taking place backstage," she said.

Though the play is full of insane and bizarre settings and scenes, Crubel-Brown said the play is a feel-good comedy.

"It's well worth seeing and lots of fun," she said. "Live theater is so much more different than a movie. When people make mistakes in plays they have to deal with it."

Dotson said she agrees that it's a way to relax.

"People who come to this play need to understand this is a physical comedy. They need to sit back and enjoy," she said.

This will be the last play of the semester at the Junction City Little Theatre. The next performance will be a musical, Crubel-Brown said.

"This is the funny one," she said. "I wouldn't miss it."

Official describes airstrikes by U.S. on Iraq as mediocre

By ROBERT BURNS
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Results of last weekend's airstrikes on Iraqi air defense sites were mediocre at best, a senior Pentagon official said. He also said Thursday that far fewer than half the targeted radars were damaged. Early assessments indicate a new satellite-guided missile fired by Navy planes was mainly to blame.

"We have detectable damage on 38 to 40 percent of the radars, and we still have some (data) coming in," said the official, discussing the Pentagon's preliminary bomb damage assessment on condition of anonymity.

Most of the misses were by a margin of 100 to 150 feet, he said.

The Pentagon's public assessment is that the air strikes were effective, at least temporarily, because they disrupted Iraq's efforts to shoot down allied planes.

In northern Iraq on Thursday, Iraqi forces fired anti-aircraft artillery and surface-to-air missiles at American aircraft and targeted them with radar, Pentagon spokesman Rear Adm. Craig Quigley said.

Quigley said the U.S. planes returned fire and safely departed Iraqi airspace.

"We were doing our job. The Iraqis fired on us and we acted in self defense," said Army Maj. Ed Loomis, a spokesman at U.S. European Command, which commands U.S. air operations over northern Iraq.

Loomis said the Iraqi fire came from air defense sites north of the city of Mosul while allied planes were conducting routine enforcement of the northern no-fly zone north of the 36th Parallel.

In Baghdad, the official Iraqi News Agency quoted an unidentified Iraqi military spokesman saying, "American and British warplanes flew over the (northern) provinces of Duhok, Irbil and Mosul on Thursday. They were confronted by our anti-aircraft weaponry, which forced them to leave our skies and return to their bases in Turkey." It made no mention of the allied planes firing in retaliation.

U.S. and British air patrols over northern Iraq originate from Incirlik Air Base in Turkey.

Clafin Books and Copies
DEPENDABLE QUALITY
SERVICE:
FAX SERVICE
1814 Clafin Rd 776-3771

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS
776-5577
1800 Clafin Road

HUNAM
Restaurant and Monogolath BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888

Lunch Buffet
All you can eat!
$4.95

Friday Seafood Buffet
$7.95
Crabs legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, ect.

Dinner Buffet
All you can eat!
$6.95

$1.00
Off
Evening Buffet
Sat-Thurs.
Please present coupon

FREE DELIVERY
with $9 minimum order
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

BREAK IN THE BUTTE
Crested Butte, Colorado
SKI • BOARD • PARTY AT 9,375 FT.

$117 Per Person*
March 17th - 24th

- 4 NIGHTS LODGING
- AIRFARE
- 3 DAYS OF LIFT TICKETS
- GROUND TRANSFERS
- APRES SKI FUN
- SNOWJAM 2001
- LIVE ENTERTAINMENT IN TOWN
- U.S. TELEMAR CHAMPIONSHIPS

POWDER HALF PIPE TERRAIN PARK
EXTREME TERRAIN

Call: 800.600.5028
www.CrestedButteResort.com

* Price is per person per night based on a minimum of double occupancy and is subject to availability. Air based out of Chicago mid-week. Weekend rates and air out of other cities available, prices may vary. Tax and travel insurance not included in package price.

Manhattan Arts Center - Community Theatre presents

Any Wednesday
a comedy by Muriel Resnik directed by Jason Chanos
at the Manhattan Arts Center
1520 Poyntz

Call 537-4420, e-mail programs@ManhattanArts.org or stop by the Center or STREETSIDE in Aggieville for tickets.

Thurs, Fri, Sat 8 p.m., Sun 2 p.m.
$10 adults, $7 students, $4 children
Student walk-ins Thurs & Sun 15
Afternoon reception after opening night on February 23.

Feb 23-25, Mar 1-4, 2001

Manhattan Arts Center - Community Theatre, 1520 Poyntz
Smoke-free * wheelchair accessible * www.ManhattanArts.org

Criminology
February 28th
Career Fair
EVERYONE WELCOME!
Over 30 Federal, State and Local Employers
Kansas State University Student Union Ballroom
10am to 2pm

For more information, Call 785-532-4963
or Email nofzig@ksu.edu

KSU Meat Sale
WEDNESDAY & FRIDAY
3-6 p.m. & Noon-6 p.m.
Rm. 166 Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage,
ground pork, bacon

For information call 532-1279

Bob's DINER 1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT
OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK
is
EXPANDING

A new wing will soon be completed that will include a smoke free area and a new salad bar

MONDAY-FRIDAY
$1.99
BREAKFAST
ALL THE TIME

GALLERY
Glen Theodore
FOR HAIR

Come See Jessica

Get a haircut with Jessica and receive a free movie pass at Carmike Movie Cinema

Men's Haircuts $11
Women's Haircut $14
We offer haircuts and color, facials and massages

Limited Time Offer

"Crazy" Ted Varney would have loved this...

CRAZY TEXTBOOK SALE

Hundreds of selected new & used textbooks
Various fields of study
Check out these crazy low prices!
(Today thru March 11)

$1.00 Paperbacks
$20.00
$2.00 Hardbacks

ALL YOU CAN CARRY!

623 N. Manhattan Avenue, open 9am-9pm Mon-Sat, 11am-7pm Sun

Varney's Book Store
♦♦♦ in Aggieville ♦♦♦
www.varneys.com

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 2001

9

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

NEXT TO CAMPUS. Available August, two one-bedroom units, central air/ heating, balcony, fully equipped kitchen, quiet, off-street parking, washer/ trash paid, low utility bills, 539-2702.

STUDIO APARTMENTS NEXT TO CAMPUS. 1219 Clafin. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE AUGUST. Spacious one and two-bedroom units, 1100 block of Blue-mont, trash paid, off-street parking, no pets. 776-0683

AVAILABLE JUNE One, two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses. 1806 Laramie, 928 Leavenworth, 316 N. 11th. No smoking/ pets. 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW. One and two-bedroom apartments next to campus. 1320 N. Manhattan, 1225 Clafin. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available June 1st. Don't miss this one! Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St. $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets. 776-2102.

STUDIO APARTMENT $210/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities NEAR COLLEGE, 930 Fremont, 770-3190.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

LANDLORDS WITH COMPASSION. Available August 1st. "MINI-VACATION." Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include nights for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes. Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking. Available June, August, now. (785)537-7050.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE For rent. 770-9214 or 587-9224

TWO-BEDROOM MAIN floor duplexes, two-bedroom basement apartment, huge one-bedroom basement apartment. All really close to KSU campus. Off-street parking. Some with washer/ dryer hookups. No pets. June 1. Call 776-4827 or 537-7852 for appointment.

115
Rooms Available

ROOMS FOR RENT in nice two story house one block from campus. One-seventh utilities. Call Cynthia, 537-7381.

120
For Rent-
Houses

A TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses close to campus. TWO BATH, central air, laundry, 770-7230, June 1.

ABSOLUTELY BETTER than renting. Buy! Parents save money, we have homes. Close to campus. Call Larry, Century 21 Knight. (785)770-7230.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE, a JUNE lease, washer/ dryer hook-ups, four blocks to campus. AUGUST lease, washer/ dryer, garage, fireplace, hardwood floors, new carpet. Two blocks to campus. No pets. 313-4812.

THREE-BEDROOM, RECENT remodel. Central air, dishwasher, clean and excellent location 1836 Elaine. $775/ month (785)336-6266 or (785)336-1888.

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, ALL BILLS PAID including cable, 6625/ month, (785)341-4496.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

SPECTACULAR MOBILE HOME! Three-bedroom, one bath, huge yard behind park, new carpet, tile and paint, washer/ dryer. All appliances stay. Central air, two sheds, lighted driveway. $5500. Available May 1. 539-5534 or (785)845-8455.

145
Roommate
Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bathroom HOUSE. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

FEMALE ROOMMATES WANTED! Price reduced - $275! Five minutes from campus. Call (785)770-8410 or (316) 585-2529 for details.

MALES WANTED for three-bedroom apartment. Starting June or August 2001. Across the street from campus. $230/ month. Dominic 539-8221.

ROOMMATE WANTED for fall 2001. Should be semi-clean, fun, doesn't mind pets. Please call Rebecca at 537-5141.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/ month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler (316)562-8178.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASEES needed. Two bedrooms in a four-bedroom apartment at University Commons. Individual leases. $283/ month includes cable and trash. Available immediately. Call (785)323-0178, leave message.

SUBLEASER WANTED at University Commons, fully furnished, March- August or May- August. $283/ month, rent negotiable. Devon 776-7188 or (913)579-6109.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASEES needed for June and July to live in a spacious, brand new duplex. Includes washer and dryer and - $250/ month with water and trash paid. Call 776-0781, leave message.

SUMMER SUBLEASE Two-bedroom apartment. Washer/ dryer. Close to campus, Aggieville, park. Lease through next school year, if desired. 317-0314.

TWO-BEDROOM ONE-HALF block to campus, available March. 776-4343, leave message.

200 service directory

255
Other Services

ELLERY, ENGINEERING senior, does affordable maintenance, carpentry, and appliance repair. Also, builds budget computers fitting your needs. Eight years experience. 539-0232.

TAX PREPARATION. Federal and Kansas. KSU students, $25. Credit Counselors. Chris@tax-relief-system.com. 587-8967

300 employment/opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, 587-2441.

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190, (785)232-0454.

ENJOY SUMMER 01 at Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General and Specialty Counselors. Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater, piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Travel - Room+ Board+ Salary - 1-800-762-2820.

FRATERNITIES • SORORITIES • Clubs • Student Groups. Earn $1000- $2000 this semester with the easy Campusfundraiser.com three hour fundraising event. No sales required. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so call today! Contact Campusfundraiser.com at (888)923-3238 or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

HAIRSTYLIST, NAIL technician needed. Full part-time positions available. Apply in person at Adolph's Nail Parlor, 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

HORTICULTURAL SERVICES Inc. is seeking full-time and part-time sales clerks at our retail Garden Center. Sales and business experience preferred, plant knowledge helpful. Above average wages and benefits. Apply in person at 11524 Landscapac Ln., St. George, KS 66535. (785) 494-2418 or (785)776-0397.

IT'S GREEK TO ME is looking to fill a part-time position in our Greek Fulfillment/ Sales area. Duties would include packing and receiving boxes of sportswear in our Greek warehouse, and some telemarketing. We offer flexible hours, competitive wages and the opportunity to join a great team! Apply at 526 McCall Road, Manhattan, KS. EOE

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains SW of Denver. General counselors and program specialist in horseback riding, hiking, backpacking, crafts, nature, challenge course, farm, dance, drama. Administrative positions also available. June- early August 2001. MAKE A DIFFERENCE! Competitive salary, room, board, health insurance and travel allowance. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsnbc.org

"MARKETVISION, INC. (www.marketvisiongroup.com) an innovative college marketing firm is looking for energetic, entrepreneurial campus representatives for our college program. Position involves signing up classmates and friends for free student credit cards. You will earn up to $20/ hour and gain valuable marketing experience. Call toll-free: 1-800-942-2348."

KSU STUDENT help needed for sorting and packing tree seedlings. Start immediately. 8- 12:00 a.m. Monday- Friday, four hour block required. $5.15 per hour. Apply at Kansas Forest Services, 2610 Clafin Rd.

310
Help Wanted

CLERICAL ASSISTANT for busy non-profit organization. Basic clerical and computer skills required. Temporary, part time $5.15/ hour. Kansas Career Work- Study Program eligible preferred. Send cover letter, resume and three references by March 7, 2001 to: North Central- Flint Hills Area Agency on Aging, 437 Houston St., Manhattan, KS 66502. EEO/AA. For more information call 776-9294.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE student to help with remodeling. Call 539-5778.

CRUISE LINE entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-8434 cruisejobs.com

PHARMACIST TECH/ clerk in Wamego pharmacy. Experience preferred. Send in to P.O. Box 227, Wamego, KS 66547 or cking66547@yahoo.com.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsnbc.org

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS (INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY) Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/ SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6464, or email to jdolan@co.riley.kansas.us Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Mainel Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplareel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplareel.com.

WANTED! OUTSTANDING Leaders of Youth: The 4-H Camps in Nebraska, located at the Nebraska National Forest-Halsey, Schramm State Park-Gettysburg, and Harlan County Reservoir-Alma, are accepting applications for summer program staff. Spend mid-May to mid-August leading youth in outdoor programs. You will be trained to teach nature, ropes/ confidence course, canoeing, tubing, crafts, overnight camping, and many more programs. You do not need to be in 4-H to apply. Application deadline: March 1, 2001. For information call: (402)472-6717 or BORKOVIC1@UNL.EDU.

WAIT STAFF needed. A great work environment with flexible hours. Apply in person. Manhattan Country Club. 1531 N. 10

310
Help Wanted

NEW DONORS earn $25 TODAY* and Help Save Lives! Your blood plasma donations are urgently needed by hemophiliacs, burn victims, surgery patients and many more! Call or stop by: Nabi Biomedical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan. (785)776-9177. *for approximately two hours) Fees and donation time may vary. www.nabi.com

PERSONAL CARE. Female to provide night support for disabled adult. You can sleep or study. $100+/ week. Call Bobbie, 532-7815.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsnbc.org

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS (INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY) Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/ SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6464, or email to jdolan@co.riley.kansas.us Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Mainel Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplareel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplareel.com.

WANTED! OUTSTANDING Leaders of Youth: The 4-H Camps in Nebraska, located at the Nebraska National Forest-Halsey, Schramm State Park-Gettysburg, and Harlan County Reservoir-Alma, are accepting applications for summer program staff. Spend mid-May to mid-August leading youth in outdoor programs. You will be trained to teach nature, ropes/ confidence course, canoeing, tubing, crafts, overnight camping, and many more programs. You do not need to be in 4-H to apply. Application deadline: March 1, 2001. For information call: (402)472-6717 or BORKOVIC1@UNL.EDU.

WAIT STAFF needed. A great work environment with flexible hours. Apply in person. Manhattan Country Club. 1531 N. 10

310
Help Wanted

NEW DONORS earn $25 TODAY* and Help Save Lives! Your blood plasma donations are urgently needed by hemophiliacs, burn victims, surgery patients and many more! Call or stop by: Nabi Biomedical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan. (785)776-9177. *for approximately two hours) Fees and donation time may vary. www.nabi.com

PERSONAL CARE. Female to provide night support for disabled adult. You can sleep or study. $100+/ week. Call Bobbie, 532-7815.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsnbc.org

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS (INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY) Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/ SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6464, or email to jdolan@co.riley.kansas.us Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Mainel Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplareel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplareel.com.

WANTED! OUTSTANDING Leaders of Youth: The 4-H Camps in Nebraska, located at the Nebraska National Forest-Halsey, Schramm State Park-Gettysburg, and Harlan County Reservoir-Alma, are accepting applications for summer program staff. Spend mid-May to mid-August leading youth in outdoor programs. You will be trained to teach nature, ropes/ confidence course, canoeing, tubing, crafts, overnight camping, and many more programs. You do not need to be in 4-H to apply. Application deadline: March 1, 2001. For information call: (402)472-6717 or BORKOVIC1@UNL.EDU.

WAIT STAFF needed. A great work environment with flexible hours. Apply in person. Manhattan Country Club. 1531 N. 10

310
Help Wanted

NEW DONORS earn $25 TODAY* and Help Save Lives! Your blood plasma donations are urgently needed by hemophiliacs, burn victims, surgery patients and many more! Call or stop by: Nabi Biomedical Center, 1130 Gardenway, Manhattan. (785)776-9177. *for approximately two hours) Fees and donation time may vary. www.nabi.com

PERSONAL CARE. Female to provide night support for disabled adult. You can sleep or study. $100+/ week. Call Bobbie, 532-7815.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to coach all sports: tennis, baseball, lacrosse, hockey, waterfront, rock-climbing, biking, golf, water-skiing, sailing. Work outdoors, have a great summer. Call free (888)844-8080 or apply www.campcedar.com.

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp SW of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, board, travel allowance. Late May- early August 2001. Call (303) 778-0109 ext. 281 or email rhondam@gsnbc.org

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS (INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY) Specialists: applicants should have a thorough knowledge and strong background in Windows 95/98/2000, Windows NT, Office 97/2000 and network wiring. Applicant should also be proficient at troubleshooting software, hardware, PCs and PC Peripherals. Familiarity with Linux, Microsoft Exchange, TCP/IP, HTML, Visual Basic, Active Server Pages, Microsoft Access/ SQL and registry editing are a plus. This position involves substantial contact with all end users, so strong communication skills are essential. Applicants should have an Associates Degree or one-three years related computer support experience. A Certification is highly desirable. All available positions require that a job application be completed and on file for employment consideration. Contact the Department of Administrative Services, Division of Human Resources located at 115 N. 4th Street, 3rd floor, Manhattan KS 66502. For more information call (785)565-6464, or email to jdolan@co.riley.kansas.us Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the camaraderie of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same! Call Tom Bauer at (952) 930-3544, e-mail at: buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!! Come to Mainel Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis. Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplareel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplareel.com.

WANTED! OUTSTANDING Leaders of Youth: The 4-H Camps in Nebraska, located at the Nebraska National Forest-Halsey, Schramm State Park-Gettysburg, and Harlan County Reservoir-Alma, are accepting applications for summer program staff. Spend mid-May to mid-August leading youth in outdoor programs. You will be trained to teach nature, ropes/ confidence course, canoeing, tubing, crafts, overnight camping, and many more programs. You do not need to be in 4-H to apply. Application deadline: March 1, 2001. For information call: (402)472-6717 or BORKOVIC1@UNL.EDU.

WAIT STAFF needed. A great work environment with flexible hours. Apply in person. Manhattan Country Club. 1531 N. 10

450
Pets and Supplies

ADORABLE SILKY terrier puppies for sale. Call 539-0259.

NEED A good home for miniature dutch rabbit. Free, includes cage. Call Beau at (785)587-8562.

500
transportation

1997 DODGE Dakota Club Cab SLT 4x4, V-8, loaded, must sell. (785)537-6016 or (785)485-2273

Automobiles

600 travel/
trips

GO DIRECT= Savings! #1 Internet-based Spring Break company offering WHOLESALE Spring Break packages (no middlemen)! Zero traveler complaints registered against us last year! ALL destinations. Lowest price guarantee! 1-800-367-1252 www.springbreakdirect.com

WANTED

Bartenders
Barmaids
Waitresses

587-9224

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Diane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duanelle@ruralnet.net

Volunteers
Needed for CHRIST? National Christ centered fraternity seeking founders and pledges from Kansas State. For information email Matt at LUKE731@aol.com

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

DO YOU make $100K/ year? Do you work from home? Do you want to? (816)292-2828. Member NYSE.

400 open market

Items for Sale

</

RENOVATE

■ continued from page 1

to her attention, she was surprised. "Several people had complained, some of them from out of town," she said. "I had students coming to me saying, 'Geez, we can't get in,' and I said, 'Don't be silly. They just renovated the Union. I'm sure it's fine. Let's take a look,' but they were right," she said. "They just hadn't done a thing."

The situation led to action by a campus committee.

A member of the Coordinating Committee for People with Disabilities, Holly Dankenbring, senior in social work, said her committee decided changes had to be made to Forum Hall.

"Certain members of the committee called an architecture firm," she said.

The firm, Ken Ebert Design Group, Architects and Planning Consultants of Manhattan, designed plans to improve Forum Hall's accessibility. A list of needed improvements was formulated.

Kent Foster, project architect from the firm, said the project will include renovating the front entrance, as well as other things.

"We will also modify the ticket booth on the west side of Forum Hall and install a vertical lift from the lobby level to the first platform level," he said. "The men's and women's restrooms need to be modified, and we will install handicap-accessible seating."

The proposal also includes making the exit doors on the stage level wheelchair-accessible, modifying handrails of existing stairs in the facility and making a drinking fountain handicap-accessible.

The estimated cost is $220,000. "We found out there wouldn't be a lot of funds for the project, so we made more detailed plans and took them to Student Senate," Dankenbring said.

Senate passed a motion Feb. 12 to activate an account reserved for projects such as the Forum Hall renovation. However, no plans will be final until they are approved by state officials.

Gerald R. Carter, university architect and director of Facilities Planning, explained the state's responsibility.

"The state architect will review the plans for code compliance, which includes building and life safety, as well as the Americans with Disabilities Act regulations," he said. "Then, the state fire marshal will be asked to review plans to make sure we're complying with the fire protection systems that we approved for the main Union renovation."

He said individuals from K-State also would affect the decision.

"My office will be reviewing the plans, and we'll be sharing those plans with the committees that are interested in designing the construction, specifically the Coordinating Committee for People with Disabilities," he said. The Union staff will have a definite effect on the decision we make as far as how the buildings are used, as well. Luckily, what we're doing is very simple, just costly."

Holden said she is pleased at the action that has been taken, but because no actual dates have been set for the renovation, she said she wonders when construction can begin.

"I hope it doesn't take too long," she said.

INFOCOMMONS

■ continued from page 1

Hobrock said. "It was practically flawless."

Littrell said key funding for phase one came from the student technology fee. This money, paid from student privilege fees, was matched two to one by the Kansas Legislature. This year, however, there were no accommodations for matching the funds. Even though cutbacks occurred in all areas, technology at K-State looked to be put on the back burner, Littrell said.

"There was a high degree of interest from students who endorsed the initial project," said David Allen, chairman of library network services and task force member. "With increased student involvement in the library, there was still a great demand for more." Plans were tabled until SGA announced its interest to help fund the next step. The SGA privilege fee will provide $480,000 of the total $498,700 for the second phase, Ryan Walker, privilege fee chair, said.

"Every semester, students pay extra on bonds, so if there would ever be a decline in enrollment there would be enough money to pay by the time they are due," Walker said. "We are confident we can transfer some of the excess money to improve student life, instead of letting it just sit there."

Based on recommendations from President Jon Wefald, Walker said InfoCommons was a deserving beneficiary of the funds.

"We feel it is important to provide more technology for students outside of the classroom," Walker said. "It gives resources and capabilities to students without direct access to stay up-to-date with technology."

With growing separation in the digital divide between students who have access to technology and those who do not, Allen said the InfoCommons expansion will bridge the gap to reach even more students.

"We hope to basically double what we currently have," Hobrock said. "We are trying to decide the configuration of the machines and determine what is most needed by students. These are not toys for us. They are for all students to use in their education."

The task force remains flexible to accommodate for student advice and feedback on the specific types, locations and styles of equipment preferred. Exact numbers will be finalized by spring break, Littrell said. Final installations are scheduled to be complete by the time students return from summer break, she said.

A complete line of multimedia equipment will be installed, creating a Student Development Center. It will include scanners, color printers, compact disc/DVD writers and higher end machines that can be utilized for advanced projects.

In addition to the increased number of workstations, Littrell said plans for phase two include five new print stations, wireless infrastructure, server upgrades and additional staff.

At a campus crossroad, Hobrock said Hale Library was a natural location for the project.

"We have had visions of these resources since Hale began renovations," Littrell said. "InfoCommons was a perfect opportunity to do something here in Hale to improve the image of the library in general."

Kara Hynek, sophomore in finance, said she has been impressed with the system and other resources all located under one roof.

"I definitely enjoy using the computers here," she said. "It is a great place to use computers and study without having to leave the building."

RODEO

■ continued from page 1

and community colleges to Manhattan, he said.

"The K-State Rodeo is one of the largest collegiate rodeos in the country," Raub said. "It provides one more avenue of entertainment to Manhattan. It showcases K-State to the community."

Money from ticket sales goes directly to the K-State Rodeo Club, he said. The event's budget usually is between $40,000 and $50,000, he said, and other money helps to send team members to other rodeos.

Brock Baker, senior in animal sciences and industry and a Rodeo Club chairman, has attended three K-State rodeos. He said his favorite aspect is the competitors.

"The cowboys and cowgirls that come are top quality athletes," Baker said.

Wood said students who have never attended a rodeo before may have negative feelings because of recent animal welfare issues.

"People don't see how well we treat the animals," she said. "I come from a rodeo family, and I know many people who care for their horses as well as their children."

Baker said students should attend the rodeo at least once.

"You think it's just a bunch of cowboys, but it is really a lot of fun," he said.

CHILDREN

■ continued from page 1

K-State rodeo has implemented it into their rodeo festivities.

Sandy Chandler, a Kaw Valley Rodeo Association member who helped plan the event, said it's a heartwarming event.

"I've personally developed a relationship with some of these kids," Chandler said. "I've got to watch them grow up, and it makes me warm inside to see the enjoyment in their eyes."

Order your Royal Purple!
$29.95

On Sale at Kedzie 103

MAKE YOUR VOICE HEARD!

COLLEGIAN POLL ONLINE

kstatecollegian.com

Wildcat Tennis

Come and check out the action.

Wildcat Tennis in Ahearn Fieldhouse.

Thursday 2/22
Brigham Young 3 PM
Friday 2/23
Notre Dame 2:30 PM

The Men of Sigma Phi Epsilon would like to cordially invite the following ladies to the Golden Heart Semi-Formal on Saturday, February 24th.

Sarah Voss

Ami Lammann

Danielle Korth

Adrienne Simon

Michelle Anderson

Madison Mayes

Adrienne Smith

Valley Smith

Lauren Brown

Amber Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Leah Johnson

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Cleo Boney

Jennifer Roemmich

Mindi Adler

Brooklyn Dea Abbey

Jamie Oder

Jenny Kelly

Sarah Highschooler

Kate Newman

Megan Menagh

Jandi Clear

Missy Power

Jenni Rose

Jessica Evans

Lori Gruenbacher

Amy Hermreck

Megan Bartsch

Patricia Ewing

Erin Hickey

Courtney Summerson

Lisa Chartier

Mary Malone

"Mom"

RELIGION DIRECTORY

JOIN THE DIRECTORY
Call at 532-6560

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH
612 Poyntz • 776-8821
Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Church School all ages 9:45 a.m.
Pastors: Jim Reed, Frank Pritz, & Ken Willis
fumc@flintheills.com
www.flintheills.com/~fumc

Grace Baptist Church
2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child
♦ Sunday ♦
Morning Worship
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.
776-0424

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
481 Zeandale Road. (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Programs each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm.
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flintheills.com/~uufellow

FIRST LUTHERAN
10th Poyntz 537-8532
Worship
Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

First Presbyterian Church
801 Leavenworth St. • 537-0518
Sunday Schedule
Traditional Worship at 9:15 a.m.
Sunday School for all ages at 9:15 a.m.
Traditional Worship at 10:30 a.m.

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
Saturday 6 p.m. Traditional Service
Sunday 8:30 a.m. Traditional Service
9:30 a.m. Fellowship
9:45 a.m. Sunday School & Bible Study
11:00 a.m. Contemporary Service
Campus Missionary - Pastor Eric Wood
http://www.flintheills.com/~stlukes
330 Sunset Ave. 539-2604

Lutheran Campus Ministry
at Luther House 1745 Anderson
Sunday Evening Worship
7:00 p.m. at Danforth Chapel
www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
Pastor Jayne Thompson
(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451
— Open to All —

ECM Christian Explorers
Food, Fun & Fellowship
Sunday 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Bible Study
Tuesday 5:30 pm
Meditation class
Wednesday 7am
1021 Denison Ave.
539-4281 or email at ecm@ksu.edu

First Baptist Church
Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
For free transportation within city limits, call the church.
Pastors Karen & Alan Selig
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691
An American Baptist Congregation

ST. FRANCIS CANTERBURY
THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH AT KANSAS STATE
SUNDAY WORSHIP
5:00 PM
ST. FRANCIS CHAPEL
1823 LARAMIE
"Love the Lord your God with all your heart, soul, mind, and strength. And love your neighbor as yourself."
REV. CATHY BASCOM 532-9099

The Salvation Army High Plains Worship Center
"Helping People With Care"
Our vision?
We are Chosen, Blessed, Broken, and Given of God!
Service Times:
Sunday School 10 a.m.
Worship Service 11 a.m.
Evening Service 6:30 p.m.
Wednesday Bible Study 6:30 p.m.
4th & Leavenworth, Manhattan, KS
785-532-5329

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
8:15 & 9:30 & 11:00AM
College and Young Married Couples:
Sunday School 9:30 & 11:00AM
Bible Study @ 7:00PM Tuesdays
Youth Ministry Opportunities
College Pastor: Aaron Martin
Senior Pastor: David Thompson
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

Agape Family Church
An Affiliate of RHEMA Bible Church
aka Kenneth Hagin Ministries
SUNDAY
Sunday Broadcast 9:05 a.m. on 95.3 FM
School of the Bible 9:30 a.m.
Worship Service 10:30 a.m.
Evening Fellowship 7:00 p.m.
Wednesday Service 7:30 p.m.
Everyone is welcome to come and be part of our family
STERLING HUDGINS-PASTOR
116 S. 4th, Downtown Manhattan
(785) 539-3570

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
481 Zeandale Road. (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Programs each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm.
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flintheills.com/~uufellow

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
(DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)
Sunday
8:30 a.m. - Early Service
9:45 a.m. - Sunday School
10:55 a.m. - Late Service
11:30 a.m. - Live Broadcast
Angel 95.3 FM
5th & Humboldt
776-8790

First Assembly of God
You are welcome at...
Weekly Schedule of Services
Sunday
Worship Services 8:30 & 11:00 a.m.
Kid's Church 8:30 & 11:00 a.m.
Sunday School 10:00 a.m.
Nueva Vida 10:00 a.m.
Worship Choir 4:15 p.m.
Evening Worship 6:00 p.m.
Wednesday
All ministries begin at 7:00
Prayer Meeting
Nueva Vida Ministry (Spanish)
Youth Group (grades 7-12)
Royal rangers (Boys Club)
Missionettes (Girls Club)
Thursday
Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship
7:00 p.m. for College Students
(K-State Union room 212)
Nursery Provided for All Services
Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor
2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS
(785) 537-7633 www.manhattanag.org

Manhattan Mennonite Church
Sunday School 9:30 a.m., Worship 10:45 a.m.
Richard & Barbara Gehring, Co-Pastors
10th and Fremont 539-4079
Welcome Students and Staff!

Blue Valley Memorial UMC
835 Church St. 539-8790
Worship: Sat. 5:30 p.m./Sun. 10:30 a.m.
Free food after services
first Sun. of the month.
e-mail: revs2@flintheills.com

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center
MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m.
Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

TODAY'S
WEATHER

HIGH 51 ■ LOW 27

MONDAY

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

WWW.KSTATECOLLEGIAN.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feb. 26, 2001 ■ Kansas State University ■ Manhattan, Kan. ■ Volume 105, Number 106

Tennis team loses to Notre Dame

■ page 6

Memorial Stadium to get turf from surplus

By ERIN DENN
Kansas State Collegian

The field in Memorial Stadium is a step closer to getting resurfaced with an all-weather, all-terrain turf, lake Worcester, student body president, said. Lighting also will be added to the area.

The new turf, which is estimated to be in place by fall 2002, is one of three projects Student Governing Association has allocated money to sponsor. The other projects are the InfoCommons in Hale Library and making Forum Hall in the K-State Student Union more compliant with the Americans With Disabilities Act.

Money for the projects is the result of increased enrollment, Worcester said each student pays a set amount of money each semester, which is to be used to pay off the bonds that were needed to construct Hale Library, the Union and the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

An increase in enrollment means an increase in revenue.

SGA decided to use the money to enhance different areas on campus, one being the Memorial Stadium field.

"I think it's going to be a great improvement to campus life," Worcester said.

Dana Pracht, student body vice president, said the turf will enable students to have maximum benefit of the area.

"It's going to make the field more accessible," she said.

The turf is composed of synthetic blades that look like real grass, placed on a bed of sand and rubber chips. The turf will require little maintenance.

"It should last between 15 and 20 years," Worcester said.

SGA is deciding which company to use. However, Worcester said they are looking into the possibility of using Nike Grind, a turf produced by Nike. The rubber chips in the Nike product are made from recycled shoes.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics is looking into possibly resurfacing Wagner Field, and Nike is offering a deal that will make the purchase more affordable if Nike Grind is installed in both fields, Worcester said.

Regardless of what brand is used, Pracht said the turf will be safer than grass. "It just has a little more give as opposed to real grass," she said. "And it won't scratch you."

Jennifer Frazee, drum major and junior in elementary education, said the K-State marching band has experienced setbacks in practices because of the current field. She said mud has hampered outdoor practices on different occasions.

"With the turf, it's going to be a little more smoother for the marching band," she said.

However Frazee said she is concerned with the turf during warm weather.

"The heat index is like 10 times hotter on the turf than grass," she said.

Worcester said he thinks the renovations to the field are a necessity.

"It's a way to make Memorial Stadium a little more respectable," he said.

Lifelong love

PHOTOS BY KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

ABOVE: Brock Baker, K-State Rodeo co-chairman and K-State's Rodeo Team captain, has been involved in rodeos all his life. Baker participates in the steer wrestling and team roping competitions. TOP RIGHT: Brock Baker, senior in animal sciences and industry, walks down a tunnel under the bleachers of Weber Arena to check on the animals used in the rodeo.

Rodeo participants attracted by excitement

By COLLEEN FOOTE
Kansas State Collegian

Brock Baker's time at the K-State Rodeo lasted only a few days, but his days with the rodeo will last a lifetime.

Baker, K-State Rodeo co-chairman and Rodeo Team captain, said the rodeo has been a part of his entire life.

"I've grown up with the rodeo," said Baker, senior in animal science and industry. "It is a family thing. My dad and mom used to rodeo, and my sister and I now rodeo."

Baker participated in the steer wrestling and team roping competitions during the rodeo. During team roping, one participant ropes the steer's head and the other ropes the feet. He said steer wrestling, which consists of jumping off a horse and wrestling a steer to the ground, is his favorite event.

"Rodeo is a nice thing to be a part of during college," he said. "Competing with people on the same level at your own range is one of its advantages."

As a team captain, Baker spends a lot of his time helping other team members prepare for their events.

"I've been under a lot of stress this week, but as a team we all work and achieve together," he said.

Stacia Wood, sophomore in elementary education, also has grown up with the rodeo.

"I've been involved since I was little. It is a part of me," said Wood, Rodeo Club member. "Both my parents and grandparents were in it."

The excitement and never knowing what to expect from the animals is what draws her and other spectators to the rodeo, she said.

"The rodeo attracts all kinds of people, and the K-State Rodeo does a great job with getting the community involved," said Wood, who participated in the goat tying, breakaway roping and barrel racing events.

"It's the little things like the kids' day and special kids' rodeo that makes the K-State Rodeo special and stand out from all the others."

Two surgeries, broken arms and a dislocated elbow did not stop Josh Mueller from bull riding.

"Bull riding is like anything else," Mueller, senior in animal science, said. "The danger doesn't outweigh the benefits."

The benefits for Mueller, who is K-State's only bull rider, includes the thrill and the challenge of the sport, he said.

"Any event is a challenge, and in bull riding it's all in the hands of the guy who's getting on," Mueller said.

Bull riding is a short-lived fad for many who participate in the sport, he said.

"Some people may ride only once just to say that they did it," Mueller said.

"That isn't me. I ride because I enjoy all aspects of bull riding."

Since bull riding is a physically challenging sport, Mueller said he would continue to ride until it became too demanding.

"I'll probably ride as long as I'm healthy and can make it pay," he said.

"I'll always enjoy it, and I'll stop when I think I no longer have a chance."

Baker, Wood and Mueller said that even though preparing for a rodeo can be both challenging and demanding, it is worth all the hard work.

"The whole rodeo has been pretty good," Baker said. "It's been busy, and when it's all over I'm going to get some sleep."

New regulations to affect student campaigning

By ERICA COURTRIGHT
Kansas State Collegian

With the making of rules comes the breaking of them.

In January, Student Senate approved a variety of changes to the election regulations code that might play into the number of violations issued during the upcoming Student Governing Association elections.

The changes were implemented to simplify the election process and to decrease the amount of restrictions, such as where chalking is permissible. The new regulations allow candidates to chalk on any campus sidewalks and to have more campaigning freedom in the residence halls due to the removal of some restrictions.

Bill Harlan, Senate operations chair and one of the authors of the bills, said it didn't make sense to regulate campaigning in the residence halls. He said the new regulations require candidates to follow the Kansas State University Association of Residence Hall policies that already were in place.

"We've tried to make the regulations simpler so that we can reduce the number of violations," Harlan said. "Instead of micro-managing everything, we set forth the basic guidelines and said, for example, you must follow all residence hall rules."

The other main change to the regulations was the removal of a spending cap for student body presidential campaigns. In previous elections, candidates were limited to $3,000. The changes also allow students to donate $20 to a campaign rather than $15, as in previous elections. Candidates are still allowed to use $800 from their own funds. Those funds can be from their own pockets, family members' donations or business sponsorships, but the regulation amendments allow only students to donate beyond the $800. In previous elections, family members and faculty were allowed to donate up to $15 along with students.

Ultimately, Harlan said he thought the amendments to the regulations would have little affect on the number of violations issued.

"I would predict that it will really have a minimal affect," Harlan said. "In the last two years, no presidential candidates have overspent or exceeded the maximum, so removing the maximum isn't going to affect those numbers at all."

Ted Conrad, senior in finance and member of the Elections Committee, said he didn't think the changes were intended to affect the number of violations.

"We're all wanting everyone to have a successful time running their campaigns," he said. "What we can do to help is try to make things go smooth as possible."

Bugle Boy closes store in Manhattan

By REBECCA MARTIN
Kansas State Collegian

The Manhattan Bugle Boy store has announced it will close this spring as a result of a companywide bankruptcy filed Feb. 1.

Store manager Allen Arceneaux said the company didn't make enough sales to offset its production costs.

"They're selling their clothes too cheap," he said. Arceneaux said Bugle Boy sold its jeans for $12.99, when even Wal-Mart's jeans cost $30.

He said eight Manhattan employees will lose their jobs, including one K-State student.

Steve Reece, freshman in secondary education, is one of those employees.

Reece said he already has a summer job with a moving company. He said he'll look over the summer for a part-time job for the school year.

"I'm trying to save up as much as I can now," Reece said.

Reece said he has worked at Bugle Boy since the Manhattan store opening in November 1999. He said he thought it would be cool to work in the new store in the mall and knew there would be opportunities to advance. In

See BUGLE BOY on PAGE 5

PAGE 2 EXTRAS

TUESDAYS — News of the Weird
WEDNESDAYS — Freaky Phobias
THURSDAYS — News of the Weird
FRIDAYS — Question of the Week
E-mail any questions about campus or the city of Manhattan to online news editor Jamie Barrett at jib7883@ksu.edu.

CONTACT US

Sarah Bahari
sib3046@ksu.edu
Kelly Glascock
kg3544@ksu.edu
Ken Wells
kwells@ksu.edu
Becky Wilson
rwilson@ksu.edu
Bryan Scribner
bscribner@ksu.edu
Jamie Barrett
jib7883@ksu.edu
Nancy Hull
nhull6062@ksu.edu
Nancy Foster
nf1480@ksu.edu
Michael Noll
mnoll5855@ksu.edu
JJ Duncan
jjduncan666@ksu.edu
Erika Schenewis
ers873@ksu.edu
Sara Martin
smartin920@ksu.edu
Corbin H. Crable
chc7669@ksu.edu
Danny Ellsworth
des0091@ksu.edu
Alissa Duncan
aduncan549@ksu.edu
Emily Rand
emr1258@ksu.edu

Editor in Chief
532-6556
Photo Editor
532-0735
Online Editor
Managing Editor
News Editor
Online News Editor
Campus Editor
City & Government Editor
Sports Editor
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Opinion Editor
Presentation Editor
Copy Chief
Ad Manager
Assistant Ad Manager
Online Ad Manager

BY PHONE
Newsroom 532-6556
Display advertising 532-6560
Classified advertising 532-6555
Delivery Problems 532-6555
Photo Reprints 532-6304

BY MAIL
Kansas State Collegian
Kansas State University
Manhattan, KS 66506
THE NEWS
www.kstatecollegian.com

The Kansas State Collegian
ISSN 0191-1032, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., 3000 N. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. The Collegian is published weekly during the school year and three times a week through the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66506. POSTMASTER: send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 3000 N. 10th, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. T167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2001

Burglary closes campus post office temporarily

The temporary closing of the campus post office Thursday was due to an early morning burglary. Ronnie Grice, director of K-State Police, said it has not been determined whether one person or a group of individuals were involved. Only one piece of equipment was stolen, and no money was taken.

The post office, located in Dykstra Hall, resumed its operation Thursday afternoon. The case is still under investigation.

—Olena Nikolayenko

Earnhardt Jr. crashes in 1st lap of Dura Lube 400

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. — In an eerie reminder of his father's fatal accident last weekend, Dale Earnhardt Jr. crashed hard on the first lap of Sunday's rain-delayed Dura Lube 400.

The 26-year-old son of the racing great walked away limping from a car that was badly damaged after hitting the wall at an angle almost identical to the one that led to his father's death last Sunday on the final lap of the Daytona 500.

"A car went down in front of me, and everybody checked up," Earnhardt Jr. said.

Earnhardt Jr. got out of the car on his own and walked, limping on his left leg, across the track to the ambulance. He was checked at the infield care center and released.

—The Associated Press

Mardi Gras festivities lead to violence, arrests

SEATTLE — Police in riot gear used pepper spray, rubber bullets and concussion bombs to break up

Mardi Gras festivities early Sunday in the second straight day of violence tied to the celebration.

Police said several people in a crowd of about 2,000 threw bottles, rocks and firecrackers at officers soon after bars closed at about 1:30 a.m.

A half-dozen people were arrested, most on assault charges. One person was injured in a stabbing, and a police officer suffered a broken arm.

Some in the crowd smashed car and store windows and tried to turn over a bus, police said. Police said the violence worsened after they arrested a man for armed robbery.

A day earlier police used pepper spray and rubber bullets because revelers were throwing rocks and bottles.

—The Associated Press

ONLINE TODAY

■ View a brief interview with the band Tinfed in the Arts and Entertainment section.

■ Kiera Mann writes about the strength needed in relationships and Lorena Barboza discusses in English and Spanish the role of diversity in universities in the Opinion section.

■ David Plous looks toward March Madness in the Sports section.

■ Read the above at www.kstatecollegian.com, then enter the Collegian's Oscar contest at www.delphi.com/kstatecollegian.

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Bryan Scribner at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

ON RECORD

CAMPUS BULLETINS

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ The Graduate Student Council is sponsoring a Vitae and Job Search Workshop from noon to 1 p.m. today in Union 213. Every graduate student and faculty member is encouraged to attend.

■ The Outdoor Rental Center at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex will open today. Hours are Sunday through Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

■ Christian Science Organization will meet at 5:30 p.m. today in Danforth Chapel.

■ Alpha Gamma Omega will meet at 9:15 tonight at 1832 Claflin Road, Apt. 6. Free pizza will be provided. Contact Matt at Luke731@aol.com for information.

■ Finance Club will meet at 7 tonight in Union 212.

■ In recognition of Eating Disorders Awareness and Prevention Week, self-screening tests and an informational booth will be available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today in the Union food court.

■ K-State Women's Rugby will have practice at 4:15 p.m. today in the northwest field of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

■ KSU Aikido will meet at 7 tonight in Ahearn 301.

■ The IMSE 580 class is having a wine rack logo design competition. The contest ends Tuesday. Contact ksue@yahoo.com for information.

■ Union Program Council Executive and Committee Chair applications are available in the UPC office on the third floor of the K-State Student Union. Applications are due by Wednesday in the UPC office. Call 532-6571 for more information.

POLICE REPORTS

Reports are taken directly from the K-State and Riley County police departments' daily logs. We do not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Riley County

Thursday, Feb. 22

■ At 2:11 p.m., Shane D. Gibson, Fort Riley, was arrested for worthless checks.

■ At 3:25 p.m., Jerry P. Rash Jr., 2009 Casement Road, was arrested for failure to appear.

■ At 3:50 p.m., Crystal J. Lynch, 4904 Skyway Drive, was arrested for failure to appear.

■ At 4 p.m., Javette D. Campbell, 2418 Chamblais Lane, was arrested for driving on a suspended license.

■ At 4 p.m., Chris E. Simmitt, Leonardville, Kan., was arrested for worthless checks.

■ At 6:30 p.m., Robert J. Higgins, Ogden, was arrested for probation violation.

■ At 7:30 p.m., Jeremy J. Wilson, 109 S. Fifth St., was arrested for battery, aggravation of parental custody, criminal trespassing, obstruction of the legal process, false impersonation and phone harassment.

■ At 9:05 p.m., Jacob Bryan Z. Sauceda, 2200 Green Ave., was arrested for failure to appear.

■ At 10:38 p.m., Julie R. Tilton, 2400 Galloway, was arrested for DUI.

■ At 11:45 p.m., Lance P. Wilson, Topeka, was arrested for DUI.

Friday, Feb. 23

■ At 1:20 a.m., Sean S. Fairchild, 1869 Platt St., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 1:32 a.m., Jacob D. Conner, 1116 Yuma St., was arrested for unlawful possession.

■ At 2:10 a.m., Gregory S. Retchall, 1847

Hunting Ave., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 2:30 a.m., Joey E. Kramer, 3012 Claflin Road, was arrested for DUI.

■ At 8 a.m., Sherry J. Negale-Leduc, 1006 Gardenway, was arrested for failure to appear.

■ At 3:20 p.m., Gary L. Kretz, Salina, Kan., was arrested for theft and forgery.

■ At 11:05 p.m., Michael T. Powell, 526 Vattier St., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 11:27 p.m., Sheri L. Jones, Ogden, was arrested for battery, battery against law, obstruction of the legal process, possession of drug paraphernalia and unlawful possession.

Saturday, Feb. 24

■ At 1:46 a.m., Jennifer A. Lilly, 818 Bluemont Ave., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 2:33 a.m., Bradley A. Cameron, 2215 College Ave., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 2:53 a.m., Eric T. Mink, 508 Sunset Ave., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 3:11 a.m., John C. Mayers, 1500 Oxford, was arrested for DUI.

■ At 4:05 a.m., Scott A. Hussey, 1424 Legree Lane, was arrested for DUI.

■ At 4:23 a.m., Matthew L. Ninoshelker, 316 Redbud Estates, was arrested for DUI.

■ At 2:33 p.m., Daniel P. Duvalier, Topeka, was arrested for obstruction of the legal process and failure to appear.

Sunday, Feb. 25

■ At 2:39 a.m., Luke H. Dreier, 2215 College Ave., was arrested for DUI.

■ At 3:37 a.m., Junior Treto, Topeka, was arrested for DUI.

■ At 4:15 a.m., Anthony P. Bennett, 1003 Gardenway, was arrested for driving on a suspended license.

■ At 4:45 a.m., Michael T. Roeding, 3312 Anderson Ave., was arrested for aggravated battery and DUI.

■ At 5:36 a.m., Matthew B. Davidson, 1415 Fairchild Ave., was arrested for DUI.

K-State Police

Saturday, Feb. 24

■ At 7:50 p.m., Ryan E. Swayze, Freedom, Okla., was arrested for lewd and lascivious behavior.

$1.50 WELLS & $1.25 LONGNECKS

Mel's Tavern

105 N. 3rd

Downtown

Tonight at Mel's Tavern

Therapeutic Massage
Stress Reduction
First Visit 50% Off
90 minutes $16.00
776-0022

Westloop Laundromat
FREE $1.25 Car Wash
with 3 loads of wash.
1129 Gardenway
Open 7 days

25% OFF
any Spenco
Footcare Products with coupon exp. 3/17

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
216 South Fourth St.
VFW Plaza • 776-1193
Repair Work On Shoes
Boots • Luggage • Backpacks
Purses • Leather Coats
Leather Craft Supplies
We Dye Satin Shoes
Ball Gloves

AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
AUTO HOME BUSINESS HEALTH LIFE

Tim Engle
K-State Grad 88

"Call us for your Health
and Auto Insurance"

3320 Anderson

539-9200

American Family Mutual Insurance Co.
and its Subsidiaries
Home Office: Madison, WI 53783-6001
E-Mail tengle@amfam.com

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

• Free pregnancy testing
• Totally confidential service
• Same day results
• Call for appointment

Located across from campus
in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

The Vitae and Job Search Workshop

Monday, February 26, 2001
12 - 1 PM
K-State Union 213

For details visit: www.ksu.edu/grad/gsc or Contact: Maria Grandone, maria@ksu.edu
Jawwad Qureshi, jawwad@ksu.edu

Sponsored by:
Graduate Student Council

Bob's DINER 1103 N. 3RD

THE ONLY RESTAURANT

OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY

7 DAYS A WEEK

is

EXPANDING

MONDAY-FRIDAY

$1.99

BREAKFAST

ALL THE TIME

A new wing
will soon be completed
that will include a smoke free
area and a new
salad bar

Kansas State Students, sometime in your life, you may find yourself in a bad situation in need of sensitivity and understanding not knowing where to turn.

DMS Bail Bonds and Dawn Simms understands that bad things sometime happen to good people. If you find yourself needing a way out call Dawn Simms here at DMS Bail Bonds.

Our number is 341-4DMS (4367)

DMS Bail Bonds

"We can get you OUT and get you HOME"

Get Carded

Use your Wildcat card
and support the K-State
Alumni Association.

Official Visa® Wildcat Card.

Apply today.

www.intrustbank.com

630 Humboldt/Manhattan
(785) 565-5400
1-800-222-7458

YES YOU CAN. INTRUST.

Member FDIC

Hopper, Engel announce presidential candidacy

STEVEN DEARINGER/Collegian

Ben Hopper (right), senior in agriculture communication and journalism, and Eric Engel, senior in electrical engineering, announce their candidacies for student body president and vice president Thursday morning at the Union Plaza.

By COLLEEN FOOTE
Kansas State Collegian

Ben Hopper and Eric Engel announced their bid for student body president and vice president Thursday with the help of part of the K-State Marching Band.

The announcement of their campaign took place in front of the K-State Student Union. Members of the marching band played fight songs in honor of the candidates' announcement.

Hopper, senior in agriculture communications and journalism, and Engel, senior in electrical engineering, are aiming their campaign at finding out how K-State students are doing.

Their campaign slogan, "How you doin'?" is used to find out how students are doing with their academics, extracurricular activities and general life at K-State.

The candidates said they think their issues are realistic and deal directly with all K-State students. Technology is one of the main issues on which Hopper and Engel are focusing.

"K-State has the chance to update its technology and allow students better and faster access to Internet connections," Hopper said. Diversity within the entire student body is another topic the candidates are focusing on, Engel said.

"We are for all types of diversity," Engel said. "We want to focus on diversity with clubs, schools, departments and all aspects of campus levels."

Bringing different clubs and organizations together will unite K-State's campus, he said.

The candidates also are concerned with an increase in funding for sports clubs. Sports clubs like rugby, soccer and the ski team do not receive the accurate funding they should, Hopper said.

The candidates said they feel listening and sharing ideas with students are essential aspects of their campaign.

Hopper and Engel said they also want to improve the look of K-State by updating the classrooms. Improving classrooms is necessary for a quality education, Hopper said.

"We really need to improve K-State's crumbling classrooms," he said. "There should be basic standards for equipment in all classrooms like blackboards, dry-erase boards and even clocks."

SGA ELECTIONS
March 5-7, 2001

Barker, Kauffman discuss goals

By SHANNON MARSHALL
Kansas State Collegian

Kyle Barker and Brandon Kauffman are looking for a new generation of leadership at K-State. They want to see a focus on smaller, realistic goals that directly affect members of the student body. But Barker and Kauffman don't just want to see this new generation.

They want to be the new generation.

After announcing their candidacy Feb. 15, Barker, who is running for student body president, and Kauffman for vice president, visited more than 120 different campus organizations to speak about their platform and to listen to concerns within the student body.

"Some issues in the past haven't really affected students in their everyday lives," Kauffman said. "Our issues affect every student on campus."

Barker-Kauffman's campaign, "Small steps, big changes," focuses on four key platform issues. First, the pair wants to establish a more lengthy and formal freshman orientation program. Their proposed plan would encourage prospective students to visit the K-State campus for a four- to five-day program to show them the resources offered by the university.

"Getting involved on campus is the best way to get them to be good students," Barker said. "This would really help us to retain students by making them see the experiences they can have as beneficial."

Their second platform issue is related to the university's dead week policy.

"The university has a dead week policy, but it's not being reinforced," Kauffman said. "Students need this week to prepare for their final exams."

JEANEL DRAKE/Collegian

Juniors Kyle Barker (right) and Brandon Kauffman are running for president and vice president with "small steps, big changes" as their slogan. Some of their platform issues include creating a new freshman orientation, enforcing dead week, transportation issues and solving problems associated with night tests.

Under an ideal dead week policy, professors would not be permitted to schedule tests or projects during the week prior to final exams each semester.

Kauffman said he and Barker want to inform faculty of the week's benefits.

"We want to get the information out there and show faculty how important the week is, especially for mental preparation," he said.

Barker-Kauffman's third issue focuses on decreasing the number of night tests given by professors. Their concerns rest on the safety of students and the tests' conflicts with students' schedules.

"The university is expanding the number of night tests, and it's affecting the safety of students, and also for students with children or jobs outside of class," Kauffman said.

The pair has proposed tests in classes such as Biology and College Algebra be given during students' recitation times.

"We have wonderful professors here, and there's no reason why they wouldn't be able to write their own tests," Barker said.

The candidates' fourth issue focuses on establishing a uniform wait list policy for the university. They said they feel the problem involves different professors having different methods of allowing students into full classes.

"We want to see major changes in this area," Barker said. "We need to at least have individual colleges be uniform with their wait lists."

In addition to these key platform issues, the pair said they would like to better inform students about housing in Manhattan. Kauffman said if the rental inspections proposal passes, he and Barker eventually would like to distribute informational booklets to students about housing concerns.

"We want to tell students their rights — the do's and don'ts of housing," Barker said. "We basically just want to give them more information."

Barker and Kauffman said they primarily want to be the representatives of the K-State student body.

"We need to be there for students first, and not paying attention to our own personal agenda," Barker said. "These are elected positions, and we want to represent the student perspective."

Order your yearbook.

Make your voice heard!
CampusForum:
395-4444

Claflin Books and Copies
Dependable Quality Service

Transparencies
Across from Goodnow Hall

DRY CLEAN CITY INC.

PREPAY $2.49 STORE HOURS
M-F 7-7 SAT 9-5
MOST DRYCLEAN ITEMS

LAUNDRY • JEANS $2.75 • SHIRTS $1.50 • KHAKIS $2.75

WHY PAY MORE?

427 E. POYNTZ • NEXT TO HASTINGS • 776-1515

Southern Sun Spring Break Special

It's $1.00 a day at Southern Sun. $1.00 a day until spring break. Start whenever you choose the number of days until Mar. 18 is all you pay to tan everyday.

Get That Golden Tan!
776-8060

3232 Kimball Ave. (Next to Bobby T's)

Always Great Bulbs at the Best Prices!

Delivers
the latest!

OPEN LATE!
GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

702 N. 11th Street
770-3333
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Checks add 50¢

770-3333 Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

MONDAY MANIA

"Carry Out Only"
LARGE CHEESE PIZZA

$3.99

Additional Toppings $1.00 per topping

CARRY-OUT SPECIALS

16" 1-Topping $6.99
14" 1-Topping $5.99

BONUS BUYS MENU
with any food purchase

• 10 Wings...ONLY $3.99
• Medium Pokey Stix...ONLY $3.99
• 4 Pepperoni Rolls...ONLY $2.99
• Apple Turnover...ONLY $2.99

STIX IT TO ME TUES.

Buy One
Pokey Stix at Regular Price get
Equal or Lesser
Value for Free

"Tuesday Only"
(Carry Out or Delivery)

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH • EVERY MONDAY IS DOUBLE RANCH DAY!

MODEL SHOWINGS! NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1941 College Heights #8
Tues. 5 - 8 p.m.
Thurs. 5:30 - 8 p.m.
Fri. 11:30 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $350

1119 Laramie #4
Tues. & Thurs. 2 - 4 p.m.
Wed. & Fri. 1:30 - 3 p.m.
Sat. 3 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $430

413 N. 17th #5
Mon., Wed. & Fri. 2:30 - 4:30
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $380

1005 Bluemont #12
Mon. 2 - 6 p.m.
Tues. 11 - 1 p.m.
Thurs. 12 - 6 p.m.
• Starting at $395

700 Fremont
By appointment only
• Starting at $390

925 Denison #5
Sun. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. 12 - 2 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1858 Claflin #15
Tues. & Thurs. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 11-1
• Starting at $385

1700 N. Manhattan Royal
Towers on site office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $410

1722 N. Laramie #9
Mon. & Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
• Starting at $405

Wareham 418 Poyntz
by appointment only
• Prices vary

1852 - 1856 Anderson
by appointment only
• Starting at $410

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #12
Mon., Wed. & Fri.
10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $530

1005 Bluemont #10
Mon., Wed., & Fri.
5:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Sat. 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $500

1026 Osage #3
Mon. - Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sat. 1 - 3 p.m.
• Starting at $540

1113 Bertrand #4
Mon. 1 - 4 p.m.
Wed. 6 - 9 p.m.
• Starting at $560

1417 Leavenworth #4
Mon. - Wed. 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.
• Starting at $570

1524 McCain #11
Wed. & Thurs. 3:30 - 5:30 p.m.
• Starting at $550

700 Fremont
by appointment only
• Starting at $500

1115 N. 12th
by appointment only
• Starting at $575

3 BEDROOM

822 Fremont #7
Mon. & Wed. 3 - 4:45 p.m.
Tues. 4 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Sun. 1 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $720

4 BEDROOM

1620 McCain #9
Mon. - Fri. 4 - 6 p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 2 - 4 p.m.
• Starting at $940

2538 Candlecrest Circle
Brittney Ridge
Mon., & Wed. 7 - 9 p.m.
Fri. 3 - 5 p.m.
Sun. 2 - 5 p.m.
• Starting at $950

1700 N. Manhattan
Royal Towers On-Site Office
Tues. 6 - 8 p.m.
Wed. 5 - 7 p.m.
Thurs. & Sun. 5 - 8 p.m.
• Starting at $840

776-3804

<http://www.mdiproperties.com>
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough Development
2700 Amherst
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3804

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

4 MONDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 2001

e ONLINE
Read Keira Mann and Lorena Barboza's columns at www.kstatecollegian.com.

OPINION EDITOR: ERIN SCHNEWEIS
532-9732 ■ letters@pub.ksu.edu

SGA campaigns should avoid certain ideas

The following are the top-10 things we hope you will never see on a campaign poster for the upcoming Student Governing Association elections:

- 1) Give all faculty reserved parking spots. Absolutely no student parking will be allowed.
- 2) Increase circulation of the Collegian.
- 3) More expensive parking tickets.
- 4) Hale Library has way too many books. It is time we pitched some of them.
- 5) We should keep Denison Hall forever.
- 6) I will fight for decreased living standards. There is nothing wrong with apartments with caved-in floors.
- 7) Cut student financial aid. Use those funds to donate money for trees for the Alumni Center.
- 8) Charge more money for movies in Forum Hall. We should keep it competitive with Carmike Cinemas.
- 9) When I am elected into office, President Wefald should move out of his house and let my vice president and I move in.
- 10) David Levin for president.

OUR VIEW

is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. OUR VIEW is the Collegian's official opinion.

Sarah Bahari
Editor in Chief

Becky Wilson
Managing Editor

Bryan Scribner
News Editor

Erin Schneewis
Opinion Editor

Nancy Hull
Campus Editor

Nancy Foster
City/Government Editor

J.J. Duncan
Arts & Entertainment Editor

Michael Noll
Sports Editor

Corbin H. Crable
Copy Chief

Sara Martin
Design Editor

Jamie Barrett
Online News Editor

The Collegian's Campus Fourum is an anonymous call-in system that allows readers to voice their opinions on topics relevant to the publication.

Could those old-fashioned urinals in Cardwell stick out a tad farther, please?

If I have to copy one more honor code on my General Physics test I am going to vomit.

I was just wondering why there are so many horses behind the parking lot in Weber. Is K-State becoming a glue factory or something?

I would just like to say thanks to Ken Wells. His column is the only column I look forward to reading every week for pure enjoyment. Thanks, Ken.

To the girl who uses eight pens in anthropology: Why don't you worry about using one pen instead of worrying about the people talking in class?

You know you live in Kansas when the rodeo makes the front page of the college newspaper.

This is to Cristina Janney, who has a problem with insurance. An insurance is actually a business to make money, not a service. Some things need to be differentiated.

Boy, the Alumni Center sure went up fast. But who knew it was going to be a trailer house?

I agree that we should stand up for the rights of the mentally ill and definitely provide equal coverage for physical and mental illnesses.

Nathan Leeper, you are a hottie. Will you marry me or one of my roommates? I would just like to have you around to look at.

Aauggghhh. I just fell in a pothole. Fix those things.

I've got just three words for Chase Manhattan Apartments: class action lawsuit. Be ready to pay up, baby.

Question for Tuesday: The Kansas Legislature is trying to make it mandatory to register kegs. Should it be required?

Education begins in the CLASSROOM

Outside pressures can cause teachers to transcend book learning

There are some details of this story I can't tell you, the first of which is her name. That's OK, though, because she had an identity crisis in the third grade and changed it herself, with varying degrees of success. People have called her a lot of different things ever since. She's married now, but because I knew her for 15 years by her maiden name, I still haven't been able to make the switch to Mrs. ... whatever. So, to keep it simple, we'll call her Mary.

There. That was simple. The second detail I can't disclose is the city in which she lives. It's not that her city is essential to the story or responsible for the problems involved, but I don't want anybody to go looking for her.

And with all this secrecy, one might expect the proceeding story to be shattering or scandalous, or at least juicy. No such luck.

My friend Mary teaches middle school science in Spanish. Her students speak little or no English (more than 70 percent of them get reduced-rate lunches). Although her teaching certification is in language arts, and that's what she actually was hired to teach, a last-minute shortage caused her to be bumped to a middle school subject she hasn't studied since, well, middle school. That's a hefty responsibility for a woman of 22.

However, it's her extra-curricular activities that have me worried. Recently, a group of her female students, ages 14 and younger, approached her for advice on how to convince their boyfriends, some of whom are in their 20s, to use condoms.

What's a good Catholic school graduate to do?

This Catholic school alumnae took matters into her own hands. Unbeknownst to her public school colleagues and the families of the inquisitive girls in question, Mary said to hell with the after-school specials and instead dished out some after-school reality. She's been using her late afternoons to drive the girls to Planned Parenthood and help them acquire contraceptives.

So, that's the story. She told it to me over the phone last weekend, and while it's hardly the most interesting part of a day in the life of a bilingual inner-city science teacher, it's the part I haven't been able to shake.

Meanwhile, the biggest ethical dilemmas I've had this week have involved paper vs. plastic and whether I should join the BMG music club again under yet another assumed name. College is just about the safest place in the world to be, and to prove it, all we have to do is look at our friends on the other side of the diploma.

Mary is putting her job and her livelihood on the line with her decision, and she does it without blinking an eye. In fact, her choice is so bold that it defies criticism. The ethics of birth control, the endorsement of premarital sex and the separation of church and state all vanish in a selfless, breath-taking act of maternal protection. She was hired to teach language arts, tricked into teaching science instead and finally forced into teaching a crash course in human survival.

There's no point in moralizing the situation, as morals are both expensive and time-consuming. Where Mary works, no one can afford them, and time is of the essence. Middle school was dangerous enough when kids flushed cherry bombs and called each other cruel names. Who knew how quickly things would accelerate?

She probably won't be up for teacher of the year, and given the primal conditions in which she teaches, her idealism eventually is bound to give way to a nihilistic watershed. But for now, Mary is in it for all the right reasons. She's telling her students the truth, which often is hard to come by in school, and she's smart enough to know there are things that can't be taught in a classroom.

I don't know if she'll ever be the favorite teacher of any of her students, but she's certainly one of mine. Mark Twain said, "I have never let my schooling interfere with my education." As usually is the case, Mr. Twain has said it all.

Some people can survive this world without ever having to make a snap decision or a choice of real consequence. For some folks, push never comes to shove. Lives like that are manageable, even low maintenance. But they also are thin.

My friend Mary is giving her students the facts, straight up, no chaser. And in Spanish, no less. I only can pray that nothing gets lost in the translation.

Christopher is a fifth-year senior in theater. You can e-mail him at crp3280@ksu.edu.

CHRISTOPHER PIATT

VINCE JACOBSON / Collegian

Big changes produced from small steps

Small steps. Big changes.

When Brandon and I sat down and discussed why we wanted to run for the offices of student body president and vice president, we both agreed we wanted to make use of the offices, we wanted to affect every single student at K-State, and that's what we will do.

We believe the Student Governing Association is a tremendous organization, and students involved in this organization have the ability to benefit this campus in a positive way. We are fresh faces to SGA.

Some will say we lack experience — we say they lack initiative. We will tackle the small problems that affect students, to produce changes that will be welcome to all K-State students.

Not enough focus is put on improving the conditions of problems at K-State. Instead of offering new promises to students, we plan on improving smaller aspects that affect students' lives.

K-State is growing in numbers every year, yet we are one of three schools in the Big 12 without a formal freshman orientation program.

We plan to start a program consisting of three days directly before classes begin to introduce new students to this campus. Every aspect of campus will be put on display; every new student on campus will have the resources available to make their college experiences better.

We think the week before final examinations begin should be a mandated "dead week," in which no papers, tests or assignments are given. This week is intended for mental preparation for the strenuous task of final examinations.

Professors should realize the use of this week and prepare ahead for work that needs to be assigned. We will make

KYLE BARKER

BRANDON KAUFFMAN

the week before finals a true "dead week."

Night tests are becoming the norm for too many classes, and although the cause of night tests stem from a lack of educational space at this university, the problem must be solved. Night tests interfere with students' lives, for those with employment, children and organizational meetings, these tests are given at times when students should not be asked to be available.

Classes must be restructured to permit testing during class periods or credit hours should be awarded for the extra time these tests take away from students.

This ticket supports in full the resolutions brought before Student Senate to engage in a more efficient wait list for K-State students. The current wait list program is inefficient and does not enable students to successfully gain access into classes where there is room. We support a unified wait list system that will make enrolling easier and faster for all students.

Transportation in Manhattan is an issue that affects all students. K-State students are in need of safe transportation to class, work and recreational engagements. The current transportation proposal asks too much from the students of K-State. We support a transit system that will benefit the community of Manhattan, but we believe students and the community should share the cost of such a program equally.

Finally, rental property in Manhattan needs to be safe for students. If the Manhattan City Commission does not enact mandatory rental inspections, we will produce a rental guide aimed at K-State students to inform them of inadequate housing and rental agents in this town.

These ideas are for students. We are here for students — your rights, your wishes, your commands. We want your vote March 5-7.

Small steps. Big changes.

Kyle is a junior in public relations and political science. You can e-mail him at kcb5924@ksu.edu. Brandon is a junior in political science. You can e-mail him at bak0202@ksu.edu.

Campus program adds to night safety

By ERICA COURTRIGHT
Kansas State Collegian

There is relief for those night owls who work on campus. The Women's Center and the K-State Police are co-sponsors of an office and lab watch called the OWL program. Although the program has existed since July 1998, sponsors say it has received little use.

The program allows students, faculty and staff to request walk-throughs of campus labs or offices they will be working in

MORE INFO?
To use the OWL program, call the non-emergency campus police at 532-6412.

K-State Police, but people were hesitant to call the police when there wasn't an emergency.

She said that's the reason the Women's Center became during evenings by calling the campus police.

Maria McAnerney, a member of the Women's Center staff, said the service always has been provided by involved in the program.

"The Women's Center just helped to create awareness and a name for the service that was already offered," McAnerney said.

"Basically, we wanted people to know about the service and to use it if they were uncomfortable being on campus late in the evening."

K-State police officer David Johnson said the service is most often used by graduate students, but even then, it's only used about once a month.

The Women's Center has made posters to promote the service and placed them on bulletin boards around campus, but Johnson said the program continues to be one of the most underused services on campus.

Despite the low rate of use, however, Johnson said the OWL program is still important.

"It fits in well with the overall concept of campus safety, along with Wildcat Walk and having police officers on duty," he said.

"Campus safety is always an important issue."

BUGLE BOY

■ continued from page 1

In the 1 1/2 years he worked at Bugle Boy, Reece moved from a sales associate to a manager.

"Of course, I didn't know at the time it would be closing," Reece said.

Reece said that he wasn't too surprised when the company announced its Chapter 11 bankruptcy filing to its stores Feb. 5.

He said he'd already seen a funnel effect of chaos from the top down and knew the company was struggling.

Arceneaux said he expects the store to close in mid-April after sales liquidate the merchandise, but he said the date is subject to change depending on how fast sales occur.

"We'll be going to 90-percent off," Arceneaux said.

Arceneaux added that refunds on merchandise purchased before Feb. 5 can be returned with a receipt.

Allen Raynor, general manager of the Manhattan Town Center, said he doesn't know yet what store might take over the space Bugle Boy now occupies.

He also reiterated that Bugle Boy's closing is part of company-wide problems.

"It's not really a reflection of the store, necessarily," he said.

U.S. officials help Kuwait celebrate anniversary

By DIANA ELIAS
The Associated Press

KUWAIT — As allied war jets flew overhead, Kuwaitis raised their flag and performed a traditional victory dance Sunday to mark the 10th anniversary of the end of the Gulf War and freedom from Iraqi occupation.

Security was tight as Gulf War heroes — including former President George Bush and former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher — watched men in robes perform the arda, the Gulf's traditional dance depicting the "joy of victory," with swords and rifles.

Kuwait, which has held off on such galas for a decade out of respect for its war missing, is celebrating liberation day with pomp and parades for the first time since the war's end in 1991.

"It's a glorious day," said Salem Abdullah, a 47-year-old civil servant. "But one thing is missing — our POWs."

Kuwait accuses Baghdad of holding some 600 people captive. Iraq insists, however, that it has released all war prisoners.

The Kuwaiti government decided to part with tradition this year because liberation day, Feb. 26, falls one day before the 40th anniversary of the country's independence from Britain in 1961.

On Sunday, soldiers received the Kuwaiti flag from the crown prince, Sheik Saad Al Abdullah Al Sabah, and hoisted it on a pole at the seaside Flag Square. Balloons and white pigeons went flying into the air, women ululated and schoolgirls sang.

Bush and retired Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf, who led the international military coalition that fought the war, watched live-fire maneuvers by U.S., British and Kuwaiti forces some 30 miles from the Iraqi border.

Secretary of State Colin Powell, the former general who served as chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff during the crisis, arrived in Kuwait later Sunday.

Small, oil-rich Kuwait with its tiny army still depends on its Gulf War allies — mainly the United States and Britain — for protection. Kuwait signed 10-year defense agreements with its Western allies after the war, and has renewed the pact with Washington through 2011.

Baghdad has heightened its campaign against Kuwait in recent months with Odai Hussein, the Iraqi president's son, telling Parliament

Iraq's map should be altered to include Kuwait.

On Sunday, the pro-government Al-Anba daily published a cartoon of a joyous Kuwaiti sticking his tongue out at a jumpy, sweating Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and saying "Welcome Bush," repeating the former president's name 15 times.

When Bush visited Kuwait in 1993 for the first time after the war, he was given a hero's welcome and showered with gifts and gratitude.

After the visit, five Iraqis and a Kuwaiti were sentenced to death for plotting to kill him with a car bomb during the trip. Baghdad denied it had anything to do with the plan, and the men have not yet been hanged.

"We have to be on alert always," Abdullah said. "And until Saddam is toppled, foreign protection remains necessary."

SPEAK YOUR MIND

CALL THE CAMPUS FOURUM AT 395-4444.

KSU Meat Sale

WEDNESDAY 3-6 p.m.
FRIDAY Noon-6 p.m.

Rm. 166 Weber Hall

10% off with this coupon!

BEEF roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst
PORK pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

Not valid with any other offer

For information call 532-1279

Optimum Nutrition

Protein Diet, Whey, etc.

• Increase Energy • Decrease Appetite • Increase Metabolism • Decrease Body Fat

GNC LiveWell

WESTLOOP 537-8191

Locally Owned & Operated

GNC LiveWell

Save $5

on Sunnatrix & Sildenafil

Alpha Delta Pi

150th Anniversary

Established May 15, 1851 as the first sorority.

Alpha Delta Pi is celebrating 150 years of tradition in excellence.

the first and the finest

Audio Junction, Inc.

www.audioj.com

Mon.-Fri. 10-7 Sat. 10-5

307 Fort Riley Blvd.
Manhattan, Kansas
66502
(785)587-4646

Precision Power Sale!

PrecisionPower

Absolutely State of the Art Mobile Audio

Stop by for savings from $50 to $150 OFF American made Precision Power Amplifiers. These amps combine unmatched sound quality and power backed by a 3 year warranty! Layaway is available, so take advantage of these insanely low prices while they are still available!

GET IT ONLINE

BEAT THE CLOCK Mondays

Gambino's Pizza

The Time is the Price!
6 p.m. - Close
Large One Topping Pizzas!
Add $3 & choose a Specialty

Dine In • Carryout • Delivery
537-9090

PRO in Aggieville 539-7095

"We will meet or beat any Internet price"

* Bring in printout from internet.

Pro Rated Semester Student Memberships $40

BUY 1 MEAL GET 1 FREE AT EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE

EXCLUDING SPECIAL OF THE DAY

SAFARI JACK

Valid only Sunday - Thursday

710 N. Manhattan Expires 6/01/01

Scholarship, Service, & Leadership

Spring Recruitment

February 28 & March 1

SIGMA KAPPA SORORITY

Bringing Sisterhood To Life

For more information
Please Contact Kristina at 395-2960

PULITZER PRIZE WINNER DRAMA

EBONY THEATRE PRESENTS

A SOLDIER'S PLAY

BY CHARLES FULLER

March 8, 9, 10

Purple Masque Theatre 8 pm

Matinee Saturday, March 10, 1 pm

Tickets: $4 students $6 adults

McCain Box Office - noon to 5 pm weekdays

532-6428

(For mature audiences)

Kathy Chuda returns the ball in K-State's matchup against BYU last week.
 KELLY GLASSCOCK/Collegian

BOUNCING BACK

No. 6 Notre Dame defeats K-State in close meet at Ahearn

By ERIKA SAUERWEIN
 Kansas State Collegian

Junior Alena Jecminkova now knows she can compete with the best in the country.

K-State's top singles player defeated the No. 2 ranked player in the country in the Wildcats 4-3 loss to Notre Dame on Friday at Ahearn Field House.

But Jecminkova's win over Michelle Dasso was no fluke. She easily defeated the senior All-American in two sets, winning, 6-2, 6-0.

"Alena never let Michelle get on track," head coach Steve Bietau said. "She seemed to have a difficult time adjusting to the court and the atmosphere. I talked to Alena in one of the change-ups about not giving her a chance to find her rhythm. To do that, you have to keep attacking and taking advantage of every opportunity to win a point."

Dasso was noticeably frustrated throughout the match, and Jecminkova took advantage.

"When your opponent gets frustrated, that's the best thing that can happen," Jecminkova said. "You just have to keep playing and not concentrate on her. Usually, when I play against the really good opponents and they lose the first set, they really start fighting. I was a little surprised that the second set went so easily. I thought it was going to be a fight, and really she just gave up."

Bietau said Jecminkova's bounce back from her loss to BYU's Jodi Richardson, 6-0, 7-6, on Thursday was her biggest accomplishment.

"She showed a lot of intensity today in both her doubles and singles," Bietau said. "She didn't play well yesterday but has responded extremely well today."

The Wildcats (3-4) started the match against No. 6 Notre Dame (8-2) with a stronger mind set than they had against BYU. Instead of dropping the double matches easily, K-State put up a strong fight against the Irish. All three double teams lost 8-6.

"There is a clear difference from yesterday," Bietau said. "In 24 hours, we hit both ends of the scale. I thought we played extremely well in all three doubles matches. Notre Dame didn't quite have a feeling for the place at first. I thought we were definitely ready to play in the doubles and did a good job of capitalizing. You just hope that the players learn what they're capable of, but also we are not satisfied that we got close."

In the No. 1 doubles match, Jecminkova and Eva Novotna were challenged by Dasso and Becky Varnum, the fifth-ranked doubles team in the nation. At one point the Wildcats had a 6-3 lead, but K-State failed to keep serve and the Irish capitalized on the mistakes.

"It was frustrating to see our lead go down, but we didn't want to change too much because we were doing well," Novotna said. "But then we started making mistakes. But we fought hard the whole match. All three doubles matches were very close."

After Jecminkova's win on the singles side of the match, Notre Dame took the second, third and fourth singles pairings. No. 3 singles player Novotna lost in two sets to Nina Vaughan 6-2, 6-4.

"I think I gave her more respect than I should have," Novotna said. "The first set went by pretty fast, but I had more chances in the second to take the lead, and it was a close game. She was definitely a great player."

The Wildcats then went on to win the fifth and sixth singles matches. Kathy Chuda defeated Kimberly Guy 6-2, 6-1, and Hayley McIver edged out Katie Cunba by winning a third set tie-breaker.

"The strength of Notre Dame is at the end of the line-up," Bietau said. "They have five or six players that can play No. 3. They just don't drop a lot. The lower in the line-up, the tougher it is to win against them. We had to look for some other people to step up."

K-State went 0-2 for the weekend, but Novotna said the team can't get frustrated by the outcomes.

"It's hard that we lost two matches in a row, but today we played the No. 6 team in the nation, so that is tough," she said. "But at the same time, we just have to take the positives and the negatives and learn from them."

The Wildcats will look to even out their record when they face Tulsa at 11 a.m. today in Tulsa.

"It's a different story and a different match," Novotna said. "We are going to start all over again."

TENNIS STATS

No. 46 K-State 3
 No. 6 Notre Dame 4

Singles

Alena Jecminkova (K-State) def.
 Michelle Dasso (ND) 6-2, 6-0

Becky Varnum (ND) def.
 Petra Sedlmajerova (K-State) 6-1, 6-3

Nina Vaughan (ND) def.
 Eva Novotna (K-State) 6-2, 6-4

Caylan Leslie (ND) def.
 Paulina Castillejos (K-State) 6-0, 6-3

Kathy Chuda (K-State) def.
 Kimberly Guy (ND) 6-2, 6-1

Hayley McIver (K-State) def.
 Katie Cunba (ND) 7-6, 3-6, 7-6 (11-9)

Doubles

Dasso/Varnum (ND) def.
 Jecminkova/Novotna (K-State) 8-6

Cunba/Guy (ND) def.
 Sedlmajerova/Chuda (K-State) 8-6

Leslie/Vaughan (ND) def.
 Castillejos/McIver (K-State) 8-6

Cats' turnovers, poor shooting lead to OSU victory

Photo Courtesy of Oklahoma State

K-State sophomore forward Quentin Buchanan shoots over an OSU defender Saturday in Stillwater, Okla. K-State lost the game 52-47.

The Associated Press

STILLWATER, Okla. — At this stage of the season, Oklahoma State coach Eddie Sutton isn't worried about style points.

"I've had games in my 41 years where we played lights out and got beat," Sutton said. "I'd rather have a game like this and win."

His Cowboys shot a season-low 32 percent Saturday, but managed to beat K-State 52-47 to keep their NCAA tournament hopes alive.

Fredrik Jonzen had 17 points and eight rebounds and came up with a big shot and two free throws in the final 36 seconds to carry the Cowboys.

Now 17-7 overall, Oklahoma State plays at Texas Tech on Monday and at home against Baylor on Wednesday, two winnable games before finishing the regular season at Oklahoma next Saturday.

"If you drop one of those next two games, you really have to play well in the tournament," Sutton said.

"I told our team last week that these next four games, in my opinion, could go a long way toward determining if we have a shot at the NCAA tournament."

The Cowboys (8-5 Big 12) dented their tournament hopes by losing at home to Texas last week. They have followed with victories at Texas A&M and against K-State.

This one nearly got away. K-State (9-16, 3-11) frustrated the Cowboys with a strong defensive performance, but had a tough time finding the basket as well. After shooting 54 percent in the first half, when they led by as many as eight, the Wildcats hit just 21.7 percent (5-of-23) in the second half.

"You've got to give these kids credit for placing themselves in a position to win," said coach Jim Woodridge, whose team has lost nine of 10. "It was the poor shooting. We couldn't make a basket."

K-State scored just three points in the final 4:45 of the first half, then started the second half by going scoreless for nearly 7 1/2 minutes. But the Wildcats only trailed 35-29 because Oklahoma State was struggling, too.

The Cowboys had 13 first-half turnovers. Eight of them — including turnovers on five straight possessions — came during an eight-minute stretch when K-State outscored them 15-3 to take a 21-16 lead.

The Wildcats committed six turnovers and missed their first three shots of the second half, but Oklahoma State started out 1-of-8 to keep things close.

A three-pointer by Phineas Atchison gave K-State a 43-42 lead with 6:45 left. His jumper with 4:20 remaining tied the game at 45, but it proved to be the Wildcats' final basket.

Two free throws by Kelvin Howell with 54.8 seconds left gave K-State its final lead, 47-46.

The Cowboys got the ball to Jonzen at the other end of the floor, and his short jumper from the left baseline bounced around and through for a 48-47 lead with 36 seconds to play.

"It felt like a long time when I saw the ball hit the rim and bounce around the rim, but when it went in it was a relief," Jonzen said.

Atchison missed a leaper in the lane, and Jonzen grabbed the rebound and was fouled with 12.1 seconds left. He sank both free throws for a 50-47 lead.

After Larry Reid missed a long three-point try, Victor Williams was fouled with 1.7 seconds left and made both free throws for the final margin.

Williams had 13 points, and Maurice Baker had 11 points, eight rebounds and six assists. Howell, Atchison and Richie Terry scored 10 each for K-State.

Track teams compete at Big 12 meet; athletes break records

Senior Korene Hinds set a meet record of 2:47.47 in the 1,000-meter run, leading the women's track and field team to a third-place finish in the Big 12 Conference Indoor Track and Field Championships in Lincoln, Neb.

Hinds' time was 3.5 seconds faster than her previous best, even though she was trying to save energy for the 3,000-meter run.

"It was just a comfortable pace," Hinds said. "I was going out trying to save some for the 3,000. The plan was to outkick whomever was in the lead."

Freshman Rebekah Green placed first in the shot put with a throw of 53-3.75, and Austra Skulyte won the pentathlon with 3,935 points.

The women finished the meet with 104 points, just 1.5 points behind second-place Texas. Nebraska placed first with 143.5 points.

On the men's side, junior Shadrack Kimeli won the 3,000 meters in 8:13.61. He also placed second in the mile with a time of 4:05.69. Sophomore Terence Newman set two K-State records, placing third in the 200 meters with a time of 21.20. He also ran 6.70 in the 60 meters to finish third.

The men finished with 75 points, their best ever finish in the five-year history of the Big 12 Indoor Championships. Nebraska placed first with 124 points.

— Michael Noll

Women's basketball team loses to Colorado on Saturday, 74-56

BOULDER, Colo. — Britt Hartshorn scored 19 points and had 12 rebounds as No. 16 Colorado beat K-State 74-56 on Saturday night.

Hartshorn led four Colorado players in double figures, enough to overcome a 20-point performance by K-State freshman Nicole Ohlde.

Colorado (20-6, 11-4 Big 12) built a 59-46 lead in the first 10 minutes of the second half, but K-State (12-14, 2-13) cut the lead to five with an eight-point run.

The Wildcats didn't score again, however, until Andrea Armstrong's basket with 8.1 seconds remaining.

Colorado increased its final lead at the foul line, hitting 10 of its last 12 free throws.

Colorado shot 47 percent from the floor but 84 percent from the free-throw line. K-State shot 45 percent from the field and 71 percent on free throws.

— The Associated Press

K-State baseball team swept by Longhorns in 3-game series

K-State fought the tough Texas pitching, and the Texas pitching won.

The Longhorns swept the three-game series, winning 6-1, 3-0 and 13-3.

In the first game, Texas junior right-hander Gerrit Simpson allowed just six hits, and the Cats didn't score their lone run until the ninth inning.

"Simpson was awesome from the mound," K-State head coach Mike Clark said. "He was putting pitches where he wanted them. We were continually behind the count. His stuff was awfully good."

The series' second game featured more of the same.

Texas junior right-hander Albert Montes pitched a complete shutout with a career-high eight strikeouts. K-State could manage just five hits.

Encouragingly, though, Cat pitcher Luke Robertson nearly matched Montes. The junior right-hander pitched a complete game, allowing just three runs and five hits.

"This was a well-played, well-pitched game by both teams," Clark said. "We just couldn't get a good at-bat when we had someone on base."

— Michael Noll

3 Cat rowers earn 1st-place finishes at Kansas Erg Sprints

K-State's rowers, competing as unaffiliated athletes, earned three first-place finishes in the Indoor Rowing Championship at Anshutz Sports Pavilion in Lawrence.

The rowers competed in three events — the open over-20 years, the open under-20 years and the coxswain category. All three events, competed on rowing machines, were 2,000 meters.

K-State's coxswains took the top three places. In the over-20, senior Missy Darnell placed first with a K-State record time of 7:24.1.

Cat rowers also placed third, fifth, seventh, 13th, 14th and 17th. In the under-20, walk-on freshman Joyce Meyer also placed first with a time of 7:24.1.

Three other Cats also placed in the top 20.

— K-State Sports Information contributed to this article.

— Michael Noll

IN REVIEW

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR: JJ DUNCAN
532-0732 ■ arts@pub.ksu.edu

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 2001

7

Cryptquip & CROSSWORD

presented by:
1219 Moro
Aggieville

JASVA
(785) 587-8888

CROSSWORD By Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
- 1 Capitol cap
5 Matter-horn, e.g.
8 Nightclub name
12 "Green Acres" co-star
14 Microwave, e.g.
15 Mien
16 Noted movie reviewer
17 Tolkien tree creature
18 In a bad way
20 Mr. Earp
23 Ache
24 Erstwhile acorns
25 Anadem
28 Ivy-League
29 Fast-food side dish
30 — pro nobis
32 London's place
34 Gravy vessel
35 A shoe-string
36 Gamut
- DOWN
- 1 Calendar abbr.
2 Eggs
3 Scratch the surface
4 Heron's relatives
5 Blind as —
6 Journal
7 See
8 Halolike ring
9 Finished spot
10 Banana-eater's castoff
11 Actor Griffith
13 "— We Got Fun?"
19 Rem-brand's medium
20 Travail
21 28-Across' school
22 Related
23 "Common Sense" man
25 "Heavens to Betsy!"
26 Lunch hour, often
27 Pull
29 Condo unit
31 Packed away
33 Motorless airplane
34 Bruce Wayne's alias
36 Impetuous
37 Newsweek rival
38 Arm of the Black Sea
39 Pit
40 RBL, e.g.
43 Rockies tribe
44 Questionnaire question
45 16-Across' first name
46 Stick with a kick
- Solution time: 24 mins.
- Saturday's answer 2-26

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone rotary phones (18+ only.) A King Features service. NYC

CRYPTOQUIP

LO INFO XMKI N
LORR-OVMKNSOV
LONSIOZJNP: U UJNYUPO
IO INX XOFOZNR VOYZOXX

Saturday's Cryptoquip: I ONCE KNEW A KIND BIRD WATCHER WHO TOOK BRIGHT STUDENTS UNDER HIS WING.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: L equals W

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error. © 2001 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW RELEASES

MOVIES

"Original Kings of Comedy"
"Bedazzled"
"Lady and the Tramp 2"
"Nurse Betty"
"Lost Souls"

MUSIC

Dave Matthews Band: "Everyday"
Jessica Andrews: "Who I Am"
A*Teens: "Teen Spirit"
Pearl Jam: "Live CDs"
Gladys Knight: "At Last"
Soundtrack for "The Mexican"

COURTESY PHOTO

unheard musical TALENT

L.A. band releases new album after successful 'Mission:Impossible 2' soundtrack offering

The new album "Tried and True" from the up-and-coming band Tinfed will have people wondering why they've never heard of this talented group before.

This L.A.-based band that once competed with the Deftones has found a sound that is catchy, personal and original. Now on tour with Orgy, Tinfed has been grabbing national attention for its inclusion on the "Mission:Impossible 2" soundtrack and its video for the single "Drop."

Tinfed uses electronica to drive its plush sound without ignoring the importance of instrumentation. While this isn't a new idea, Tinfed is one more band that is proving that the future of nearly all American music is infused with elements of techno.

The album packs quite a bit of pop punch in the early tracks. The notable second track, "Way Thru" may only last for three minutes 14 seconds, but its catchy chorus, "I'd love for you to pick me up on your way through," will stay in your head all day. It may not have been the best track planning to have that followed directly by "Immune," which is the track from the "Mi:2" soundtrack, then their MTV-recognized single "Drop" on right after that. It has the effect of loading the front of the album and giving less reason to listen to the album all the "way thru." Listeners should stick with the album and listen to the sound of Tinfed. The interesting blend of techno sounds and pop style keep the album moving. The reason it seems Tinfed hasn't enjoyed much popularity is because its style is moderate. It doesn't commit to a heavy blend of rock and electronica like its touring partner, Orgy. It didn't go for a straight pop appeal, and it doesn't focus on the mellower side of its sound that may get it grouped with the likes of Moby, Unkle or Radiohead. Instead, Tinfed uses rock, pop and electronica to create a sound that defies quick comparisons, is full of hooks, but may lack some edge. Anyone who picks up the album will likely at least be impressed with the talent of Tinfed. Lyrical significance within smart, progressive music seems to be something that is lacking in the modern music scene.

"TINFED: 'TRIED and TRUE'"

★★★★☆

ALBUM REVIEW BY JJ DUNCAN

Costner, Russell action flick leaves moviegoers all shook up

No one would have guessed that Elvis impersonators robbing a Las Vegas casino would build the plot for a smash action movie, but "3000 Miles to Graceland" is king to say the least.

Kurt Russell and Kevin Costner star in this fast-paced shoot-'em-up that keeps the audience entertained for the whole two hours, even if it has to use a few cheesy gimmicks. The mindless action movie is exactly what movie theaters needed to carry in a year so far dominated by feeble attempts at comedy.

Acclaimed music video director Demian Lichtenstein ("Lowball") makes his first attempt at a big-budget major motion picture with "Graceland." While the director falls into a few pitfalls with the script, he seemingly pulls the movie off with ease, creating amazing action sequences and seamlessly weaving heavy metal, techno and Elvis into one film.

Early in the movie, the casino robbery scene is brilliantly directed. Think five heavily armed Elvises directed in a John Wu-style, robbing a casino in the middle of an Elvis convention set to techno. The result is one of the best shoot-out scenes in recent memory. Don't expect the carnage to end. Costner's maniacal character, Murphy, keeps the body count rising as he and Michael (Russell) are pursued by law enforcement agencies after they split up at odds with each other. Murphy stays interesting as it is revealed that he is likely the illegitimate son of Elvis, giving the character a drive behind his psychotic tendencies. I'm not sure when Costner started playing bad guys, but maybe he needs to try it more often because he actually seems like a decent actor in this movie.

The lack of character development almost works for "Graceland" in keeping the action coming. Still, Lichtenstein fails to make any figure of authority believable, and the romance between Cybill (Courtney Cox) and Russell seems whimsical and sketchy.

Go to the movie expecting a guy film with plenty of bullets, stuff getting blown up and lots of machismo. Russell and Costner are nothing less than a couple of badasses in this movie, so just try to have fun watching the most masculine film of the year.

"3000 MILES TO GRACELAND"

★★★★☆

MOVIE REVIEW BY JJ DUNCAN

Big-screen graphic novel translation falls short

What could have been a spectacular union between real actors and animation instead blew up in the faces of director Henry Selick and writer Sam Hamm in this weekend's box office failure, "Monkeybone."

"Monkeybone," based on the graphic novel "Dark Town," retells the familiar story of an invention being the ultimate (or near) demise of its creator. Brendan Fraser ("The Mummy") plays Stu Miley, a cartoonist who creates a back-stabbing and hormone-charged cartoon character, Monkeybone.

Stu is in a car accident and, in a coma, he is taken to an underworld of sorts for people who are in a coma and either waiting to wake up or waiting to die.

To get out of this pseudo-afterlife, he literally must cheat Death (Whoopi Goldberg, in a completely unfunny role). Somehow, Monkeybone does so instead and enters Stu's earthly body, waking him up from the coma. Afterwards (you guessed it) madness and chaos ensue as Monkeybone/Stu tries to ruin the cartoonist's reputation and have some fun ... with Stu's girlfriend (Bridget Fonda). The sequences in the underworld are reminiscent of Tim Burton's "The Nightmare Before Christmas," and bits and pieces of the dark humor are reminiscent of Burton's "Beetlejuice." However, don't mistake this disaster for Burton's brilliant work. "Monkeybone" will appeal to lovers of toilet humor and fart jokes, but little else. At least "Beetlejuice" had memorable one-liners. Unfortunately, there isn't anything memorable about "Monkeybone."

A seasoned actress, Fonda does well with what she is given in her one-dimensional role; Fraser, meanwhile, hopefully will be able to put this movie behind him with the much-anticipated opening of "The Mummy Returns" this May. Either way, the actors and actresses hopefully will bounce back from this box office bomb. After all, with its low viewer numbers at theaters nationwide this weekend, I don't expect "Monkeybone" to remain at theaters for more than two weeks total. Maybe after that, everyone involved can just move on and forget this cinematic atrocity ever happened.

"MONKEYBONE"

★★★★☆

MOVIE REVIEW BY CORBIN H. CRABLE

THE GONGFARMER

BY RANDY REGIER

Monkey Boy

BY BRENT ENGSTROM - MONKEYBOYCOMIC@HOTMAIL.COM

Give us your opinion.

Campus
Forum:
395-4444

GET YOUR ROYAL PURPLE

$34.95 Kedzie 103

TOMORROW NIGHT

Longhorns
Mardi Gras Party

• Party Favors
• Drink Specials
$2 Pitchers
$2 Wells

• OPEN AT 9 PM •

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS 776-5577
1800 Claflin Road

Little Caesars
MONDAY MARCH 5
NEW! 1 BIG BIG
LARGE PIZZA
14" WITH 1 TOPPING
$5.99
CARRYOUT
NO LIMITS
Small: Monday only at participating locations for a limited time.
No cash necessary. ©1999 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

Little Caesars Pizza
Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!
MANHATTAN (Westloop Center) 539-3333

Joe's Tap Room
10¢ Wings 5-9 and $2 BIGGER Beers
FAT TUESDAY
Bead Bash
TOMORROW NIGHT
Featuring the
"Soco Girls" with
Live D.J. Blake Chafin

Porter's
BAR
MANHATTAN, KS
$2.00 Big Beers
$1.50 Wells
3-9 Cajun Crawfish Dinner
w/corn on the cob & new potatoes
BABES & BEADS
Fat Tuesday Bash
Biggest in the 'ville
100 Free T's after 6 p.m.

DAVE MATTHEWS
DAVE MATTHEWS
TONIGHT
Feb. 26th 8:00 p.m.
CD Release Party
Prizes & Giveaways from
Streetside Records,
Audio Junction, & Budweiser
New CD on sale at midnight
1129 Laramie 537-4045

Mardi Gras
Jazz
Vespers
Feb. 27
5:30 p.m.
Union Little Theatre
ALL ARE WELCOME!
Sponsored by KSU Campus Ministries

Earn $5000 - $8000
this Summer
Fry-Wagner Moving and Storage
offers excellent wages, potential overtime, and long term job
security for college students
looking for summer employment.
Call Doug Morgan at 800-394-0049 ext. 250
to reserve your spot on the summer crew.

RECREATIONAL SERVICES
Nutrition & Eating Disorders
A free presentation in the Wellness Resource Center
at the Rec Complex
February 27 at 7p.m.
Presented by Fitness Consultants
Megan Brzon & Kendra Glassman

McCAIN
PERFORMANCE SERIES
SPRING 2001
Galton
"No Irish traditional band in the last dozen years, except perhaps for the Chieftains, has had a wider impact on audiences and music lovers throughout the world..."
- INTERNATIONAL MUSIC NETWORK
MONDAY, MARCH 5 AT 7:30 PM.
For ticket information, call 785-532-6428
or stop by the McCain Box Office
Monday through Friday, noon to 5 p.m.
K-State
Fine Arts
Fes

COMMERCE BANK
DISTINGUISHED GRADUATE FACULTY MEMBER AWARD
Students, Faculty and Staff
Are Invited to an Honor Lecture
"Oxide Analogues in Transition Metal Chemistry" by Eric A. Maatta
Department of Chemistry
Recipient of the 2000 Commerce Bank
Distinguished Graduate Faculty Member Award
Hale Library, Hemisphere Room
3:30 P.M., Thursday, March 1, 2001
Kansas State University
Manhattan, Kansas
Reception following the lecture in the foyer of the Hemisphere Room

Eating Disorders Awareness Week
Feb. 25 - March 4
SHADES OF GRAY:
Disordered Eating and Campus Life
Thursday March 1
7:00 p.m.
KSSU Ballroom
2nd Floor
K-State Student Union
Sponsored by:
• Health Education & Promotion
Lafene Health center
• Union Program Council
• Student Dietetic Association
• University Counseling Services
SPEAKER: RONI SCHWARTZ, M.B.A., R.D.

KANSAS STATE OPERA THEATRE
PROUDLY PRESENTS...
"THE TENDER LAND"
A SPLENDID OPERA BY
MR. AARON
COPLAND
A MODERN MASTERPIECE
FEATURING EXCITING LOCAL TALENT
March 1 thru March 3
In Spacious at 8:00 p.m.
McCain Auditorium
Adults $11
Students/seniors $8
Call McCain 532-6428
The harrowing tale of a loving mother and the two dangerous drifters who try to steal her oldest daughter...
DON'T MISS THIS SWELL
LIMITED ENGAGEMENT!

"Crazy" Ted Varney would have loved this...
CRAZY TEXTBOOK SALE
Hundreds of selected new & used textbooks
Various fields of study
Check out these crazy low prices!
(Today thru March 11)
$1.00 $2.00
Paperbacks Hardbacks
$20.00
ALL YOU CAN CARRY!
623 N. Manhattan Avenue, open 9am-9pm Mon-Sat, 11am-7pm Sun
Varney's Book Store
❖❖❖ in Aggieville ❖❖❖
www.varneys.com

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 2001

9

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

STUDIO APARTMENTS
NEXT TO CAMPUS. 1219
Clafin. Water/Trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE AUGUST
Spacious one and two-bedrooms, 1100 block of Blue-mont, trash paid, off-street parking, no pets. 776-0683.

AVAILABLE JUNE One,
two, and four-bedroom apartments and houses.
1806 Laramie, 928 Leavenworth, 316 N. 11th. No smoking/pets. 539-0590.

AVAILABLE NOW. One and two-bedroom apartments next to campus. 1320
N. Manhattan, 1225 Clafin.
Water/Trash paid, no pets.
(785)456-2812.

JUNE AND August Leases.
ONE-SIX BEDROOMS.
ALL STYLES, various locations. We have what you need! Alliance. 539-HELP (4357).

LANDLORDS WITH compensation. Available June
1st. Don't miss this one!
Brand new four-bedroom two bath at 1221 N 10th St $1200/ month. All appliances including washer and dryer. 14-month lease. No pets 776-2102.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

"LANDLORDS WITH COM-PASSION." Available August 1. "MINI-VACATION."
Lease an apartment before spring break and we will include certificate for three days, two nights, hotel accommodations at 20 different exotic locations including Cancun and Vegas. One, two, three, four, and five-bedroom apartments and duplexes, close to campus. Some brand new and some less than three years old. No pets. (785)776-2102.

NEXT TO CAMPUS, two, three, four, five, six-bedroom apartments, duplexes.
Free washer, dryer, central air. No Pets. No smoking.
Available June, August,
November. (785)537-7050.

STUDIO APARTMENT
$210/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities NEAR COL-LEGE, 930 Fremont, 770-3190.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE
For rent 770-9214 or 587-9224.

TWO-BEDROOM MAIN floor duplexes, two-bedroom basement apartment, huge one-bedroom basement apartment. All really close to KSU campus. Off-street parking. Some with washer/dryer hookups. No pets.
June 1. Call 776-4827 or 537-7852 for appointment.

115
Rooms
Available

ROOMS FOR RENT in nice two story house one block from campus. One-seventh utilities. Call Cynthia, 537-7381.

120
For Rent-
Houses

A TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses close to campus. TWO BATH, central air, laundry,
770-7230, June 1.

ABSOLUTELY BETTER than renting. Buy! Parents save money. We have homes. Close to campus.
Call Larry, Century 21
Knight (785)770-7230.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE,
a JUNE lease, washer/ dryer hook-ups, four blocks to campus. AUGUST lease, washer/ dryer, garage, fireplace, hardwood floors, new carpet. Two blocks to campus. No pets. 313-4812.

THREE-BEDROOM, RE-CENT remodel. Central air, dishwasher, clean and excellent location 1836
Elaine. $775/ month.
(785)336-6286 or (785)336-
1888.

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus. ALL BILLS PAID including cable, $625/month. (785)341-4496

145
Roommate
Wanted

$200/ MONTH plus one-fourth utilities for four-bedroom, two bath-roomHOUSE. Ask for Kevin or Chris at 776-0736.

ROOMMATE WANTED for fall 2001. Should be semi-clean, fun, doesn't mind pets. Please call Rebecca at 537-5141.

ROOMMATE WANTED for four-bedroom house. Three blocks from campus. $175/month and one-fourth utilities. 326 N. 16th. Call Tyler
(316)562-8178.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASERS needed. Two bedrooms in a four-bedroom apartment at University Commons. Individual leases. $283/ month includes cable and trash.
Available immediately. Call (785)323-0178, leave message.

SUBLEASER WANTED at University Commons, fully furnished, March-August or May-August. $283/ month, rent negotiable. Devon
776-7188 or (913)579-6109.

SUMMER SUBLEASE
Two-bedroom apartment.
Washer/ dryer. CAMPUS,
PARK. Lease through next school year, if desired. 317-0314.

ROOMMATES NEEDED 4 BEDROOM

- 2 bath
- Fully furnished
- Modern
- Recreation facilities
- Fitness center
- Computer labs
- Washer/Dryer
- and many more amenities

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

539-0500
UNIVERSITY COMMONS
APARTMENTS
2215 COLLEGE AVE.

150
Sublease

MALE SUBLEASER wanted. Available now - June 31.
Close to campus. Nice apartment, only $200 monthly plus 20% utilities.
565-0813.

SUMMER SUBLEASE!
Four-bedroom, two baths.
Close to campus. Please leave message (785)537-9895.

TWO-BEDROOM ONE-
HALF block to campus.
Available March. 776-4343,
leave message.

200 service directory

255
Other Services

ELLERY, ENGINEERING
senior, does affordable maintenance, carpentry, and appliance repair. Also, builds budget computers fitting your needs. Eight years experience. 539-0232.

TAX PREPARATION. Federal and Kansas. KSU students, $25. Credit Counselors. chris@tax-relief-system.com. 587-8967.

300 employment/opportunities

310
Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City
Hall, 587-2441.

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at
Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General
and Specialty Counselors.
Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater,
piano, arts and crafts, silver jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+ Room+ Board+ Travel.
1-800-762-2820.

HAIRSTYLIST, NAIL technician needed. Full/ part-time positions available. Apply in person at Adolph's Nail Parlor, 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

FRATERNITIES • SORORI-
TIES • Clubs • Student
Groups. Earn $1000-$2000
this semester with the easy
Campusfundraiser.com
three hour fundraising event. No sales required.
Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so call today! Contact Campusfundraiser.com
at (888)923-3238 or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

352-6560

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys,
Naples, Maine, TRIPP
LAKE CAMP for Girls, Poland, Maine. Noted for picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-
June thru mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, baseball, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, golf, flag football, roller hockey, field hockey, swimming, sailing, water skiing, gymnastics,
dance, horseback riding,
archery, weight training,
newspaper, photography,
video, woodworking, ceramics/ pottery, crafts, fine arts, silver jewelry, copper enamel, nature study, radio/ electronics, theater, costume, piano, accompanist, music instrumentalist, canoeing/kayaking, ropes course, secretarial, nanny. Call Ta-kajo at 800-250-8252 or Tripp Lake at 800-997-4347.
Submit application on-line at www.takajo.com or
www.tripplakecamp.com

CHURCH YOUTH director part-time to work primarily with senior high. Must have strong commitment to Christian faith, outgoing, self-motivated, good organizational skills, and strong desire to work with young people.
Salary negotiable. Call Rev.
McConnell at First Presbyterian Church 537-0518 for interview. EOE.

CLERICAL ASSISTANT for busy non-profit organization.
Basic clerical and computer skills required. Temporary, part time $5.15/ hour. Kansas Career Work- Study Program eligibility preferred.
Send cover letter, resume and three references by March 7, 2001 to: North Central- Flint Hills Area
Agency on Aging, 437
Houston St., Manhattan, KS
66502. EEO/AA. For more information call 776-9294.

SUBWAY AT KSU Student Union now hiring weekends and all shifts. Apply in person.

SUMMER IN Northern Minnesota. Gain leadership training and team building skills while enjoying the ca-madene of exceptional individuals. Our program helps young people with unrealized potential who are experiencing social skill difficulties. Located on lake and river in the Superior National Forest. Opportunity to gain college credit. Realize personal growth and satisfaction yourself, while helping others achieve the same!
Call Tom Bauer at (952)
930-3544, e-mail at buckskin@spacestar.net or visit www.campbuckskin.com

CONSTRUCTION SCI-ENCE student to help with remodeling. Call 539-5778.

CRUISE LINE: entry level on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year-round. (941)329-6434 cruisecareers.com

310
Help Wanted

Paid Summer
Adventure Training for K-State Students!
Are you interested in rappelling, orienting and
learning how to lead?
We have a limited number of slots available for an all-expense paid summer camp that will build confidence, teach you about the military and even pay you to attend
($750). This camp lasts
35 days and is conducted at Fort Knox, Kentucky by
Army ROTC. The catch?
There is none - all you have to do is take a physical and be able to graduate from KSU in two years. You'll get an introduction to the Army and ROTC and even have a chance to compete for scholarships worth almost $16,000 (pays for two academic years at KSU). Please call 785-532-5173 for more information on this unique program. This is one opportunity you won't want to miss!

THE LAN Technologies section of Computing and Network Services is looking for a motivated individual who is interested in participating in the support of the University Computing Lab environment. This is a part-time student position. Applicants should be available to work at least 15 hours/ week, 8am-
5pm. Summer and intersem-ester availability desired.
LAN Technologies maintains the PC and printing environments for the University Computing Labs. Primary duties include maintaining equipment in software installation, configuration and/or testing. Candidates should have a background of Windows 95/ 98/ NT,
HTML and PC hardware.
Novell, networking, interpersonal and communication skills are beneficial. $7.00/hour. Applications are available at the front desk at CNS, 2323 Anderson, Suite
146, and must be submitted by 5:00pm Friday, March 2.
Call 532-6311 with questions.

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits and will travel seven states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train.
Starts last half May. Duane Keller, (785)726-3555 or duankell@earthlink.net

310
Help Wanted

SUMMER JOBS for 2001!!!
Come to Mainel Head Counselor on campus Monday, March 5 interviewing for positions in the following areas: Adventure, Athletics, Waterfront, Interests, Horseback Riding and Tennis.
Competitive salary, room, board, laundry, travel allowance. Call or e-mail Camp Laurel at (800)327-3509 or summer@camplaurel.com to set up an interview, or visit us at www.camplaurel.com.

ENJOY SUMMER '01 at
Camp Taconic in Massachusetts. College students and grads needed as General
and Specialty Counselors.
Swim, sail, water-ski, athletics, tennis, musical theater,
piano, arts and crafts, silver
jewelry, video/ photo, newspaper, ropes/ wall/ pioneering, gymnastics, ETC. Have fun, build your resume! Salary+ Room+ Board+ Travel.
1-800-762-2820.

HAIRSTYLIST, NAIL technician needed. Full/ part-time positions available. Apply in person at Adolph's Nail Parlor, 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

FRATERNITIES • SORORI-
TIES • Clubs • Student
Groups. Earn $1000-$2000
this semester with the easy
Campusfundraiser.com
three hour fundraising event. No sales required.
Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so call today! Contact Campusfundraiser.com
at (888)923-3238 or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

352-6560

352-6560

352-6560

352-6560

352-6560

352-6560

352-6560

352-6560

352-6560

352-6560

It's Greek to Me has full-time day and part-time morning positions available in our warehouse and embroidery departments. Duties include pulling merchandise to complete orders, receiving goods, embroidery machine operators, and light cleaning work. These are excellent positions for students and parents working around home life. We offer competitive pay, flexible hours and the opportunity to be part of a great team! Our full-time benefits include group health/ dental insurance, paid annual leave, and 401K retirement plan.
Apply at 520 McCall Road.
EOE.

IT'S GREEK TO ME is looking to fill a part-time position in our Greek Fulfillment/Sales area. Duties would include packing and receiving boxes of sportswear in our Greek warehouse, and some telemarketing. We offer flexible hours, competitive wages and the opportunity to join a great team! Apply at 520 McCall Road,
Manhattan, KS. EOE.

KSU STUDENT help needed for sorting and packing tree seedlings. Start immediately. 8-12:00 a.m. Monday-Friday, four hour block required. $5.15 per hour.
Apply at Kansas Forest
Services, 2610 Clafin Rd.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Top boys' sports camp in beautiful Maine. Counselors to
